g Where ſ King had ſet him before to be at more libertie, as Chap. 37,21.

Ieremiah remained in g the court of the priſon.

14 ¶ Then Zedekiah the King ſent, & toke Ieremiah the Prophet vnto him, into the third entrie that is in ſ Houſe of the Lord, & the King ſaid vnto Ieremiah, I wil aſke thee a thing: hide nothing from me.

15 Then Ieremiah ſaid to Zedekiah, If I declare it vnto thee, wilt not thou ſlaye me? and if I giue thee counſel, thou wilt not heare me.

16 So the King ſware ſecretly vnto Ieremiah, ſaying, As the Lord liueth, that made vs theſe ſoules, I wil not ſlaie thee, nor giue thee into the hand of thoſe mē that ſeke thy life.

17 Then ſaid Ieremiah vnto Zedekiah, Thus ſaith the Lord God of hoſtes, the God of Iſrael, If thou wilt go forthe vnto the King of Babels h princes, thē thy ſoule ſhal liue, and this citie ſhal not be burnt vp with fyre, and thou ſhalt liue, and thine houſe.

h And yelde thy ſelf vnto them.

18 But if thou wilt not go forthe to the King of Babels princes, then ſhal this citie be giuen into the hand of the Caldeans, and thei ſhal burne it with fyre, and thou ſhalt not eſcape out of their hands.

19 And Zedekiah ſ King ſaid vnto Ieremiah, I am careful for the Iewes that are fled vnto the Caldeans, leſt thei deliuer me into their hands, & thei i mocke me.

i Which declareth ſ he more feared the reproche of men, then the threatenings of God.

20 But Ieremiah ſaid, Thei ſhal not deliuer thee: hearken vnto the voice of ſ Lord, I beſeche thee, which I ſpeake vnto thee: ſo ſhal it be wel vnto thee, & thy ſoule ſhal liue.

21 But if thou wilt refuſe to go forthe, this is the worde that the Lord hathe ſhewed me.

22 And beholde, all the women that are k left in the King of Iudahs houſe, ſhalbe broght forthe to the King of Babels princes: and thoſe women ſhal ſay, Thy friendes haue perſuaded thee, and haue preuailed againſt thee: thy fete are faſtened in the myre, and thei are turned backe.

k When Ieconiah and his mother & others were caryed away, theſe womē of ſ Kings houſe were left: & ſhalbe takē, ſaith ſ prophet, & tel ſ King of Babel how Zedekiah hathe bene ſeduced by his familiar friends & falſe prophetes, & haue left him in the myre.

23 So thei ſhal bring out all thy wiues, & thy children to the Caldeans, and thou ſhalt not eſcape out of their hands, but ſhalt be taken by the hand of the King of Babel: and this citie ſhalt thou cauſe to be burnt with fyre.

24 Then ſaid Zedekiah vnto Ieremiah, Let no man knowe of theſe wordes, and thou ſhalt not dye.

25 But if the princes vnderſtand ſ I haue talked with thee, and thei come vnto thee, and ſay vnto thee, Declare vnto vs now, what thou haſt ſaid vnto the King, hide it not from vs, and we wil not ſlay thee: alſo what the King ſaid vnto thee, 26 Thē ſhalt thou ſay vnto thē, I humbly l beſoght the King that he wolde not cauſe me to returne to Iehonathās houſe, to dye there.

l Herein appeareth ſ infirmitie of the Prophet, who did diſſemble to ſaue his life albeit it was not to the denial of his doctrine, or to the hurte of any.

27 Then came all the princes vnto Ieremiah and aſked him. And he tolde them according to all theſe wordes that the King had commāded: ſo thei left of ſpeaking with him: for the matter was not perceiued.

28 So Ieremiah abode ſtil in the court of the priſon, vntil the day that Ieruſalem was taken: and he was there, when Ieruſalem was taken.

Ieremiah hathe licence to go whether he wil. 6 He dwelleth with the people that remaine with Gedaliah.

a From this ſeconde verſ. vnto chap. 42, 7. it ſeemeth to be as a parentheſis, and ſeparated matter: & there this ſtorie beginneth againe, & this viſion is declared what it was.

3 Now the Lord hathe broght it, & done according as he hathe ſaid: becauſe ye haue b ſinned againſt the Lord, and haue not obeied his voice, therefore this thing is come vpon you.

So the chief ſteward gaue him vitailes and a rewarde, and let him go.

Gedaliah

6 Then went Ieremiah vnto Gedaliah ỹ ſonne of Ahikam, c to Mizpah, & dwelt there with him among the people that were left in the land.

c Which was a citie of Iudah.

7 Now when all the captaines of ỹ hoſte, d which were in the fields, euen thei and their men heard, that the King of Babel had made Gedaliah the ſonne of Ahikam gouernour in the land, and that he had committed vnto him, men, & women, and children, and of the poore of the lād, that were not caryed away captiue to Babel, d Which were ſcattered abroad for feare of the Caldeans.

8 Then they came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, euen e Iſhmael the ſonne of Nethaniah, and Iohanan, & Ionathan the ſonnes of Kareah, and Seraiah the ſonne of Tanehumeth, and the ſonnes of Ephai, the Netophathite, and Iezaniah the ſonne of Maachathi, thei and their men.

e Who was of ỹ Kings blood and after ſlew him, Chap. 41, 2.

9 And Gedaliah the ſonne of Ahikam, the ſonne of Shaphan ſware vnto them, and to their men, ſaying, Feare not to ſerue the Caldeans: dwell in the land, & ſerue the King of Babel, and it ſhalbe wel with you.

2. King 25, 24.

10 As for me, beholde, I wil dwell at Mizpah to f ſerue the Caldeans, which wil come vnto vs: but you, gather you wine, & ſommer frutes, and oyle, and put them in your veſſels, & dwell in your cities, ỹ ye haue g taken.

f Or, to receiue them, or to intreat them for you.

g Or, choſen to dwel in.

11 Likewiſe when all the Iewes that were in f Moab, and among the Ammonites, and in Edom, and that were in all the countreis, heard that the King of Babel had left a remnant of Iudah, and that he had ſet ouer them Gedaliah the ſonne of Ahikam the ſonne of Shaphan, f Which were fled alſo for feare of the Caldeans.

12 Euen all the Iewes returned out of all places where thei were driuen, and came to the land of Iudah to Gedaliah vnto Mizpah, and gathered wine and ſommer frutes, very muche.

Moreouer Iohanan the ſonne of Kareah, and all the captaines of the hoſte, that were in the fields, came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, 14 And ſaid vnto him, Knoweſt thou not that [g] Baalis the King of the Ammonites hathe ſent Iſhmael the ſonne of Nethaniah to ſlay thee? But Gedaliah the ſonne of Ahikam beleued them not.

15 Then Iohanan the ſonne of Kareah ſpake to Gedaliah in Mizpah ſecretly, ſaying, Let me go, I pray thee, & I wil ſlay Iſhmael the ſonne of Nethaniah, and no man ſhal knowe it. Wherefore ſhulde he kyl thee, that all the Iewes, which are gathered vnto thee, ſhulde be ſcattered, and the remnant in Iudah periſh?

16 But Gedaliah the ſonne of Ahikam ſaid vnto Iohanan the ſonne of Kareah, Thou ſhalt [h] not do this thing: for thou ſpeakeſt falſely of Iſhmael.

g For vnder the colour of interteieing of Iſhmael he ſoght onely to make thē to deſtroy one another.

h Thus ſ godlie, wthinke no harme to others, are ſoneſt deceiued & neuer lacke ſuch as conſpire their deſtructiō.

CHAP. XLI.

1 Iſhmael killeth Gedaliah guilefully, and many others with him. 11 Iohanan followeth after Iſrael.

1 BVt in the [a] ſeuenth moneth came Iſhmael the ſonne of Nethaniah, the ſonne of Eliſhama of the ſede royal, and the princes of the [b] King, & ten men with him, vnto Gedaliah the ſonne of Ahikam to Mizpah, and there thei did [c] eate bread together in Mizpah.

2 Then aroſe Iſhmael the ſonne of Nethaniah with theſe ten men that were w him, and ſmote Gedaliah the ſonne of Ahikam the ſonne of Shaphan with the ſworde, and ſlewe him, whome the King of Babel had made gouernour ouer the land.

3 Iſhmael alſo ſlewe all the Iewes ſ were with Gedaliah at Mizpah, & all ſ Caldeans that were founde there, & ſ men of warre.

4 Now the ſeconde daie that he had ſlaine Gedaliah, and no man knewe it,

5 There came men from Shechem, from Shiloh, & from Samaria, euen foure ſcore men, hauing their beardes ſhauen, & their clothes rent & cut, with [d] offrings and incenſe in their hands to offre in ſ Houſe of the Lord.

6 And Iſhmael the ſonne of Nethaniah went forthe from Mizpah to mete thē, weping as he went: & when he met thē, he ſaid vnto them, Come [e] to Gedaliah the ſonne of Ahikam.

7 And when thei came into the middes of the citie, Iſhmael the ſonne of Nethaniah ſlewe them, and caſt them into the middes of the pit, he and the men ſ were with him.

8 But ten men were founde among thē, that ſaid vnto Iſhmael, Slay vs not: for we haue treaſures in the field, of wheat, and of barley, and of oyle, and of honie: ſo he ſtaied, and ſlewe them not among their brethren.

9 Now the pit wherein Iſhmael had caſt the dead bodies of the men (whome he had ſlaine becauſe of Gedaliah) is it, w [f] Aſa, the King had [f] made becauſe of Baſha King of Iſrael, and Iſhmael the ſonne of Nethaniah filled it with them that were ſlaine:

10 Then Iſhmael caryed away captiue all the reſidue of the people that were in Mizpah: euen the Kings daughters, & all the people that remained in Mizpah, whome Nebuzar-adan the chief ſteward had committed to Gedaliah the ſonne of Ahikam, & Iſhmael [g] the ſonne of Nethaniah caryed them away captiue, and departed to go ouer to the Ammonites.

11 But when Iohanan the ſonne of Kareah, & all the [g] captaines of the hoſte that were with him, heard of all the euil that Iſhmael ſ ſonne of Nethaniah had done, 12 Then they all toke their men, and went to fight with Iſhmael the ſonne of Nethaniah, & founde him by the great waters that are in Gibeon.

13 Now when all the people whome Iſhmael caryed away captiue, ſawe Iohanan the ſonne of Kareah, and all the captaines of the hoſte, that were with him, they were glad.

14 So all the people, that Iſhmael had caryed away captiue from Mizpah, returned and came againe, and went vnto Iohanan the ſonne of Kareah.

15 But Iſhmael [h] the ſonne of Nethaniah eſcaped from Iohanan with eight men, and went to the [h] Ammonites.

16 Then toke Iohanan the ſonne of Kareah, & all the captaines of the hoſte, that were with him all the remnant of the people, whome Iſhmael the ſonne of Nethaniah, had caryed away captiue from Mizpah, (after that he had ſlaine Gedaliah the ſonne of Ahikam) euen the ſtrong men of warre, and the women, and the children, & the eunuches, whome he had broght againe frō Gibeon:

17 And thei departed and dwelt in Geruth [i] Chimham, which is by Beth-lehem, to go & to entre into Egypt,

18 Becauſe of the Caldeans: for they feared them, becauſe Iſhmael the ſonne of Nethaniah had ſlaine Gedaliah the ſonne of Ahikam, whome the King of Babel made gouernour in ſ lād a This declareth ỹ nature of hypocrites, which wolde knowe of Gods worde what they ſhulde do but wil not follow it, but in aſmuche as it agreeth with ỹ thing w they haue purpoſed to do. Iohn 38.4

4 Then Ieremiah the Prophet ſaid vnto them, I haue heard you: beholde, I wil pray vnto the Lord your God according to your wordes, and whatſoeuer thing the Lord ſhal anſwer you, I wil declare it vnto you: I wil kepe nothing backe from you.

5 Then they ſaid to Ieremiah, [b] The Lord be a witnes of trueth, and faith betwene vs, if we do not, euen according to all things for the which the Lord thy God ſhal ſend thee to vs.

b There are none more ready to abuſe ỹ Name of God and take it in vaine, then the hypocrites, w to colour their falſe hode vſe it without all reuerence, and make it a meanes for them to deceiue ỹ ſimple, & the godlie.

6 Whether it be good or euil, we wil obey the voyce of ỹ Lord God, to whome we ſend thee that it may be wel w vs, when we obey the voyce of ỹ Lord our God.

7 ¶ [c] And ſo after ten dayes came ỹ worde of the Lord vnto Ieremiah.

c Here is declared the viſion & the occaſiõ thereof, whereof mention was made, Cha. 40, 1. d Read Chap. 18, 8.

8 Then called he Iohanan the ſonne of Kareah, and all the captaines of ỹ hoſte, which were with him, and all the people from the leaſt to the moſte,

9 And ſaid vnto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, vnto whome ye ſent me to preſent your prayers before him,

10 If ye wil dwell in this land, then I wil buyld you, and not deſtroye you, & I wil plant you, and not roote you out: for I [d] repent me of the euil that I haue done vnto you.

c Becauſe all Kings hearts and waies are in his hands, he cãturne them & diſpoſe them as it pleaſeth him, & therefore they nede not to feare man, but onely obey God, prou. 21, 1.

11 Feare not for ỹ King of Babel, of whome ye are afraid: be not afraid of him, ſaith the Lord: for I am with you, to ſaue you, and to deliuer you [e] from his hand, 12 And I wil grant you mercie that he may haue compaſsion vpon you, and he ſhal cauſe you " to dwell in your owne land.

" Or, returne.

13 But if ye ſay, We wil not dwell in this land, nether heare the voyce of ỹ Lord your God,

15 (And now therefore heare the worde of the Lord, ye remnant of Iudah: thus ſaith the Lord of hoſtes the God of Iſrael, If ye ſet your faces to entre into Egypt, and go to dwell there)

16 Then the ſworde that ye feared, [f] ſhal take you there in the land of Egypt, & the famine, for the which ye care, ſhal there hang vpon you in Egypt, & there ſhal ye dye.

f Thus God turneth ỹ policie of the wicked to their owne deſtructiõ: for thei thoght them ſelues ſure i Egypt and there Nebuchad-nezzar deſtroyed them, and the Egyptians. Chap. 45, 25.

17 And all the men that ſet their faces to entre into Egypt to dwell there, ſhal dye by the ſworde, by the famine & by the peſtilence, & none of them ſhal remaine nor eſcape from the plague, that I wil bring vpõ them.

18 For thus ſaith the Lord of hoſtes the God of Iſrael, As mine angre and my wrath hathe bene powred forthe vpon the inhabitants of Ieruſalem: ſo ſhal my wrath be powred forthe vpon you, whẽ ye ſhal entre into Egypt, & ye ſhalbe a deteſtation & an aſtoniſhment, and a [g] curſſe, and a reproche, and ye ſhal ſe this place no more.

19 O ye remnant of Iudah, the Lord hathe ſaid concerning you, Go not into Egypt: knowe certeinly that I haue admoniſhed you this day.

20 Surely ye [h] diſſembled in your hearts, when ye ſent me vnto the Lord your God, ſaying, Pray for vs vnto the Lord our God and declare vnto vs euen according vnto all that the Lord our God ſhal ſay, and we wil do it.

h For you were fully minded to go into Egypt, whatſoeuer God ſpake to the cõtrarie.

21 Therefore I haue this day declared it you, but you haue not obeyed the voyce of the Lord your God, nor anie thing for the which he hathe ſent me vnto you.

22 Now therefore, knowe certeinely ỹ ye ſhal dye by the ſworde, by the famine, and by the peſtilence, [i] in the place whether ye deſire to go and dwell.

1 THe worde that came to Ieremiah concerning all the Iewes, which dwell in the land of Egypt, and remained at Migdol and at [a] Tahpanhes, and at Noph, & in the countrey of Pathros, saying,

2 Thus saith the Lord of hostes ỹ God of Israel, Ye haue sene all the euil that I haue broght vpon Ierusalem, and vpon all the cities of Iudah: & beholde, this day thei are desolate, & no man dwelleth therein,

3 Because of their wickednes which thei haue committed, to prouoke me to angre in that thei went to burne incense, & to serue other gods, whome thei knewe not, neither thei nor you nor your fathers.

4 Howbeit I sent vnto you all my seruants the Prophetes [b] rising early, and sending them, saying, Oh do not this abominable thing that I hate.

5 But thei wolde not heare nor incline their eare to turne from their wickednes, and to burne no more incense vnto other gods.

6 Wherefore [c] my wrath, and mine angre was powred forthe and was kindled in the cities of Iudah, and in the stretes of Ierusalem, and thei are desolate, & wasted, as appeareth this daye.

7 Therefore now thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel, Wherefore cōmit ye this great euil against your soules, to cut of from you man and woman, childe & suckeling out of Iudah, and leaue you none to remaine?

8 In that ye prouoke me vnto wrath with the workes of your hands, burning incense vnto other gods in the land of Egypt whether ye be gone to dwell: that ye might bring destruction vnto your selues, and that ye might be a curse and a reproche among all nations of the earth.

9 Haue ye forgotten the wickednes of your fathers, and the wickednes of the [d] Kings of Iudah and the wickednes of their wiues and your owne wickednes & the wickednes of your wiues, which thei haue committed in the land of Iudah and in the stretes of Ierusalem?

10 Thei are not [e] humbled vnto this daie, nether haue thei feared nor walked in my Lawe nor in my statutes, that I set before you and before your fathers.

11 Therefore thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel, Beholde, I wil set my face against you * to euil & to destroy all Iudah,

12 And I wil take the remnant of Iudah, that [f] haue set their faces to go into the land of Egypt there to dwell, and thei shal all be consumed & fall in the land of Egypt: they shal euen be consumed by the sworde & by the famine: thei

[d] He sheweth what is the nature of ỹ hypocrites: to wit, to faine ỹ they wolde obey God & imbrace his worde, if thei were assured that his messengers spake the trueth: though in dede they be moste farre from all obedience.

[e] Thus ỹ wicked do not onely cōtemne, & hurt ỹ messengers of God, but slander, and speake wickedly of all them that support or fauour ỹ godlie.

[f] As from ỹ Moabites, Ammonites, & Edomites, Chap. 40, 11.

[g] Whome these wicked led away by force.

[m] Meaning, moste easily, & suddenly shal he carry the Egyptians away.

[n] Or, the house of the Sunne.

[a] These were all famous & strong cities in Egypt, where ỹ Iewes, that were fled, dwelt for their safety: but the Prophet declareth that there is no holde so strong, that can preserue them from Gods vengeance.

[b] Read Chap. 7, 25. & 25, 3. & 26, 5. & 29, 19. & 32, 33.

[c] He setteth before their eyes Gods iudgemēts against Iudah & Ierusalem for their idolatrie, ỹ they might beware by their example, and not ỹ the like wickednes prouoke ỹ Lord: for then they shulde be doublepunished.

[d] He sheweth ỹ we ought to kepe in memorie Gods plagues from the beginning ỹ considering them, we might liue in his feare, & knowe if he haue not spared our fathers, yea, Kings, princes, and rulers, and also whole countreis, and nations for their sinnes, that we vile wormes can not loke to escape punishment for ours.

[h] This declareth how dangerous a thing it is to decline once frō God, & to followe our owne fantasies: for Satan euer soliciteth suche and doeth not leaue them til he ha the brought them to extreme impudencie & madnes, euen to iustifie their wickednes against God, & his propheres.

[i] Read Chap.7, 17. It semeth ỹ the papistes gathered of this place their Salue, Regina, and Regina celi, letare, calling the virgine Marie Queene of heaue, & so of the blessed virgine, and mother of our Sauiour Christ made an idole: for here ỹ Prophet condemneth their idolatrie.

[j] Ebr. we were satiat with bread

[k] This is stil ỹ argumēt of idolaters, who esteme religion by the bellie, & in stead of acknowledging Gods workes, who sendeth bothe plentie & dearth, health, & sickenes, they attribute it to their idoles, and so dishonour God.

[m] Or, want.

[n] Or, to appease her.

[o] This teacheth vshow great dāger it is for the housbandes to permit their wiues anie thing whereof they be not assured by Gods worde: for thereby they take an occasiō to iustifie their doings, & their housbāds shal giue an accompt therof before God read Isa.3.25.

[p] Ebr. is it not come vp into this heart.

thei shal dye from the least vnto ỹ moste, by the sworde, & by the famine, & thei shalbe a detestation & an astonishment & a [f] curse and a reproche.

13 For I wil visit them that dwell in the land of Egypt, as I haue visited Ierusalem, by the sworde, by the famine, & by the pestilence, 14 So that none of the remnant of Iudah, which are gone into the land of Egypt to dwell there, shal escape or remaine, that thei should returne into the land of Iudah to the which thei [o] haue a desire to returne to dwell there: for none shal returne, but [g] suche as shal escape.

15 Then all the men which knewe that their wiues had burnt incense vnto other gods and all the women that stode by, a great multitude, euen all ỹ people ỹ dwelt in the lād of Egypt in Pathros, answered Ieremiah, saying,

16 The worde that thou hast spokē vnto vs in the Name of the Lord, we wil [h] not heare it of thee,

17 But we wil do whatsoeuer thing goeth out of our owne mouth, as to burne incense vnto [i] the Quene of heauen, & to powre out drinke offrings vnto her, as we haue done, bothe we and our fathers, our Kings and our princes in the citie of Iudah, and in the stretes of Ierusalē: for then [j] had we [k] plentie of vitailes & were wel and [l] felt none euil.

18 But since we left of to burne incense to the Quene of heauen, and to powre out drinke offrings vnto her, we haue had [m] scarcenes of all things, and haue bene consumed by the sworde and by ỹ famine.

19 And when we burnt incense to ỹ Quene of heauen & powred out drinke offrings vnto her, did we make her cakes to [n] make her glad, and powre out drinke offrings vnto her without [o] our housbandes?

20 Then said Ieremiah vnto all the people, to the men, and to the women, and to all the people which had giuen him that answer, saying,

21 Did not the Lord remember the incense, that ye burnt in the cities of Iudah, & in the stretes of Ierusalem, bothe you, & your fathers, your Kings, & your princes, and the people of the land, and [p] hathe he not considered it?

22 So that the Lord colde no longer forbeare, because of the wickednes of your inuencions, & because of the abominations which ye haue committed: therefore is your land desolate and an astonishment, & a curse & without inhabitant, as appeareth this daie.

23 Because ye haue burnt incense & because ye haue sinned against the Lord, & haue not obeied the voyce of ỹ Lord, nor walked in his Law nor in his statutes, nor in his testimonies, therefore this plague is come vpon you, as appeareth this day.

24 Moreouer Ieremiah said vnto all the people and to all the women, Heare ỹ worde of the Lord, all Iudah that are in the land of Egypt.

25 ¶ Thus speaketh the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, saying, Ye and your wiues haue bothe spokē with your mouthes, and fulfilled with your [m] hand, saying, We wil performe our vowes ỹ we haue vowed to burne incense to the Queene of heauen, and to powre out drinke offrings to her: ye wil performe your vowes and do the things that ye haue vowed.

26 Therefore heare the worde of the Lord, all Iudah, that dwell in the land of Egypt. Beholde, I haue sworne by my great Name, saith the Lord, that my Name [n] shal no more be called vpō by the mouth of any man of Iudah, in all ỹ land of Egypt, saying, The Lord God liueth.

27 Beholde, I wil watche ouer them for euil and not for good, and all men of Iudah that are in the land of Egypt, shalbe consumed by the sworde, and by the famine, vntil thei be vtterly destroyed.

28 Yet a smale nombre that escape the sworde, [o] shal returne out of the land of Egypt into the land of Iudah: and all the remnant of Iudah that are gone into the land of Egypt to dwell there, shal know whose wordes shal stand, mine or theirs.

29 And this shalbe a signe vnto you, saith ỹ Lord, when I visite you in this place, that ye maie knowe that my wordes shal surely stand against you for euil.

30 Thus saith the Lord, Beholde, I wil [p] giue Pharaoh Hophra King of Egypt into the hand of his enemies, and into the hand of them that seke his life: as I gaue Zedekiah King of Iudah into the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel his enemie, who also soght his life.

CHAP. XLV.

2 Ieremiah comforteth Baruch, assuring him that he shulde not perish in the destruction of Ierusalem.

1 THe worde that Ieremiah ỹ Prophet spake vnto [a] Baruch the sonne of Neriah, whē he had writen these wordes in a boke at ỹ mouth of Ieremiah, in the fourth yere of Iehoiakim the sonne of Iosiah King of Iudah, saying,

2 Thus saith ỹ Lord God of Israel vnto thee, ô Baruch,

[m] You haue cōmitted double euil in making wicked vowes, and in performing the same.

[n] This declareth an horrible plague toward idolaters, seing that God wil not vouche safe to haue his Name mencioned by suche as haue poluted it.

[o] We se therefore, ỹ God hathe a perpetual care ouer his, wheresoeuer they are scattered: for though they be but two or thre, yet he wil deliuer thē whē he destroyeth his enemies.

[p] He sheweth ỹ meanes whereby they shulde be destroyed to assure them of ỹ certeintie of the plague, and yet they remaine stil in their obstinacie til they perish: for Iosephus lib. 10. de Antiq. cap. 11 writeth ỹ fiue yere after ỹ taking of Ierusalem, Nebuchadnezzar the yonger, hauing ouercome ỹ Moabites & the Ammonites, went against Egypt, & slew ỹ King, & so broght these Iewes, & other into Babylon.

3 Thou dideſt ſay, Wo is me now: for ſ Lord hathe layed ſorowe vnto my ſorow: I[c] fainted in my mourning, & I can finde no reſt.

4 Thus ſhalt thou ſay vnto him, The Lord ſaith thus, Beholde, that which I haue buylt, wil I [d] deſtroye, & that ẅ I haue planted, wil I plucke vp, euen this whole land.

5 And ſekeſt [e] thou great things for thy ſelf? ſeke them not: for beholde, I wil bring a plague vpon all fleſh, ſaith the Lord: but thy life wil I giue thee for [f] a pray in all places, whether thou goeſt.

c Baruch moued with an inconſiderat zeale of Ieremiahs impriſonment, but chiefly for ſ deſtruction of the people, and the Temple, maketh this lamentatiō.

d Meaning, that God might deſtroye this people becauſe he had planted thē.

CHAP. XLVI.

He prophecieth the deſtruction of Egypt.
27 Deliuerance is promiſed to Iſrael.

1 THe wordes of the Lord, which came to Ieremiah the Prophet againſt the [a] Gentiles,

2 As againſt Egypt, againſt the armie of [b] Pharaoh Necho King of Egypt, which was by the riuer Perath in Carchemiſh, ẅ Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel ſmote in the fourth yere of Iehoiakim the ſonne of Ioſiah King of Iudah.

4 Make readie the horſes, and let ſ horſemen get vp, & ſtand vp ẅ your ſallets, fourbiſh the ſpeares, and put on ſ brigandines.

5 [d] Wherefore haue I ſene them afraide, & driuen backe? for their mightie men are ſmitten, and are fled away, and loke not backe: for feare was roūd about, ſaith the Lord.

6 The ſwift ſhal not flee away, nor the ſtrong man eſcape: they ſhal ſtomble, & fall towarde the [e] Northe by the riuer Perath.

7 Who is this, that cometh vp, as [g] a flood, whoſe waters are moued like the riuers?

8 Egypt riſeth vp like the flood, and his waters are moued like the riuers, & he ſaith, I wil go vp, & wil couer the earth: I wil deſtroye the citie with them that dwell therein.

9 Come vp, ye horſes, and rage ye charets, & let the valiant men come forthe, [g] the blacke Mores, and the Lybiās that beare the ſhield, and ſ Lydians ſ handle & bend the bowe.

10 For this is the day of the Lord God of hoſtes, & a day of vengeance, that he may aduenge him of his enemies: for the ſworde ſhal deuoure, & it ſhalbe ſatiat, and made drunke with their blood: for the Lord God of hoſtes hathe [h] a ſacrifice in the North countrey [i] by the riuer Perath.

17 They did crye there, Pharaoh King of Egypt, & of a great multitude [o] hathe paſſed the time appointed.

18 As I liue, ſaith the King, whoſe Name is the Lord of hoſtes, ſurely as Tabor is in the mountaines, & as Carmel is in the ſea: ſo ſhal [p] it come.

19 O thou daughter dwelling in Egypt, make thee geare to go into captiuitie: for Noph ſhalbe waſte and deſolate, without an inhabitant.

20 Egypt is like a [q] faire calfe, but deſtruction cometh: out of the North it cometh.

21 Alſo her hired men [r] are in ſ middes of her like fat calues: thei are alſo turned backe & fled away together: they colde not ſtand, becauſe ſ day of their deſtruction was come vpon them, & ſ time of their viſitacion.

22 The voyce thereof ſhal go forthe like a [s] ſerpent: for they ſhal marche ẅ an armie, and come againſt [t] her with axes, as hewers of wood.

23 They ſhal cut downe [v] her foreſt, ſaith the Lord: for they can not be counted, becauſe they are more then ſ [x] greſhoppers, and are innumerable.

24 The daughter of Egypt ſhalbe confounded: ſhe ſhalbe deliuered into the hands of the people of the North.

25 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſtes, the God of Iſrael, Beholde, I wil viſite the [y] commune people of No & Pharaoh, and Egypt, ẅ their gods & their Kings, euen Pharaoh, and all them that truſt in him, 28 Feare thou not, ô Iaakob my seruant, saith the Lord: for I am with thee, and I wil vtterly destroy all the nations, whether I haue driuen thee: but I wil not vtterly destroy thee, but correct [b] thee by iudgement, and not vtterly cut thee of.

The worde of the Lord against the Philistims.

1 THe wordes of the Lord that came to Ieremiah the Prophet, against ỹ Philistims, before that Pharaoh smote [a] Azzah.

2 Thus saith the Lord, Beholde, waters rise vp out of the [b] North, & shalbe as a swelling flood, and shal ouerflowe the land, & all that is therein, and the cities with them that dwell therein: then the men shal cry, & all ỹ inhabitants of the land shal howle,

3 At the noyce & stamping of the hooues of his strong horses, at ỹ noyce of his charets, and at the rumbling of his wheles: the fathers shal not [c] loke backe to their children, for feblenes of [d] hands,

4 Because of the daye that cometh to destroye all the Philistims, and to destroye Tyrus, and Zidon, & all the rest, that take their parte: for the Lord wil destroye the Philistims, the remnant of the yle of [e] Caphtor.

5 [f] Baldenes is come vpon Azzah: Ashkelon is cut vp with the rest of their valleis. How lõg wilt [g] thou cut thy self?

6 O thou sworde of the Lord, how long wil it be or thou cease? turne againe into thy scaberde, rest and be stil.

7 How can it [h] cease, seing the Lord hath giuen it a charge against Ashkelon, & against the sea bancke? euen there hathe he appointed it.

CHAP. XLVIII.

The worde of the Lord against the Moabites, 26 Because of their pride and crueltie.

1 COncerning Moab, thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, Wo vnto [a] Nebo: for it is wasted: Kiriathaim is confounded & taken: Misgab is confounded and afraid.

2 Moab shal boast no more of Heshbon: for thei haue deuised euil against it [b]. Come, and let vs destroye it, that it be no more a nacion: also thou shalt be destroyed, [c] ô Madmen, & the sworde shal pursue thee.

3 A voice of crying shalbe from Horonaim with desolacion & great destruction.

4 Moab is destroyed: her litle ones haue caused their crye to be heard.

5 For at the going vp of [d] Luhith, the mourner shal go vp with weping: for in the going downe of Horonaim, the enemies haue heard a crye of destruction,

6 Flee and saue your liues, and be like vnto the [e] heath in the wildernes.

7 For because thou hast trusted in thy [f] workes and in thy treasures, thou shalt also be taken, and [g] Chemosh shal go for the into captiuitie with his Priests and his princes together.

8 And ỹ destroier shal come vpon all cities, & no citie shal escape: ỹ valley also shalbe destroyed, & the plaine shalbe destroied as the Lord hathe spoken.

9 Giue wings vnto Moab, that it may flee and get away: for the cities thereof shalbe desolate, without any to dwel therein.

10 [h] Cursed be he that doeth the worke of the Lord [i] negligently, and cursed be he that kepeth backe his sworde from blood.

11 Moab hathe bene at rest frõ his youth, and he hathe setled on his lees, & hathe not bene [j] powred from vessel to vessel, nether hathe he gone into captiuitie, therefore his taste remained in him and his sent is not changed.

12 ¶ Therefore beholde, the daies come, saith the Lord, that I wil send vnto him suche as shal cary him away, and shal emptie his vessels, and breake their bottels.

13 And Moab shal be ashamed of Chemosh as the house of Israel was ashamed of [k] Beth-el their confidence.

14 How thinke you thus, We are mighty & strong men of warre?

15 Moab is destroyed, & his cities "burnt vp, and his chosen yong men are gone downe to slaughter, saith the King, whose name is, The Lord of hostes.

16 The destruction of Moab is readie to come, and his plague hasteth fast.

33 And ioye, and gladnes is taken from the plentiful field & from the land of Moab: and I haue caused wine to faile from the wine presse: none shal tread with showting: their showting shalbe no showting.

34 From the crye of Heshbon vnto Elaleh & vnto Iahaz haue thei made their noyse, frō Zoar vnto Horonaim, the [t] heiffer of thre yere olde shal go lowing: for the waters also of Nimrim shalbe wasted.

35 Moreouer, I wil cause to cease in Moab, saith the Lord, him that offred in ỹ high places, and him that burneth incense to his gods.

36 Therefore mine heart shal sound for Moab like a [v] shaume & mine heart shal sounde like a shaume for the men of Kir-heres, because the riches that he hathe gotten, is perished.

37 *For euery head shalbe 'balde, and euery beard plucked: vpon all ỹ handes shalbe cuttings, and vpon the loynes sackecloth.

38 And mourning shalbe vpon all ỹ house toppes of Moab and in all the stretes thereof: for I haue broken Moab like a vessel wherein is no pleasure, saith the Lord.

39 Thei shal howle, saying, How is he destroyed? how hathe Moab turned the backe with shame? so shal Moab be a derision, & a feare to all them about him.

40 For thus saith the Lord, Beholde, [x] he shal flee as an egle, and shal spread his wings ouer Moab.

41 The cities are taken and the strong holdes are wonne, & the mightie mens hearts in Moab at that day shalbe as ỹ heart of a woman in trauail.

42 And Moab shalbe destroyed from being a people, because he hathe set vp him self against the Lord.

43 [y] Feare, and pit and snare shalbe vpon thee, ô inhabitant of Moab, saith the Lord.

44 He that escapeth from the feare, shal fall in the pit, & he that getteth vp out of the pit, shalbe taken in the snare: for I wil bring vpon it, euen vpon Moab, the yere of their visitation, saith the Lord.

45 They that fled, stode vnder the shadowe [z] of Heshbon, because of ỹ force: for [a] the fyre came out of Heshbon, & a flame from Sihon, and deuoured ỹ corner of Moab, & the top of the seditious children.

46 Wo be vnto thee, ô Moab: the people of [b] Chemosh perisheth: for thy sonnes are taken captiues, and thy daughters led into captiuitie.

47 Yet wil I bring againe the captiuitie of Moab in the [c] later daies, saith the Lord. Thus farre of the iudgement of Moab.

CHAP. XLIX.

1 The worde of the Lord against the Ammonites, 7 Idumea, 23 Damascus, 28 Kedar, 34 & Elam.

1 VNto the children of [a] Ammon thus saith ỹ Lord, Hathe Israel no sonnes? or hathe he none heire? Why then hathe their [b] King possessed Gad? & his people dwell in [c] his cities?

2 Therefore beholde, the dayes come, saith the Lord, that I wil cause a noyse of warre to be heard in [d] Rabbah of the Ammonites, and it shalbe a desolate heape, & her daughters shalbe burnt w d Which was one of the chief cities of the Ammonites, as were Heshbon and Ai: there was also a citie called Heshbon among the Moabites.

3 Howle, ô Heshbon, for Ai is wasted: crye ye daughters of Rabbah: girde you w sackecloth: mourne & runne to & fro by ỹ hedges: for their King shal go into captiuitie, & his Priests, and his princes likewise.

4 Wherefore gloriest thou in ỹ c valleis? thy valley floweth away, ô rebellious daughter: she trusted in her treasures, saying, Who shal come vnto me?

5 Beholde, I wil bring f a feare vpon thee, saith the Lord God of hostes, of all those that be about thee, and ye shalbe scatred euerie man g right forthe, & none shal gather him that fleeth.

6 And h afterward I wil bring againe the captiuitie of the children of Ammon.

7 ¶ To Edom thus saith the Lord of hostes, Is wisdome no more in i Teman? is counsel perished from their children? is their wisdome vanished?

8 Flee, ye inhabitants of Dedan (k they are turned backe, and haue consulted to dwell) for I haue broght the destruction of Esau vpon him, and the time of his visitation.

9 If the l grape gatherers come to thee, wolde they not leaue some grapes? if theues come by night, they wil destroye til they haue ynough.

10 For I haue discouered Esau: I haue vncouered his secrets, and he shal not be able to hide him self: his sede is wasted, and his brethren and his neighbours, & there shalbe none to say, 11 Leaue thy m fatherles children, & I wil preserue them aliue, and let thy widowes trust in me.

12 For thus saith the Lord, n Beholde, thei whose iudgement was not to drinke of the cuppe, haue assuredly drunken, & art thou he that shal escape free? thou shalt not go free, but thou shalt surely drinke of it.

13 For I haue sworne by my self, saith ỹ Lord, that o Bozrah shal be waste, and for a reproche, & a desolation, & a curse, and all the cities thereof shalbe perpetual desolations.

14 I haue heard a rumour from the Lord, & an embassadour is sent vnto the heathen, saying, Gather you together, & come against p her, and rise vp to the battel.

15 For lo, I wil make thee but smale among the heathen, and despised among men.

16 Thy q feare, and the pride of thine heart hathe deceiued thee, thou that dwellest in the clefts of the rocke, and kepest the height of the hill: though thou shulde make thy nest as hie as the egle, I wil bring thee downe from thence, saith the Lord.

17 ¶ Also Edom shalbe desolate: euerie one that goeth by it, shalbe astonished, & shal hisse at all the plagues thereof, 18 As in the ouerthrowe of Sodom, and of Gomorah, and the places thereof nere about, saith the Lord: no man shal dwell there, nether shal the sonnes of mẽ remaine in it.

19 Beholde, r he shal come vp like a lyõ from the swelling of Iorden vnto the strong dwelling place: for I wil make Israel to rest, euen I wil make s him to haste away from her, & who is a chosen mã that I may appoint against her? for who is like me? & who wil appoint me the time? & who is the t shepherd that wil stand before me?

20 Therefore heare the counsel of the Lord ỹ he hathe deuised against Edom, & his purpose that he hathe conceiued against ỹ inhabitants of Teman: surely the least of the flocke shal drawe them out: surely u he shal make their habitations desolate with them.

21 The earth is moued at the noyce of their fall: the crye of their voyce is heard in the red Sea.

22 Beholde, he shal come vp, and flie as the egle, x & spread his wings ouer Bozrah, and at that day shal the heart of the strong men of Edom be as the heart of a woman in trauail.

23 ¶ Vnto y Damascus he saith, Hamath is confounded and Arpad, for thei haue heard euil tidings, and they are faint hearted as one on the feareful sea ỹ can not rest.

CHAP. L.

He prophecieth the destruction of Babylon, and the deliuerance of Israel, which was in captiuitie.

1 THe worde that the Lord spake, cōcerning Babel, & concerning ỹ land of the Caldeans by the [a] ministerie of Ieremiah the Prophet.

2 Declare among the nations, & publish it, and set vp a standart, proclame it & conceile it not: say, [a] Babel is taken, Bel is confounded, [b] Merodach is broken downe: her idoles are confounded, and their images are burst in pieces.

3 For out of ỹ North there [c] cometh vp a nation against her, which shal make her land waste, and none shal dwell therein: they shal flee, & departe, bothe man and beast.

4 In those dayes, and at that time, saith the Lord, the children of Israel shal [d] come, they, and the children of Iudah together, going, and [e] weping shal they go, and seke the Lord their God.

5 They shal aske the waye to Zion, with their faces thetherward, saying, Come, and let vs cleaue to the Lord in a perpetual couenant that shal not be forgotten.

6 ¶ My people hathe bene as lost shepe: their f shepherdes haue caused them to go astray, and haue turned them away to the mountaines: they haue gone from g mountaine to hil, & forgotten their resting place.

7 All that found them, haue deuoured them, and their enemies said, We offend not because they haue sinned against ỹ Lord, h the habitation of iustice, euen the Lord, the hope of their fathers.

8 [i] Flee from the middes of Babel, and departe out of the land of the Caldeās, and be ye as the he goates [k] before the flocke.

9 For lo, I wil raise, and cause to come vp against Babel a multitude of mightie nations from the North countrey, and thei shal set them selues in aray against her, whereby she shalbe taken: their arrowes shalbe as of a strong man, which is expert for none shal returne in vaine.

10 And Caldea shalbe a spoile: all that spoile her, [l] shalbe satisfied, saith the Lord.

11 Because ye were glad and reioyced in destroying mine heritage, & because ye are growē fat, as the calues in the grasse, [m] & neyed like strong horses, 12 Therefore your mothers shalbe sore cōfounded, and she that bare you shalbe ashamed: beholde, the vttermost of ỹ nations shalbe a desert, a drye land, & a wildernes.

13 Because of the wrath of the Lord it shal not be inhabited, but shalbe wholy desolate: euerie one that goeth by Babel, shal be astonished, [n] & hisse at all her plagues.

14 [o] Put your selues in araye against Babel round about: all ye that bend ỹ bowe, shoote at her, spare no arrowes: for she hathe [p] sinned against the Lord.

15 Crye against her round about: she hathe [q] giuen her hand: her foundacions are fallen, & her walles are destroyed: for it is the vengeance of the Lord: take vengeance vpon her: as she hathe done, do vnto her.

16 Destroye the [q] sower from Babel, & him that handleth the sieth in the time of haruest: because of the sworde of the oppressour they shal turne euerie one to his people, and they shal flee euerie one to his owne land.

17 Israel is like scattered shepe: the lyons haue dispersed them: first the King [r] of Asshur hathe deuoured him, & last this Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel hathe

19 And I wil bring Israel againe to his habitation: he shal fede on Carmel and Bashan, and his soule shalbe satisfied vpon the mount Ephraim and Gilead.

20 In those dayes, and at that time, saith the Lord, the iniquitie of Israel shalbe sought for, and there shal be none: and ỹ sinnes of Iudah, & they shal not be found: for I wil be merciful vnto them, whome I reserue.

29 Call vp the archers against Babel: all ye that bend the bowe, besiege it rounde about: let none thereof escape: * recõpence her according to her worke, and according to all that she hathe done, do vnto her: for she hathe bene proude against the Lord, euen against the holy one of Israel.

30 Therefore shal her yong men fall in the streetes, and all her mẽ of warre shalbe destroied in that day, saith the Lord.

31 Beholde, I come vnto thee, ô proude man, saith the Lord God of hostes: for thy day is come, euen the time that I wil visite thee.

32 And the proude shal stomble and fall, & none shal raise him vp: & I wil kindle a fyre in his cities, and it shal deuoure all rounde about him.

33 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, The children of Israel, and the children of Iudah were oppressed together: and all ỹ toke them captiues, helde them, & wolde not let them go.

34 But their strong redemer, whose Name is the Lord of hostes, he shal maintein their cause, that he may giue rest to the land, z & disquiet the inhabitants of Babel.

CHAP. LI.

1 Why Babylon is destroied. 41 The vaine confidence of the Babylonians. 49 The vanitie of idolaters. 59 Ieremiah giueth his boke to Seraiah.

1 THus saith the Lord, Beholde, I wil raise vp against Babel, and against the inhabitants *that lift vp their heart against me, a destroying [a] winde,

2 And wil send vnto Babel fanners that shal fanne her, and shal emptie her land: for in the day of trouble thei shalbe against her on euerie side.

3 Also to the bender that bendeth his bowe, and to him that lifteth him self vp in his brigandine, wil I say, Spare not her yong men, but destroye all her hoste.

4 Thus the slaine shal fall in the land of the Caldeans, and they that are thrust through in her stretes.

5 For Israel hathe bene no [b] widow, nor Iudah from his God, from the Lord of hostes, though their land was filled with sinne against the holy one of Israel.

6 [c] Flee out of the middes of Babel, & deliuer euerie man his soule: be not destroyed in her iniquitie: for this is ỹ time of the Lords vengeance: he wil render vnto her a recompence.

7 Babel hathe bene as a golden cuppe in the [d] Lords hand, that made all ỹ earth drunken: the nacions haue drunken of her wine, therefore do the nacions [e] rage.

8 *Babel is suddenly fallen, & destroyed: howle for her, bring balme for her sore, if she may be healed.

9 We wolde haue cured Babel, but she colde not be healed: forsake her, and let [f] vs go euerie one into his owne countreie: for her iudgement is come vp vnto heauen, & is lifted vp to ỹ cloudes.

10 The Lord hathe broght forthe our [g] righteousnes: come and let vs declare in Zion the worke of the Lord our God.

11 Make bright the arrowes: "gather the shildes: the Lord hathe raised vp the spirit of the King of the Medes: for his purpose is against Babel to destroie it, because it is the [h] vengeance of the Lord, and the vengeance of his Temple.

12 Set vp the standart vpon the walles of Babel, make the watche strong: set vp the watchmen: prepare the skoutes: for the Lord hathe bothe deuised, and done that which he spake against ỹ inhabitants of Babel.

13 O thou that dwellest vpon many [i] waters, abundant in treasures, thine end is come, euen the "end of thy couetousnes.

14 The Lord of hostes hathe sworne by "him * selfe, saying, Surely I wil fil thee with men, as with caterpillers, and thei shal crye and shoute against thee.

15 *He hathe made the earth by his power, and established the worlde by his wisdome, & hathe stretched out ỹ heauen by his discretion.

16 He giueth by his voice the multitude of waters in the heauen, and he causeth the cloudes to ascend from the ends of the earth: he turneth lightnings to raine, and bringeth forthe ỹ winde out of his treasures.

17 Euerie man is a beast by his owne [k] knowledge: euerie founder is cōfounded by the grauen image: for his melting is but falsehod & there is no breth therein.

18 Thei are vanitie, & the worke of errors: in the time of their [l] visitatiō they shal perish.

19 The [m] porcion of Iaakob is not like them: for he is the maker of all things, and Israel is the rod of his inheritance: the Lord of hostes is his Name.

20 Thou art mine [n] hammer, and weapons of warre: for with thee wil I breake ỹ nations, and with thee wil I destroie kingdomes, 21 And by thee wil I breake horse and horseman, and by thee wil I breake the charret and him that rideth therein.

22 By thee also wil I breake man & woman, and by thee wil I breake olde and yong, and by thee wil I breake the yōg man & the maid.

23 I wil also breake by thee the shepherd & his flocke, & by thee wil I breake ỹ housbandman and his yoke of oxen, & by thee wil I breake the dukes & princes.

24 And I wil rendre vnto Babel, & to all ỹ inhabitans of the Caldeās all their euil, that thei haue done in Zion, euen in your sight, saith the Lord.

4 *But in the ninth yere of his reigne, in the tenth moneth the tenth day of the moneth came Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel, he & all his hoste against Ierusalem, & pitched against it, & buylt fortes against it rounde about.

5 So the citie was besieged vnto the eleuenth yere of the King Zedekiah.

6 Now in the fourth moneth, the ninth day of the moneth, the famine was sore in the citie, so that there was no more bread for the people of the land.

7 Then the citie was broken vp and all the men of warre fled, and went out of the citie by night, by the b way of the gate betwene the two walles, which was by the Kings garden: (now the Caldeans were by the citie rounde about) and thei went by the way of the wildernes.

8 But the armie of ỹ Caldeans pursued after the King, and toke Zedekiah in ỹ desert of Iericho, & all his hoste was scattered from him.

9 Then thei toke the King and caryed him vp vnto the King of Babel to Riblah in the land of Hamath, c where he gaue iudgement vpon him.

10 And the King of Babel slewe ỹ sonnes of Zedekiah before his eyes: he slewe also all the princes of Iudah in Riblah.

11 Then he put out ỹ eyes of Zedekiah, & the King of Babel bounde him in chaines, and caryed him to Babel, and put him in prison til the day of his death.

12 Now in the fift moneth in the d tenth day of the moneth (which was the ninth yere of the King Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel) came Nebuzar-adā chief steward which e stode before the King of Babel in Ierusalem, LAMENTACIONS.

CHAP. I.

1 The Prophet bewaileth the miserable estate of Ierusalem. 5 And sheweth that they are plagued because of their sinnes. The first and seconde chapter beginne euery verse according to the letters of the Ebrewe. Alphabet. The third hathe thre verses for euery letter, & the fourth is as the first.

1 HOw doeth [a] the citie remaine solitarie that was ful of people? ſhe is as a widdow: ſhe that was great amõg the nacions and [b] princesse among the prouinces, is made tributarie.
2 She wepeth continually in the [c] night, & her teares runne downe by her chekes: among all her [d] louers, ſhe hathe none to comfort her: all her friends haue delt vnfaithfully with her, & are her enemies.
3 Iudah is caryed away captiue, becausse [e] of affliction, and becausse of great seruitude: ſhe dwelleth among the heathẽ, & findeth no rest: all her persecuters toke her in the streites.
4 The wayes of Zion lament, becausse no man cometh [f] to the solemne feasts: all her gates are desolate: her Priests sigh: her virgines are discomfited, & ſhe is in [ee] heauines.
5 Her aduersaries [g] are the chief, & her enemies prosper: for the Lord hathe afflicted her, for the multitude of her transgressions; & her children are gone into captiuitie before the enemie.
6 And from the daughter of Zion all her beautie is departed: her princes are become [h] like hearts that finde no pasture, & thei are gone without strength before the pursuer.

a The Prophet wondereth at ý great iudgement of God seing Ierusalem, which was so strong & so ful of people, to be now destroyed & desolate.

b Which had chief ruleouer many prouinces and countreys.

g That is, haue rule ouer her.

h As men pined away ẅ sorow & that haue no courage.

7 Ierusalem remembred the daies of her affliction, and of her rebellion, and all her pleasant things, that she had in times past, when her people [i] fell into the hand of the enemie, & none did helpe her: ỹ aduersaries sawe her, & did mocke at her [k] Sabbaths.

8 Ierusalē hathe grieuously sinned, therefore she is in derision: all ỹ honoured her, despise her, because thei haue sene her filthines: yea, she sigheth & turneth backeward.

9 [l] Her filthines is in her skirtes: she remembred not her last end, therefore she came downe wonderfully: she had no comforter: ô Lord, beholde mine affliction: for the enemie [m] is proude.

10 The enemie hathe stretched out his hand vpon all her pleasant things: for she hathe sene the heathē entre into her Sanctuarie, whome [m] thou didest commande, that they shulde not entre into thy Church.

11 All her people sigh & seke their bread: they haue giuē their pleasant things for meat to refresh the soule: se, ô Lord, consider: for I am become vile.

12 Haue ye no regarde, all ye that passe by this way? beholde, & se, if there be any [n] sorowe like vnto my sorowe, which is done vnto me, wherewith the Lord hathe afflicted me in the day of his fierce wrath.

13 From aboue hathe [o] he sent fyre into my bones, which preuaile against them: he hathe spred a net for my fete, & turned me backe: he hathe made me desolate, & daily in heauines.

14 The [p] yoke of my transgressions is bounde vpon his hand: they are wrapped, and come vp vpon my necke: he hathe made my strength to fall: ỹ Lord hathe deliuered me into their hands, neither am I able to rise vp.

15 The Lord hathe troden vnder fote all my valiant mē in the middes of me: he hathe called an assemblie against me to destroy my yong men: the Lord hathe troden [q] the wine presse vpon the virgine the daughter of Iudah.

16 *For these things I wepe: mine eye, euen mine eye casteth out water, because the comforter that shulde refresh my soule, is farre from me: my children are desolate, because the enemie preuailed.

17 Zion stretcheth out her hands, & there is none to comfort her: the Lord hathe appointed the enemies of Iaakob rounde about him: Ierusalem is [r] as a menstruous woman in the middes of them.

18 The Lord is righteous: for I haue rebelled against his "cōmandement: heare, I pray you, all people & beholde my sorow: my virgines and my yong men are gone into captiuitie.

19 I called for my louers, but they deceiued me: my Priests and mine Elders perished in ỹ citie while they [s] soght their meat to refresh their soules.

20 Beholde, ô Lord, how I am troubled: my bowels swell: mine heart is turned within me, for I am full of heauines: the sworde spoyleth abroad, as death doeth at home.

21 They haue heard that I mourne, but there is none to comfort me: all mine enemies haue heard of my trouble, & are glad, that thou hast done it: thou wilt bring the day, that thou hast pronounced, and they shalbe like vnto me.

22 [t] Let all their wickednes come before thee: [u] do vnto them, as thou hast done vnto me, for all my transgressions: for my sighs are many, and mine heart is heauie.

CHAP. II.

1 HOw hathe the Lord [a] darkened the daughter of Zion in his wrath? and hathe cast downe from [b] heauen vnto ỹ earth the beautie of Israel, & remembred not his [c] fote stole in the day of his wrath?

2 The Lord hathe destroyed all the habitacions of Iaakob, and not spared: he hathe thrown downe in his wrath the strong holdes of the daughter of Iudah: he hathe cast them downe to the grounde: he hathe polluted the kingdome & the princes thereof.

3 He hathe cut of in his fierce wrath all the [d] horne of Israel: he hathe drawen backe his [e] right hand from before the enemie, and there was kindled in Iaakob like a flame of fyre, which deuoured rounde about.

4 He [f] hathe bent his bowe like an enemie: his right hand was stretched vp as an aduersarie, and slewe all ỹ was pleasant to the eye in the tabernacle of the daughter of Zion: he powred out his wrath like fyre.

5 The Lord was as an enemie: he hathe deuoured Israel, & consumed all his palaces: he hathe destroyed his strong holdes, and hathe increased in ỹ daughter of Iudah lamentaciòn and mourning.

6 For he hathe destroyed his tabernacle, as a garden, he hathe destroyed his congregacion: the Lord hathe caused the feasts & Sabbaths to be forgotten in Zion, & hathe despised in the indignacion of his wrath the King and the Priest.

a noyse in the House of the Lord, as in the day of solemnitie.

8 The Lord hathe determined to destroye the wall of the daughter of Zion: he stretched out a line: he hathe not withdrawen his hand from destroying: therefore he made the rampart [h] and ỹ wall to lamẽt: they were destroyed together.

9 Her gates are sonke to the grounde: he hathe destroied and broken her barres: her King and her princes are among the Gentiles: the Lawe is no more, neither can her Prophetes [a] receiue any vision from the Lord.

10 The Elders of the daughter of Zion sit vpon the grounde, and kepe silence: thei haue cast vp dust vpon their heades: thei haue girded them selues with sackecloth: ỹ virgines of Ierusalem hag downe their heades to the ground.

11 Mine eyes do faile with teares: my bowels swell: my liuer is powred vpon ỹ earth, for ỹ destruction of the daughter of my people, because ỹ childre & sucklings [a] swoune in the stretes of ỹ citie.

12 Thei haue said to their mothers, Where is [b] bread and drinke? when thei swouned as the wounded in the stretes of ỹ citie, & when thei [b] gaue vp the gost in their mothers bosome.

13 [i] What thing shal I take to witnes for thee? what thing shal I compare to thee, ô daughter Ierusalem: what shal I liken to thee, that I may comfort thee, ô virgine daughter Zion? for thy breache is great like the sea: who can heale thee?

14 Thy Prophetes haue [k] loked out vaine, & foolish things for thee, & thei haue not discouered thine iniquitie, to turne away thy captiuitie, but haue loked out for thee false [l] propnecies, & causes of banishment.

15 All that passe by the way, clappe their handes at thee: thei hisse & wagge their head vpon ỹ daughter Ierusalem, saying, Is this the citie that men call, The perfection of beautie, and the ioye of the whole earth?

16 All thine enemies haue opened their mouthe against thee: thei hisse & gnash the teeth, saying, Let vs deuoure it: certeinly this is the day that we loked for: we haue founde and sene it.

17 *The Lord hathe done that which he had purposed: he hathe fulfilled his worde that he had determined of olde time: he hathe throwe downe, & not spared: he hathe caused thine enemie to reioice ouer thee, and set vp the horne of thine aduersaries.

18 Their heart [c] cryed vnto the Lord, O wall of ỹ daughter Zion, let teares runne downe like a riuer, day and night: take thee no rest, nether let the apple of thine eye cease.

19 Arise, crye in the night: in the beginning of the watches powre out thine heart like water before the face of the Lord: lift vp thine handes toward him for the life of thy yong children, that faint for hungre in the corners of all ỹ stretes.

20 Beholde, ô Lord, & consider to whome thou hast done thus: shal the wome eat their frute, and children of a span long? shal the Priest and the Prophet be slaine in the Sanctuarie of the Lord?

21 The yong and the olde lye on the grounde in the stretes: my virgines and my yong men are fallen by the sworde: thou hast slaine them in the day of thy wrath: thou hast killed and not spared.

22 Thou hast called as in a solemne day my [d] terrours rounde about, so that in ỹ day of ỹ Lords wrath none escaped nor remained: those that I haue nourished & broght vp, hathe mine enemie consumed.

[a] Or, broght vp in their owne handes.

[b] Or, enemies, whome I feared.

CHAP. III.

Chap. III.

1 I Am the man, that hathe sene [a] affliction in the rod of his indignation.

a The Prophet complaineth of the punishments & afflictions that he endured by the false Prophetes & hypocrites, when he declared the destruction of Ierusalem, as here, 20, 2.

2 He hathe led me, and broght me into darcknes, but not to light.

3 Surely he is turned against me: he turneth his hand against me all the day.

4 My flesh & my skinne hathe he caused to waxe olde, & he hathe broken my bones.

5 He hathe [b] buylded against me, and compassed me with gall, and labour.

b He speaketh this as one that felt Gods heauie iudgements, w̃ he greatly feared, & therefore cite, both him self & this doctrine of worde.

6 He hathe set me in darke places, as thei that be dead for euer.

7 He hathe hedged about me, that I can not get out: he hathe made my chaines heauie.

8 Also when I crye and shoute, he shutteth out my [c] prayer.

c This is a great temptacion to the godlie, when their ꝓ not the frute of their prayers, & cause them to thinke ỹ their are not heard, w̃ thing God wil not to do, that they might praie more earnestly and the oftener.

9 He hathe [d] stopped vp my waies with hewen stone, and turned away my paths.

d And kepeth me in holde, as a prisoner.

10 [e] He was vnto me as a beare lying in waite, and as a lion in secret places.

e He hathe no pitie on me.

11 He hathe stopped my waies, & pulled me in pieces: he hathe made me desolate.

12 He hathe bent his bow and made me a marke for the arrowe.

13 He caused [f] the arrowes of his quiuer to entre into my reines.

14 I was a derision to all my people, and their song all the daye.

15 He hathe filled me with bitternes, and made me drunken with [g] worme wood.

g With great anguish & sorowe he hathe made me to lose my sense.

16 He hathe also broken my teeth with stones, and hathe couered me with asshes.

17 Thus my soule was farre off from peace: I forgat prosperitie,

18 And I said, My strength & mine hope is perished from the Lord, 19 Remembring mine affliction, & my mourning, the wormewood and the gall, 20 My soule hathe them in remembrance, and is humbled [h] in me.
21 I consider this in mine heart: therefore haue I hope.
22 It is the Lords [i] mercies that we are not consumed, because his compassions faile not.
23 They are renued [k] euerie morning: great is thy faithfulnes.
24 The Lord is my [l] porcion, saith my soule: therefore wil I hope in him.
25 The Lord is good vnto them, that trust in him, & to the soule that seketh him.
26 It is good bothe to trust, and to waite for the saluation of the Lord.
27 It is good for a man that he beare the yoke in his [m] youth.
28 He sitteth alone, [n] and kepeth silence, because he hathe borne it vpon him.
29 He putteth his [o] mouth in the dust, if there maie be hope.
30 He giueth his cheke to him that smiteth him: he is filled ful with reproches.
31 For the Lord wil not forsake for euer.
32 But thogh he send affliction, yet wil he haue compassion according to the multitude of his mercies.
33 For he doeth not [p] punish" willingly, nor afflict the children of men, 34 In stamping vnder his fete all ỳ prisonners of the earth, 35 In ouerthrowing the right of a man before the face of the most high, 36 In subuerting a man in his cause: the Lord [q] seeth it not.
37 Who is he then that saith, and it cometh to passe, & the Lord [r] commandeth it not?
38 Out of the mouth of the most high proceadeth not euil and good?
39 Wherefore then is the liuing [t] man sorowful? man suffereth for his sinne.
40 Let vs serche and trye our waies, & turne againe to the Lord.
41 Let vs lift vp [v] our hearts with our handes vnto God in the heauens.
42 We haue sinned, and haue rebelled, therefore thou hast not spared.
43 Thou hast couered vs with wrath, and persecuted vs: thou hast slaine & not spared.
44 Thou hast couered thy self with a cloude, that our praier shulde not passe through.
45 Thou hast made vs as the * offscouring and refuse in the middes of ỳ people. *1. Cor. 4, 13.
46 All our enemies haue opened their mouthe against vs.
47 Feare, and a snare is come vpon vs with desolation and destruction.
48 Mine eye casteth out riuers of water, for the destruction of the daughter of my people.
49 Mine eye droppeth without staie and ceaseth not,
50 Til the Lord loke downe, and behold from heauen.
51 Mine eye [x] breaketh mine heart because of all the daughters of my citie.
52 Mine enemies chased me sore like a birde, without cause.
53 They haue shut vp my life [y] in ỳ dungeon, and cast a stone vpon me.
54 Waters flowed ouer mine head, then thoght I, I am destroied.
55 I called vpon thy Name, ô Lord, out of the lowe dungeon.
56 Thou hast heard my voice: stoppe not thine eare from my sigh & from my crye.
57 Thou dreweſt nere in the daye that I called vpon thee: thou saideſt, Feare not.
58 O Lord, thou hast mainteined the cause of my [z] soule, & hast redemed my life.
59 O Lord, thou hast sene my wrong, iudge thou my cause.
60 Thou hast sene all their vengeance, & all their deuises against me, 61 Thou hast heard their reproche, ô Lord, & all their imaginations against me:
62 The lippes also of those that rose against me, and their whispering against me continually.
63 Beholde, their sitting downe & their rising vp, how I am their song.
64 *Giue them a recompence, ô Lord, Psal. 28, 4. according to the worke of their hands.
65 Giue them " sorowe of heart, euen thy curse to them. " Or, an obstinate heart.
66 Persecute with wrath and destroie them from vnder the heauen, ô Lord.

g Thus ỳ paine he was driuen to and fro betwene hope and dispaire, as the godlie oft times are, yet in ỳ end the Spirit getteth the victorie.

k We fele thy benefites daily.
l The godlie put their whole cōfidence in God, & therefore loke for none other inheritance, as psal. 16, 5.
m He sheweth ỳ we cā neuer begin to timely to be exercised vnder the crosse, ỳ when the afflictiōs grow greater, our pacience also by experience may be stronger.
n He murmureth not against God, but is pacient.
o He humbleth himselfe as thei ỳ falle downe w their face to the grounde, & so w patience waiteth for succour.

CHAP. IIII.

1 HOw is the [a] golde become so [b] dimme? the moste fyne golde is changed, and the stones of the Sanctuarie are scattered in the corner of euerie strete.

dostriches in the wildernes.

4 The tongue of the sucking childe cleaueth to the roofe of his mouth for thirst: the yong children aske bread, but no man breaketh it vnto them.

5 Thei that did fede delicately, perish in the stretes: they that were broght vp in skarlet, embrase the dongue.

6 For the iniquitie of the daughter of my people is become greater then * the sinne of Sodom, that was destroied as in a moment, and none pitched campes against her.

*Or, no strength was against her.

7 Her Nazarites were purer then the snowe, & whiter then the milke: thei were more ruddie in body, then ý red precious stones: thei were like polished saphir.

e They ý were before moste in Gods fauour, are now in greatest abominatiō vnto him, Nom. 6,2.

8 Now their e visage is blacker then a cole: they can not knowe them in ý stretes: their skinne cleaueth to their bones: it is withered, like a stocke.

9 Thei that be slaine with the sworde are better, then thei that are killed w hungre: for thei fade awaie as thei were striken through for the f frutes of the field.

f For lacke of fode they pyne away, & consume.

10 The handes of the petiful women haue sodden their owne children, which were their meat in the destruction of ý daughter of my people.

11 The Lord hathe accomplished his indignaciō: he hathe powred out his fierce wrath, he hathe kindled a fyre in Zion, which hathe deuoured the fundacions thereof.

12 The Kings of the earth, and all ý inhabitants of the worlde wolde not haue beleued that the aduersarie and ý enemie shulde haue entred into the gates of Ierusalem:

13 For the sinnes of her Prophetes, & the iniquities of her Priestes, that haue shed the blood of the iust in the middes of g her.

g He meaneth ý these things are come to passe therefore, contrary to all mes expectation.

14 Thei haue wandered as blinde men h in the stretes, and they were polluted with blood, so that i thei wolde not touche their garments.

h Some referre this to ý blinde men, w as they went, stombled on ý blood, whereof ý citie was ful.

15 But thei cryed vnto them, Departe, ye polluted, departe, departe, touche not: therefore they fled away, and wandered: thei haue said among the heathen, They shal no more dwell there.

i Meaning, the heathen w came to destroy them, colde not abyde them.

16 The *angre of the Lord hathe scattered them, he wil no more, regarde them: k thei reuerenced not the face of the Priests, nor had compasion of the Elders.

k That is, ý enemies.

17 Whiles we waited for our vaine helpe, our eyes failed: for in our waiting we loked for l a nation that colde not saue vs.

l He sheweth two principal causes of their destruction: their cruelties, & their vaine confidence in man: for they trusted in ý helpe of the Egyptians.

18 They hunte our steppes that we can not go in our stretes: our end is nere, our daies are fulfilled, for our end is come.

19 Our persecuters are swifter then the egles of the heauen: thei pursued vs vpon the mountaines, and laied wait for vs in the wildernes.

20 The m breth of our nostrels, the Anointed of ý Lord was takē in their nets, of whome we said, Vnder his shadowe we shalbe preserued aliue among the heathen.

m Our King Iosiah, in whome stode our hope of Gods fauour, and on whome depended our state & life, was slayne whome he calleth anointed, because he was a figure of Christ.

21 Reioyce & be glad, n ô daughter Edō, that dwellest in the land of Vz, ý cup also shal passe through vnto thee: thou shalt be drunken and vomite.

n This is spokē by derision.

22 Thy punishment is accomplished, ô daughter Zion: he o wil no more carie thee awaie into captiuitie, but he wil visit thine iniquitie, ô daughter Edom, he wil discouer thy sinnes.

o Or, shew thy nakednes.

CHAP. V.

The prayer of Ieremiah.

p He cōforteth the Churche by ý after seuentie yeres their sorowes shal haue an end, where as the wicked shulde be tormented for euer.

1 REmembre, ô Lord, what is come vpon vs: a consider, & behold our reproche.

a This prayer as is thoght, was made when some of the people were caryed away captiue. others as ý poorest remained, & some went into Egypt & other places for socour: albeit it semeth ý the prophet foreseing their miseries to come, thus prayed.

2 Our inheritance is turned to ý strangers, our houses to the aliantes.

3 We are fatherles, euen without father, & our mothers are as widowes.

4 We haue dronke our b water for money, & our wood is solde vnto vs.

b Meaning, the ir extreme seruitude and bondage.

5 Our neckes are vnder persecution: we are weary, and haue no rest.

6 We haue giuen our c hands to ý Egyptians, & to Asshur, to be satisfied with bread.

c We are ioyned in league & amitie w them, or haue submitted our selues vnto them.

7 Our fathers haue sinned, and are not, and we haue borne their d iniquities.

d As our fathers haue bene punished for their sinnes, so we ý are culpable of ý same sinnes, are punished.

8 Seruants haue ruled ouer vs, none wolde deliuer vs out of their hands.

9 We gate our bread with the peril of our liues, because of the sworde e of the wildernes.

e Because of the enemie that came from ý wildernes, & wolde not suffer vs to go, & seke our necessarie fode.

10 Our skin was blacke like as an ouen because of the terrible famine.

11 They defiled the women in Zion, and the maides in the cities of Iudah.

12 The princes are hanged vp by f their hand: the faces of the Elders were not had in honour.

f That is, by the enemies hand.

13 They toke the yong men to grinde, & the children fell vnder g the wood.

g Their sclauerie was so great that thei were not able to abide it.

14 The Elders haue ceased from the h gate & the yong men from their songs.

h There were no more lawes nor forme of commune welth.

15 The ioye of our heart is gone, our dāce is turned into mourning.

16 The crowne of our head is fallen: wo now vnto vs, that we haue sinned.

17 Therefore our heart is heauy for these things, our i eyes are dimme,

20 Wherefore doest thou forget vs for euer, & forsake vs so long time
21 Turne thou vs vnto thee, O Lord, & we shalbe turned: renue our dayes as of olde.
22 But thou hast vtterly reiected vs: thou art exceedingly angrie against vs.

EZEKIEL.

THE ARGUMENT.

After that Iehoiachin by the counsel of Ieremiah and Ezekiel had yelded him self to Nebuchadnezzar, and so went into captiuitie with his mother & diuers of his princes and of the people, certeine beganne to repent and murmur that thei had obeied the Prophets counsel, as though the thing which thei had prophecied shulde not come to passe, and therefore their estate shulde be stil miserable vnder the Caldeans. By reason whereof he confirmeth his former prophecies, declaring by new visions & reuelacions shewed vnto him that the citie shulde most certeinly be destroied, & the people grieuously tormented by Gods plagues, insomuche that thei that remained shulde be brought into cruel bondage. And lest the godlie shulde dispaire in these great troubles, he assureth them that God wil deliuer his Church at his time appointed, & also destroie their enemies which either afflicted them or reioyced in their miseries. The effect of the one and the other shulde chiefly be performed vnder Christ, of whome in this boke are many notable promises, and in whome the glorie of the new Temple shulde perfectly be restored. He prophecied these things in Caldea at the same time that Ieremiah prophecied in Iudah, and there began in the fift yere of Iehoiachins captiuitie.

Ezekiel prophecieth in Caldea at the same time that Ieremiah prophecied in Iudah.

CHAP. I.

1 The time wherein Ezekiel prophecied and in what place. 3 His kinred. 15 The vision of the foure beastes. 26 The vision of the throne.

1 IT came to passe in ỹ [a] thirtieth yere in ỹ fourth moneth and in the fift day of ỹ moneth (as I was among the captiues by the riuer [b] Chebar) that the heauens were opened and I sawe visions of [c] God.
2 In the fift daye of the moneth (which was ỹ fift yere of King Ieoiachins captiuitie)
3 The worde of the Lord came vnto Ezekiel the Priest, the sonne of Buzi, in the land of the Caldeans, by the riuer Chebar, where the [d] hand of the Lord was vpon him.
4 And I loked, & beholde, [e] a whirlewinde came out of the North, a great cloude & a fyre wrapped about it, and a brightnes was about it, & in the middes thereof, to wit, in the middes of the fyre came out as the likenes of [f] ambre.
5 Also out of the middes thereof came the likenes of foure beasts, [f] and this was their forme: they had the appearance of a man,
6 And euerie one had foure faces, and euerie one had foure wings.
7 And their fete were streight fete, and the sole of their fere was like the sole of a calues fote, and they sparkled like the appearance of bright brasse.
8 And the hands of a man came out from vnder their wings in the foure partes of them, & thei foure had their faces, and their wings.
9 They were [g] ioyned by their wings one to another, & when thei went forthe, their returned not, but euerie one went streight forwarde.
10 And the similitude of their faces was as [h] the face of man & they foure had ỹ face of a lyon on the right side, & they foure had the face of a bullocke on the left side: they foure also had the face of an egle.
11 Thus were their faces: but their wings were spred out aboue: two wings of euerie one were ioyned one to another, and two couered their bodies.
12 And euerie one went streight forwarde: they went whether their [j] spirit led them, & thei returned not when thei went forthe.
13 The similitude also of the beastes, and their appearance was like burning coles of fyre, and like the appearance of lampes: for the fyre ran among the beastes, & the fyre gaue a glister, and out of the fyre there went lightening.
14 And the beastes ran, & [i] returned like vnto lightening.
15 ¶ Now as I behelde the beastes, beholde, a whele appeared vpon the earth by the beastes, hauing foure faces.
16 The facion of the wheles and their worke was like vnto a [k] chrysolite: and they foure had one forme, and their facion, and their worke was as one whele in another whele.
17 When a After ỹ the boke of the Law was founde, w was ỹ eightenth yere of ỹ reigne of Iosiah, so that fiue and twentie yeres after this boke was founde, Ieconiah was led awaie captiue w Ezekiel & manie of ỹ people who the first yere after sawe these visions.

c So ỹ he colde not abide Gods presence til Gods Spirit did enter into him.
" Ebr. hard of face.
d This declareth on ỹ one parte Gods great affection toward his people, that notwithstāding their rebellion, yet he wil send his e Prophetes among them, & admonisher: his ministers on the other parte that thei cease not to do their duetie, though ỹ people be neuer so obstinat: for the worde of God shal be either to their saluation or greater condemnation.
e Read Iere. 1, 17 ere she weth ỹ for none afflictios thei shuld ceas to do their duties.

And [a] he said vnto me, [b] Sonne of mā, stand vp vpō thy fete, & I wil speake vnto thee.

2 [c] And the Spirit entred into me, when he had spoken vnto me, and set me vpon my fete, so that I heard him that spake vnto me.

3 And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, I send thee to ỹ children of Israel, to a rebellious natiō, ỹ hathe rebelled against me: for they and their fathers haue rebelled against me, euen vnto this very day.

4 For thei are " impudent children, and stifse hearted: I do send thee vnto them, & thou shalt say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God.

5 But surely they wil not heare, nether in dede wil they cease: for they are a rebellious house: yet shal they knowe that [d] there hathe bene a Prophet among them.

6 And thou sonne of man, [e] feare them not, nether be afrayed of their wordes, although rebelles, and thornes be wt thee, and thou remaineſt with scorpions: feare not their wordes, nor be afraide at their lokes, for they are a rebellious house.

7 Therefore thou shalt speake my wordes vnto them: but surely they wil not heare, nether wil they in dede cease: for thei are rebellious.

8 But thou sonne of man, heare what I say vnto thee: be not thou rebellious, like this rebellious house: opē thy mouth, & [f] eat that I giue thee.

9 And when I loked vp, behold, an hād was sent vnto me, & lo, a rolle of a boke was therein.

10 And he spred it before me, and it was written within & without, & there was written therein, [g] Lamentaciōs, & mourning, and wo.

f He doeth not onely exhorte him to his duetie, but also giueth him ỹ meanes wherewith he may be able to execute it.
g He sheweth what were the cōtentes of this boke: to wit, Gods iudgemēts against the wicked.

CHAP. III.

1 The Prophet being fed with the worde of God & with the constant boldnes of the Spirit, is sent vnto the people that were in captiuitie. 17 The office of true ministers.

1 MOreouer he said vnto me, Sonne of man, eat that thou findeſt: [a] eat this rolle, & go, & speake vnto ỹ house of Israel.

2 So I opened my mouth, and he gaue me this rolle to eat.

3 And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, cause thy belly to eat, & fil thy bowels with this rolle that I giue thee. Thē did I eat it, and it was in my mouth as swete as honie.

4 And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, go, & entre into the house of Israel, and declare them my wordes.

5 For thou are not sent to a people of an vnknowen " tongue, or of an hard lāguage, but to the house of Israel,

6 Not to manie people of an vnknowē tongue, or of an hard language, whose wordes thou canst not vnderstand: yet if I shulde send thee to them, they wolde obey thee.

7 But the house of Israel wil not obey thee: for they wil not obey me: yea, all the house of Israel are impudent & stifhearted.

8 Beholde, I haue made thy face [b] strong against their faces, and thy forehead hard against their foreheads.

9 I haue made thy forehead as the adamant, & harder then ỹ flint: feare them not therefore, nether be afraid at their lokes: for they are a rebellious house.

10 He said moreouer vnto me, Sonne of man, [c] receiue in thine heart all my wordes that I speake vnto thee, and heare them with thine eares, 11 And go & entre to them that are led away captiues vnto the children of thy people, and speake vnto them, and tel them, Thus saith the Lord God: but surely they wil not heare, nether wil thei in dede cease.

12 Then the Spirit toke me vp, & I herd behinde me a noyse of a great russhing, saying, [d] Blessed be the glorie of the Lord out of his place.

a Whereby is ment, ỹ none is mete to be Gods messenger before he haue receiued ỹ worde of God in his heart, as vers. 10, and haue a zeale thereunto, & delite therein, as Ierem. 15, 16. reuel. 10, 10.

b God promiseth his assistāce to his ministers, & ỹ he wil giue thē boldenes & cōstancie in their vocation, Isa. 50, 7. ier. 1, 18. mich. 3, 8.
c He sheweth what is mēt by ỹ eating of the boke, wh is, that ỹ ministers of God may speake nothing as of themselues, but ỹ onely, wh they haue receiued of ỹ Lord.
d Whereby he significth, that Gods glorie shulde not be diminished, although he departed out of his Tēple: for this declared, that ỹ citie, & Temple shulde be destroyed.

13 The-

13 I heard also the noyse of the wings of the beasts, that touched one another, and the ratling of the wheles that were by them, euen a noyse of a great russhing.

14 So the Spirit lift me vp, & toke me away and I [e] went in bitternes, & indignation of my spirit, but the hand of ỹ Lord was strong vpon me.

15 Then I came to them that were led away captiues to [f] Tel-abib, that dwelt by the riuer Chebar, & I sate where they sate, & remained there astonished amõg them [g] seuen dayes.

16 And at the end of seuen dayes, ỹ worde of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying, 17 Sonne of mã, I haue made thee a [h] watchman vnto the house of Israel: therefore heare the worde at my mouth, and giue them warning from me.

18 When I shal say vnto ỹ wicked, Thou shalt surely dye, and thou giuest not him warning, nor speakest to admonish the wicked of his wicked way, that he may liue, the same wicked man shal dye in his iniquitie: but his blood will I require at thine hand.

19 Yet if thou warne the wicked, and he turne not from his wickednes, nor from his wicked way, he shal dye in his iniquitie, but thou hast deliuered thy soule.

20 Likewise if a [i] righteous man turne from his righteousnes, and commit iniquitie, I wil lay a [k] stumbling blocke before him, & he shal dye, because thou hast not giuen him warning: he shal dye in his sinne, and his [l] righteous dedes, which he hathe done, shal not be remembred: but his blood wil I require at thine hand.

21 Neuertheles, if thou admonish that righteous man, that the righteous sinne not, & that he doeth not sinne, he shal liue because he is admonished: also thou hast deliuered thy soule.

22 And the [m] hand of ỹ Lord was there vpon me, & he said vnto me, Arise, & go into the [n] field, & I wil there talke with thee.

23 So when I had risen vp, & gone forthe into the field, beholde, the [o] glorie of the Lord stode there, as the glorie which I sawe by the riuer Chebar, and I fel downe vpon my face.

24 Then ỹ Spirit entred into me, which [p] set me vp vpon my fete, & spake vnto me, and said to me, Come, & [p] shut thy self within thine house.

25 But thou, ô sonne of man, beholde, they shal put bandes vpon thee, & shal binde thee with them, & thou shalt not go out among them.

26 And I wil make thy tongue [q] cleaue to the roofe of thy mouth, that thou shalt be dumme, and shalt not be to them as a man that rebuketh: for they are a rebellious house.

27 But when I shal haue spoken vnto thee, I wil open thy mouth, & thou shalt say vnto them, Thus saith ỹ Lord God, He that heareth, let him heare, and he that leaueth of, *let him leaue: for they are a rebellious house. *Reuel. 22, 11.

CHAP. IIII.

1 The besieging of the citie of Ierusalem is signified. 9 The long continuance of the captiuitie of Israel. 16 An hungre is prophecied to come.

1 THou also sonne of man, take thee a bricke, and lay it before the, and pourtray vpon it the citie, euen Ierusalem,

2 And lay siege against it, and buylde a fort against it, and cast a mount against it: set the campe also against it, and lay engins of warre against it rounde about.

3 Moreouer, take an [a] yron panne, & set it for a wall of yron betwene thee & the citie, & direct thy face toward it, and it shal be besieged, & thou shalt lay siege against it: this shalbe a signe vnto the house of Israel.

4 Slepe thou also vpon thy left side, and lay the iniquitie of the [b] house of Israel vpon it: according to the nombre of the daies, that thou shalt slepe vpon it, thou shalt beare their iniquitie.

5 For I haue laied vpon thee the yeres of their iniquitie, according to ỹ nomber of the daies, euen three hundreth & ninty daies: so shalt thou beare ỹ iniquitie of the house of Israel.

6 And when thou hast accomplished them, slepe againe vpon thy [c] right side, and thou shalt beare the iniquitie of ỹ house of Iudah fourtie daies: I haue appointed thee a day for a yere, euen a day for a yere.

7 Therefore thou shalt direct thy face toward the siege of Ierusalem, & thine [d] arme shalbe vncouered, and thou shalt prophecie against it.

8 And beholde, I wil lay [e] bands vpon thee, & thou shalt not turne thee from one side to another, til thou hast ended the daies of thy siege.

9 Thou shalt take also vnto thee wheat, & barly, and beanes, and lentiles, and millet, [f] and fitches, and put them in one vessel, and make thee bread thereof according to the nomber of ỹ daies, that thou shalt slepe vpon thy side: euen [g] thre hundreth and nintie daies shalt thou eat thereof.

12 And thou shalt eat it as barly cakes, and thou shalt bake it ᵏ in the dongue that cometh out of man, in their sight.

13 And the Lord said, So shal the children of Israel eat their defiled bread among the Gentiles, whether I wil cast them.

14 Thē said I, Ah, Lord God, beholde, my soule hathe not bene polluted: for from my youth vp, euē vnto this houre, I haue not eaten of a thing dead, or torne in pieces, nether came there any ˡ vncleane flesh in my mouth.

15 Then he said vnto me, Lo, I haue giuen thee bullockes ᵐ dongue for mans dongue, & thou shalt prepare thy bread therewith.

16 Moreouer he said vnto me, Sonne of man, beholde, I wil breake ⁿ the staffe of bread in Ierusalem, and they shal eat bread by weight, & with care, and they shal drinke water by measure, and with astonishment.

17 Because that bread and water shal faile, they shalbe astonied one with another, & shal consume away for their iniquitie.

CHAP. V.

The signe of the heeres, whereby is signified the destruction of the people.

1 AND thou sonne of man, take thee a sharpe knife, or take thee a barbours rasor and cause it ᵃ to passe vpon thine head, & vpon thy beard: then take thee balances to weigh, and deuide the heere.

2 Thou shalt burne with fyre the third part in the middes of ᵇ the citie, when the dayes of the siege are fulfilled; and thou shalt take the other third parte, & smite about it ẇ a knife, & ẏ last third parte thou shalt scatter in the winde, & I wil drawe out a sworde after them.

3 Thou shalt also take thereof a fewe in nomber, and binde them in thy ᶜ lappe.

4 Then take of them againe and cast them into the middes of the fyre, and burne them in the fyre: for there of shal a fyre come forthe into all the house of Israel.

5 Thus saith the Lord God, This is Ierusalem: I haue set it in the middes of ẏ nacions and countreys, that are rounde about her.

6 And she hathe changed my ᶜ iudgements into wickednes more then ẏ nacions, & my statutes more then ẏ countreys, that are rounde about her: for thei haue refused my iudgements & my statutes, & they haue not walked in them.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because your ᶠ multitude is greater then the nacions that are rounde about you, & ye haue not walked in my statutes, nether haue ye kept my iudgemēts: no, ye haue not done according to the iudgments of the nacions, that are rounde about you,

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I, euen I come against thee, and wil execute iudgement in the middes of thee, euen in the sight of thē nacions.

9 And I wil do in thee, that I neuer did before, nether wil do anie more the like, because of all thine abominacions.

10 For in the middes of thee, the fathers *shal eat their sonnes, & the sonnes shal eat their fathers, and I wil execute iudgement in thee, & the whole remnant of thee wil I scatter into all the windes.

11 Wherefore, as I liue, saith the Lord God, Surely because thou hast defiled my Sactuarie with all thy filthines, & ẇ all thine abominacions, therefore wil I also destroy thee, nether shal mine eye spare thee, nether wil I haue anie pitie.

12 The third parte of thee shal dye with the pestilēce, and with famine shal they be consumed in the middes of thee: and another third parte shal fall by ẏ sworde rounde about thee: and I wil scatter ẏ last third parte into all windes, & I wil drawe out a sworde after them.

13 Thus shal mine angre be accōplished, & I wil cause my wrath to cease in thē, & I wil be ᵍ comforted: & thei shal knowe, that I the Lord haue spoken it in my zeale, when I haue accomplished my wrath in them.

14 Moreouer, I wil make thee waste, and abhorred among the nacions, that are rounde about thee, & in the sight of all that passe by.

15 So thou shalt be a reproche & shame, a chastisement and an astonishment vnto the nacions, that are rounde about thee, when I shal execute iudgements in thee, in angre & in wrath, & in sharpe rebukes: I the Lord haue spoken it.

16 When I shal send vpon them the ʰ euil ʰ arrowes of famine, which shalbe for their destruction, & ẇ which I wil send to destroye you: and I wil encrease the famine vpon you, & wil breake your staffe of bread.

17 *So wil I send vpon you famine, and euil beasts, and they shal spoyle thee, & pestilence and blood shal passe through thee, and I wil bring the sworde vpon thee:

Chap. 36, 1.

3 And say, Ye mountaines of Israel, heare the worde of ỹ Lord God: thus saith the Lord God to the [a] mountaines and to the hilles, to the riuers and to ỹ valleis, Beholde, I, euen I, wil bring a sworde vpon you, & I wil destroye your hie places:

c In contempt of their power & force, which shal nether be able to deliuer you nor them selues, 2. King. 21, 20.

6 In all your dwelling places the cities shalbe desolate, and the hie places shalbe laied waste, so that your altars shalbe made waste and desolate, & your idoles shalbe broken, and cease, and your images of the sunne shalbe cut in pieces, and your workes shalbe abolished.

7 And the slaine shal fall in the middes of you, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

d He sheweth ỹ in all dangers God wil preserue a few which shalbe as ỹ sede of his Church & call vpon his Name.

8 Yet wil I leaue a remnant, [d] that you may haue some that shal escape ỹ sworde among ỹ nacions, when you shalbe scattred through the countreis.

9 And they that escape of you, shal remember me among the nacions, where they shalbe in captiuitie, because I am grieued for their whorish hearts, which haue departed from me, and for their eyes, which haue gone a whoring after their idoles, and they [e] shalbe displeased in them selues for the euils, ẅ they haue committed in all their abominations.

e They shalbe ashamed to se ỹ their hope in idoles was but vaine, & so shal repent.

10 And thei shal knowe that I am the Lord, & that I haue not said in vaine, that I wolde do this euil vnto them.

f By these signes he wolde ỹ the Prophet shulde signifie ỹ great destructio to come.

11 Thus saith the Lord God, [f] Smite, ẅ thine hand, and stretche forthe with thy fote, and say, Alas, for all the wicked abominacions of the house of Israel: for they shal fall by the sworde, by the famine, & by the pestilence.

12 He that is farre of, shal dye of the pestilence, and he that is nere, shal fall by the sworde, and he that remaineth and is besieged, shal dye by the famine: thus wil I accomplish my wrath vpon them.

13 Then [g] ye shal knowe, that I am the Lord, when their slayne men shalbe among their idoles rounde about their altars, vpon euery hie hill in all the toppes of the mountaines, and vnder euery grene tre, and vnder euery thicke oke, which is the place where they did offer swete sauour to all their idoles.

g That is, all nacions, when you shal se my iudgements.

1 MOreouer the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Also thou sonne of man, thus saith the Lord, An end is come vnto the land of Israel: the end is come vpon the foure corners of the land.

3 Now is the end come vpon thee, and I wil send my wrath vpon thee, and wil iudge thee according to thy waies, and wil laye vpon thee all [a] thine abominacions.

a I wil punish thee as thou hast deserued for thine idolatrie.

4 Nether shal mine eye spare thee, nether wil I haue pitie: but I wil laie thy waies vpon thee: and thine abominacio shalbe in the middes of thee, & ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

*Or, beholde, euil cometh after euil.

16 But they that flee away from them, shal escape, and shalbe in the mountaines, like ỹ doues of the valleis: all thei shal mourne, euerie one for his iniquitie.

20 He had also set the beautie of his [p] ornament in maiestie: but they made images of their abominations, & of their idoles therein: therefore haue I set it far re from them.

CHAP. VIII.

1 An appearance of the similitude of God. 3 Ezekiel is brought to Ierusalem in the spirit. 6 The Lord sheweth the prophet the idolatries of the house of Israel.

1 AND in the [a] sixt yere, in the [b] sixt moneth, and in the fift day of the moneth, as I sate in mine house, and the Elders of Iudah sate before me, the hand of the Lord God fel there vpon me.

2 Then I behelde, and lo, there was a likenes, as the appearance of [c] fyre, to loke to from his loynes downeward, and from his loynes vpwarde, as the appearance of brightnes, and like vnto ambre.

3 And he stretched out the likenes of an hand, and toke me by an heerie locke of mine head, & the Spirit lift me vp betwene the earth, & the heauen, & brought me "by a Diuine [d] visiō to Ieruſalem, into the entrie of the inner [e] gate ỹ lieth toward the North, where remained the idole of [f] indignation, which prouoked indignation.

4 And beholde, the glorie of the God of Israel was there according to the visiō, that I saw [g] in the field.

5 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, lift vp thine eyes now towarde ỹ North. So I lift vp mine eyes towarde ỹ North, & beholde, Northwarde, at the gate of the [h] altar, this idole of indignation was in the entrie.

6 He said furthermore vnto me, Sonne of man, seest thou not what thei do? euen the great abominations that the house of Israel committeth here to cause me to departe from [i] my Sanctuarie? but yet turne thee & thou shalt se greater abominations.

7 And he caused me to entre at the gate of the court: & when I loked, beholde, an hole was in the wall.

8 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, digge now in the wall. And when I had digged in the wall, beholde, there was a dore.

9 And he said vnto me, Go in, & beholde the wicked abominations that they do here.

10 So I went in, and sawe, and beholde, there was euerie similitude of creping things & [k] abominable beastes and all ỹ idoles of the house of Israel painted vpon the wall rounde about.

11 And there stode before them seuentie [l] men of the Ancients of the house of Israel, and in the middes of them stode a Of the captiuitie of Iecōniah.

b Which conteined parte of August, & parte of September.

c As Chap. 1, 27.

" Ebr. in the visions of God.

d Meaning, that he was thus caryed in spirit, & not in bodie.

e Which was ỹ porche or the court where the people assembled.

f So called because it prouoked Gods indignation, ẅ was ỹ idole of Baal.

g Read Chap. 3, 22.

h That is, in the court where the people had made an altar to Baal.

i For God wil not be where idoles are.

k Which were forbidden in ỹ Law, Leuit. 11.

l Thus they ỹ shulde haue kept all rest in ỹ feare, & true seruice of God, were the ring leaders to all abomination, and by their example pulled others fro God.

They were ỹ shold be last.

de Iaazaniah, the sonne of Shaphã, with euerie man his censour in his hand, and the vapour of the incense went vp like [m] a cloud.

[m] It was in suche abundance.

12 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, hast thou sene what the Ancients of the house of Israel [n] do in the darke, euerie one in the chambre of his imagerie? for thei saie, The Lord seeth vs not, ỹ Lord hathe forsaken the earth.

[n] For besides their commune idolatrie, they had particular seruice, ẅ they had in secret chambers.

13 Againe he said also vnto me, Turne thee againe, & thou shalt se greater abominacions that thei do.

14 And he caused me to entre into the entrie of the gate of the Lords house, ẅ was towarde the North: and beholde there sate women mourning for [o] Tammuz.

[o] The Iewes write that this was a Prophet of the idoles, who after his death was once a yere mourned for in ỹ night.

15 Then said he vnto me, Hast thou sene this, ô sonne of man? Turne thee againe, & thou shalt se greater abominacios then these.

16 And he caused me to entre into ỹ inner court of the Lords house, & beholde, at the dore of the Temple of the Lord, betwene the porche and the altar were about fiue and twentie men with their backes towarde the Temple of ỹ Lord, and their faces towarde the East, and thei worshiped the sonne, toward the East.

17 Then he said vnto me, Hast thou sene this, ô sonne of man? Is it a smale thing to the house of Iudah to commit these abominacions which thei do here? for thei haue filled the land with crueltie, and haue returned to prouoke me: and lo, thei haue cast out [p] stinke before their noses.

[p] Declaring ỹ the censings, & seruice of the idolaters are but infection & vilenie before God Prou. 21, 19. Esa. 46, 7. iere. 11, 11. mich. 3, 4.

18 Therefore wil I also execute my wrath: mine eye shal not spare them, nether wil I haue pitie, & [q] though thei crye in mine eares with a loude voyce, yet wil I not heare them.

CHAP. IX.

1 The destruction of the citie. 4 They that shalbe saued, are marked. 8 A complaint of the prophet for the destruction of the people.

1 HE cryed also with a loude voice in mine eares, saying, The visitacions of [a] the citie draw nere, and euerie man hathe a weapon in his hand to destroye it.

[a] The time to take vengeance.

2 And beholde, six [b] men came by the way of the hie gate, which lieth toward the [c] North, and euerie man a weapon in his hand to destroye it: and one man among them was clothed with linnen, with a writers [d] ynkhorne by his side, and thei went in and stode beside the brasen altar.

[b] Which were Angels in ỹ similitude of mẽ.

[c] Signifying ỹ the Babylonians shulde come from the North to destroye the citie and the Temple.

3 And the glorie of the God of Israel was [e] gone vp from the Cherub, whereupon he was & stode on the [f] dore of the house, and he called to the man clothed with linnen, which had ỹ writers ynkhorne by his side.

[d] To marke thẽ that shulde be saued.

4 And the Lord said vnto him, Go through the middes of the citie, euen through the middes of Ierusalem, and set [g] a marke vpon ỹ foreheads of them that [h] mourne, and crye for all the abominacions that be done in the middes thereof.

5 And to the other he said, that I might heare, Go ye after him through ỹ citie, and smite: let your eye spare none, nether haue pitie.

6 Destroye vtterly the olde, & the yong, and the maids, and the children, and the women, but touche no man, vpon whome is the [i] marke, and begin at my Sanctuarie. Then they began at the [k] Ancient men, which were before the house.

7 And he said vnto them, Defile ỹ House, and fil the courtes with the slaine, thẽ go forthe: and they went out, and slewe them in the citie.

8 Now when they had slaine them, and I had escaped, I fel downe vpon my face, and cryed, saying, [l] Ah Lord God, wilt thou destroye all the residue of Israel, in powring out thy wrath vpon Ierusalem, 9 Then said he vnto me, The iniquitie of the house of Israel, & Iudah is exceding great, so ỹ the lãd is ful [k] of blood, & the citie ful of corrupt iudgemẽt: for thei say, The Lord hathe forsaken the earth, & the Lord seeth vs not.

10 As touching me also, mine eye shal not spare them, nether wil I haue pitie, but wil recompence their wayes vpon their heads.

11 And beholde, the man clothed with linen which had the ynkhorne by his side made report, and said, Lord I haue done as thou hast commanded me.

[e] Which declared, ỹ he was not bound thereunto, nether wolde remaine anie longer, thẽ there was hope ỹ they wolde returne from their wickednes, & worship him aright.

[g] Thus in all his plagues ỹ Lord preserueth his smale nombre, ẅ he marketh as Exod. 11, 22. reuel 7, 3. but ỹ chief marke is the Spirit of adoption, wherewith ỹ heart is sealed vp to life euerlasting.

[h] Which were ỹ chief occasion of all these euils, as Chap. 8, 11.

[i] This declareth, ỹ the seruantes of God haue a compassion, when they se his iudgemẽts executed.

[k] That is, ẅ all kinde of wickednes, read Isa. 1, 15.

CHAP. X.

1 Of the man that toke hote burning coles out of the middle of the wheles of the Cherubims. 8 A rehearsal of the vision of the wheles, of the beastes, and of the Cherubims.

1 AND as I loked, beholde, in the *firmament that was aboue the head of the [a] Cherubims there appeared vpon them like vnto the similitude of a throne, as it were a saphir stone.

Chap. 1, 22.

[a] Which in the first chap. ver. 5. he called ỹ foure beastes.

2 And he spake vnto the man clothed with linen, and said, Go in betwene the wheles, euen vnder the Cherub, and fil thine hands with coles of fyre from betwene the Cherubims, and scatter them ouer [b] the citie. And he went in my sight.

3 Now the Cherubims stode vpon the right side of ỹ house when the man wēt in, & the cloude filled the inner court.

4 Then the glorie of the Lord [c] went vp from the Cherub, and stode ouer the dore of the house. and the house was filled with the cloude, and the court was filled with the brightnes of the Lords glorie.

5 And the [d] sounde of the Cherubims wings was heard into the vtter court, as the voyce of the Almightie God, when he speaketh.

6 And when he had commanded ỹ man clothed with linnen, saying, Take fyre from betwene the wheles, & from betwene the Cherubims, then he went in & stode beside the whele.

7 And one Cherub stretched forthe his hand from betwene the Cherubims vnto the fyre, that was betwene the Cherubims, & toke thereof, and put it into the hands of him that was clothed with linen: who toke it and went out.

8 And there appeared in the Cherubims, the likenes of a mans hand vnder their wings.

9 And when I loked vp, beholde foure wheles were beside the Cherubims, one whele by one Cherub, & another whele by another Cherub, and the appearance of the wheles was as ỹ colour of a [e] chrysolite stone.

10 And their appearance (for they were all foure of one faciō) was as if one whele had bene in another whele.

11 When they went forthe, they went vpon their foure sides, & they returned not as they went: but to the place whether the first went, they went after it, & they [f] turned not as they went.

12 And their whole body, & their [g] rings, & their hāds, & their wings, & the wheles were ful of eyes round about, euen in the same foure wheles.

13 And the Cherub cryed to these wheles in mine hearing, saying, O whele.

14 And euery beast had foure faces: ỹ first face was the face of a Cherub, and the seconde face was the face of a man, and the third face of a lion, and the fourth the face of an egle.

15 And the Cherubims were lifted vp: * this is the beast that I sawe at the riuer Chebar.

16 And when the Cherubims went, the wheles went by them: and when ỹ Cherubims lift vp their wings to mount vp from the earth, ỹ same wheles also turned not from beside them.

17 When the Cherubims stode, thei stode: & when thei were lifted vp, thei lifted them selues vp also: for the [g] spirit of the beast was in them.

18 [h] Then the glorie of the Lord departed from aboue the dore of the House, & stode vpon the Cherubims.

19 And ỹ Cherubims lift vp their wings, & mouted vp from ỹ earth in my sight: when thei went out, the wheles also were besides them: & euerie one stode at the entrie of the gate of the Lords House at the East side, & the glorie of the God of Israel was vpon them on hie.

20 * This is the [i] beast ỹ I saw vnder the God of Israel by the riuer Chebar and I knewe that thei were the Cherubims.

21 Euerie one had foure faces, and euerie one foure wings, and the likenes of mans hands was vnder their wings.

22 And the likenes of their faces was ỹ selfe same faces, which I sawe by the riuer Chebar, and the appearance of the Cherubims was the selfe same, and thei went euerie one straight forwarde.

CHAP. XI.

1 Who thei were that seduced the people of Israel. 5 Against these he prophecieth, shewing them how thei shal be dispersed abroade. 19 The renuing of the heart commeth of God. 21 He threatneth thē that leane vnto their owne counsels.

1 MOreouer, the Spirit lift me vp, & broght me vnto the East gate of the Lords House, ỹ lieth Eastward, and beholde, at the entrie of the gate were fiue, & twentie men: among whome I sawe Iaazaniah the sonne of Azur, & Pelatiah the sonne of Benaiah, the princes of the people.

2 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, these are ỹ men that imagine meschief, & deuise wicked counsel in this citie.

3 For thei say, [a] It is not nere, let vs buylde houses: this citie is the [b] caldron, and we be the flesh.

4 Therefore prophecie against them, sonne of man prophecie.

5 And the Spirit of ỹ Lord fel vpon me, & said vnto me, Speake, Thus saith the Lord, O ye house of Israel, this haue ye said, & I know that which riseth vp of your mindes.

6 Manie haue ye murthered in this citie, & ye haue filled the stretes thereof with the slaine.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Thei that ye haue slaine, and haue layed in ỹ middes of it, thei are [c] the flesh, & this citie is the caldrō, but I wil bring you forthe of the middes of it.

8 Ye haue feared the sworde, and I wil bring a sworde vpon you, saith the Lord God.

9 And I wil bring you out of the middes thereof, and deliuer you into [d] the hands of strangers, and wil execute iudgements a Thus ỹ wicked derided the Prophetes, as though they preached but errors, & therfore gaue them selues ful to their pleasures.

b We shal not be pulled out of Ierusalē, til the houre of our death come as ỹ flesh is not take out of ỹ caldrō til it be sod.

c Contrarie to their vaine cōfidence he sheweth in what sense this citie is the caldron: ỹ is, because of ỹ dead bodies ỹ haue bene murthered therin, & so lie as flesh in the caldron.

d That is, of the Caldeans.

10 Ye shal fall by ỹ sworde, & I wil iudge you in ỹ border of [e] Israel & ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

11 This citie shal not be your caldrō, neither shal ye be the flesh in the middes thereof, but I wil iudge you in the border of Israel.

12 And ye shal knowe that I am ỹ Lord: for ye haue not walked in my statutes, nether executed my iudgemēts, but haue done after the maners of the heathē, that are rounde about you.

13 ¶ And when I prophecied, Pelatiah the sonne of [f] Benaiah dyed: then fel I downe vpon my face & cryed with a loude voice, & said, Ah Lord God, wilt thou then vtterly destroie all the remnant of Israel?

14 Againe the worde of ỹ Lord came vnto me, saying,

15 Sonne of man, thy [g] brethren, euen thy brethren, the mē of thy kindred & all the house of Israel, wholy are thei vnto whome the inhabitans of Ierusalem haue said, Departe ye farre from the Lord: for the land is giuen vs in possession.

16 Therefore say, Thus saith the Lord God, Although I haue cast them farre of among the heathen, and although I haue scattered them among the countreis, yet wil I be to them as a litle [h] Sanctuarie in the countreis where they shal come.

17 Therefore saie, Thus saith the Lord God, I wil gather you againe from ỹ people, & assemble you out of ỹ countreis where ye haue bene scattered, and I wil giue you the land of Israel.

18 And thei shal come thether, & thei shal take awaie all the idoles thereof, and all the abominations thereof from thence.

19 * And I wil giue them one heart, and I wil put a newe spirit within their bowels: & I wil take the [i] stonie heart out of their bodies, & wil giue them an heart of flesh, 20 That thei maie walke in my statutes, & kepe my iudgements, & execute thē: and thei shal be my people, and I wil be their God.

21 But vpon thē whose heart is toward thier idoles, & whose affectiō goeth after their abominations, I wil laie their waie vpon their owne heades, saith the Lord God.

22 ¶ Thē did ỹ Cherubims lift vp their wings, and the wheles besides them, and the glorie of the God of Israel was vpō them on hie.

23 And the glorie of ỹ Lord wēt vp frō the middes of the citie, & stode vpon ỹ mountaine which is toward the East side of the citie.

24 Afterwarde the Spirit toke me vp and broght me in a visiō by the Spirit of God into Caldea to them ỹ were led awaie captiues: so the visiō that I had sene, went vp from me.

25 Thē I declared vnto thē ỹ were [k] led awaie captiues, all ỹ things that ỹ Lord had shewed me.

CHAP. XII.

1 The parable of the captiuitie. 18 Another parable whereby the destres of hunger and thirst is signified.

1 THe worde of ỹ Lord also came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, thou dwellest in ỹ middes of a rebellious house, which haue eyes to se, & se [a] not: thei haue eares to heare, & heare not: for thei are a rebellious house.

3 Therefore thou sonne of mā, [*] prepare thy stuffe to gointo captiuitie & go forthe by daie in their sight: and thou shalt passe from thy place to another place in their sight, if it be possible that thei maie cōsider it: for thei are a rebellious house.

4 Thē shalt thou bring forthe thy stuffe by daie in their sight as the stuffe of him ỹ goeth into captiuitie: & ỹ shalt go forthe at euen in their sight, as thei that go forthe into captiuitie.

5 Dig thou through ỹ wal in their sight, and carie out thereby.

6 In their sight shal thou beare it vpon thy shulders, & carie it forthe in ỹ darke: thou shalt couer thy face that thou se not the earth: for I haue set thee as a [b] signe vnto the house of Israel.

7 And as I was commanded, so I broght forthe my stuffe by day, as ỹ stuffe of one ỹ goeth into captiuitie: & by night I digged through the wall with mine hand, and broght it forthe in the darke and I bare it vpon my shulder in their sight.

8 And in ỹ morning came the worde of ỹ Lord vnto me, saying,

9 Sonne of man, hathe not ỹ house of Israel, ỹ rebellious house, said vnto thee, What [c] doest thou?

10 But saie thou vnto them, Thus saith ỹ Lord God, This [*] burden concerneth the chief in Ierusalem, & all ỹ house of Israel that are among them.

11 Saie, I am your signe: like as I haue done, so shal it be done vnto thē: thei shal go into bondage & captiuitie.

12 And the chiefest ỹ is amōg them, shal beare vpon his shulder in the darke and shal go forthe: thei shal digge through the wall, to carie out thereby: he shal couer his face ỹ he se not the grounde with his eyes.

e That is, in Riblah, read 2. King. 25. 7.

f It semeth that this noble man dyed of some terrible death & therefore the Prophet feared some strange iudgement of God towarde ỹ rest of ỹ people. Thei that remained stil at Ierusalem thus reproched thē ỹ were gone into captiuitie, as though thei were cast of and forsaken of God.

h Thei shalbe yet a litle Church, shewing that the Lord wil euer haue some to call vpon his Name, whome he wil perserue & restore, though thei be for a time afflicted.

Ierem. 32. 39. chap. 36. 27.

i Meaning, the heart wherein to nothing can enter, and regenerat thē a newe, so that their heart may be soft, & ready to receiue my graces.

k When Ieconiah was led awaie captiue.

a That is, thou receiue not the frute of that which thei se & heare.

* Ebr. make thee vessels to go into captiuitie.

b That as thou doest, so shal thei do, and therefore in thee thei shal se their owne plague and punishment.

c Do not thei deride thy doings?

* Or, prophecie

d when ſ King ſhal thinke to eſkape by fleig, I will take him in my net, as Chap.17,20. and 32,3.

13 My net alſo will I ſpread vpon[d] him, and he ſhalbe taken in my net, & I wil bring him to Babel to the land of the Caldeans, yet ſhal he not ſe it, thogh he ſhal dye there.

14 And I will ſcatter towarde euerie winde all that are about him to helpe him, and all his gariſons, and I wil drawe out the ſworde after them.

15 And thei ſhal knowe that I am the Lord, when I ſhal ſcatter them among the nacions, & diſperſe them in the countreis.

e Which ſhulde beare his Name and ſhuld be his Churche, read Chap.11,16.

16 But I will leaue a [e]litle nombre of thē from the ſworde, from ſ famine, & from the peſtilence, that thei may declare all theſe abominations amōg the heathen, where thei come, and thei ſhal knowe, that I am the Lord.

17 ¶Moreouer, the worde of the Lord came vnto me ſaying,

18 Sonne of man, eat thy bread with trēbling, and drinke thy water with trouble, & with carefulnes, 19 And ſay vnto the people of the land, Thus ſaith the Lord God of the inhabitants of Ieruſalem, and of the land of Iſrael, Thei ſhal eat their bread with carefulnes, and drinke their water with deſolation: for the land ſhalbe deſolate from her abundance becauſe of ſ crueltie of them that dwell therein.

20 And the cities that are inhabited, ſhalbe left voide, & the land ſhalbe deſolate, and ye ſhal knowe that I am the Lord.

21 ¶And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, ſaying, 22 Sonne of man, what is that prouerbe that you haue in the land of Iſrael, ſaying, The daies[f] are prolonged and all viſions[g] faile?

f Becauſe thei did not immediately ſe the prophecies accompliſhed, thei cōtemned them as thogh thei ſhulde neuer be fulfilled.

23 Tel them therefore, Thus ſaith the Lord God, I wil make this prouerbe to ceaſe, and thei ſhal no more vſe it as a prouerbe in Iſrael: but ſay vnto them, The dayes are at hand & the effect of euerie viſion.

*Or, take none effect.

24 For no viſion ſhalbe any more in vaine nether ſhal there be anie flattering diuinacion within the houſe of Iſrael.

25 For I am ſ Lord: I wil ſpeake, & that thing that I ſhal ſpeake, ſhal come to paſſe: it ſhalbe no more prolonged: for in your daies, ô rebellious houſe, wil I ſay the thing, & wil performe it, ſaith the Lord God.

26 Againe the worde of the Lord came vnto me, ſaying, g That is, it ſhal not come to paſſe in our daies, & therefore we care not for it: thus ſ wicked euer abuſe Gods patience & benignitie.

27 Sonne of man, beholde, thei of ſ houſe of Iſrael ſay, The viſiō that he ſeeth, is for [g]many daies to come, & he prophecieth of the times that are far of.

28 Therefore ſay vnto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, All my wordes ſhal no longer be delayed, but that thing which I haue ſpoken, ſhalbe done, ſaith the Lord God.

CHAP. XIII.

2 The worde of the Lord againſt falſe prophetes, which teache the people the counſels of their owne hearts.

1 AND the worde of ſ Lord came vnto me, ſaying,

2 Sonne of man, prophecie againſt the Prophetes of[a] Iſrael, that prophecie, and ſay thou vnto them, that prophecie out of their[a] owne hearts, Heare the worde of the Lord.

Chap.14.5.

a After their owne fantaſie, and not as hauing ſ reuelation of ſ Lord. Iere.23,16.

3 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Wo vnto ſ foliſh prophetes that follow their owne ſpirit, and haue ſene nothing.

4 O Iſrael, thy Prophetes are like the foxes [b]in the waſte places.

b Watching to deſtroie the vineyarde.

5 [c]Ye haue not riſen vp in the gappes, nether made vp the hedge for the houſe of Iſrael, to ſtand in the battel in the day of the Lord.

c He ſpeaketh to ſ gouernours & true miniſters ſ ſhulde haue reſiſted them.

6 Thei haue ſene vanitie, & lying diuination, ſaying The Lord ſaith it, & the Lord hathe not ſent them: & thei haue made others to hope that thei wolde confirme the worde of their prophecie.

7 Haue ye not ſene a vaine viſion? and haue ye not ſpoken a lying[a] diuination: [d]ye ſay, The Lord ſaith it, albeit I haue not ſpoken.

d Ye promiſed peace to this people: & now ye ſe their deſtruction, ſo ſ it is manifeſt, that ye are falſe prophetes.

8 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe ye haue ſpoken vanitie & haue ſene lies, therefore beholde, I am againſt you, ſaith the Lord God, 9 And mine hand ſhal be vpon the Prophetes that ſe vanitie, & diuine lies: thei ſhal not be in the aſſemblie of my people, nether ſhal thei be written in the [e]writing of the houſe of Iſrael, nether ſhal thei entre into the land of Iſrael: and ye ſhal knowe that I am the Lord God.

e That is, in ſ boke of life, wherein ſ true Iſraelites are writen.

10 And therefore, becauſe thei haue deceiued my people, ſaying, [f]Peace, and there was no peace: & one buyld vp a [g]wall, & beholde, the others daubed it with vntempered morter, f Read Ierem. 6,14.

11 Say vnto them which dawbe it with vntempered morter, that it ſhal fal: for there ſhal come a great ſhowre, & I wil ſend haile ſtones, which ſhal cauſe it to fall, & a ſtormie winde ſhal breake it.

g Where as the true prophetes prophecied the deſtruction of ſ citie to bring ſ people to repētance, the falſe Prophetes ſpake ſ contrarie & flattered thē in their vanities, ſo ſ what one falſe prophet ſaid, Cwis here called the buylding of the wall) an other falſe prophet wold affirme, thogh he had nether occaſion nor good grounde to beare him.

12 Lo, when the wall is fallen, ſhal it not be ſaid vnto you, Where is the dawbing wherewith ye haue dawbed it?

13 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, I wil cauſe a ſtormie winde to breake forthe in my wrath, & a great ſhowre ſhalbe in mine angre & haile ſtones in mine indignation to conſume it.

14 So I wil deſtroy the wall that ye haue dawbed with vntempered morter, and bring bring it downe to the grounde, so that the fundacio thereof shalbe discouered, & it shal fall, & ye shal be consumed in the middes thereof, & ye shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

15 Thus wil I accomplish my wrath vpon the wall, and vpon them that haue dawbed it with h vntempered morter, & wil say vnto you, The wall is no more, nether the dawbers thereof.

16 To wit, the Prophetes of Israel, which prophecie vpon Ierusalem, and se visions of peace for it, and there is no peace, saith the Lord God.

17 Like wise thou sonne of man, set thy face against the daughters of thy people, which prophecie out of their owne heart: and prophecie thou against them, and say,

18 Thus saith the Lord God, Wo vnto the women that sowe i pillowes vnder all arme holes, and make vailes vpon ỹ head of euerie one that standeth vp, to hũt soules: wil ye hunt the soules of my people, & wil ye giue life to the soules that come vnto you?

19 And wil ye pollute me amõg my people for handfuls of k barlie, & for pieces of bread to slay the soules of them ỹ shulde not dye, & l to giue life to ỹ soules that shulde not liue in lying to my people, that heare your lies?

20 Wherefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I wil haue to do with your pillowes, wherewith ye hunt the m soules to make them to flie, and I wil teare them from your armes, & wil let the soules go, euen the soules, that ye hunt to make them to flie.

21 Your vailes also wil I teare, and deliuer my people out of your hand, and thei shal be no more in your handes to be hunted, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

22 Because with your lyes ye haue made the heart of the n righteous sad, whome I haue not made sad, & strengthened ỹ hands of the wicked, that he shulde not returne from his wicked way, by promising him life, 23 Therefore ye shal se no more vanitie, nor diuine diuinations: for I wil deliuer my people out of your hand, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

h Whereby is ment whatsoeuer man of him selfe setteth forthe vnder ỹ autoritie of Gods worde.

i These superstitions women for lucre wolde prophecie & tel euerie man his fortune, giuing them pillowes to leane vpon & kercheefes to couer their heades, to the intẽt they might the more allure thẽ & bewitch thẽ.

k Wil ye make my worde to serue your belies?

l These sorcerers made the people beleue ỹ they colde preserue life or destroy it, & that it shulde come to euerie one according as thei prophecied

m That is, to cause them to perish, & ỹ thei shulde departe from the body.

n By threatening them that were godly, & vpholding the wicked.

CHAP. XIIII.

The Lord sendeth false prophetes for the ingratitude of the people. 22 He reserueth a smale portion for his Church.

Chap. XIIII: a He sheweth ỹ hypocrisie of ỹ idolaters, who wil dissemble no heare ỹ prophetes of God thogh in their heart thei follow nothing lesse, tho their admonitions, and also how by one meanes, or other God doeth discouer thẽ

1 THen came certeine of the Elders of Israel vnto me, and a sate before me.

2 And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

3 Sonne of man, these men haue set vp their idoles in their b heart, & put ỹ stubling blocke of their iniquitie before their face: shulde I, being required, answer them?

b Thei are not only idolaters in heart, but also worship their filthie idoles openly, ẅ lead them in blindnes, & cause thẽ to stũble, & cast them out of Gods fauour, so that he wil not heare thẽ, when thei call vnto him, read Iere. 10, 15.

4 Therefore speake vnto them, and say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Euerie man of the house of Israel ỹ setteth vp his idoles in his heart, & putteth the stumbling blocke of his iniquitie before his face, and cometh to the c Prophet, I ỹ Lord wil answer him, that cometh according to the multitude d of his idoles:

c To inquire of things which ỹ Lord hathe appointed to come to passe.

d As his abominatiõ hathe deserued: ỹ is, he shal be led with lies according as he delited therein 2. Thes. 2, 10.

5 That e I may take the house of Israel in their owne heart, because thei are all departed from me through their idoles.

e That is, conuince them by their owne cõscience.

6 Therefore say vnto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, Returne, and withdrawe your selues, and turne your faces from your idoles, and turne your faces from all your abominacions.

7 For euerie one of the house of Israel, or of the stranger that soiourneth in Israel, which departeth from me, and setteth vp his idoles in his heart, and putteth the stumbling blocke of his iniquitie before his face, and cometh to a Prophete, for to inquire of him for me, I the Lord wil answer him f for my selfe, f Or, by my self.

8 And I wil set my face against that man, and wil make him an example and prouerbe, and I wil cut him off from ỹ middes of my people, & ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

9 And if the Prophet be g deceiued, whẽ he hathe spoken a thing, I the Lord haue deceiued that Prophet, & I wil stretche out mine hand vpon him, and wil destroy him from ỹ middes of my people of Israel.

f The Prophet declareth that God for mans ingratitude raiseth vp false Prophetes to seduce them ỹ delite in lies rather then in the trueth of God, & thus he punisheth sinne by sinne, 1. King. 22, 20. & destroieth aswel those prophetes as that people.

10 And thei shal beare their punishmẽt: the punishment of the Prophet shalbe euen as the punishement of him that asketh, 11 That the house of h Israel may go no more astray from me, nether be polluted any more with all their transgressions, but that thei may be my people, and I may be their God, saith the Lord God.

g Thus Gods iudgements against the wicked are admonicions to the godlie to cleaue vnto ỹ Lord, and not to defile them selues with like abominations.

h Read Cha. 4, 16. & 5, 17. Isa. 3, 1.

12 ¶ The worde of the Lord came agai-ne vnto me, saying,

13 Sonne of man, when the land sinneth against me by committing a trespas, then wil I stretche out mine hand vpon it, i and wil breake the staffe of the bread thereof, and wil send famine vpon it, and I wil destroy man and beast forthe of it.

i Thogh Noah and Iob were now aliue, ẅ in their time were moste godlie men (for at this time Daniel was in captiuitie with Ezekiel) and so these thre together shulde pray for this wicked people, yet wolde I not heare them, read Iere. 15, 1.

14 Thogh these thre men Noah, Daniel, and Iob were among them, thei shulde deliuer but their owne soules by their righteousnes, saith the Lord God.

k Meaning that a very fewe (whe calleth the remnāt, ver. 22.) shulde escape these plagues whome God hathe sanctified & made righteous so ỹ this righteousnes is a signe ỹ thei are ỹ Church of God, whome he wolde preserue for his owne sake.

15 If I bring noisome beasts into ỹ land and thei spoile it, so that it be desolate, that no man may passe through, because of beastes, 16 Thogh these thre men were in ỹ middes thereof, As I liue, saith ỹ Lord God, thei shal saue nether sonnes nor daughters: thei onely shalbe deliuered, but the land shalbe waste.

17 Or if I bring a sworde vpon this lād, & say, Sworde, go through the land, so that I destroy man and beast out of it, 18 Though these thre men were in ỹ middes thereof, As I liue, saith ỹ Lord God, thei shal deliuer nether sonnes nor daughters, but they onely shalbe deliuered them selues.

19 Or if I send a pestilence into this lād, & powre out my wrath vpō it in blood, to destroye out of it man and beast, 20 And thogh Noah, Daniel and Iob were in the middes of it, As I liue, saith the Lord God, they shal deliuer nether sonne nor daughter: they shal but deliuer their owne soules by their righteousnes.

21 For thus saith the Lord God, How muche more when I send my *foure sore iudgemēts vpon Ierusalem, euen ỹ sworde, and famine, and the noisome beast & pestilence to destroy man & beast out of it?

Chap. 5, 17.

4 sore iudgements.

22 Yet beholde, therein shalbe left a remnant of them that shalbe caryed away bothe sonnes & daughters: beholde, thei shal come forthe vnto you, & ye shal se their way, and their enterprises: and ye shalbe comforted, concerning the euil that I haue broght vpon Ierusalem, euen concerning all that I haue broght vpon it.

a Read Cha. 5, 3.

23 And they shal comforte you, when ye se their way and their entreprises: and ye shal knowe, ỹ I haue not done without cause all that I haue done in it, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XV.

As the vnprofitable wood of the vine tre is cast into the fyre, so Ierusalem shalbe burnt.

AND the worde of ỹ Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, what cometh of the vine tre aboue all other trees? and of ỹ vine branche, which is among a the trees of the foreste?

a Which bringeth forthe no frute, no more thē ỹ other trees of ỹ foreste do: meaning, that if Ierusalē, which bare ỹ name of his Church, did not bring forthe frute, it shulde be vtterly destroied.

3 Shal wood be taken thereof to do any worke? or wil men take a pyn of it to hang any vessel thereon?

4 Beholde, it is cast in the fyre to be cōsumed: the fyre consumeth both the ends of it, & the middes of it is burnt. Is it mete for any worke?

5 Beholde, when it was whole, it was mete for no worke: how muche lesse shal it be mete for any worke, when the fyre hathe consumed it, and it is burnt?

6 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, As the vine tre, that is among the trees of the foreste, ỹ I haue giuen to ỹ fyre to be consumed, so wil I giue the inhabitants of Ierusalem.

7 And I wil set my face against them: they shal go out from me b fyre, & another fyre shal consume them: & ye shal knowe, that I am the Lord, when I set my face against them, b Thogh they escape one danger, yet another shal take them.

8 And when I make the land waste, because they haue greatly offended, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XVI.

The Prophet declareth the benefites of God toward Ierusalem. 15 Their vnkindnes. 46 He iustifieth the wickednes of other people in comparison of the sinnes of Ierusalem. 49 The cause of ỹ abominacios, into which the Sodomites fel. 60 Mercie is promised to the repentant.

1 AGaine, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, cause Ierusalem to knowe her abominacions,

3 And say, Thus saith the Lord God vnto Ierusalem, Thine habitacion and thy kinred is of the land a of Canaan: thy father was an Amorite, & thy mother an Hittite.

a Thou boastest to be of ỹ sede of Abrahā, but thou art degenerate & followest ỹ abominacions of the wicked Canaanites, as children do ỹ maners of their fathers, Isa. 1, 4. & 57, 3.

4 And in thy natiuitie when thou wast b borne, thy nauel was not cut: thou wast not washed in water to soften thee: thou wast not salted with salt, nor swadeled in cloutes.

b When I first broght thee out of Egypt, and planted thee in this land to be my Church.

5 None eye pitied thee to do any of these vnto thee, for to haue compassiō vpon thee, but thou wast cast out in the open field to the contempt of thy persone in the day that thou wast borne.

c Being thus in thy filthines & forsaken of all mē, I toke thee & gaue thee life: whereby is ment ỹ before God wash his Church, & giue life, there is nothing, but filthines & death.

6 And whē I passed by thee, I sawe thee polluted in thine c owne blood, and I said vnto thee, when thou wast in thy blood, Thou shalt liue: euen when thou wast in thy blood, I said vnto thee, Thou shalt liue.

7 I haue caused thee to multiplie, as the bud of the field, & thou hast increased, & waxen great, & thou hast gotten excellent ornaments: thy brests are facioned: thine heere is growē, where as thou wast naked and bare.

d These wordes, as blood, pollucion, nakednes and filthines are oft times repeted, to beate downe their pride, and to cause them to cōsider what thei were before God receiued thē to mercie, fauoured them & couered their shame.

8 Now when I passed by thee, and loked vpon thee, beholde, thy time was as the time of loue, & I spred my skirtes ouer thee, and couered d thy filthines: yea, I sware vnto thee, & entred into a couenant with e thee, saith the Lord God,

God, and thou becamest mine.

9 Then washed I thee with[f] water: yea, I washed away thy blood from thee, & I[g] anointed thee with oyle.

10 I clothed thee also with broydred worke, and shod thee with badgers skinne: and I girded thee about with fine linē, & I couered thee with silke.

11 I decked thee also with ornaments, & I put brasselets vpon thine hands, & a chaine on thy necke.

12 And I put a frontelet vpon thy face, & earings in thine eares, & a beautiful[h] crowne vpon thine head.

13 Thus wast thou deckt with golde and siluer, and thy raiment was of fine linē, and silke, & broydered worke: thou didest eat fine floure, and hony, and oyle, & thou wast very beautiful, and thou didest growe vp into a kingdome.

14 And thy name was spred among the heathē for thy beautie: for it was perfite through my[i] beautie which I had set vpon thee saith the Lord God.

15 Now thou didest[k] trust in thine owne beautie, and plaied the harlot, because of thy renome, and hast powred out[l] thy fornicacions on euery one that passed by, thy desire was to him.

16 And thou didest take thy garments, & deckt thine hie places with diuers colours,[m] & plaied the harlot there vpon: the like things shal not come, neither hathe anie done so.

17 Thou hast also takē thy faire iewels made of my golde and of my siluer, which I had giuen thee, &[n] madest to thy self images of men, and didest cōmit whoredome with them.

18 And toke thy broidered garments, & couered them: and thou hast set mine oyle & my perfume before them.

19 My meat also, which I gaue thee, as fine floure, oyle, & hony, where with I fed thee, thou hast euen set it before thē for a swete sauour: thus it was, saith the Lord God.

20 Moreouer thou hast takē thy sonnes & thy daughters, whome ye hast borne vnto me, & these hast thou sacrificed vnto them, to[o] be deuoured: is this thy whoredome a smale matter?

21 That thou hast sleyne my children, & deliuered them to cause thē to passe through fyre for them?

22 And in all thine abominacions and whoredomes thou hast not remembred the daies of thy youth, when thou wast naked and bare, & wast polluted in thy blood.

23 And beside all thy wickednes (wo, wo vnto thee, saith the Lord God)

24 Thou hast also buylt vnto thee an hie place, and hast made thee an hie place in euery strete.

25 Thou hast buylt thine hie place at euery corner of ye way, & hast made thy beautie to be abhorred: thou hast opened thy fete to euery one that passed by, & multiplied thy whoredome.

26 Thou hast also committed fornication with the[p] Egyptians thy neighbours, which haue great members, and hast encreased thy whoredome, to prouoke me.

27 Beholde, therefore I did stretch out mine hand ouer thee, and wil diminish thine ordinarye, and deliuer thee vnto the wil of them that hate thee, euen to the[q] daughters of the Philistims, which are ashamed of thy wicked way.

28 Thou hast played the whore also with the Assyrians, because thou wast insatiable: yea, thou hast played the harlot with them, and yet coldest not be satisfied.

29 Thou hast moreouer multiplied thy fornicacion from the land of Canaan vnto Caldea, & yet thou wast not satisfied herewith.

30 How weake is thine heart, saith the Lord God, seing thou doest all these things euē ye worke of a[u] presumpteous whorish woman?

31 In that thou buyldest thine hie place in the corner of euery way, and makest thine hie place in euery strete, & hast not bene as an harlot[q] that despiseth a rewarde.

32 But as a wife that plaieth ye harlot, & taketh others for her housband:

33 Thei giue giftes to all other whores, but ye giuest giftes vnto all thy louers, & rewardest them, that they may come vnto thee on euery side for thy fornicacion.

34 And the contrary is in thee frō other women in thy fornicacions, nether the like fornicacion shalbe after thee: for in that thou gauest a reward, & no reward is giuen vnto thee, therefore thou art contrary.

35 Wherefore, ô harlot, heare the worde of the Lord.

36 Thus saith ye Lord God, Because thy [t]shame was powred out, & thy filthines discouered through thy fornicacions with thy louers, and with all the idoles of thine abominacions & by the blood of thy children, which thou didest, offre vnto them, 37 Beholde, therefore I wil gather all[r] thy louers, with whome thou hast takē pleasure, & all them that thou hast loued, with all them that thou hast hated: I wil euen gather them rounde about against thee, & wil discouer thy filthines vnto them that thei may se all thy filthines.

38 And I wil iudge thee after the maner of them that are[s] harlots, and of them that shead blood, & I wil giue thee f I washed away thy sinnes.

g I sanctified thee with mine holy Spirit.
h Hereby he sheweth how he saued his Church enriched it & gaue it power & dominion to reigne.
i He declareth wherein the dignitie of Ierusalem stode: to wit, in that that the Lord gaue them of his beautie and excellencie.
k In abusing my giftes and in putting thy confidence in thine owne wisdome and dignitie, which were the occasions of thine idolatrie.
l There was none idolatrie so vile wherewith thou didest not pollute thy self.
m This declareth how the idolaters put their chief delite in those things, which please ye eies, & outwarde sēses n Thou hast cōuerted my vessels & instruments, which I gaue thee to serue me with, to the vse of thine idoles.
o Meaning, by fyre, read Leu. 18, 21. 1. king. 23, 10.

Or, head.

p He noteth ye great impietie of this people who first falling from God to seke helpe at strange nacions, did also at length imbrace their idolatrie, thinking thereby to make them amitie more strong.

Or, cities.

Or, that wil beare rule.

q Meaning, ye some harlots contemne smale rewardes, but no louers gaue a reward to Israel, but thei gaue to all others: signifying that ye idolaters bestowe all their substance, & thei receiue of God for his glorie, to serue their vile abominacions.

Or, nether parties.

r Egyptians, Assyrians & Caldeans, who me thou toke to be thy louers, shal come and destroy thee, Chap 23. 9.

s I wil iudge thee to death, as the adulterers & murtherers.

the blood of wrath & ielousie.

39 I wil also giue thee into their hands, & they shal destroy thine hie place, and shal breake downe thine hie places: they shal strippe thee also out of thy clothes, & shal take thy faire iewels, & leaue thee naked and bare.

40 They shal also bring vp a companie against thee, and they shal stone thee w stones, & thrust thee through with their swordes.

2. King. 25. 9. 41 And thei * shal burne vp thine houses with fyre, & execute iudgements vpon thee in the sight of many women: and I wil cause thee to cease from playing the harlot, and thou shalt giue no reward any more.

t I wil vtterly destroy thee & so my ielousy shal cease.

42 So wil I make my wrath toward thee to rest, & my t ielousie shal departe from thee, & I wil cease and be no more angrie.

43 Because ỹ hast not remẽbred the daies of thy youth, but hast prouoked me with all these things, beholde, therefore I also haue v broght thy way vpon thine head, saith the Lord God: yet hast not thou had consideracion of all thine abominacions.

v I haue punished thy fautes, but ỹ woldest not repent.

44 Beholde, all that vse prouerbes, shal vse this prouerbe against thee, saying, As is the mother, x so is her daughter.

x As were the Canaanites & ỹ Hittites & others your predecessors, so are you their successors.

y That is, of Samaria and Sodom.

z That is, her cities.

" Ebr. thy sister yonger thẽ thou.

47 Yet hast thou a not walked after their waies, nor done after their abominations: but as it had bene a very litle thing, thou wast corrupted more thẽ thei in all thy waies.

a But done farre worse.

48 As I liue, saith the Lord God, Sodom thy sister hathe not done, nether she nor her daughters, as thou hast done & thy daughters.

b He alledgeth these foure vices, pride, excesse, idlenes and contempt of ỹ poore, as foure principal causes of suche abomination, wherefore they were so horribly punished, Ge. 19. 24.

49 Beholde, this was ỹ iniquitie of thy sister Sodom, b Pride, fulnes of bread, and abundance of idlenes was in her, and in her daughters: nether did she strengthen the hand of the poore and nedie.

c Which worshipped ỹ calues in Bethel and Dan.

50 But thei were hautie, and cõmitted abomination before me: therefore I toke thẽ away, as pleased me.

d Thou art so wicked, that in respect of thee Sodom & Samaria were iuste.

51 Nether c hathe Samaria committed halfe of thy sinnes, but thou hast exceded thẽ in thine abominacions, & hast d iustified thy sisters in all thine abominacions, which thou hast done.

52 Therefore thou which hast iustified thy sisters, beare thine owne shame for thy sinnes, that thou hast cõmitted more abominable thẽ thei which are more righteous then thou art: be thou therefore confounded also, and beare thy shame, seing that thou hast iustified thy sisters.

53 Therefore I wil bring againe e their captiuitie with the captiuitie of Sodom, & her daughters, and with the captiuitie of Samaria, & her daughters: euen the captiuitie of thy captiues in ỹ middes of them, e This he speaketh in comparison, saying, ỹ he wolde restore Ierusalem when Sodom shulde be restored, ỹ is neuer: & this is mẽt of the grateste parte of the Iewes.

54 That thou maiest beare thine owne shame, and maist be confounded in all that thou hast done, in that thou hast f comforted them.

f In that thou hast shewed thy self worse then they, and yet thoghtest to escape punishement.

55 And thy sister Sodom and her daughters shal returne to their former state: Samaria also & her daughters shal returne to their former state, g whẽ thou & thy daughters shal returne to your former state.

g Meaning, ỹ it shulde neuer come to passe.

56 For thy sister Sodom " was not heard of h by thy report in the day of thy pride.

" Ebr. was not a rumour in thy mouth.

57 Before thy wickednes was i discouered, as in that same time of the reproche of the daughters of Aram, and of all ỹ daughters of the Philistims round about k her which despise thee on all sides.

h Thou woldest not call her punishement to mynde when thou wast aloft, to learne by her example to feare my iudgements.

58 Thou hast borne therefore thy wickednes and thine abominacion, saith the Lord.

i That is, til ỹ wast broght vnder by the Syrians & Philistims, 2. Chro. 28, 19.

59 For thus saith the Lord God, I might euen deale with thee, as thou hast done: when thou didest despise the l othe, in breaking the couenant.

k Which ioyned with the Syrians, or compassed about Ierusalem.

60 Neuertheles, I wil m remember my couenant made with thee in the daies of thy youth, and I wil confirme vnto thee an euerlasting couenant.

l When thou brakest the couenant, which was made betwene thee & me, as vers. 8.

61 Then thou shalt remembre thy waies, & be ashamed, when thou shalt receiue n thy sisters, both thy elder & thy yonger, and I wil giue them vnto thee for daughters, but not o by thy couenant.

m That is, of mercie and loue I wil pitie thee, & so stand to my couenãt, thogh thou hast deserued the contrary.

62 And I wil establish my couenãt with thee, and thou shalt knowe that I am the Lord.

63 That thou maist remembre, and be p ashamed, and neuer open thy mouthe any more: because of thy shame when I am pacified toward thee, for all that thou hast done, saith the Lord God.

n Whereby he sheweth ỹ amõg the most wicked he had euer some sede of his Church which he wolde cause to fructifie in due tyme: & here he declareth how he wil call ỹ Gentiles.

o But of my free mercie.

p This declareth what frutes Gods mercies worke in his, to wit, sorow and repentance for their former life.

CHAP. XVII.

The parable of the two eglet.

1 And

1 AND the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,
2 Sonne of man, put forthe a parable & speake a prouerbe vnto ỹ house of Israel.
3 And say, Thus saith the Lord God, The great[a] egle with great wings, and long wings, & ful of fethers, which had diuers colours, came vnto Lebanon, and toke the hiest branche of the cedre,
4 And brake of ỹ toppe of his twigge, & caried it into ỹ land [b] of merchants, & set it in a citie of marchants.
5 He toke also of the [c] sede of the land, and planted it in a fruteful grounde: he placed it by great waters, and set it as a willow tre.
6 And it budded vp, & was[d] like a spreading vine of [e] lowe stature, whose branches turned toward it, & ỹ rootes thereof were vnder it: so it became a vine, & it broght forthe branches, and shot forthe buds.
7 There was also [f] another great egle [g] great wings, & many fethers, & beholde, this vine did turne her rootes toward it, & spred forthe her branches to ward it that she might water it by the trenches of her plantacion.
8 It was plãted in a good soile by great [g] waters, ỹ it shulde bring forthe branches, & beare frute, and be an excellent vine.
9 Say thou, Thus saith the Lord God, Shal it prosper? shal [h] he not pul vp the rootes thereof, and destroy the frute thereof, and cause them to drye? all the leaues of her bud shal wither without great power, or many people, to plucke it vp by the rootes thereof.
10 Beholde, it was planted: but shal it prosper? shal it not be dryed vp, and wither?[i] when the East winde shal touche it, it shal wither in the trenches, where it grewe.
11 Moreouer, the worde of ỹ Lord came vnto me, saying,
12 Say now to this rebellious house, Knowe ye not, what these things meane? tel them, Beholde, the King of Babel is come to Ierusalem, and hathe taken [k] the King thereof, and the princes thereof, & led them with him to Babel.
13 And hathe taken one of the Kings sede, and made a couenant with him, and hathe taken [l] an othe of him: he hathe also taken the princes of the land, 14 That ỹ kingdome might be in subiection, and not lift it self vp, but kepe their couenant, and stand to it.
15 But he rebelled against him, and sent his ambassadours into Egypt, that thei might giue him horses, & muche people: shal he prospere? shal he escape, ỹ doeth suche things? or shal he breake the couenant, & be deliuered?
16 As I liue, saith the Lord God, he shal dye in the middes of Babel, in ỹ place of the King, that had made him King, whose othe he despised, & whose couenant made with him, he brake.
17 Nether shal Pharaoh with his mightie hoste, and great multitude of people, mainteine him in the warre, when thei haue cast vp mounts, & buylded ramparts to destroy many persones.
18 For he hathe despised the othe, & broken the couenant (yet lo, he had giuen [m] his hand) because he hathe done all these things, he shal not escape.
19 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God, As I liue, I wil surely bring mine othe that he hathe despised, and my couenant that he hathe brokẽ, vpon his owne head.
20 *And I wil spread my net vpõ him, & he shalbe taken in my net, & I wil bring him to Babel, and wil entre into iudgement with him there for his trespas that he hathe committed against me.
21 And all that fle from him with all his hoste, shal fall by the sworde, & thei ỹ remaine, shal be scatered toward all the windes: and ye shal knowe that I the Lord haue spoken it.
22 Thus saith the Lord God, I wil also take of the toppe [n] of this hie cedre, & wil set it, and cut of the [o] toppe of the tendre plante thereof, and I wil plante it vpon an hie mountaine and great.

2 He sheweth that euerie man shal beare his owne synne. 21 To him that amendeth, is saluacion promised. 24 Death is prophecied to the righteous, which turneth backe from the right waye.

1 THE worde of the Lord came vnto me againe, saying,

3 As I liue, saith the Lord God, ye shal vse this prouerbe no more in Israel.

4 Beholde, all soules are mine, bothe the soule of the father, and also the soule of the sonne are mine: ỹ soule that sinneth, it shal dye.

5 But if a man be iust, and do that which is lawful, and right,

6 And hathe not eaten [b] vpon the mountaines, nether hathe lift vp his eyes to the idoles of the house of Israel, nether hathe defiled his neighbours wife, nether hathe "lien with a * menstruous woman,

7 Nether hathe oppressed any, but hathe restored the pledge to his dettour: he that hathe spoiled none by violence, but hathe giuen his bread to the hungrie, & hathe couered the naked with a garment,

8 And hathe not giuen forthe vpon *vsurie, nether hathe taken any increase, but hathe withdrawen his hand frō iniquitie, and hathe executed true iudgement betwene man and man,

9 And hathe walked in my statutes, and hathe kept my iudgements to deale truely, he is iuste, he shal surely liue, saith the Lord God.

10 ¶ If he beget a sonne, that is a thief, or a sheader of blood, if he do any one of these things,

11 Thogh he do not all these things, but ether hathe eaten vpon the mountaines, or defiled his neighbours wife,

12 Or hathe oppressed the poore & nedy, or hathe spoiled by violence, or hathe not restored the pledge, or hathe lift vp his eyes vnto the idoles, or hathe committed abomination,

13 Or hathe giuen forthe vpon vsurie, or hathe takē increase, shal he liue? he shal not liue: seing he hathe done all these abominacions, [c] he shal dye the death, & his blood shalbe vpon him.

14 ¶ But if he beget a sonne, that seeth all his fathers sinnes, ẅ he hathe done, and feareth, nether doeth suche like,

15 That hathe not eaten vpon the mountaines, nether hathe lift vp his eyes to the idoles of ỹ house of Israel, nor hathe defiled his neighbours wife,

16 Nether hathe oppressed anie, nor hathe withholden the pledge, nether hathe spoiled by violence, but hathe giuē his bread to the hungrie, and hathe couered the naked with a garment,

17 Nether hathe withdrawen his hand from the afflicted, nor receiued vsurie nor increase, but hathe executed my iudgements, & hathe walked in my statutes, he shal not dye in the iniquitie of his father, but he shal surely liue.

18 His father, because he cruelly oppressed and spoiled his brother by violence, and hathe not done good among his people, lo, euen he dyeth in his iniquitie.

19 Yet saye ye, Wherefore shal not the sonne beare the iniquitie of the father? because the sonne hathe executed iudgement and iustice, and hathe kept all my statutes, and done them, he shal surely liue.

20 * The same soule that sinneth, shal dye: the sonne shal not beare the iniquitie of the father, nether shal the father beare the iniquitie of the sonne, but the righteousnes of ỹ righteous shalbe vpon him, and the wickednes of the wicked shalbe vpon him self.

21 But if the wicked wil returne from all his sinnes that he hathe committed, and kepe all my [d] statutes, and do ỹ which is lawful & right, he shal surely liue, & shal not dye.

22 All his transgressions that he hathe committed, thei shal not be [e] mencioned vnto him, but in his [e] righteousnes that he hathe done, he shal liue.

23 [f] Haue I anie desire that the wicked shulde dye, saith the Lord God? "or shal he not liue, if he returne from his waies?

24 But if the righteous turne awaie frō his righteousnes, and commit iniquitie, & do according to all ỹ abominacions, that the wicked man doeth, shal he liue? all his [g] righteousnes that he hathe done, shal not be mencioned: but in his transgression that he hathe committed, & in his sinne that he hathe sinned, in them shal he dye.

25 Yet ye saie, The waie of the Lord is not [h] equal: heare now, ô house of Israel. Is not my waie equal? or are not your waies vnequal?

26 For when a righteous man turneth awaie from his righteousnes, and committeth iniquitie, he shal euen dye for ỹ same, he shal euen dye for his iniquitie that he hathe done.

27 Againe when the wicked turneth away from his wickednes that he hathe committed, and doeth that which is lawful and right, he shal saue his soule aliue.

28 Because he considereth, & turneth awaie from all his transgressions that he hathe committed, he shal surely liue and shal not dye.

29 Yet saith the house of Israel, The waie of the Lord is not equal. O house of Israel, are not my waies equal? or are not your waies vnequal?

30 Therefore I wil iudge you, ô house of Israel, euerie one according to his waies, saith the Lord God: returne therefore and cause others to turne awaie from all

3 The Lord denieth that he wil answer thē when thei praie because of their vnkindenes. 33. He promiseth that his people shal returne frō captiuitie. 46 By the forest that shulde be burnt, is signified the burning of Ieruſalem.

11 And I gaue them my statutes, & declared my iudgements vnto thē, * which if a man do, he shal liue in them.
12 Moreouer I gaue thē also my * Sabbaths to be a signe betwene me and thē, ſ thei might knowe that I am ſ Lord, that sanctifie them.
13 But ſ house of Israel rebelled against me in the wildernes: thei walked not in my statutes, and thei cast awaie my iudgements, which if a man do, he shal liue in them, and my Sabbaths haue thei greatly polluted: then I thoght to powre out mine indignation vpon them * in the wildernes to consume them,
14 But I had respect to g my Name, that it shulde not be polluted before ſ heathen in whose sight I broght them out.
15 Yet neuertheles, I lift vp mine hand vnto them in the wildernes that I wolde not bring them into the land, which I had giuen them, flowing with milke & hony, which was pleasant aboue all lands, 16 Because thei cast awaie my iudgemēts, and walked not in my statutes, but haue polluted my h Sabbaths: for their heart went after their idoles.
17 Neuertheles, mine eye spared thē, that I wolde not destroye them, nether wolde I consume them in the wildernes.
18 But I said vnto their children in the wildernes, Walke ye not in the ordinances of your i fathers, nether obserue their maners, nor defile your selues with their idoles.
19 I am ſ Lord your God: walke in my statutes, & kepe my iudgemēts & do thē, 21 Notwithstanding the children rebelled against me: thei walked not in my statutes, nor kept my iudgements to do thē, which if a man do, he shal liue in them, but thei polluted my Sabbaths: then I thoght to powre out mine indignation vpon them, & to accomplish my wrath against them in the wildernes.

22 Neuertheles I withdrewe mine hand and had respect to my Name that it shulde not be polluted before the heathen, in whose sight I broght them forthe.
23 Yet I lift vp mine hand vnto thē in ſ wildernes, that I wolde scatter them among the heathen, and disperse them through the countreis.
24 Because thei had not executed my iudgements, but had cast awaie my statutes & had polluted my Sabbaths, and their eyes were after k their fathers idoles.
25 Wherefore I l gaue them also statutes ſ were not good, & iudgemēts, wherein they shulde not liue.
26 And I polluted thē in their owne m giftes in that they caused to passe by the fyre all that first openeth the wōbe, that I might destroye them, to the end that they might knowe that I am the Lord.
27 Therefore, sonne of mā, speake vnto ſ house of Israel, & say vnto thē, Thus saith the Lord God, yet in this your fathers haue blasphemed me, though thei had before grieuously transgressed against me.
28 n For when I had broght thē into the land, for ſ which I lifted vp mine hand to giue it, then they sawe euerie hie hil, & all the thicke trees, and they offred there their sacrifices, and there they presented their offring of prouocation: there also they made their swete sauour, and powred out there their drinke offrings.
29 Then I said vnto them, What is the hie place whereunto ye go? And the name thereof was called o Bamah vnto this day.
30 Wherefore, say vnto ſ house of Israel, Thus saith ſ Lord God, Are ye not polluted p after ſ maner of your fathers? & commit ye not whoredome after their abominations?

into all their gates to make their heart to faint, & to multiplie their ruines. Ah it is made bright, & it is dressed for the slaughter.

16 Get thee[n] alone: go to the right hand, or get thy self to the left hand, whether soeuer thy face turneth.

17 I wil also smite mine hands together, & wil cause my wrath to cease. I ỹ Lord haue said it.

18 ¶ The worde of ỹ Lord came vnto me againe, saying,

19 Also thou sonne of man, appoint thee [o] two wayes, that ỹ sworde of the King of Babel may come: bothe twaine shal come out of one land, and chuse a place, and chuse it in the corner of the way of the citie.

20 Appoint a way, that the sworde may come to Rabbath of the Ammonites, and [p] to Iudah in Ierusalem the strong citie.

21 And the King of Babel stode at the [q] parting of the way, at the head of the two wayes, consulting by diuination, and made his arrowes bright: he consulted with idoles, and loked in[r] the liuer.

22 At his right hand was the diuination for Ierusalem to appoint captaines, to open their mouthe in the slaughter, and to lift vp their voyce with shouting, to lay engines of warre against the gates, to cast a mount, & to buyld a fortres.

23 And it shalbe vnto thē[s] as a false diuination in their sight for the othes made vnto thē: [t] but he wil call to remēbrance their iniquitie, to the intent thy shulde be taken.

24 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because ye haue made your iniquitie to be remembred, in discouering your rebellion, ỹ in all your workes your sinnes might appeare: because, I say, that ye are come to remembrance, ye shalbe taken with the hand.

25 And thou[u] prince of Israel polluted, & wicked, whose day is come, whē iniquitie shal haue an end, 26 Thus saith the Lord God, I wil take away the [x] diademe, & take of ỹ crowne: this shalbe no more the same: I wil exalt the humble, and wil abase him that is hie.

27 I wil ouerturne, ouerturne, ouerturne it, and it shalbe no more vntil he[y] come, whose right it is, and I wil giue it him.

28 And thou, sonne of man, prophecie, and say, Thus saith ỹ Lord God to the children of Ammon, and to their blasphemie: say thou, I say, The sworde, the sworde is drawen forthe, & fourbished to the slaughter to cōsume, because of the glittering.

29 Whiles they se[z] vanitie vnto thee, & prophecied a lye vnto thee to bring thee vpon the neckes of the wicked that are slaine, whose day is come when their iniquitie shal haue an end.

30 Shal I cause it to returne into his sheathe? I wil iudge thee in the place where thou wast created, euen in ỹ land of thine habitation.

31 And I wil powre out mine indignacio vpon thee, & wil blowe against thee in the fyre of my wrath, & deliuer thee into the hand of beastlie mē, & skilful to destroy.

32 Thou shalt be in ỹ fyre to be deuoured: thy blood shalbe in the middes of the lād & thou shalt be no more remēbred: for I the Lord haue spoken it.

1 Ierusalem is reproued for crueltie. 25 Of the wicked doctrine of the false prophets and priests, and of their vnsaciable couetousnes. 27 The tyrannie of rulers. 29 The wickednes of the people.

1 MOreouer, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Now thou sonne of mā, wilt thou[a] iudge, wilt thou iudge this bloody citie? wilt thou shewe her all her abominacions?

3 Then say, Thus saith the Lord God, The citie sheddeth blood in the middes of it, that her [b] time may come, and maketh idoles[c] against her self to pollute her self.

4 Thou hast offended in thy blood, that thou hast shed, and hast polluted thy self in thine idoles, which thou hast made, and thou hast caused thy dayes to drawe nere, & art come vnto thy terme: therefore haue I made thee a reproche to the heathē, & a mocking to all countryes.

5 Those that be nere, & those that be farre from thee, shal mocke thee which art vile in[d] name & sore in affliction.

6 Beholde, ỹ princes of Israel euery one in thee was ready to his power, to shed blood.

7 In thee haue thei despised father & mother: in the middes of thee[e] haue they oppressed the stranger: in thee haue thei vexed the fatherles and the widowe.

8 Thou hast despised mine holy things, & hast polluted my Sabbaths.

9 In thee are mē that cary tales to shed blood: in thee are they that eat vpō the mountaines: in the middes of thee they commit abominacion.

z Thogh the Iewes & Ammonites wolde not beleue, ỹ thou towit, the sworde, shuldest come vpon them, and said that ỹ prophets, w threatned, spake lies, yet thou shalt as surely come as thogh thou werest already vpō their neckes.

16 And thou shalt take thine[i] inheritance in thy self in the sight of the heathen, and thou shalt knowe, that I am the Lord.

19 Therefore thus saith ȳ Lord God, Because ye are all as drosse, beholde, therefore I wil gather you in the middes of Ierusalem.

20 As they gather siluer & brasse, & yrō, & lead, & tynne into the middes of the fornace, to blowe ȳ fyre vpon it to melt it, so wil I gather you in mine angre and in my wrath, & wil put you ther[l] & melt you.

l Meaning hereby, that the godlie shuld be tryed & the wicked destroyed.

22 As siluer is melted in ȳ middes of the fornace, so shal ye be melted in ȳ middes thereof, & ye shal knowe, that I the Lord haue powred out my wrath vpon you.

23 And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

24 Sonne of man, say vnto her, Thou art the land, that is vncleane, [m] & not rained vpon in the day of wrath.

25 There is a conspiracie[n] of her Prophetes in ȳ middes thereof like a roaring lyon, rauening the pray: thei haue deuoured soules: they haue takē the riches & precious things: thei haue made her many widdowes in the middes thereof.

n The false prophetes haue conspired together to make their doctrine more probable.

26 Her P. iests haue brokē my Law, & haue defiled mine holy things: they haue put no difference betwene the holy and prophane, nether discerned betwene ȳ vncleane, and the cleane, and haue hid their[o] eyes from my Sabbaths, and I am prophaned among them.

CHAP. XXIII.

Of the idolatrie of Samaria & Ierusalem vnder the names of Aholah and Oholibah.

1 THe worde of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, there were two women, the daughters of one[a] mother.

a Meaning, Israel & Iudah, ẅ came bothe out of one familie.

3 And they committed fornicacion[b] in Egypt, they cōmitted fornicatiō in their youth: there were their breasts pressed, & there thei bruised the teates of their virginitie.

b Thei became idolaters after ȳ maner of the Egyptians.

4 And the names of[c] them were Aholah, the elder, and Aholibah her sister: & thei were mine, and thei bare sonnes and daughters: thus were their names. Samaria is Aholah, and Ieruſalem Aholibah.

c Aholah signifieth a mansion or dwelling in her self, meanig Samaria which was the royal citie of Israel: and Aholibah, signifieth my māsion in her, whereby is ment Ierusalem where Gods Temple was.

5 And Aholah plaied ȳ harlot[*] whē[d] she was mine, and she was set on fyre ẅ her louers, to wit, ẅ the Assyriās her neighbours, d When the Israelites were named the people of God they became idolaters and forsoke God, and put their trust in ȳ Assyrians.

*Ebr. vnder me.

6 Which were clothed ẅ blewe silke, both captaines and princes: thei were all pleasant yong men, & horsemen riding vpon horses.

7 Thus she committed her whoredome ẅ them, euen with all them ȳ were the chosen men of Ashur, and with all on whome she doted, & defiled her self with all their idoles.

8 Nether left she her fornicaciōs learned of the Egyptians: for in her youth f Meaning, the Aſſyrians.

thei [c] laye with her, & thei bruiſed the breaſts of her virginitie, and powred their whoredome vpon her.

9 Wherefore I deliuered her into the hands of her louers, euen into the hands of the Aſſyrians, vpon whome ſhe doted.

10 Theſe diſcouered her ſhame: thei toke away her ſonnes & her daughters, & ſlewe her with the ſworde, & ſhe had an euil name among women: for [f] thei had executed iudgement vpon her.

11 And when her ſiſter Aholibah ſawe this, ſhe marred her ſelf with inordinate loue, more then ſhe, and with her fornications more then her ſiſter with her fornications.

12 She doted vpon the Aſſyrians her neighbours: bothe captaines & princes clothed with diuers ſutes, horſemen riding vpon horſes: thei were all pleaſant yong men.

13 Then I ſawe, that ſhe was defiled, and that they were bothe after one ſorte,

14 And that ſhe encreaſed her fornications: for when ſhe ſawe men [g] painted vpon the wall, the images of the Caldeans painted with vermelon,

15 And girded with girdles vpon their loynes, & with dyed attyre vpon their heads (loking all like princes after the maner of the Babylonians in Caldea, the land of their natiuitie)

16 Aſſone, I ſay, as ſhe ſawe them, ſhe doted vpon them, & ſent meſſengers vnto them into Caldea.

17 Now when the Babylonians came to her into the bed of loue, they defiled her [w] there fornication, & ſhe was polluted with them, & her luſt departed from them.

18 So ſhe diſcouered her fornication, & diſcloſed her ſhame: then mine heart forſoke her, like as mine heart had forſaken her ſiſter.

19 Yet ſhe encreaſed her whoredome more, & called to remembrance the dayes of her youth, wherein ſhe had plaied the harlot in the land of Egypt.

20 For ſhe doted vpon their ſeruãts whoſe membres are as the membres of aſſes, & whoſe yſſue is like the yſſue of horſes.

21 Thou calledſt to remembrance ſ wickednes of thy youth, when thy teates were bruiſed by the Egyptians: therefore the papes of thy youth are thus.

22 Therefore, ô Aholibah, thus ſaith the Lord God, Beholde, I wil raiſe vp thy louers againſt thee, from whome thine heart is departed, and I wil bring them againſt thee on euery ſide, 23 To wit, the Babylonians, and all the Caldeans, [h] Peked, & Shoah, & Koa, & all the Aſſyrians with them: they were all pleaſant yong men, captaines & princes: all thei were valiant & renoumed, riding vpon horſes.

24 Euen theſe ſhal come againſt thee [w] charettes, waggens, and wheles, and with a multitude of people, which ſhal ſet againſt thee, buckler & ſhield, and helmet rounde aboute: and [i] I wil leaue the puniſhment vnto them, and they ſhal iudge thee according to their [k] iudgements.

25 And I wil lay mine indignation vpon thee, and thei ſhal deale cruelly [w] thee: they ſhal cut of thy [l] noſe and thine eares, and thy remnant ſhal fall by ſ ſworde: they ſhal cary away thy ſonnes and thy daughters, and thy reſidue ſhalbe deuoured by the fyre.

26 They ſhal alſo ſtrippe thee out of thy clothes, and take away thy faire iewels.

27 Thus wil I make thy wickednes to ceaſe from thee and thy fornication out of the land of Egypt: ſo that thou ſhalt not lift vp thine eyes vnto them, nor remember Egypt any more.

28 For thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I wil deliuer thee into the hand of them, whome thou hateſt: euen into the hands of them from whome thine heart is departed.

29 And they ſhal handle thee diſpytefully, and ſhal take away all thy [k] labour, & ſhal leaue thee naked and bare, & the ſhame of thy fornicacios [l] ſhalbe diſcouered, bothe thy wickednes, & thy whoredome.

30 I wil do theſe things vnto thee, becauſe thou haſt gone a whoring after the heathen, & becauſe thou art polluted with their idoles.

31 Thou haſt walked in the way of thy ſiſter: therfore wil I giue her [m] cup into thine hand.

32 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Thou ſhalt drinke of thy ſiſters cup, depe & large: thou ſhalt be laughed to ſcorne and had in deriſion, becauſe it conteineth muche.

33 Thou ſhalt be filled with [n] drunkennes & ſorowe, euen with the cup of deſtruction, & deſolation, with the cup of thy ſiſter Samaria.

34 Thou ſhalt euen drinke it, and wring it out to the dregges, & thou ſhalt breake the ſherdes thereof, & teare thine owne breaſtes: for I haue ſpoken it, ſaith the Lord God.

35 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe thou haſt forgottten me, & caſt me behind thy backe, therefore thou ſhalt alſo beare thy wickednes and thy whoredome.

36 ¶ The Lord ſaid moreouer vnto me, Sonne of man, wilt thou iudge Aholah & Aholibah? and wilt thou declare to them their abominacions?

38 Moreouer thus haue they done vnto me: they haue defiled my sanctuarie in the same day, and haue prophaned my Sabbaths.

39 For when they had slaine their childrē to their idoles, they came the same day into my Sanctuarie to defile it: and lo, thus haue they done in the middes of mine house.

40 And how muche more is it that they sent for men to come from [p] farre vnto whome a messenger was sent, & lo, they came? for whome thou dideſt wash thy self, and painted thine eyes, & deckedſt thee with ornaments, 42 And a voyce of a multitude being at ease, was with her: and with the men to make the companie great were brought men of [r] Saba from the wildernes, which put bracelets vpon their hāds, & beautiful crownes vpon their heads.

43 Then I said vnto her, that was olde in adulteries, Now shal she and her fornications come to an end.

44 And they wēt in vnto her as they go to a commune harlot: so went they to Aholah and Aholibah the wicked women.

45 And the righteous men they shal iudge them, after the maner of [s] harlotes, and after the maner of murtherers: for they are harlotes, and blood is in their hands.

46 Wherefore thus saith the Lord God, I wil bring a multitude vpon them, and wil giue them vnto the tumulte, and to the spoyle, 47 And the multitude shal stone them with stones, & cut them with their swordes: they shal slay their sonnes, and their daughters, and burne vp their houses with fyre.

48 Thus wil I cause wickednes to cease out of the land, that all [t] women may be taught not to do after your wickednes.

49 And they shal lay your wickednes vpon you, and ye shal beare the sinnes of your idoles, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord God.

1 He sheweth the destruction of Ierusalem by a parable of a sething pot. 16 The parable of Ezekiels wife being dead.

A Gaine in the [a] ninth yere, in the tenth moneth, in the tenth day of ſ [b] moneth came the worde of the Lord vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, write thee, the name of the day, euen of this same day: for ſ King of Babel set him self against Ierusalem this same day.

3 Therefore speake a parable vnto the rebellious house, and say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Prepare a [c] pot, prepare it, and also power water into it.

4 Gather the [d] pieces thereof into it, euen euerie good piece, as the thigh and the shuldre, and fil it with the chief bones.

5 Take one of the best shepe, and [e] burne also the [e] bones vnder it, & make it boyle wel, and sethe the bones of it therein,

6 Because the Lord God saith thus, Wo to the bloodie citie, euen to the pot, [f] whose skome is therein, and whose skome is not gone out of it: bring it out [g] piece by piece: let no [h] lot fall vpon it.

7 For her blood is in the middes of her: she set it vpon an high [i] rocke, and powred it not vpon the grounde to couer it with dust,

8 That it might cause wrath to arise, & take vengeāce: euen I haue set her blood vpon an high rocke that it shulde not be couered.

9 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, *Wo to the bloodie citie, for I wil make [#] the burning great.

11 Then set it emptie vpon the coles thereof, that [l] the brasse of it may be hot, & may burne, and that the filthines of it may be molte in it, & that the skome of it may be consumed.

12 [l] She hathe wearied her self with lies, & her great skome went not out of her: therefore her skome shalbe consumed with fyre.

The worde of the Lord against Ammon, which reioyced at the fall of Ierusalem. 8 Against Moab and Seir, Idumea and the Philistims.

1 THe worde of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, set thy face against the Ammonites, and prophecie against them,

3 And say vnto ỹ Ammonites, Heare the worde of the Lord God, Thus saith the Lord God, Because thou saydest, [a] Ha ha, against my Sanctuarie, when it was polluted, and against the land of Israel, whē it was desolate, & against the house of Iudah, when they went into captiuitie,

4 Beholde, therefore I wil deliuer thee to the [b] men of the East for a possession, & they shal set their [c] palaces in thee, and make their dwellings in thee: they shal eat thy frute, and they shal drinke thy milke.

5 And I wil make [d] Rabbah a dwelling place for camels, and the Ammonites a shepecote, & ye shal knowe that I am ỹ Lord.

6 For thus saith the Lord God, Because thou hast clapped the hands, and stamped with the fete, & reioyced in heart with all thy despite against the land of Israel,

7 Beholde, therefore I wil stretche out mine hand vpō thee, & wil deliuer thee to be spoiled of ỹ heathē, & I wil roote thee out from the people, & I wil cause thee to be destroyed out of ỹ countreis & I wil destroye thee, & thou shalt knowe that I am the Lord.

8 Thus saith the Lord God, Because that Moab and Seir do say, Beholde, the house of Iudah is like vnto all the heathen, 9 Therefore, beholde, I wil opē the side of Moab, euen of the cities [e] of his cities, I say, in his frontiers with the pleasant countrey, Beth-ieshimoth, Baalmeō, & Kariathaim.

10 I wil call the men of the East against the Ammonites, and wil giue them in possession, so that the Ammonites shal no more be remembred among the nations, 11 And I wil execute iudgements vpon Moab, and thei shal knowe that I am the Lord.

12 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, Because ỹ Edom hathe done euil by taking vengeance vpō the house of Iudah, & hathe cōmitted great offence, & reuēged him self vpon them, 13 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I wil also stretche out mine hand vpon Edom, and destroye man and beast out of it, & I wil make it desolate from Teman, and they of Dedan shal fall by the sworde.

14 And I wil execute my vengeance vpō Edom by the hand of my people Israel, & they shal do in Edō according to mine angre, and according to mine indignatiō, & they shal knowe my vēgeance, saith the Lord God.

15 Thus saith the Lord God, because the Philistims haue executed vengeance, and reuēged them selues with a despiteful heart, to destroye it for the olde hatred,

16 Therefore thus saith ỹ Lord God, Beholde, I wil stretche out mine hād vpon the

1 He propheciеth that Tyrus shalbe ouerthrowen because it reioyced at the destruction of Ierusalem. 15 The wondring and astonishment of the marchantes for the destruction of Tyrus.

a Ether of the captuitie of Ieconiah, or of the reigne of ỹ Zedekiah.

1 AND in the a eleuenth yere, in ỹ first day of the moneth, the worde of the Lord came vnto me saying,

2 Sonne of man, because that Tyrus hathe said against Ierusalem, A ha, the b gate of the people is broken: it is turned vnto me: for seing she is desolate, I shalbe c replenished, b That is, ỹ famous citie Ierusalem, whereunto all people resorted.

c My riches and fame shal increase: thus ỹ wicked reioyce at their fall by whom: ether maie haue any profite or aduantage.

3 Threfore thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I come against thee, ō Tyrus, & I wil bring vp manie nations against thee, as the sea mounteth vp with his waues.

4 And thei shal destroie the walles of Tyrus & breake downe her towers: I wil also scrape her dust from her, and make her like the toppe of a rocke.

5 Thou shalt be for ỹ spreading of nettes in the middes of the sea: for I haue spoken it, saith the Lord God, and it shalbe a spoile to the nations.

d The townes ỹ belonged vnto her.

6 And her d daughters which are in the fielde, shalbe slaine by the sworde, and thei shal knowe that I am the Lord.

7 For thus saith the Lord God, beholde, I wil bring vpō Tyrus Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel, a King of Kings frō the North, with horses & with charets, & with horsemen, with a multitude and muche people.

8 He shal slaie ẅ the sworde thy daughters in the field and he shal make a forte against thee, and cast a mount against thee, & lift vp the buckler against thee.

9 He shal set engines of warre before him against thy walles, & with his weapons breake downe thy towres.

e For Tyrus was muche buylt by art, & by labour of me was wonne out of the sea. Some referre this vnto the images of the noble men ẅ thei had erected vp for their glorie and renoume.

10 The dust of his horses shal couer thee, for their multitude: thy walles shal shake at the noise of the horsemen, and of the wheles, & of the charets, whē he shal entre into thy gates as into the entrie of a citie that is broken downe.

11 With the houes of his horses shal he tread downe all thy stretes: he shal slaie thy people by the sworde, and the e pillers of thy strength shal fall downe to the grounde.

12 And thei shal robbe thy riches & spoile thy marchandise, and thei shal breake downe thy walles, and destroie thy pleasant houses, & thei shal cast thy stones & thy timbre and thy dust into the middes of the water.

13 *Thus wil I cause the sounde of thy songs to cease, and the sounde of thine harpes shalbe no more heard. Iere. 7. 34

14 I wil laie thee like ỹ toppe of a rocke: f thou shalt be for a spreading of nettes: thou shalt be buylt no more for I the Lord haue spoken it, saith ỹ Lord God.

f I wil make thee so bare ỹ thou shalt haue nothing to couer thee.

15 Thus saith the Lord God to Tyrus, Shal not the yles tremble at the sounde of thy fall? and at the crye of the wounded, when thei shalbe slaine and murthered in the middes of thee?

16 Then all the princes of the g sea shal come downe frō their thrones: thei shal laie awaie their robes, and put of their broydred garments, and shal clothe them selues with astonishment: thei shal sit vpon the grounde, and be astonished at euerie moment, and be amased at thee.

g The gouernours and rulers of other countreyes that dwell by ỹ sea: wherebi he signifieth that hee destructiō shulde be so horrible, that all the worlde shulde heare thereof and be afraied.

17 And thei shal take vp a lamentacion for thee, and saie to thee, How art thou destroyed, that wast inhabited h of the sea men, the renomed citie which was strong in the sea, bothe she & her inhabitants, which cause their feare to be on all that haunt therein?

h Meaning, marchantes ẅ by their traffique did enriche her wonderfully and increase her power.

18 Now shal the yles be astonished in the daie of thy fall: yea, the yles that are in the sea, shalbe troubled at thy departure.

19 For thus saith the Lord God, When I shal make thee a desolate citie, like ỹ cities that are not inhabited, & when I shal bring the deape vpon thee, & great waters shal couer thee, 20 When I shal cast thee downe with them that descende into the pit, with ỹ people i of olde time, and shal set thee in the lowe partes of the earth, like the olde ruines, with thē I say, & go downe to the pit, so ỹ thou shalt not be inhabited, and I shal shewe my glorie in the land of the k liuinig.

i Which are dead long ago.

21 I wil bring thee to nothing, and thou shalt be no more: thogh thou be soght for, yet shalt thou neuer be founde againe, saith the Lord God.

k Meaning, in Iudea, whē it shal be restored.

CHAP. XXVIII.

The worde of God against the King of Tyrus for his pride. 21 The worde of the Lord against Zidon. 25 The Lord promiseth that he wil gather together the children of Israel.

1 THe worde of ỹ Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, say vnto the prince of Tyrus, Thus saith the Lord God, Because thine heart is exalted, & thou hast said, [a] I am a god, I sit in the seat of God in the middes of ỹ sea, yet thou art but a man and not God, & [b] though thou didest thinke in thine heart, that thou wast equal with God.

a I am safe that none can come to hurt me, as God is in ỹ heauen.

b Though thou set thine heart as the heart of God. Thus he speaketh by derisiõ: for Daniel had declared notable signes of his wisdome in Babylon, when Ezekiel wrote this.

3 Beholde, thou art wiser then [b] Daniel: there is no secret, that thei can hide frõ thee.

4 With thy wisdome and thine vnderstanding thou hast gotten thee riches, & hast gotten gold & siluer into thy treasures.

5 By thy great wisdome & by thine occupying hast thou increased thy riches, and thine heart is lifted vp because of thy riches.

6 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because thou didest thinke in thine heart, that thou wast equal with God,

7 Beholde, therefore I wil bring strangers vpon thee, euen the terrible naciõs: & thei shal drawe their swordes against the beautie of thy wisdome, & thei shal defile thy brightnes.

8 Thei shal cast thee downe to the pit, & thou shalt dye the death of them, that are slaine in the middes of the sea.

9 Wilt thou say then before him, that slaieth thee, I am a god? but thou shalt be a man, and no God, in the hands of him that slaieth thee.

c Like ỹ rest of ỹ heathen and infideles, ẅ are Gods enemies.

10 Thou shalt dye the death of the [c] vncircumcised by the hands of strangers: for I haue spokẽ it, saith the Lord God.

11 ¶ Moreouer the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

12 Sonne of man, take vp a lamentacion vpon the King of Tyrus, and say vnto him, Thus saith the Lord God, Thou sealest vp the summe, & art ful of [d] wisdome and perfite in beautie.

d He derideth ỹ vaine opinion and confidence ỹ the Tyrians had in their riches strength & pleasures.

13 Thou hast bene in Eden the garden of God: euerie precious stone was in thy garment, the rubie, the topaze and the [e] diamond, the chrysolite, the onix, and [f] the iasper, the saphir, [g] emeraud, and the carbuncle & golde: the worke manship of thy timbrels, & of thy pipes was prepared in thee in the day that thou wast created.

h He meaneth ỹ royal state of Tyrus, ẅ for ỹ excellencie and glorie thereof he compareth to ỹ Cherubims ẅ couered the Arke: & by this worde anointed he signifieth ỹ same.

15 Thou wast perfite in thy waies from the day that thou wast [l] created, til iniquitie was founde in thee.

16 By the multitude of thy marchandise, thei haue filled the middes of thee ẅ crueltie, and thou hast sinned: therefore I wil cast thee as prophane out of the [m] mouṫaine of God: & I wil destroy thee, ô couering Cherub from the middes of the stones of fyre.

k Which was when I first called thee to this dignitie.

l Thou shalt haue no parte among my people.

17 Thine heart was lifted vp because of thy beautie, & thou hast corrupted thy wisdome by reason of thy brightnes: I wil cast thee to the grounde: I wil lay thee before Kings that thei may behold thee.

k That is, ỹ honour, wherevnto I called thẽ.

18 Thou hast defiled thy [k] sanctification by the multitude of thine iniquities, & by the iniquitie of thy marchandise: therefore wil I bring forthe a fyre from the middes of thee, which shal deuoure thee: & I wil bring thee to asshes vpon the earth, in the sight of all them that beholde thee.

19 All thei that knowe thee among the people, shalbe astonished at thee: thou shalt be a terrour, & neuer shalt thou be any more.

20 ¶ Againe, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

21 Sonne of man, set thy face against Zidon, and prophecie against it, 22 And say, Thus saith ỹ Lord God, Beholde, I come against thee, ô Zidon, & I wil be [l] glorified in the middes of thee: and thei shal knowe that I am the Lord, when I shal haue executed iudgements in her, and shalbe sanctified in her.

l By executing my iudgements against thy wickednes.

23 For I wil send into her, pestilence and blood into her stretes, & the slaine shal fall in the middes of her: [m] the enemie shal come against her with the sworde on euerie side, & thei shal knowe that I am the Lord.

m That is, Nebuchad-nezzar.

24 And thei shalbe no more a pricking thorne vnto the house of Israel, nor any grieuous thorne of all that are rounde about them, and despised them, and thei shal knowe that I am the Lord God.

Zidon a thorn to Israel.

25 Thus saith the Lord God, When I shal haue gathered the house of Israel from the people where thei are scattred, and shal be [n] sanctified in them in the sight of the heathen, then shal thei dwel in ý land, ý I haue giuen to my seruant Iaakob.

26 And thei shal dwell safely therein, & shal buyld houses, and plant vineyardes: yea, thei shal dwell safely, when I haue executed iudgements vpon all rounde about them that despise them, and thei shal knowe that I am ý Lord their God.

n He sheweth for what cause God wil assemble his Church, and preserue it: wil though he destroy his enemies: to wit, ý they shulde praise him, & giue thankes for his great mercies.

CHAP. XXIX.

He prophecieth against Pharaoh and Egypt. 13 The Lord promiseth that he wil restore Egypt after fourtie yeres. 18 Egypt is the rewarde of King Nebuchad-nezzar for the labour, which he toke against Tyrus.

1 IN the [a] tenth yere, & in the tenth moneth in the twelfth day of the moneth, the worde of the Lord came vnto me saying,

2 Sonne of mā, set thy face against Pharaoh the King of Egypt, and prophecie against him, and against all Egypt.

3 Speake, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I come against thee, Pharaoh King of Egypt, the great [b] dragon, that lieth in the middes of his riuers, ẅ hathe said, The riuer is mine, & I haue made it for my self.

4 But I wil put [c] hokes in thy chawes, & I wil cause the fish of thy riuers to sticke vnto thy scales, and I wil drawe thee out of the middes of thy riuers, and all the fish of thy riuers shal sticke vnto thy scales.

5 And I wil leaue thee in the wildernes, both thee & all ý fish of thy riuers: thou shalt fall vpon the open field: thou shalt not be broght together, nor gathered: for I haue giuen thee for meat to ý beastes of the field, and to the foules of the heauen.

6 And all the inhabitants of Egypt shal knowe that I am the Lord, because thei haue bene a staffe of [d] reed to the house of Israel.

7 When thei toke holde of thee with their hand, thou dideſt breake, and rent all their shulder: and when thei leaned vpon thee, thou brakeſt and madeſt all their loynes to [e] stand vpright.

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I wil bring a sworde vpon thee, and destroy man and beast out of thee,

9 And the land of Egypt shalbe desolate, & waste, and thei shal knowe that I am ý Lord: because he hathe said, [f] The riuer is mine, and I haue made it,

10 Beholde, therefore I come vpon thee, and vpon thy riuers, and I wil make the land of Egypt vtterly waste and desolate from the towre of Seueneh, euen vnto the borders of the [g] blacke Mores.

11 No foote of man shal passe by it, nor foote of beast shal passe by it, nether shal it be inhabited fourtie yeres.

12 And I wil make the land of Egypt desolate in the middes of the countreis, that are desolate, and her cities shalbe desolate among the cities ý are desolate, for fourtie yeres: and I wil scattre the Egyptians among the nacions, and wil disperse them through the countreis.

13 Yet thus saith the Lord God, [h] At the end of fourtie yeres wil I gather the Egyptians from the people, where thei were scattred, 14 And I wil bring againe the captiuitie of Egypt, and wil cause them to returne into the land of Pathros, into the land of their habitation, and thei shal be there a [i] smal kingdome.

15 It shalbe the smalleſt of the kingdomes, nether shal it exalt it self any more aboue the nacions: for I wil diminish them, that thei shal no more rule ý nacions.

16 And it shal be no more the confidence of the house of Israel, to bring their [k] iniquitie to remembrance by loking after them, so shal thei knowe, that I am the Lord God.

17 ¶ In the [l] seuen and twentieth yere also in the first moneth, & in the first day of the moneth came the worde of ý Lord vnto me, saying,

18 Sonne of mā, Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel caused his armie to serue a great [m] seruice against Tyrus: euerie head was made balde, and euerie shulder was made bare: yet had he no wages, [n] nor his armie for Tyrus, for the seruice that he serued against it.

19 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I wil giue the land of Egypt vnto Nebuchad-nezzar ý King of Babel, and he shal take her multitude, and spoile her spoile, and take her pray, & it shal be the wages for his armie.

20 I haue giuen him the land of Egypt for his labour, that he serued against it, because thei wroght for me.

21 In that day wil I cause the horne of the house of Israel to growe, and I wil giue thee an open mouth in the middes of them, and thei shal knowe that I am the Lord.

h Leſt I shulde by this meanes punish their sinnes.

i Counting frō the captiuitie of Iconiah.

k He toke great paines at the siege of Tyrus and his armie was sore handled.

l Signifying ý Nebuchad nezzar had more paines thē profite, by the taking of Tyrus.

CHAP. XXX.

The destruction of Egypt and the cities thereof.

1 THE worde of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, prophecie, & say, Thus saith ý Lord God, Houle & crye, Wo be vnto vnto this day.

3 For the day is nere, and the day of the Lord is at hand, a cloudie day, & it shalbe the time of the heathen.

4 And the sworde shal come vpon Egypt, and feare shalbe in Ethiopia, when the slaine shal fall in Egypt, when thei shal take away her multitude, and when her fundacions shalbe broken downe.

a By phut and Lus are ment Aphrica & Libya.

5 [a]Ethiopia, and Phut, & Lud, and all ỹ commune people, and Cub, and ỹ men of the land, that is in league, shal fall wᵗ them by the sworde.

6 Thus saith ỹ Lord, Thei also ỹ maintein Egypt, shal fall, and the pride of her power shal come downe from ỹ towre of [b]Seueneh shal thei fall by ỹ sworde, saith the Lord God.

b Which was a strong citie of Egypt, cha. 29, 10.

7 And thei shalbe desolate in the middes of the countreis that are desolate, & her cities shalbe in the middes of the cities that are wasted.

8 And thei shal knowe that I am the Lord, when I haue set a fyre in Egypt, and when all her helpers shalbe destroied.

9 In that day shal their messengers go forthe from me in shippes, to make the careles Mores afraied, and feare shal come vpon them, as in the day of Egypt: for lo, it cometh.

10 Thus saith the Lord God, I wil also make the multitude of Egypt to cease by the hād of Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel.

11 For he and his people with him, euen the terrible nacions shal be broght to destroy the land: & thei shal drawe their swordes against Egypt, and fil the land with the slaine

12 And I wil make the riuers drye, and sel the land into the hands of the wicked, and I wil make the land waste, and all that therein is by the hands of strangers: I the Lord haue spoken it.

13 Thus saith the Lord God, I wil also destroy the idoles, and I wil cause their idoles to cease out of [n]Noph, and there shal be no more a prince of the land of Egypt, & I wil send a feare in ỹ land of Egypt.

17 The yong men of [r]Auen, and of [s]Phibeseth shal fall by the sworde: and these cities shal go into captiuitie.

d That is, the strēgth & force.

18 At Tehaphnehes the day [c]shal restrict-ne his light, when I shal breake there the [d]barres of Egypt: and when the pompe of her power shal cease in her, the cloude shal couer her, & her daughters shal go into captiuitie.

19 Thus wil I execute iudgements in Egypt, and they shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

c Of the captiuitie of Ieremiah, or of Zedekiahs reigne.

20 ¶And in the [e]eleuenth yere, in ỹ first moneth, & in the seuenth day of the moneth, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

21 Sonne of man, [f]I haue broken the arme of Pharaoh King of Egypt: and lo, it shal not be bounde vp to be healed, nether shal they put a roole to binde it, & so make it strong, to holde ỹ sworde.

f For Nebuchad nezzar destroyed pharaoh Necho at Carchemish, Ieremi. 46, 26.

22 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I come against Pharaoh King of Egypt, and wil breake [g]his arme, that was strong, but is broken, and I wil cause the sworde to fall out of his hand.

g His force and power.

23 And I wil scatter the Egyptians amōg the nacions, & wil disperse thē through the countreis.

24 And I wil strenghten the arme of the King of Babel, and put my sworde in his hand, but I wil breake Pharaohs armes, and he shal cast out sighings as the sighings of him, that is wounded before him.

25 But I wil strengthen the armes of the King of Babel, & the armes of Pharaoh shal fall downe, & they shal knowe, that I am the Lord, [h]whē I shal put my sworde into the hand of the King of Babel, & he shal stretch it out vpon the land of Egypt.

h Whereby we se ỹ tyrants haue no power of them selues, nether can do any more harme thē God appointeth & when he wil, thei must cease.

26 And I wil scatter the Egyptians amōg the naciōs, & disperse them among the countreys, and they shal knowe, ỹ I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXI.

2 A comparison of the prosperitie of Pharaoh with the prosperitie of the Assyrians. 10 He prophecieth a like destruction to them bothe.

1 AND in the [a]eleuenth yere, in the third moneth, & in the first day of the moneth the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying, a Of Zedekiahs reigne or of Ieconiahs captiuitie.

2 Sonne of man, speake vnto Pharaoh King of Egypt, and to his multitude, Whome art thou [b]like in thy greatnes?

3 Beholde, Asshur was like a cedre in Lebanon with faire branches, and with thicke shadowing boughes, and shot vp verie hie, & his top was among ỹ thicke boughes.

b Meaning, that he was not like in strength to ỹ King of ỹ Assyrians, whome ỹ Babylonians ouercame.

4 The waters nourished him, and ỹ depe exalted him on hie with her riuers running rounde about his plants, & sent out her [c] litle riuers vnto all the trees of the field.

5 Therefore his height was exalted aboue all the trees of the field, and his boughes were multiplied, & his branches were long, becaufe of the multitude of the waters, which the depe fent out.

6 All the foules of the heauen made their nefts in his boughes, & vnder his branches did all the beaftes of the field bring forthe their yong, and vnder his fhadow dwelt all mightie nacions.

7 Thus was he faire in his greatnes, & in the length of his braches: for his roote was nere great waters.

8 The cedres in the garden [d] of God colde not hide him: no firre tre was like his branches, & the cheffenut trees were not like his boughes: all the trees in the garden of God were not like vnto him in is beautie.

9 I made him faire by the multitude of his branches: fo that all the trees of Eden, that were in the garden of God, enuied him.

10 Therefore thus faith the Lord God, becaufe [n] he is lift vp on high, and hathe fhot vp his toppe among the thicke boughes, and his heart is lift vp in his height, 11 I haue therefore deliuered him into the hands of the [e] mightieft among the heathen: he fhal handle him, for I haue caft him away for his wickednes.

12 And the ftragers haue deftroyed him, euen the terrible nacions, and thei haue left him vpon the mountaines, and in ỹ valleis his branches are fallen, and his boughes are [f] broken by all the riuers of the land: & all ỹ people of the earth are departed from his fhaddowe, & haue forfaken him.

13 Vpon his ruine fhal all the foules of ỹ heauen remaine, and all the beaftes of the field fhalbe vpon his branches, 14 So that none of all the trees by the waters fhal be exalted by their height, nether fhal fhoote vp their toppe amõg the thicke boughes, nether fhal their leaues ftand vp in their height, which drinke fo muche water: for thei are all deliuered vnto death in the nether partes of the earth in the middes of ỹ children of men among them that go downe to the pit.

15 Thus faith the Lord God, In the daye when he went downe to hel, I caufed them to mourne, & [g] I couered the depe for him, and I did reftreine ỹ floods thereof, and the great waters were ftaied: I caufed Lebanon to mourne for him, and all the trees of the field fainted.

16 I made the nacions to fhake at the found of his fall, when I caft him downe to hell, with them that defcend into the pit, & all the excellent trees of Eden, & the beft of Lebanon: euen all that are nouriſhed with waters, fhal [h] be comforted in the nether partes of the earth.

17 They alfo wẽt downe to hel with him vnto them that be flaine with the fworde, and his arme, & they that dwelt vnder his fhaddowe in the middes of the heathen.

18 To whome [i] art thou thus like in glorie and in greatnes among the trees of Eden? yet thou fhalt be caft downe with the trees of Eden vnto the nether partes of the earth: thou fhalt flepe in the middes of the [k] vncircumcifed, w̃ them that be flaine by ỹ fworde: this is Pharaoh & all his multitude, faith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXXII.

2 The Prophet is commanded to bewaile Pharaoh King of Egypt. 12 He prophecieth that deſtructiõ ſhal come vnto Egypt through the King of Babylon.

1 AND in ỹ [a] twelfth yere in ỹ twelfth moneth, & in the firſt day of ỹ moneth, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, ſaying,

2 Sonne of man, take vp a lamentacion for Pharaoh King of Egypt, & ſay vnto him, Thou art like a [b] lyon of the nations & art as a [n] dragon in the ſea: thou caſteſt out thy riuers [c] and troubleſt the waters with thy fete, & ſtampeſt in their riuers.

3 Thus ſaith the Lord God, * I wil therefore ſpread my net ouer thee with a great multitude of people, and thei ſhal make thee come vp into my net.

4 Then wil I leaue thee vpon the land, & I wil caſt thee vpon the open field, & I wil cauſe all the foules of the heauen to remaine vpon thee, and I wil fil all ỹ beaſts of the field with thee.

5 And I wil laye thy fleſh vpon the mountaines, and fil the valleis [d] with thine height.

6 I wil alſo water with thy blood ỹ land wherein thou [e] ſwimmeſt, euen to the mountaines, & ỹ riuers ſhalbe full of thee.

7 And when I ſhal [f] put thee out, I wil couer the heauen, and make the ſtarres thereof darke: * I wil couer the ſunne w̃ a cloude, and the moone ſhal not giue her light.

8 All the lights of heauen wil I make darke for thee, & bring [g] darkenes vpon thy land, ſaith the Lord God.

9 I wil alſo trouble the hearts of many people, when I ſhal bring thy deſtructiõ among the nacions, & vpon the countreis which thou haſt not knowen.

11 For thus saith ỹ Lord God, The sworde of the King of Babel shal come vpon thee.

12 By the swordes of the mightie wil I cause thy multitude to fall: they all shalbe terrible naciõs, & they shal destroye the [h] pompe of Egypt, & all the multitude thereof shalbe consumed.

h This came to passe iñ lesse thẽ foure yeres after this prophecie.

13 I wil destroye also all the beasts thereof from the great water sides, nether shal the fote of man trouble them any more, nor the houes of beast trouble them.

14 Then wil I make [i] their waters depe, & cause their riuers to runne like oyle, saith the Lord God.

16 This is the mourning where with they shal lament her: the daughters of ỹ nacions shal lament her: thei shal lamẽt for Egypt, and for all her multitude, saith ỹ Lord God.

17 ¶ In the twelfth yere also in ỹ fifteenth day of ỹ moneth, came the word of the Lord vnto me, saying, k That is, prophecie, ỹ they shal be cast downe: thus ỹ Lord giueth his Prophetes power bothe to plant & to destroy by his worde, read Ierem. 1. 10.

18 Sonne of man, lament for the multitude of Egypt, and [k] cast them downe, euen them and the daughters of ỹ mightie nations vnto the nether partes of the earth, with them that go downe into the pit.

19 Whome doest thou passe [l] in beautie? go downe and slepe with the vncircumcised.

l Haue not other kingdoms, more beautiful then thou, perished?

20 Thei shal fall in the middes of them that are slayne by the sworde: [m] she is deliuered to the sworde: drawe her downe, & all her multitude.

m That is, Egypt.

21 The moste [n] mighty, & strong shal speake to her out of the middes of hel with them that helpe her: they are gone downe & slepe with the vncircumcised that be slaine by the sworde.

n To make the matter more sensible, he bringeth in pharaoh, whome ỹ dead shal mere & maruicle at him, read Isa. 14, 9.

22 Asshur is there and all his companie: their graues are about him: all they are slayne & fallen by the sworde.

23 Whose graues are made in the side of the pit, & his multitude are rounde about his graue: all they are slaine & fallen by the sworde, which caused feare to be in the land of the liuing.

24 There is [o] Elam and all his multitude rounde about his graue: all they are slaine and fallen by the sworde which are gone downe with the vncircumcised into the nether partes of the earth, which caused them selues to be feared in the land of the [p] liuing, yet haue they borne their shame with them that are gone downe to the pit.

o Meaning, the persians.

p Whome in this life all the worlde feared.

25 Thei haue made his bed in the middes of the slaine with all his multitude: their graues are rounde about him: all these vncircumcised are slaine by the sworde: thogh thei haue caused their feare in the land of the liuing, yet haue thei borne their shame with them that go downe to the pit: thei are laide in the middes of them, that be slaine.

26 There is [q] Meshech, Tubal, and all their multitude their graues are rounde about them: all these vncircumcised were slaine by the sworde, thogh thei caused their feare to be in the land of the liuing.

q That is, the Cappadocians & Italians, or Spanyardes, as Iosephus writeth.

27 And thei shal not lye with the valiant [r] of the vncircumcised, that are fallen, which are gone downe to the graue, with their weapons of warre, and haue layed their swordes vnder their heads, but their iniquitie shalbe vpon their bones: because thei were the feare of the mightie in the land of the liuing.

30 There be all the princes of ỹ [s] North, with all the Zidonians, which are gone downe with the slaine, with their feare: thei are ashamed of their strength, and the vncircumcised slepe with them that be slaine by the sworde, and beare their shame with them ỹ go downe to the pit.

s The Kings of Babylon.

31 Pharaoh shal se them, and he shalbe [t] comforted ouer all his multitude: Pharaoh, & all his armie shalbe slaine by the sworde, saith the Lord God.

32 For I haue caused my [v] feare to be in the land of the liuing: & he shalbe laid in the middes of the vncircumcised with them, that are slaine by the sworde, euen Pharaoh and all his multitude, saith the Lord God.

v I wil make ỹ Egyptians afraid of me, as thei caused others to feare them.

CHAP. XXXIII.

2 The office of the gouernours and ministers. 14 He strengtheneth them that dispaire, and boldeneth them with the promes of mercie. 30 The worde of the Lord against the mockers of the Prophet.

1 AGaine, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying, against negligent pastors.

2 Sonne of man, speake to the children of thy people, and say vnto them, When I bring the sworde vpon a land, if the people of the land take a man [a]from among them, and make him their [a] watcheman,

3 If when he seeth the sworde come vpon the land, he blowe the trumpet and warne the people,

4 Thē he that heareth the sounde of ỹ trumpet, and wil not be warned, if the sworde come, & take him away, his blood shalbe vpon his owne head.

5 For he heard the sounde of the trumpet, and wolde not be admonished: therefore his blood shalbe vpon him: but he that receiueth warning, shal saue his life.

6 But if the watchman se the sworde come, and blowe not the trumpet, and the people be not warned: if the sworde come, and take any persone from among them, he is taken away for his [b] iniquitie, but his blood wil I require at the watchmans hand.

7 *So thou, ô sonne of man, I haue made thee a watchman vnto the house of Israel: therefore thou shalt heare the worde at my [c] mouth, and admonishe them from me.

8 When I shal say vnto the wicked, O wicked man, thou shalt dye the death, if thou doest not speake, and admonish the wicked of his way, that wicked mā shal dye for his iniquitie, but his blood wil I [d] require at thine hand.

9 Neuertheles, if thou warne the wicked of his way, to turne from it, if he do not turne from his way, he shal dye for his iniquitie, but thou hast deliuered thy soule.

10 Therefore, ô thou sonne of mā, speake vnto the house of Israel, Thus ye speake and say, If our transgressions & our sinnes be vpon vs, and we are consumed becausse of them, [e] how shulde we then liue?

11 Say vnto them, as I liue, saith ỹ Lord God, [f] I desire not the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turne frō his way and liue: turne you, turne you from your euil wayes, for why wil ye dye, ô ye house of Israel?

12 Therefore thou sonne of man, say vnto the childrē of thy people, The [g] righteousnes of the righteous shal not deliuer him in the day of his transgression, nor the wickednes of the wicked shal cause him to fall therein, in the day that he returneth from his wickednes, neither shal the righteous liue for his righteousnes in the day that he sinneth.

13 When I shal say vnto the righteous, that he shal surely liue, if he trust to his owne righteousnes, and commit iniquitie, all his righteousnes shalbe no more remembred, but for his iniquitie that he hathe committed, he shal dye for the same.

14 Againe when I shal say vnto the wicked, Thou shalt dye ỹ death, if he turne frō his sinne, & do that which is lawful and [h] right, 15 To wit, if the wicked restore the pledge, and giue againe that he had robbed, and walke in the statutes of life, without committing iniquitie, he shal surely liue, and not dye.

16 None of his sinnes that he hathe cō-mitted, shal be mencioned vnto him: because he hathe done that, which is lawful, & right, he shal surely liue.

17 Yet the children of thy people say, *The way of the Lord is not equal: but their owne way is vnequal.

18 When the righteous turneth from his righteousnes, and committeth iniquitie, he shal euen dye thereby.

19 But if the wicked returne from his wickednes, and do that which is lawful, and right, he shal liue thereby.

20 Yet ye say, The way of the Lord is not equal. O ye house of Israel, I wil iudge you euerie one after his wayes.

21 Also in the twelfth yere of [i] our captiuitie, in the tenth moneth, and in the fifte day of the moneth, one that had escaped out of Ierusalem, came vnto me, & said, The citie is smitten.

22 Now the [k] hand of the Lord had bene vpō me in the euening afore he that had escaped, came, and had opened my mouth, vntil he came to me in the morning: & whē he had opened my [l] mouth, I was no more domme.

23 Againe the worde of the Lord came vnto me, and said,

24 Sonne of man, these that dwell in the desolate places of the land of Israel, talke and say, [m] Abraham was but one, and he possessed the land: but we are many, therefore the land shalbe giuen vs in possession.

25 Wherefore say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Ye eat with the [n] blood, & lift vp your eyes towarde your idoles, & sheade blood: shulde ye then possesse the land?

26 Ye leane vpon your [o] swordes: ye worke abominacion, & ye defile euerie one his neighbours wife: shulde ye thē possesse the land?

27 Say thus vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, As I liue, so surely thei that are in the desolate places, shal fal by the sworde: and him that is in the open field, wil I giue vnto the beastes to be deuoured: and thei that be in the fortes and in the caues, shal dye of the pestilence.

28 For I wil lay the land desolate and waste, and the *pompe of her strength shal

CHAP. XXXIIII.

2 Against the shepherdes that despised the flocke of Christ, and seke their owne gain.
7 The Lord saith that he wil visite his dispersed flocke, and gather them together.
23 He promiseth the true shepherd Christ, and with him peace.

1 AND the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, prophecie against the shepherdes of Israel, prophecie and say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God vnto the shepherdes, *Wo be vnto the a shepherdes of Israel, that fede them selues: shulde not the shepherdes fede ẏ flockes?

3 Ye eat the b fat, and ye clothe you with the woll: ye kil them that are fed, but ye fede not the shepe.

b Ye seke to inriche your selues by their commodities, & so spoile their riches & substance.

4 The c weake haue ye not strengthened: the sicke haue ye not healed, nether haue ye bounde vp the broke, nor brogh t againe that which was driuen away, nether haue ye soght that which was lost, but with crueltie, and with rigour haue ye ruled them.

c He describeth the office and dueti e of a good pastor, who ought to loue & succor his flocke & not to be cruel toward them.

5 And they were scattred without a shepherde: & when thei were dispersed, thei were d deuoured of all the beastes of the field.

d For lacke of good gouernemẽt & doctrine they perished.

6 My shepe wandred through all ẏ mountaines, and vpon euerie hye hil: yea, my flocke was scattred through all the earth, and none did seke or serche after them.

7 Therefore ye shepherdes, heare the worde of Lord.

8 As I liue, saith the Lord God, surely becaus e my flocke was poiled, and my shepe were deuoured of all the beastes of the field, hauing no shepherd, nether did my shepherdes seke my shepe, but the shepherdes fed them selues, and fed not my shepe, 9 Therefore, heare ye the worde of the Lord, ô ye shepeherdes.

10 Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I come against the shepherdes, and wil require my shepe at their hands, and cause them to cease from feding the shepe: nether shal ẏ shepherds fede them selues any more: for I wil deliuer my shepe from f their mouthes, & thei shal nomore deuoure them.

e By destroying the couetous hirelings & restoring true shepherdes, whereof we haue a signe so oft as God sendeth true preachers who botho by doctrine & life labour to fede his shepe in the pleasant pastures of his worde.

11 For thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I wil serche my shepe, and seke them out.

12 As a shepherd sercheth out his flocke, when he hathe bene among his shepe ẏ are scattered, so wil I seke out my shepe & wil deliuer them out of all places, where thei haue bene scattered in g the cloudie & darke daie, f In the daie of their affliction and miserie: & this promes is to comfort the Church in all dangers.

13 And I wil bring them out from ẏ people, and gather them from ẏ countreis, and wil bring them to their owne land, and fede them vpon the mountaines of Israel, by the riuers, and in all the inhabited places of the countrey.

14 I wil fede them in a good pasture, & vpon the hie mountaines of Israel shal their folde be: there shal thei lie in a good folde and in fat pasture shal thei fede vpon the mountaines of Israel.

15 I wil fede my shepe, and bring them to their rest, saith the Lord God.

16 I wil seke that h was lost, and bring againe that which was driuen awaie, & wil binde vp that which was broken, & wil strengthen the weake, but I wil destroy the fat and the g strong, & I wil fede them with i iudgement.

g Meaning such as lift vp them selues aboue their brethren, and think thei haue no nede to be gouerned by me.

17 Also you my shepe, thus saith ẏ Lord God, Behold, I iudge betwene shepe, and shepe, betwene the rams & the goates.

h That is, by putting difference betwene the good and y bad, and so giue to ether as thei deserue.

18 Semeth it a smale thing vnto you to haue eaten vp the good k pasture, but ye must tread downe with your fete the residue of your pasture? & to haue dronke of the depe waters, but ye must trouble the residue with your fete?

19 And my shepe eat that which ye haue troden with your fete, & drinke that which ye haue troubled with your fete.

i By good pasture and depe waters is ment the pure word of God & ẏ administracion of iustice, w thei did not distribute to ẏ poore til thei had corrupt it.

20 Therefore thus saith the Lord God vnto them, Beholde, I, euen I wil iudge betwene the fat shepe & the leane shepe.

21 Because ye haue thrust with side and with shulder, and pusht all the weake w your hornes, til ye haue scattred them abroade,

22 Therefore wil I helpe my shepe, and thei shal nomore be spoiled, and I wil iudge betwene shepe and shepe.

23 And I wil set vp a shepherd ouer thē, and he shal fede them, euen my seruant k Dauid, he shal fede them, and he shalbe their shepherde.

24 And I the Lord wil be their God, and my seruant Dauid shalbe ỹ prince amōg them. I the Lord haue spoken it.

25 And I wil make with them a couenāt of peace, and wil cause the euil beastes to cease out of the land: and thei shal l dwell safely in the wildernes, and slepe in the woods.

26 And I wil seke them, as a blessing, euen rounde about my mountaine: and I wil cause raine to come downe in due season, & there shalbe raine of blessing.

27 And the m tre of the field shal yelde her frute, & the earth shal giue her frute, and thei shalbe safe in their land, & shal knowe that I am the Lord, when I haue broken the cordes of their yoke, and deliuered them out of the hands of those that serued them selues of them.

28 And thei shal nomore be spoiled of ỹ heathen, nether shal the beasts of ỹ land deuoure them, but thei shal dwell safely and none shal make them afraied.

29 And I wil raise vp for them a n plant of renoume, and they shalbe no more consumed with hungre in the land, nether beare the reproche of the heathen anie more.

30 Thus shal thei vnderstand, that I the Lord their God am with them, and that thei, euen ỹ house of Israel, are my people, saith the Lord God.

31 And ye my shepe, the shepe of my pasture are men, & I am your God, saith ỹ Lord God.

CHAP. XXXV.

1 The destructiō that shal come on mount Seir, becausе thei troubled the people of the Lord.

1 MOreouer the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, set thy face against mount a Seir, and prophecie against it,

3 And saie vnto it, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, ô mount Seir, I come against thee, and I wil stretche out mine hand against thee, and I wil make thee desolate and waste.

4 I wil laie thy cities waste, and thou shalt be desolate, and thou shalt knowe that I am the Lord.

5 Because thou hast had a perpetual hatred & hast put the children of Israel to slight by the force of the sworde in the time of their calamitie, when their b iniquitie had an end,

6 Therefore as I liue, saith the Lord God, I wil prepare thee vnto blood, and blood shal pursue thee: except thou c hate blood, euen blood shal pursue thee.

7 Thus wil I make mount Seir desolate and waste, and cut of from it him that passeth out and him that returneth.

8 And I wil fil his mountaines with his slaine men: in thine hils, and in thy valleis & in all thy riuers shal thei fall, that are slaine with the sworde.

9 I wil make the perpetual desolations, and thy cities shalt not d returne, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

10 Because thou hast said, e These two nacions, and these two countreis shalbe mine, & we wil possesse them (seing the Lord was f there)

11 Therefore as I liue, saith the Lord God, I wil euen do according to thy g wrath, & according to thine indignation which thou hast vsed in thine hatred against them: & I wil make my self knowen among h them when I haue iudged thee.

12 And thou shalt knowe, that I ỹ Lord haue heard all thy blasphemies which thou hast spoken against the mountaines of Israel, saying, Thei lye waste, thei are giuen vs to be deuoured.

13 Thus with your mouthes ye haue boasted against me, and haue multiplied your wordes against me: I haue heard them.

14 Thus saith the Lord God, So shal all the worlde reioyce when I shal make thee desolate.

15 As thou dideſt reioyce at the inheritance of the house of Israel, becausе it was desolate, so wil I do vnto thee: thou shalt be desolate, ô mōt Seir, & all Idumea wholly, and thei shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 He promiseth to deliuer Israel frō the Gentiles. 22 The benefites done vnto the Iewes, are to be ascribed to the mercie of God, and not vnto their deseruings. 26 God renueth our hearts, that we maie walke in his commandements.

1 ALso thou sonne of man, prophecie vnto the mountaines of Israel, and saie, Ye mountaines of Israel, heare the worde of the Lord.

2 Thus saith the Lord God, Because the a enemie hathe said against you, Aha, euē the b hie places of the worlde are ours in possession,

3 Therefore prophecie, and saie, Thus saith the Lord God, Because that they haue made you desolate, and swallowed you vp on euerie syde, that ye might be a pos-a possession vnto the residue of the heathen, & ye are come vnto the lippes & tongues of men, and vnto the reproche of the people, c Ye are made a matter of talke and derision to all the worlde.

4 Therefore ye mountaines of Israel, heare the worde of the Lord God, Thus saith the Lord God to the mountaines and to the hilles, to the riuers, and to the valleis, and to the waste, & desolate places, and to the cities that are forsaken, which are spoiled and had in derision of the residue of the heathen that are rounde about.

9 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Surely in the fyre of mine indignation haue I spoken against the residue of the heathen, and against all Idumea, which d haue taken my land for their possession, with the ioye of all their heart, and with despiteful mindes to cast it out for a praie.

d Thei appointed with them selues to haue it, and therefore came with Nebuchadnezzar against Ierusalē for this purpose.

6 Prophecie therefore vpon the land of Israel, and saie vnto the mountaines, and to the hilles, to the riuers, and to the valleis, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I haue spoken in mine indignation, and in my wrath, because ye haue suffered the shame of the heathen, e Because you haue bene a laughing stocke vnto them.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I haue f lifted vp mine hand, surely the heathen that are about you, shal beare their shame.

f By making a solemne othe, read chap. 20, 5.

8 But you, ô mountaines of Israel, ye shal g shoote forthe your branches, and bring forthe your frute to my people of Israel: for thei are ready to come.

g God declareth his mercies & goodnes toward his Church who stil preserueth his, euen when he destroieth his enemies.

9 For beholde, I come vnto you, and I wil turne vnto you, and ye shal be tilled and sowen.

10 And I wil multiplie the men vpon you, euen all the house of Israel wholly, & the cities shalbe inhabited, & ye desolate places shalbe buylded.

11 And I wil multiplie vpon you man & beast, & thei shal encrease, & bring frute, & I wil cause you to dwell after your olde estate, and I wil bestowe benefites vpon you more then h at the first, & ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

h Which was accomplished vnder Christ, to whome all these temporal deliuerances did direct them.

12 Yea, I wil cause mē to walke vpō you, i euen my people Israel. & thei shal possesse k you, & ye shal be their inheritance, & ye shal nomore hēce forthe depriue them of men.

i That is, vpon the mountaines of Ierusalem.

k Or, thee.

13 Thus saith the Lord God, Because thei saie vnto you, Thou k land deuourest vp men, & hast bene a waster of thy people, k Thus the enemies imputed as the reproche of the land w God did for ỹ sinnes of the people according to his iuste iudgements.

14 Therefore thou shalt deuoure men nomore, nether waste thy people hence forthe, saith the Lord God, 15 Nether wil I cause men to heare in thee the shame of the heathen any more, nether shalt thou beare the reproche of the people any more, nether shalt cause thy folke to fall any more, saith ỹ Lord God.

16 ¶ Moreouer the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

17 Sonne of man, when the house of Israel dwelt in their owne land, thei defiled it by their owne waies, & by their dedes: their waie was before me as ỹ filthines of the menstruous.

18 Wherefore I powred my wrath vpon them, for the blood that thei had shed in the land, and for their idoles, wherewith thei had polluted it.

19 And I scattred them among the heathen, and thei were dispersed through the countreis: for according to their waies, and according to their dedes, I iudged them.

20 *And whē thei entred vnto the heathen, whether thei went, thei polluted mine holy Name, when they said of thē, These are the people of the Lord, and are gone out of his land. Isa. 52, 5. rom. 2, 24.

21 But I fauoured mine holy l Name w the house of Israel had polluted among the heathen, whether they went.

l And therefore wolde not suffre my Name to be had in contempt, as ỹ heathen wolde haue reproched me, if I had suffred my Church to perish.

22 Therefore say vnto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, I do not this for your sakes, ô house of Israel, but for mine m holie Names sake, which ye polluted among the heathen whether ye went.

m This excludeth from man all dignitie, and meane to deserue anie thing by, seing ỹ God referreth the whole to him selfe, & that onely for the glorie of his holy Name.

23 And I wil sanctifie my great Name, w was polluted among the heathen, amōg whome you haue polluted it, & ỹ heathen shal knowe that I am ỹ Lord, saith the Lord God, when I shalbe sanctified in you before n their eyes.

n Or, your.

24 For I wil take you from among the heathen, and gather you out of all countreis, and wil bring you into your owne land.

25 Then wil I powre cleane o water vpon you, and ye shalbe cleane: yea, from all your filthines, and from all your idoles wil I clense you.

o That is, his Spirit whereby he reformeth ỹ heart & regeneratteth his, Isa. 44, 3. Iere. 32, 39. and chap. 11, 19.

26 *A new heart also wil I giue you, & a new spirit wil I put within you, & I wil take away the stonie heart out of your bodye, and I wil giue you an heart of flesh.

27 And I wil put my Spirit within you, and cause you to walke in my statutes, and ye shal kepe my iudgements & do them.

28 And ye shal dwell in the land, that I gaue to your fathers, and ye shalbe my people and I wil be your God.

29 I wil also deliuer you from all your filthines, and I wil call for p corne, and wil increase it, and lay no famine vpon you.

p Vnder ỹ abūdance of temporal benefites he concludeth the spiritual graces.

30 For I wil multiplie the frute of the trees, and the increase of the field, that ye shal beare no more the reproche of famine among the heathen.

31 Thē shal ye remēber your owne wicked wayes, & your dedes that were not good, & shal iudge your selues worthie to haue bene destroyed for your iniquities, and for your abominacions.

p Ye shal come to true repentance, & thinke your selues vnworthie to be of ỹ nomber of Gods creatures for your ingratitude against him.

32 Be it knowen vnto you that I do not this for your sakes, saith the Lord God: therefore, ô ye house of Israel, be ashamed, and confounded for your owne wayes.

33 Thus saith the Lord God, What time as I shal haue clensed you from all your iniquities, I wil cause you to dwel in the cities, and the desolate places shal be buylded.

34 And the desolate land shalbe tilled, where as it lay waste in the sight of all that passed by.

35 For they said, This waste land was like the garden of Eden, and these waste and desolate and ruinous cities were strong, and were inhabited.

q He declareth ỹ it ought not to be referred to ỹ soyle or plentifulnes of the earth that anie countrey is riche, & abundāt, but onely to Gods mercies, as his plagues, and curses declare when he maketh it baren.

36 Then the residue of the heathen that are left round about you, shal q knowe that I the Lord buylde the ruinous places, & plant the desolate places: I the Lord haue spoken it, and wil do it.

37 Thus saith the Lord God, I wil yet for this be soght of the house of Israel, to performe it vnto them: I wil encrease them with men like a flocke.

38 As the holie flocke, as the flocke of Ierusalem in their solemne feastes, so shal ỹ desolate cities be filled with flockes of men, and they shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXVII.

1 He prophecieth the bringing againe of the people, being in captiuitie. 16 He sheweth the vnion of the ten tribes with the two.

1 THe hand of the Lord was vpon me, and caryed me out in the Spirit of the Lord, and set me downe in the middes of the [a] field, which was ful of [a] bones.

[a] Or, valley.

2 And he led me round about by them, and beholde, there were very manie in the open field, and lo, they were verie drye.

a He sheweth by a greater miracle, that God hathe power, & also wil deliuer his people from their captiuitie in asmuche as he is able to giue life to ỹ dead bones, & bodyes, & raise them vp againe.

3 And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, cā these bones liue? And I answered, ô Lord God, thou knoweſt.

4 Againe he said vnto me, Propheeie vpon these bones and say vnto them, O ye drye bones, heare the worde of the Lord.

5 Thus saith the Lord God vnto these bones, Beholde, I wil cause breath to entre into you, and ye shal liue.

6 And I wil lay sinewes vpon you, and make flesh growe vpon you, and couer you with skin, and put breath in you, ỹ ye may liue, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

7 So I prophecied, as I was commanded: and as I prophecied, there was a noise, & beholde, there was a shaking, and the bones came together, bone to his bone.

8 And when I behelde, lo, the sinewes, & the flesh grewe vpon them, & aboue, the skin couered thē, but there was no breath in them.

9 Then said he vnto me, Prophecie vnto the winde: prophecie, sonne of man, and say to the winde, Thus saith ỹ Lord God, Come from the foure [b] windes, ô breath, and breathe vpon these slaine, that they may liue.

[b] Signifying, all partes where as the Israelites were scattered: ỹ is, the faithful shal be brought to the same vnitie of Spirit, & doctrine, whersoeuer they are scattered through ỹ worlde.

10 So I prophecied as he had commanded me: & the breath came into them, and they liued, and stode vp vpon their fete, an exceding great armie.

11 Then he said vnto me, Sonne of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel. Beholde, they say, Our bones are dryed, and our hope is gone, & we are cleane cut of.

12 Therefore propheeie, and say vnto them, thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, my people, I wil open your graues, & cause you to come vp out of your sepulchres, and bring you into the land of Israel,

13 And ye shal knowe that I am ỹ Lord, [c] when I haue opened your graues, ô my people, and brought you vp out of your sepulchres, c That is, when I haue brought you out of those places and townes where you are captiues.

14 And shal put my Spirit in you, and ye shal liue, & I shal place you in your owne land: then ye shal knowe that I ỹ Lord haue spoken it, and performed it, saith the Lord.

15 ¶ The worde of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

16 Moreouer thou sonne of mā, take thee a piece of wood, and write vpon it, Vnto Iudah, and to the children of Israel his companions: then take [d] another piece of wood and write vpon it, Vnto Ioseph the tre of Ephraim, and to all the house of Israel his companions.

d Which signifieth ỹ ioyning together of the two houses of Israel, and Iudah.

17 And thou shalt ioyne them one to another into one tre, and they shalbe as one in thine hand.

18 And when the children of thy people shal speake vnto thee, saying, Wilt thou not shewe vs what thou meaneſt by these?

19 Thou shalt answer them, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I wil take the tre [e] of Ioseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Israel his fellowes, & wil put them with him, euen with the tre of Iudah, and make them one tre, and they shalbe one in mine hand.

e That is, the house of Israel.

20 And the pieces of wood, whereon thou writeſt, shal be in thine hand, in their sight.

21 And say vnto thē, Thus saith ỹ Lord God,

God, Beholde, I wil take the children of Israel from among the heathen, whether they be gone, and wil gather them on euerie side, and bring them into their owne land.

22 And I wil make them one people in the land, vpon the mountaines of Israel, *and one King shalbe King to them all: & they shalbe no more two peoples, neither be deuided anie more hēce forthe into two kingdomes.

Ioh. 10, 16.

23 Nether shal they be polluted anie more with their idoles, nor with their abominations, nor with anie of their transgressions: but I wil saue them out of all their dwelling places, wherein they haue sinned, and wil clense them: so shal they be my people, and I wilbe their God.

24 And Dauid my *seruant shalbe King ouer them, and they all shal haue one shepherd: they shal also walke in my iudgements, and obserue my statutes, and do them.

Isa. 40, 11. ier. 23, 5. chap. 34, 23. dan. 9, 24.

f Meaning, that ꝟ elect & by Christ shal dwell in ꝟ hauenlie Ierusalem, ẅ is ment by the land of Canaan.

25 And they shal dwell in the f land, that I haue giuen vnto Iaakob my seruant, where your fathers haue dwelt, & they shal dwell therein, euen they, and their sonnes, & their sonnes sonnes for euer, & my seruant Dauid shalbe their prince for euer.

Psal. 109, 4. & 116, 2.

26 Moreouer, I wil make *a couenant of peace with them: it shal be an euerlasting couenant with them, and I wil place them, and multiplie them, and wil set my Sanctuarie among them for euer more.

27 My tabernacle also shalbe with them: yea, I wil be their God, and they shalbe my people.

28 Thus the heathen shal knowe, that I the Lord do sanctifie Israel, when my Sanctuarie shalbe among them for euer more.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

He prophecieth that Gog and Magog shal fight with great power against the people of God. 21 Their destruction.

ANd the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sone of man, set thy face against [a] Gog and against the land of Magog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal, and prophecie against him,

And say, Thus saith ꝟ Lord God, Beholde, I come against thee, ô Gog ꝟ chief prince of Meshech and Tubal.

3 And I wil destroye thee, and put hokes in thy chawes, and I wil bring thee forthe, and all thine hoste bothe horses, and horsemen, all clothed with all sortes of armour, euen a great multitude with buckelers, and shields, all [b] handling swordes.

a Which was a people ꝟ came of Magog ꝟ sonne of Iaphet, Gen. 10, 2. Magog also here signifieth a certeine coūtrey, so that by these two coūtreis, which had the gouernement of Grecia & Italie, he meaneth ꝟ principal enemies of the Church, Reuel 20, 8.

b He sheweth ꝟ ꝟ enemies shulde bend thē selues against the Church, but it shulde be to their owne destruction.

4 They of [c] Paras, of Cush, and Phut ẅ them, euen all they that beare shield and helmet.

c The persians, Ethiopians and men of Aphrica.

5 [d] Gomer and all his bandes, & ꝟ house of Togarmah of the North quarters, & all his bandes, & muche people with thee.

d Gomer was Iaphets sonne, and Togarmah ꝟ sonne of Gomer, and are thoght to be they ꝟ inhabited Asia minor.

6 Prepare thy self, and [e] make thee ready, bothe thou, and all thy multitude, ꝟ are assembled vnto thee, and be thou their sauegarde.

e Signifying, ꝟ all the people of the worlde shulde assemble them selues against ꝟ Churche and Christ their head.

7 After manie dayes thou shalt be visited: for in ꝟ latter yeres thou shalt come into the land, that hathe bene destroyed with the sworde, and is gathered out of manie people vpon the mountaines of Israel, ẅ haue long lien waste: yet [f] they haue bene brought out of the people, & they shal dwell all safe.

Or, in: meaning, the land of Israel.

f That is, to molest, & destroy o the Church.

8 Thou shalt ascend and come vp like a tempest, & shalt be like a cloude to couer the land, bothe thou, & all thy bādes, & manie people with thee.

9 Thus saith the Lord God, Euen at the same time shal manie things come into thy minde, and thou shalt thinke [g] euil thoghts.

g Meaning, Israel ẅ had now bene destroyed, & was not yet buylt againe: declaring here by the simplicitie of ꝟ godlie, who seke not so muche to fortifie them selues by outward force, as to depende on ꝟ prouidence & goodnes of God.

10 And thou shalt say, I wil go vp to the land that hathe no walled towres: [g] I wil go to them that are at rest, and dwell in safetie, ẅ dwell all without walles, and haue nether barres nor gates, 11 Thinking to spoile the pray, and to take a bootie, to turne thine hand vpon the desolate places that are now inhabited, & vpon the people that are gathered out of the nations which haue gottē cattel and goods & dwell in the middes of the land.

12 Sheba and Dedan, & the marchantes of Tarshish with all ꝟ lions thereof shal say vnto thee, [h] Art thou come to spoile ꝟ pray? hast thou gathered thy multitude to take a bootie? to cary away siluer & golde, to take away cattel & goods, & to spoile a great pray?

h One enemie shal enuie another because euery one shal thinke to haue the spoile of ꝟ Church.

13 Therefore, sonne of man, prophecie, and say vnto Gog, Thus saith the Lord God, In that day when my people of Israel [i] dwelleth safe, shalt thou not knowe it?

i Shalt not thou spie thine occasions to come against my Church, when they suspect nothing?

14 And come from thy place out of the North partes, thou and muche people with thee, all shal ride vpon horses, euen a great multitude and a mightie armie.

15 And thou shalt come vp against my people of Israel, as a cloude to couer the land: thou shalt be in the [k] latter daies, & I wil bring thee vpon my land ꝟ the heathen may knowe me, when I [l] shalbe sanctified in thee, ô Gog, before their eyes.

k Meaning, in ꝟ last age, and from the comming of Christ vnto ꝟ end of ꝟ worlde.

l Signifying ꝟ God wilbe sanctified by maintening his Church, & destroying his enemies, as Cha. 36, 23. & 37, 28.

16 Thus saith ꝟ Lord God, Art not thou he, of whome I haue spoken in olde time

m Hereby he declareth that none affliction can come to the Church, whereof they haue not bene aduertised afore time, to teache thē to indure all things with more patience whē they knowe ỹ God hathe so ordeined.

m by the hand of my seruants the Prophetes of Israel & prophecied in those dayes & yeres, that I wolde bring thee vpon them?

8 At the same time also when Gog shal come against the lād of Israel, saist thou Lord God, my wrath shal arise in mine angre.

9 For in mine indignation & in ỹ fyre of my wrath haue I spoken it: surely at that time there shalbe a great shaking in the land of Israel.

10 So that the fishes of the sea, & ỹ foules of the heauen, & the beastes of the field & all that moue & crepe vpon the earth, and all the men that are vpon the earth, shal tremble at my presence, & ỹ mountaines shalbe ouerthrowen, & the n staires shal fall, and euery wall shal fall to the grounde.

n All meanes whereby man shulde thinke to saue him self shal faile, ỹ affliction in those dayes shalbe so great & the enemies destructiō shal be so terrible.

11 For I wil call for a sworde against him o through out all my mountaines, saith the Lord God: euery mans sworde shalbe against his brother.

o Against ỹ people of Gog and Magog.

12 And I wil pleade against him with pestilence, and with blood, & I wil cause to raine vpon him & vpon his bandes, and vpon the great people, that are with him, a sore raine, and haile stones, fyre, & brimstone.

Chap. 36, 23. & 37, 28.

13 Thus wil I be* magnified, and sanctified, and knowen in the eyes of many nacions, and thei shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXIX.

2 He sheweth the destruction of Gog & Magog. 11 The graues of Gog and his hoste. 17 Thei shalbe deuoured of birdes & beastes. 23 Wherefore the house of Israel is captiue. 24 Their bringing againe from captiuitie is promised.

1 THerefore, thou sonne of man, prophecie against Gog, & say, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I come against thee, ô Gog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal.

a Or, destroy thee with six plagues, as Cha. 38, 22.

2 And I wil destroy thee a and leaue but the sixt part of thee, and wil cause thee to come vp from the North partes & wil bring thee vpon the mountaines of Israel:

3 And I wil smite thy bowe out of thy left hand, and I wil cause thine arrowes to fall out of thy right hand.

b Meaning, that by the vertue of Gods worde the enemie shalbe destroied where so euer he assaileth his Church.

4 Thou b shalt fall vpon the mountaines of Israel, and all thy bands and the people, that is with thee: for I wil giue thee vnto the birdes & to euery feathered foule & beast of the field to be deuoured.

5 Thou shalt fall vpon the open field: for I haue spoken it, saith the Lord God.

6 And I wil send a fyre on Magog, and among them that dwell safely in the c yles, and thei shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

c That is, amōg all nations where the enemies of my people dwell, seme they neuer so farre separate.

7 So wil I make mine holy Name knowen in the middes of my people Israel, and I wil not suffer them to pollute mine holy Name anie more, and the heathen shal knowe that I am the Lord, the holie one of Israel.

8 Beholde, d it is come, and it is done, saith the Lord God: this is the day whereof I haue spoken.

d That is, this plague is fully determined in my counsel and can not be chāged.

9 And thei that dwell in the cities of Israel, shal e go forthe, and shal burne & set fyre vpon the weapons, and on the shields, and bucklers, vpon the bowes, and vpon the arrowes, & vpon the staues in their hands, and vpon the speares, and thei shal burne them with fyre seuen yeres.

e After this destruction the Church shal haue great peace and tranquillitie, and burne all their weapons because they shal no more feare ỹ enemie: and this is chiefly ment of the accomplishment of Christs kingdome, whē by their head Christ all enemies shalbe ouercome.

10 So that they shal bring no wood out of the field, neither cut downe any out of the foreests: for they shal burne the weapons with fyre, and the shal robbe those, that robbed them, & spoyle those that spoyled them, saith the Lord God.

11 And at the same time wil I giue vnto Gog f a place there for buryal in Israel, euen the valley whereby men go toward the East part of the Sea: & it shal cause thē that passe by, to stop their g noses, & there shal they burye Gog with all his multitude: & they shal call it the valley of h Hamon-Gog.

f Which declareth ỹ the enemies shal haue an horrible fall.

g For ỹ stinke of ỹ carkeises.

h Or, of the multitude of Gog.

12 i And seuen moneths long shal ỹ house of Israel be burying of them, ỹ they may clense the land.

i Meaning, a long time.

13 Yea, all the people of ỹ land shal bury them, & they shal haue a name when I shalbe glorified, saith the Lord God.

14 And they shal chuse out men to go continually through the k land with thē that trauail, to burye those that remaine vpon the grounde, & clense it: they shal searche to the end of seuen moneths.

k partely that ỹ holy land shulde not be polluted, & partely for the compassion ỹ the children of God haue euē on their enemies.

15 And the trauailers that passe through the land, if any se a mans bone, then shal he set vp a signe by it, til the buryers haue buryed it, in the valley of Hamon-Gog.

16 And also the name of the citie shal be l Hamonah: thus shal they clense the land.

17 And thou sonne of man, thus saith the Lord God, Speake vnto euerie feathered foule, and to all the beastes of the field, Assemble your selues, and come: m gather your selues on euerie side to my sacrifice: for I do sacrifice a great sacrifice for you vpon the mountaines of Israel, that ye may eat flesh, and drinke blood.

m Whereby he signifieth the horrible destruction that shulde come vpon ỹ enemies of his Church.

18 Ye shal eat the flesh of the valiant, & drinke the blood of the princes of the earth, earth, of the weathers, of ſ lambes, and of the goates, & of bullockes, euen of all fat beaſts of Bashan.

19 And ye ſhal eat fat til you be full, and drinke blood, til ye be drunken of my ſacrifice, which I haue ſacrificed for you.

20 Thus you ſhalbe filled at my table with horſes and chariots, with valiant men, and with all men of warre, ſaith the Lord God.

21 And I wil ſet my glorie among ſ heathen, & all the heathen ſhal ſe my iudgement, that I haue executed, and mine hand, which I haue layed vpon them.

22 So ſ houſe of Iſrael ſhal knowe, that I am the Lord their God from that day and ſo forthe.

Sym.

1 The heathen ſhal knowe that they ouercame not my people by their ſtrēgth nether yet by the weaknes of mine arme, but ſ this was for my peoples ſinnes.

23 And the heathen ſhal knowe, that the houſe of Iſrael went into captiuitie for their iniquitie, becauſe they treſpaced againſt me: therefore hid I my face frō them, and gaue them into the hand of their enemies: ſo fel they all by ſ ſworde.

24 According to their vnclennes, & according to their tranſgreſsions haue I done vnto them, and hid my face from them.

25 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Now wil I bring againe the captiuitie of Iaakob, and haue compaſsion vpon the whole houſe of Iſrael, and wil be ielous for mine holy Name, 26 After that they haue borne their ſhame, and all their tranſgreſsion, whereby they haue tranſgreſſed againſt me, when they dwelt ſafely in their land, & without feare of any.

27 When I haue broght them againe frō the people, & gathered thē out of their enemies lands, and am *ſanctified in thē in the ſight of manie nacions,

*Chap. 36, 23.

28 Then ſhal they knowe, that I am the Lord their God, which cauſed them to be led into captiuitie among the heathen: but I haue gathered thē vnto their owne land, and haue left none of them any more there, 29 Nether wil I hide my face anie more from them: for I haue powred out my Spirit vpon the houſe of Iſrael, ſaith the Lord God.

CHAP. XL.

The reſtoring of the citie and the Temple.

a The Iewes coūted ſ beginning of ſ yere after two ſorts: for their feaſtes they began to counte in March, and for their other affaires in Septēbre ſo ſ this is to be vnderſtād of September.

IN the fiue and twentieth yere of our being in captiuitie in the[a] beginning of the yere, in the tenth day of the moneth, in the fourtēth yere after that the citie was ſmitten, in the ſelf ſame day, ſ hand of the Lord was vpō me, & broght me thether.

2 Into the land of Iſrael broght he me by[b] a diuine viſion, & ſet me vpon a verie hie mountaine, whereupon was as ſ buylding of a citie, toward the South.

b Or, viſions of God.

3 And he broght me thether, & beholde, there was a[b] man, whoſe ſimilitude was to loke to, like braſſe, with a linen threde in his hand, and a rede to meaſure with: and he ſtode at the gate.

b Which was an Angel in forme of a man, ſ came to meaſure out this buylding.

4 And the man ſaid vnto me, Sonne of man, beholde with thine eyes, and heare with thine eares, and ſet thine heart vpon all that I ſhal ſhew thee: for to the intent, that they might be ſhewed thee, art thou broght hether: declare all that thou ſeeſt, vnto the houſe of Iſrael.

5 And beholde, I ſawe a wall on ſ outſide of the houſe rounde about: & in the mans hand was a rede to meaſure with, of ſix cubites long, by the cubite, & an hand breadth: ſo he meaſured ſ breadth of the buylding with one rede, and the height with one rede.

6 Then came he vnto the gate, which loketh toward the Eaſt, & went vp the ſtaires thereof, and meaſured the[a] poſte of the gate, which was one rede broad, and[b] the other poſte of the gate, which was one rede broad.

a Or, three ſholde.

b Or, vpperpoſte.

7 And euerie chamber was one rede lōg, & one rede broad, & betwene ſ chambers were fiue cubites: & the poſte of the gate by the porche of the gate within was one rede.

8 He meaſured alſo the porche of the gate within with one rede.

9 Then meaſured he the porche of the gate of eight cubites, & the[a] poſtes thereof, of two cubites, and the porche of the gate was inwarde.

a Or, pentiſes.

10 And the chambers of the gate Eaſtwarde, were thre on this ſide, & thre on that ſide: they thre were of one meaſure, and the poſtes had one meaſure on this ſide and one on that ſide.

11 And he meaſured the breadth of the entrie of the gate ten cubites, & the height of the gate thirtene cubites.

12 The ſpace alſo before ſ chambers was one cubite on this ſide, & ſ ſpace was one cubite on ſ ſide, & the chabers were ſix cubits on this ſide & ſix cubits on ſ ſide.

13 He meaſured then the gate from the roufe of a chamber to the top of ſ gate: the breadth was fyue and twentie cubites, dore againſt dore.

14 He made alſo poſtes of threſcore cubites, and the poſtes of the court, & of ſ gate had one meaſure round about.

15 And vpon the forefront of the entrie of the gate vnto the forefront of ſ porche of ſ gate within, were fifitie cubites.

16 And there were narrow windowes in ſ chabers, & in their poſtes within ſ gate round about, & likewiſe to ſ arches: & the windowes went round about within: & vpon the poſtes were palme trees.

The prophet was now in the East courte, where he saw the altar measured, and describeth one rowe of chambers, ẅ was for the priests.

44 And without the inner gate were the chambers of the singers in the inwarde courte, which was at the side of ſ North gate: & their prospect was towarde the South, & one was at the side of the East gate, hauing the prospect towarde the North.

1 AFterwarde, he broght me to ſ Temple, & measured the postes, six cubites broad on the one side and six cubites broad on ſ other side, which was the breadth of the tabernacle.

2 And the breadth of the entrie was ten cubits, & the sides of the entrie were fiue cubits on the one side, & fiue cubits on the other side, and he measured the length thereof fortie cubites, & ſ breadth twentie cubites.

4 So he measured ſ length thereof twentie cubites & the breadth twentie cubites before the Temple. And he said vnto me, This is the moste holie place.

5 After, he measured the wall of ſ house, six cubites, and the breadth of euerie chambre foure cubites rounde about ſ house, on euerie side.

6 And the chambres were chambre vpon chambre, thre and thirtie fore high, & they entred into the wall made for ſ chambres which was rounde about the house that the postes might be fastened therein, and not be fastened in the wall of the house.

7 And it was large and went round mounting vpwarde to the chambres: for ſ staire of the house was mounting vpward, rounde about the house: therefore the house was larger vpwarde: so thei went vp from the loweſt chambre to the hieſt by the middes.

CHAP. XLII.

Of the chambers of the Temple for the Priests, and the holie things.

Verſ.1. Hauig described the length and breadth of ỹ Temple, he cometh to the outwarde court on the North side. T. This appeareth in the great figure.

1 THen broght he me into the vtter court by ỹ waie towarde ỹ North, & he broght me into the chamber that was ouer against the separate place, and which was before the buylding towarde the North.

2 Before the length of an hundreth cubites was the North dore, & it was fiftie cubits broad.

3 Ouer against the twentie cubites which were for the inner court, & ouer against the pauement, which was for the vtter court, was chambre against chambre in thre rowes.

4 And before the chābres was a galerie of tē cubites wide, & within was a waie of one cubite, and their dores towarde the North.

5 Now the chambres aboue were narower: for those chambres semed to eat vp these, to wit, the lower, and those ỹ were in the middes of the buylding.

6 For thei were in thre rowes, but had not pillers as the pillers of the court: therefore there was a difference from them beneth and from the middlemost, euen from the ground.

7 And the wall that was without ouer against the chambres, towarde the vtter court on ỹ fore front of the chambers, was fiftie cubites long.

8 For the length of the chambres that were in the vtter court, was fiftie cubites: & lo, before ỹ Temple were an hundreth cubites.

9 And vnder these chambres was ỹ entrie, on the East side, as one goeth into them from the outwarde court.

10 The chambres were in the thickenes of the wall of the court towarde ỹ East, ouer against the separate place, and ouer against the buylding.

11 And the waie before them was after the maner of the chambres, which were toward the North as long as thei, and as broad as thei: and all their entries were like, bothe according to their facions, and according to their dores.

12 And according to the dores of ỹ chābres that were towarde the South, was a dore in the corner of the waie, euen the waie directly before the wall towarde ỹ East, as one entreth.

13 Then said he vnto me, The North chambres & the South chambres which are before the separate place, thei be holy chambers, wherein the Priests that approche vnto the Lord, shal eat ỹ moste holie things: there shal thei laie the moste holy things, & the meat offring, and the sinoffring, and the trespasse offring: for the place is holy.

14 When the Priests entre therein, thei shal not go out of the holie place into ỹ vtter court, but there thei shal laie their garments wherein thei minister: for thei are holie, & shal put on other garmēts, & so shal approche to those things, w̄ are for the people.

15 Now when he had made an end of measuring the inner house, he broght me forthe towarde the gate whose prospect is towarde the East, & measured it

Verſ.5. These chambres were contrary facioned to them of the Temple.

Verſ.8. So that the wall for the chambres of ỹ outwarde court and the wall of the inner, was either fiftie cubites, & ỹ whole court an hūdreth.

CHAP. XLIII.

2 He seeth the glorie of God, going into the Temple, from whence it had before departed. 7 He mencioneth the idolatrie of the children of Israel for the which thei were consumed and broght to noght. 9 He is cõmanded to call them againe to repentance.

1 AFterwarde he broght me to the gate, euen the gate that turneth towarde the East.

2 And beholde, the glorie of the God of Israel came from out of the East, whose voice was like a noise of great waters, and the earth was made light with his glorie.

3 And the vision which I sawe was *like the vision, euen as the vision that I sawe [a] when I came to destroie the citie: and the visions were like the vision that I sawe by the riuer Chebar: & I fel vpon my face.

4 And the [b] glorie of the Lord came into the house by the waie of the gate, whose prospect is towarde the East.

5 So the Spirit toke me vp and broght me into the inner court, and beholde, the glorie of the Lord filled the house.

6 And I heard one speaking vnto me out of the house: and there stode a man by me,

7 Which said vnto me, Sonne of man, this place is my throne, & the place of the soles of my fete, where as I wil dwell among the children of Israel for euer, and the house of Israel shal no more [c] defile mine holie Name, nether thei, nor their Kings by their fornications, nor by the carkeises of [d] their Kings in their high places.

8 Albeit they set their thresholdes by my thresholdes, and their postes by my postes (for there was but a wall betwene me & them) yet haue thei defiled mine holy Name with their abominations, that thei haue committed: wherefore I haue cõsumed thẽ in my wrath.

9 Now therefore let them put away there fornication, & the carkeses of their Kings farre from me, and I wil dwell among them for euer.

10 ¶ Thou sonne of mã, shewe this House to the house of Israel, that thei may be ashamed of their wickednes, and let them measure the paterne.

11 And if thei be ashamed of all ſ thei haue done, shewe them the forme of the house, & the paterne thereof, & ſ going out thereof, & the comming in thereof, and the whole facion thereof, & all ſ ordinances thereof, & all the figures thereof, & all the lawes thereof: & write it in their sight, that thei may kepe the whole facion thereof, & all the ordinances thereof, and do them.

15 So the altar shalbe foure cubites, and from the altar vpwarde shalbe foure hornes.

Vers.17. The frame whereupon the hiest piece stode, is fourtene cubites: for on euery side it is longer by a cubite then the vppermoste E L, L M.

18 ¶And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, thus saith the Lord God, These are the ordinances of the altar in the day when thei shal make it to offer the burnt offring thereon, & to sprinkle blood thereon.

19 And thou shalt giue to the Priests, & to ſ Leuites, that be of the sede of Zadok, ẅ approche vnto me, to minister vnto me, saith the Lord God, a yõg bullocke for a sinne offring.

20 And thou shalt take of ſ blood thereof, and put it on the foure hornes of it, & on the foure corners of the frame, and vpon the bordre round about: thus shalt thou clense it, and reconcile it.

21 Thou shalt take the bullocke also of the sinne offring, & burne it in the appointed place of the house without the Sanctuarie.

22 But the seconde day thou shalt offre an he goat without blemish for a sin offring, & thei shal clense the altar, as thei did clense it with the bullocke.

23 When thou hast made an end of clensing it, thou shalt offer a yong bullocke without blemish, and a ram out of the flocke without blemish.

24 And thou shalt offre them before the Lord, and the Priests shal cast salt vpon them, & thei shal offre them for a burnt offring vnto the Lord.

25 Seuen daies shalt thou prepare euerie day an he goat for a sin offring: thei shal also prepare a yong bullocke and a ram out of the flocke, without blemish.

3 It apperteineth to the Prince: the Prince him self shal sit in it to eat bread before the Lord: he shal entre by the way of the porche of that gate, and shal go out by the way of the same.

4 ¶Then broght he me toward ſ North gate before the House: and when I loked, beholde, the glorie of the Lord filled the house of the Lord, and I fel vpon my face.

5 And the Lord said vnto me, Sonne of man, "marke wel, and beholde with thine eyes, and heare with thine eares, all that I say vnto thee, concerning all the ordinances of the House of the Lord, & all the lawes thereof, and marke wel the entring in of the house with euerie going forthe of the Sanctuarie.

12 Because thei serued before their idoles, and caused the house of Israel to fall into iniquitie, therefore haue I lift vp mine hand against them, saith the Lord God, & thei shal beare their iniquitie,

1 Out of the land of promes are there separate foure porcions, of which the first is giuen to the Priests and to the Temple, the second to the Leuites, the third to the citie, the fourth to the prince. 9 An exhortacion vnto the heads of Israel. 10 Of iust weights and measures. 13 Of the first frutes: &c.

1 MOreouer when ye shal deuide the land for inheritance, ye shal offre an oblacion vnto ȳ Lord an [a]holy porcion of the land, fiue and twentie thousand redes long, and ten thousand broad: this shalbe holy in all the borders thereof rounde about.

2 Of this there shalbe for the Sanctuarie fiue hūdreth in length with fiue hundreth in breadth, all square roūde about, and fiftie cubites rounde about for the suburbes thereof.

3 And of this measure shalt thou measure the length of fiue & twentie thousand, & the breadth of ten thousand: and in it shal be the Sanctuarie, & the moste holy place.

6 Alſo ye ſhal appoint the poſſeſsion of the citie, fiue thouſand broad, and fiue and twentie thouſand long ouer againſt the oblacion of the holy porciō: it ſhalbe for the whole houſe of Iſrael.

7 And a porcion ſhalbe for the prince on ỹ one ſide, and on that ſide of the oblaciō of the holy porcion, and of the poſſeſsiō of the citie, euen before the oblacion of the holy porcion, and before the poſſeſsion of the citie from the Weſt corner Weſtwarde, and from the Eaſt corner Eaſtwarde, and the length ſhalbe by one of the porcions from the Weſt border vnto the Eaſt border.

8 In this land ſhalbe his poſſeſsion in Iſrael: and my princes ſhal no more oppreſſe my people, and the reſt of the lād ſhal thei giue to the houſe of Iſrael, according to their tribes.

b The Prophet ſheweth that, ỹ heads muſt be firſt reformed afore any good ordre can be eſtabliſhed amōg the people.

18 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord God, In ỹ firſt moneth, in the firſt day of e the moneth, e Which was Niſan, conteining parte of Marche & parte of April. thou ſhalt take a yōg bullocke without blemiſh & cleanſe the Sanctuarie.

22 And vpon that day, ſhal the prince prepare for him ſelf, & for all the people of the lād, a bullocke for a ſinne offring.

25 In the ſeuenth moneth in the fiftenth day of the moneth, ſhal he do the like in the feaſt for ſeuen daies, according to the ſinne offring, according to the burnt offring, and according to the meat offring, & according to the oyle.

CHAP. XLVI.

1 The ſacrifices of the Sabbath and of the newe moones. 8 Thorowe which dores they muſt go in, or come out of the Temple, &c.

1 THus ſaith the Lord God, The gate of ỹ inner court, that turneth towarde the Eaſt, ſhalbe ſhut ỹ ſix working daies: but oñ the Sabbath it ſhalbe opened, & in the daye of the new moone it ſhal be opened. Verſ. 1. The inner court gate whereunto they went vp by eight ſteps, as appeareth in the great figure.

2 And the prince ſhal entre by ỹ waye of the porche of that gate without, and ſhal ſtand by the poſte of the gate, & the Prieſts ſhal make his burnt offring, and his peace offrings, & he ſhal worſhip at the threſholde of the gate: after, he ſhal go forthe, but the gate ſhal not be ſhut til the euening.

3 Likewiſe the people of the land ſhal worſhip at the entrie of this gate before the Lord on the Sabbaths, and in the new moones.

4 And the burnt offring that the prince shal offre vnto the Lord on ỹ Sabbath daye, shalbe six lambs without blemish, & a ram without blemish.

5 And ỹ meat offring, shalbe an Ephah for a ram: & the meat offring for ỹ lambes [a] a gift of his hand, and an Hin of oyle to an Ephah.

a That is, as much as he wil.

6 And in the daye of the new moone it shal be a yõg bullocke without blemish, & six lambs and a ram: they shalbe without blemish.

7 And he shal prepare a meat offring, euẽ an Ephah for a bullocke, & an Ephah for a ram, and for the lambes [b] according as his hand shal bring, and an Hin of oyle to an Ephah.

b Meaning, as he shal thinke good.

8 And when the prince shal entre, he shal go in by the way of the porche of that gate, and he shal go forthe by the way thereof.

Vers. 9. He ỹ entreth in by ỹ North gate R, shal go out by ỹ South gate d & contrary, and in going forward they worshipped in the middes M.

9 But when the people of the land shal come before the Lord in the solemne feasts, he that entreth in by the way of the North gate to worship, shal go out by the way of the South gate: & he that entreth by the way of the South gate, shal go forthe by the way of the North gate: he shal not returne by the way of the gate whereby he came in, but they shal go forthe ouer against it.

10 And the prince shalbe in the middes of them: he shal go in when they go in, & when thei go forthe, they shal go forthe together.

11 And in the feasts, and the solemnities the meat offring shalbe an Ephah to a bullocke, and an Ephah to a ram, & to the lambs, the gift of his hand, and an Hin of oyle to an Ephah.

12 Now when the prince shal make a free burnt offring or peace offrings frely vnto the Lord, one shal then open him the gate, that turneth toward the East, and he shal make his burnt offring and his peace offrings, as he did on the Sabbath day: after, he shal go forthe, and when he is gone forthe, one shal shut the gate.

13 Thou shalt daiely make a burnt offring vnto the Lord of a lambe of one yere without blemish: thou shalt do it euery morning.

14 And thou shalt prepare a meat offring for it euery morning, the sixt parte or an Ephah, and the third parte of an Hin of oyle, to mingle with the fine floure: this meat offring shalbe continually by a perpetual ordinance vnto the Lord.

15 Thus shal they prepare the lambe, and the meat offring and the oyle euery morning, for a continual burnt offring.

16 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, If ỹ prince giue a gift of his inheritance vnto any of his sonnes, it shalbe his sonnes, and it shalbe their possession by inheritance.

17 But if he giue a gift of his inheritance to one of his seruants, then it shalbe his to the [c] yere of libertie: after, it shal returne to the prince, but his inheritance shal remaine to his sonnes for them.

c Which was at the Iubile, Leui. 25. 9.

18 Moreouer the prince shal not [d] take of the peoples inheritance, nor thrust them out of their possession: but he shal cause his sonnes to inherit of his owne possession, that my people be not scattered euery man from his possession.

d But he conteut ẅ that portion ỹ God hath assigned hi, as Chap. 45. 8.

19 ¶ After, he broght me through ỹ entrie, which was at the side of the gate, into the holy chambers of the Priests, which stode toward the North: and behold, there was a place at the West side of them.

Vers. 19. He describeth the priests chãbers, ẅ were at the side of the Tẽple toward the North: & so cometh to ỹ place, ẅ was on ỹ West side. S ẅ vers. 21. is called the vtter court, in respect of ỹ inner court, as also where the people were, was ỹ vtter court in respect of this inner.

20 Then said he vnto me, This is the place where the Priests shal seeth ỹ trespasse offring and the sinne offring, where they shal bake the meat offring, that thei shulde not beare them into the vter court, [e] to sanctifie the people.

e That ỹ people shulde not haue to do ẅ those things ẅ apperteine to ỹ Lord, & think it lawful for thẽ to eat them.

21 Then he broght me forthe into the vtter court, and caused me to go by the foure corners of the court: and behold, in euery corner of the court, there was a court.

22 In the foure corners of the court there were courtes ioyned of fortie cubites long, & thirtie broad: these foure corners were of one measure.

vers. 21. The litle court in euery corner, was fortie cubits long. 7. 8. & thirty broad 8, 9. & 7. 9.

23 And there went a wall about them, euen about those foure, and kitchins were made vnder the walles rounde about.

24 Then said he vnto me, This is the kitchin where ỹ ministers of the house shal seeth the sacrifice of the people.

vers. 23. About the walles of these litle courts, ẅ were as kitchins, were litle chambers for ỹ cookes 10.

CHAP. XLVII.

3 And whẽ the man that had the line in his hãd, went forthe Eastwarde, he measured a thousand cubites, & he broght me through the waters: ỹ waters were to the 4 Againe he measured a thousand, and broght me through the waters: the waters were to the knees: againe he measured a thousand, and broght me through: the waters were to the loines.

The graces of god shuld be in his church.

5 Afterward he measured a thousand, & it was a [b] riuer, that I colde not passe ouer: for the waters were risen, [c] & the waters did flowe, as a riuer ỹ colde not be passed ouer.

6 And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, hast thou sene this? Thē he broght me, & caused me to returne to the brinke of the riuer.

7 Now when I returned, beholde, at the brinke of ỹ riuer were very many [c] trees on the one side, and on the other.

8 Then said he vnto me, These waters yssue out towarde the East countrey, & runne downe into the plaine, & shal go into one [d] sea: thei shal runne into another sea, and the [e] waters shalbe holsome.

9 And euerie thing that liueth, which moueth, whereſoeuer the riuers shal come, shal liue, & there shalbe a very great multitude of fish, becausse these waters shal come thether: for thei shalbe holsome, & euerie thing shal liue whether ỹ riuer cometh.

10 And then the [f] fishers shal stand vpō it, and from En-gedi euen vnto [g] En-eglaim, thei shal spreade out their nettes: for their fish shalbe according to their kindes, as the fish of [h] the maine sea, exceading many.

11 But [i] the myrie places thereof, & the marises thereof shal not be holsome: thei shal be made salt pittes.

12 And by this riuer vpon ỹ brinke thereof, on this side, & on ỹ side shal growe all [n] fruteful trees, whose leafe shal not fade, nether shal the frute thereof faile: it shal bring forthe new frute according to his moneths, becausse their waters rūne out of ỹ Sanctuarie, & the frute thereof shalbe meat, & ỹ leaf thereof shalbe for [n] medecine.

13 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, This shal be the border, whereby ye shal inherit ỹ land according to the twelue tribes* of Israel: Ioseph shal haue two porcions.

14 And ye shal inherit it, one aswel as another: * cōcerning ỹ which I lift vp mine hand to giue it vnto your fathers, & this land shal fall vnto you for inheritance.

15 And this shalbe the border [k] of ỹ land toward the North side, from the maine sea toward Hethlon as men go to Zedadah.

16 Hamath, Berothah, Sibraim, which is betwene the border of Damascus, & the border of Hamath, & Hazar, Hatticon, which is by the coast of Hauran.

17 And the border from the sea shalbe Hazar, Enan, & ỹ border of Damascus, and the residue of ỹ North, Northwarde, & the border of Hamath: so shalbe ỹ North parte.

18 But the East side shal ye measure from Hauran, and from Damascus, and from Gilead, & from ỹ land of Israel by Iorden, & from the border vnto the East sea: & so shalbe the East parte.

19 And ỹ Southeside shalbe toward Temā from Tamar to the waters of [l] Meriboth in Kadesh, & the riuer to the maine sea: so shalbe the South parte toward Teman.

20 The West parte also shalbe the great sea from the border, til a man come ouer against Hamath: this shalbe ỹ West parte.

21 So shal ye deuide this land vnto you, according to the tribes of Israel.

22 And you shal deuide it by lot for an inheritance vnto you, & to the strangers that dwell among you, which shal beget children among you, & thei shalbe vnto you, as borne in the countrei among the children of Israel, [l] thei shal parte inheritance with you in the middes of the tribes of Israel.

23 And in what tribe the stranger dwelleth, there shal ye giue him his inheritance, saith the Lord God.

THE ARGUMENT.

THe great prouidence of God, and his singular mercie toward his Church are moste liuely here set forthe, who neuer leaueth his destitute, but now in their greatest miseries and afflictions giueth them Prophetes, as Ezekiel, & Daniel, whome he adorned with suche graces of his holie Spirit, that Daniel aboue all other had moste special reuelations of suche things as shulde come to the Church, euen from the time that thei were in captiuitie, to the last end of the worlde, and to the general resurrection, as of the foure Monarches and empires of all the worlde, to wit, of the Babylonians, Persians, Grecians, & Romaines. Also of the certeine nombre of the times euen vnto Christ, when all ceremonies & sacrifices shulde cease, because he shulde be the accomplishement thereof: moreouer he sheweth Christes office and the cause of his death, which was, by his sacrifice to take awaye sinnes, and to bring euerlasting life. And as from the beginning God euer exercised his people vnder the crosse, so he teacheth here, that after that Christ is offred, he wil stil leaue this exercise to his Church vntil the dead rise againe, and Christ gather his into his kingdome in the heauens.

CHAP. I.

1 The captiuitie of Iehoiakim King of Iudah: 4 The King chuseth certeine yong men of the Iewes to learne his lawe. 5 Thei haue the Kings ordinarie appointed, 8 But thei abstaine from it.

1 IN the [a] thirde yere of the reigne of Iehoiakim King of Iudah, came Nebuchad-nezzar, King of Babel vnto Ierusalē, & beseiged it.

2 And the Lord gaue Iehoiakim King of Iudah into his hand, with parte of ỹ vessels of the house of God, which he caried into the land of [b] Shinar, to the house of his god, and he broght ỹ vessels into his gods treasurie.

3 And the King spake vnto [c] Ashpenaz the master of his [d] Eunuches, that he shulde bring certeine of the children of Israel, of the [e] Kings sede, & of ỹ princes:

4 Children in whome was no blemish, but wel [f] fauoured, & instruct in all wisdome, and wel sene in knowledge, and able to vtter knowledge, and suche as were able to stand in the Kings palace, and whome thei might teache the [g] learning, and the tongue of the Caldeans.

5 And the King appointed them prouision euerie daie of a [h] portion of ỹ Kings meat, & of the wine, which he dranke, so nourishing thē [i] thre yere, that at ỹ end thereof, thei might stand [k] before the King.

6 Now among these were certeine of the children of Iudah, Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael and Azariah.

7 Vnto whome the chief of the Eunuches [l] gaue other names: for he called Daniel, Belteshazar, & Hananiah, Shadrach, & Mishael, Meshach, & Azariah, Abednego.

8 ¶ But Daniel had determined in his heart, ỹ he wolde not [m] defile him self ỹ the porcion of the Kings meat, nor with the wine which he dranke: therefore he required the chief of the Eunuches that he might not defile him self.

9 (Now God had broght Daniel into fauour, and tender loue with the chief of the Eunuches)

10 And ỹ chief of ỹ Eunuches said vnto Daniel, [n] I feare my lord the King, who hathe appointed your meat and your drinke: therefore if he se your faces worse liking then the other childrē, ỹ are of your sorte, then shal you make me lose mine head vnto the King.

11 Then said Daniel to Melzar, whome the chief of the Eunuches had set ouer Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, 12 Proue thy seruants, I beseche thee, [o] ten daies, and let them giue vs [p] pulse to eat, b Which was a plaine by Babylon where was the Temple of their great god, & is here taken for Babylon.

c Who was as master of the wardes.

d He calleth thē Eunuches whome ỹ King nourished & broght vp to be rulers of other countries afterward.

e His purpose was to kepe thē as hostages, and ỹ he might shewe him self victorious, & also by their good intreatie & learning of his religio, thei might fauour rather him then ỹ Iewes & so to be able to serue his gouerners in their land: moreouer by this meanes the Iewes might be better kept in subiection, fearing otherwise to procure hurt to these noble men.

f The King required three things, that thei shulde be of noble byrth, ỹ thei shulde be witty & learned, and that thei shulde be of a strong & comelie nature that thei might do him better seruice: this he did for his owne commoditie, therefore it is not to praise his liberalitie: yet in this he is worthy praise, that he esteemed learning, & knewe ỹ it was a necessarie meane to gouerne by.

g That thei might forget their owne religion, and conuerte facions, to serue him the better to his purpose: yet it is not to be thoght that Daniel did learne anie knowledge that was not godlie: in all pointes he refused ỹ abase of things and superstition, in so muche that he wolde not eat the meat wt the King appointed him, but was content to learne the knowledge of natural things.

h That by their good intertenemēt thei might learne to forget the mediocritie of their owne people.

i To the intent that in this time thei might bothe learne ỹ maners of the Caldeans & also their tongue.

k As we to serue at the table, as in other office.

l That thei might altogether forget their religion: for the Iewes giue their children names, wt might reuet put them in remembrace of some point of religion: therefore this was a great tentacion & a signe of seruitude wt thei were not able to resist.

m Not that he thoght anie religion to be in ỹ meat or drinke (for afterwarde he did eat) but because the King shulde not inuse him by this sweete poyson to forget his religion and accustomed sobrietie, and ỹ in his meat and drinke he might daylie remembre of what people he was: and Daniel bringeth this into shewe how God from the beginning assisted him with his Spirit, and at length called him to be a Prophet.

n He supposed thei did this for their religion, which was contrarie to the Babylonians, & therefore herein he representeth them, which are of no religion: for neither he wolde condemne theirs nor maintein his owne.

o Meaning, that within this space he might haue the tryal, and that noman shulde be able to discerne it: and thus he spake, being moued by the Spirit of God.

p Not that it was a thing abominable to eat dentie meates and to drinke wine, as bothe before and after thei did, but if thei shulde haue hereby bene wonne to the King and haue refused their owne religion, that meat and drinke had bene accursed.

13 Then let our countenances be loked vpon before thee, and the countenances of the children that eat of the porciō of the Kings meat: & as thou seest, deale wt thy seruants.

14 So he consented to them in this matter, & proued them ten daies.

15 And at the end of ten daies, their countenances appeared fairer, & in better lyking then all the childrens, which did eat the porcion of the Kings meat.

16 Thus Melzar toke awaie the porcion of their meat, & the wine that thei shulde drinke, and gaue them pulse.

17 As for these foure children, God gaue them knowledge, and vnderstanding in all learning[r] and wisdome: also he gaue Daniel vnderstanding of all [r] visions & dreames.

18 Now when the time was[r] expired, that the King had appointed to bring them in, the chief of the Eunuches broght them before Nebuchad-nezzar.

19 And the King communed with them: and among them all was founde none like Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, & Azariah: therefore stode thei before the King.

20 And in all matters of wisdome, & vnderstanding that the King enquired of them, he founde them ten times better then all the inchanters & astrologians, that were in all his realme.

21 And Daniel was vnto [v] the first yere of King Cyrus.

CHAP. II.

The dreame of Nebuchad-nezzar. 13 The King commandeth all the wise men of Babylon to be slaine because thei colde not interprete his dreame. 16 Daniel requireth time to solute the question. 24 Daniel is broght vnto the King and sheweth him his dreame & the interpretacion thereof. 44 Of the euerlasting kingdome of Christ.

AND in the [a] second yere of the reigne of Nebuchad-nezzar, Nebuchad-nezzar dreamed [b] dreames wherewith his spirit was [c] troubled, and his [d] slepe was vpon him.

2 Then the King commanded to call the inchanters, and the astrologians and the sorcerers, and the [e] Caldeans for to shew the King his dreames: so thei came and stode before the King.

3 And the King said vnto them, I haue dreamed a dreame, and my spirit was troubled to knowe the dreame.

4 Then spake the Caldeans to the King in the [f] Aramites language, O King, liue for euer: shewe thy seruants thy dreame, and we shal shewe the interpretacion.

5 And the King answered and said to the Caldeans, The thing is gone from me. If ye wil not make me vnderstand the dreame with the interpretacion thereof, ye shalbe drawen in pieces, & your houses shalbe made a iakes.

6 But if ye declare the dreame and the interpretacion thereof, ye shal receiue of me gifts and rewardes, and great honour: therefore shewe me the dreame & the interpretacion of it.

7 Thei answered againe, and said, Let the King shewe [h] his seruants the dreame, and we wil declare the interpretacion thereof.

8 Then the King answered, and said, I knowe certeinly that ye [i] wolde gaine the time, because ye se the thing is gone from me.

9 But if ye wil not declare me the dreame, there is but one iudgement for you: for ye haue prepared lying and corrupt wordes, to speake before me til the time be changed: therefore tel me the dreame, that I maie knowe, if ye can declare me the interpretacion thereof.

10 Then the Caldeans answered before the King, and said, There is no man vpon earth that can declare the Kings matter: yea, there is nether King nor prince nor Lord that asked suche things at an inchanter or astrologian or Caldean.

11 For it is a rare thing that the King requireth, and there is none other that can declare it before the King, except the gods whose dwelling is not with flesh.

12 For this cause the King was angrie & in great furie, and commanded to destroie all the wise men of Babel.

13 ¶ And when sentence was giuen, the wise mē were slaine: and thei [i] sought Daniel & his felowes to be put to death.

14 Then Daniel answered with counsel & wisdome to Arioch the Kings chief steward, which was gone forthe to put to death the wise men of Babel.

15 Yea, he answered and said vnto Arioch the Kings captaine, Why is the sentence so hastie from the King? Thē Arioch declared the thing to Daniel.

16 So Daniel went and desired the King that he wolde giue him leasure and that he wolde shewe the King the interpretacion thereof.

17 ¶ Then Daniel went to his house and shewed the matter to Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah his companions,

20 And Daniel answered and said, * The Name of God be praised for euer and euer: for wisdome and strength are his,

24 ¶ Therefore Daniel went vnto Arioch, whome the King had ordeined to destroie the wise men of Babel: he went and said thus vnto him, Destroye not [n] ỹ wise men of Babel, but bring me before the King, and I wil declare vnto the King the interpretacion.

n Whereby appeareth ỹ manie were slaine, as vers. 13, & the rest at Daniels offer were preserued on condition: not that Daniel fauoured their wicked profession, but that he had respect to equitie because the King proceded according to his wicked affection, and not considering, if their science was lawful or no.

25 Then Arioch broght Daniel before ỹ King in all haste, & said thus vnto him, I haue found a man of the children of Iudah that were broght captiues, ỹ wil declare vnto the King the interpretacion.

26 Then answered the King, & said vnto Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, Art thou able to shewe me the dreame, which I haue sene, & the interpretacion thereof?

27 Daniel answered in the presence of the King, & saied, The secret [o] the King hathe demanded, can nether the wise, the astrologians, the inchanters, nor the southsaiers declare vnto the King.

o He affirmeth that mã by reason, and arte is not able to attaine to ỹ cause of Gods secrets but the vnderstanding onely thereof must come of God. whereby he sheweth ỹ King with a certeine feare and reuerence of God that he might be the more apt to receiue the hye misteries, that shulde be reueiled.

28 But there is a God in [o] heauen that reueileth secrets, and sheweth the King Nebuchad-nezzar what shalbe in ỹ latter dayes. Thy dreame, and the things, [p] thou hast sene in thine head vpon thy bed, is this.

p Because he had said that God onely must reueile the signification of this dreame, the King might haue asked, why Daniel did enterprise to interpret it, & therefore he sheweth, that he was, but Gods minister, & had no giftes, but suche as God had giuen him to set forthe his glorie.

30 As [p] for me, this secret is not shewed me for anie wisdome that I haue, more then anie other liuing, but onely to shewe the King the interpretacion, & that thou mightest knowe ỹ thoghts of thine heart.

31 O King, thou sawest, and beholde, there was a great image: this great image whose glorie was so excellent, stode before thee, and the forme thereof was terrible.

32 This images head was of fine [q] golde, his breast and his armes of siluer, his bellie and his thighs of brasse, q By golde, siluer, brasse, and yron are mẽt ỹ Caldean, Persiã, Macedonian, & Romaine kingdome, w̃ shulde successiuely rule all ỹ worlde til Christ (w̃ is here called the stone) come him selfe, & destroye the last. and this was to assure the Iewes, that their afflictions shulde not end with ỹ empire of the Caldeans, but ỹ they shulde paciently abyde ỹ comming of Messiah, w̃ shulde be at the end of this fourth monarchie.

33 His legges of yron, and his fete were parte of yron, and parte of clay.

34 Thou beheldest it til a stone was cut without hands, which smote the image vpon his fete, that were of yron & clay, and brake them to pieces.

35 Then was the yron, the clay, the brasse, the siluer & the golde broken all together, & became like the chaffe of the sommer floores, & the winde caryed thẽ away, that no place was founde for thẽ: and the stone that smote the image, became a great mountaine, and filled the whole earth.

r Daniel leaueth out the kingdome of ỹ Assyriãs, which was before the Babyloniã, bothe becauſe it was not a monarchie & general empire, and also because he wolde declare ỹ things, ỹ were to come, to the comig of Christ for the comfort of the elect among these wõderful alterations: & he calleth the Babylonian kingdome the golde head, because in respect of ỹ other three it was the best, & yet was of it self wicked and cruel.

36 This is the dreame, and we wil declare before the King the interpretacion thereof.

37 ¶ O King, thou art a King of Kings: for the God of heauen hathe giuen thee a kingdome, power, and strength, & glorie.

38 And in all places where the children of men dwell, the beasts of the field, & the foules of the heauen hathe he giuen into thine hand, and hathe made thee ruler ouer them all: thou art [r] this head of golde.

39 And after thee shal rise another kingdome, [s] inferior to ỹ, of siluer, & another [t] third kingdome shalbe of brasse, which shal beare rule ouer all the earth.

40 And the fourth kingdome shalbe strong as yron: for as yron breaketh in pieces, & subdueth all things, & as yron bruseth all these things, so shal it breake in [v] pieces and bruse all.

41 Where as thou sawest the fete & toes, parte of potters clay, and parte of yron: the kingdome shalbe [x] deuided, but there shalbe in it of the strength of ỹ yron, as thou sawest the yron mixt with ỹ claye, & earth.

42 And as the toes of the fete were parte of yron, & parte of clay, so shal ỹ kingdome be partely strong, and partely broken.

43 And where as thou sawest yron mixt with clay & earth, they shal mingle the s That is, of the Macedonians shalbe of brasse, not alluding to the hardenes thereof, but to the vilenes in respect of siluer.

t That is, the Romain empire shal subdue all these other a fore named, which after Alexander were deuided into ỹ Macedonians, Grecians, Syriãs & Egyptians.

u Them shal haue ciuil warres and continual discordes among them selues.

shewing, that the worlde shulde growe worse, and worse, til it was restored by Christ.

y That shal by mariages, & affinities thinke to make them selues strōg: yet shal they neuer be ioyned in hearts.

a Meanig Christ who was sent of God, and not set vp by man, whose kingdome at y beginning shulde be smale, & without beautie to mans iudgemēt, but shulde at length growe & fil the whole earth, w he calleth a great mountaine, as vers. 35. And this kingdome, which is not onely referred to y persone of Christ, but also to the whole bodie of his Church, and to euerie member thereof, shalbe eternal: for the Spirit y is in them, is life eternal, Ro. 8, 10.

b Though this humbling of y King semed to deserue commendation, yet because he ioyned Gods honour with the prophets, it is to be reproued. and Daniel herein erred if he suffred it: but it is credibile that Daniel admonished him of his faute & did not suffre it. c This confession was but a sudden motion, as it was also in pharaoh. Exo. 9, 28. but his heart was not touched, as appeared sone afterward. d Not that the prophet was desirous of gifts or honour, but because by this meanes he might relieue his poore breathren which were grieuously oppressed in this their captiuitie, and also he receiued them, lest he shulde offend this cruel King, which willingly gaue them. e He did not this for their priuate profit, but that the whole Church which was then there in affliction, might haue some releasse and ease, by this benefite. f Meaning, that ether he was a iudge, or that he had the whole authoritie, so that none colde be admitted to y Kings presence, but by him.

selues with y sede of men: but they shal not ioyne one with another, as yron can not be mixed with clay.

44 And in the dayes of these Kings, shal the God of heauen set vp a kingdome, which a shal neuer be destroyed: & this kingdome shal not be giuen to another people, but it shal breake, and destroye all these kingdomes, and it shal stand for euer.

45 Where as thou sawest, that the a stone was cut of the mountaine without hāds, & that it brake in pieces the yron, the brasse, the clay, the silver and the golde: so the great God hathe shewed the King, what shal come to passe hereafter, & the dreame is true, and the interpretacion thereof is sure.

46 ¶ Then the King Nebuchad-nezzar fel vpon his face, and b bowed him self vnto Daniel, and commanded that thei shulde offer meat offrings, & swete odoures vnto him.

47 Also the King answered vnto Daniel, & said, I knowe of a trueth y your c God is a God of gods, & the Lord of Kings, & y reueiler of secrets, seing thou coldest open this secret.

48 So the King made Daniel a great mā, and gaue him manie and great d giftes. He made him gouernour ouer the whole province of Babel, and chief of the rulers, & aboue all the wise men of Babel.

49 Then Daniel e made request to the King, and he set Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego ouer the charge of the province of Babel: but Daniel sate in y f gate of the King.

threscore cubites, & the breadth thereof six cubites: he set it vp in the plaine of Dura, in the province of Babel.

2 Then Nebuchad-nezzar y King sent forthe to gather together the nobles, y princes & the dukes, the iudges, the receiuers, the counsellers, the officers, and all the gouerners of the prouinces, that they shulde come to the b dedication of the image, which Nebuchad-nezzar the c King had set vp.

3 So the nobles, princes, & dukes, y iudges, the receiuers, the coūsellers, the officers, & all y gouerners of the prouinces were assembled vnto the dedicating of the image, that Nebuchad-nezzar y King had set vp: and they stode before y image, which Nebuchad-nezzar had set vp.

4 Thē an herald cryed aloud, Be it knowen to you, ô people, d nations, and languages,

5 That when ye heare the sound of the corner, trūpet, harpe, sackebut, psalteries, dulcimer, & all instruments of musicke, ye fall downe and worship y golden image, that Nebuchad-nezzar the King hathe set vp.

6 And whosoeuer falleth not downe & worshippeth, shal the same houre he cast into the middes of an hote fyrie fornace.

7 Therefore assone as all the people heard the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, sackebut psalterie, & all instruments of musicke, al the people, natiōs, & languages fel downe, & worshiped y golden image, that Nebuchad-nezzar the King had set vp.

8 ¶ By reason whereof at that same time came men of the Caldeans, & grieuously accused the Iewes.

9 For they spake and said to the King Nebuchad-nezzar, O King, liue for euer.

10 Thou, ô King, hast made a decre, that euerie man that shal heare the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpes, sackebut, psalterie, and dulcimer, and all instruments of musicke, shal fall downe and worship the golden image, 11 And whosoeuer falleth not downe, and worshippeth, that he shulde be cast into the middes of an hote fyrie fornace.

12 There are certeine Iewes whome thou hast set ouer the charge of the prouince of Babel, e Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: these men, ô King, haue not regarded thy commandement, nether wil they serue thy gods, nor worship the golden image, that thou hast set vp.

13 ¶ Then

CHAP. III.

1 The King setteth vp a golden image. 8 Certeine are accused because thei dispised the Kings commandement, & are put into a burning ouen. 25 By belefe in God they are deliuered from the fyre. 26 Nebuchad-nezzar confesseth the power of God after the sight of the miracle.

1 NEbuchad-nezzar the King made a an image of golde, whose height was a Vnder pretence of religion, & holines in making an image to his idole Bel, he soght his owne ambitton & vaine glorie: & this declareth, that he was not touched with the true feare of God before, but y he confessed him on a sudden motion as y wicked, when thei are ouercome with the greatnes of his workes. The Greke interpreters write, y this was done xii. veres after y dreame, & as may appeare y King feared lest y Iewes by their religion shulde haue altered y state of his commune wealth, and therefore he ment to bring all to one kinde of religion, and so rather sogh̄t his owne quietnes, then Gods glorie.

b Shewing, that the idole is not knowen for an idole so long as he is with the workman: but when the ceremonies and customes are recited, and vsed and the consent of the people is there, then of a blocke they thinke they haue made a god.

c This was sufficient with the wicked at all times to approue their religion, if y Kings authoritie were alledged for y establishment thereof, not cōsidering in the meane season what Gods worde did permit.

d These are the two dangerous weapons wherewith Satan vseth to fight against the children of God, y consent of the multitude & y cruelte of the punishment: for though some feared God, yet y multitude, w consented to y wickednes, astonied them: & here y King required not an inward consent, but an outward gesture, that the Iewes might by litle & litle learne to forget their true religion.

e It semeth, that thei named not Daniel because he was greatly in the Kings fauour, thinking if these three had bene destroyed, they might haue had better occasion to accuse Daniel: and this declareth that this policie of erecting this image was intented by the malicious flatterers, which sought nothing, but the destruction of the Iewes, whome they accused of rebellion and ingratitude.

13 ¶Then Nebuchad-nezzar in his angre & wrath commanded that they shulde bring Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: so these men were broght before the King.

14 And Nebuchad-nezzar spake, and said vnto them, What disordre? wil not you, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego serue my god, nor worship the golden image, that I haue set vp?

15 [f] Now therefore are ye ready when ye heare the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, sackebut, psalterie, and dulcimer, and all instruments of musicke, to fall downe, and worship the image, which I haue made? for if ye worship it not, ye shalbe cast immediatly into the middes of an hote firie fornace: for who is that God, that can deliuer you out of mine hands?

16 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego answered & said to the King, O Nebuchad-nezzar, we [g] are not careful to answer thee in this matter.

17 Beholde, our God whome we serue, is able to deliuer vs from the hote fyrie fornace, & he wil deliuer vs out of thine hand, ô King.

18 But if not: be it knowē to thee, ô King, that we wil not serue thy gods, nor worship the golden image, which thou hast set vp.

19 ¶Then was Nebuchad-nezzar ful of rage, & the forme of his visage was chāged against Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: therefore he charged and commanded that they shulde heate the fornace at once seuen [i] times more then it was wonte to be heat.

20 And he charged the moste valiant men of warre that were in his armie, to binde Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, & to cast them into the hote fyrie fornace.

21 So these men were bounde in their coates, their hosen, & their clokes, & their other garments, and cast into the middes of the hote fyrie fornace.

22 Therefore, because the Kings commandement was straite, that the fornace shulde be exceading hote, the flame of the fyre slew those men that broght forthe Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego.

23 And these thre men Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego fel downe bounde into the middes of the hote fyrie fornace.

24 ¶Then Nebuchad-nezzar the King was astonied and rose vp in haste, and spake, and said vnto his counsellers, Did not we cast thre men bounde into the middes of the fyre? Who answered and said vnto the King, It is true, ô King.

25 And he answered, & said, Lo, I se foure men loose, walking in the middes of the fyre, and they haue no hurt, and the forme of the fourth is like the [k] sonne of God.

26 Then the King Nebuchad-nezzar came nere to the mouth of the hote fyrie fornace, and spake and said, Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, the seruants of the hie God, go forthe and come hether: so Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego [l] came forthe of the middes of the fyre.

27 Then the nobles, princes and dukes, and the Kings counsellers came together to se these men, because the fyre had no power ouer their bodies: for not an heere of their head was burnt, nether was their coats changed, nor any smel of fyre came vpon them.

28 Wherefore Nebuchad-nezzar spake and said, [m] Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, who hathe sent his Angel, & deliuered his seruants, that put their trust in him, & haue changed the Kings commandement, & yelded their bodies rather then thei wolde serue or worship anie god, saue their owne God.

29 Therefore I make a decre, that euery people, nacion, and lāguage, which speake any [n] blasphemie against the God of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, shal be drawen in pieces, & their houses shal be made a iakes, because there is no god that can deliuer after this sorte.

30 Then the King promoted Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego in the prouince of Babel.

31 Nebuchad-nezzar King vnto all people, nacions and languages, that dwell in all the [o] worlde, Peace be multiplied vnto you:

32 I thoght it good to declare the signes and wonders, that the hie God hathe wroght towarde me.

33 How great are his signes, and how mightie are his wonders? [p] his kingdome is an euerlasting kingdome, and his dominion is from generacion to generacion.

CHAP. IIII.

2 Another dreame of Nebuchad-nezzar, which Daniel declareth. 29 The Prophet declareth how of a proude King he shulde become as a beast. 31 After he confesseth the power of God and is restored to his former dignitie.

1 I Nebuchad-nezzar being at [a] rest in mine house, & flourishing in my palace,

2 Sawe a [b] dreame, which made me a-

[b] This was another dreame besides that which foure empires: for Daniel bothe declared what that what it ment: and here he onely expound-th the dreame.

[f] Signifying, ỹ he wolde receiue them to grace, if they wolde now at the length obey his decree.

[g] For they shulde haue done iniurie to God, if they shulde haue doubted in this holie cause, & therefore they say, ỹ they are resolued to dye for Gods cause.

[h] They groundeon two pointes, first in the power, and prouidence of God ouer them, and secondly on their cause, w was Gods glorie, and ỹ testifying of his true religion, with their blood and so make open confession, that they wil not so muche as outwardly consent to idolatrie.

[i] This declareth ỹ the more, that tyrants rage, & the more witty they shewe thē selues in inuenting strange, and cruel punishements, ỹ more is God glorified by his seruants to whome he giueth pacience & cōstancie to abide the crueltie of their punishement: for ether he deliuereth them frō death or els for this life giueth thē a better.

[k] For the Angels were called the sonnes of God, because of their excellencie: therefore the King called this Angel, whome God sent to comfort his in these great torments, ỹ sonne of God.

[l] This commēdeth their obedience vnto God that they wolde not for any feare departe out of this fornace til the time was appointed, as Noah remained in the Arke til ỹ Lord called him forthe.

[m] He was moued by ỹ great nes of the miracle to praise God, but his heart was not touched. And here we se that miracles are not sufficient to conuert men to God, but that doctrine must chiefly be adioned, without the w there can be no faith.

[n] If this heathē King moued by Gods Spirit, wolde not se blasphemie vnpunished, but made a Law and set a punishmēt to ſuche transgressers, muche more ought all they ỹ professe religion, take order ỹ suche impietie reigne not, lest according as their knowledge and charge is greater, so they suffer double punishment.

[o] Meaning, so farre as his dominion extēded.

[p] Read Chap. 2, 44.

[a] There was no trouble ỹ might cause me to dreame, & therefore it came onely of God.

fraied, and the thoghtes vpon my bed, and the visions of mine head troubled me.

3 Therefore made I a decre, that thei shulde bring all the wise men of Babel before me, that they might declare vnto me the interpretacion of the dreame.

4 So came the enchanters, the astrologians, the Caldeans & the southsayers, to whome I tolde the dreame, but [c] they colde not shewe me the interpretacion thereof,

5 Til at the last Daniel came before me (whose name was [d] Beltesshazzar, according to the name of my god, which hathe the spirit of the holy gods in him) and before him I tolde the dreame, saying,

6 O Beltesshazzar, [e] chief of ỹ enchanters, because I knowe, that the spirit of ỹ holy gods is in thee, & no secret troubleth thee, tel me the visiõs of my dreame, that I haue sene and the interpretacion thereof.

7 Thus were the visions of mine head in my bed. And beholde, I sawe a [f] tre in the middes of the earth and the height thereof was great:

8 A great tre and strong, and the height thereof reached vnto heauen, and the sight thereof to the ends of all the earth.

9 The boughes thereof were faire and ỹ frute thereof muche, and in it was meat for all: it made a shadowe vnder it for ỹ beastes of the field, and the foules of the heauen dwelt in the boughs thereof, & all flesh fed of it.

10 I sawe in the visions of mine head vpon my bed, and beholde, a [g] watcheman and an holy one came downe from heauen, 11 And cryed aloude, and said thus, Hewe downe the tre, and breake of his branches: shake of his leaues, and scattre his frute, that the beasts may flee from vnder it, and the foules from his branches.

12 Neuertheles leaue the stumpe of his rootes in the earth, and with a band of yron and brasse binde it among the grasse of the field, and let it be wet with the dewe of heauen, and let his porcion be with the beastes among the grasse of the field.

13 [h] Let his heart be changed from mans nature, & let a beastes heart he giue vnto him, and let seuen times he passed ouer him.

14 [i] The sentence is according to ỹ decre of the watchemen, and according to the worde of the holy ones: the demande was answered, to the intent that liuing men may knowe, that the moste hight hathe power ouer the kingdome of men, & giueth it to whomesoeuer he wil, & appointeth ouer it the moste abiect among men.

15 This is the dreame, that I King Nebuchad-nezzar haue sene: therefore ỹ, ô Beltesshazzar, declare the interpretacion thereof: for all the wise men of my kingdome are not able to shewe me the interpretacion: but thou art able, for ỹ spirit of the holy gods is in thee.

16 ¶ Then Daniel (whose name was Beltesshazzar) held his [k] peace by the space of one houre, and his thoghts troubled him, & the King spake and said, Beltesshazzar, let nether the dreame, nor the interpretaciõ thereof trouble thee. Beltesshazzar answered & said, My lord, the dreame be to them that hate thee, and the interpretacion thereof to thine enemies.

17 The tre ỹ thou sawest, which was great and mightie, whose height reached vnto the heauen, and the sight thereof through all the worlde,

18 Whose leaues were faire & the frute thereof muche, & in it was meat for all, vnder the which the beasts of the field dwelt, and vpon whose branches ỹ foules of the heauen did sit,

19 It is thou, ô King, that art great and mightie: for thy greatnes is growen, and reacheth vnto heauen, & thy dominion to the ends of the earth.

20 Where as the King sawe a watchemã, & an holy one, that came downe from heauen, and said, Hewe downe the tre & destroy it, yet leaue the stumpe of the rootes thereof in the earth, and with a bande of yron and brasse binde it among the grasse of the field, & let it be wet w the dewe of heauen, and let his porcion be with the beasts of the field, [l] til seuen times passe ouer him,

21 This is the interpretation, ô King, & it is the decre of the moste high, which is come vpon my lord the King, 22 That they shal driue thee from men, & thy dwelling shalbe with the beasts of the field: they shal make thee to eat grasse as the [m] oxen, & thei shal wet thee with the dewe of heauen, & seuen times shal passe ouer thee, til thou knowe, that [n] the moste high beareth rule ouer the kingdome of men, and giueth it to whome soeuer he wil.

23 Where as they said, that one shulde leaue the stumpe of ỹ rootes, thy kingdome shal remaine vnto thee: after that thou shalt knowe, that the heauens haue the rule.

24 Wherefore, ô King, let my counsel be accep-c In that that he sent abroad to others whose ignoracce in times past he had experimented, and left Daniel was euer ready at hand, it declareth ỹ nature of the vngodlie, w neuer seke to ỹ seruantes of God, but for very necessitie, and then they spare no flatterings.

d This no doute was a great grief to Daniel not onely to haue his name changed, but to be called by the name of a vile idole, w thing Nebuchad-nezzar did to make him forget the true religion of God.

e Which also was a great grief to ỹ Prophet to be nõbred among the sorcerers & mẽ whose practises were wicked & contrary to Gods worde.

f By the tre, is signified ỹ dignitie of a King, whome God ordeineth to be a defence for all kinde of men, & and whose state is profitable for mankinde.

g Meaning, the Angel of God, which nether eateth not sleepeth, but is euer ready to do Gods wil and is not infect with mãs corruption but is euer holy: and in that that he commãdeth to cut downe this tre, he knewe ỹ it shulde not be cut downe by man but by God.

h Hereby he meaneth that Nebuchad-nezzar shulde not onely for a time loose his kingdome, but be like a beast.

i God hathe decreed this iudgement and the whole armie of heauen haue as it were subscribed vnto it, like as also thei desire the execution of his decre against all thẽ ỹ lift vp thẽ selues against God.

k He was troubled for ỹ greate iudgement of God w he sawe ordeined against ỹ King: & so the Prophetes vsed on ỹ one parte to denounce Gods iudgements for the zeale they bare to his glorie, & on the other parte to haue compassiõ vpõ man, and also to consider ỹ they shulde be subiect to Gods iudgements, if he did not regarde them w pitie.

l Whereby he meaneth a long space, as seuen yeres. Some interprete seuen moneths, & others seuẽ wekes: but it semeth he ment of yeres.

m Not that his shape or forme was chãged into a beast, but ỹ he was ether striken mad, & so auoided mãs copanie, or was cast out for his tyrannie and so wandered amõg ỹ beasts, & ate herbes & grasse.

n Daniel heweth ỹ cause, why God thus punished him.

acceptable vnto thee, & [o] breake of thy sinnes by righteousnes, & thine iniquities by mercie toward the poore: lo, let there be an [p] healing of thine errour.

25 All these things shal come vpon the King Nebuchad-nezzar.

26 ¶ At the end of twelue [q] moneths, he walked in the royal palace of Babel.

27 And the King spake and said, Is not this great Babel, that I haue buylt for the house of the kingdome by ý might of my power, and for the honour of my maiestie?

28 While the worde was in the Kings mouth, a voyce came downe from heauen, saying, O King Nebuchad nezzar, to thee be it spoken, Thy kingdome is departed from thee, 29 And they shal driue thee from men, and thy dwelling shalbe with the beasts of the field: they shal make thee to eat grasse, as the oxen, and seuen times shal passe ouer thee, vntil thou knowest, ý the most high beareth rule ouer ý kingdome of men, & giueth it vnto whome soeuer he wil.

30 The very same houre was this thing fulfilled vpon Nebuchad-nezzar, and he was driuen from mē, & did eat grasse as the oxen, & his bodie was wet with the dewe of heauen, til his heeres were growen as egles feathers & his nailes like birds clawes.

31 And at the end of these [r] dayes I Nebuchad-nezzar lift vp mine eies vnto heauen, and mine vnderstanding was restored vnto me, and I gaue thankes vnto the moste high, and I praised and honored him that liueth for euer, *whose power is an euerlasting power, & his kingdome is from generacion to generacion.

32 And all the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing: and according to his [s] wil he worketh in the armie of heauen, & in the inhabitants of ý earth: and none can stay his hand, nor say vnto him, [w] hat doest thou?

33 At the same time was mine vnderstanding restored vnto me, & I returned to the honour of my kingdome: my glorie & my beautie was restored vnto me, & my counsellours [t] and my princes soght vnto me, & I was established in my kingdome, and my glorie was augmented toward me.

34 Now therefore I Nebuchad-nezzar [v] praise, & extoll & magnifie the King of heauen, whose workes are all trueth, & his wayes iudgement, and those that walke in pride, he is able to abase.

CHAP. V.

Belshazzar King of Babylon seeth an hand writing on the wall. 8 The Sothsayers called of the King, can not expounde the writing. 25 Daniel readeth it, and interpreteth it also. 30 The King is slayne. 32 Darius enioyeth the kingdome.

1 KIng[a] Belshazzar made a great feast to a thousand of his princes, and dranke wine [b] before the thousand.

2 And Belshazzar[a] whiles he tasted ý wine, commanded to bring him the golde & siluer vessels, which his [c] father Nebuchad-nezzar had broght from the Temple in Ierusalem, that the King & his princes, his wife, and his concubines might drinke therein.

3 Then were broght the golden vessels that were taken out of the Temple of the Lords house at Ieruſalem, & ý King & his princes, his wiues, and his concubines dranke in them.

4 They dronke wine and praised the [d] gods of golde, and of siluer, of brasse, of yron, of wood and of stone.

5 At the same houre appeared fingers of a mans hand, which wrote ouer [e] against the candlesticke vpon the plaister of the wall of the Kings palace and the King sawe the palme of the hand that wrote.

6 Then ý Kings countenance was changed, and his thoghts troubled him, so that the ioyntes of his loines were loosed, & his [f] knees smote one against the other.

7 Wherefore the King cryed loud, that they shulde bring [g] the astrologians, the Caldeans and the sothsaiers. And the King spake, and said to the wise men of Babel, [w] hosoeuer can read this writing, and declare me the interpretacion thereof, shalbe clothed with purple, & shal haue a chaine of golde about his necke, and shalbe the third ruler in the kingdome.

8 Then came all the Kings wise men, but they colde nether read the writing, nor shewe the King the interpretacion

9 Then was King Belshazzar greatly troubled, and his countenance was chaged in him, and his princes were astonied.

10 Now the [h] Queene by reason of ý talke of the King, & his princes came into the banket house, & the Queene spake & said, O King, liue for euer: let not thy thoghts trouble thee, nor let thy countenance be changed.

11 There is a man in thy kingdome, in whome is the spirit of the holie gods, & in the dayes of thy father light and vnderstāding & wisdome like ý wisdome of a Daniel receiteth this historie of King Belshazzar Euil merodachs sonne, to shewe Gods iudgements against ý wicked, for the deliuerance of his Church, and how ý prophecie of Ieremiah was true, ý they shulde be deliuered after seuentie yeres.

b The Kings of the East partes then vsed to sit alone communely, & disdained ý anie shulde sit in their companie: and now to shewe his power, and how litle he set by his enemie, w^hen beseged Babylon, he made a solemne banket, & vsed excesse in their companie w^h intent hereby drinking wine: thus the wicked are moste dissolute, and negligent whe their destruction is at hand.

c Or, ouercome with wine.

d Meaning, his grand father.

e In contempt of the true God they praisd their idoles, not that they thoght, that the golde or siluer were gods, but that there was a certeine vertue, and power in them to do them good, w^h is also the opinio of all idolaters.

f So he ý before re contemned God, was moued by this sight to tremble for feare of Gods iudgements.

g Thus ý wicked in their troubles seke manie meanes, who draw them from God, because they seke not to him who is the onelie comfort in afflictions.

h To wit, his grand mother Nebuchad nezzars wife, which for her age was not before at the feast, but came thether when she heard of these strange newes.

o Ceasse from Prouoking God to angre any longer by thy sinnes, that he may mitigate his punishmet, if thou shewe by thine vpright life that thou hast true faith & repentance.

p Suffre the errours of thy former life to be redressed.

q After that Daniell had declared this vision: & this his pride declareth that it is not in man to conuert to God except his Spirit moue hi, seing that these terrible threatnings colde not moue him to repent.

r When the terme of these seuen yeres was accomplished.

Chap. 7. 14. mich. 4. 11. luk. 1. 33.

s He confesseth Gods wil to be the rule of all iustice and a moste perfite Law whereby he gouerneth bothe man and Angels and deuiles, so ý none ought to murmure, or aske a reason of his doings, but onely to stand content therewith and giue him ý glorie.

t By whome it semeth that he had bene put from his kingdome before.

the gods, was found in him: whome the King Nebuchad-nezzar thy father the King, I say, thy father, made chief of the ‡enchanters, astrologians, Caldeans, and sothsaiers, ‡ Read Chap. 4, 6. and this declareth, ỹ bothe this name was odious vnto hi, and also that he did not vse these vile practises, because he was not among them when all were called.

12 Because a more excellent spirit, and knowledge, and vnderstanding (for he did expounde dreames, & declare hard sentences, and dissolued doutes) were founde in him, euen in Daniel, whome the King named Belteshazzar: now let Daniel be called, and he wil declare the interpretacion.

13 ¶ Then was Daniel broght before the King, & the King spake and said vnto Daniel, Art thou that Daniel, which art of the children of the captiuitie of Iudah, whome my father the King broght out of Iewrie?

k For the idolaters thoght, that the Angels had power as God, & therefore had thé in like estimation, as they had God, thinking ỹ the spirit of prophecie, & vnderstãding came of them.

14 Now I haue heard of thee, that k the spirit of the holie gods is in thee, & that light and vnderstanding and excellent wisdome is found in thee.

15 Now therefore wisemen, & astrologians haue bene broght before me, that they shulde read this writing, and shewe me the interpretacion thereof: but they colde not declare the interpretacion of the thing.

16 Then heard I of thee, that thou coldest shewe interpretacions, and dissolue doutes: now if thou canst read the writing, & shewe me the interpretaciõ thereof, thou shalt be clothed w purple, & shalt haue a chaine of golde about thy necke, & shalt be the third ruler in the kingdome.

17 Then Daniel answered, and said before the King, Kepe thy rewardes to thy self, & giue thy giftes to another: yet I wil read the writing vnto the King and shewe him the interpretacion.

‖ Before hereof ỹ writing, he declareth to the king his great ingratitude toward God, who colde not be moued to giue him the glorie, considering his wonderful worke toward his grand father, & so sheweth, that he doeth not sinne of ignorãce, but of malice.

18 O King, heare thou, The moste high God gaue vnto ‖ Nebuchad-nezzar thy father a kingdome, and maiestie & honour and glorie.

19 And for ỹ maiestie that he gaue him, all people, nations, & languages trẽbled, and feared before him: he put to death whome he wolde: he smote whome he wolde: whome he wolde he set vp, and whome he wolde he put downe.

20 But when his heart was puft vp, and his minde hardened in pride, he was deposed from his kinglie throne, and they toke his honour from him.

21 And he was driuen from the sonnes of men, and his heart was made like the beasts, and his dwelling was with the wilde asses: they fed him with grasse like oxen, and his bodie was wet with the dewe of the heauen, til he knewe, that ỹ moste high God bare rule ouer ỹ kingdome of mẽ, & that he appointeth ouer it, whome soeuer he pleaseth.

22 And thou his sonne, ô Belshazzar, hast not humbled thine heart, thogh thou knewest all these things, 23 But hast lift thy self vp against the Lord of heauen, and they haue broght the vessels of his House before thee, & thou and thy princes, thy wiues and thy concubines haue drunke wine in them, and thou hast praised the gods of siluer and golde, of brasse, yron, wood & stone, w̃ nether se, nether heare, nor vnderstand: and the God in whose hand thy breath is & all thy wayes, him hast thou not glorified.

24 m Then was the palme of the hand sent from him, and hathe writẽ this writing.

m After ỹ God had so long time deferred his angre, & pacietly waited for thine amendement.

25 And this is the writing that he hathe writen, n MENE, MENE, TEKEL VPHARSIN.

n This worde is twise writen for the certeintie of the thing: shewing, ỹ God had moste surely counted: signifying also ỹ God hathe appointed a terme for all kingdomes, & that a miserable end shal come on all ỹ raise thé selues against him.

26 This is the interpretacion of ỹ thing, MENE, God hathe nõbred thy kingdome, & hathe finished it:

27 TEKEL, thou art wayed in ỹ balance, & art founde to light.

28 PERES, thy kingdome is deuided, and giuen to the Medes and Persians.

29 Then at the commandement of Belshazzar they clothed Daniel with purple, and put a chaine of golde about his necke, & made a proclamacion concerning him that he shulde be the third ruler in the kingdome.

30 The same night was Belshazzar ỹ King of the Caldeans slaine.

Or, wanting. Esa. 22. 4

31 And Darius o of the Medes toke the kingdome, being therescore & two yere olde.

CHAP. VI.

1 Daniel is made ruler ouer the gouerners.
5 An acte against Daniel 16 He is put into a denne of lyons by the commandement of the King. 23 He is deliuered by faith in God.
24 Daniels accusers are put vnto the lyons.
25 Darius by a decre magnifieth the God of Daniel.

1 IT pleased Darius to set ouer ỹ kingdome a an hundreth and twentie gouernours, which shulde be ouer ỹ whole kingdome.

a Read Esters Chap. 1, 1.

2 And ouer these, thre rulers (of whome Daniel was one) ỹ the gouernours might giue accompts vnto them, and the King shulde ‖ haue no domage.

‖ Or, not be troubled.

3 Now this Daniel b was preferred aboue the rulers and gouernours, because ỹ spirit was excellent in him, and the King thoght to set him ouer the whole realme.

b This heathen King preferred Daniel a strãger to all his nobles & familiars, because ỹ graces of God were more excellent in him then in others.

4 Wherefore the rulers and gouernours c soght an occasion against Daniel concerning c Thus ỹ wicked can not abide the graces of God in others, but seke by all occasions to deface them: therefore against suche assaltes there is no better remedie thẽ to walke vprightly in ỹ feare of God, & to haue a good conscience.

cerning the kingdome: but they colde finde none occasion nor faute: for he was so faithful that there was no blame nor faute founde in him.

5 Then said these men, We shal not finde an occasion against this Daniel, except we finde it against him concerning the Law of his God.

6 Therefore the rulers and these gouernours went together to the King, & said thus vnto him, King Darius, liue for euer.

7 All the rulers of thy kingdome the officers & gouernours, the counsellers, and dukes haue consulted together to make a decre for the King and to establish a statute, that whosoeuer shal aske a peticion of anie god or man for thirtie dayes saue of thee, ô King, he shalbe cast into the denne of lyons.

8 Now ô King, confirme the decre, and seale the writing, that it be not changed according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

9 Wherefore King Darius [d] sealed the writing and the decre.

10 ¶ Now when Daniel vnderstode that he had sealed the writing, he went into his house, and his [e] windowe being open in his chamber toward Ierusalem, he kneeled vpō his knees thre times a day, & prayed & praised his God, as he did afore time.

11 Then these men assembled, & founde Daniel praying, and making supplicacion vnto his God.

12 So they came, and spake vnto ỹ King concerning the Kings decre, Hast thou not sealed the decre, that euerie man ỹ shal make requeste to anie god or man within thirtie dayes, saue to thee, ô King, shalbe cast into the denne of lyons? The King answered, and said, The thing is true, according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

13 Then answered they, and said vnto ỹ King, This Daniel which is of the children of the captiuitie of Iudah, regardeth not thee, ô King, nor the decre, ỹ thou hast sealed, but maketh his peticion thre times a day.

14 When the King heard these wordes, he was sore displeased with him self, and set his heart on Daniel, to deliuer him: & he laboured til ỹ sunne went downe, to deliuer him.

15 Then these men assembled vnto the King, and said vnto the King, Vnderstand, ô King, that the law of the Medes and Persians is, that no decre nor statute, which the King confirmeth, may be altered.

16 ¶ Then the King commanded, and they broght Daniel, and cast him into the denne of lyons. now the King spake, and said vnto Daniel, Thy God, whome thou alway seruest, euen he wil deliuer thee.

17 And a stone was broght, & layed vpon the mouthe of the denne, and ỹ King sealed it with his owne signet, and with the signet of his princes, that the purpose might not be changed, concerning Daniel.

18 Then the King went vnto his palace, and remained fasting, neither were ỹ instrumēts of musicke broght before him, and his slepe went from him.

19 ¶ Then the King arose early in the morning, and went in all haste vnto the denne of lyons.

20 And when he came to the denne, he cryed with a lamētable voyce vnto Daniel: and the King spake, & said to Daniel, O Daniel, the seruant of the liuing God, is not thy God (whome thou alwaie seruest) [g] able to deliuer thee from the lions?

21 Then said Daniel vnto the King, O King, liue for euer.

22 My God hathe sent his Angel & hathe shut the lions mouthes, that thei haue not hurt me: for [h] my iustice was foūd out before him: & vnto thee, ô King, I haue done [i] no hurte.

23 Then was the King exceading glad for him, and commāded that thei shulde take Daniel out of the denne: so Daniel was broght out of the denne, & no maner of hurte was founde vpon him, becaūse he [k] beleued in his God.

24 And by the commandement of the King these men which had accused Daniel were broght, & were [l] cast into the denne of lions, euen thei, their children, & their wiues: & the lions had the maistrie of them, & brake all their bones a pieces, or euer thei came at the grounde of the denne.

25 ¶ Afterwarde King Darius wrote, Vnto all people, nations & languages, that dwell in all the worlde: Peace be multiplied vnto you.

26 I make a decre that in all the dominion of my kingdome, men tremble and feare [m] before the God of Daniel: for he is the [n] liuing God, and remaineth for euer: and his kingdome shal not perish, and his dominion shalbe euerlasting.

27 He rescueth and deliuereth, and he worketh signes and wonders in heauen & in earth: who hathe deliuered Daniel and also admonisheth princes how to punish such, when their wickednes is come to light: though not in euerie point or with like circunstances, yet to execute true iustice vpon them.

m This proueth not that Darius did worship God aright, or els was cōuerted: for then he wolde haue destroyed all superstition and idolatrie, and not onely giue God the chief place, but onely haue set him vp, and caused him to be honored according to his worde: but this was a certeine confession of Gods power, whereunto he was compelled by this wonderful miracle.

n Which hathe not onely life in him self, but is the onelie fountaine of life, & quickeneth all things, so that without him there is no life.

d Herein is cōdemned ỹ wickednes of the king, who wolde be set vp as a god, and passed not what wicked lawes he approued for the maintenance of the same.

e Because he wolde not by his silence shew ỹ he consented to this wicked decre, he set open his windowes towarde Ierusalem, whē he prayed: both to stirre vp him self with ỹ remembrace of Gods promises to his people when they shulde pray towarde ỹ Temple, & also that others might se that he wolde neither consent in hart nor dede for these fewe dayes to anie thig that was cōtrarie to Gods glorie.

f Thus the wicked maintreine euil laws by cōstancie, & autoritie, which oft times ether lightenes, or stubbernes when as the innocents thereby perish: & therefore gouernours nether ought to feare nor be ashamed to breake such.

g This declareth ỹ Darius was not touched with the true knowledge of God, because he douted of his power.

h My iuste cause, and vprightnes in this thing, wherein I was charged, is approued of God.

i For he did disobey the Kinge wicked commandement to obey God, and so did no iniurie to the King who ought to cōmāde nothing whereby God shulde be dishonored.

k Because he cōmitted him self wholy vnto God whose cause he did defend, he was assured, ỹ nothing but good colde come vnto him: wherein we se the power of faith, as Ebr. 11. 33.

l This is a terrible example against all the wicked, which do against their conscience make cruel lawes to destroye the children of God from the power of the lyons.

28 So this Daniel prospered in the reigne of Darius and in the reigne of Cyrus of Persia.

CHAP. VII.

3 A vision of foure beastes is shewed vnto Daniel. 1 The ten hornes of the fourth beast. 27 Of the euerlastieg kingdome of Christ.

1 IN the first yere of Belshazzar King of Babel, Daniel sawe a dreame, and there were visions in his head, vpon his bed: [a]then he wrote the dreame, & declared the summe of the matter.

2 Daniel spake & said, I sawe in my vision by night, and beholde, the foure windes of the heauen stroue vpon [b], the great sea.

3 And foure great beastes came vp from the sea one diuers from another.

4 The first was as a [c]lion, and had egles wings: I beheld, til the wings thereof were plukte of, and it was lifted vp frō the earth, & set vpon his fete as a man, and a mans heart was giuen him.

5 And beholde, another beast which was the seconde, was like a [d] beare & stode vpon the [e] one side: and he had three ribbes in his [f] mouth betwene his teeth, [g] & thei said thus vnto him, Arise & deuoure muche flesh.

6 After this I behelde, and lo, there was an other like a [h] leopard, which had vpon his backe [i] foure wings of a foule: ſ beast had also foure heads, and [k] dominion was giuen him.

7 After this I sawe in ſ visions by night, and beholde, the [l] fourth beast was fearefull and terrible and verie strong. It had great [m] yron teeth: it deuoured and brake in pieces and stamped [n] the residue vnder his fete: and it was vnlike to the beastes that were before it: for it had [o] ten hornes.

8 As I considered the hornes, beholde, there came vp among them another little [p] horne, before whome there were thre of the first hornes plukt awaie: and beholde, in this horne were [r] eyes like ſ eyes of man, & a mouthe speaking presumptious things.

9 I behelde, til the [s] thrones were set vp, and the [t] Ancient of daies did sit, whose garment was white as snowe, and the heere of his head like the pure woll: his throne was like the fyrie flame, & his wheles as burning fyre.

10 A fyrie streame yssued, and came forthe from before him: thousand-thousands ministred vnto him, & ten thousand [v] thousands stode before him: the iudgement was set, and the [x] bokes opened.

11 Then I behelde, [y] because of ſ voyce of the presumpteous wordes, which ſ horne spake: I behelde, euen til ſ beast was slaine, and his bodie destroyed, and giuen to the burning fyre.

12 As [z] concerning the other beastes, thei had taken awaie their dominion: yet their liues were prolonged for a certeine time and season.

13 ¶ As I behelde in visions by night, beholde, [a] one like the Sonne of man came in the cloudes of heauen, & [b] approced vnto the Ancient of daies, and thei broght him before him.

14 And he gaue him [c] dominion, and honour, and a kingdome, that all people, nations & languages shulde serue him:

a Where as the people of Israel loked for a cōtinual quietnes after these seuentie yeres, as Ieremiah had declared, he sheweth that this rest shal not be a deliuerance from all troubles, but a beginning, & therefore incouraged then to loke for a continual affliction til the Messiah ſ be vttered, and reueiled, by whome they shulde haue a spiritual deliuerance, and all the promises fulfilled: whereof they shulde haue a certeine token in the destruction of the Babylonical kingdome.

b Which signified that there shulde be horrible troubles and afflictions in the world in all corners of the worlde and at sondrie times.

c Meaning the Assyrian and Caldean empire, which was moste strong and fierce in power, and moste sone come to their authoritie as though thei had had wings to flye: yet their wings were pulled by the Persians, and thei went on their feet, and were made like other men which is here ment by mans heart.

d Meaning the Persians, which were barbarous and cruel.

e Thei were smale in the beginning and were shut vp in their mountaines and had no brute.

f That is, destroyed many kingdomes, and was insaciable.

g To wit, the Angels by Gods commandement, who by this meanes punished the ingratitude of the worlde.

h Meaning, Alexander the king of Macedonie.

i That is, his foure chief captaines, which had the empire among them after his death. Seleucus had Asia the great, Antigonus the lesse, Casser his doutsand men, and he ouercame in one battel Darius, which had ten hundreth thousand, when he was so heauie with slepe that his eyes were scarse open, as the stories reporte: therefore this power was giuen him of God.

k It was not of him self nor of his owne pomeus had Egypt.

l That is, the Romain empire which was a monster & colde not be compared to anie beast, because ſ nature of none was able to expresse it.

m Signifying ſ tyrannie and griedines of ſ Romains.

n That ẅ the Romains colde not quietly enioie in other countreis, thei wolde giue it to other kings & rulers ſ at all times when thei wolde, thei might take it againe: ẅ liberalitie is here called the stamping of the rest vader the fete.

o That is, sondrie and diuers prouinces ẅ were gouerned by the deputies and proconsuls, whereof euerie one might be compared to a king.

p Which is mēt of Iulius Cesar, Augustus, Tiberius, Caligula, Claudius, & Nero &c. who were as kings in effect, but because thei colde not rule, but by the consent of the Senat, their power is compared to a litle horne. For Mahomet came not of the Romaine empire, and the Pope hathe no vocacion of gouernement: therefore this cā not be applied vnto them. and also in this prophecie the prophets purpose is chiefly to comfort ſ Iewes vnto the reuelation of Christ. Some take it for ſ whole bodie of Antichrist.

q Meaning, a certeine portiō of the ten hornes: that is, a parte from the whole estate was plucke awaie. For Augustus toke from the Senat the libertie of chosing the deputes to send into the prouinces, and toke the gouernement of certeine countreis to him self.

r These Romaine Emperours at the first vsed a certeine humanitie and gentlenes, and were content that others as the Consuls and Senat shulde beare the name of dignitie, so that thei might haue the profite, and therefore in elections and counsels wolde behaue them selues according as did other Senatours: yet against their enemies and those that wolde resist them, thei were fierce and cruel, which is here ment by ſ proud mouth.

s Meaning the places where God and his Angels shulde come to iudge these monarchies, which iudgement shulde beginne at the first comming of Christ.

t That is, God which was before all times, and is here described as mās nature is able to comprehend some portion of his glorie.

v That is, an infinit nomber of Angels, which were ready to to execute his commandement.

x This is ment of the first comming of Christ when as the wil of God was plainely reueiled by his Gospel.

y Meaning, that he was astonied, when he sawe these Emperours in suche dignitie, & pride, and so suddenly destroyed at the comming of Christ when this fourth monarchie was subiect to men of other nacions.

z As the thre former monarchies had an end at the time that God appointed, although thei flourished for a time, so shal this fourth haue, and they that paciently abide Gods appointement, shal inioye the promises.

a Which is ment of Christ who had not yet taken vpon him mans nature, neither was the sonne of Dauid according to the flesh, as he was afterwarde: but appeared then in a figure, and that in the cloudes: that is, being separate from the commune sorte of men by manifeste signes of his diuinitie.

b To wit, when he ascended into the heauens, and his diuine maiestie appeared, and all power was giuen vnto him in respect of that that he was our Mediator.

c This is ment of the beginning of Christs kingdome when God the Father gaue vnto him all dominion, as to the Mediator, to the intent that he shulde gouerne here his Church in earth continually til the time that he broght them to eternal life.

his his dominion is an euerlasting dominion, which shal neuer be taken awaie: and his kingdome shal neuer be destroied.

d Through the strangenes of ỹ vision.
e Meaning, of ỹ Angels, as ver. 30.

15 ¶ I Daniel was d troubled in my spirit, in the middes of my bodie, and the visions of mine head made me afraied.
16 Therefore I came vnto e one of them that stode by, and asked him the trueth of all this: so he tolde me, and shewed me the interpretacion of these things.
17 These great beastes which are foure, are foure Kings, which shal arise out of the earth, note this

f Because Abraham was appointed heire of all the worlde Ro. 4. 13. and in him all the faithful, therefore the kingdome thereof is theirs by right, ẅ these foure beastes or tyrants shulde inuade, and vsurpe vntil the worlde were restored by Christ: and this was to confirme them ỹ were in troubles, that their afflictions shulde haue an end at length.
g That is, of the moste hie things, because God hathe chosen thē out of this worlde, ỹ they shulde loke vp to the heauens, whereō all their hope dependeth.
h For the other thre monarchies were gouerned by a King, & the Romain empire by Consuls: ỹ Romains changed their gouernours yerely, & the other monarchies reteined them for terme of life: also the Romains were the strongest of all the other, and were neuer quiet among them selues. i Read vers. 7. k This is ment of the fourthe beast, which was more terrible then ỹ other. l Meaning the Romaine Emperours who were moste cruel against the Church of God bothe of the Iewes and of the Gentiles. m Til God shewed his power in the persone of Christ, and by the preaching of the Gospel gaue vnto his some rest & so obteined a famous name in the worlde, and were called the Church of God, or the kingdome of God. n Read the exposition hereof, vers. 8. o That is, shal make wicked decrees and proclamations against Gods worde and sende through out all their dominion to destroy all that did professe it. p These Emperours shal not consider that thei haue their power of God but thinke it is in their owne power to change Gods lawes and mans, & as it were the order of nature, as appeareth by Octauius, Tyberius, Caligula, Nero, Domitianus &c.

18 And thei shal take the f kingdome of the Saincte of the g moste high, & possesse the kingdome for euer, euen for euer and euer.
19 ¶ After this, I wolde knowe the trueth of the fourth beast, ẅ was so h vnlike to all ỹ others, very feareful, whose teeth were of yrō, & his nailes of brasse: which deuoured, brake in pieces, and stamped the i residue vnder his fete.
20 Also to knowe of the ten hornes that were in his head, & of the other ẅ came vp, before whome thre fell, and of the horne that had eyes, and of the mouth that spake presumpteous things, whose k loke was more stoute then his felowes.
21 I Behelde, and the same l horne made battel against the Saincte, yea, and preuailed against them, 22 Vntil m the Ancient of daies came, & iudgement was giuen to the Saincte of the moste high: & the time approched, that the Saincte possessed the kingdome.
23 Then he said, The fourth beast shal be the fourth kingdome in the earth, which shalbe vnlike to all the kingdomes, and shal deuoure the whole earth, and shal treade it downe and breake it in pieces.
24 And the ten hornes out of this kingdome are ten Kings that shal rise: & another shal rise after them, and he shalbe vnlike to the first, and he shal subdue n thre Kings,
25 And shal speake wordes against o the moste high, and shal consume the Saincte of the moste high, & thinke that he maie n change times and lawes, and thei shalbe giuen into his hand, vntil a q time, and times and the diuiding of time.
26 But the r iudgement shal sit, and thei shal take awaie his dominion, to consume and destroie it vnto the end.
27 And ỹ s kingdome, and dominion, & the greatnes of ỹ kingdome vnder the whole heauen shalbe giuen to ỹ holie people of ỹ moste high, whose kingdome is an euerlasting kingdome and all t powers shal serue and obeie him.
28 Euen this is the end of the matter, I Daniel had manie v cogitacions which troubled me, and my countenance changed in me: but I kept the matter in mine heart.

q God shal suffre them thus to rage against his Saincte for a lōg time, which is ment by the time and times but at length he wil asswage these troubles and shorten the times for his elects sake, Mat. 24. 22. which is ment by ỹ diuiding of time.
r God by his power shal restore things that were out of order, and so destroie this litle horne, that it wherefore ỹ beast shulde be destroied, to wit, that his Church might haue rest & quietnes, which though thei do not fully inioye here, yet thei haue it in hope and by the preaching of the Gospel enioye the beginning thereof, which is ment by there wordes vnder the heauen: and therefore he here speaketh of ỹ beginning of Christs kingdome in this worlde, which kingdome the faithful haue by the participation ỹ thei haue with Christ their head. t That is, some of euerie sorte that beare rule. v Though he had manie motions in his heare which moued him to and fro to seke out this matter curiously: yet he was content with that which God reueiled, and kept it in memorie and wrote it for the vse of the Church.

CHAP. VIII.

A vision of a battel betwene a ramme and a goat. 20 The vnderstanding of the vision.

1 IN the thirde yere of the reigne of King Belshazzar, a vision appeared vnto me, euen vnto me Daniel, a after that which appeared vnto me at the first.
2 And I sawe in a vision, & when I sawe it, I was in the palace of Shushan, which is in the prouince b of Elam, & in a vision me thoght I was by the riuer of Vlai.
3 Then I loked vp and sawe, and beholde, there stode before the riuer a c ramme, which had two hornes: and these two hornes were hie: but one was d hier then another, & the hiest came vp last.
4 I sawe the ram pusshing against the West and against the North, & against the South: so that no e beastes might stande before him, nor colde deliuer out of his hand, but he did what he listed, and became great.
5 And as I considered, beholde, f a goat came frō the West ouer ỹ whole earth, & touched not the grounde: & this goat had an g horne that appeared betwene his eyes.

8 Therefore the goat waxed exceeding great, and when he was at the ſtrongeſt, his great i horne was broken: and for it came vp foure that k appeared towarde, the foure windes of the heauen.

9 And out of one of them came forthe l a litle horne, which waxed very great towarde the m South, and towarde the n East, and towarde the o pleaſant land.

18 Now as he was ſpeaking vnto me, I being a ſlepe fel on my face to the grounde: but he touched me, and ſet me vp in my place.

19 And he ſaid, Beholde, I wil ſhewe thee what ſhal be in the laſt f wrath: for in the end of the time appointed it ſhal come.

20 The ramme which thou ſaweſt hauing two hornes, are ſ Kings of ſ Medes & Perſians.

21 And the goat is the King of Grecia, & the great horne that is betwene his eies, is the firſt King.

22 And that that is broken, & foure ſtode vp for it, are foure kingdomes, which ſhal ſtand vp g of that nacion, but not h in his ſtrength.

23 And in the end of their kingdome, when the rebellious ſhalbe conſumed, a King of i fierce countenance, and vnderſtanding darke ſentences, ſhal ſtand vp.

24 And his power ſhalbe mightie, but not k in his ſtrẽgth: & he ſhal deſtroie wõderfully, & ſhal proſper, and practiſe, and ſhal deſtroie the l mightie, and ſ holy people.

25 And through his m policie alſo, he ſhal cauſe craft to proſper in his hand, and he ſhal extoll him ſelf in his heart, & by n peace ſhal deſtroy many: he ſhal alſo ſtand vp against the o prince of princes, but he ſhal be broken downe p without hand.

26 And the viſion of the q euening and the morning, which is declared, is true: therefore ſeale thou vp the viſion, for it ſhalbe after many daies.

27 And I Daniel was ſtriken and ſicke r certeine daies: but when I roſe vp, I did the Kings buſines, and I was aſtoniſhed at the viſion, but none vndeſtode it.

3 And I turned my face vnto the Lord God, and d soght by praier and supplicacions with fasting and sackecloth and ashes.

4 And I praied vnto the Lord my God, & made my confession, saying, Oh Lord God, which art e great and feareful, and kepest couenant and mercie toward thē which loue" thee, & toward them that kepe thy commandements,

5 We haue sinned, and haue committed iniquitie and haue done wickedly, yea, we haue rebelled, and haue departed from thy preceptes, and from thy iudgements.

6 For we wolde not obei thy seruants the Prophetes, which spake in thy Name to our Kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, and to all the people of the land.

8 O Lord, vnto vs apperteineth open shame, to our g Kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, because we haue sinned against thee.

9 Yet compassion and forgiuenes is in ȳ Lord our God, albeit we haue rebelled against him.

11 Yea, all Israel haue transgressed thy Lawe, and are turned backe, and haue not heard thy voice: therefore the i curse is powred vpon vs, and the othe that is writen in the lawe of Moses the seruāt of God, because we haue sinned against him.

CHAP. X.

There appeareth vnto Daniel a man clothed in linen, 11 Which ſheweth him wherefore he is ſent.

1 IN the[a] third yere of Cyrus King of Perſia, a thing was reueiled vnto Daniel (whoſe name was called Belteſhazzar) and the worde was true, but the time appointed was[b] long, and he vnderſtode the thing, & had vnderſtanding of the viſion.

2 At the ſame time, I Daniel was in heauines for thre weekes of daies.

3 I ate no pleaſant bread, nether came fleſh, nor wine in my mouth, nether did I anoint my ſelf at all, til thre weekes of daies were fulfilled.

4 And in the foure and twentieth day of the[c] firſt moneth, as I[d] was by the ſide of that great riuer, euen Hiddekel,

5 And I lift vp mine eyes, & loked, and beholde, there was a man[e] clothed in linen, whoſe loines were girded with fine golde of* Vphaz.

a He noteth this third yere, becauſe at this time ẏ building of the Temple begã to be hindered by Cambyſes Cyrus ſonne, when ẏ father made warre in Aſia minor againſt ẏ Scythians, ẅ was a diſcouraging to ẏ godlie, and a great feare to Daniel.

b Which is to declare that the godlie ſhulde not haſten to muche, but paciently to abide ẏ yſſue of Gods promes.

c Called Abib, which conteineth parte of Marche and parte of April.

d Being caryed by the ſpirit of prophecie to haue ẏ ſight of this riuer Tygris e This was the Angel of God, which was ſent to aſſure Daniel in this prophecie that followeth.

* Ierem. 10, 9.

6 His bodie alſo was like the Chryſolite, and his face (to loke vpon) like the lightening, & his eyes as lampes of fyre, and his armes and his fete were like in colour to poliſhed braſſe, & the voyce of his wordes was like the voyce of a multitude.

7 And I Daniel alone ſawe the viſiõ: for the men that were with me, ſawe not ẏ viſion: but a great feare fell vpon them, ſo that they fled away & hid them ſelues.

8 Therefore I was left alone, and ſawe this great viſion, and there remained no ſtrength in me: for[f] my ſtrẽgth was turned in me into corruption, and I reteined no power.

9 Yet heard I the voyce of his wordes: & when I heard the voyce of his wordes, I ſlept on my face: & my face was towarde the grounde.

10 And beholde, an hand[g] touched me, which ſet me vp vpon my knees & vpon the palmes of mine hands, 11 And he ſaid vnto me, O Daniel, a man greatly beloued, vnderſtand the wordes that I ſpeake vnto thee, & ſtand in thy place: [g] for vnto thee am I now ſent. And when he had ſaid this worde vnto me, I ſtode trembling.

12 Then ſaid he vnto me, Feare, not Daniel: for frõ the firſt daye ẏ thou dideſt ſet thine heart to vnderſtand, & to hũble thy ſelf before thy God, thy wordes were heard, and I am come for thy wordes.

13 But the[h] prince of the kingdome of Perſia withſtode me one and twentie dayes: but lo, [i] Michael one of the chief princes, came to helpe me, & I remained there by the Kings of Perſia.

14 Now I am come to ſhewe thee what ſhal come to thy people in the latter dayes: for yet the[k] viſion is for manie daies.

15 And when he ſpake theſe wordes vnto me, I ſet my face towarde the grounde, & helde my tongue.

16 And beholde, [l] one like the ſimilitude of the ſonnes of mã touched my lippes: then I opened my mouth, & ſpake, & ſaid vnto him that ſtode before me, O my Lord, [m] by the viſion my ſorowes are returned vpon me, & I haue reteined no ſtrength.

17 For how can the ſeruant of this my Lord talke with my Lord being ſuche one? for as for me, ſtraight way there remained no ſtrength in me, nether is there breth left in me.

18 Then there came againe, & touched me one like the appearance of a man, & he ſtrengthened me, f The worde alſo ſignifieth comelines, or beautie, ſo ẏ for feare he was like a dead man for deformitie.

g Which declareth that when we are ſtricken downe with the maieſtie of God we can not riſe except he alſo lift vs vp with his hand, ẅ is his power.

h Meaning, Cãbyſes who reigned in his fathers abſence, & did not onely for this ſpace hinder ẏ building of the Tẽple, but wolde haue farther raged, if God had not ſent me to reſiſt him, and therefore haue I ſtaied for the profite of the Church.

i Thogh God colde by one Angel deſtroy all the worlde, yet to aſſure his children of his loue, he ſendeth forthe double power euẽ Michael, ẏ is Chriſt Ieſus ẏ head of Angels.

k For thogh ẏ prophet Daniel ſhulde end and ceaſe, yet his doctrine ſhulde continue til the comming of Chriſt for the comfort of his Church.

l This was the ſame Angel that ſpake with him before in the ſimilitude of a man.

m I was ouercome with feare and ſorowe, when I ſawe the viſion.

19 And

19 And ſaid, O man, greatly beloued, feare not: [n] peace be vnto thee: be ſtrong & of good courage. And when he had ſpoken vnto me, I [o] was ſtrengthened, and ſaid, Let my Lord ſpeake: for thou haſt ſtrengthened me.

20 Then ſaid he, Knoweſt thou wherefore I am come vnto thee? but now wil I returne to fight with the prince of Perſia: and when I am gone forthe, lo, the Pprince of Grecia ſhal come.

21 But I wil ſhewe thee that which is decreed in the Scripture of trueth: [q] and there is none that holdeth with me in theſe things, but Michael your Prince.

n Hte declareth here: by that God wolde be merciful vnto the people of Iſrael.

o Which declareth that when God ſmiteth downe his children, he doeth not immediatly lift them vp at once (for now ſ Angel had touched him twiſe) but by litle and litle.

p Meaning that he wolde not onely him ſelf bridle the rage of Cambyſes, but alſo the other Kings of Perſia by Alexander the King of Macedonia.

q For this Angel was appointed for the defenſe of the Church vnder Chriſt, who is the head thereof.

CHAP. XI.

A prophecie of the kingdomes, which ſhulde be enemies to the Church of God, as of Perſia, 3 Of Grece, 5 Of Egypt, 28 Of Syria, 36 And of the Romaines.

a The Angel aſſureth Daniel that God hathe giuen him power to perforne theſe thigs, ſeing he appointed him to aſſiſt Darius, when he ouercame the Caldeans.

1 ALſo I, in the firſt yere of Darius of the Medes, euen I [a] ſtode to incourage and to ſtrengthen him.

2 And now wil I ſhewe thee ſ trueth. Beholde, there ſhal ſtand vp yet [b] thre Kings in Perſia, and the fourth ſhalbe farre richer then they all: and by his ſtrength, & by his riches he ſhal ſtirre vp [c] all againſt the realme of Grecia.

b Whereof Cambyſes that now reigned, was the firſt, the ſecond Smerdes, the third, Darius ſ ſonne of Hyſtaſpis, and the fourth Zerxes, which all were enemies to ſ people of God and ſtode againſt them.

3 But a [d] mightie King ſhal ſtand vp, ſ ſhal rule with great dominion, and do according to his pleaſure.

4 And when he ſhal ſtand vp, [e] his kingdome ſhalbe broken, [f] and ſhalbe deuided towarde the [g] foure windes of heauen: and not to his [h] poſteritie, nor according to [i] his dominion, which he ruled: for his kingdome ſhalbe pluckt vp, euen to be for others beſides [k] thoſe.

c For he raiſed vp all the Eaſt countreis to fight againſt the Grecians: and albeit he had in his armie nine hundreth thouſand men, yet in foure battels he was diſcomfited & fled away with ſhame.

5 And the [l] King of the South ſhalbe mightie, and one of [m] his princes, and ſhal preuaile againſt him, and beare rule: his dominion ſhalbe a great dominion.

d That is, Alexander the Great.

e For when his eſtate was moſte floriſhing, he ouercame him ſelf with drinke, and ſo fell into a diſeaſe: or as ſome write, was poyſoned by Caſſander.

f For his twelue chief princes firſt deuided his kingdome among them ſelues.

g After this his monarchie was deuided into foure: for Seleucus had Syria, Antigonus Aſia minor, Caſſander the kingdome of Macedonia, and Ptolomeus Egypt.

h Thus God reuenged Alexanders ambition and crueltie in cauſing his poſteritie to be murthered, partely of the fathers chief friends, and partely one of another.

i None of theſe foure ſhalbe able to be compared to the power of Alexander.

k That is, his poſteritie hauing no parte thereof.

m That is, Antiochus the ſonne of Seleucus, & one of Alexanders princes ſhalbe more mightie: for he ſhulde haue bothe Aſia and Syria.

6 And in ſ end of yeres they ſhalbe ioyned together: for the Kings [n] daughter of the South ſhal come to the King of ſ North to make an agremẽt, but ſhe ſhal not reteine the power of the [o] arme, neither ſhal [p] he continue, nor his [q] arme: but ſhe ſhalbe deliuered to death, & thei that brought her, and he [r] that begate her, and he that comforted her in theſe times.

7 But out of the budde of her [s] rootes ſhal one ſtãd vp in his ſtead, [t] which ſhal come with an armie, & ſhal entre into ſ fortereſſe of the King of the North, and do with them as he liſt, and ſhal preuaile,

8 And ſhal alſo carye captiues into Egypt their gods with their molten images, & with their precious veſſels of ſiluer and of golde, and he ſhal continue [v] mo yeres then the King of the North.

9 So the King of the South ſhal come into his kingdome, & ſhal returne into his owne land.

10 Wherefore his [x] ſonnes ſhalbe ſtirred vp, and ſhal aſſemble a mightie great armie: and one [y] ſhal come, and ouerflowe, & paſſe through: then ſhal he [z] returne, and be ſtirred vp at his fortereſſe.

11 And the King of the South ſhalbe angrie, and ſhal come forthe, and fight [a] with him, euen with the King of the North: for he ſhal ſet forthe a great [a] multitude, and the multitude ſhalbe giuen into his hand.

12 Then the multitude ſhalbe proude, & their heart ſhalbe lifted vp: for he ſhal caſt downe thouſands: but he ſhal not ſtil preuaile.

13 For the King of the North [b] ſhal returne, and ſhal ſet forthe a greater multitude then afore, and ſhal come forthe (after certeine yeres) with a mightie armie, & great riches.

14 And at the ſame time there ſhal [c] manie ſtand vp againſt ſ King of ſ South: alſo the rebellious childre of thy [d] people ſhal exalte them ſelues to eſtabliſh the viſion, but they ſhal fall.

CHAP. XII.

1 Of the deliuerance of the Church by Christ.

1 AND at that [a] time shal Michael stãd vp, the great prince, which standeth for the children of thy people, and there shalbe a time of trouble, suche as neuer was since there began to be a nation vnto that same time: and at that time thy people shalbe deliuered, euerie one that shal be founde writen in the boke.
2 And many [b] of them that slepe in the dust of the earth, shal awake, some to euerlasting life, & some to shame & perpetual contempt.
3 And thei that be [c] wise, shal shine, as the brightnes of the firmament: & they that [d] turne many to righteousnes, shal shine as the starres, for euer and euer.
4 But thou, ô Daniel, [e] shut vp the wordes, and seale the boke [f] til the end of ſ time: many shal rũne to & fro, & knowledge shalbe increased.

8 Then I heard it, but I vnderstode it not: then said I, O my Lord, what shal be the end of these things?
9 And he said, Go thy way, Daniel: for the wordes are closed vp, and sealed, til the end of the time.
10 Many shalbe purified, made white, and tried: but the wicked shal do wickedly, and none of the wicked shal haue vnderstanding: but the wise shal vnderstand.

HOSEA.

THE ARGUMENT.

After that the ten tribes had fallen away from God by the wicked and subtil counsel of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, and in stede of his true seruice commaded by his worde worshipped him according to their owne fantasies and traditions of men, giuing them selues to moste vile idolatrie and superstition, the Lord from time to time sent them Prophetes to call them to repentance: but they grewe euer worse, and stil abused Gods benefites. Therefore now when their prosperitie was at the highest vnder Ieroboam the sonne of Ioash, God sent Hosea and Amos to the Israelites (as he did at the same time Isaiah and Micah to them of Iudah) to condemne them of their ingratitude: and where as they thoght them selues to be greatly in the fauour of God, and to be his people, the Prophet calleth them bastards and children borne in adulterie: & therefore sheweth them that God wolde take away their kingdome, & giue them to the Assyrias to be led away captiues. Thus Hosea faithfully executed his office for the space of seuentie yeres, though they remained stil in their vices & wickednes, & derided the Prophetes, & contemned Gods iudgements. And because they shulde nether be discouraged with threatnings onely, nor yet flatter them selues by the swetenes of Gods promises, he setteth before them the two principal partes of the Law, which are the promes of saluation, & the doctrine of life: for the first parte he directeth the faithful to Messiah, by whome onely they shulde haue true deliuerance: & for the seconde, he vseth threatnings and menaces to bring them from their wicked maners & vices, & this is the chief scope of all the Prophetes, ether by Gods promises to allure them to be godlie, els by threatnings of his iudgements to feare them from vice: & albeit that the whole Law conteine these two pointes, yet the Prophetes moreouer note peculiarly bothe the time of Gods iudgements and the maner.

CHAP. I.

1 The time wherein Hosea prophecied. 2 The idolatrie of the people. 10 The calling of the Gentiles. 11 Christ is the head of all people.

1 THE worde of the Lord that came vnto Hosea the sonne of Beeri, in the dayes [a] of Vzziah, Iothã, Ahaz, & Hezekiah [b] Kings of Iudah, & and in the dayes of Ieroboam the sonne of Ioash King of Israel.

2 At the beginning the Lord spake by Hosea, and the Lord said vnto Hosea, Go, [c] take vnto thee a wife of fornications, and children of fornications: for the land hathe committed great whoredome, departing from the Lord.

3 So he went, and toke [d] Gomer, the daughter of Diblaim, which conceiued and bare him a sonne.

4 And the Lord said vnto him, Call his name [e] Izreel: for yet a litle, and I wil visite the blood of Izreel vpon the house [f] of Iehu, and wil cause to cease the kingdome of the house of Israel.

5 And at that [g] day wil I also breake the bow of Israel in the valley of Izreel.

6 She conceiued yet againe, and bare a daughter, and God said vnto him, Call her name [h] Lo-ruhamah: for I wil no more haue pitie vpon the house of Israel:

a Called also Azariah, who being a lepre was deposed from his kingdome.

b So that it may be gathered by the reigne of these foure Kings, that he preached aboue threscore yere.

c That is, one that of long time hathe accustomed to play the harlot: not that the Prophet did this thing in effect, but he sawe this in a vision, or els was commanded by God to set forthe vnder this parable of figure the idolatrie of the Synagogue, and of the people her children.

d Gomer signifieth a consumption or corruption and Diblaim clusters of figges, declaring, that they were all corrupt like rotte figges.

e Meaning, that they shulde be no more called Israelites, of ỹ which name they boasted, becanse Israel did preuaile w God: but ỹ they were as bastards, & therefore shulde be called Izreelites, that is, scattered people, alluding to Izreel, which was the chief citie of the ten tribes vnder Ahab where Iehu shed so muche blood, 2. King. 10, 8.

f I wil be reuenged vpon Iehu for the blood that he shed in Izreel: for albeit God stirred him vp to execute his iudgements, yet he did them for his owne ambition, and not for the glorie of God, as the end declared: for he buylt vp that idolatrie, which he had destroyed.

g When the measure of their iniquitie is ful, and I shal take vengeance and destroye all their policie and force.

h That is, not obteining mercie: whereby he signifieth, that Gods fauour was departed from them.

but

but I wil vtterly take them away.

Yet I wil haue mercie vpon the house of Iudah, and wil saue them by the Lord their God, and wil not saue thē by bowe, nor by sworde nor by battel, by horses, nor by horsemen.

Now when she had wained Lo-ruhamah, she conceiued, and bare a sonne.

Then said God, Call his name Lo-ammi: for ye are not my people: therefore wil I not be yours.

Yet the nomber of the children of Israel shalbe as the sand of the sea, which can not be measured nor tolde: and in the place where it was said vnto them, Ye are not my people, it shal be said vnto them, Ye are the sonnes of the liuing God.

Then shal the children of Iudah, and the children of Israel be gathered together, and appoint them selues one head, and they shal come vp out of the land: for great is the day of Izreel.

CHAP. II.

The people is called to repentance. 5 He sheweth their idolatrie and threateneth them except they repent.

SAy vnto your brethren, Ammi, and to your sisters, Ruhamah, Plead with your mother: plead with her: for she is not my wife, nether am I her housband: but let her take away her fornications out of her sight, and her adulteries from betwene her breastes.

Lest I strippe her naked, & set her as in the day that she was borne, & make her as a wildernes, & leaue her like a drye land, and slaye her for thirst.

And I wil haue no pitie vpon her children: for they be the children of fornications.

For their mother hathe played the harlot: she that conceiued them, hathe done shamefully: for she said, I wil go after my louers that giue me my bread and my water, my woll & my flaxe, mine oile and my drinke.

Therefore beholde, I wil stoppe thy way with thornes, & make an hedge, that she shal not finde her paths.

Thogh she followe after her louers, yet shal she not come at them: thogh she seke them, yet shal she not finde them: then shal she say, I wil go & returne to my first housband: for at that time was I better then now.

Now she did not know that I gaue her corne, and wine, & oile, and multiplied her siluer and golde, which they bestowed vpon Baal.

Therefore wil I returne, and take away my corne in the time thereof, and my wine in the season thereof, and wil recouer my woll and my flaxe lent, to couer her shame.

And now wil I discouer her lewdnes in the sight of her louers, and no man shal deliuer her out of mine hand.

I wil also cause all her myrth to cease, her feast dayes, her newe moones, & her Sabbaths, and all her solemne feasts.

And I wil destroy her vines and her figtrees, whereof she hathe said, These are my rewardes that my louers haue giuen me: & I wil make them as a forest, and the wilde beasts shal eat them.

And I wil visit vpon her the dayes of Baalim, wherein she burnt incense to them: and she decked her self with her earings & her iewels, and she followed her louers, and forgate me, saith the Lord.

Therefore beholde, I wil allure her, & bring her into the wildernes, & speake friendly vnto her.

And I wil giue her her vineyardes frō thence, and the valley of Achor for the dore of hope, and she shal sing there as in the dayes of her youth, & as in the day when she came vp out of the land of Egypt.

And at that day, saith the Lord, thou shalt call me Ishi, and shalt call me nomore Baali.

For I wil take away the names of Baalim out of her mouth, and they shal be no more remembred by their names.

And in that day wil I make a couenat for them, with the wilde beasts, and with the foule of the heauen, and with that crepeth vpon the earth: and I wil breake the bowe, and the sworde and battel out of the earth, and wil make them to slepe safely.

And I wil marie thee vnto me for euer: yea, I wil marie thee vnto me in righteousnes, and in iudgement, and in mercie & in compassion.

I wil euen marie thee vnto me in faithfulnes, and thou shalt know the Lord.

And in that day I wil heare, saith the Lord, I wil euen heare the heauens, and they shal heare the earth,

And the earth shal heare the corne, &

l That is, not my people.

m Because thei thoght God colde not haue beme true in his promes excepe he had preserued thē, he declareth, thogh they were destroied yet the true Israelites, which are the sonnes of the promes, shulde be without nomber, which stand bothe of the Iewes, and the Gentiles, Rom.9,26.

n To wit, after the captiuitie of Babylon when the Iewes were restored: but chiefly this is referred to the time of Christ, who shulde be the head bothe of Iewes and Gentiles.

h I wil punish thee ye thē thou maiest trye whether thine idoles cā helpe thee, & bring thee into suche streitnes, ye thou shalt haue no lust to play ye wanton.

i This he speaketh of faithful, wh are truely conuerted, and also sheweth the vse and profite of Gods rods.

k This declareth idolaters defraude God of his honour whē thei attribute his benefites to their idoles.

l Signifying God will take away his benefites when man by his ingratitude doeth abuse them.

m That is, all her seruice, ceremonies & inuentions whereby she worshipped her idoles.

n I wil punish her for her idolatrie.

o By shewing how harlotes trimme thē selues to please others, he declareth how superstitious idolaters set a great parte of their religion in decking them selues on their holie dayes.

Rom. 9, 15. 1. pet. 2, 10.

CHAP. III.

1 The Iewes shalbe cast off for their idolatrie. 5 Afterwarde they shal returne to the Lord.

1 THen said the Lord to me, [a] Go yet, and loue a woman (beloued of her housband, and was an harlot) according to the loue of the Lord toward ỹ children of Israel: yet they loked to other gods, & [b] loued the wine bottels.

2 So [c] I boght her to me for fiftene pieces of siluer, and for an homer of barlie and an halfe homer of barlie.

3 And I said vnto her, Thou shalt abide with [d] me manie dayes: thou shalt not play the harlot, and thou shalt be to none other man, and I wil be so vnto thee.

4 For the children of Israel shal [e] remaine manie dayes without a King & without a [f] prince, and without an offring, & without an image, & without an Ephod and without Teraphim.

5 Afterwarde shal the children of Israel conuert, and seke the Lord their God, and [g] Dauid their King, and shal feare the Lord, and his goodnes in the latter dayes.

a Herein ỹ prophet representeth ỹ persone of God, w loued his Church before he called her, & did not withdrawe the same when she gaue her selfe to idoles.

b That is, gaue thé selues wholly to pleasures, and colde not loke vp, as they ỹ are giuen to drunkennes.

c Yet I loued her and payed a smale portion for her, lest she perceiuing the greatnes of my loue, shulde haue abused me & not bene vnder duetie: for fiftene pieces of siluer were but half the price of a selaue, Exod. 21, 32.

d I wil trie thee a long time as in thy widowehode whether thou wilt be mine or no.

e Meaning, not onely all the time of their captiuitie, but also vnto Christ.

f That is, they shulde neither haue pollicie nor religion, and their idoles also wherein they put their confidence, shulde be destroyed.

g This is ment of Christs kingdome, which was promised vnto Dauid to be eternal, psal. 72, 38.

CHAP. IIII.

A complaint against the people, and the Priests of Israel.

1 HEare the worde of ỹ Lord, ye children of Israel: for the Lord [a] hathe a controuersie with the inhabitants of the land because there is no trueth, nor mercie nor knowledge of God in the land.

2 By swearing, & lying, and killing, and stealing, and whoring they breake out, and [b] blood toucheth blood.

3 Therefore shal the land mourne, and euerie one that dwelleth therein, shal be cut of, with the beasts in the field, and with the foules of the heauen, and also the fishes of the sea shalbe taken away.

a Because the people wolde not obey ỹ admonitions of ỹ propher, he citeth them before the iudgemẽt seat of God, against whom they chiefly offended, Isa. 7, 12. Zecha. 12, 10.

b In euerie place appeareth a libertie to most heinous vices, so that one followeth in ỹ necke of another.

4 Yet [c] let none rebuke, nor reproue another: for thy people are as they that rebuke the Priest.

5 Therefore shalt thou fall in the [d] day, and the Prophet shal fall with thee in the night, & I wil destroye thy [e] mother.

6 My people are destroyed for lacke of knowledge: because [f] thou hast refused knowledge, I wil also refuse thee, that thou shalt be no Priest to me: and seing thou hast forgotten ỹ Law of thy God, I wil also forget thy children.

7 As they were [h] increased, so they sinned against me: therefore wil I change their glorie into shame.

8 [i] They eat vp the sinnes of my people, & lift vp their mindes in their iniquitie.

9 And there shalbe like people, like [k] Priest: for I wil visit their wayes vpon them, & rewarde them their dedes.

10 For they shal eat, & not haue ynough: they shal [l] commit adulterie, & shal not increase, because they haue left of to take hede to the Lord.

11 [m] Whoredome, and wine, and newe wine take away their heart.

12 My [n] people aske coũsel of their stockes, & their staffe teacheth them: for ỹ [o] spirit of fornications hathe caused them to erre, and they haue gone a whoring from vnder their God.

13 They sacrifice vpon the toppes of the mountaines, & burne incense vpon the hilles vnder the okes, & the poplar tre, & the elme, because the shadowe thereof is good: therefore your daughters shalbe [p] harlottes, & your spouses shalbe whores.

14 I wil not [q] visite your daughters whẽ they are harlots, nor your spouses when they are whores: for thei them selues are separated with harlots, and sacrifice w whores: therefore the people that doeth not vnderstand, shal fall.

15 Though thou, Israel, playe the harlot, yet [r] let not Iudah sinne: come not ye vnto [s] Gilgal, nether go ye vp to [t] Bethauen, nor sweare, The Lord liueth.

16 For [v] Israel is rebellious as an vnrulie heiffer. Now the Lord wil fede them as a [x] lambe in a large place.

17 Ephraim is ioyned to idoles: let him

c As though he wolde say, that it were in vaine to rebuke thẽ: for no man can abide it: yea, they wil speake against the propheres and Priests whose office is chiefly to rebuke them.

d Ye shal perish all together: ỹ one, because he wolde not obeie, and ỹ other because he wolde not admonish.

e That is, ỹ Synagogue wherein ỹ boasteth.

f That is, the Priests shalbe cast of because, ỹ for lacke of knowledge, they are not able to execute their charge, & instruct others. Deut. 33, 1. malach. 2, 7.

g Meaning, the whole bodie of the people, w were wearie & hearing ỹ worde of God.

h The more it was beneficial vnto them.

i To wit, the Priests seke to eat the peoples offrings & flatter them in their sinnes.

k Signifying, ỹ as they haue sinned together, so shal they be punished together.

l Shewing that their wickednes shalbe punished on all sortes: for though they thinke by the multitude of wiues to haue many children, yet they shalbe deceiued of their hope.

m In giuing thẽ selues to pleasures, they become like brute beasts.

n Thus he speaketh by derision in calling them his people, which now for their sinnes they were not: for they sought helpe of stockes & stickes.

o They are caried away with a rage.

p Because they take away Gods honour, and giue it to idoles, therefore he wil giue them vp to their lustes, ỹ they shal dishonour their owne bodies, Rom. 1, 28.

q I wil not correct your shame to bring you to amendement, but let you runne headlong to your owne damnation.

r God complaineth that Iudah is infected, and willeth them to learne by their example to returne in time.

s For albeit the Lord had honored this place in time past by his presence, yet because it was abused by their idolatrie, he wolde not that his people shulde resort thether.

t He calleth Beth-el, that is the house of God, Beth-auen, that is, ỹ house of iniquitie, because of their abominations set vp there, signifying that no place is holie where God is not purely worshipped.

v God wil so disperse them ỹ they shal not remaine in anie certeine place.

10 Their drunkennes stinketh: they haue committed whoredome: their rulers loue to say with shame, x Bring ye.

19 The winde hathe y bounde them vp in her wings, and they shalbe ashamed of their sacrifices.

x They are so impudent in receiuing bribes, that they wil commande men to bring them vnto them.
y To carie them suddenly away.

CHAP. V.

1 Against the Priests and rulers of Israel. 13 The helpe of man is in vaine.

1 OYe Priests, heare this, and hearken ye, ô house of Israel, & giue ye eare, ô house of the King: for iudgement is toward you, because you haue bene a a snare on Mizpah, and a net spred vpō Tabor.

2 Yet they were profounde, to decline to b slaughter, though I haue bene a c rebuker of them all.

3 I knowe d Ephraim, and Israel is not hid from me: for now, ô Ephraim thou art become an harlot, & Israel is defiled.

4 Thei wil not giue their mindes to turne vnto their God: for the spirit of fornication is in the middes of them, and they haue not knowen the Lord.

5 And the e pride of Israel doeth testifie to his face: therefore shal Israel and Ephraim fall in their iniquitie: Iudah also shal fall with them.

6 They shal go with their shepe, & with their bullockes to seke the Lord: but they shal not finde him: for he hathe withdrawen him self from them.

7 They haue transgressed against the Lord: for they haue begotten f strange children: now shal g a moneth deuoure them with their porcions.

8 Blowe ye the trumpet in Gibeah, & the shaume in Ramah: crye out at Bethauen, after thee, ô h Beniamin.

9 Ephraim shalbe desolare in the day of rebuke: among the tribes of Israel haue I caused to i knowe the trueth.

10 The princes of Iudah were like them that k remoue the bondes: therefore wil I powre out my wrath vpon them like water.

11 Ephraim is oppressed, and broken in iudgement, because he willingly walked after the l commandement.

12 Therefore wil I be vnto Ephraim as a a moth, and to the house of Iudah as a rottennes.

13 When Ephraim sawe his sickenes, & Iudah this wounde, then went Ephraim vnto m Asshur, & sent vnto King n Iareb: yet colde he not heale you, nor cure you of your wounde.

14 For I wil be vnto Ephraim as a lion, and as a lions whelpe to the house of Iudah: I, euen I wil spoyle, and go away: I wil take away, and none shal rescue it.

15 I wil go, & returne to my place, til they acknowledge their faute, and seke me: in their affliction they wil seke me diligently.

a The priests & princes catched the poore people in their snares as the fowlers did y birds, in these two high mountaines.
b Notwithstanding they semed to be giuen altogether to holines, and to sacrifices, which here he calleth slaughter in cōtempt.
c Though I admonished them continually by my Prophetes.
d They boasted them selues to be Israelites, but also Ephraimites, because their King Ieroboam came of that tribe.
e Meaning, their contemning of all admonitions.
f That is their children are degenerat, so that there is no hope in them.
g Their destruction is not farre of.
h That is, all Israel comprehended vnder this parte, signifying that y Lords plagues shulde pursue them from place to place til they were destroyed.
i By the successe thei shal know.
k We that I haue surely determined this.
l Thei haue turned vp side downe all political order, and all maner of religion.
m In stead of seking for remedie at Gods hand.
n Who was King of the Assyrians.

CHAP. VI.

1 Affliction causeth a man to turne to God. 9 The wickednes of the Priests.

1 COme, & let vs a returne to y Lord: for he hathe spoiled, and he wil heale vs: he hathe wounded vs, and he wil binde vs vp.

2 After two dayes wil b he reuiue vs, & in the thirde day he wil raise vs vp, and we shal liue in his sight.

3 Then shal we haue knowledge, and endeuor our selues to knowe the Lord: his going forthe is prepared as y morning, and he shal come vnto vs as the raine, and as the latter raine vnto the earth.

4 O Ephraim, what shal I do vnto thee? ô Iudah, how shal I entreat thee? for c your goodnes is as a morning cloude, and as the morning dewe it goeth away.

5 Therefore haue I d cut downe by the Prophetes: I haue slaine them by the wordes of my mouth, and e thy iudgements were as the light that goeth forthe.

6 For I desired f mercie, & not sacrifice, & the knowledge of God more then burnt offrings.

7 But thei like g men haue transgressed the couenant: there haue they trespaced against me.

8 h Gilead is a citie of them that worke iniquitie, and is polluted with blood.

9 And as theues waite for a man, so the companie of Priests murther in the way by consent: for they worke meschief.

10 I haue sene vilenie in the house of Israel: there is y whoredome of Ephraim: Israel is defiled.

11 Yea Iudah hathe set a i plat for thee, whiles I wolde returne the captiuitie of my people.

a He sheweth y people howe they oght to turne to the Lord, y he might call backe his plagues.
b Though he correct vs from time to time, yet his helpe wil not be farre of, if we returne to him.
c You seme to haue a certeine holines, and repentance, but it is vpon y sudden, and as a morning cloude.
d I haue still laboured by my prophets, & as it were framed you to bring you to amendement, but all was in vaine: for my worde was not meat to fede them, but a sworde to slay them.
e My doctrine wherwith I taught thee, was moste euident.
f He sheweth to what scope his doctrine tended y they shulde ioyne the obedience of God, & y loue of their neighbour with outwarde sacrifice.
g That is, like light & weake persones.
h Which was y place where the priests dwelt, and which shulde haue bene best instructed in my worde.
i That is, doeth imitate thine idolatrie, and hathe taken grasses of thy trees.

CHAP. VII.

1 Of the vices and wantonnes of the people. 12 Of their punishment.

1 WHen I wolde haue healed Israel, thē the iniquitie of Ephraim was discouered, and the wickednes of Samaria: for they haue delt falsely: and [a] the thefe cometh in, & the robber spoyleth without.

2 And they cõsider not in their hearts, ỹ I remember all their wickednes: now their owne inuencions haue beset them about: they are in my sight.

3 They make the [b] King glad with their wickednes, & the princes with there lies.

4 Thei are all adulterers, & as a verie [c] ouen heated by the baker, which ceaseth from raising vp, & from kneding ỹ dowe vntil it be leauened.

5 This is the day of our King: ỹ princes haue made him sicke with flagons of wine: he stretcheth out his hand to scorners.

6 For thei haue made readie their heart like an ouen whiles they lie in waite: their baker slepeth all the night: in the morning it burneth as a flame of fyre.

7 They are all hote as an ouen, and haue [e] dououred their Iudges: all their Kigs are fallen: there is none among thẽ that calleth vnto me.

8 Ephraim hathe [f] mixt him self among the people. Ephraim is as a cake on the herth not turned.

9 Strangers haue deuoured his strẽgth, & he knoweth it not: yea, [g] graye heeres are here & there vpon him, yet he knoweth not.

10 And the pride of Israel testifieth to his face, and they do not returne to the Lord their God, nor seke him for all this.

11 Ephraim also is like a doue deceiued, without [h] heart: they call to Egypt: they go to Asshur.

12 But when they shal go, I wil spred my net vpon them, and drawe them downe as the foules of the heauen: I wil chastise them as their [i] congregation hathe heard.

13 Wo vnto them: for they haue fled away from me: destruction shalbe vnto them, because they haue transgressed against me: thogh I haue [k] redemed thẽ, yet they haue spoken lies against me.

14 And they haue not cryed vnto me w their hearts, [l] when they houled vpon their beds: [m] they assemble them selues for corne, and wine, & thei rebell against me.

15 Thogh I haue bounde, & strengthened their arme, yet do they imagine mischief against me.

16 Thei returne, but not to ỹ most high: thei are like a deceitful bowe: their princes shal fall by the sworde, for the rage [n] of their tongues: this shalbe their derision in the land of Egypt.

a Meaning, that there was no one kinde of vice among them, but ỹ they were subiect to all wickednes, both secret and open.

b Thei esteme their wicked King Ieroboam aboue God, and seke but how to flatter, & please him.

c He compareth the rage of the people to a burning ouen w ỹ baker heateth stil til his dowe be leauened, and raised.

d They vsed all riot & excesse in their feasts & solemnities, whereby their King was ouercome w surfet, and broght into diseases, & delited in flatteries.

e By there occasion God hathe depriued thẽ of all good rulers.

f That is, he cõterfaiteth ỹ religiõ of ỹ Gẽtiles yet is it but as a cake baked, on the one side & rawe on the other, that is, nether through hote nor through cold, but parcely a Iewe, and parcely a Gentil.

g Which are a token of his maniefolde afflictions.

h That is, without all iudgement, as they ỹ can not tel whether it is better to cleaue onely to God, or to seke the helpe of man.

i According to my curses made to the whole congregation of Israel.

k That is, diuers times redemed them, and deliuered them from death.

l When they were in affliction, and cryed out for paine, they soght not vnto me for helpe. m They onely seke their owne commoditie and welth, and passe not for me their God. n Because they boast of their owne strength, and passe not what they spake against me and my seruants, Psal. 73, 6.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The destruction of Iudah and Israel, because of their idolatrie.

1 SEt the trumpet to thy [a] mouth: he shal come as an egle against the House of ỹ Lord, because they haue transgressed my couenant, & trespaced against my Law.

2 Israel shal [b] crye vnto me, My God, we knowe thee.

3 Israel hathe cast of the thing that is good: the enemie shal pursue him.

4 They haue set vp a [c] King, but not by me: they haue made princes, and I knewe it not: of their siluer and their golde haue they made them idoles: therefore shal thei be destroyed.

5 Thy calfe, ô Samaria, hathe cast thee of: mine anger is kindeled against thẽ: how long wil they be without [d] innocencie?

6 [e] For it came euen from Israel: ỹ workeman made it, therefore it is not God: but the calfe of Samaria shalbe broken in pieces.

7 For they haue [f] sowen the winde, and they shal reape the whirlwinde: it hathe no stalke: the budde shal bring forthe no meale: if so be it bring forthe, ỹ strãgers shal deuoure it.

8 Israel is deuoured, now shal they be among the Gentiles as a vessel where in is no pleasure.

9 For they are gone vp to Asshur: they are as a [g] wilde asse alone by him self: Ephraim hathe hired louers.

10 Yet thogh they haue hired among ỹ nacions, now wil I gather them, and thei shal sorowe a litle, for the [h] burden of ỹ King, & the princes.

11 Because Ephraim hathe made many altars to sinne, his altars shalbe to sinne.

12 I haue writen to them ỹ great things of my Law: but they were counted as a [i] strange thing.

13 They sacrifice flesh for the sacrifices of mine offrings, & eat it: but the [k] Lord accepteth them not: now wil he remember their iniquitie, and visite their sinnes: they shal returne to Egypt.

14 For Israel hathe forgotten his maker, & buyldeth temples, and Iudah hathe encreased strong cities: but I wil send a fyre vpon his cities, and it shal deuoure the palaces thereof.

a God incourageth ỹ Prophet to signifie the spedie coming of the enemie against Israel, w was once the people of God.

b They shal crye like hypocrites, but not frõ ỹ heart, as their dedes declare.

c That is, Ieroboam, by whome they sogth their owne libertie, & not to obey my wil.

d That is vpright iudgemẽt and godlie life.

e Meaning, the calfe was inuented by them selues, & of their fathers in the wildernes.

f Shewing that their religion hathe but a shewe, & in it self is but vanitie.

g They neuer cease but runne to and fro to seke helpe.

h That is, for ỹ tribute which ỹ King & ỹ princes shal lay vpon them: which meanes ỹ Lord vseth to bring them to repentance.

i Thus the idolaters counte ỹ worde of God as strãge in respect of their owne inuẽtiõs.

k Saying ỹ they offer it to the Lord, but he accepteth no seruice, w he him self hathe not appointed.

CHAP. IX.

Of the hunger and captiuitie of Israel.

1 REioyce not, ô Israel for ioye as other people: for ỹ hast gone a whoring from from thy God: thou hast loued [b] a rewarde vpon euery corne floore.

2 [c] The floore, and the wine presse shal not fede them, & the new wine shal faile in her.
3 They wil not dwell in the Lords land, but Ephraim wil returne to Egypt, and they wil eat vncleane things in Asshur.
4 They shal not offer [d] wine to ỹ Lord, nether shal their sacrifices be pleasant vnto him: but thei shalbe vnto them as ỹ bread of mourners: all that eat thereof, shal be polluted: for their bread [e] for their soules shal not come into ỹ House of the Lord.
5 What wil ye do [f] then in the solemne day, and in the day of the feast of the Lord?
6 For lo, they are gone from [g] destruction: but Egypt shal gather them vp, & Memphis shal bury them: ỹ nettles shal possesse the pleasant places of their siluer, & the thorne shalbe in their tabernacles.
7 The dayes of visitation are come: the dayes of recompense are come: Israel shal knowe it: [h] the Prophet is a foole: the spiritual man is mad, for the multitude of thine iniquitie: therefore ỹ hatred is great.
8 The watcheman of Ephraim [i] shulde be with my God: but ỹ Prophet is the snare of a fouler in all his waies, & hatred in the House of his God.
9 They [k] are depely set: they are corrupt as in the daies of Gibeah: therefore he wil remember their iniquitie, he wil visite their sinnes.
10 I founde Israel like [l] grapes in ỹ wildernes: I sawe your fathers as the first ripe in ỹ fig tre at her first time: but they went to Baal-Peor, and separated them selues vnto that shame, and their abominacions were according to [m] their louers.
11 Ephraim their glorie shal flee away like a birde: from the birth [n] & from the wombe, and from the conception.
12 Though they bring vp their children, yet I wil depriue them from being mẽ: yea, wo to them, when I departe from them.
13 Ephraim, as I sawe, is as a tre [o] in Tyrus planted in a cottage: but Ephraim shal bring forthe his children to ỹ murtherer.
14 O Lord, giue them: what wilt thou giue them? giue them a [p] baren wombe & drye breasts.
15 All their wickednes is in [q] Gilgal: for there do I hate them: for the wickednes of their inuencions, I wil cast them out of mine House: I wil loue them no more: all their princes are rebelles.
16 Ephraim is smittẽ, their roote is dryed vp: they can bring no frute: yea, though thei bring forthe, yet wil I slaie euen ỹ dearest of their bodie.
17 My God wil cast them away, because they did not obey him: and they shal wander among the nacions.

CHAP. X.

Against Israel and his idoles. 14 His destruction for the same.

1 Israel is a [a] emptie vine, yet hathe it broght forthe frute vnto it self, and according to the multitude of the frute thereof he hathe increased the altars: according to the [b] goodnes of their land they haue made faire images.
2 Their heart is [c] deuided: now shal they be founde fautie: he shal breake downe their altars: he shal destroye their images.
3 For now they shal say, We haue no [d] King, because we feared not the Lord: and what shulde a King do to vs?
4 They haue spoken wordes, swearing falsely in making [e] a couenant: thus [f] iudgement groweth as wormewood in the furrowes of the field.
5 The inhabitants of Samaria shal [g] feare because of the calfe of Beth-auen: for ỹ people thereof shal mourne ouer it, & the [h] Chemarims thereof, that reioyced on it for the glorie thereof, because it is departed from it.
6 It shalbe also broght to Asshur, for a present vnto King Iareb: Ephraim shal receiue shame, & Israel shalbe ashamed of his owne counsel.
7 Of Samaria, the King thereof is destroied, as the fome vpon the water.
8 The hie places also of [i] Auen shalbe destroied, euen ỹ sinne of Israel: ỹ thorne and the thistle shal growe vpon their altars, and they shal say to the mountaines, Couer vs, & to the hilles, Fall vpon vs.
9 O Israel, thou hast [k] sinned from the daies of Gibeah: there they [l] stode: the battel in Gibeah against the children of iniquitie did not [m] touche them.
10 It is my desire [n] that I shulde chastise

g Thogh they thinke to escape by fleing the destruction that is at hand, yet shal they be destroyed in the place whether they flee for soccour.

i The prophetes duetie is to brig men to God and not to be a snare to pul them from God.
k This people is so rooted in their wickednes, ỹ Gibeah ẅ was like to Sodom, was neuer more corrupt, Iud. 19, 22.
l Meaning, that he so estemed thẽ & delited in them.
m They were as abominable vnto me, as their louers the idoles. n Signifying that God wold destroy their children by these sundry meanes, & so consume them by litle and litle. o As they kept tender plantes in their houses in Tyrus to preserue them from ỹ colde ayre of the sea, so was Ephraim at the first vnto me, but now I wil giue him to the slaughter. p The prophet seing the great plagues of God toward Ephraim, praieth to God to make them baren, rather then that this great slaughter shulde come vpon their children.
q The chief cause of their destruction is ỹ they commit idolatrie & corrupt my religiõ in Gilgal.

12 Sowe to your selues in righteousnes: reape after ỹ measure of mercie: r breake vp your fallowe grounde: for it is time to seke the Lord, til he come & raine righteousnes vpon you.

13 But you haue plowed wickednes: ye haue reaped iniquitie: you haue eaten ỹ frute of lies: because thou dideſt truſt in thine owne waies, & in the multitude of thy strong men, 14 Therefore shal a tumult arise among thy people & all thy munitions shalbe destroied, as s Shalmā destroyed Beth-arbel in the day of battel: the mother with the children was dashed in pieces.

s That is, Shalmanazzar in the destruction of ỹ citie spared neither kinde nor age.

15 So shal Beth-el do vnto you, because of your malicious wickednes: in a morning shal the King of Israel be destroyed.

CHAP. XI.

The benefites of the Lord toward Israel. 5 Their ingratitude against him.

a Whiles, ỹ Israelites were in Egypt and did not prouoke my wrath by their malice & ingratitude.

VVHen Israel a was a childe, then I loued him, & called my sonne out of Egypt.

2 They called them, but they b wēt thus from thē: thei sacrificed vnto Baalim, & burnt incense to images.

b They rebelled & went a contrary way when the Prophetes called them to repentance.

3 I led Ephraim also as one shulde beare them in his armes: but thei knewe not that I healed them.

c That is, friedly & not as beasts or sclaues.

4 I led them with cordes c of a man, euen with bandes of loue, and I was to them, as he that taketh of the yoke frō their iawes, and I laied the meat vnto them.

5 He shal no more returne into the land of Egypt: but Asshur shalbe his d King, because thei refused to conuert.

d Seing they cōtemne all this kindenes, they shalbe led captiue into Assyria.

6 And the sworde shal fall on his cities, and shal consume his barres, and deuoure them, because of their owne counsels.

e To wit, ỹ Prophetes.

7 And my people are bent to rebellion against me: though e they called them to the most hie, yet none at all wolde exalt him.

f God cōsidereth ẅ him selfe & ỹ with a certeine grief how to punish.

g Which were two of the cities ỹ were destroied ẅ Sodom, Deu. 29, 23.

8 f How shal I giue thee vp, Ephraī? how shal I deliuer thee, Israel? how shal I make thee as g Admah? how shal I set thee, as Zeboim? mine heart is turned within me: h my repentings are rouled together.

h Meaning, that his loue where with he first loued thē, maie him bet weene doute & assurance what to do: & herein appeareth his fatherlie affection, that is mercie toward his shal ouercome his iudgemēts, as he declareth in ỹ next ver

9 I wil not execute the fiercenes of my wrath: I wil not returne to destroy Ephraim: for I am God, and not man, the holy one in the middes of thee, & I wil not i entre into the citie.

i To consume thee, but wil cause thee to yelde & so receiue thee to mercie: and this is ment of the small nomber who shal walke after the Lord.

10 They shal walke after the Lord: he shal roare like a lyon: when he shal roare, then the children of the West shal feare.

k The Egyptiās and Assyrians shal be afraid when ỹ Lord maintaineth his people.

11 k Thei shal feare as a sparowe out of Egypt, and as a doue out of the land of Asshur, & I wil place them in their houses, saith the Lord.

l Gouerneth their state according to Gods worde, & doeth not degenerate.

12 Ephraim compasseth me about with lies, and the house of Israel with deceit: but Iudah yet ruleth l with God, and is faithful with the Saincts.

CHAP. XII.

He admonisheth by Iaakobs example to trust in God, and not in man.

Chap. XII.

1 EPhraim is fed a with the winde, and followeth after ỹ Eastwinde: he encreaseth daiely lies and destruction, and they do make a couenant with Asshur, & b oyle is caryed into Egypt.

a That is, flattereth him self with vaine confidence.

b Meaning, presentes to get friendship.

2 The Lord hathe also a controuersie ẅ c Iudah, & wil visite Iaakob, according to his waies: according to his workes, wil he recompense him.

c Which in these pointes was like to Ephraim, but not in idolatries.

3 He toke his brother by the hele in ỹ wombe, & by his strength he had d power with God, d Seing ỹ God did thus preferre Iaakob, the i father, Iudahs ingratitude was the more to be abhorred.

4 And had e power ouer the Angel, and preuailed: he wept & prayed vnto him: f he founde him in Beth-el, and there he spake with vs.

e Read Genes. 32, 28.

5 Yea, the Lord God of hostes, the Lord is him self his memorial.

f God founde Iaakob as he lay sleping in Beth-el, Genes. 28, 12, & so spake with him there, that the frute of that speache appertened to the whole body of ỹ people, whereof we are.

6 Therefore turne thou to thy God: kepe mercie and iudgement, and hope stil in thy God.

7 He is g Canaan: the balances of deceit are in his hand: he loueth to oppresse.

g As for Ephraim he is more like the wicked Canaanites thē godlie Abrahā or Iaakob.

8 And Ephraim said, Notwithstanding I am riche, I haue founde me out riches in all my labours: they shal finde none iniquitie in me, h that were wickednes.

h Thus ỹ wicked measure Gods fauour by outward prosperitie, and like hypocrites can not abide that anie shulde reproue their doings.

9 Thogh I am the Lord thy God, from the land of Egypt, yet wil I make thee to dwell in the tabernacles, as in i ỹ dayes of the solemne feast.

i Seīg thou wilt not acknowledge my benefites, I wil bring thee againe to dwell in tentes as in ỹ feast of ỹ Taberuacles, ẅ thou doest now contemne.

10 I haue also spoken by the Prophetes, and I haue multiplied visions, and vsed similitudes by the ministerie of the Prophetes.

11 Is there k iniquitie in Gilead? surely k The people thoght ỹ no mā durst haue spoken against Gilead, ỹ was but vanitie.

thei are vanitie: they sacrifice bullockes in Gilgal, and their altars are as heapes in the furrowes of the field.

12 [l] And Iaakob fled into the countrey of Aram, and Israel serued for a wife, & for a wife he kept sheepe.

13 And by a [m] Prophet the Lord broght Israel out of Egypt, and by a Prophet was he reserued.

14 But Ephraim prouoked him with hie places: therefore shal his blood be powred vpon him, and his reproche shal his Lord rewarde him.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The abomination of Israel. 9 And cause of their destruction.

1 WHen Ephraim spake, there was [a] trembling: he [b] exalted him self in Israel, but he hathe sinned in Baal, and is dead.

2 And now they sinne more and more, & haue made them molten images of their siluer, & idoles according to their owne vnderstanding: they were all ý worke of the craftesmen: they say one to another whiles thei sacrifice a [d] mā, Let them kisse the calues.

3 Therefore they shalbe as the morning cloude, & as the morning dewe ý passeth away, as the chaffe that is driué with a whirle winde out of the floore, & as ý smoke that goeth out of the chimney.

4 Yet I am the Lord thy God [e] from ý land of Egypt, and thou shalt know no God but me: for there is no Sauiour beside me.

5 I did knowe thee in the wildernes, in the land of drought.

6 As in their pastures, so were thei filled: they were filled, and their heart was exalted: therefore haue they forgotten me.

7 And I wil be vnto them as a verie lyon, and as a leoparde in the waye of Asshur.

8 I wil mete them, as a beare that is robbed of her whelpes, and I wil breake the calle of their heart, and there wil I deuoure them like a lyon: the wilde beast shal teare them.

9 O Israel, [f] one hathe destroyed thee, but in me is thine helpe.

10 [g] I am: where is thy King, that shulde helpe thee in all thy cities? & thy iudges, of whome thou saidest, Giue me a King and princes?

11 I gaue thee a King in mine angre, and I toke him away in my wrath.

12 The iniquitie of Ephraim is [h] bounde vp: his sinne is hid.

13 The sorowes of a trauailing woman shal come vpō him: he is an vnwise sonne, els wolde he not stand stil at the time, euen at the [i] breaking forthe of the children.

14 I wil redeme them from the power of the graue: I wil deliuer them from death: ô [k] death, I wil be thy death: ô graue, I wil be thy destruction: [l] repentance is hid from mine eyes.

15 Thogh he grewe vp among his brethren, an East winde shal come, euen ý winde of the Lord shal come vp from the wildernes, and drye vp his veine, and his fountaine shalbe dryed vp: he shal spoyle the treasure of all pleasant vessels.

16 Samaria shal be desolate: for she hathe rebelled against her God: they shal fall by the sworde: their infants shalbe dashed in pieces, & their women with childe shalbe ript.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 The destruction of Samaria. 3 He exhorteth Israel to turne to God, who requireth praise and thankes.

1 O Israel, [a] returne vnto the Lord thy God: for thou hast fallen by thine iniquitie.

2 Take vnto you wordes, and turne to the Lord, and say vnto him, [b] Take away all iniquitie, and receiue vs graciously: so wil we render ý calues of [c] our lippes.

3 Asshur shal [d] not saue vs, nether wil we ride vpō horses: nether wil we say anie more to the worke of our hands, Ye are our gods: for in thee the fatherles findeth mercie.

4 [e] I wil heale their rebellion: I wil loue them frely: for mine anger is turned away from him.

5 I wil be as the dewe vnto Israel: he shal growe as the lilie and fasten his rootes as the trees of Lebanon.

6 His branches shal spreade, & his beautie shalbe as the oliue tre, and his smel as Lebanon.

7 They that dwell vnder his [f] shadowe, shal returne: they shal reuiue as ý corne, & florish as the vine: the sent thereof shalbe as the wine of Lebanon.

8 Ephraim shal say, What haue I to do anie more with idoles? I [g] haue heard him, and loked vpon him: I am like a grene fyrre tre: vpon me is thy frute found.

9 Who is [h] wise, and he shal vnderstand these things? and prudent, and he shal knowe them? for the wayes of the Lord are righteous and the iuste shal walke in them: but the wicked shal fall therein.

IOEL.

THE ARGUMENT.

THe Prophet Ioel first rebuketh them of Iudah, that being now punished with a great plague of famine, remaine still obstinat. Secondly he threateneth greater plagues, because they grewe daily to a more hardenes of heart, & rebellion against God notwithstanding his punishments. Thirdly he exhorteth them to repentance, shewing that it muste be earneste, and procede from the heart because they had grieuously offended God. And so doing, he promiseth, that God wil be merciful, & not forget his couenant that he made with their fathers: but wil send his Christ who shal gather the scattred shepe, and restore them to life, and liberties, though they semed to be dead.

8 Mourne like a virgine girded with sackecloth for the housband of e her youth.

11 Be ye ashamed, ô housbande mẽ: houle, ô ye vine dressers for the wheat, and for the barly, because the harueste of the field is perished.

15 Alas: for the day, for the i day of the Lord is at hand, and it cometh as a destruction from the Almightie.

16 Is not the meat cut of before our eyes? & ioye, and gladnes from the House of our God?

17 The sede is rotten vnder their cloddes: the garners are destroyed: ỹ barnes are broken downe, for ỹ corne is withered.

18 How did the beastes mourne? the herdes of cattel pine away, because they haue no pasture, and the flockes of shepe are destroyed.

19 O Lord, to thee wil I crye: for the fyre hathe deuoured the pastures of ỹ wildernes, and the flame hathe burnt vp all the trees of the field.

20 The beastes of the field crye also vnto thee: for the riuers of waters are dryed vp, & the k fyre hathe deuoured the pastures of the wildernes.

Of the iudgement of God againſt the enemies of his people.

e Haue I done you wrōg, that ye wil render me the like?

f For afterwarde God ſolde them by Nebuchad-nezzar, & Alexander the great, for the loue he bare to his people, and thereby they were comforted as though the price had bene theirs.

1 For beholde, in [a] thoſe daies and in that time, when I ſhal bring againe the captiuitie of Iudah and Ieruſalem,

2 I wil alſo gather all nations, and wil bring them downe into the [b] vallei of Iehoſhaphat, and wil plead with them there for my people, and for mine heritage Iſrael, whome thei haue ſcattered among the nations, and parted my land.

6 The children alſo of Iudah and the children of Ieruſalem haue you ſolde vnto the Grecians, that ye might ſend them farre from their border.

7 Beholde, I wil raiſe them out of the place where ye haue ſolde them, & wil render your rewarde vpon your owne head,

8 And I wil ſell your ſonnes and your daughters into the hand of the children of Iudah, and thei [f] ſhal ſell them to the Sabeans, to a people farre of: for ẏ Lord him ſelf hathe ſpoken it.

9 Publiſh this among the Gentiles: prepare warre, wake vp the mightie men: let all the men of warre, drawe nere and come vp.

g When I ſhal executemy iudgements againſt mine enemies, I wil cauſe euerie one to be ready, & to prepare their weapons to deſtroy one another, for my Churchs ſake.

10 [g] Breake your ploweſhares into ſwordes, and your ſieths into ſpeares: let the weake ſaie, I am ſtrong.

11 Aſſemble your ſelues, and come all ye heathen and gather your ſelues together rounde about: there ſhal the Lord caſt downe thy mightie men.

12 Let the heathen be wakened, & come vp to the vallei of Iehoſhaphat: for there wil I ſit to iudge all the heathen rounde about.

h Thus he ſhal incourage the enemies when their wickednes is ful ripe to deſtroy one another, which he calleth ẏ valley of Gods iudgement.

13 Put in your [h] ſieths, for the harueſt is ripe: come, get you, downe, for the winepreſſe is ful: yea, the winepreſſes runne ouer, for their wickednes is great.

14 O multitude, ô multitude, come into the vallei of threſhing: for the daie of the Lord is nere in the vallei of threſhing.

15 The ſunne and moone ſhalbe darkened, and the ſtarres ſhal withdrawe their light.

16 The Lord alſo ſhal roare out of Zion, and vtter his voice from Ieruſalem, and the heauens, and the earth ſhal ſhake, but ẏ Lord wilbe the hope [i] of his people, and the ſtrength of the children of Iſrael.

i God aſſureth his againſt all troubles, ẏ whē he deſtroyeth his enemies, his children ſhalbe deliuered.

17 So ſhal ye knowe that I am the Lord your God dwelling in Zion, mine holie Mountaine: then ſhal Ieruſalem be holy, and there ſhal no ſtrangers go [k] throwe her anie more.

k The ſtrangers ſhal nomore deſtroy his Church: which if thei do, it is the people which by their ſinnes make the breache for the enemie.

18 And in that daie ſhal the mountaines [l] droppe downe newe wine, and the hilles ſhal flowe with milke, and all the riuers of Iudah ſhal runne with waters, & a fountaine ſhal come forthe of ẏ Houſe of the Lord, and ſhal water the valley of Shittim.

l He promiſeth to his Church abundance of graces, read Ezek. 47, 1. which ſhulde water & comfort ẏ moſte baren places, Amos. 9, 13.

19 [m] Egypt ſhalbe waſte, and Edom ſhalbe a deſolate wildernes, for the iniuries of the children of Iudah, becauſe thei haue ſhed innocent blood in their land.

m The malicious enemies ſhal haue no parte of this grace.

20 But Iudah ſhal dwell for euer, and Ieruſalem from generacion to generacion.

21 For I wil [n] clenſe their blood, that I haue not clenſed, & the Lord wil dwell in Zion.

n He had ſuffered his Church hitherto to lye in their filthines, but now he promiſeth to clenſe them and to make them pure vnto him.

AMOS.

THE ARGVMENT.

AMong many other Prophetes that God raiſed vp to admoniſh the Iſraelites of his plagues for their wickednes and idolatrie, he ſtirred vp Amos, who was an herdman or ſhepherd of a poore towne, and gaue him both the knowledge and conſtancie to reproue all eſtates and degrees, and to denounce Gods horrible iudgements againſt them, except thei did in time repent: ſhewing them, that if God ſpare not the other nacions about them, who had liued as it were in ignorance of God in reſpect of them, but for their ſinnes wil puniſh them, that thei ſolde loke for nothing, but an horrible deſtruction, except thei turned to the Lord by vnfained repentance. And finally, he comforteth the godlie with hope of the comming of the Meſſiah, by whome thei ſhulde haue perfite deliuerance and ſaluacion.

CHAP. I.

1 The time of the prophecie of Amos. 3 The worde of the Lord againſt Damaſcus. 6 The Philiſtims, Tyrus, Idumea and Ammon.

1 THe wordes of Amos, who was among the herdmen [a] at Teco a; which he ſawe vp-on Iſrael, in the daies of Vzziah King of Iudah, and in the daies of [b] eroboam the ſonne of Ioaſh King of Iſrael, two yere before [c] the earth-quake.

2 And he ſaid, The Lord ſhal roare frō Zion, and vtter his voyce from Ieruſalem, and the dwelling places of the ſhepherds ſhal periſh, and the top of [d] Carmel ſhal wither.

3 Thus ſaith the Lord, For [e] thre tranſgreſsions of Damaſcus, and for foure I wil not turne to it, becauſe thei haue threſhed Gilead with threſhing inſtrumentes of yron.

4 Therefore wil I ſend a fyre into the houſe of Hazael, and it ſhal deuoure the [g] palaces of Ben-hadad.

5 I wil breake alſo the barres of Damaſcus & cut of the inhabitant of Bikeath-auen: & him that holdeth the ſcepter out of Beth-eden, and the people of Aram ſhal go into captiuitie vnto [h] Kir, ſaith the Lord.

6 Thus ſaith the Lord, For thre trāſgreſſions of Azzah, and for foure, I wil not turne to it, becauſe thei [i] caried away priſoners the whole captiuitie to ſhut them vp in Edom.

7 Therefore wil I ſend a fyre vpon the walles of Azzah, and it ſhal deuoure the palaces thereof.

8 And I wil cut of the inhabitant from Aſhdod, and him that holdeth the ſcepter from Aſhkelon, and turne mine hand to Ekron, and the remnant of the Philiſtims ſhal periſh, ſaith the Lord God.

9 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord, For thre tranſgreſsions of Tyrus, and for foure, I wil not turne to it, becauſe thei ſhut the whole captiuitie in Edom, and haue not remembred the [k] brotherlie couenant.

10 Therefore wil I ſend a fyre vpon the walles of Tyrus, & it ſhal deuoure the palaces thereof.

11 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord, For thre tranſgreſsions of Edom, and for foure I wil not turne to it, becauſe he did purſue his brother with the ſworde, & did "caſt of all pitie, and his anger ſpoiled him euermore, and his wrath watched him [l] alway.

12 Therefore wil I ſend a fyre vpon Teman, and it ſhal deuoure the palaces of Bozrah.

13 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord, For thre tranſgreſsions of the children of Ammon, & for foure, I wil not turne to it, becauſe thei [m] haue ript vp the women with childe of Gilead, that thei might enlarge their border.

14 Therefore wil I kindle a fyre in the wall of Rabbah, and it ſhal deuoure the palaces thereof, with ſhouting in the daie of battel, & with a tempeſt in the day of the whirlewinde.

15 And their King ſhal go into captiuitie, he and his princes together, ſaith the Lord.

CHAP. II.

Againſt Moab, Iudah, and Iſrael.

1 THus ſaith the Lord, For thre tranſgreſsions of Moab, and for foure, I wil not turne to it, becauſe it burnt the [a] bones of the King of Edom into lime.

2 Therefore wil I ſend a fyre vpon Moab, and it ſhal deuoure the palaces of Kerioth, & Moab ſhal dye with tumult, with ſhouting, and with the ſounde of a trumpet.

3 And I wil cut of the Iudge out of the middes thereof, & wil ſlaie all the princes thereof with him, ſaith the Lord.

a Which was a towne ſix miles from Ieruſalem in Iudea, but he prophecied in Iſrael.

b In his daies ſ kingdome of Iſrael did moſte floriſh.

c Which, as Ioſephus writeth, was when Vziah wolde haue vſurped the Prieſts office, & therefore was ſmiten with ſ leproſie.

d Whatſoeuer is fruteful and pleaſant in Iſrael, ſhal ſhortely periſh.

e He ſheweth firſt that all the people rounde about ſhulde be deſtroyed for their manifolde ſinnes: w are ment by thre & foure w make ſeuen, becauſe ſ Iſraelites ſhulde the more depely conſider Gods iudgements toward them.

f If the Syrians ſhal not be ſpared for cōmitting this cruelties againſt one citie, it is not poſſible ſ Iſrael ſhulde eſcape puniſhment w hathe committed ſo many & grieuous ſinnes againſt God & man.

g The antiquitie of their buyldings ſhal not auoide my iudgements, read Ier. 49, 27.

h Tiglath pielſar led the Syrians captiue, and brought them to Cyrene, which he calleth here Kir.

i Thei ioyned them ſelues with the Edomites their enemies, which caryed them away captiues.

k For Eſau (of whome came ſ Edomites) and Iaakob were brethren: therefore thei ought to haue admoniſhed them of their brotherlie friēdſhip, & not to haue prouoked them to hatred.

" Ebr. corrupt his compaſſiōs.

l He was a continual enemie vnto him.

m He noteth ſ great cruelties of the Ammonites ſ ſpared not ſ women, but moſte tyrannouſly tormented them, & yet the Ammonites came of Lot who was of the houſhold of Abraham.

a For the Moabites were ſo cruel againſt the King of Edom ſ they burnt his bones after that he was dead: w declared their barbarous rage, ſeing they wolde reuenge themſelues of ſ dead

4 ¶ Thus saith the Lord, For thre trāsgressions of Iudah, & for foure, [b] I wil not turne to it, because thei haue cast away ſ Law of ſ Lord, & haue not kept his commandements, & their lies caused them to errre after the which their fathers haue walked.

5 Therefore wil I send a fyre vpon Iudah, & it ſhal deuoure ſ palaces of Ierusalem.

6 ¶ Thus saith the Lord, For thre transgressions of [c] Israel, & for foure, I wil not turne to it, because thei solde ſ righteous for siluer and the poore for [d] shoes.

7 Thei gape ouer the head of the poore, in the [e] dust of the earth, and peruert the waies of the meke: & a man and his father wil go in to a maid to dishonour mine holie Name.

8 And thei lie doune vpon clothes laid to pledge [f] by euerie altar: & thei [g] drinke the wine of ſ condemned in ſ House of their God.

9 Yet destroied I the [h] Amorite before the, whose height was like the height of the cedres, and he was strong as the okes: not-withstanding I destroied his frute from aboue, and his roote from beneth.

10 Also I broght you vp from the land of Egypt, & led you fourtie yeres thorow the wildernes, to possesse the land of the Amorite.

11 And I raised vp of your sonnes for Prophetes, and [i] of your yong men for Nazarites. Is it not euen thus, ô ye children of Israel, saith the Lord?

12 But ye gaue the Nazarites wine to drinke, and commanded the Prophetes, saying, Prophecie not.

13 Beholde, I [k] am pressed vnder you as a cart is pressed that is ful of sheaues.

14 Therefore the flight shal perish from the [l] swift, and ſ strong shal not strengthen his force, nether shal the mightie saue his life.

15 Nor he that handleth ſ bowe, shal escape, nether shal he that rideth ſ horse, saue his life.

16 And he that is of mightie courage among the strong men, shal flee away naked in that day, saith the Lord.

CHAP. III.

He reproueth the house of Israel of ingratitude. 11 For the which God wil punish them.

HEare this worde that the Lord pronounceth against you, ô children of Israel, euen against the whole familie ẅ I broght vp from the lād of Egypt, saying,

2 You [a] onely haue I knowē of all the families of the earth: therefore I wil visite you for all your iniquities.

3 Can two walke together except thei be [b] agreed?

4 Wil a [c] lion roare in the forest, when he hathe no pray? or wil a lions whelpe cry e out of his denne, if he haue taken nothing?

5 [d] Can a birde fall in a snare vpon the earth, where no fouler is? or wil he take vp the [e] snare from the earth, and haue taken nothing at all?

6 Or [f] shal a trumpet be blowen in the citie, and the people be not afraied? or shal there [g] be euil in a citie, and ſ Lord hathe not done it?

7 Surely the Lord God wil do nothing, but he [h] reueileth his secret vnto his seruants the Prophetes.

8 The lion hathe roared: who wil not be afrayed? the Lord God hathe spoken: who can but [i] prophecie?

9 Proclame in the palaces at Ashdod, & in the palaces in the land of Egypt, and say, Assemble your selues vpon ſ mountaines of Samaria: so beholde ſ great tumultes in the middes thereof, and the oppressed in the middes thereof.

10 For thei knowe not to do right, saith the Lord: thei store vp violence, & robberie [l] in their palaces.

11 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, An aduersarie shal come euen rounde about the countrei, & shal bring downe thy strength from thee, and thy palaces shalbe spoiled.

12 Thus saith the Lord, As the shepherd taketh [m] out of the mouth of the lion two legges, or a piece of an eare: so shal the children of Israel be taken out that dwell in Samaria in the corner of a bed, & in [n] Damascus, as in a couche.

13 Heare, and testifie in the house of Iaakob, saith the Lord God, the God of hostes.

14 Surely in the day that I shal visite ſ transgressions of Israel vpon him, I wil also visit the altars of Beth-el, & ſ hornes of the altar shal be broken of, and fall to the grounde.

15 And I wil smite the winter house with the sommer house, and the houses of yuorie shal perish, and the great houses shalbe consumed, saith the Lord.

CHAP. IIII.

Against the gouernours of Samaria.

1 HEare this worde, ye [a] kine of Bashā ſ are in the moūtaine of Samaria: ẅ oppresse the poore, & destroy the nedie, and thei say to their masters, [b] Bring, and let vs drinke.

b Seing the Gentiles ſ had not so farre knowledges were thus punished, Iudah ẅ was so fully instructed of the Lordes wil, might not thinke to escape.

c If he spare not Iudah vnto whome his promises were made, much more he wil not spare this dignerate kingdome.

d They estemed moste vile bribes more then mens liues.

e Whē thei haue spoiled him & throwē him to the grounde, they gape for his life.

f Thinking by these ceremonies, that is, by sacrificing, and being nere mine altar, they may excuse all their other wickednes.

g They spoile others and offer thereof vnto God, thinking that he wil dispense with thē, when he is made partaker of their iniquitie.

h The destruction of their enemies and his mercie toward them shulde haue caused their heartes to melt for loue toward him.

i Ye contemned my benefites & abused my graces & craftely went about to stop ſ mouthes of my prophetes.

k You haue wearyed me ẅ your sinnes. Isa 1, 14.

l None shalbe deliuered by any meanes.

Chap. II.

a I haue onely chosen you to be mine among all other people, and yet you haue forsaken me.

b Hereby the prophet signifieth ſ he speaketh not of him selfe, but as God guideth & moueth him, ẅ is called ſ agrement betwene God and his Prophetes.

c Wil God threaten by his prophetes, except there be some great occasion?

d Can any thing come without Gods prouidence?

e Shal his threatnings be in vayne?

f Shal the Prophets threaten Gods iudgemēts & ſ people not be afrayed?

g Doeth anie aduersitie come without Gods appointement? Isa. 45, 7.

h God dealeth not ẅ the Israelites as he doeth with other people: for he euer warneth them before of his plagues by his prophetes.

i Because the people euer murmured against the prophetes, he sheweth ſ Gods Spirit moued the so to speake as thei did.

k He calleth the strangers, as ſ philistims and Egyptians to witnesses of Gods iudgements against ſ Israelites for their cruelties & oppression.

l The fruite of their cruelties & theft appeareth by their great riches ẅ they haue in their houses.

m When ſ lion hathe caciate his hungre, the shepherd findeth a legge or a tip of an eare to shewe ſ shepe hathe bene worried.

n Where they thogh to haue had a sure he calleth the great abundance of Gods benefites, forgate God, & therefore he calleth them by ſ name of beastes & not of mē.

holde, and to haue bene in safetie.

a Thus princes & gouerners, ẅ being ouerwhelmed with ſ great abundance of Gods benefites, forgate God, & therefore he calleth them by ſ name of beastes & not of mē.

b They incourage suche as haue auctoritie ouer ſ people, to powle thē, so ſ they may haue profite by it.

2 The Lord God hathe ſworne by his holines, that lo, the daies ſhal come vpon you, that he wil take you away with [c] thornes, and your poſteritie with fiſh hokes.

3 And ye ſhal go out at ſ breaches euerie kowe forwarde: and ye ſhal caſt your ſelues out of the palace, ſaith the Lord.

4 Come to [d] Beth-el, & tranſgreſſe: to Gilgal, and multiplie tranſgreſſion, and bring your ſacrifices in the morning, & your tithes after thre [e] yeres.

5 And after a thankes giuing [f] of leaue, publiſh & proclame the fre offrings: for this [g] liketh you, ó ye children of Iſrael, ſaith the Lord God.

6 Therefore haue I giuen you [h] clennes of teeth in all your cities, & ſcarcenes of bread in all your places, yet haue ye not returned vnto me, ſaith the Lord.

7 And alſo I haue withholden the raine from you, when there were yet thre [i] moneths to the harueſt, and I cauſed it to raine vpon one citie, and haue not cauſed it to raine vpon another citie: one piece was rained vpon, and the piece whereupon it rained not, withered.

8 So two or thre cities wandered vnto one citie to drinke water, but thei were [k] not ſatiſfied: yet haue ye not returned vnto me, ſaith the Lord.

9 I haue ſmitten you with blaſting, and mildewe: your great gardens & your vineyardes, & your fig trees, and your oliue trees did the palmer worme deuoure: yet haue ye not returned vnto me, ſaith the Lord.

10 Peſtilence haue I ſent among you, after the maner of [l] Egypt: your yong mē haue I ſlayne with the ſworde, and haue taken away your horſes: & I haue made the ſtinke of your tents to come vp euen into your noſtrels: yet haue ye not returned vnto me, ſaith the Lord.

11 I haue ouerthrowen you, as God ouerthrewe Sodom and Gomorah: & ye were as a fyre [m] brande pluct out of ſ burning: yet haue ye not returned vnto me, ſaith the Lord.

12 Therefore, thus wil I do vnto thee, ô Iſrael: and becauſe I wil do this vnto thee, prepare to [n] mete thy God, ô Iſrael.

13 For lo, he that formeth the mountaines, & createth the winde, & declareth vnto man what is his thoght: which maketh the morning darkenes, and walketh vpon the hie places of the earth, ſ Lord God of hoſtes is his Name.

CHAP. V.

A lamentacion for the captiuitie of Iſrael.

1 HEare ye this worde, which I lift vp vpon you, euen a lamentacion of ſ houſe of Iſrael.

2 The [a] virgine Iſrael is fallen, & ſhal no more riſe: ſhe is left vpon her land, & there is none to raiſe her vp.

3 For thus ſaith the Lord God, The citie which went out by a thouſand, ſhal leaue an [b] hundreth: and that which wēt forthe by an hundreth, ſhal leaue ten to the houſe of Iſrael.

4 For thus ſaith the Lord vnto the houſe of Iſrael, Seke ye me, and ye ſhal liue.

5 But ſeke not Beth-el, nor enter into [c] Gilgal, and go not to Beer-ſheba: for Gilgal ſhal go into captiuitie, & Beth-el ſhal come to naught.

6 Seke the Lord, and ye ſhal liue, leſt he breake out like fyre in the houſe of Ioſeph and deuoure it, & there be none to quenche it in Beth-el.

7 They turne [d] iudgement to wormewood, and leaue of righteouſnes in the earth.

8 He [e] maketh Pleiades, and Orion, & he turneth the ſhadowe of death into ſ morning, and he maketh ſ day darcke as night: he calleth the waters of the ſea, and powreth them out vpon the open earth: the Lord is his Name.

9 He ſtrengtheneth the deſtroyer againſt the mightie: and the deſtroyer ſhal come againſt the fortereſſe.

10 They haue hated him, [f] that rebuked in the gate: and they abhorre him that ſpeaketh vprightly.

11 For aſmuch then as your treading is vpon the poore, and [g] ye take from him burdens of wheat, ye haue buylt houſes of hewen ſtone, but ye ſhal not dwell in them: ye haue plāted pleaſant vineyardes, but ye ſhal not drinke wine of thē.

12 For I knowe your manifolde trāſgreſſions & your mightie ſinnes: they afflict the iuſt, thei take rewardes, and thei oppreſſe the poore in the gate.

13 Therefore [h] the prudent ſhal kepe ſilence in that time, for it is an euil time.

14 Seke good and not euil, that ye may liue: and the Lord God of hoſtes ſhalbe with you, as you haue ſpoken.

15 Heare the euil, and loue the good, & eſtabliſh iudgement in the gate: it may be that the Lord God of hoſtes wil be merciful vnto the remnant of Ioſeph.

16 Therefore the Lord God of hoſtes, the Lord ſaith thus, Mourning ſhalbe in all ſtretes: & they ſhal ſay in all the hie waies, Alas, alas: & thei ſhal call [i] houſbandman to lamentacion, and ſuche as can mourne, to mourning.

17 And in all the vines ſhalbe lamentacion: for I wil paſſe through thee, ſaith the Lord.

18 Wo vnto you, that [k] deſire the day of the Lord: what haue you to do with it?

c He alludeth to fiſhers which catche fiſh by hokes & thornes.

d He ſpeaketh this in cōtempt of them ẅ reſorted to theſe places, thinking that their great deuocion & good intention had bene ſufficient to haue bounde God vnto them.

e Read Deut. 14. 22.

f As Leu. 7. 13.

g You onely delite in theſe outwarde ceremonies & haue none other reſpect.

h That is, lacke of bread and meat.

i I ſtaied ſ raine til ſ frutes of ſ earth were deſtroied ẅ drought, & yet you wolde not conſider it to returne to me by repentance.

k Thei colde not finde water ynough where they had heard ſay it had rained.

l As I plagued the Egyptians, Exod. 9, 10.

m You were almoſt all conſumed, & a fewe of you wōderfully preſerued, 2. King. 14, 26.

n Turne to him by repentance.

a He ſo calleth them, becauſe they ſo boaſted of them ſelues, or becauſe thei were giuen to wantonnes and deintines.

b Meaning, that the tenth parte ſhulde ſcarſely be ſaued.

c In theſe places thei worſhipped new idoles, ẅ afore time ſerued for ſ true honour of God: therefore he ſaith ſ theſe ſhal not ſaue them.

d In ſtead of iudgement and equitie they execute cruelltie and oppreſſion.

e He deſcribeth the power of God, Iob. 9, 9.

f Thei hate the prophetes, ẅ reproue them in the aſſemblies.

g Ye take bothe his money and alſo his fode wherewith he ſhulde liue.

h God wil ſo plague them, ſ thei ſhal not ſuffer the godlie once to ope their mouthes to admoniſh thē of their fautes.

i So ſ all degrees ſhal haue matter of lamentacion for ſ great plagues.

k Thus he ſpeaketh becauſe ſ wicked and hypocrites ſaid thei were content to abide God iudgemēts, where as ſ godlie tremble and feare, Iere 30, 7. Ioel. 2, 11. Zeph. 1, 15.

the day of the Lord is darkenes and not light.

19 As if a man did flee from a lyon, & a beare met him, or went into the house, and leaned his hand on the wall, and a serpent bit him.

20 Shal not the day of the Lord be darkenes, and not light? euen darkenes and no light in it?

21 I hate & abhorre your feast daies, and I wil not smel in your solemne assemblies.

22 Though ye offer me burnt offrings & meat offrings, [l] I wil not accept them: nether wil I regarde the peace offring of your fat beasts.

23 Take thou away from me the multitude of thy songs (for I wil not heare ỹ melodie of thy violes)

24 And let iudgement runne downe as [m] waters, and righteousnes as a mightie riuer.

25 Haue ye offred vnto me sacrifices & offrings in the wildernes fortie yeres, ô house of Israel?

26 But you haue borne [n] Siccuth your King and Chiun your images, & ỹ starre of your gods, which ye made to your selues.

27 Therefore wil I cause you to go into captiuitie beyonde Damascus, saith the Lord, whose Name is the God of hostes.

l Because ye haue corrupt my true seruice & remaine obstinate in your vices, Isa. 1, 11. Ier. 6, 20.

m Do your duetie to God and to your neighbour, and so ye shal fele his grace plentifully, if you shewe your abundant affectiõs according to Gods worde.

n That idole ẅ you esteemed as your King, and caryed about, as you did Chiun, in the ẅ images you thoght ỹ there was a certeine diuinitie.

CHAP. VI.

Against the princes of Israel liuing in pleasures.

1 WOe to [a] them that are at ease in Zion and trust in the mountaine of Samaria, [b] which were famous at the beginning of the nacions: and the house of Israel came to them.

2 Go you vnto Calneh, & se: and from thence go you to Hamath the great: thẽ go downe to Gath of the Philistims: be [c] thei better then these kingdomes? or the border of their land greater then your border,

3 Ye that put farre away the [d] euil day, and approche to the seat of iniquitie?

4 Thei lie vpon beddes of yuorie, and stretch them selues vpon their beddes, and eat the lambes of the flocke, & the calues out of the stall.

5 They sing to the sounde of the viole: thei inuent to them selues instruments of musicke like [e] Dauid.

6 They drinke wine in bowls, & anoint them selues with the chief ointments, but no man is [f] sory for the affliction of Ioseph.

7 Therefore now shal thei go captiue with the first that go captiue, & [g] the sorowe of them that stretched them selues, is at hand.

8 Thee [h] Lord God hathe sworne by him self, saith the Lord God of hostes, I abhorre [i] the excellencie of Iaakob, & hate his palaces: therefore wil I deliuer vp the citie with all that is therein.

9 And if there remaine ten men in one house, thei shal dye.

10 And his vncle [k] shal take him vp and burne him to cary out the bones out of the house, and shal say vnto him, that is by [l] the sides of the house, Is there yet any with thee? And he shal say, None. Then shal he say, [m] Holde thy tongue: for we may not remembre the Name of the Lord.

11 For beholde, the Lord commandeth, & he wil smite the great house with breaches, & the litle houses with clefts.

12 Shal horses [n] runne vpon the rocke? or wil one plowe there with oxen? for ye haue turned iudgement into gall, and the frute of righteousnes into [o] worme wood.

13 Ye reioyce in a thing of noght: ye say, Haue not we gotten vs [p] hornes by our owne strength?

14 But beholde, I wil raise vp against you a nacion, ô house of Israel, saith the Lord God of hostes: and thei shal afflict you, from the entring in of [q] Hamath vnto the riuer of the wildernes.

f Thei pitied not their brethren, whereof now manie were slayne & caryed away captiue.

g Some read, ỹ ioye of them ỹ stretche them selues, shal departe.

h Read Ierem. 51, 14.

i That is, ỹ riches and pompe.

k The destruction shalbe so great that none shal almost be left to burie ỹ dead: and therefore they shal burne them at home, to carye out the burnt ashes with more ease.

l That is, to some neighbour, that dwelleth rounde about.

m They shalbe so astonished at this destructiõ, ỹ they shal boost no more of the Name of God, and ỹ they are his people: but they shalbe dumme when they heare Gods Name & abhorre it, as they that are desperate or reprobate.

n He compareth them to baren rockes whereupon it is in vaine to bestowe labour: shewing ỹ Gods benefites can haue no place among them.

o Read Cha 5, 7.

p That is, power & glorie.

q Frõ one corner of ỹ countrey to another.

a The prophet threatneth the wealthy, ẅ regarded not Gods plagues nor menaces by his Prophetes.

b These two cities were famous by their first inhabitãts the Canaanites: & seing before time they did nothing auaile them that were there borne, why shulde you loke that thei shulde saue you, which were broght in to dwell in other mens possessions?

c If God haue destroied these excellent cities in thre diuers kingdomes, as in Babylõ, Syria, & of the philistims, & hath broght their wide borders into a greater streitenes, then yours yet are, think you to be better or to escape?

d Ye that continue stil in your wickednes and thinke that Gods plagues are not at hand, but giue your selues to all idlenes, wantonnes & riote.

e As he caused diuers kindes of instrumẽts to be made to serue Gods glorie, so these did contend to inuent as manie to serue their wãton affections & lustes.

so shal not be, saith the Lord God.

7 ¶ Thus againe he shewed me, and beholde, the Lord stode vpon a wall made by line [e] with a line in his hand.

8 And ý Lord said vnto me, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, A line. Then said the Lord, Beholde, I wil set a line in the middes of my people Israel, & wil passe by them no more.

9 And ý hie places of Isaak shalbe desolate, and the temples of Israel shalbe destroyed: and I wil rise against ý house of Ieroboam with the sworde.

10 ¶ [f] Then Amaziah ý Priest of Bethel sent to Ieroboam King of Israel, saying, Amos hathe conspired against thee in the middes of the house of Israel: the land is not able to beare all his wordes.

11 For thus Amos saith, Ieroboam shal dye by the sworde, and Israel shalbe led away captiue out of their owne land.

12 Also [g] Amaziah said vnto Amos, O thou the Seer, go, flee thou away into ý land of Iudah, and there eat thy bread and propheçie there.

13 But propheçie no more at Beth el: for it is the Kings chappel, and it is ý Kings court.

14 Then answered Amos, and said to Amaziah, I was no [h] Prophet, nether was I a Prophetes sonne, but I was an herdman, and a gatherer of wilde figges.

15 And the Lord toke me as I followed the flocke, and the Lord said vnto me, Go, propheçie vnto my people Israel.

16 Now therefore heare thou the worde of the Lord. Thou saist, Propheçie not against Israel, and speake nothing against the house of Isaak.

17 Therefore thus saith the Lord, [i] Thy wife shal be an harlot in the citie, and thy sonnes and thy daughters shal fall by the sworde, and thy land shalbe deuided by line: and thou shalt dye in a polluted land, and Israel shal surely go into captiuitie.

CHAP. VIII.

Against the rulers of Israel. 7 The Lord sweareth. 11 The famine of the worde of God.

1 THus hathe the Lord God shewed vnto me, & beholde, a basket of somer frute.

2 And he said, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, A basket of somer [a] frute. Then said the Lord vnto me, The end is come vpon my people of Israel, I wil passe by them no more.

3 And the songes of the Temple shalbe houlings in that day, saith the Lord God: many dead bodies shalbe in euerie place: thei shal cast them forthe with [b] silence.

4 Heare this, ô ye that [c] swallow vp the poore, that ye may make the nedie of ý land to faile,

5 Saying, When wil the [d] new moneth be gone, that we may sell corne, and the Sabbath, that we may set forthe wheat, and make [e] the Ephah smale, and the shekel great, and falsefie the weights by deceit?

6 That we may bye the poore for siluer, and the nedie for shoes: yea, and sell the refuse of the wheat.

7 The Lord hathe sworne by the excellencie of Iaakob, Surely I wil neuer forget any of their workes.

8 Shal not the land tremble for this, & euerie one mourne, that dwelleth therein? & it shal rise vp wholy as a flood, & it shalbe cast out, & [f] drowned as by the flood of Egypt.

9 And in that day, saith the Lord God, I wil euen cause the [g] sunne to go downe at noone: and I wil darken the earth in the cleare day.

10 And I wil turne your feastes into mourning, and all your songes into lamentacion: and I wil bring sackecloth vpon all loines, & baldnes vpon euerie head: & I wil make it as the mourning of an onelie sonne, & the end thereof as a bitter day.

11 Beholde, the daies come, saith ý Lord God, that I wil send a famine in ý land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the worde of the Lord.

12 And they shal wander from sea to sea, and from the North euen vnto the East shal thei runne to and fro to seke the [h] worde of the Lord, and shal not finde it.

13 In that day shal the fayre virgines & the yong men perish for thirst.

14 They that sweare by the sinne [i] of Samaria, and that say, Thy God, ô Dan, liueth, and [k] the maner of Beer-sheba liueth, euen thei fall, and neuer rise vp againe.

CHAP. IX.

Threatnings against the Temple, 2 And against Israel. 11 The restoring of the Church.

1 I Sawe the Lord standing vpon the [a] altar, and he said, Smite the lintel of ý dore, that the postes may shake: & cut them in pieces euen the [b] heads of them all, & I wil slay the last of them with the sworde: he that fleeth of them, shal not flee away: and he that escapeth of them, shal not be deliuered.

2 Thogh thei digge into the hel, thence shal mine hād take them: thogh thei clime vp to heauen, thence will I bring them downe.

e Signifying ý this shulde be the last measuring of ý people, & ý he wolde deferre his iudgement no longer.

f That is, when Amos had propheçied that ý King shulde be destroyed: for this wicked priest more for hatred he bare to the Prophet then for loue toward ý King, thoght this accusation sufficient to condēne him, where as none other colde take place.

g When this instrument of Satan was not able to compasse his purpose by the King, he assayed by another practise: ý was, to feare ý prophet, that he might departe, and not reproue their idolatrie there openly, and so hinder his profite.

h Thus he sheweth by his extraordinarie vocation, ý God had giuen him a charge which he must nedes execute.

i Thus God vsed to approue the autoritie of his prophetes by his plagues & iudgemēts against them, ẅ were malicious enemies. ter 28 32 & 29, 21 and 25. as this day he doeth against them ý persecute the ministere of his Gospel.

a Which signified ý ripenes of their sinnes and the readines of Gods iudgements.

Ioel. 1. 9.

b There shalbe none left to mourne for thē.

c By staying the sale of fode & necessarie thigs ẅ you haue gotten into your owne hands, & so cause ý poore to sped quickely that litle they haue, & at length for necessitie to become your sclaues.

d When ý dearth was once come, thei were so griedy of gaine, ý thei thoght ý holy day to be an hinderance vnto them.

e That is, the measure smale & ý price great.

f That is, ý inhabitants of ý land shal be drowned, as Nilus drowneth many when it ouerfloweth.

g In the middes of their prosperitie I wil send great affliction.

as of him it ha ving a why on you loseph him. Zacher. 12 Ier. 6. 26 a famine of the worde. Ezek. 7. 26

h Whereby he sheweth ý they shal not onely perish in bodie, but also in soule forlacke of Gods worde, ẅ is the fode thereof.

i For the idolaters did vse to sweare by their idoles: & here he calleth their sinne, as the papistes yet do by theirs.

k That is, the commune maner of worshiping and ý seruice or religiō there vsed.

a Which was at Ierusalem: for he appeared not in ý idolatrous places of Israel.

b Bothe ý chief of them & also the commune people.

3 And though thei hide them selues in ſ toppe of Carmel, I wil searche and take them out thence: and though thei be hid from my ſight in the bottome of ſ ſea, thence wil I commande the [c] ſerpent, & he ſhal byte them.

c He ſheweth ſ God wil declare him ſelfe enemie vnto thē in all places, & ſ his elementes & all creatures ſhalbe enemies to deſtroy thē.

4 And though thei go into captiuitie before their enemies, thēce wil I commande the ſworde, and it ſhal ſlaye them: & I wil ſet mine eies vpon them for euil, & not for good.

5 And the Lord God of hoſtes ſhal touche the land, and it ſhal melt away, and all that dwell therein, ſhal mourne, and it ſhal riſe vp wholy like a flood, and ſhalbe drowned as by the flood of Egypt.

d He declareth by the wonderful power of God, by ſ making of ſ heauens & the elements that it is not poſsible for man to eſcape his iudgements when he puniſheth.

6 He buyldeth his [d] ſpheres in the heauen, and hathe laied the fundacion of his globe of elements in the earth: he calleth the waters of the ſea, & powreth them out vpon the open earth: the Lord is his Name.

e Am I more bounde to you then to the Ethiopians or blackemores? yet haue I beſtowed vpon you greater benefites.

7 Are ye not as the Ethiopians [e] vnto me, ô children of Iſrael, ſaith the Lord? haue not I broght vp Iſrael out of the lād of Egypt? & the Philiſtims frō [f] Caphtor, & Aram from Kir?

f Read Ierem. 47.4.

8 Beholde, the eyes of the Lord God are vpon the ſinful kingdome, & I wil deſtroy it cleane out of the earth, Neuertheles I wil not vtterly [g] deſtroy ſ houſe of Iaakob, ſaith the Lord.

g Though he deſtroye the rebellious multitude, yet he wil euer reſerue ſ remnant his Church to call vpon his Name.

9 For lo, I wil commande and I wil ſifte the houſe of Iſrael among all naciōs, like as corne is ſifted in a ſiue: yet ſhal not the [h] leaſt ſtone fall vpon the earth.

10 But all the ſinners of my people ſhal dye by the ſworde, which ſay. The euil ſhal not come, nor haſten for vs.

h Meaning, that none of his ſhulde periſh in his wrath.

11 In that day wil I raiſe vp the [i] tabernacle of Dauid, that is fallen downe, & cloſe vp the breaches thereof, and I wil raiſe vp his ruines, and I wil buyld it, as in the daies of olde, i I wil ſend the Meſsiah promiſed and reſtore by him ſ ſpiritual Iſrael, Act. 15.16.

12 That thei may poſſeſſe the remnant of [k] Edom, and of all the heathen, becauſe my Name is called vpon them, ſaith the Lord, that doeth this.

k Meaning that the very enemies, as were ſ Edomites & other, ſhulde be ioyned with ſ Iewes in one ſocietie & body, whereof Chriſt ſhulde be head.

13 Behold, the daies come, ſaith ſ Lord, that the plowman ſhal [l] touche ſ mower, & the treader of grapes him ſ ſoweth ſede: & the mountaine ſhal [m] droppe ſweete wine, & all the hilles ſhal melt.

l Signifying ſ there ſhal be great plenty of all things ſo ſ when one kinde of frute is ripe, another ſhulde followe and euerie one in course, Leu. 26.5.

14 [n] And I wil bring againe ſ captiuitie of my people of Iſrael: & thei ſhal buylde the waſte cities, and inhabite them, & thei ſhal plant vineyardes, & drinke the wine thereof: thei ſhal alſo make gardens, & eat the frutes of them.

m Read Ioel, 3.18.

15 And I wil plant them vpon their lād, and thei ſhal no more be pulled vp againe out of their land, which I haue giuen them, ſaith the Lord thy God.

n The accompliſhement thereof is vnder Chriſt, when they are planted in his Church, out of the which they can neuer be pulled, after they are once graffed therein.

OBADIAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

THe Idumeans, which came of Eſau, were mortal enemies alway to the Iſraelites, which came of Iaakob, and therefore did not onely vexe them continually with ſondry kindes of cruelties, but alſo ſtirred vp others to fight againſt them. Therefore when thei were now in their greateſt proſperitie, & did moſte triumphe againſt Iſrael, which was in great affliction and miſerie, God raiſed vp his Trophet to comfort the Iſraelites, for aſmuche as God had now determined to deſtroy their aduerſaries, which did ſo ſore vexe them, and to ſend them ſuche as ſhulde deliuer them, and ſet vp the kingdome of Meſsiah, which he had promiſed.

THe viſion of Obadiah. Thus ſaith the Lord God againſt Edom, [a] We haue heard a rumor from ſ Lord, & an ambaſſadour is ſent among the heathen: ariſe, and [b] let vs riſe vp againſt her to battel.

a God hathe certeinly reuelled to his Propheres that he wil raiſe vp the heathnto deſtroy ſ Edomites, whereof ſ rumour is now publiſhed, Iere. 49.14.

b Thus ſ heathen incourage them ſelues to riſe againſt Edom.

2 Beholde, I haue made thee ſmale among the heathen: thou art vtterly deſpiſed.

c Which deſpiſed all others in reſpect of thy ſelf and yet art but an handful in compariſon of others, & art ſhut vp among ſ hilles as ſeparate from the reſt of the worlde.

3 The [c] pride of thine heart hathe deceiued thee: thou that dwelleſt in ſ clefes of the rockes, whoſe habitacion is hie, ſ ſaith in his heart, Who ſhal bring me downe to the grounde?

4 Yea though thou exalt thy ſelf as the egle, & make thy neſt among the ſtarres, thence wil I bring thee downe, ſaith the Lord.

d God wil ſo deſtroy them ſ he wil leaue none, though theues when they come, take but til thei haue ynough, & they ſ gather grapes, euer leaue ſome behinde them, Ierem 40.9.

5 [d] Came theues to thee or robbers by night? how waſt thou broght to ſilence? wolde thei not haue ſtollen, til they had ynough? if the grape gatherers came to thee, wolde thei not leaue ſome grapes?

e They in whome thou dideſt truſt, for to haue helpe and friendſhip of them ſhal be enemies and deſtroy thee.

6 How are the things of Eſau ſoght vp, & his treaſures ſearched?

7 All the men of thy confederacie [e] haue driuen thee to the borders: the men that were at peace with thee, haue deceiued thee, and preuailed againſt thee: they that eat thy [f] bread, haue laied a wounde vnder thee: there is none vnderſtanding in him.

f That is, thy familiar frinds and gheſtes haue by ſecret practiſes deſtroyed thee.

8 Shal not I in that day, ſaith the Lord, euen

euen destroy the wise men out of Edom, & vnderstanding from ſ mout of Esau.
9 And thy strong men, ô Teman, shalbe afraied, because euerie one of the mount of Esau shalbe cut of by slaughter.
10 For thy crueltie against thy [g] brother Iaakob, shame shal couer thee, and thou shalt be cut off for euer.
11 When thou stodest [h] on the other side, in the day that the strangers caryed away his substance, and strangers entred into his gates, and cast lottes vpon Ierusalem, euen thou wast as one of them.
12 But thou shuldest not haue beholden the day of thy brother, in the day that he was made [i] a stranger, nether shuldest thou haue reioyced ouer the children of Iudah, in the day of their destruction: thou shuldest not haue spoken proudely in the day of affliction.
13 Thou shuldest not haue entred into the gate of my people in the day of their destruction, nether shuldest thou haue once loked on their affliction in the day of their destruction, nor haue laid hands on their substance in the day of their destruction.
14 Nether shuldest thou haue stand in ſ crosse waies to cut of them, that shulde escape, nether shuldest thou haue shut vp the remnant thereof in the daie of affliction.
15 For the daie [k] of the Lord is nere vpon all the heathen: as thou hast done, it shal be done to thee: thy rewarde shal returne vpon thine head.
16 For as ye haue [l] drunke vpon mine holy Mountaine, ſo shal all the heathen drinke continually: ye, yea, thei shal drinke and swalowe vp, and thei shal be [m] as though thei had not bene.
17 But vpon mount Zion shal be deliuerance, and it shalbe holy, and the house of Iaakob shal possesse their possessions.
18 And the house of Iaakob shalbe [n] a fyre, and the house of Ioseph a flame, and the house of Esau as stubble, & thei shal kindle in them and deuoure them: and there shal be no remnant of the house of Esau: for the Lord hathe spoken it.
19 And thei shal possesse the South side of the [o] mount of Esau: and the plaine of the Philistims, and thei shal possesse the fieldes of Ephraim and the fields of Samaria, & Beniamin shal haue Gilead.
20 And the captiuitie of this hoste of the children of Israel, which were among ſ [p] Canaanites, shal possesse vnto Zarephath and the captiuitie of Ierusalem, which is in Sepharad, shal possesse the cities of the South.
21 And thei [q] that shal saue, shal come vp to Mount Zion to iudge the mount of Esau, and the kingdome shalbe the Lords.

g He sheweth ſ cause why the Edomites were so sharpely punished: to wit, because they were enemies to his Church, whome now he comforteth by punishing their enemies.
h When Nebuchad-nezzar came against Ierusalem, thou ioynedst with him and hadest part of the spoile, and so didest reioyce when my people that is, thy brother were afflicted, where as thou shuldest haue pitied and holpen thy brother.
i When ſ Lord depriued them of their former dignitie & gaue them to be caryed into captiuitie.
k When he wil sommon all the heathen, & send thē to destroy thee.
l That is, reioiced & triūphed.
m The Edomites shalbe vtterly destroyed, & yet in despite of all the enemies I wil preserue my Church & restore it. In God attributeth this power to consume his enemies to his Church ẅ power is only is proper to him, self, as Isa 10, 17. deut 4, 24. chr. 12, 29.
n He describeth how ſ Church shalbe inlarged and haue great possessions, but this chiefly is accomplished vnder Christ when as ſ faithful are made heires & lords of all things by him ẅ is their head.
o By ſ Canaanites the Iewes meane the Dutche men, and by Zarephath, France, and by Sepharad, Spaine.
q Meaning that God wil raise vp in his Church suche as shal rule and gouerne for the defense of the same, and destruction of his enemies vnder Messiah, whome the prophet calleth here the Lord & head of this kingdome.

IONAH.

THE ARGVMENT.

When Ionah had long prophecied in Israel & had litle profited, God gaue him expresse charge to go, and denounce his iudgements against Niniueh the chief citie of the Assyrians, because he had appointed that thei which were of the heathen, shulde conuert by the mightie power of his worde, and that within thre daies preaching, that Israel might se how horribly thei had prouoked Gods wrath, which for the space of so many yeres, had not conuerted to the Lord for so many Prophetes and so diligent preaching. He prophecied vnder Ioash, and Ieroboam, as 2. King. 14, 25.

CHAP. I.

1 Ionah fled when he was sent to preache.
4 A tempest ariseth, & he is cast into the sea for his disobedience.

1 THe worde of ſ Lord came [a] also vnto Ionah the sonne of Amittai ſ saying,
2 Arise, & go to [b] Niniueh that [c] great citie, and crye against it: for their wickednes is come vp before me.
3 But Ionah rose vp to [d] flee into Tarshish from the presence of the Lord, & went downe to [e] Iapho: & he founde a ship going to Tarshish: so he paied ſ fare therof, and went downe into it, that he might go with them vnto Tarshish, from the [f] presence of the Lord.
4 But the Lord sent out a great winde into the sea, and there was a mightie tēpest in the sea, so that the ship was like to be broken.

a After that he had preached a long time in Israel: & so Ezekiel, after that for a time he had prophecied in Iuda, he had visios in Babylon, Ezek. 1, 1.
b For seing the great obstinatiō of ſ Israelites, he sent his Prophet to ſ Gētiles ſ they might prouoke thē to repentāce or at least make the inexcusable: for Niniueh was the chief citie of the Assirians.
c For as autors write, it conteined in circuit about eight and fortie mile and had a thousand and fyue hundreth towres, and at this time there were an hundreth and twentie thousand children therein, Chap. 4, 11.
d Whereby he declared his weakenes, that wolde not prōptely follow ſ Lords calling, but gaue place to his own reason, which persuaded him that he shulde nothing at all profite there, seing he had done so smale good a-mong his owne people Chap. 4, 2.
e Which was the Ioppe.
f From that vocation wherevnto God had called him, & where in he wolde haue assisted him.

5 Then the mariners were afraied, and cryed euerie man vnto his god, & cast the wares that were in the ship, into the sea to lighten it of them: but Ionah was gone downe [g] into the sides of the ship, and he laie downe, and was fast a slepe.

6 So the shipmaster came to him, & said vnto him, What meanest thou, ô sleper? A rise, call vpon thy [h] God, if so be that God wil thinke vpon vs, that we perish not.

7 And thei said euerie one to his felowe, Come, & let vs cast [i] lottes, that we maie knowe, for whose cause this euil is vpon vs. So thei cast lots, and the lot fel vpon Ionah?

8 Then said thei vnto him, Tel vs for whose cause this euil is vpon vs? what is thine occupacion? and whence comest thou? which is thy countrei? and of what people art thou?

9 And he answered them, I am an Ebrew, and I feare the Lord God of heauen, which hathe made the sea, and the drye land.

10 Then were ỹ men excedingly afraid, and said vnto him, Why hast thou done this? (for the men knewe, that he fled from the presence of the Lord, because he had tolde them)

11 Then said thei vnto him, What shal we do vnto thee, that the sea maie be calme vnto vs? (for the sea wroght and was troublous)

12 And he said vnto them, Take me, and cast me into the sea: so shal the sea be calme vnto you: for I knowe that for my sake this great tempest is vpon you.

13 Neuertheles, the men rowed to bring it to the land, but thei colde not: for the sea wroght, and was troubelous against them.

14 Wherefore thei cryed vnto the Lord, & said, [k] We beseche thee, ô Lord, we beseche thee, let vs not perish for this mans life, & laie not vpon vs innocent blood: for thou, ô Lord, hast done, as it pleased thee.

15 So thei toke vp Ionah, and cast him into the sea, & the sea ceased from her raging.

16 Then the men [l] feared the Lord excedingly, and offred a sacrifice vnto the Lord, and made vowes.

17 Now the Lord had prepared a great fish to swalowe vp Ionah: and Ionah was in the [m] belly of the fish thre daies, and thre nights.

g As one that wolde haue cast of this care, and solicitude by seking rest and quietnes.

h As they had called on their idoles, which declareth that idolaters haue no stay nor certeintie, but in their troubles seke, thei can not tel to whome.

i Which declared that ỹ matter was in great extremitie, & doute, w̄ thing was Gods motion in them for ỹ trial of ỹ cause: & this may not be done but in matters of great importance.

k This declareth that the very wicked in their necessities flee vnto God for succour, and also that they are touched with a certein feare to shead mans blood, where as they knowe no manifest signe of wickednes.

l They were touched with a certeine repentance of their life past, and began to worship the true God, by whome they sawe them selues so wonderfully deliuered: but this was done for feare and not of a pure heart & affection, neither according to Gods worde.

CHAP. II.

Ionah is in the fishe bely. 3 His prayer. 12 He is deliuered.

1 THen Ionah praied vnto the Lord his God [a] out of the fishes belly,

2 And said, I cryed in mine afflictiō vnto ỹ Lord, & he hearde me: out of the belly [b] of hel cryed I, & thou heardest my voice.

3 For thou haddest cast me into the bottome in the middes of the sea, and the floods cōpassed me about: all thy surges, & all thy waues passed ouer me.

4 Then I said, I am [c] cast awaie out of thy sight: yet wil I loke againe towarde thine holy Temple.

5 The waters compassed me about vnto the soule: the depth closed me rounde about, and the wedes were wrapt about mine head.

6 I went downe to the bottome of the mountaines: the earth with her barres was about me for euer, yet hast thou brought vp my [d] life frō the pit, ô Lord my God.

7 When my soule fainted within me, I remembred the Lord: and my praier came vnto thee, into thine holy Temple.

8 Thei that waite vpon lying [e] vanities, forsake their owne [f] mercie.

9 But I wil sacrifice vnto thee with the voice of thankesgiuing, & wil paie that that I haue vowed: saluacion is of the Lord.

10 And the Lord spake vnto the fish, & it cast out Ionah vpon the drye land.

a Being now swallowed vp of death, & seing no remedy to escape, his faith brast out vnto the Lord knowing that out of the very hel he was able to deliuer him.

b For he was now in ỹ fishes belly as in a graue or place of darkenes.

c This declared what his prayer was, & how he laboured betwene hope and despayre, considering the neglect of his vocation & Gods iudgements for ỹ same: but yet in ỹ end faith gat ỹ victorie.

d Thou hast deliuered me frō the belly of the fishe & all these dangers, as it were raising me from death to life.

e They that depend vpon any thing saue on God alone.

f Thei refuse their owne felicitie and that goodnes w̄ they shulde els receiue of God.

CHAP. III.

Ionah is sent againe to Nineueh. 5 The repentance of the King of Nineueh.

1 ANd the worde of the Lord came vnto [a] Ionah the seconde time, saying,

2 Arise, go vnto Nineueh that great citie, and preache vnto it the preaching, which I bid thee.

3 So Ionah arose and went to Nineueh according to the worde of the Lord: now Nineueh was a [b] great and excellent citie of thre daies iourney.

4 And Ionah began to entre into the citie a daies [c] iourney, & he cryed, & said, Yet fortie daies, and Nineueh shalbe ouerthrowen.

5 So the people of Nineueh [d] beleued God and proclaimed a fast, and put on sackecloth from the greatest of them euen to the least of them.

6 For worde came vnto the King of Nineueh, and he rose from his throne, and he laied his robe from him, and coue-a This is a great declaration of Gods mercie ỹ he receiueth him againe and sendeth hi forth as his Prophet w̄ had before shewed so great infirmitie.

b Read Chap. 1, 1.

c He went forward one daie in the citie, and preached, & so he continued til the citie was conuerted.

d For he declared that he was a Prophet sent to them from God to denoūce his iudgemēts against the red him with sackecloth, and sate in ashes.

7 And he proclaimed and said through Nineueh, (by the counsel of the King & his nobles) saying, Let nether man, nor [e] beast, bullocke nor shepe tast any thig, nether fede nor drinke water.

8 But let man and beast put on sackecloth, and [f] cry e mightely vnto God: yea, let euerie man turne from his euil waie, and from the wickednes that is in their hands.

9 [g] Who can tel if God wil turne, & repent & turne awaie frō his fierce wrath, that we perish not?

10 And God sawe their [h] workes that thei turned from their euil waies: and [i] God repented of the euil that he had said that he wolde do vnto them, & he did it not,

CHAP. IIII.

The great goodnes of God toward his creatures.

1 THerefore it displeased [a] Ionah excedingly, and he was angrie.

2 And he praid vnto the Lord, & said, I praie thee, ô Lord, was not this my saying, when I was yet in my countrey? therefore I preuēted it to flee vnto [b] Tarshish: for I knew that thou art a gracious God, and merciful, slowe to angre and of great kindenes, and repentest thee of the euil.

3 Therefore now ô Lord, take, I beseche thee, my life [c] from me: for it is better for me to dye then to liue.

4 Then said the Lord, Doest thou wel to be [d] angrie?

5 So Ionah went out of the citie and sate on the East side of the citie, and there made him a boothe, & sate vnder it in ỹ shadowe [e] til he might se what shulde be done in the citie.

6 And ỹ Lord God prepared a [f] gourde, & made it to come vp ouer Ionah, ỹ it might be a shadowe ouer his head and deliuer him frō his grief. So Ionah was exceding glad of the gourde.

7 But God prepared a worme when the morning rose the next daie, and it smote the gourde, that it withered.

8 And when the sunne did arise, God prepared also a feruent East winde: and the sunne bet vpon the head of Ionah, ỹ he fainted, and wished in his heart to dye, & said, It is better for me to dye, then to liue.

9 And God said vnto Ionah, Doest thou wel to be angrie for the gourde? And he said, I do wel to be [g] angry vnto the death.

10 Then said the Lord, Thou hast had pitie on the gourde for the which thou hast not laboured, nether madest it growe, which came vp in a night, & perished in a night, 11 And shulde [h] not I spare Nineueh ỹ great citie, wherein are [i] six score thousand persones, ỹ can not discerne betwene their right hand, & their left hād, and also muche cattel?

e Not that the dumme beastes had sinned or colde repent, but ỹ by their example man might be astonished, considering ỹ for his sinne the angre of God hanged ouer all creatures.

f He willed, ỹ the men shulde earnestly call vnto God for mercie.

g For partely by the threatening of ỹ Prophet, & partely by the motion of his owne cōscience he douted whether God wolde shewe them mercie.

h That is, the frutes of their repentance, wherwith they did procede of faith in God had planted by ỹ ministerie of his Prophet.

i Read Ierem. 18, 8.

a Because hereby he shulde be taken as a false prophet, & so ỹ Name of God, wherwith he preached, shulde be blasphemed.

b Read Chap. 1, 3.

c Thus he praied of grief fearing lest Gods Name by this forgiuenes might be blasphemed as though he sent his Prophetes forthe to denounce his iudgements in vaine.

d Wilt thou be iudge when I do things for my glorie, and when I do not?

e For he douted as yet whether God wolde shewe them mercie or no: and therefore after fourtie dayes he departed out of the citie, loking what ỹ sue God wolde send.

f Which was a further meanes to couer him from the heat of ỹ sunne, as he remained in his boothe.

g This declareth the great inconueniences wherinto Gods seruants do fall when they giue place to their owne affections, & do not in all things willingly submit them selues to God.

h Thus God mercifully reproueth him, wherwith wolde pitie his self and this gourde, and yet wolde restraine God to shewe his cōpassiō to so manie thousand people.

i Meaning, that they were children, & infanes,

MICAH.

THE ARGVMENT.

MIcah the Prophet of the tribe of Iudah serued in the worke of the Lord, concerning Iudah & Israel, at the least thirtie yeres: at what time Isaiah prophecied. He declareth the destruction, first of the one kingdome, and then of the other, because of their manifolde wickednes, but chiefly for their idolatrie. And to this end he noteth the wickednes of the people, the crueltie of the princes and gouernours, and the permission of the false prophetes, and the delting in them. Then he setteth forthe the comming of Christ, his kingdome, & the felicitie thereof. This Prophet was not that Micah which resisted Ahab, & all his false prophetes, as 1. King. 22, 8, but another of the same name.

CHAP. I.

The destruction of Iudah & Israel because of their idolatrie.

1 THe worde of ỹ Lord, that came vnto Micah the [a] Morashite in the dayes of Iotham, Ahaz, & Hezekiah Kings of Iudah, which he sawe concerning Samaria and Ierusalem.

2 Heare, [b] all ye people: hearken thou, ô earth, & all that therein is: and let the Lord God be witnes against you, euen the Lord from his holie Temple.

3 For beholde, the Lord cometh out of his place, and wil come [c] downe, & tread vpon the hie places of the earth.

4 And the mountaines shal melt vnder him (so shal the valleis cleaue) as waxe before ỹ fyre, & as the waters that are powred downeward.

5 For ỹ wickednes of Iaakob is all this, & for the sinnes of the house of Israel: what is the wickednes of Iaakob? Is not a Borne in Mareshah a citie of Iudah.

b Because of ỹ malice, & obstinacie of ỹ people whome he had so oft exhorted to repētāce, he sommoneth them to Gods iudgemēts taking all creatures, and God himself to witnes, ỹ the preaching of his prophetes, which they haue abused, shal be reuenged.

c Meaning hereby ỹ God wil come to iudgement against ỹ strong cities & holdes.

d Samaria, & shulde haue bene an example to all Israel of true religion & iustice, was the puddle, & stewes of all idolatrie, & corruption, and bo[c]sted them selues of their father Iaakob.
c That is, of idolatrie and iuffection.
f Which they gathered by euil practises, & thoght ỹ their idoles had inriched them therewith for their seruice vnto them.
g The gaine ỹ came by their idoles, shalbe consumed as a thing of noght: for as wages or riches of harlottes are wickedly gotten, so are they vilely & spedely spent.
h Lest the Philistims our enemies reioyce at our destructiō.
i Which was a citie nere to Ierusalem, Ioſh. 18,23, and signifieth dust: therefore he willeth them to mourne, & roule thē selues in ỹ dust, for their dustie citie.
k These were cities whereby ỹ enemie shulde passe as he came to Iudah.
l He shal not departe before he hathe ouercome you, and so you shal pray for his tarying.
m For Rabshakeh had shut vp Ierusalē, that thei colde not send to succour them.
n To flee away: for Sancherib laid siege first to that citie, and remained therein when he sent his captaines, & armie against Ierusalem.
o Thou first receiuedst the idolatrie of Ieroboam, and so didest infect Ierusalem.
p Thou shalt bribe the Philistims thy neighbours, but they shal deceiue thee, as wel as thei of Ierusalem.
q He prophecieth against his owne citie, & because it signified an heritage, he saith that God wolde send an heire to possesse it.
r For so they thoght thē selues for the strength of their citie.

2 [d]Samaria? and which are the hie [e]places of Iudah? Is not Ierusalem?
6 Therefore I wil make Samaria as an heape of the field, and for the planting of a vineyarde, and I wil cause the stones thereof to tumble downe into ỹ valley, & I wil discouer the foundacions thereof.
7 And all ỹ grauen images thereof shalbe broken, and all [f] the gifts thereof shalbe burnt with the fyre, & all ỹ idoles thereof wil I destroye: for she gathered it of the hyre of an harlot, and they shal returne [g] to the wages of an harlot.
8 Therefore I wil mourne & houle: I wil go without clothes, and naked: I wil make lamentacion like ỹ dragon, & mourning as the ostriches.
9 For her plagues are grieuous: for it is come into Iudah: the enemie is come vnto the gate of my people, vnto Ierusalem.
10 Declare ye it not at [h]Gath, nether wepe ye: for the house of [i] Aphrah roule thy self in the dust.
11 Thou that dwellest at [k] Shaphir, go together naked with shame: she ỹ dwelleth at Zaanan, shal not come forthe in the mourning of Beth-ezel: the enemie shal [l] receiue of you for his standing.
12 For the inhabitant of Maroth waited for good, but euil came from the Lord vnto the [m] gate of Ierusalem.
13 O thou inhabitant of Lachish, binde the charet to ỹ beastes [n] of price: she [o] is the beginning of the sinne to ỹ daughter of Zion: for the transgressions of Israel were founde in thee.
14 Therefore shalt thou giue presents to Moresheth [p] Gath: the houses of Achzib shalbe as a lie to the Kings of Israel.
15 Yet wil I bring an [q] heire vnto thee, ô inhabitant of Mareshah, he shal come vnto Adullam, [r] the glorie of Israel.
16 Make thee balde: and shaue thee for thy delicate children: enlarge thy bladenes as the egle, for they are gone into captiuitie from thee.

a Assone as they [1] rise, they execute their wicked deuises of the night, & according to their power hurt others.
1 Ebr. it to power.

CHAP. II.

Threatnings against the wanton & deintie people. 6 They wolde teache the Prophetes to preache.

1 VVO vnto thē ỹ imagine iniquitie, and worke wickednes vpō their beddes: [a] when ỹ morning is light thei practise it because their hand "hathe the power.
2 And they couet fields, and take them by violence, & houses, & take them away: so they oppresse a man & his house, euen man and his heritage.
3 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, against this familie haue I deuised a plague, whereout ye shal not pluck your neckes, & ye shal not go so proudly, for this time is euil.
4 In that day shal they take vp a parable against you, and lament with a dolful lamentacion, and say, [b] We be vtterly wasted: he hathe changed the porciō of my people: how hathe he taken it away to restore it vnto me? he hathe diuided our fields.
5 Therefore thou shalt haue none that shal cast a coard by lot in [c] the Congregacion of the Lord.
6 [d] They that prophecied, Prophecie ye not. [e] Thei shal not prophecie to thē, nether shal they take shame.
7 O thou that art named ỹ house of Iaakob, is the Spirit of the Lord shortened? [f] are these his workes? are not my wordes good vnto him [g] that walketh vprightly?
8 But he that was [h] yester day my people, is risen vp on the other side, as against an enemie: they spoyle the [i] beautiful garment from them that passe by peaceably, as thogh they returned from the warre.
9 The womē of my people haue ye cast out from their pleasant houses, & from their children haue ye taken away [k] my glorie continually.
10 Arise and departe, for this is not your [l] rest: because it is polluted, it shal destroye you, euen with a sore destruction.
11 [m] If a man walke in the Spirit, & wolde lie falsely, saying, [n] I wil prophecie vnto thee, of wine, and of strong drinke, he shal euen be the Propher of this people.
12 I wil surely gather [o] thee wholy, ô Iaakob: I wil surely gather the remnant of Israel: I wil put them together as the shepe of Bozrah, euen as the flocke in the middes of their folde: the cittes shalbe ful of brute of the men.
13 The [p] breaker vp shal come vp before them: they shal breake out, and passe by the gate, & go out by it, & the Lord shalbe [q] vpon their heads.

b Thus the Iewes lament and say that there is no hope of restitutiō seing their possessiōs are diuided among the enemies.
c Ye shal haue no more lands to diuide, as you had in times past, and as you vsed to measure them in the Iubile.
d Thus ỹ people warne the prophetes that they speake to them no more: for they can not abide their threatenings.
e God saith, that they shal not prophecie, nor receiue no more of their rebukes nor tantes.
f Are these ỹ our workes according to his Law?
g Do not ỹ godlie finde my wordes comfortable?
h That is, afore time.
i The poore cā haue no commoditie by thē, but they spoyle them, as thogh they were enemies.
k That is, their substance, & liuing, which is Gods blessing, and as it were, parte of his glorie.
l Ierusalē shal not be your saueguarde: but ỹ cause of your destruction.
m That is, shewe him self to be a prophet.
n He sheweth what prophetes they delite in: that is, in flatterers, which tel them pleasant tales, and speake of their commodities.
o To destroy thee.
p The enemie shal breake their gates, & walles, and lead them into Caldea.
q To driue them forwarde, and to helpe their enemies.

CHAP. III.

Against the tyrannie of princes and false prophetes.

1 And

c AND I said, Heare, I pray you, ô heads of Iaakob, and ye princes of ỹ house of Israel: shulde not ye knowe a iudgement?

a That thing ẅ is iuste & lawful, bothe to gouerne my people aright, & also to discharge your owne cõscience?

But they hate the good, & loue ỹ euil: thei plucke of their ſkinnes from them, & their fleſh from their bones.

And they eat also ỹ b fleſh of my people, and flay of their ſkinne from them, & they breake their bones, & chop thẽ in pieces, as for the pot, & as fleſh within the caldron.

b The prophet condemneth ỹ wicked gouerners not onely of couetousnes, theft, and murther, but compareth them to wolues, lyõs, & moste cruel beaſts.

Then c ſhal they crye vnto the Lord, but he wil not heare them: he wil euen hide his face from thẽ at that time, becauſe they haue done wickedly in their workes.

c That is, when I ſhal viſite their wickednes: for thogh I heare ỹ godlie before they crie, Iſa. 65, 24. yet I wil not heare these thogh they crye, Iſa. 1, 15. 2, 13. 1 per. 3, 12.

Thus ſaith the Lord, Concerning the prophetes that diſceiue my people, and d bite them with their teeth, and crye peace, but if a man put not into their mouthes, they prepare warre againſt him, d They deuoure all their ſubſtance, and then flatter thẽ, promiſſing ỹ all ſhal go wel: but if one reſtraine frõ their bellies, then they inuẽt all wayes to miſchief.

Therefore e night ſhalbe vnto you for a viſion, and darkenes ſhalbe vnto you for a diuination, and the ſunne ſhal go downe ouer the Prophetes, and the day ſhalbe darke ouer them.

e As you haue loued to walke in darkenes, & to prophecie lies ſo God ſhal rewarde you ẅ groſſe blindenes, & ignorance, ſo ỹ whẽ all others ſhal ſe the bright beames of Gods graces, ye ſhal as blinde men grope as in the night.

Then ſhal the Seers be aſhamed, and the ſothſaiers cõfounded: yea, they ſhal all couer f their lippes, for they haue none anſwer of God.

f When God ſhal diſcouer them to the worlde, they ſhal be afraid to ſpeake: for all ſhal knowe ỹ they were but falſe prophetes, and did belye the worde of God.

Yet notwithſtanding I am full g of power by the Spirit of the Lord, and of iudgement and of ſtrength to declare vnto Iaakob his tranſgreſſion, and to Iſrael his ſinne.

g The prophet being aſſured of his vocation by the Spirit of God, ſetteth him ſelf alone againſt all the wicked, ſhewing how God bothe gaue him gifres, habilitie, and knowledge, to diſcerne betwene good & euil, and alſo conſtancie to reproue the ſinnes of the people, and not to flatter them.

Heare this, I pray you, ye heads of the houſe of Iſrael: they abhorre iudgemẽt, and peruert all equitie.

They buyld vp Zion with h blood, & Ieruſalem with iniquitie.

h They buylde them houſes by briberie, which he calleth blood and iniquitie.

The heads thereof iudge for rewardes, and the Prieſts thereof teache for hyre, & the Prophetes thereof prophecie for money: yet wil they i leane vpon the Lord, & ſay, Is not the Lord among vs? no euil can come vpon vs.

i They wil ſay, that they are the people of God, and abuſe his Name as a pretence to cloke their hypocriſie.

Therefore ſhal Zion for your ſake be k plowed as a field, & Ieruſalem ſhal be an heape, & the mountaine of the houſe, as the hie places of the foreſt.

k Read Ieremiah, 26, 18.

CHAP. IIII.

Of the kingdome of Chriſt, & felicitie of his Church.

a When Chriſt ſhal come, & the Temple ſhalbe deſtroyed.

1 BVt in the a laſt dayes it ſhal come to paſſe, that the mountaine of ỹ Houſe of the Lord ſhal be prepared in ỹ top of the mountaines, and it ſhalbe exalted aboue the b hilles, and people ſhal flowe vnto it.

b Read Iſa. 2, 2.

2 Yea, many nacions ſhal come and ſay, Come, and let vs go vp to the Mountaine of the Lord, and to the Houſe of the God of Iaakob, & he wil c teache vs his waies, & we wil walke in his paths: for the Law ſhal go forthe of Zion, and the worde of the Lord from Ieruſalem.

c He ſheweth ỹ there is no true Church but where as the people are taught by Gods pure worde.

3 And he ſhal iudge among many people, & d rebuke mightie nacions a farre of, & thei ſhal breake their ſwordes into mattockes, and their ſpeares into e ſiethes: nacion ſhal not lift vp a ſworde againſt nacion, nether ſhal they f learne to fight any more.

d By his correctiõs & threatnings he wil bring the people into ſubiection which are in the vtmoſt corners of the worlde.

e They ſhal abſteine from all euil doing, and exerciſe them ſelues in godlines, and in wel doing to others.

f Read Iſa 2, 4.

4 But thei ſhal ſit euery man vnder his vine, & vnder his fig tre, and none ſhal make them afraied: for the mouth of ỹ Lord of hoſtes hathe ſpoken it.

5 For all people wil walke g euery one in the name of his god, and we wil walke in the Name of the Lord our God, for euer and euer.

g He ſheweth ỹ the people of God ought to remaine conſtant in their religio, albeit all the worlde ſhulde giue them ſelues to their ſuperſtitiõ & idolatrie.

6 At the ſame day, ſaith the Lord, wil I gather her that is caſt out, & her that I haue afflicted.

7 And I wil make her that halted, h a remnant, & her that was caſt farre of, a mightie nacion: and the Lord ſhal reigne ouer them in Mount Zion, from hence forthe euen for euer.

h I wil cauſe ỹ Iſrael, ẅ is now as one lame and halting, and ſo almoſt deſtroied, ſhal liue againe & growe into a great people.

8 And thou, ô i towre of the flocke, the ſtrong holde of the daughter Zion, vnto thee ſhal it come, euen k the firſt dominion, & kingdome ſhal come to the daughter Ieruſalem.

i Meaning Ieruſalem where the Lords flocke was gathered.

k The floriſhing ſtate of ỹ kingdome, as it was vnder Dauid & Salomon, which thing was accompliſhed to ỹ Church by the comming of Chriſt.

9 Now why doeſt thou crye out with lamentacion? is there no King in thee? is thy counſeller periſhed? for ſorow hathe taken thee, as a woman in trauail.

10 Sorow and mourne, ô daughter Zion, like a woman in trauail: for now ſhalt thou go forthe of the citie, and dwell in the field, and ſhalt go into Babel, but there ſhalt thou be deliuered: there the Lord ſhal redeme thee from the hand of thine enemies.

l In the meane ſeaſon he ſheweth ỹ they ſhulde indure great troubles & tentations when they ſawe thẽ ſelues nether to haue King nor counſel.

11 Now alſo many nacions are gathered againſt thee, ſaying, Zion ſhalbe condemned and our eye ſhal loke vpon Zion.

m He ſheweth ỹ the faithful ought not to meaſure Gods iudgements by ỹ bragges & threatnings of ỹ wicked, but there are admoniſhed to lifte vp their heartes to God to call for deliuerance.

12 But they m knowe not the thoghts of the Lord, they vnderſtand not his counſel, for he ſhal gather them as the ſheaues in the barne.

13 Ariſe, and threſh, n ô daughter Zion: for I wil make thine horne yron, & I wil make thine hooues braſſe, & thou ſhalt breake in pieces many people: and I wil n God giueth his Church this victorie ſo oft as he ouercometh their enemies: but ỹ accompliſhmẽt hereof ſhalbe at ỹ laſt cõming of Chriſt.

consecrate their riches vnto the Lord, and their substance vnto the ruler of the worlde.

CHAP. V.

The destruction of Ierusalem. 2 The excellencie of Bethlehem.

1 NOw assemble thy garisons, ô daughter [a] of garisons: he hathe laied siege against vs: they shal smite the iudge of Israel with a rodde vpon the cheke.

2 And thou Beth-leem Ephrathah art [b] litle to be among the thousands of Iudah, yet out of thee shal he come forthe vnto me, that shal be the ruler in Israel: whose [c] goings forthe haue bene frō the beginning & from euerlasting.

3 Therefore wil he giue them vp, vntil the time that [d] she which shal beare, shal trauail: then the remnant of their brethren shal returne vnto the children of Israel.

4 And he shal [e] stand, and fede in the strength of the Lord, & in the maiestie of the Name of the Lord his God, and they shal dwell stil: for now shal he be magnified vnto the ends of the worlde.

5 And he [f] shal be our peace when Assur shal come into our lād: when he shal tread in our palaces, then shal we raise against him seuen shepherds, and eight principal men.

6 And they shal destroie [g] Asshur with ỹ swordes, & the land of Nimrod ẅ their swordes: thus shal he [h] deliuer vs from Asshur, when he cometh into our land, and when he shal tread within our borders.

7 And the [i] remnant of Iaakob shalbe among many people, as a dewe from ỹ Lord, & as the showres vpon the grasse, that waiteth not for man, nor hopeth in the sonnes of Adam.

8 And the remnant of Iaakob shalbe among the Gentiles in the middes of many people, as the lyon among the beasts of the forest, & as the lyons whelpe among the flockes of shepe, who when he goeth thorow, treadeth downe and teareth in pieces, and none can deliuer.

9 Thine hand shal be lift vp vpon thine aduersaries, & all thine enemies shalbe cut of.

10 And it shal come to passe in that day saith the Lord, that I wil cut of thine [k] horses out of the middes of thee, and I wil destroie thy charets.

11 And I wil cut of the cities of thy land, and ouerthrowe all thy strong holdes.

12 And I wil cut of thine inchanters out of thine hād: & thou shalt haue no more sothsayers.

13 Thine idoles also wil I cut of, & thine images out of the middes of thee: and thou shalt no more worship the worke of thine hands.

14 And I wil plucke vp thy groues out of the middes of thee: so wil I destroy thine enemies.

15 And I wil execute a vengeance in my wrath and indignation vpon the heathen, [l] which they haue not heard.

CHAP. VI.

An exhortacion to the dumme creatures to heare the iudgement against Israel being vnkinde. 6 What maner of sacrifices do please God.

1 HEarken ye now what ỹ Lord saith, Arise thou, & contend before ỹ [a] mountaines, and let ỹ hilles heare thy voyce.

2 Heare ye, ô mountaines, ỹ Lords quarel, and ye mightie foundacions of the earth: for the Lord hathe a quarel against his people, and he wil pleade with Israel.

3 O my people, what haue I done vnto thee? or wherein haue I grieued thee? testifie against me.

4 Surely I [b] broght thee vp out of the house of seruants, and I haue sent before thee, Moses, Aaron, and Miriam.

5 O my people, remēber now what Balak King of Moab had diuised, & what Balaam ỹ sonne of Beor answered him, from [c] Shittim vnto Gilgal, that ye may knowe the [d] righteousnes of the Lord.

6 Wherewith [e] shal I come before the Lord & bowe my self before ỹ hie God? Shal I come before him with burnt offrings, & with calues of a yere olde?

7 Wil the Lord be pleased with thousands of rams, or with ten thousand riuers of oyle? shal I giue my [f] firstborne for my trāsgression, euen the frute of my bodie for the sinne of my soule?

8 He hathe shewed thee, ô man, what is good, and what the Lord requireth of thee: [g] surely to do iustely, and to loue mercie, and to humble thy self, to walke with thy God.

9 The

a He forewarneth them of ỹ dangers that shal come, before thei enioy these comfortes, shewing ỹ forasmuche as Ierusalem was accustomed ẅ her garisons to trouble others the Lord wolde now cause other garisons to vexe her, and that her Rulers shulde be smitten on the face moste contemptuously.

b For so ỹ Iewes deuided their countrey, that for euery thousand there was a chief captaine: & because Beth-lehem was not able to make a thousand, he calleth it litle, but yet God wil raise vp his captaine & gouernour therein: & thus it is not the least by reason of this benefit, as mat. 2,6.

c He sheweth ỹ the comming of Christ and all his waies were appointed of God from all eternitie.

d He compareth the Iewes to women ẅ childe, who for a time shulde haue great sorowes, but at length they shulde haue a comfortable deliuerāce. Ioh. 16,21.

e That is, Christes kingdome shalbe stable and euerlasting, and his people, aswel the Gentiles as the Iewes shal dwel in safetie f This Messiah shalbe a sufficient sauegarde for vs, and though the enemie inuade vs for a time, yet shal God stirre vp many which shal be able to deliuer vs.

g These whome God shal raise vp for that deliueraunce of his Church, shal destroy all the enemies thereof, which are ment here by ỹ Assyriās & Babylonians ẅ were the chiefest ỹ time.

h By these gouernours wil God deliuer vs when the enemie cometh into our land.

i This Remnant or Church which God shal deliuer, shal onely depend on Gods power and defense, as doeth the grasse of the field, and not on the hope of man.

k I wil destroy all things wherein thou puttest thy confidence and idolatrie, & so wil helpe thee.

l It shal be so terrible that ỹ like hathe not beue heard of.

Chap VI.

a He taketh the hie mountaines and hard rockes to witnes against the obstinacie of his people.

b I haue not hurt thee, but bestowed infinite benefites vpon thee.

c That is, remēber my benefites from the beginning how I deliuered you from Balaams curse, and also spared you frō Shittim, which was in ỹ plaine of Moab, til I brought you into the lād promised.

d That is, ỹ truth of his manifolde benefites towarde you.

e Thus the people by hypocrisie ask how to please God, and are content to offer sacrifices, but wil not change their liues.

f There is nothing so deare to man, but the hypocrites wil offer it to God, if they thinke thereby to auoide his anger: but they wil neuer be brought to mortifie their owne affections & to giue them selues willingly to serue God as he cōmādeth.

g The Prophet in few wordes calleth thē to ỹ obseruacion of ỹ secōde table, to knowe if they wil obey God aright or no, sayig ỹ God hathe prescribed thē to do this.

9 The Lords voyce cryeth vnto the [h] citie, and the man of wisdome shal se thy name: Heare the rod, and who hathe appointed it.

10 Are yet the treasures of wickednes in the house of the wicked, and the scant measure, that is abominable?

11 Shal I iustifie the wicked balances, & the bag of deceitful weights?

12 For the riche men [i] thereof are ful of crueltie, & the inhabitants thereof haue spoken lies, & their tongue is deceitful in their mouth.

13 Therefore also wil I make thee sicke in smiting thee, & in making thee desolate because of thy sinnes.

14 Thou shalt eat and not be satisfied, & [k] thy casting downe shalbe in the middes of thee, and thou [l] shalt take holde, but shalt not deliuer: & that which thou deliuerest, wil I giue vp to the sworde.

15 Thou shalt sowe, but not reape: thou shalt treade the oliues, but thou shalt not anoint thee with oyle, & make swete wine, but shalt not drinke wine.

16 For the [m] statutes of Omri are kept, & all thee maner of the house of Ahab, & ye walke in their counsels, that I shulde make thee waste, and the inhabitants thereof an hissing: therefore ye shal beare the reproche of my people.

h Meaning, that whe God speaketh to any citie or nation, ỹ godlie wil acknowledge his maiestie & consider not ỹ mortal man that bringeth the threatening, but God ỹ sendeth it.

i That is, of Ierusalem.

k Thou shalt be consumed with inwarde grief and euil.

l Meaning, ỹ the citie shulde go about to saue her men, as they that lay holde on that which they wolde preserue.

m You haue receiued all the corruption and idolatrie, wherewith the ten tribes were infected vnder Omri and Ahab his sonne: & to excuse your doings, you alledge the Kings autoritie by his statutes, and also wisdome & policie in so doing, but you shal not escape punishement, but as I haue shewed you great fauour, and taken you for my people, so shal your plagues be accordingly, Luk. 12, 47.

CHAP. VII.

1 A complaint for the smale nõber of the righteous. 4 The wickednes of those times. 14 The prosperitie of the Church.

a The prophet [r] taketh vpõ him the persone of ỹ earth, & complaineth that all her frutes are gone, so ỹ none is left: ỹ is, that there is no godlie man remaining: for all are giuen to crueltie & deceit, so ỹ none spareth his owne brother.

b He sheweth ỹ ỹ prince, ỹ iudge & the riche man are linked together, all to do euil and to cloke ỹ doings one of another.

c That is, ỹ riche man ỹ is able to giue money, d These men agree among them selues and consent to do euil.

e They that are of moste estimation and honest among them, are but thornes and briers to pricke.

f Meaning of the Prophetes and gouernours.

WO is me, for I am as [a] the somer garherings, & as the grapes of the vintage: there is no cluster to eat: my soule desired the first ripe frutes.

2 The good man is perished out of the earth, and there is none righteous among men: [b] they all lie in waite for blood: euery man hunteth his brother with a net.

3 To make good for the euil of their hands, the prince asked, and the iudge iudgeth for a reward: therefore ỹ [c] great man he speaketh out the corruption of his soule: so [d] they wrap it vp.

4 The best of them is as [e] a brier, & the most righteous of them is sharper then a thorne hedge: the day of [f] thy watchmen & the visitacion cometh: then shalbe their confusion.

5 Trust ye not in a friend, nether put ye confidence in a counseller: kepe the dores of thy mouth from her that lieth in thy bosome.

looke into our hymes.

6 For the sonne reuileth the father: the daughter riseth vp against her mother: the daughter in law against her mother in law, & a mãs enemies are ỹ men of his owne house.

7 Therefore [g] I wil loke vnto ỹ Lord I wil waite for God my Sauiour: my God wil heare me.

8 Reioyce not against me, [h] ô mine enemie: though I fall, I shal arise: when I shal sit in darkenes, the Lord shal be a light vnto me.

9 I wil beare the wrath of the Lord because I haue sinned against him, vntil he pleade my cause, and execute iudgement for me: then wil he bring me forthe to the light, & I shal se his righteousnes.

10 Then she that is mine enemie, shal loke vpon it, and shame shal couer her, which said vnto me, Where is the Lord thy God? Mine eies shal beholde her: now shal she be troden downe as ỹ myre of the stretes.

11 This is [i] the day that thy walles shalbe buylte: this daie shal driue farre away [k] the decre.

12 In this day also they shal come vnto thee from [l] Asshur, and from the strong cities, and from the strong holdes euen vnto the riuer, & from sea to sea, & from mountaine to mountaine.

13 Notwithstanding, the land shalbe desolate because of them that dwell therein, & for the frutes of [m] their inuentiõs.

14 [n] Fede thy people with thy rod, ỹ flocke of thine heritage (which dwell solitarie in the wood) as in ỹ middes of Carmel: let them fede in Bashan & Gilead, as in olde time.

15 [o] According to the dayes of thy comming out of ỹ land of Egypt, wil I shewe vnto thee marueilous things.

16 The nacions shal se, and be confounded for all their power: they shal [p] laye their hand vpon their mouth: [q] their eares shal be deafe.

17 They shal [r] licke the dust like a serpent: thei shal moue out of their holes like wormes: they shal be afraide of the Lord our God, and shal feare because of thee.

18 Who is a God like vnto thee, that taketh away iniquitie, & [s] passeth by the transgression of the remnãt of his heritage? he retaineth not his wrath for euer, because he delighteth in mercie.

g The Prophet sheweth that the onelie remedy for the godlie in desperat euils is to flee vnto God for succour.

h This is spoken in the persone of the Church which calleth the malignant Church her enemie.

i To wit, when God shal shew him self a deliuerer of his Church, & a destroyer of his enemies.

k Meaning, the cruel empire of the Babylonias.

l When ỹ Church shalbe restored, they ỹ were enemies afore, shal come out of all ỹ corners of the worlde vnto her, so that nether holdes, riuers, seas nor mountaines shalbe able to let them.

m Afore this grace appeare, he sheweth how grieuously the hypocrites thẽ selues shal be punished, seing that the earth it self, which can not sinne, shal be made waste because of their wickednes.

n The Prophet prayeth to God to be merciful vnto his Church, when they shulde be scattered abroad as in solitarie places in Babylon and vnto them as in time past.

o God promiseth to be fauorable to his people as he had bene afore time.

p They shalbe astonished, and afraid to heare men speake, heare of their destruction.

q They shal fall flat on the grounde for feare.

r They shal licke the dust like a serpent: that is, they shal be afraide of the Lord our God, and shal feare because of thee.

s As though he wolde not se it, but winke at it.

tage? He reteineth not his wrath for euer, because mercie pleaseth him.

19 He wil turne againe, & haue compassion vpon vs: he wil subdue our iniquities, & cast all[t] their sinnes into ſ bottome of the sea.

t Meaning, of his elect.

20 Thou wilt performe thy[v] trueth to Iaakob, and mercie to Abraham, as thou hast sworne vnto our fathers in olde time.

v The Church is assured, ſ God wil declare in effect the trueth of his mercifull promes, which he had made of olde to Abraham, & to all ſ shulde apprehende the promes by faith.

NAHVM.

THE ARGVMENT.

As they of Nineueh shewed themselues prompt and ready to receiue the worde of God at Ionas preaching, and so turned to the Lord by repentance: so after a certeine time rather giuing themselues to worldelie meanes to increase their dominõ, then seking to continue in the feare of God, and trade wherein they had begonne, they cast of the care of religion, & so returned to their vomite, and prouoked Gods iuste iudgement against them, in afflicting his people. Therefore their citie Nineueh was destroyed, and Meroch-baladan King of Babel (or as some thinke Nebuchad-nezzar) enioyed the empire of the Assyrians. But because God hathe a continual care of his Church, he sturreth vp his Prophet to comfort the godlie, shewing that the destruction of their enemies shulde be for their consolation. And as it semeth, he prophecied about the time of Hezekiah, and not in the time of Manasseh his sonne, as the Iewes write.

CHAP. I.

Of the destruction of the Assyrians, and of the deliuerance of Israel.

a Read Isa.13.1.
b The vision or reuelation, w God commanded Nahum to write concerning ſ Ninuites.
c That is, borne of a poore village in ſ tribe of Simeon.
d Meaning, of ſ his glorie.
e With his he is but angrie for a time, but his angre neuer aswageth toward the reprobat, thogh for a time he deferre it.
f Thus ſ wicked wolde make Gods mercie an occasion to sinne, but the prophet wil teth them to consider his force & iustice.
g If all creatures be at Gods commandemẽt & none is able to resist his wrath, shal man flatter him self and thinke by anie meanes to escape when he prouoketh his God to angre?
h Lest ſ faithful shulde be discouraged by hearing the power of God, he sheweth them that his mercies apperteine vnto them, & that he hathe care ouer them.
i Signifying, that God wil suddenly destroye Nineueh, & the Assyrians suche sort as they shal lie in perpetual darkenes, & neuer recouer their strength againe.

1 THe[a] burden of Nineueh. [b] The boke of the vision of Nahum the [c]Elkeshite.

2 God is[d] ielous, and the Lord reuengeth: the Lord reuengeth: euen the Lord[e] of angre, the Lord wil take vengeance on his aduersaries, and he reserueth wrath for his enemies.

3 The[e] Lord is slowe to angre, but he is great in power, and wil not surely cleare the wicked: the Lord hathe his way in the whirlewinde, and in the storme, and the cloudes are the dust of his fete.

4 He rebuketh the sea, and dryeth it, & he dryeth vp all ſ riuers: Bashan is wasted and Carmel, and the floure of Lebanon is wasted.

5 The mountaines tremble for him, and the hilles melt, and the earth is burnt at his sight, yea, the worlde, and all that dwell therein.

6 [g] Who can stand before his wrath? or who can abide in the fiercenes of his wrath? his wrath is powred out like fyre, and the rockes are broken by him.

7 The Lord is good[h] and as a strong holde in the day of trouble, & he knoweth them that trust in him.

8 But passing ouer as with a flood, he wil vtterly destroye the[i] place thereof, and darknes shal pursue his enemies.

9 What do ye[k] imagine against ſ Lord? he wil make an vtter destruction: affliction shal not rise vp the seconde time.

10 For he shal come as vnto[l] thornes folden one in another, and as vnto drunkardes in their drunkennes: thei shalbe deuoured as stubble fully dryed.

11 There[m] cometh one out of thee that imagineth euil against the Lord, euen a wicked counselour.

12 Thus saith the Lord, Thogh they be[n] quiet, & also manie, yet thus shal they be cut of, when he shal passe by: thogh I haue afflicted thee, I wil afflict thee no more.

13 For now I wil breake his yoke from the, and wil burst thy bondes in sondre.

14 And the Lord hathe giuen a commandement concerning thee, that no more of thy name be[o] sowen: out of the house of thy gods wil I cut of the graue, and the molten image: I wil make it thy graue for thee, for thou art vile.

15 *Beholde vpon the mountaines ſ fete of him that declareth, & publisheth[p] peace: ô Iudah, kepe thy solemne feastes, performe thy vowes: for the wicked shal no more passe through thee: he is vtterly cut of.

k He sheweth ſ the enterprises of the Assyrians against Iudah & the Church, were against God, & therefore he wolde so destroye them at once, ſ he shulde not nede to returne the seconde time.
l Thogh ſ Assyrians thinke themselues like thornes that pricke on all sides, yet ſ Lord wil set fyre on them, & as drũken mẽ are not able to stand against anie force, so thei shal be nothing able to resist him.
m Which may be vnderstand either of Sancherib, or of the people of Nineueh.
n Though they thinke thẽselues in moste safetie, & of greatest strẽgth yet when God shal passe by, he wil destroye them: not withstanding he comforteth his Church & promiseth to make an end of punishing them by the Assyrians. Isa.52, 7. rom.10,15.
o Meaning sancherib, who shulde haue no more children, but be slaine in the house of his gods, 2. King.19,35.
p Which peace the Iewes shulde enioy by the death of sancherib.

CHAP. II.

He describeth the victories of the Caldeans against the Assyrians.

1 THe[a] destroyer is come before thy face: kepe thy munition, loke to ſ way: make thy loynes strong: increase thy a That is, Nebuchad nezzar is in a redines to destroye ſ Assyrians. and the prophet derideth the enterprises of the Assyrians w prepared to resist him.

thy strength mightely.

2 For the Lord hathe b turned away the glorie of Iaakob, as the glorie of Israel: for the emptiers haue emptied thē out, & c marred their vine branches.

3 The shield of his mightie men is made red: d the valiant men are in skarlet: the charrets shalbe as in the fyre & flames in the day of his preparation, and e the firre trees shal tremble.

4 The charrets shal rage in the stretes: thei shal runne to and fro in the hie wayes: thei shal seme like lampes: they shal shote like the lightning.

5 f He shal remember his strong men: they shal stumble as they go: they shal make haste to the walles thereof, & the defense shalbe prepared.

6 The gates of the riuers shalbe opened, and the palace shal melt.

7 And Huzzab the Queene shalbe led away captiue, and her maides shal leade her as with the voyce of doues, smiting vpon their breasts.

8 But Nineueh is g of olde like a poole of water: yet they shal flee away. Stand, stand, shal they crye: but none shal loke backe.

9 h Spoyle ye the siluer, spoyle the golde: for there is none end of the store, & glorie of all the pleasant vessels.

10 i She is emptie and voyde and waste, & the heart melteth, and the knees smite together, and sorow is in all loines, & the faces k of them all gather blackenes.

11 Where is the l dwelling of the lyons, & the pasture of the lyons whelpes? where the lyon, & the lyoness walked, and the lyons whelpe, and none made them afraied.

12 The lyon did teare in pieces vnough for his whelpes, & woryed for his lyoness, & filled his holes with praye, and his dennes with spoyle.

13 Beholde, I come vnto thee, saith ỹ Lord of hostes, & I wil burne her charrets in the m smoke, & the sworde shal deuoure thy yong lyons, & I wil cut of thy spoile from the earth, & ỹ voice of thy n messengers shal no more be heard.

b Seing God hathe punished his owne people Iudah & Israel, he wil now punish the enemies by whome he scourged them, read Isa. 10, 12.
c Signifying, ỹ the Israelites were vtterly destroyed.
d Bothe to feare the enemie, and also ỹ they them selues shulde not sone espie blood one of another to discourage them.
e Meaning, their speares shulde shake and crashe together.
f Then the Assyrians shal seke by all meanes to gather their power, but all things shal faile them.
g The Assyrias wil flatter them selues and say, ỹ Nineueh is so ancient that it can neuer perish, and is as a fishpoole, whose waters they that walke on the banckes cā not touche, but they shalbe scattered, & shal not loke backe thogh mē wolde call them.
h God commādeth the enemies to spoile Nineueh, and promiseth thē infinite riches, & treasures.
i That is, Nineueh, & the men thereof shalbe after this sorte.
k Read Ioel. 2, 6
l Meaning, Nineueh, whose inhabitants were cruel like the lyons & giuen to all oppression and spared no violence or tyrannie to prouide for their wiues, & children.
m That is, assone as my wrath beginneth to kindle.
n Signifying the heraldes, which were accustomed to proclame warre Some read of thy gume tethe wherewith Nineueh was wōt to bruse the bones of the poore.

CHAP. III.

Chap III.
a It neuer ceaseth to spoile and robbe.
b He sheweth how the Caldeans shal haste, & how courageous their horses shal be in beating the grounde when they come against the Assyrians.

O Bloodie citie, it is all ful of lies, & robberie: a the pray departeth not:

2 The noyce of a whippe, b & the noyce of the mouing of the wheles, & ỹ beating of the horses, and the leaping of the charrets.

3 The horseman lifteth vp bothe the bright sworde, and the glitering speare, and a multitude is slaine, and the dead bodies are manie: there is none end of their corpses: they stumble vpon their corpses.

4 Because of the multitude of the fornications of the c harlot that is beautiful, and is a mastresse of witchcraft, and selleth the people thorowe her whoredome, and the nations thorowe her witchcraftes.

5 Beholde, I come vpon thee, saith the Lord of hostes, & wil discouer thy skirtes vpon thy face, & wil shewe the nations thy filthines, and the kingdomes thy shame.

6 And I wil cast filth vpon thee, & make thee vile, and wil set thee as a gasing stocke.

7 And it shal come to passe that all they that loke vpon thee, shal flee from thee, & say, Nineueh is destroyed, who wil haue pitie vpon her? where shal I seke comforters for thee?

8 Art thou better then d No, which was ful of people? that laye in the riuers, & had the waters round about it? whose ditche was the sea, & her wall was from the sea?

9 Ethiopia and Egypt were her strength & there was none end: Put and Lubim were e her helpers.

10 Yet was she caryed away, & went into captiuitie: her yong children also were dashed in pieces at the head of all the stretes: & thei cast lottes for her noble men, & all her mightie men were bound in chaines.

11 Also thou shalt be drunken: thou shalt hide thy self, & shalt seke helpe because of the enemie.

12 All thy strōg cities shalbe like figtrees with the first ripe figs: for if thei be shaken, thei fall into ỹ mouth of the eater.

13 Beholde, thy people within thee are women: the gates of thy lād shalbe opened vnto thine enemies, & the fyre shal deuoure thy barres.

14 Drawe thee waters for the siege: fortifie thy strong holdes: go into the claye, and temper the morter: make strong bricke.

15 There shal the fyre deuoure thee: the sworde shal cut thee of: it shal eat thee vp like the f locustes, though ỹ be multiplied like ỹ locustes, & multiplied like the grashopper.

16 Thou hast multiplied thy marchantes aboue the starres of heauen: the locust spoileth and flieth awaie.

17 Thy princes are as ỹ grashoppers, & thy captaines as ỹ greate grashoppers ỹ

c He compareth Nineueh to an harlot, ỹ by her beautie & subtiltie entiseth yong men, and bringeth them to destruction.
d Meaning, Alexandria, ỹ was in league ỹ so manie nacions, and yet was now destroyed.
e Or, thine.
f Signifying, ỹ Gods iudgements shulde suddenly destroye the Assyrians, as these vermine are ỹ raine or change of wether.

remaine in the hedges in the colde daye: but when the sunne ariseth, they flee awaie & their place is not knowen where thei are.

f Thy princes and counselours.

18 Thy f shepherdes do slepe, ô King of Ashur: thy strong men lie downe: thy people is scattered vpon the mountaines, and no man gathereth them.

19 There is no healing of thy wounde: thy plague is grieuous: all that heare the brute of thee, shal clappe the hands ouer thee: for vpon g whome hathe not thy malice passed continually?

g Meaning, that there was no people, to whome the Assyrias had not done hurt.

HABAKKVK.

THE ARGVMENT.

The Prophet complaineth vnto God, considering the great felicitie of the wicked, and the miserable oppression of the godlie, which indure all kinde of affliction & cruelties, and yet can se none end. Therefore he had this reuelation shewed him of God, that the Caldeans shulde come and take them awaie captiues, so that they colde loke for none end of their troubles as yet, because of their stubbernes and rebellion against the Lord. And lest the godlie shulde dispaire, seing this horrible confusion, he comforteth them by this that God wil punish the Caldeans their enemies, when their pride and cruelties shalbe at height: wherefore he exhorteth the faithful to patience by his owne example, & sheweth them a forme of prayer, wherewith they shulde comfort themselues.

CHAP. I.

2 A complaint against the wicked that persecute the iust.

1 THE burden, which Habakkuk ý Prophet did se.

2 O Lord how long shal I crye, and thou wilt not heare? euen crye out vnto thee a for violence, & thou wilt not helpe?

a The Prophet cõplaineth vnto God & bewaileth y among ý Iewes is left none equitie nor brotherlie loue: but in stead hereof reigneth cruelties, theft, contentiõ & strife.

3 Why doest thou shewe me iniquitie, & cause me to beholde sorowe? for spoyling, and violence are before me: and there are that raise vp strife and contention.

b To suppresse him if any shulde shewe him self zealous of Gods cause.

4 Therefore the Law is dissolued, and iudgement doeth neuer go forth: for ý wicked doeth b compasse about ý righteous: therefore c wrong iudgemẽt procedeth.

c Because ý iudges ẽ shulde redresse this excesse are as euil as the rest

5 Beholde among the heathen, and regarde, and wonder, and marueil: for I wil worke a worke in your daies: dye wil not beleue it, thogh it be tolde you.

d As in times past you wolde not beleue Gods worde, so shal ye not now beleue the strange plagues which are at hand

6 For lo I raise vp the Caldeans, that bitter and furious nacion, which shal go vpon the breadth of the land to possesse the dwelling places, that are not theirs.

c They the selues shal be your iudges in this cause, & none shal haue autoritie ouer them to cõtrolle thẽ. Zeph 3 3.

7 Thei are terrible and feareful: c their iudgement and their dignitie shal procede of them selues.

8 Their horses also are swifter then the leopards, and are more fierce then the wolues in the * euening: & their horsemen are many: and their horsemen shal come from farre: thei shal flie as ý egle hasting to meat.

f For the Iewes moste feared this winde, because it destroyed their fruites.

9 They come all to spoyle: before their faces shalbe an f Eastwinde, and they shal gather the captiuitie, g as the sand.

g They shalbe so many in nõber.

10 And thei shal mocke the Kings, and the princes shalbe a skorne vnto them: thei shal deride euery strong holde: for they shal gather h dust, and take it.

h They shal cast vp mountes against it

11 Then shal thei i take a courage, and transgresse & do wickedly imputing this their power vnto their god.

i The prophet comforteth the faithful ý God wil also destroy the Babylonias, because they shal abuse this victorie & become proude & insolent, attributing ý praise hereof to their idoles.

12 Art not thou of olde, ô Lord my God mine holy one? we shal k not dye: O Lord, thou hast ordeined them for iudgemẽt, and ô God, thou hast established them for correction.

k He assureth ý godlie of Gods protection, shewing that the enemie can do no more then God hathe appointed, and also ý their sinnes required suche a sharpe rod.

13 Thou art of pure eyes, and canst not se euil: thou canst not beholde wickednes: wherefore doest thou loke vpon ý transgressors, & holdest th tongue when the wicked deuoureth the man, that is more righteous then he?

l So that ý great deuoureth ý smale & ý Caldeans destroy all the worlde.

14 And makest men as the l fish of ý sea & as the creping things, that haue no ruler ouer them.

15 Thei take vp all with the angle: thei catche it in their net, and gather it in their yarne, whereof they reioyce and are glad.

16 Therefore thei sacrifice vnto their m net & burne incense vnto their yarne, becausse by them their porcion is fat & their meat plenteous.

m Meaning, that ý enemies flatter them selues and glorie in their owne force, power, wit.

17 Shal thei therefore stretch out their net & not spare continually to slaye n ý nacions?

n Meaning, that they shuldenot.

CHAP. II.

2 A vision, 5 Against pride, couetousnes, drunkennes & idolatrie.

1 I Wil stand vpon my a watche, & set me vpon the towre, and wil loke and a I wil renounce mine owne iudgement, and onely depend on God to be instructed what I shal answer them that abuse my preaching, and to be armed against all tentations.

se

se what he wolde say vnto me, and what I shal answer to him that rebuketh me.

2 And the Lord answered me, and said, Write the vision, & make it plaine vpon tables, that he may runne [b] that readeth it.

3 For the vision is yet for an appointed time, but at the [c] last it shal speake, and not lie: though it tary, waite: for it shal surely come, & shal not stay.

4 Behold, [d] he that lifteth vp him self, his minde is not vpright in him, but the iuste shal liue by his faith.

5 Yea, in dede the proude man is as he ỹ transgresseth by wine: [e] therefore shal he not endure, because he hathe enlarged his desire as the hel, & is as death, and can not be satisfied, but gathereth vnto him all nacions, & heapeth vnto him al people.

6 Shal not all these take vp a parable against him, and a tanting prouerbe against him, and say, Ho he that increaseth that which is not his? [f] how long? and he that ladeth him self with thicke clave?

7 Shal [g] they not rise vp suddenly, that shal bite thee? and awake that shal stirre thee? and thou shalt be their pray?

8 Because thou hast spoiled manie nations, all the remnant of the people shal spoile thee, because of mens blood, and for the wrong done in the land, in ỹ citie, & vnto all that dwell therein.

9 Ho, he ỹ coueteth an euil couetousnes to his house, that he may set his nest on hie, to escape from the power of euil.

10 Thou [h] hast consulted shame to thine owne house, by destroying manie people, and hast sinned against thine owne soule.

11 For the [i] stone shal crye out of ỹ wall, and the beame out of the timber shal answer it.

12 Wo vnto him that buyldeth a towne with blood, and erecteth a citie by iniquitie.

13 Beholde, it is not of the [k] Lord of hostes that the people shal labour in ỹ very fyre? the people shal euē weary them selues for very vanitie.

14 For the earth shal [l] be filled with the knowledge of the glorie of the Lord, as the waters couer the sea.

15 Wo vnto him that giueth his neighboure [m] drinke: thou ioynest thine heate, & makest him drunkē also, that thou maist se their priuities.

16 Thou art filled with shame [n] for glorie: drinke thou also, & be made naked: the cuppe of the Lords right hand shal be turned vnto thee, and shameful spuing shalbe for thy glorie.

17 For the [o] crueltie of Lebanō shal couer thee: so shal the spoile of ỹ beastes, which made them afraide, because of mens blood, and for the wrong done in ỹ land, in the citie, and vnto all that dwell therein.

18 What profiteth the [p] image? for the maker thereof hathe made it an image, and a teacher of lies, though he ỹ made it, trust therein, when he maketh dumme idoles.

19 Wo vnto him that saith to the wood, Awake, & to the dumme stone, Rise vp, it shal teache thee: [q] beholde, it is laide ouer with golde and siluer, and there is no breath in it.

20 But the Lord is in his holie Temple: let all the earth kepe silence before him.

b Write it in great letters, that he ỹ runneth may read it.

c Which conteined the destruction of the enemie, and the comfort of the Church: which thing though God execute not according to mans hastie affections, yet the vsse of bothe is certeine at his time appointed.

d To trust in hi self or in anie worldlie thing, is neuer to be quiet: for the onelie rest is to stay vpon God by faith. Rom. 1,17. galat. 3, 11. ebr. 10, 8.

e He compareth the proude, and couetous man to a drunkard ỹ is without reason and sense, whome God wil punish, and make him a laughing stocke to all the worlde: & this he speaketh for the comfort of ỹ godlie, and against the Caldeans.

f Signifying, ỹ all the worlde shal wish ỹ destruction of tyrants, and ỹ by their oppressiō, & couetousnes thei heape but vpon them selues more heauie burdēs: for the more they get, the more are they troubled.

g That is, ỹ Medes & persians, that should destroye the Babylonians?

h Signifying, ỹ the couetous man is the ruine of his owne house, when as he thinketh to enriche it by cruelte and oppression.

i The stones of the house shal crye, and say that they are buylt of blood, and the wood shal answer and say the same of it self.

k Meaning, that God wil not deferre his vengeace lōg, but wil come, & destroye all their labours, as though thei were consumed ẅ fyre.

l In the destruction of the Babylonians his glorie shal appeare through all the worlde.

m He reprocheth thus the King of Babylon, who as he was drunken with couetousnes and cruelte, so he prouoked others to ỹ same & inflamed them by his rage, & so in the end broght them to shame.

n Where as thou thoghtest to haue glorie of the se thy doings, they shal turne to thy shame: for thou shalt drinke of the same cup with others in thy turne.

o Because ỹ Babylonians were cruel not only against other nacions, but also against ỹ people of God, ẅ is ment by Lebanon, and the beastes therein, he sheweth ỹ the like cruelte shalbe executed against them p He sheweth ỹ the Babylonians gods colde nothing auaile them: for they were but blocke or stones, read Ierem. 50, 2.

q If thou wilt consider what it is, and how that it hathe neither breath nor life, but is a dead thing.

CHAP. III.

2 A praier for the faithfull.

1 A Praier of Habakkuk the Prophet for the [a] ignorances.

3 God commeth from [d] Teman, and the holie one from mounte Paran, Selah. His glorie couereth the heauens, and the earth is ful of his praise,

4 And his brightnes was as the light: [e] he had hornes coming out of his hands, and there was the hiding of his power.

5 Before him went the pestilence, and burning coles went forthe before his fete.

6 He stode and measured the earth: he behelde and dissolued the nacions and the euerlasting mountaines were broken, & the ancient hilles did bowe: his waies are euerlasting.

7 [g] For his iniquitie I sawe the tentes of Cushan, & the curtaines of the land of Midian did tremble.

8 Was the Lord angrie against the [h] riuers? or was thine angre against ỹ floods?

a The prophet instructeth his people to pray vnto God not only for their great sinnes, but also for suche as they had committed of ignorance.

THE ARGVMENT.

SEing the great rebellion of the people, and that there was now no hope of amendement, he denounceth the great iudgement of God, which was at hand, ſhewing that their countrei ſhoulde be vtterly deſtroyed, and they caried away captiues by the Babylonians. Yet for the cõfort of the faithful he prophecied of Gods vengeance againſt their enemies as the Philiſtims, Moabites, Aſſyrians and others, to aſſure them that God had a continual care ouer them. And as the wicked ſhoulde be puniſhed for their ſinnes & tranſgreſſions: ſo he exhorteth the godlie to pacience, & to truſt to finde mercie by reaſon of the fre promes of God made vnto Abraham & therefore quietly to abyde til God ſhewe them the effect of that grace, whereby in the end they ſhoulde be gathered vnto him, and counted as his people and children.

HAGGAI.

THE ARGUMENT.

When the time of the seuentie yeres of captiuitie prophecied by Ieremiah, was expired, God raised vp Haggai, Zechariah and Malachi to comforte the Iewes and to exhorte them to the buylding of the Temple, which was a figure of the spiritual Temple and Church of God, whose perfection and excellencie stode in Christ. And because that all were giuen to their owne pleasures & commoditie, he declareth that that plague of famine which God sent then among them, was a iuste reward of their ingratitude, in that they contemned Gods honour, who had deliuered them. Yet he comforteth them, if they wil returne to the Lord, with the promes of greater felicitie, forasmuche as the Lord wil finish the worke that he hathe begonne, and send Christ whome he had promised, and by whome they shulde attaine to perfite ioy and glorie.

CHAP.

CHAP. I

The time of the prophecie of Haggai. & An exhortacion to buylde the Temple againe.

1 IN the seconde yere of King [a] Darius, in the sixt moneth, the first day of the moneth, came the worde of the Lord (by the ministerie of the Prophet Haggai) vnto [b] Zerubbabel the sonne of Shealtiel, a prince of Iudah, and to Iehoshua the sonne of Iehozadak the hie Priest, saying,

2 Thus speaketh the Lord of hostes, saying, This people say, The time is not yet come, [c] that the Lords House shulde be buylded.

3 Then came the worde of the Lord by the ministerie of the Prophet Haggai, saying,

4 Is it time for your selues to dwell in your [d] siled houses, and this House lie waste?

5 Now therefore thus saith the Lord of hostes, Cōsider your owne waies in your hearts.

6 Ye haue sowen muche, & bring in litle: ye eat, but ye haue not ynough: ye drinke, but ye are not filled: ye clothe you, but ye be not warme: and he that earneth wages, putteth the wages into a broken bagge.

7 Thus saith ỹ Lord of hostes, Consider your owne waies in your hearts.

8 Go[f] vp to ỹ mouneaine, & bring wood, & buylde this House, & [g] I wil be fauorable in it, and I wil [h] be glorified, saith the Lord.

9 Ye loked for muche, & lo, it came to litle: and when ye brogbt it home, I did blowe [i] vpon it. And why, saith ỹ Lord of hostes? Because of mine House that is waste, and ye runne euery man vnto his owne house.

10 Therefore the heauen ouer you staied it self frō dewe, and the earth staied her frute.

11 And I called for a drought vpon the land, & vpon the mountaines, & vpon ỹ corne, and vpon the wine, and vpon the oyle, vpon all that the grounde bringeth forthe: bothe vpon men & vpon cattel, and vpon all the labour of the hands.

12 When Zerubbabel the sonne of Shealtiel, and Iehoshua the sonne of Iehozadak the hie Priest with all ỹ remnant of the people, heard the [k] voyce of the Lord their God, & ỹ wordes of the Prophet Haggai (as the Lord their God had sent him) then the people did feare before the Lord.

13 Thē spake Haggai the Lords messenger in the Lords message vnto the people, saying, I am with you, saith the Lord.

14 And the Lord stirred vp [l] the spirit of Zerubbabel, the sonne of Shealtiel a prince of Iudah, and the spirit of Iehoshua the sonne of Iehozadak the hie Priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people, & they came, & did the worke in the House of the Lord of hostes their God.

a Who was the sonne of Hystaspis, & the third King of the persians, as some thinke.

b Because the buylding of the Tēple began to cease by reason ỹ the people were discouraged by their enemies: & if these two notable mē had nede to be stirred vp & admonished of their duetie, what shal we thinke of other gouernours whose doings are ether against God, or very colde in his cause?

c Not ỹ they cōdemned ỹ buylding thereof, but thei preferred policie, and priuate profite to religiō, being content with smale beginnings.

d Shewing that they soght not onely their necessities, but their very pleasures before Gods honour?

e Consider ỹ plagues of God vpō you for preferring your policies to his religion, & because ye seke not him first of all.

f Meaning, that they shulde leaue of their owne cōmodities, & go forwarde in the buylding of Gods Tēple & in the setting forthe of his religion.

g That is, I wil heare your praiers accordig to my promes, 2. King. 2, 21.

h That is, my glorie shal be set forthe by you.

i And so bring it to nothing.

k This declared that God was ỹ autor of the doctrine, & that he was but the minister, as Exod. 14, 31 iudg. 7, 20. act. 15, 28.

l Which declareth that mē are vnapt & dul to serue the Lord, nether can thei obey his worde or his messengers before God reforme their hearts and giue thē new spirits, Ioh. 6, 44.

CHAP. II.

He sheweth that the glorie of the seconde Temple shal exceade the first.

1 IN the foure & twentieth daye of the sixt moneth, in the seconde yere of King Darius,

2 In the seuenth moneth, in ỹ one & twētieth day of the moneth, came ỹ worde of the Lord by the ministerie of ỹ Prophet Haggai, saying,

3 Speake now to Zerubbabel the sonne of Shealtiel prince of Iudah, and to Iehoshua the sonne of Iehozadak the hie Priest, & to the residue of the people, saying,

4 Who is left among you, that sawe this [a] House in her first glorie, & how do you se it now? Is it not in your eyes, in comparison of it, as nothing?

5 Yet now be of good courage, ô Zerubbabel, saith the Lord, & be of good cōfort, ô Iehoshua, sonne of Iehozadak the hie Priest: & be strong, all ye people of the land, saith the Lord, and [b] do it: for I am with you, saith the Lord of hostes.

6 According to the worde that I couenanted w̄ you, when ye came out of Egypt: so my Spirit shal remaine among you feare ye not.

7 For thus saith the Lord of hostes[c] Yet a litle while, and I wil shake the heauēs and the earth, and the sea, and the drye land:

8 And I wil moue all nacions, & [d] the desire of all nacions shal come, & I wil fil this House with glorie, saith the Lord of hostes.

9 The [e] siluer is mine, & the golde is mine, saith the Lord of hostes.

10 The glorie of this last House shalbe greater thē the first, saith ỹ Lord of hostes:

a For the people according as Isa. 32, 11, and ezek. 41, 1, had prophecied, thoght this Temple shulde haue bene more excellent then Salomons temple, which was destroied by the Babylonians, but the prophets ment the spiritual Temple, the Church of Christ.

b That is, go forwarde in buylding the Temple.

c He exhorteth them to pacience though they se not as yet this Temple so glorious as the Prophets had declared: for this shulde be accomplished in Christ by whome all things shulde be renued.

d Meaning, Christ whome all oght to lok or by desire, he may signifie all precious things, as riches and suche.

e Therefore when his time cometh, he can make all the treasures of the worlde to serue his purpose: but the glorie of this seconde Temple doeth not stand in material things nether can be buylt.

and in this place wil I giue f peace, saith the Lord of hostes.

10 ¶ In the foure and twentieth day of the ninth moneth, in ỹ seconde yere of Darius, came the worde of the Lord vnto the Prophet Haggai, saying,

12 Thus saith ỹ Lord of hostes, Aske now the Priests concerning the Law, and say,

13 If one beare g holy flesh in the skirt of his garment, & with his skirt do touche the bread, or the potage, or the wine, or oyle, or any meat, shal it be holy? And ỹ Priests answered and said, No, 14 Thē said Haggai, If a polluted persone touche any of these, shal it be vncleane? And the Priests answered, & said, It shal be vncleane.

15 Then answered Haggai, and said, So is this people, & so is this nacio before me, saith the Lord: and so are all ỹ workes of their hands, & ỹ which they offre here, is vncleane.

16 And now, I pray you, consider in your mindes: frō this h day, and afore, euen afore a stone was laid vpon a stone in the Temple of the Lord:

17 Before these things were, i when one came to an heape of twentie measures, there were but ten: when one came to the wine presse for to drawe out fiftie vessels out of the presse, there were but twentie.

18 I smote you, with blasting, and w mildewe, and with haile, in all the labours of your hands: yet you turned not to me, saith the Lord.

19 Consider, I pray you, in your mindes from k this day, and afore from ỹ foure & twētieth day of the ninth moneth, euen from the day that the fundacion of the Lords Temple was laid: consider it in your mindes.

20 Is the l seed yet in the barne? as yet the vines, & the figtre, & the pome granate, & ỹ oliue tre hathe not broght forthe: from this day wil I blesse you.

21 And againe the worde of the Lord came vnto Haggai in ỹ foure & twentieth day of the moneth, saying,

22 Speake to Zerubbabel ỹ prince of Iudah, and say, I m wil shake the heaues & the earth, 23 And I wil ouerthrowe the throne of kingdomes, & I wil destroy ỹ strength of the n kingdomes of ỹ heathen, & I wil ouerthrowe the charets, & those ỹ ride in them, and the horse & the riders shal come downe, euerie one by the sworde of his brother.

24 In that day, saith ỹ Lord of hostes, wil I take thee, ô Zerubbabel my seruant, ỹ sonne of Shealtiel, saith the Lord, & wil make thee as a o signet: for I haue chosen thee, saith the Lord of hostes.

f Meaning, all spirituel blessings and felicitie purchased by Christ, phil. 4.7.

g That is, the flesh of the sacrifices: where by he signifieth ỹ that thing, w of it self is good, can not make another thig so: & therefore they ought not to iustifie thē selues by their sacrifices and ceremonies: but cōtrary he ỹ is vncleane and not pure of heart, doeth corrupt those things & make them detestable vnto God which els are good and godlie.

h Consider how God did plague you with famine afore you began to buylde the Temple.

i That is, before the building was begonne.

k From ỹ time they began to buylde the Tēple, he promiseth ỹ God wolde blesse thē: & albeit as yet the frute was not come forthe, yet in the gathering they shulde haue plentie.

l He exhorteth them to pacience & to abide til ỹ harueste came, and then they shulde se Gods blessings.

m I wil make a change & renue all things in Christ, of whome Zerubbabel here is a figure.

n Hereby he sheweth ỹ there shalbe no let or hinderance whē God wil make this wonderful restitutiō of his Church.

o Signifying ỹ his dignitie shulde be most excellent, which thing was accomplished in Christ. Cant. 8.6.

ZECHARIAH

THE ARGUMENT.

Two moneths after that Haggai had begonne to prophecie, Zechariah was also sent of the Lord to helpe him in the labour, & to confirme the same doctrine. First therefore he putteth them in remembrance, for w hat cause God had so sore punished their fathers, and yet comforteth thē, if they wil repent vnfainedly, & not abuse this great benefite of God in their deliuerance, which was a figure of that true deliuerance, that all the faithful shulde haue from death & sinne by Christ. But because they stil remained in their wickednes & coldenes to set forthe Gods glorie, & were not yet made better by their long banishement, he rebuketh thē moste sharpely: yet for the comfort of the repentant, he euer mixeth the promes of grace, that they might by thes meanes be prepared to receiue Christ, in whome all shulde be sanctified to the Lord.

CHAP. I.

He exhorteth the people to returne to ỹ Lord, & to eschewe ỹ wickednes of their fathers. 16 He signifieth the restitution of Ierusalem and the Temple.

1 IN the eight moneth of the seconde yere of a Darius, came ỹ worde of the Lord vnto b Zechariah ỹ sonne of Berechiah, the sonne of Iddo, the Prophet, saying,

2 The Lord hathe bene c sore displeased with your fathers.

3 Therefore say thou vnto thē, Thus saith the Lord of hostes, d Turne ye vnto me, saith the Lord of hostes, and I wil turne vnto you, saith the Lord of hostes.

4 Be ye not as your fathers, vnto whome ỹ former* Prophetes haue cryed, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Turne you now from your euil wayes, & from a who was the sonne of Hystaspis.

b This was not that Zechariah, whereof is mencion 2. Chro. 24, 20, but had the same name, & is called the sonne of Berechiah, as he was, because he came of those progenitors, as of Ioiada or Berechiah & Iddo.

c He speaketh this to feare thē with Gods iudgemēts that they shulde not prouoke him as their fathers had done, whome he so grieuously punished.

d Let your frutes declare, that you are Gods people and that he hathe wroght in you by his Spirit and mortified you: for els man hathe no power to returne to God, but God must conuert him, as Ier. 31, 18. Iam. 5, 21. Isa. 21, 8, & 45, 21. Iere. 3, 12. Exe. 18, 30. Hos. 14, 2. Ioel. 2, 12.

your wicked workes: but they wolde not heare, nor hearken vnto me, ſaith the Lord.

5 Your fathers, where[e] are they? and do the Prophetes liue for euer?

6 But did not my wordes and my ſtatutes, which I commanded by my ſeruãts the Prophetes, take holde of [f] your fathers? & [g] they returned, & ſaid, As the Lord of hoſtes hathe determined to do vnto vs, according to our owne wayes, & according to our workes, ſo hathe he delt with vs.

7 Vpon the foure and twentieth day of the eleuenth moneth, which is the moneth [h] Shebat, in the ſeconde yere of Darius, came the worde of the Lord vnto Zechariah the ſonne of Berechiah, the ſonne of Iddo the Prophet, ſaying,

8 I [i] ſawe by night, & beholde [k] a mã riding vpon a red horſe, & he ſtode amõg the mirre trees, that were in a bottome, & behinde him were there [l] red horſes ſpeckeled and white.

9 Then ſaid, I O my Lord, what are theſe? And the Angel that talked with me, ſaid vnto me, I wil ſhewe thee what theſe be.

10 And the man that ſtode among ſ mirre trees, anſwered & ſaid, Theſe are they whome ſ Lord hathe ſent to go through the worlde.

11 And they anſwered the Angel of the Lord, that ſtode among the mirre trees, & ſaid, We haue gone thorowe ſ worlde: & beholde, all & worlde ſitteth ſtil, & is at reſt.

12 Then the [m] Angel of the Lord anſwered & ſaid, O Lord of hoſtes, how lõg wilt thou be vnmercifull to Ieruſalem, and to the cities of Iudah, with whome thou haſt bene diſpleaſed now theſe thre ſcore and ten yeres?

13 And the Lord anſwered the Angel that talked with me, with good wordes & cõfortable wordes.

14 So the Angel that communed with me, ſaid vnto me, Crye thou, & ſpeake, Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſtes, I am [n] ielouſe ouer Ieruſalem and Zion with a great zeale, 15 And am greatly angrie againſt the careles heathen: for I was angrie but [o] a litle, & they helped forwarde the affliction.

16 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord, I wil returne vnto Ieruſalẽ with tender mercie: mine houſe ſhal be buylded in it, ſaith the Lord of hoſtes, & a line [p] ſhal be ſtretched vpon Ieruſalem.

17 Crye yet, and ſpeake, Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſtes, My cities ſhal yet [q] be broken with plentie: the Lord ſhal yet comforte Zion, and ſhal yet chuſe Ieruſalem.

18 Then lift I vp mine eyes and ſawe, & beholde, [r] foure hornes.

19 And I ſaid vnto the Angel that talked with me, What be theſe? And he anſwered me, Theſe are the hornes which haue ſcattered Iudah, Iſrael, and Ieruſalem.

20 And the Lord ſhewed me foure [ſ] carpenters.

21 Then ſaid I, What come theſe to do? And he anſwered, & ſaid, Theſe are the hornes, which haue ſcattered Iudah, ſo that a mã durſt not lift vp his head: but theſe are come to fraye them, & to caſt out the hornes of the Gentiles, which lift vp their horne ouer the land of Iudah, to ſcattre it.

CHAP. II.

The reſtoring of Ieruſalem and Iudah.

1 I Lift vp mine eyes againe and loked, and beholde, a [a] man with a meaſuring line in his hand.

2 Then ſaid I, Whither goeſt thou? And he ſaid vnto me, To meaſure Ieruſalẽ, that I may ſe what is ſ breadth thereof, & what is the length thereof.

3 And beholde, ſ Angel that talked with me, went forthe: and another Angel wẽt out to mete him,

4 And ſaid vnto him, Runne, ſpeake to this [b] yong man, and ſay, [c] Ieruſalem ſhal be inhabited without walles, for the multitude of men and cattel therein.

5 For I, ſaith the Lord, wil be vnto her a wall of [d] fyre rounde about, & wil [e] be the glorie in the middes of her.

6 Ho, ho, come [f] forthe, & flee from ſ land of the North, ſaith the Lord: for I haue ſcattered you into ſ foure [g] windes of ſ heauen, ſaith the Lord.

7 [h] Saue thy ſelf, ô Zion, ſ dwelleſt with the daughter of Babel.

8 For thus ſaith the Lord of hoſtes, After e Though your fathers be dead, yet Gods iudgements in puniſhing thẽ oght ſtil to be before your eyes: and though the prophetes be dead, yet their doctrine remaineth for euer, 2. pet. 1, 15.

f Seing ye ſaw the force of my doctrine in puniſhing your fathers, why do not ye feare the threatnings conteined in the ſame and declared by my prophetes?

g As men aſtoniſhed with my iudgements, and not that they were touched w true repentance.

h Which conteineth parte of Ianuarie & parte of Februarie.

i This viſion ſignifieth the reſtauration of the Church, but as yet it ſhulde not appeare to mãs eyes, which is here mẽt by the night, by ſ bottome & by the mirre trees, w are blacke and giue a darke ſhadowe: yet he compareth God to a King, who hathe his poſtes and meſſengers abroad, by whome he ſtil worketh his purpoſe & bringeth his matters to paſſe.

k Who was the chief among the reſt of the horſe men.

m That is, Chriſt the Mediator praied for the ſaluacion of his Church, which was now troubled when all the countreys about them were at reſt.

n Thogh for a time God differre his helpe and comfort from his Church, yet this declareth that he loueth them ſtil moſte derely, as a moſte merciful father his children, or an houſband his wife, and when it is expedient for them, his helpe is euer ready.

o In deſtroying the reprobat I ſhewed my ſelf, but a litle angtie toward my Church, but the enemie wolde haue deſtroied them alſo, and conſidered not the end of my chaſtiſements, p To meaſure out the buyldings.

q The abundance ſhalbe ſo great that the places of ſtore ſhal not be able to containe theſe bleſſings that God wil ſend, but ſhal euen breake for fulnes.

r Which ſignified all the enemies of the Church, Eaſt, Weſt, North, South.

ſ Theſe carpenters or ſmithes are Gods inſtruments, which with chier mallets and hammers breake theſe hard and ſtrong hornes, which wolde ouerthrowe the Church, and declare that none enemies horne is ſo ſtrong, but God hathe an hãmer to breake it in pieces.

a That is, ſ Angel who was Chriſt: for in reſpect of his office he is oft times called an Angel, but in reſpect of his eternal eſſence, is God and ſo called.

b Meaning him ſelf Zechariah.

c Signifying the ſpiritual Ieruſalẽ and Church vnder Chriſt, which ſhulde be extended by the Goſpel through all the worlde and ſhulde nede no material walles, nor truſt in any worldelie ſtregth, but ſhulde be ſafely preſerued &, dwell in peace among all their enemies.

d To defende my Church, to feare the enemies, and to deſtroy them if they approche nere.

e In me they ſhal haue their ful felicitie & glorie.

f He calleth to them, which partely for feare and partely for their owne eaſe remained ſtil in captiuitie, and ſo preferred their owne priuate commodities to the beneſites of God promiſed in his Church.

g As it was I that ſcattered you, ſo haue I power to reſtore you.

h By fleing from Babylon and coming to the Church.

this [i] glorie hathe he sent me vnto the nacions, which spoiled you: for he that toucheth you, toucheth the [k] apple of his eye.

9 For beholde, I wil lift vp mine hand [l] vpon them: and [m] they shal be a spoile to those that serued them, and ye shal knowe, that the Lord of hostes hathe [n] sent me.

10 Reioyce, and be glad, ô daughter Zion: for lo, I come and wil dwell in the middes of thee, saith the Lord.

11 And many nacions shalbe ioyned to ỹ Lord in that day, & shal be my people: and I wil dwell in the middes of thee, & thou shalt knowe that the Lord of hostes hathe sent me vnto thee.

12 And the Lord shal inherit Iudah his portion in the holy land, & shal chuse Ierusalem againe.

13 Let all flesh be stil before the Lord: for he is raisd vp out of his hoiy place.

i seing that God hathe becomne to shewe his grace amõg you by deliuering you, he continueth the same stil towarde you, and therefore sendeth me his Angel, & his Christ to defend you from your enemies, ỹ they shal not hurt you, nether by the way nor at home.

k Ye are so deare vnto God that he can no more suffer your enemies to hurt you, then a man can abide to be thrust in ỹ eye, Psal. 17, 8.

l Vpon ỹ heathen your enemies. m They shalbe your seruantes as you have bene theirs.

n This must necessarely be vnderstand of Christ, who being God equal with his Father was sent as he was Mediator to dwell in his Church, and to gouerne them.

CHAP. III.

A prophecie of Christ and of his kingdome.

1 And he shewed me Iehoshua the hie Priest, [a] stãding before the Angel of the Lord, and [b] Satan stode at his right hand to resist him.

2 And the [c] Lord said vnto Satan, The Lord reproue thee, ô Satan: euen the Lord that hathe chosen Ierusalem, reproue thee. Is not this a [d] brande taken out of the fyre?

3 Now Iehoshua was clothed with filthy garments, and stode before the Angel.

4 And he answered and spake vnto those that stode before him, saying, Take away the [e] filthy garments frõ him. And vnto him he said, Beholde, I haue [f] caused thine iniquitie to departe frõ thee, & I wil clothe thee with change of raiment.

5 And I said, Let thẽ [g] set a faire diademe vpon his head. So they set a faire diademe vpon his head, & clothed him with garments, and the Angel of the Lord stode by.

6 And the Angel of the Lord testified vnto Iehoshua, saying,

7 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, If thou wilt walke in my waies, & kepe my watche, thou shalt also [h] judge mine House, and shalt also kepe my [i] courtes, and I wil giue thee place among [k] these that stand by.

8 Heare now, ô Iehoshua ỹ hie Priest, thou & thy fellowes that sit before thee, for they [l] are monstruous persones: but beholde, I wil bring forthe the [m] Branche my seruant.

9 For lo the [n] stone that I haue laid [o] before Iehoshua: vpon one stone shalbe seuen eyes. beholde, I wil [p] cut out ỹ grauing thereof, saith the Lord of hostes, & I wil take [q] away the iniquitie of this land in one day.

10 In that day, saith ỹ Lord of hostes, shal ye call euerie man his neighbour vnder the [r] vine, and vnder the fig tree.

a He praied to Christ the Mediator for the state of the Church.

b Which declareth that the faithful haue not onely warre with flesh & blood, but with Satan him self & the spiritual wickednes, Eph. 6, 12.

c That is, Christ speaketh to God as the Mediator of his Church that he wolde rebuke Satan: and here he sheweth him self to be the continual preseruer of his Church.

d Meaning that Iehoshua was wõderfully preserued in the captiuitie, and now Satã soght to afflict & trouble him when he was doing his office

e In respect of ỹ glorious garments, and precious stones that the Priestes did weare before the captiuitie: and by this contemptible state the prophet signifieth that these smale beginnings shulde be made excellent when Christ shal make the ful restitution of his Church.

f He sheweth of what apparel he speaketh, ẅ is when our filthy sinnes are taken away and we are clad with Gods mercies which is meme of the spiritual restitution.

g The prophet praieth that besides the raiment the priest might also haue tyre for his head accordingly. that is, that the dignitie of the priesthode might be perfect: and this was fulfilled in Christ, who was bothe priest and King: and here all suche are condemned that can content them selues with any meane reformation in religion, seing the prophet desireth the perfection, and obteineth it.

h That is, haue rule and gouernement in my Church as they precede[s]sours haue had.

i Whereby he meaneth to haue the whole charge and ministerie of the Church.

k That is, the Angels who represented the whole nomber of the faithful: signifying that all the godlie shulde willingly receiue him.

l Because they followe my worde, thei are condemned in the worlde, & esteemed as monsters, Isa. 8, 18.

m That is, Christ, who did so humble him self, that not onely he became the seruant of God, but also the seruant of men: and therefore in him they shulde haue comfort, although in the worlde they were contemned, Isa. 11, 1. ierem. 23, 5. and 33, 14.

n He sheweth that the ministers can not buylde, before God lay the first stone, which is Christ, who is ful of eyes, bothe because he giueth light vnto all others, & that all ought to seke light at him, Chap 4, 10.

o That is, I wil make it profite in all pointes, as a thing wroght by the hand of God.

p. Though I haue punished this land for a time, yet I wil euen now be pacified, & visit their sinnes no more.

q Ye shal then liue in peace & quietnes, that is, in the kingdome of Christ, Isa. 2, 2. micah. 4, 4.

CHAP. IIII.

The vision of the golden candelsticke, & the exposition thereof.

1 And ỹ Angel that talked with me, came againe & waked me, as a man that is raised out of his slepe,

2 And said vnto me, What seest thou? And I said, I haue loked, & behold, a [a] candelsticke all of gold ẅ a bowle vpõ the top of it, & his seuẽ lampes therein, & seuen pipes to the [b] lampes, ẅ were vpon the top thereof.

3 And two oliue trees ouer it, one vpõ the right side of the bowle, & ỹ other vpon the left side thereof.

4 So I answered, & spake to ỹ Angel that talked with me, saying, What are these, my Lord?

5 Thẽ the Angel ỹ talked ẅ me, answered & said vnto me, Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my Lord.

6 Then he answered & spake vnto me, saying, This is ỹ worde of the Lord vnto [c] Zerubbabel saying, Nether by [d] an armie nor strength, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of hostes.

7 Who art thou, ô [e] great mountaine, before a Which was euer in the middes of the Tẽple, signifying ỹ the graces of Gods Spirit shal dessend there in moste abundance, & in all perfection.

b Which cõueied the oyle that dropped frõ the trees into ỹ lampes, so that the light neuer failed: & this vision was to confirme the faithful that God had sufficient power in him self to continue his graces, & to brig his promes to passe, though he had no help of man.

c Who was a figure of Christ & therefore this doctrine was d[i]rected to all ỹ Church who are his bodie & mẽbers d He sheweth ỹ Gods power onely is sufficient to preserue his Church, though he vse not mãs helpe thereunto.

e He coparetth ỹ power of ỹ aduersaries to a great mountaine, who thoght ỹ Iewes nothing in respect of them, & wolde haue hindred Zerubbabel who represented Christ whome the enemies daily labour to let in the buylding of his spiritual Temple, but all in vaine.

re Ze-

f Though the enemies thinke to ſtay this buylding, yet Zerubbabel ſhal lay ý hieſt ſtone thereof, and bring it to perfection, ſo that all the godlie ſhal reioyce, and pray vnto God that he wolde continue his grace, and fauour toward the temple.

g Meaning, the Prophet, that I am Chriſt ſent of my Father for ý buylding, & preſeruation of my ſpiritual Temple.

h Signifying ý all were diſcouraged at ý ſmale & poore beginnings of the Temple.

i Whereby he ſignifieth ý plúmet & line, that is, ý Zerubbabel which repreſented Chriſt, ſhulde go forward with his buylding to the ioye & comfort of ý godlie, though the worlde be againſt him, & though his for a while be diſcouraged, becauſe thei ſe not things pleaſant to ý eye. k That is, God hathe ſeuen eyes: meaning, a continual prouidence, ſo that nether Satan nor anie power in the worlde can go about or bring anie thing to paſſe to hinder his worke, Chap. 3. 9. l Which were euer grene & ful of oyle, ſo that ſtil they powred forthe oyle into the lãpes: ſignifying, ý God wil cotinually maintaine & preſerue his Church, & indue it ſtil with abundance and perfection of graces.

re Zerubbabel? thou ſhalt be a plaine, & f he ſhal bring forthe the head ſtone thereof, w ſhowtings, crying, Grace, grace vnto it.

7 Moreouer, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, ſaying,

9 The hands of Zerubbabel haue laid the fundacion of this houſe: his hands ſhal alſo finiſh it, and g thou ſhalt knowe that the Lord of hoſtes hathe ſent me vnto you.

10 For who hathe deſpiſed the day of the h ſmale things? but they ſhal reioyce, & ſhal ſe the ſtone of i tinne in the hand of Zerubbabel: k theſe ſeuẽ are the eies of the Lord, which go thorowe the whole worlde.

11 Then anſwered I, and ſaid vnto him, What are theſe two oliue trees vpõ the right and vpon the left ſide thereof?

12 And I ſpake moreouer, and ſaid vnto him, What be theſe two oliue branches, which thorowe the two golden pipes emptie themſelues into the golde?

13 And he anſwered me & ſaid, Knoweſt thou not what theſe be? And I ſaid, No, my Lord.

14 Then ſaid he, Theſe are the two l oliue branches, that ſtande with the ruler of the whole earth.

CHAP. V.

1 The viſion of the flying booke, ſignifying the curſe of theues, & ſuche as abuſe the Name of God. 6 By the viſion of the meaſure is ſignified the bringing of Iudahs afflictions into Babylon.

1 THen I turned me, & lift vp mine eyes and loked, & beholde, a flying booke.

2 And he ſaid vnto me, What ſeeſt ý? And I anſwered, I ſe a flying a booke: ý legth thereof is twentie cubites, & ý breadth thereof ten cubites.

3 Then ſaid he vnto me, This is the curſe that goeth forthe ouer ý whole earth: for euerie one that b ſtealeth, ſhalbe cut of aſwel on this c ſide, as on ý: & euerie one that d ſweareth, ſhal be cut of aſwel on this ſide, as on that.

4 I wil bring it forthe, ſaith the Lord of hoſtes, & it ſhal enter into the houſe of the thief, & into ý houſe of him, ý falſely ſweareth by my Name: & it ſhal remaine in the middes of his houſe, and ſhal conſume it, with the timbre thereof, & ſtones thereof.

5 Then ý Angel that talked with me, wẽt forthe, & ſaid vnto me, Lift vp now thine eyes, and ſe what is this that goeth forthe.

6 And I ſaid, What is it? And he ſaid, This is an e Ephah ý goeth forthe. He ſaid moreouer, This is ý f ſight of them, through all the earth.

7 And beholde, there was lift vp a g talẽt of lead: & this is a h woman that ſitteth in the middes of the Ephah.

8 And he ſaid, This is i wickednes, & he caſt it into the middes of the Ephah, & he caſt the weight of lead vpon ý mouth thereof.

9 Then lift I vp mine eyes, and loked: & beholde, there came out two b women, & ý winde was in their wings (for thei had wings like ý wings of a ſtorke) & they lift vp the Ephah betwene the earth & the heauen.

10 Then ſaid I to ý Angel ý talked with me, Whither do theſe beare the Ephah?

11 And he ſaid vnto me, l To buyld it an houſe in the land of Shinar, & it ſhalbe eſtabliſhed and ſet there vpon her owne place.

a Becauſe the Iewes had prouoked Gods plagues by contemning his worde, and caſting of all iudgement & equitie, he ſheweth that Gods curſes writte in this booke had iuſtely light bothe on them, & their fathers: but now if they wolde repent, God wolde ſend the ſame among the Caldeans their former enemies. b That is, vſeth any iniurie towarde his neighbour. c Meaning where ſoeuer he be in the worlde. d He that tranſgreſſeth the firſt table, and ſerueth not God aright, but abuſeth Gods Name.

e Which was a meaſure in dry things conteining about ten pottels.

f That is, all the wickednes of the vngodlie is in Gods ſight, who kepeth in a meaſure & can ſhut it or open it at his pleaſure.

g To couer the meaſure.

h Which repreſenteth iniquitie, as in the next verſe.

i Signifying ý Satan ſhulde not haue ſuche power againſt the Iewes to tempt them, as he had in time paſt, but that God wolde ſhut vp iniquitie in a meaſure as in a priſon.

k Which declared ý God wolde execute his iudgementes by remoue the iniquitie and afflictions that came for the ſame from the meanes of weake and infirme meanes. l To Iudah, to place it for euer in Babylon.

CHAP. VI.

By the foure charettes he deſcribeth the foure monarchies.

1 AGaine, I turned and lift mine eyes, and loked: and beholde, there came foure a charettes out from betwene b two mountaines, and the mountaines were mountaines of braſſe.

2 In the firſt charet were c red horſes, & in the ſeconde charet d blacke horſes,

3 And in ý thirde charet e white horſes, & in ý fourth charet, horſes of f diuers colours, and reddiſh.

4 Then I anſwered, & ſaid vnto the Angel that talked with me, What are theſe, my Lord?

5 And the Angel anſwered, & ſaid vnto me, Theſe are ý g foure ſpirits of ý heauen, which go forthe fro ſtanding with the Lord of all the earth.

a By charets here, as by horſes a fore, he meaneth ý ſwift meſſengers of God to execute and declare his wil.

b By the braſen mountaines he meaneth ý eternal counſel and prouidence of God, wherby he hathe from before all eternitie decreed what ſhal come to paſſe, & that w nether Satan nor all ý worlde can aker.

c Which ſignified the great cruelrie & proſecutione that the Church had indured vnder diuers enemies. d Signifying that they had indured great afflictions vnder the Babylonians. e Theſe repreſented their ſtate vnder the perſians which reſtored them to libertie. f Which ſignified that God wolde ſomtime giue his Church reſt, & powre his plagues vpon their enemies, as he did in deſtroying Nineueh & Babylon, and other their enemies. g Meaning, all the actions & motions of Gods Spirit, which according to his inchangeable counſel he cauſeth to appeare through all the worlde.

6 That with the blacke horse wēt forthe into the land of the North, & the white went out after them, & they of diuers colours went forthe towarde the[h] South countrey.

7 And the[i] reddish went out, & required to go, & passe through the worlde, and he said, Go passe through the worlde. So they went thorowout the worlde.

8 Then cryed he vpon me, & spake vnto me, saying, Beholde, these ỹ go towarde the North countrey, haue pacified my [k] spirit in the North countrey.

9 And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

10 Take of them of the captiuitie, euen of Heldai, & of Tobiiah, and Iedaiah, which arē come from Babel, and come thou the same day, and go vnto the house[l] of Iosiah, the sonne of Zephaniah.

11 Take euen siluer, and golde, & make crownes, & set them vpon the [m] head of Iehoshua, the sonne of Iehozadak the hie Priest, 12 And speake vnto him, saying, Thus speaketh the Lord of hostes, and saith, Beholde the man whose name is the [n] Branche, and he shal growe [o] vp out of his place, & he shal [p] buylde the Temple of the Lord.

13 Euen he shal buylde the Temple of ỹ Lord, and he shal beare the[q] glorie, and shal sit and rule vpon his throne, and he shalbe a Priest vpō his throne, and the counsel of peace shalbe betwene [r] them bothe.

14 And the crownes shalbe to [s] Helem, & to Tobiiah and to Iedaiah, and to[t] Hen the sonne of Zephaniah for a [v] memorial in the Temple of the Lord.

15 And thei that are [x] farre of, shal come & buyld in the Temple of the Lord, & ye shal know, that the Lord of hostes hathe sent me vnto you. And this shal come to passe, if ye wil [y] obey the voyce of the Lord your God.

h That is, toward Egypt, and other countreies there about.

i That is, they of diuers colours, w̄ aske leaue, to signifie ỹ Sathan hathe no power to hurt or afflict til God giue it hī, Iob. 1.12.

k By punishing the Caldeans mine anger ceased, and you were deliuered.

l To receiue of him and the other three, money to make the two crowns: w̄ were men of great authoritie among ỹ Iewes, and douted of the restitution of ỹ Kingdome & of the Priesthode, and hurt others by their example.

m Because this colde not be attributed to anie one according to the Law, therefore it followeth that Iehoshua must represente the Messiah who was bothe Priest & King.

n Meaning, Christ, of whome Iehoshua was the figure: for in Greke they were bothe called Iesus.

o That is, of him self without the helpe of man.

p Which declareth that none colde buylde this Temple, whereof Haggai speaketh, but only Christ: & therefore is spiritual, & not material, Hag. 2, 10.

q Whereof Iehoshua had but a shadowe.

r The two offices of the kingdome, & priesthode shalbe so ioyned together, that they shalbe no more disseuered s Who was also called Heldai.

t He also was called Iosiah.

v That they made acknowledge their infirmitie, which loked that all things shulde haue bene restored incontinently: & of this their infidelitie these two crownes shal remaine as tokens, Act. 1.6.

x That is, the Gentiles by the preaching of the Gospel shal helpe towarde the buylding of his spiritual Temple.

y If ye wil beleue & remaine in the obedience of faith.

CHAP. VII.

5 The true fasting. 11 The rebellion of the people is the cause of their affliction.

1 AND in the fourth yere of King Darius, the worde of ỹ Lord came vnto Zechariah in the fourth day of ỹ ninth moneth, euen in [a] Chisleu.

a Which conteined parte of November & parte of Decembar.

2 For[b] thei had sent vnto ỹ House of God Sharezer, and Regem-melech & their men to praye before the Lord,

3 And to speake vnto ỹ Priests, which were in the House of the Lord of hostes, and to the Prophetes, saying, Shulde I wepe in the fifte moneth, and [d] separate my self as I haue done these so manie yeres?

4 Then came the worde of ỹ Lord of hostes vnto me, saying.

5 Speake vnto all the people of the land, & to the [e] Priests, and say, When ye fasted, & mourned in the fifte & seuenth moneth, euen these seuentie yeres, did ye fast vnto me?[g] do I approue it?

6 And when ye did eat, and when ye did drinke, did ye not eat[h] for your selues, & drinke for your selues?

7 Shulde ye not heare the wordes, which the Lord [i] hathe cryed by the ministerie of the former Prophetes when Ierusalem was inhabited, and in prosperitie, and the cities thereof roūde about her, when the South and the plaine was inhabited?

8 And the worde of the Lord came vnto Zechariah, saying,

9 Thus speaketh ỹ Lord of hostes, saying, [k] Execute true iudgement, & shewe mercie and compassion, euerie man to his brother,

10 And oppresse not ỹ widowe, nor ỹ fatherles, the stranger nor the poore, & let none of you imagine euil against his brother in your heart.

11 But they refused to hearken, & [l] pulled away the shulder, & stopped their eares, that they shulde not heare.

12 Yea, thei made their hearts as an adamāt stone, lest they shulde heare ỹ Lawe & the wordes which the Lord of hostes sent in his [m] Spirit by the ministerie of the former Prophetes: therefore came a great wrath from the Lord of hostes.

13 Therefore it is come to passe, that as he cryed, and they wolde not heare, so they cryed, & I wolde not heare, saith the Lord of hostes.

14 But I scattered thē among all ỹ natiōs, whome they knewe not: thus ỹ land was desolate [n] after them, that no mā passed through nor returned: for they laid the pleasant land [o] waste.

b That is, the rest of the people ỹ remained yet in Caldea, sent to ỹ Church at Ierusalē for the resolution of these questions, because these feasts were cōsented vpō by the agremēt of the whole Church, the one in the moneth, ỹ the Temple was destroyed, & the other when Gedaliah was slaine, Iere. 41, 2.

c By weping, & mourning appeare what exercises thei vsed in their fasting.

d That is, prepare my self with all deuotiō to this fast.

e Which was now since the time the Temple was destroyed.

f For there were bothe of the people, and of the Priests, which douted as touching this cōtrouersie, besides thē which as yet remained in Caldea, and reasoned of it as of one of the chief points of their religion.

g For they thoght they had deserued toward God because of this fast, which they inuented of the selues: & thogh fasting of it self be good, yet because they thoght it a seruice towarde God, and trusted therein, it is here reproued.

h Did ye not eat, and drinke for your owne commoditie, & necessitie, and so likewise ye did abstaine according to your owne fantasies, and not after the prescript of my Law?

i Hereby he condemneth their hypocrisie, which thoght by their fasting to please God, and by suche things as they inuented, and in the meane season wolde not serue him as he had commanded.

k He sheweth, that thei did not fast with a syncere heart, bur for an hypocrisie, and that it was not done of a pure religion, because that they lacked these offices of charitie, which shulde haue declared that thei were godlie. Mat. 23, 23.

l And wolde not eary the Lords burden, which was swete & easy, but wolde beare their owne, w̄ was heauie & grieuous to the flesh, thinking to merit thereby: w̄ similitude is taken of oxen, w̄ shrinke at the yoke, Nehem. 9, 29.

m Which declareth, ỹ they rebelled not onely agtinst ỹ prophetes but against ỹ Spirit of God that spake in them.

n That is, after they were caryed captiue.

o By their sinnes whereby they prouoked Gods angre.

CHAP. VIII.

2 Of the returne of the people vnto Ierusalem, and of the mercie of God towarde them. 16 Of good workes. 20 The calling of the Gentiles.

1 AGaine the worde of the Lord of hostes came to me, saying,
2 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, I was [a] ielous for Zion with great ielousie, & I was ielous for her with great wrath.
3 Thus saith the Lord, I wil returne vnto Zion, and wil dwell in the middes of Ierusalem, and Ierusalem shalbe called a [b] citie of trueth, and the Mountaine of the Lord of hostes, the holie Mountaine.
4 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, There shal yet olde [c] men & olde womē dwell in the stretes of Ierusalem, and euerie man with his staffe in his hand for very age.
5 And the stretes of the citie shalbe ful of boyes and girles, playing in the stretes thereof.
6 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Though it be [d] vnpossible in the eyes of ỹ remnant of this people in these dayes, shulde it therefore be vnpossible in my sight, saith the Lord of hostes?
7 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Behold, I wil deliuer my people from ỹ East countrey, and from the West countrey.
8 And I wil bring them, and they shal [e] dwell in the middes of Ierusalem, and they shal be my people, and I wil be their God in trueth and in righteousnes.
9 Thus saith ỹ Lord of hostes, Let your [f] hands be strong, ye that heare in these dayes these wordes by the mouth of the Prophetes, which were in the day, that the fundacion of the House of ỹ Lord of hostes was laide, ỹ the Temple might be buylded.
10 For before these dayes there was no hier for [g] man nor anie hier for beast, nether was there anie peace to him that went out or came in because of the affliction: for I set all men, euerie one against his neighbour.
11 But now, I wil not intreate the residue of this people as afore time, saith ỹ Lord of hostes.
12 For the sede shalbe prosperous: the vine shal giue her frute, and the grounde shal giue her increase, & the heauēs shal giue their dewe, & I wil cause the remnant of this people to possesse all these things.
13 And it shal come to passe, that as ye were a curse among the heathen, ô house of Iudah, and house of Israel, so wil I deliuer you, & ye shalbe a blessing: feare not, but let your hands be strong.
14 For thus saith the Lord of hostes, As I thoght to punish [h] you: when your fathers prouoked me vnto wrath, saith ỹ Lord of hostes, and repented not,
15 So againe haue I determined in these dayes [i] to do wel vnto Ierusalem, and to the house of Iudah: feare ye not.
16 These are the things that ye shal do. Speake ye euerie man the trueth vnto his neighbour: execute iudgement truely and vprightly in your gates, 17 And let none of you imagine euil in your hearts against his neighbour, and loue no false othe: for all these are the things that I hate, saith the Lord.
18 And the worde of the Lord of hostes came vnto me, saying,
19 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, The fast of the fourthe moneth, and the fast of the fifte, and the fast of the seuenth, and the fast of the [k] tenth, shal be to the house of Iudah ioye and gladnes, and prosperous hie feastes: therefore loue ỹ trueth and peace.
20 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, That there shal yet come [l] people, and the inhabitants of great cities.
21 And they that dwell in one citie, shal go to another, saying, *Vp, let vs go and pray before the Lord, & seke the Lord of hostes: I wil go also.
22 Yea, great people and mightie nations shal come to seke the Lord of hostes in Ierusalem, and to pray before the Lord.
23 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, In those dayes shal ten men take holde out of all langages of ỹ nacions, euen take holde of the skirt of him that is a Iewe, and say, We wil go with you: for we haue heard, that God is with you.

CHAP. IX.

1 The threatening of the Gentiles. 9 The comming of Christ.

1 THe burden of the worde of ỹ Lord in the land of [a] Hadrach: and Damascus shalbe his [b] rest: when the [c] eyes of man, euen of all the tribes of Israel shalbe toward the Lord.
2 And Hamath also shal border [d] thereby: Tyrus also and Zidon, though they be [e] verie wise.
3 For Tyrus did buylde her self a strōg holde, and heaped vp siluer as the dust, & golde as the myre of the streates.
4 Beholde, the Lord wil spoile her, and he wil smite her [f] power in the sea, and a I loued my citie ✠ a singular loue, so that I colde not abide ỹ anie shulde do her anie iniurie.

b Because she shalbe faithful, and loyal towarde me her housband.
c Though their enemies did greatly molest & trouble them, yet God wolde come, and dwell among them, & so preserue thē so log as nature wolde suffer thē to liue, and increase their childrē in great abundance.
d He sheweth wherein our faith standeth, ỹ is, to beleue ỹ God can performe that ✠ he hathe promised though it seme neuer so vnpossible to man, Rom. 4, 20.
e So that their returne shal not be in vaine: for God wil accomplish his promes, and their prosperitie shal be sure and stable.
f Let nether respect of your priuate cōmodities, nether counsel of others, nor feare of enemies discourage you in the going forwarde with the buylding of the Temple, but be constant & obei the Propheres, ✠ incourage you thereunto.
g For God cursed your worke, so ỹ nether man nor beast had profite of their labours.

h Read Ezek. 18, 20.

i Which declareth, ỹ man can not turne to God til he chāge mans heart by his Spirit, & so beginne to do well, which is to pardon his sinnes & to giue him his grace.

k Which fast was appointed when the citie was beseged, & was ỹ first fast of these foure: and here ỹ prophet sheweth, ỹ if ỹ Iewes wil repent, and turne wholy to God, they shal haue no more occasiō to fast, or to shewe signes of heauines: for God wil send them ioy & gladnes.
l He declareth the great zeale that God shuld giue the Gentiles to come to his Church and to ioyne with ỹ Iewes in his true religion, ✠ shulde be in the kingdome of Christ. Isa. 2, 2. mic. 4, 1.

a Whereby he meaneth Syria.
b Gods angre shal abide vpō their chief citie, and not spare so muche as that.
c When the Iewes shal cōuert and repent, thē God wil destroye their enemies.
d That is, by Damascus: meaning that Hamath or Antiochia shulde be vnder the same rod and plague.
e He secretly sheweth the cause of their destruction, because they deceiued all other by their craft, and subtiltie, which they cloked with this name of wisdome.
f Though they of Tyrus thinke them selues inuincible by reason of the sea, that compasseth them round about, yet they shal not escape Gods iudgemēts.

she shal be deuoured with fyre.

5 Askelon shal se it, and feare, & Azzah also shalbe verie sorowful, & Ekrō: for her countenance shalbe ashamed, & ȳ King shal perish from Azzah, & Askelon shal not be inhabited.

6 And the [g] stranger shal dwell in Ashdod, and I wil cut of the pride of the Philistims.

7 And I wil take away his blood out of his mouth, and his abominacions from betwene his [h] teeth: but he that remaineth, euen he shalbe for our God, & he shalbe as a prince in Iudah, but [i] Ekron shalbe as a Iebusite.

8 And I wil campe about [k] mine House against the armie against him that passeth by, and against him that returneth, and no oppressour shal come vpō them anie more: for now [l] haue I sene with mine eyes.

9 Reioyce greatly, ô daughter Zion: shoute for ioye, ô daughter Ierusalem: beholde, thy King cometh vnto thee: [m] he is iuste and saued, poore and riding vpon an [n] asse, and vpon a colte the foale of an asse.

10 And I wil cut of the [e] charrets from Ephraim, and the horse from Ierusalem: the bowe of the battel shalbe broken, and he shal speake peace vnto the heathen, & his dominion shalbe from [p] sea and from the [q] riuer to the end of ȳ lād.

11 [r] Thou also shalt be saued through the blood of thy couenant. I haue loosed thy [s] prisoners out of the pit wherein is no water.

12 Turne you to the [t] strong holde, ye [v] prisoners of hope: euen to day do I declare, that I wil render the [x] double vnto thee.

13 For Iudah haue I [y] bent as a bowe for me: Ephraims hand haue I filled, and I haue raised vp thy sonnes, ô Zion, against thy sonnes, ô Grecia, and haue made thee as a gyants sworde.

14 And the Lord shalbe sene ouer them, & his arrowe shal go forthe as ȳ lightning: and the Lord God shal blowe the trumpet, and shal come forthe with the whirlewindes of the South.

15 The Lord of hostes shal defend them, & they shal deuoure them, [z] and subdue them with sling stones, and they shal drinke, & make a noyse as thorowe wine, and they shalbe filled like bowles, & as the hornes of the altar.

16 And the Lord their God shal deliuer them in that day as ȳ flocke of his people: for they shalbe as the [a] stones of the crowne lifted vp vpon his land.

17 For how great is his goodnes? & how great is his beautie? corne shal make ȳ yong men chereful, & new wine ȳ maides.

CHAP. X.

1 The vanitie of idolatrie. 3 The Lord promiseth to visite & comforte the house of Israel.

1 Aske you of the [a] Lord raine in the time of the latter raine: so shal the Lord make white cloudes, and giue you showres of raine, & to euerie one grasse in the field.

2 Surely [b] the idoles haue spoken vanitie, & the sothsayers haue sene a lie, and the dreamers haue tolde a vaine thing: they comfort in vaine: therefore [c] they went away as shepe: they were troubled, because there was no shepherd.

3 My wrath was kindled against ȳ shepherds & I did visite the [d] goates: but ȳ Lord of hostes wil visite his flocke the house of Iudah, & wil make thē as [e] his beautiful horse in the battel.

4 Out [f] of him shal the corner come forth: out of him the naile, out of him the bowe of battel, & out of him euery [g] appointer of tribute also.

5 And they shalbe as the mightie men, which treade downe their enemies in the myre of the stretes in the battel, & they shal fight, because the Lord is [h] them, & the riders on horses shalbe confounded.

6 And I wil strengthen the house of Iudah, and I wil preserue the house [i] of Ioseph, and I wil bring them againe, for I pitie them: and they shalbe as though I had not cast them of: for I am the Lord their God, and wil heare them.

7 And they of Ephraim shalbe as a gyant, and their heart shal reioyce as thorowe wine: yea, their children shal se it, & be glad: [k] their heart shal reioyce in the Lord.

g Meaning, that all shulde be destroyed saue a verie fewe, ȳ shulde remaine as strangers.

h He promiseth to deliuer the Iewes when he shal take vengeance on their enemies for their crueltie, and wrongs done to them.

i As the Iebusites had bene destroyed, so shulde Ekron and all ȳ Philistims.

k He sheweth ȳ Gods power onely shalbe sufficiēt to defend his Church against all aduersaries be thei neuer so cruel or assemble their power neuer so often.

l That is, God hathe now sene the great iniuries and afflictions wherewith they haue bene afflicted by their enemies.

m That is, he hathe righteousnes, and saluation in him self for the vse & commoditie of his Church.

n Which declareth that thei shulde not loke for suche a King as shulde be glorious in ȳ eyes of mā but shulde be poore, & yet in him self haue all power to deliuer his: & this is ment of Christ, as Mat 21.5. o

No power of man or creature shalbe able to let ȳ kingdome of Christ, and he shal peaceably gouerne them by his worde.

p That is, from the red sea, to the sea called Syriacum: and by these places which ȳ Iewes knewe, he ment an infinite space and compasse ouer the whole worlde.

q That is, from Euphrates.

r Meaning, Ierusalem or the Church which is saued, by the blood of Christ whereof the bloodof the sacrifices was a figure, & is here called the couenant of the Church because God made it with his Church, & left it with them for the Ioue that he bare vnto them.

s God sheweth ȳ he wil deliuer his Church out of all dangers, seme they neuer so great.

t That is, into ȳ holie land where ȳ citie & the Temple are, where God wil defend you.

v Meaning ȳ faithful, wh̄ semed to be in dāger of their enemies on euerie side, & yet lined in hope ȳ God wolde restore thē to libertie.

x That is, double benefites, & prosperitie in respect of that which your fathers enioyed from Dauids time to ȳ captiuitie.

y I wil make Iudah & Ephraim, that is, my whole Church, victorious against all enemies, which he here meaneth by the Grecias.

z He promiseth that the Iewes shal destroye their enemies and haue abundance, and excesse of all thigs, as there is abundance on ȳ altar when the sacrifice is effred. Which things are not to moue them to intemperacie, but to sobrietie, & a thankful remembrance of preserued, & repelled to esteme them: for Gods glorie shal shine in them as Iosephus declareth of Alexander the great when he met Iadi the hie priest.

a The prophet reproueth the Iewes because by their owne infidelitie thei put backe Gods graces promised, & so famine came by Gods iuste iudgment: therefore to auoide this plague he willeth them to turne to God, & to pray in faith to him, and so he wil giue thē abundance.

b He calleth to remembrance Gods punishments in times past because they trusted not in him, but in their idoles and sorcerers who euer deceiued them.

c That is, ȳ Iewes went into captiuitie.

d Meaning, the cruel gouernours wh̄ did oppresse the poore shepe, Ezek. 34,17.

e He wil be merciful to his Church & cherish them as a King or Prince doeth his best horse which shalbe [m] for his owne vse in the warre.

Gods great liberalitie.

a The faithful shal be reuerenced of all, that the verie enemies shalbe compelled to esteme them: for Gods glorie shal shine in them as Iosephus declareth of Alexander the great when he met Iadi the hie priest.

f Out of Iudah shal the chief gouernour procede, who shal be as a corner to vpholde the buylding & as a naile to fasten it together.

g Ouer their enemies.

h That is, the ten tribes, which shulde be gathered vnder Christ to the rest of the Churche.

8 I wil [i] hisse for them, and gather thē: for I haue redemed them: and they shal encrease, as they haue encreased.
9 And I wil [k] sowe them among ỹ people, and they shal remember me in farre countreis: & thei shal liue with their children and [l] turne againe.
10 I wil bring them againe also out of ỹ land of Egypt & gather them out of Asshur: and I wil bring them into the land of Gilead, and Lebanon, & place shal not be founde for them.
11 And he [m] shal go into the sea with affliction, and shal smite the waues in the sea, and all the depthes of the riuer shal drye vp: and the pride of Asshur shalbe cast downe, and the sceptre of Egypt shal departe away.
12 And I wil strēgthen them in ỹ Lord, and they shal walke in his Name, saith the Lord.

i Whereby he declareth ỹ power of God who nedeth no great preparation when he wil deliuer his: for with a becke or hisse he can call them from all places suddenly.
k Though they shal yet be scattered and seme to be lost, yet it shalbe profitable vnto thē: for there thei shal come to ỹ knowledge of my Name, which was accomplished vnder the Gospel, among whome it was first preached.
l Not that they shulde returne into their countrey, but be gathered and ioyned in one faith by the doctrine of the Gospel. m He alludeth to the deliuerance of the people out of Egypt where as the Angel smote the floods and riuers.

CHAP. XI.

1 The destruction of the Temple. 4 The care of the faithful u cōmitted to Christ. 7 A grieuous vision against Ierusalem and Iudah.

1 OPen thy dores, ô [a] Lebanon, and the fyre shal deuoure thy cedres.
2 Houle, [b] fyrre trees: for the cedre is fallen because all the mightie are destroyed: houle ye, ô okes of Bashan, for the [c] defensed forest is cut downe.
3 There is the voyce of the housing of the shepherds: for their [d] glorie is destroyed: the voyce of the roaring of lyons whelpes: for the pride of Iorden is destroyed.
4 Thus saith the Lord my God, Fede ỹ shepe of the [e] slaughter.
5 They that possesse them, slaye them [f] and sinne not: and thei that sell them, say, [g] Blessed be the Lord: for I am riche, & their owne shepherds spare them not.
6 Surely I wil no more spare those that dwell in the land, saith the Lord: but lo, [h] I wil deliuer the men euerie one into his neighbours hand, and into the hand of his [i] King: and they shal smite ỹ land, and out of their hands I wil not deliuer them.
7 For I fed the shepe of slaughter, euen the [k] poore of the flocke, & I toke vnto me [l] two staues: the one I called, Beautie, & the other I called, Bandes, and I fed the shepe.
8 [m] Three shepherdes also I cut of in one moneth, & my soule lothed [n] them, and their soule abhorred me.
9 Then said I, I wil not fede you: ỹ that dyeth, let it dye: & that that perisheth, let it perish: & let the remnant eat, euerie one the fleish of his neighbour.
10 And I toke my staffe, euen Beautie, & brake it, that I might disanul my couenant, which I had made with all people.
11 And it was broken in that day: and so the [o] poore of the shepe that waited vpon me knewe that it was the worde of the Lord.
12 And I said vnto them, If ye thinke it good, giue me [p] my wages: and if no, leaue of: so they weighed for my wages thirtie pieces of siluer.
13 And the Lord said vnto me, Cast it vnto the [q] potter: a goodlie price, that I was valued at of them. And I toke the thirtie pieces of siluer, and cast them to the potter in the House of the Lord.
14 Then brake I mine other staffe, euen the Bandes, that I might dissolue the brotherhode betwene Iudah and Israel.
15 And the Lord said vnto me, Take to thee yet [r] the instruments of a foolish shepherd.
16 For lo, I wil raise vp a shepherd in ỹ land, ỹ shal not loke for the thing, that is lost, nor seke the tender lambes, nor heale that that is hurt, nor fede ỹ that [f] standeth vp: but he shal eat the fleish of the fat, and teare their clawes in pieces.
17 O idole shepherd that leaueth ỹ flocke: the sworde shalbe vpon his [b] arme, & vpō his right eye. His arme shalbe cleane dryed vp, and his right eye shal be vtterly darkened.

a Because ỹ Iewes thoght thē selues, so strōg by reason of this mountaine, that no enemie colde come to hurt them, the prophet sheweth that when God sendeth ỹ enemies, it shal shewe it self ready to receiue them.
b Shewing that if ỹ strong men were destroied, ỹ the weaker were not able to resist.
c Seing ỹ Lebanon was destroied, ỹ was ỹ strongest munition, ỹ weaker places colde not thinke to holde out.
d That is, ỹ renoume of Iud ah and Israel shulde perish.
e Which being now destinate to be slayne, were deliuered as out of the lions mouthe. f Their gouernours destroie them without any remorce of conscience, or yet thinking that they do euil. g He noteth the hypocrites, which euer haue the Name of God in their mouthes, though in their life & doings thei deate God, attributing their gaine to Gods blessing, ỹ cometh of ỹ spoile of their brethre. h I wil cause one to destroy another. i Their gouernours shal execute cruelties ouer thē. k That is the smale remnant, whome he thoght worthie to shewe mercie vnto.
l I God sheweth his great benefites towarde his people to conuince them of greater ingratitude, ỹ wolde nether be ruled by his moste beautiful order of gouernement, nether continue in the bandes of brotherlie vnitie, and therefore he breaketh bothe the one and ỹ other. Some read, for Bādes, Destroiers, but in the 14. verse ỹ first reading is confirmed.
m Whereby he sheweth his care and diligence that he wolde suffer them to haue no euil rulers, because they shulde cōsider his great loue.
n Meaning the people, because they wolde not acknowledge these great benefites of God.
o He sheweth that the least parte euer profit by Gods iudgements.
p Besides their ingratitude God accuseth them of malice and wickednes, ỹ did not onely forget his benefites, but esteemed them as things of noght.
q Shewing that it was to litle to pay his wages, which colde scarse suffice to make a fewe tiles for to couer the Temple. r Signifying, that thei shulde haue a certeine kinde of regiment, and ourwarde shewe of gouernement: but in effect it shulde be nothing: for they shulde be wolues, & deuouring beasts in stead of shepherds.
s And is in health & sounde. t By the arme he signifieth strength, as he doeth wisdome and iudgement by the eye: that is the plague of God shal take away both thy strength and iudgement.

CHAP. XII.

Of the destruction and buylding againe of Ierusalem.

1 THe burden of the worde of ỹ Lord vpon [a] Israel, saith the Lord, which spred the heauēs, & layed the foundacion of the earth, and formed the spirit of man within him.
2 Beholde, I wil make Ierusalem a [b] cuppe of poyson vnto all the people rounde about: and also with Iudah wil he be, a That is, ỹ ten tribes, ỹ neglected Gods benefite in deliuering their brethren, & had rather remaine in captiuitie, then to returne home, when God called them.

Chap. XII.
b Ierusalem shalbe defended against all her enemies: so shal God defend all Iudah also, and shal destroye the enemies.

in the siege against Ierusalem.

3 And in that day wil I make Ierusalē an heauie stone for all people: all that lift it vp, shalbe torne, though all ỹ people of the earth be gathered together against it.

4 In that day, saith the Lord, I wil smite euery horse with stonishment, & his rider with madnes, & I wil open mine eyes vpon the house of Iudah, & wil smite euery horse of ỹ people with blindnes.

5 And the princes of Iudah shal say in their hearts, The [c] inhabitants of Ierusalem shalbe my strength in the Lord of hostes their God.

6 In that day wil I make the princes of Iudah like coles of fyre among ỹ wood, & like a fyre brande in the sheafe, and they shal deuoure all the people rounde about on the right hand, & on the left: & Ierusalem shalbe inhabited againe in her owne place, euen in Ierusalem.

7 The Lord also shal preserue the [d] tentes of Iudah, as afore time: therefore the glorie of the house of Dauid shal not boast, nor the glorie of the inhabitants of Ierusalem against Iudah.

8 In that day shal the Lord defende the inhabitants of Ierusalem, and he that is feble among them, in that daye shalbe as Dauid: and the house of Dauid shalbe as gods house, & as the Angel of ỹ Lord before them.

9 And in that day wil I seke to destroye all the nacions that come against Ierusalem.

10 And I wil powre vpon the house of Dauid, and vpon the inhabitants of Ierusalem the Spirit of [e] grace and of cōpassion, & they shal loke vpō me, whome they haue [f] perced, and they shal lament for him, as one mourneth for his onelie sonne, and be sorie for him as one is sorie for his first borne.

11 In ỹ day shal there be a great mourning in Ierusalem: as the [h] mourning of [i] Hadadrimmon in the valley of Megiddon.

12 And the [k] land shal bewaile euerie familie a [l] parte, the familie of the [m] house of Dauid a parte, & their wiues a parte: the familie of the house of Nathan a parte, and their wiues a parte:

13 The familie of ỹ house of Leui a parte, & their wiues a parte: the familie of [n] Shemei a parte, & their wiues a parte:

14 All the families that [o] remaine, euery familie a parte, & their wiues a parte.

c Euerie captaine, that had many vnder hī afore, shal now thinke that the smale power of Ierusalē shalbe sufficient to defend them against all enemies, because the Lord is among them.

d The people ẅ are now as it were dispersed by ỹ fields, and lie open to their enemies, shalbe no lesse preserued by my power, then if they were vnder their Kings (ẅ is ment by ỹ house of Dauid) or in their defensed cities.

e They shal haue ỹ feeling of my grace by faith, & knowe ỹ I haue cōpassion on them.

f That is, whome they haue continually vexed with their obstinacie, and gricued my Spirit, Iohn. 19, 38. where it is referred to Christs bodie, ẅ here is referred to the Spirit of God.

g They shal turne to God by true repentance, whome before they had so grieuously offended by their ingratitude.

h They shal lament and repēt excedingly for their offences against God.

i Which was ỹ name of a towne and place nere to Megid do where Iosiah was slayne, 2. Chro. 35, 22.

k That is, in all places where the Iewes shal remaine.

l Signifying that this mourning or repentance shulde not be a vaine ceremonie: but euery one touched with his owne grief shal lament.

m Vnder these certeine families he conteineth all the tribes, & sheweth that bothe the Kings & ỹ Priests had by their sinnes perced Christ.

n Called also Simeon.

o To wit, which were elect by grace, & preserued from the commune destruction.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Of the fountaine of grace. 2 Of the cleane riddance of idolatrie. 3 The zeale of the godlie against false prophetes.

1 IN that day there [a] shalbe a fountaine opened to the house of Dauid, and to the inhabitants of Ierusalem, for sinne & for vnclennes.

2 And in that day, saith the Lord of hostes, I wil cut of the [b] names of the idoles out of the land: & they shal no more be remembred: and I wil cause the [c] prophetes, & the vncleane spirit to departe out of the land.

3 And when anie shal yet [d] prophecie, his father & his mother ỹ begate him, shal say vnto him, Thou shalt not liue: for thou speakest lies in the Name of ỹ Lord: & his father & his mother ỹ begate him, [e] shal thrust him through, whē he prophecieth.

4 And in that daye shal the Prophetes [f] be ashamed euerie one of his vision, when he hathe prophecied: nether shal thei weare a rough garment to deceiue.

5 But he shal say, I am no [g] Prophet: I am an housband man: for man taught me to be an herdman frō my youth vp.

6 And one shal say vnto him, What are these [h] woundes in thine hands? The he shal answere, Thus was I wounded in ỹ house of my friends.

7 ¶ Arise, ô sworde, vpon my [i] shepherd, & vpon the man, that is my fellow, saith ỹ Lord of hostes: smite the shepherd, & the shepe shalbe scattred: & I wil turne mine hand vpon the litle ones.

8 And in all the lād, saith the Lord, [k] two partes therein shalbe cut of, & dye: but ỹ third shalbe left therein.

9 And I wil bring that third parte thorow the fyre, & wil fine them as ỹ siluer is fined, & wil trye thē as golde is tryed: they shal call on my Name, & I wil heare them: I wil say, It is my people, and they shal say, The Lord is my God.

a He sheweth what shal be ỹ frute of their repentance, to wit, remission of sinnes by the blood of Christ, ẅ shalbe a continual running fountaine, and purge thē from all vnclennes.

b He promiseth ỹ God wil also purge them frō all superstition & that their religiō shalbe pure.

c Meaning, the false prophets and teachers, who are ỹ corrupters of all religion, whome the prophet here calleth vncleane spirits.

d That is, when they shal prophecie lies and make God, who is the autor of trueth, a cloke thereunto.

e He sheweth what zeale the godlie shal haue vnder the kingdome of Christ Deut 13, 6.

f God shal make them ashamed of their errors and lies & bring them to repentance, and they shal no more weare prophetes apparel to make their doctrine seme more holy.

g They shal cōfesse their former ignorance, & be content to labour for their liuing.

h Hereby he sheweth that though their parents and friends dele more gently with them, and put them not to death: yet they wolde so punish their children, that became false prophetes, that the markes & signes shulde remaine for euer.

i The Prophet warneth the Iewes, that before this great comfort shulde come vnder Christ, there shulde be an horrible dissipacion among the people: for their gouernours and pastors shulde be destroyed, & the people shulde be as scattered shepe: and the Euangelist applieth this to Christ, because he was the head of all Pastours, Matt. 26, 31.

k The greatest parte shal haue no porcion of these blessings, and yet they that shal enioye thē, shalbe tryed with great afflictions, so that it shalbe knowen that onely Gods power and his mercies do preserue them.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 Of the doctrine that shal procede out of the Church, & of the restauration thereof.

1 BEholde, ỹ day of the Lord cometh, and thy spoyle shal be [a] diuided in a He armeth ỹ godlie against ỹ great tentacios, ỹ shulde come, before thei enioyed this prosperous estate promised vnder Christ, that whē these dangers shulde come, they might knowe that they were warned of them afore.

the middes of thee.
2 For I wil gather all nations against Ierusalem to battel, and the citie shalbe taken, & the houses spoyled, & the women defiled, & half of the citie shal go into captiuitie, & the residue of ỹ people shal not be cut off from the citie.
3 Then shal the Lord go forthe, & fight against those nacions, as when [b]he foght in the day of battel.
4 And his fete shal stand in that day vpon the [c] mount of oliues, ẅ is before Ierusalem on the East side, and the mount of oliues shal cleaue in the middes thereof: toward the East & towarde ỹ West there shalbe a very great[d] valley, & halfe of the mountaine shal remoue towarde the North, & halfe of the mountaine towarde the South.
5 And ye shal flee vnto the [e] valley of ỹ mountaines: for the valley of the mountaines shal reache vnto Azal: yea, ye shal flee like as ye fled from the [f] earthquake in the dayes of Vzziah King of Iudah: & the Lord [g] my God shal come & all the Saintes with thee.
6 And in that day shal there be no cleare light, but darke.
7 And there shalbe a day (it is knowen to the Lord) [h] neither day nor night, but about the euening time it shalbe light.
8 And in that day shal there [i] waters of life go out from Ierusalem, halfe of thẽ towarde the East sea, & halfe of them towarde the vttermost sea, & shalbe, bothe in somer and winter.
9 And the Lord shalbe King ouer all the earth: in ỹ day shal there be one [k] Lord, and his Name shalbe one.
10 All the land shalbe turned [l] as a plaine from Geba to Rimmon, towarde the South of Ierusalem, and it shalbe lifted vp, & inhabited in her place: from Beniamins gate vnto the place of the first gate, vnto ỹ corner gate, & from ỹ towre of Hananiel, vnto the Kings wine presses.
11 And men shal dwell in it, & there shal be no more destruction, but Ierusalem shalbe safely inhabited.
12 And this shalbe ỹ plague, wherewith the Lord wil smite all people, that haue foght against Ierusalem: their flesh shal consume away, thogh thei stand vpon their fete, & their eyes shal consume in their holes, & their tongue shal consume in their mouth.
13 But in that day [m] a great tumult of ỹ Lord shalbe among them, & euerie one shal take [n] the hand of his neighbour, & his hand shal rise vp against the hand of his neighbour.
14 And Iudah shal fight also against Ierusalem, & the arme of all the heathen shalbe gathered roũd about, with [o] golde and siluer, & great abundance of apparel.
15 Yet this shal be the plague of ỹ horse, of the mule, of the camel and of ỹ asse and of all ỹ beasts that be in these tentes as this [p] plague.
16 But it shal come to passe that euerie one that is left of all the nations, ẅ came against Ierusalem, shal go vp from yere to yere to worship ỹ King the Lord of hostes, & to kepe the feast of Tabernacles.
17 And who so wil not come vp of all ỹ families of the earth vnto Ierusalem to worship the King the Lord of hostes, euen vpon them shal come no raine.
18 And if the familie of [q] Egypt go not vp, & come not, it shal not raine vpon them. This shal be the plague wherewith the Lord wil smite all the heathen, that come not vp to kepe the feast of Tabernacles.
19 This shal be ỹ punishement of Egypt & the punishement of all the nations ỹ come not vp to kepe the feast of Tabernacles.
20 In that day shal there be writen vpon the [r] bridels of the horses, The holines vnto the Lord, and the [s] pottes in the Lords House shal be like ỹ bowles before the altar.
21 Yea, euerie pot in Ierusalem & Iudah shalbe holie vnto the Lord of hostes, & all they that sacrifice, shal come and take of them and seeth therein: and in that day there shal be no more the [t] Canaanite in the House of the Lord of hostes.

b As your fathers, and you haue had experience bothe at the red Sea & at all other times.
c By this maner of speache the prophet sheweth Gods power, and care ouer his Church, & how he wil as it were by miracle saue it.
d So that out of all the partes of the worlde they shal se Ierusalem, ẅ was before hid ỹ this mountaine: and this he meaneth of the spiritual Ierusalẽ ỹ Church.
e He speaketh of the hypocrites, ẅ colde not abide Gods presence, but shulde flee into all places where they might hide thẽ among the mountaines.
f Read Amos. 1. 1.
g Because thei did not credit ỹ Prophetes wordes, he turneth to God, & comforteth him self in the that he knewe ỹ these things shulde come, and saith, Thou, ó God, ẅ thine Angels wilt come to performe this great thing.
h Signifying, that there shulde be great troubles in the Church, and that the time hereof is in ỹ Lords hands, yet at length (which is here ment by the euening) God wolde send comfort.
i That is, the spiritual graces of God, which shulde euer continue in moste abundance.
k All idolatrie and superstition shalbe aboolished, & there shalbe one God, one faith and one religion.
l This newe Ierusalem shalbe sene through all the worlde & shal excell the first in excellencie, welth & greatnes.
m God wil not onely raise vp warre without but sedition at home to trye them.
n To hurte, and oppresse him.
o The enemies are riche, and therefore shal not come for a pray, but to destroy & sheade blood.
p As the men shulde be destroyed, ver. 12.
q By the Egyptians, ẅ were greatest enemies to true religion, he meaneth all ỹ Gentiles.
r Signifying, ỹ to what seruice they were put now (whether to labour, or to serue in warre) thei were now holie, because ỹ Lord had sanctified them.
s As precious ỹ one as ỹ other, because they shalbe sanctified.
t But all shalbe pure, & cleane & there shal neither be hypocrite, or anie ỹ shal corrupt the true seruice of God.

MALACHI.

THE ARGVMENT.

THis Prophet was one of the thre, which God raised vp for the comfort of his Church after the captiuitie, and after him there was no more vntil Iohn Baptist was sent, which was ether a token of Gods wrath, or an admonition that they shulde with more feruent desire loke for the comming of Messiah. He confirmeth the same doctrine, that the two former do, but chiefly he reproueth the Priests for their couetousnes, and for that they serued God after their owne fantaſies, and not according to the preſcript of his worde. He alſo noteth certein peculiar ſinnes, which were then among them, as maryying of idolatrous and manie wiues, murmurings againſt God, impaciencie, and ſuche like. Notwithſtanding for the comfort of the godlie he declareth that God wolde not forget his promes made vnto their fathers, but wolde ſend Chriſt his meſſinger, in whome the couenant ſhulde be accompliſhed, whoſe cõming ſhulde be terrible to the wicked, and bring all conſolation and ioye vnto the godlie.

CHAP. I.

A complaint againſt Iſrael and chiefly the Prieſts.

a Read Iſa.13.1.

1 THE [a] burden of the worde of the Lord to Iſrael by the miniſterie of Malachi.

2 I haue loued you, ſaith the Lord: yet ye ſay, [b] Wherein haſt thou loued vs? Was not Eſau Iaakobs brother, ſaith ſ Lord? yet I loued Iaakob,

3 And I [c] hated Eſau, and made his mountaines waſte, and his heritage a wildernes for dragons.

4 Thogh Edom ſay, We are impouerished, but we wil returne and buyld the deſolate places, yet ſaith ſ Lord of hoſtes, they ſhal buylde, but I wil deſtroye it, and they ſhal call them, The border of wickednes, and the people, with whome the Lord is angrie for euer.

5 And your eyes ſhal ſe it, and ye ſhal ſay, The Lord wil be magnified vpon ſ border of Iſrael.

6 A ſonne honoreth his father, & a ſeruant his maſter. If then I be a father, where is mine honour? and if I be a maſter, where is my feare, ſaith the Lord of hoſtes vnto you, [d] ô Prieſts, that deſpiſe my Name? and ye ſay, [e] Wherein haue we deſpiſed thy Name?

7 Ye offer [f] vncleane bread vpon mine altar, & you ſay, Wherein haue we polluted thee? In that ye ſay the table of the Lord is not [g] to be regarded.

8 And if ye offer the blinde for ſacrifice, it is [h] not euil: and if ye offer the lame and ſicke, it is not euil: offer it now vnto thy prince: wil he be content with thee, or accept thy perſone, ſaith ſ Lord of hoſtes?

9 And now, I pray you, [i] pray before God, that he may haue mercie vpon vs: this hathe bene, by your meanes: wil he regarde [k] your perſones, ſaith the Lord hoſtes?

10 Who is there euen among you, [l] that wolde ſhut the dore? and kindle not fyre on mine altar in vaine, I haue no pleaſure in you, ſaith the Lord of hoſtes, neither wil I accept an offring at your hãd.

11 For from the riſing of the ſunne vnto the going downe of the ſame, my Name is [m] great among the Gentiles, and in euerie place incenſe ſhalbe offred vnto my Name, & a pure offring: for my Name is great among the heathen, ſaith ſ Lord of hoſtes.

12 But ye haue polluted it, in that ye ſay, The table of the Lord is [n] polluted, and the frute thereof, euen his meat is not to be regarded.

13 Ye ſaid alſo, Beholde, it is a [o] wearines, & ye haue ſnuffed at it, ſaith ſ Lord of hoſtes, and ye offred that which was torne & the lame and the ſicke: thus ye offred an offring: ſhulde I accept this of your hand, ſaith the Lord?

14 But curſed be the deceiuer, which hathe in his flocke [p] a male, & voweth, & ſacrificeth vnto ſ Lord a corrupt thing: for I am a great King, ſaith the Lord of hoſtes, and my Name is terrible among the heathen.

b Which declareth their great ingratitude that did not acknowledge this loue, wherin was ſo euident, in that he choſe Abrahã from out of all the worlde, and next choſe Iaakob the yonger brother of whome they came, & left Eſau the elder.

c For beſides ſ the ſignes of mine hatred appeared eue whẽ he was made ſeruãt vnto his yonger brother, being yet in his mothers belly, and alſo afterward in that he was put frõ his birthright, yet euen now before your eyes ſ ſignes hereof are euident, in ſ that hit cõtrey lieth waſte, and he ſhal neuer returne to inhabit it, where as ye my people whome the enemie hated more then them are by my grace and loue towarde you deliuered, read Rom.9.13.

d Beſides ſ reſt of the people he condemneth the Prieſts chiefly becauſe they ſhulde haue reproued others for their hypocriſie, & obſtinacie againſt God, & not haue hartened them by their example to greater euils.

e He noteth their groſſe hypocriſie, which wolde not ſe their faultes, but moſte impudently couered them, & ſo were blinde guides.

f Ye receaue all maner offrings for your owne griedines, and do not examine whether they be according to my Law or no.

g Not that they ſaid thus, but by their doings they declared no leſſe. h You make it no faute: whereby he condemneth thẽ, that thinke it ſufficient to ſerue God partely, as he hathe commanded, & partely after mans fantaſie, & ſo come not to ſ purenes of religion, whe requireth, & therefore in reproche he ſheweth then ſ a mortal mã wolde not be content to be ſo ſerued. i He derideth ſ prieſts who bare ſ people in hand, that they praied for thẽ, & ſheweth that they were the occaſion, that theſe euils came vpon the people.

k Wil God cõſider your office and ſtate, ſeing you are ſo couetous, and wicked?

l Becauſe ſ Leuites who kept ſ dores, did not tryе whether ſ ſacrifices that came in, were according to ſ Law, God wiſheth, that thei wolde rather ſhut the dores then to receiue ſuche as were not perfite.

m God ſheweth, ſ their ingratitude, & neglect of his true ſeruice ſhal be the cauſe of ſ calling of ſ Gentiles: & here the Prophet ſ was vnder the Law framed his wordes to ſ capacitie of the people, and by the altar, and ſacrifice he meaneth ſ ſpiritual ſeruice of God, wh ſhulde be vnder the Goſpel, whẽ by Chriſts one-ly ſacrifice. n Bothe the prieſts and the people were infected with this error, that they paſſed not what was offred: for they thoght that God was aſwel content with the leane as with the fat: but in ſ meane ſeaſon they ſhewed not that obedience to God, which he required, & ſo committed bothe impietie, & alſo ſhewed their contẽpt of God & couetouſnes. o The prieſts & people were both e weary with ſeruing God, & paſſed not what maner ſeruice they gaue to God, for that which was leaſt thoght good ynough for the Lord. p That is, hathe habilitie to ſerue the Lord according to his worde, and yet wil ſerue him according to his couetous minde.

CHAP. II.

Threatnings againſt the Prieſts being ſeducers of the people.

1 AND now, ô ye [a] Prieſts, this commãdement is for you.

2 If ye wil not heare it, nor conſider it in your heart to giue glorie [b] vnto my Name, ſaith the Lord of hoſtes, I wil euen ſend a curſe vpon you, and wil curſe your [c] bleſſings: yea, I haue curſed thẽ already becauſe ye do not conſider it in your heart.

3 Beholde, I wil corrupt [d] your ſeed, & caſt dongue vpon your faces, euen the [e] dongue a He ſpeaketh vnto them chiefly, but vnder them he cõteineth the people.

b To ſerue me according to my worde.

c That is, ſ abũdance of Gods benefites.

d Your ſeed ſowen ſhal come to no profite.

e You boast of your holines, sacrifices & feastes, but they shal turne to your shame, and be as vile as dongue.

f The Priests obiected against the Prophet ý he colde not reproue them, but he must speake against ý priesthode, & the office enablished of God by promes, but he sheweth, that the office is nothing eslandered, when these vilenes, & dongue are called by their owne names.

g He sheweth what were the two conditions of the conenãt made with the tribe of Leui, on Gods parte, that he woide giue them long life & felicitie, and on their parte, that they shulde faithfully serue him according to his worde.

h I prescribed Leui a certeine Law to serue me.

i He serued me & set forthe my glorie with all humilitie and submission.

k He sheweth ý the priest oght to haue knowledge to instruct other in ý worde of the Lord.

l He is as the treasure house of Gods worde and oght to giue to euerie one according to their necessitie, and not to reserue it for himself.

m Shewing, that whosoeuer doeth not declare Gods will, is not his messenger, and Priest.

e dongue of your solemne feasts, & you shalbe like vnto it.

4 And ye shal knowe, that I haue f sent this commandement vnto you, ý my couenant, which I made with Leui, might stand, saith the Lord of hostes.

5 My g couenant was with him of life and peace, and I h gaue him feare, & he feared me, and was afraide before i my Name.

6 The law of k trueth was in his mouth, & there was no iniquitie founde in his lippes: he walked with me in peace and equitie, and did turne manie away from iniquitie.

7 For the Priests l lippes shulde preserue knowledge, and they shulde seke the lawe at his mouth: for he is the m messenger of the Lord of hostes.

8 But ye are gone out of the way: ye haue caused manie to fall by the Law: ye haue broken the couenant of Leui, saith the Lord of hostes.

9 Therefore haue I also made you to be despised, and vile before all the people, because ye kept not my wayes, but haue bene parcial in the Law.

10 Haue we not all n one father? hathe not one God made vs? why do we trãsgresse euerie one against his brother, & breake the couenant of o our fathers?

11 Iudah hathe transgressed, and an abominacion is committed in Israel and in Ierusalem: for Iudah hathe defiled the holines of the Lord, which he loued, & hathe maried the p daughter of a strange god.

12 The Lord wil cut of the man ý doeth this: both the master and the seruant out of the tabernacle of Iaakob, and him ý q offereth an offring vnto the Lord of hostes.

13 And this haue ye done againe, & r couered the altar of the Lord with teares, with weping and with mourning: because the offring is no more regarded, nether receiued acceptably at your hands.

14 Yet ye say, s Wherein? Because the Lord hathe bene witnes betwene thee and thy wife of thy youth, against whome thou hast transgressed: yet is she thy t companion, and the wife of thy v couenant.

15 And did not x he make one? yet had he y abundance of spirit: and wherefore one? because he soght a godlie z seed: therefore kepe your selues in your a spirit, & let none trespasse against the wife of his youth.

16 If thou hatest her, b put her away, saith the Lord God of Israel, yet he couereth c the iniurie vnder his garment, saith the Lord of hostes: therefore kepe your selues in your spirit, and transgresse not.

17 Ye haue wearied the d Lord ♔ your wordes: yet ye say, Wherein haue we wearied him? When ye say, Euerie one that e doeth euil, is good in the sight of the Lord, and he deliteth in them. Or where is the God of f iudgement.

n The Prophet accuseth the ingratitude of ý Iewes toward God and man: for seing they were all borne of one father Abraham, and God had elected them to be his holie people, they oght nether to offend God nor their brethren. o Whereby they had bounde them selues to God to be an holie people. p Thei haue ioyned them selues in mariage with them that are of another religion.

q That is, the priests. r Ye cause the people to lament, because that God doeth not regarde their sacrifices, so that they seme to sacrifice in vaine. s This is another faute, whereof he accuseth them, that is, that they brake the lawes of mariage. t As ý one halfe of thy selfe. v She that was ioyned to thee by a solemne couenant, & by the inuocation of Gods Name. x Did not God make man and woman as one flesh and not many?

y By his power, and vertue he colde haue made many women for one man.

z Suche as shulde be borne in lawful and moderat mariage wherein is no excesse of lustes.

a Cõteine your selues within your boundes, and be sober in minde, & bridle your affections.

b Not ý he doe allowe diuorcement, but of the two faute he sheweth, which is the lesse. c He thinketh it sufficient to kepe his wife stil, albeit he take others, and so as it were couereth his faute. d Ye murmured against God, because he heard not you assone as you called. e In thinking that God fauored the wicked, and hathe no respect to them that serue him. f Thus they blasphemed God in condemning his power and iustice, because he iudged not according to their fantasies.

CHAP. III.

1 Of the messenger of the Lord, Iohn Baptist, and of Christs office.

1 Beholde, I wil send my a messenger, and he shal prepare the way before me: and the b Lord whome ye seke, shal spedely come to his Temple: euen the c messenger of the couenant whome ye desire: beholde, he shal come, saith the Lord of hostes.

2 But who c may abide the day of his comming? and who shal endure, when he appeareth? for he is like a purging fyre, and like fullers sope.

3 And he shal sit downe to trye & fine the siluer: he shal euen fine the sonnes of e Leui, and purifie them as gold and siluer, that they may bring offrings vnto the Lord in righteousnes.

4 Then shal the offrings of Iudah and Ierusalem be acceptable vnto ý Lord, as in olde time and in the yeres afore.

5 And I wil come nere to you to iudgement, and I wil be a swifte witnes against the sothesayers, and against the adulterers, and against false swearers, & against those that wrongfully kepe backe the hirelings wages, and vexe the widdowe, and the fatherles, & oppresse the stranger, and feare not me, saith ý Lord of hostes.

6 For I am the Lord: I change not, and ye sonnes of Iaakob f are not consua This is ment of Iohn Baptist, as Christ expoundeth it, Luk. 7.27.

b Meaning, Messiah, as psal. 140, 1. dan. 9, 17.

c That is, Christ by whome the couenant was made and ratified, who is called the Angel or messenger of the couenant, because he reconcileth vs to his father: and is Lord or King, because he hath the gouernement of his Church.

d He sheweth that the hypocrites which wish so much for the Lords comming, wil not abide whē he draweth nere: for he wil consume them, and purge his and make them cleane.

e He beginneth at ý Priestes that they might be lightes and shine vnto others. f They murmured against God, because they sawe not his helpe euer present to defend them: and therefore he accuseth them of ingratitude, and sheweth that in that they are not daily consumed, it is a token, that he doeth stil defend them: and so his mercie toward them neuer changeth.

7 From the dayes of your fathers, ye are gone away from mine ordinances, & haue not kept them: [g] returne vnto me, & I wil returne vnto you, saith the Lord of hostes: but ye said, Wherein shal we returne?

8 Wil a [h] man spoyle his gods? yet haue ye spoyled me: but ye say, Wherein haue we spoyled thee? In [i] tythes and offrings.

9 Ye are cursed with a curse: for ye haue spoyled me, euen this whole nacion.

10 Bring ye all the tythes into the store house, that there may be meat in mine House, & proue me now herewith, saith the Lord of hostes, if I wil not open you windowes of heauen vnto you, & powre you out a blessing [k] without measure.

11 And I wil rebuke the [l] deuourer for your sakes, and he shal not destroye the frute of your grounde, nether shal your vine be baren in the field, saith the Lord of hostes.

12 And all nacions shal call you blessed: for ye shalbe a pleasant land, saith the Lord of hostes.

13 Your wordes haue bene stoute [m] against me, saith the Lord: yet ye say, What haue we spoken against thee?

14 Ye haue said, It is in vaine to serue God: and what profite is it that we haue kept his commandement, and that we walked humbly before the Lord of hostes?

15 Therefore we counte proude blessed: euen they that worke wickednes, are set vp, & they that tempte God, yea, thei are [n] deliuered.

16 [o] Then spake they that feared the Lord, euerie one to his neighbour, & the Lord hearkened & heard it, & a [p] boke of remembrance was writen before him for them that feared the Lord, & that thoght vpon his Name.

17 And they shalbe to me, saith the Lord of hostes, in that day [q] that I shal do this, for a floeke, & I wil [r] spare them, as a man spareth his owne sonne that serueth him.

18 Then shal you returne, & discerne betwene the righteous & wicked, betwene him that serueth God, and him that serueth him not.

CHAP. IIII.

The day of the Lord, before the which Eliah shulde come.

1 FOr beholde, the day cometh that shal [a] burne as an ouen, and all the proude, yea, and all that do wickedly, shal be stubble, & the day that cometh, shal burne them vp, saith the Lord of hostes, and shal leaue them, nether roote nor branche.

2 But vnto you that feare my Name, shal the [b] Sunne of righteousnes arise, & health shalbe vnder his wings, & ye shal [c] go forthe, and growe vp as fat calues.

3 And ye shal treade downe the wicked: for they shalbe dust vnder the soles of your fete in the day that I shal do this, saith the Lord of hostes.

4 [d] Remember the Lawe of Moses my seruant, which I commanded vnto him in Horeb for all Israel with the statutes and iudgements.

5 Beholde, I wil send you [e] Eliah the Prophet before the comming of the great and [f] feareful day of the Lord.

6 And he shal [g] turne the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come [h] and smite the earth with cursing.

g Read Zechar. 1,3.

h There are none of the heathe so barbarous, that wil defraude their gods of their honour, or deale deceitfully with the.

i Whereby the seruice of God shulde haue bene mainteined, & the Priests, & the poore relieued.

k Not hauing respect how much ye nede, but wil giue you in all abundance: so that ye shal lacke place to put my blessings in.

l Meaning, the caterpiller, and whatsoeuer destroieth corne & frutes.

m The prophet condéneth the of double blasphemie against God: first in that they said that God had no respect to them that serued him, & next that the wicked were more in his fauour the the godlie.

n They are not onely preferred to honour, but also deliuered from dangers.

o After these admonitions of the Prophet some were liuely touched, & incouraged others to feare God.

p Bothe because the thing was strange, that some turned to God in that great and vniuersal corruption, and also that this might be an example of Gods mercies to all penitent sinners.

q When I shal restore my Church according to my promes, they shalbe as mine owne propre gods.

r That is, forgiue their sinnes, & gouerne them with my Spirit.

a He propheticeth of Gods iudgements against the wicked who wolde not receiue Christ, when as God shulde send him for the restauration of his Church.

b Meaning, Christ, who with his wigs or beames of his grace shulde lighten, & comfort his Church, Ephe. 5. 14. and he is called the sunne of righteousnes, because in him self he hath all perfection, and also the iustice of the father dwelleth in him: whereby he regenerateth vs into righteousnes, cleseth vs from the filth of this worlde, & reformeth vs to the image of God.

c Ye shalbe set at libertie and increase in the ioye of the Spirit, 2. Cor. 3, 17.

d Because the time was come that the Iewes shulde be destitute of prophetes vntil the time of Christ, because they shulde with more feruent mindes desire his coming, the prophet exhorteth them to exercise them selues diligently in studying the Lawe of Moses in the meane season, whereby they might continue in the true religion and also be armed against all tentations.

e This Christ expoundeth of Iohn Baptist, Mat. 11, 13. who bothe for his zeale, and restoring of religion is aptly compared to Eliah.

f Which as it is true for the wicked, so doeth it waken the godlie and call them to repentance.

g He sheweth wherein Iohns office shulde stand: in the turning of men to God and ioyning the father and children in one vnitie of faith: so that the father shal turne to that religion of his sonne which is conuerted to Christ, and the sonne shal imbrace the faith of the true fathers, Abraham, Izhak and Iaakob.

h The seconde point of his office was to denounce Gods iudgements against them that wolde not receiue Christ.

APOCRYPHA.

THE ARGUMENT.

THese bokes that follow in order after the Prophetes vnto the Newe testament, are called Apocrypha, that is, bokes which were not receiued by a commune consent to be red and expounded publikely in the Church, nether yet serued to proue any point of Christian religion, saue in asmuche as they had the consent of the other Scriptures called Canonical to confirme the same, or rather whereon they were grounded: but as bokes proceding from godlie men, were receiued to be red for the aduancement and furtherance of the knowledge of the historie, & for the instruction of godlie maners: which bokes declare that at all times God had an especial care of his Church and left them not vtterly destitute of teachers and meanes to confirme them in the hope of the promised Messiah, and also witnesse that those calamities that God sent to his Church, were according to his prouidence, who had bothe so threatened by his Prophetes, and so brought it to passe for the destruction of their enemies, and for the tryal of his children.

CHAP. I.

1 Iosias appointeth Priestes, and kepeth the Passeouer. 7 Offrings for the Priests and the people. 11 The order of the Leuites. 23 The vpright life of Iosias. 25 His death and the occasion thereof, and the lamentatiō for him. 34 Ioachaz appointed King. 53 The destruction of Ierusalem.

2 King 23, 21 / 2. chro 35, 1

AND Iosias kept the Passeouer to his Lord in Ierusalem, and offred the Passeouer in the fourteenth day of the first moneth,

2 And appointed ỹ Priests in order according to their dailie courses, being clothed with long garments in the Temple of the Lord.

3 And he spake to the Leuites the holy ministers of Israel, thāt they shulde sanctifie them selues to the Lord, to set the holy Arke of the Lord in the House, which Salomon the sonne of King Dauid had buylt,

4 And said, Ye shal no more beare ỹ Arke vpon your shulders: now therefore serue the Lord your God, and take the charge of his people of Israel, and prepare according to your families and tribes,

5 After the writing of Dauid King of Israel, and according to the maiestie of Salomon his sonne, and stand in the Temple (according to the ordre of the dignitie of your fathers the Leuites) which were appointed before your brethren the children of Israel.

6 Offer in ordre the Passeouer, and make readie the sacrifices for your brethren, and kepe the Passeouer after the Lords commandement giuen to Moyses,

7 And Iosias gaue to the people that was present, thirtie thousand lambes and kiddes, with thre thousand calues.

8 These were giuen of the Kings possessions according to the promes, to the people, and to the Priests, and to the Leuites. Then gaue Helkias and Zacharias and [a]Syelus the gouernours of the Temple, to the Priests for the Passeouer two thousand shepe, and thre hundreth calues.

[a] Or, Ichiel.

9 Furthermore, Iechonias, and Samaias, and Nathanael his brother, and [a]Sabias, and [b]Chielus, and [c]Ioram captaines gaue to the Leuites for the Passeouer fiue thousand shepe and seuen hundreth calues

[a] Or, Hasabiah. [b] Or, Ichiel. [c] Or, Chorabe

10 And when these things were done, the Priests and the Leuites stode in ordre, hauing vnleauened bread according to ỹ tribes, 11 And after the ordre of the dignitie of their fathers, before the people to offre to the Lord, as it is writen in the bokes of Moyses: and thus they did in the morning.

12 And they rosted the Passeouer with fyre as *apperteined, & they sod their offrings with perfumes in caldrons and pottes, *Exod. 12. 8

13 And set it before all them that were of the people, and afterward they prepared for them selues, and for the Priests their brethren the sonnes of Aaron,

14 For the Priests offred the fatte vnto the euening, and the Leuites, did make ready for them selues, and for the Priests their brethren the sonnes of Aaron

15 And the holy singers, the sonnes of Asaph, were in their orders, according to te appointed ordinaces of Dauid, to wit, Asaph, and Azarias, and [a]Eddim[b], which was of the Kings appointement.

[a] Or, Iedithun.

16 And the porters were at euerie gate, so that it was not lawful, ỹ anie shulde passe his ordinarie watche for their brethren the Leuites made readie for them.

17 And in that day those things which apperteined to the sacrifice of the Lord, were accomplished, that they might offre the Passeouer, 18 And offre sacrifices vpon the altar of the Lord, according to the commandement of King Iosias.
19 So the children of Israel, which were present at that time, kept the Passeouer and the feast of vnleauened bread seuen daies.
20 And there was not suche a Passeouer kept in Israel since the time of Samuel the prophet.
21 And all the Kings of Israel did not offre suche a Passeouer, as did Iosias, and the Priestes, and the Leuites, and the Iewes, and all Israel, which were founde to remaine in Ierusalem.
22 In the eightenth yere of the reigne of Iosias was this Passeouer kept.
23 The workes of Iosias were vpright before his Lord with a heart ful of godlines.
24 And concerning ý things which came to passe in his time, they are writē before, to wit, of those ý sinned & did wickedly against ý Lord aboue euerie nation and kingdome, and grieued him with "sensible things, so that the wordes of the Lord stode vp against Israel.
25 ¶ * Now after all these actes of Iosias it came to passe that when Pharaoh King of Egypt came to moue warre at Carchamis vpon Euphrates, Iosias went out against him.
26 But ý King of Egypt sent to him, saying, What haue I to do with thee, ô Kig of Iudea?
27 I am not sent of the Lord God against thee: but my warre is vpon Euphrates, and now the Lord is with me, and the Lord hasteneth me forwarde: departe from me, and be not against the Lord.
28 But Iosias wolde not turne backe his chariot from him, but prepared him self to fight with him, not regarding ý wordes of Ieremias the Prophet by the mouth of the Lord, 29 But he set him self in battel aray against him in the field of Megeddo. & ý princes came downe to King Iosias.
30 And the King said to his seruants, Conuaye me out of the battel, for I am very weake. And by and by his seruants broght him out of the battel.
31 So he gate vpon his seconde chariot, and being come againe to Ierusalem he changed his life, and was buryed in his fathers graue.
32 And in all Iudea was Iosias bewailed, yea Ieremias the Prophet did lament for Iosias, and the gouernours and their wiues did lament him vnto this day: & this was ordeined in all the kinred of Israel to be done continually.
33 But these things are written in the boke of the stories of the Kings of Iudea, and euerie one of the actes ý Iosias did, & his glorie, and his knowledge in the lawe of the Lord, and the things which he did before, and the things now rehersed are registred in the boke of the Kings of Israel and Iudea.
34 Then they of the nacion toke *Ioachaz the sonne of Iosias, and made him King in steade of his father Iosias, when he was thre and twentie yere olde. 2. King. 23, 31 2. chron. 36, 1
35 And he reigned in Iudea and in Ierusalem thre moneths: for the King of Egypt deposed him from reigning in Ierusalem.
36 He taxed also the people of an hundreth talēts of siluer, & one talēt of gold.
37 And the King of Egypt made Ioacim his brother King of Iudea & Ierusalem.
38 And he bounde Ioachaz and his gouernours: but when he had takē Zaraces his brother, he led hi away into Egypt.
39 Twētie and siue yere olde was Ioacim, when he reigned in Iudea and Ierusalem and he did euil in the sight of the Lord.
40 Wherefore against him came vp Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon, who when he had bounde him with a chaine of brasse, led him away into Babylon.
41 Thē Nabuchodonosor toke of the holie vessels of the Lord, & caried thē away, and set thē in his tēple at Babylon.
42 But all his actes, and his prophanation, and his reproche are written in ý Chronicles of the Kings.
43 And Ioacim his sonne reigned for him: and when he was made King, he was eightene yere olde.
44 And he reigned thre moneths and ten dayes in Ierusalem, and he did euil in the sight of the Lord.
45 ¶ So a yere after Nabuchodonosor sent and broght him to Babylon with the holy vessels of the Lord.
46 And he made Sedecias King of Iudea and Ierusalem when he was one and twentie yere olde, & he reigned eleuen yeres.
47 And he did euil in the sight of the Lord, nether did he feare the wordes spoken *by Ieremias the Prophet from the mouth of the Lord. Ier. 38, 21
48 For after that he was sworne to King Nabuchodonosor, he forsware him self by the Name of the Lord and fel away, and hardened his necke and his heart, and transgressed the Lawes of the Lord God of Israel.
49 Also the gouerners of the people, and the Priests committed many things against the lawes and passed all ý pollutions of all nacions, and polluted the Temple of the Lord, which was sanctified in Ierusalem.
50 Neuertheles the God of their Fathers sent sent his messenger to call them backe, because he spared them and his owne Tabernacle.

51 But they derided his messengers, and in the day, that the Lord spake vnto them, they mocked his Prophetes.

52 So that he, being moued to angre against his people for their great wickednes, commanded the Kings of the Chaldeans to inuade them.

53 These killed their yong men with the sworde rounde about their holie Temple, nether did they spare yong man, nor maiden, nether olde man, nor childe among them.

54 But he deliuered them all into their hands, and all the holy vessels of the Lord, bothe great & smale with the vessels of the Arke of God: and they toke, & caryed away the Kings treasures into Babylon.

55 And they set fyre in the House of ỹ Lord and brake downe the walles of Ierusalē and burnt their towres with fyre

56 They consumed also all the precious things thereof, & broght thē to noght, and those that were left by the sworde, he caryed away into Babylon.

57 And they were seruants to him, & to his children til the Persians reigned, to fulfil the worde of the Lord by the mouth of Ieremias,

Ierem. 25,11, & 29,10

58 And that the land might enioye her Sabbaths all the time, that it was desolate, til seuentie yeres were accomplished.

CHAP. II.

1 Cyrus gaue leaue to the Iewes to returne. 10 He sent the holy vessels. 13 The names of them that returned. 16 Their aduersaries did let their buylding, and the Kings letters for the same.

2.Chro 36,22 Ezra. 1,1

1 IN the first yere of the reigne of Cyrus King of the Persians, to fulfil the worde of the Lord by the mouth of Ieremias.

2 The Lord raised vp the spirit of Cyrus King of the Persians, and he made proclamacion through out all his kingdome, euen by expresse lettres,

3 Saying, Thus saith Cyrus King of the Persians, The Lord of Israel, euen the moste high Lord, hathe made me King ouer the whole worlde,

4 And he hathe commanded me to buylde him an House in Ierusalem, which is in Iudea.

5 If there be anie therefore of you of his people, let the Lord, euen his Lord be with him, & let him go vp to Ierusalem, which is in Iudea & buylde the House of the Lord of Israel: he is the Lord ỹ dwelleth in Ierusalem.

6 All they then that dwell in the places rounde about, those, I say, that are in his place, let them helpe him with golde and siluer,

7 With gifts, with horses and cattel, and other things, which shalbe broght, according to the vowes into the Temple of the Lord, which is in Ierusalem.

8 ¶ Then arose the chief of the families of Iudea, and of the tribe of Beniamin, and the Priests & Leuites, & all whose minde the Lord had moued to go vp, and buylde an House to the Lord in Ierusalem.

9 And those that were about them, helped them in all things with siluer and golde, horses, and cattel, and with diuers vowes of many whose mindes were stirred vp.

10 Also King Cyrus broght out the holy vessels of the Lord, which Nabuchodonosor had caryed out of Ierusalem, and had consecrated them in the Temple of his idoles.

11 Now when Cyrus King of the Persians had broght them out, he deliuered thē to Mithridates his treasurer.

12 By whome they were giuen to "Abassar the gouernour of Iudea, "Or Shasbazar, or Sanabassar.

13 Whereof this was the nomber: a thousand golden cuppes, and a thousand siluer cuppes, batens of siluer for the sacrifices, nine and twentie violes, of golde thirtie, and of siluer two thousand, foure hundreth and ten, and a thousand other vessels.

14 So all the vessels of golde and siluer, which they caried away, were fiue thousand foure hūdreth, three score and nine.

15 They were broght by Sanabassar with them of the captiuitie of Babylō to Ierusalem.

16 ¶ But * in the time of Artaxerxes Kīg of the Persias "Belemus, & Mithridates, and Tabellius, and Rathumus, and Beelteth mus, & "Semellius the secretarie, & others which were ioyned to these, dwelling in Samaria and in other places, wrote vnto hi this epistle here following against them, that dwelt in Iudea & Ierusalē, TO THE KING ARTAXERXES OVR LORD,

Ezra. 4,6
"Or, Bischlemus.
"Or, Shimshi.

17 Thy seruants, Rathumus the writer of things that come to passe, and Semellius the secretarie, and the rest of their counsel, & the iudges which are in Coelosyria and Phenice.

18 Be it now therefore knowen to our lord the King, that the Iewes which came vp from ỹ, are come to vs into Ierusalem, that rebellious and wicked citie, & buylde ỹ marked places, and make vp the walles thereof, and laye the fundacions of the Temple.

19 Therefore if this citie be buylt, and the walles be finished, they wil not onely not indure to paye tribute, but wil also resist Kings.

20 And because the things perteining to the Temple go forwarde, we thoght it not mete to passe ouer suche a thing,

21 But to declare it to our lord the King, that if it be thy pleasure, it may be sought out in the bokes of thy fathers,
22 And thou shalt finde in the Chronicles the writings cõcerning these things, and shalt knowe that this citie did alwaies rebel, & did trouble bothe Kings and cities,
23 And that the Iewes are rebellious, raising alwaies warres therein: for the which cause also this citie was made desolate.
24 Now therefore, õ lord the King, we declare it, that if this citie be buylt and the walles thereof repared, you shal haue no more passage into Coelosyria, nor Phenice.
25 ¶ Then the King wrote againe to Rathumus, that wrote the things that came to passe, and to Beeltehmus, and to Samellius the secretarie, and to the rest of those that were ioyned with them, and to the dwellers of Samaria, Syria and Phenice, these things that followe.
26 I haue red the epistle, which ye sent to me: therefore I commanded, that it shulde be soght out, and it was founde, that this citie hathe alwaies practised against Kings, 27 And that the men thereof were giuen to rebellion and warres, and how that mightie Kings and fierce haue reigned in Ierusalem, which toke tribute of Coe losyria and Phenice.
28 Now therefore I haue commanded to forbid these men to buylde vp the citie and that it be taken hede that no more be done, 29 And that those wicked things, & shulde molest the King, go not forwarde.
30 Then when Rathumus, & Semellius the secretarie and the rest, which were ioyned with them, had red the things, & King Artaxerxes had writen, they moued their tents with spede to Ierusalem with horses and men in araye, 31 And began to let them which buylt, so that the buylding of the Temple in Ierusalem ceased vnto the seconde yere of the reigne of Darius King of the Persians.

CHAP. III.

1 The feast of Darius. 16 The thre wise sentences.

1 NOw when Darius reigned, he made a great feast to all his subiects, & to all those of his owne house, and to all the princes of Media and Persia,
2 And to all the gouernours & captaines, and lieutenants that were with him, frõ India vnto Ethiopia of an hundreth and seuen and twentie prouinces.
3 And when they had eaten and drunke, & were satisfied, thei departed, and King Darius went into his chamber, and slept, til he wakened againe.
4 ¶ In the meane time thre yong men of the garde, kepers of the Kings bodie, said one to another.
5 Let euerie one of vs speake a sentẽce, & he that shal ouercome, and whose sentẽce shal appeare wiser then the others, Darius the King shal giue him great gifts, and great things in token of victorie,
6 As to weare purple & to drinke in golde, and to slepe in golde, and a chariot with bridles of golde, an head tyre of fine linen, and a chaine about his necke.
7 And he shal sit next to Darius for his wisdome, and shalbe called Darius cousin.
8 Then euerie man wrote his sentence and sealed it, and put it vnder the pillowe of King Darius,
9 And said, when the King rose, thei wolde giue him the writing, and whose sentence the King and the thre princes of Persia shulde iudge to be wisest, to him shulde the victorie be giuẽ, as it was appointed.
10 One wrote, The wine is strongest.
11 The other wrote, The King is strõgest.
12 The other wrote, women are strongest, but trueth ouercometh all things.
13 ¶ And whẽ the King arose, they toke ỹ writings and gaue them to him, and he red them, 14 And sent and called all the noble men of Persia and of Media, and the gouernours & the captaines, and lieutenants, and the consuls.
15 And sate him downe in the counsel, and the writing was red before them.
16 Then he said, Call the yong men, that they may declare their owne sentences. So they called them, and they came in.
17 Then he said vnto them, Declare vnto vs the writings. So the first began, which had spoken of the strength of wine.
18 And said on this maner, O ye men, how strong is wine! it deceiueth all mẽ that drinke it.
19 It maketh the minde of the King and of the fatherles bothe one, of the bonde man and of the fre man, of the poore man and of the riche man.
20 It turneth also euerie thoght into ioye and gladnes, so that one remembreth no maner of sorow, nor det.
21 It maketh euerie heart riche, so that one remembreth nether King nor gouernour, & causeth to speake all thigs by "talents.
22 When men haue drunke, they haue no minde to loue ether friends or brethren, and a litle after they drawe out swordes.
23 But when they are frõ the wine, they do not remember what they haue done.
24 O ye men, is not wine strongest, which cõpelleth to do suche things? & he held de his peace when he had thus spoken.

CHAP. IIII.

Of the strength of a King. 13 Of the strength of women. 34 Of the strength of trueth, which Sentence is approued, 47 And his petition granted.

1 THen the seconde which had spoken of the strength of the King, began to say,

2 O ye men, are not men strongest, which beare rule by land and by sea, and ouer all things which are in them?

3 But the King is yet greater: for he ruleth all things, & is lord of them, so that they do all things which he comandeth them.

4 If he bid thē make warre one against another, they do it: if he send them out against ẏ enemies, they go and breake downe mountaines and walles and towres.

5 They kil & are killed, & do not passe the commandement of the King: if they ouercome, they bring all to the King, aswel the spoyles as all other things.

6 And those also ẅ go not to warre & battel, but til the earth: for whē they haue sowen it againe, thei reape it, & bring it to the King, and compelle one another to paye tribute to the King.

7 Yet he is but one man: if he bid, Kil, they kil: if he sai Spare, they spare.

8 If he bid, Smite, they smite: if he bid them, Make desolate, they make desolate: if he bid, Buyld, thei buyld.

9 If he bid, Cut of, they cut of: if he bid, Plante, they plante.

10 So all his people & al his armies obey one man: in the meane while he sitteth downe, he eateth, and drinketh and sleepeth.

11 For these kepe him rounde about: nether can any one go & do his owne busines, nether are they disobedient vnto hī.

12 O ye men, how shulde not ẏ King be strongest, seing he is thus obeied? So he helde his tongue.

13 ¶ Then the third which had spoken of women & of the trueth (this was Zorobabel) began to speake, 14 O ye men, nether the mightie King, nor many men nor wine is strongest: who then ruleth them or hathe dominion ouer them? are they not women?

15 Women haue borne the King & all the people ẅ beare rule by sea & by land.

16 Euen of them were they borne, and they nourished them, which planted the vines, of which the wine is made.

17 They also make mens garmēts & make men honorable, nether can men be without women.

18 And if thei haue gathered together gold & siluer, or any goodlie thing, & they not loue a faire and beautiful woman?

19 Do they not leaue all those things & giue them selues wholy vnto her, & gape, and gaze vpon her, & all men desire her more then gold, or siluer, or any precious thing?

20 A man leaueth his owne father ẅ ha the nourrished him, & his owne countrei, and is ioyned with his wife.

21 And for ẏ woman he iopardeth his life and nether remembreth father nor mother nor contrey.

22 Therefore by this ye may knowe ẏ the women beare rule ouer you: do ye not labour and trauail, and giue and bring all to the women?

23 Yea, a man taketh his sworde and goeth forthe to kil & to steale, and to saile vpon the sea, and vpon riuers, 24 And he seeth a lion & goeth in darkenes, & whē he hathe stollen, rauished & spoiled, he bringeth it to his loue.

25 Wherefore a mā loueth his owne wife more then father or mother.

26 Yea, many haue runne mad for women, and haue bene seruantes for them.

27 Many also haue perished & haue erred and sinned for women.

28 Now therefore do you not beleue me? is not the King great in his power? do not all regions feare to touche him?

29 Yet I sawe him & Apame, the Kings coucubine, the daughter of the famous Bartacus, sitting on the right hand of the King.

30 And she toke the crowne of the Kings head, & put it vpon her owne, and stroke the King with her left hand.

31 Yet in the meane season the King gaped and gazed on her: & if she laughed at him, he laughed: & if she were angrie with him, he did flatter her ẏ he might be reconciled with her.

32 How then, ô ye men, are not women more strong, seing they do thus?

33 ¶ Then the King and the princes loked one vpon another, and he began to speake of the trueth.

34 O ye men, are not women stronger? great is the earth, & the heauen is hie, and the sone is swift in his course: for he turnith roūde about heauē in one day, & runneth againe into his owne place.

35 Is not he great ẏ maketh these things? therefore ẏ trueth is greater and stronger then all.

36 All the earth calleth for trueth, and the heauen blesseth it: and all things are shaken and tremble, nether is there any vniust thing with it.

37 The wine is wicked, the King is wicked, womē are wicked, & all the childrē of men are wicked, and all their wicked workes are suche, and there is no trueth in thē, and they perish in their iniquitie.

38 But trueth doeth abide, and is strong for euer, and liueth and reigneth for euer and euer.

39 With her there is no receiuing of persons nor differenee: but she doeth ſ things which are iuſte, & abſteineth from vniuſt & wicked things, and all men fauour her workes.

40 Neither is there any vniuſt thing in her iudgement, and she is the ſtrengh and the kingdome and the power, and maieſtie of all ages. Bleſſed be ſ God of trueth.
41 So he ceaſed to ſpeake, and then all the people cryed & ſaid then, Truth is great and ſtrongeſt.
42 Then the King ſaid vnto him, Aſke what thou wilt beſides ſ which is appointed, & we wil giue it thee becauſe thou art founde the wiſeſt, and thou ſhalt haue libertie to ſit by me, and ſhalt be called my couſin.
43 ¶ Then he ſaid to the King, Remembre the vowe that thou haſt vowed to buylde Ieruſalem, in the day that thou tokeſt the kingdome,
44 And to ſend againe all the veſſels ſ were taken out of Ieruſalem, which Cy rus ſet aparte when he made a vowe to cut of Babylon, & vowed to ſend them thither.
45 Thou alſo haſt vowed to buylde the Temple, which the Idumeans burnt w hen Iudea was deſtroied by the Chal deans.
46 And now, ô Lord the King, this is that which I deſire & require of thee, & t is is the magnificence, whic I require of thee: I require therefore that thou woldeſt accompliſh the vowe w hich thou haſt vowed with thine owne mouth to do to the King of heauen.
47 Then King Darius riſing vp, kiſſed him & wrote him letters to all the ſtewardes and lieutenants, and captaines ād gouernours, that thei ſhold bring on ſ way both hi & all that went with him which went vp to buylde Ieruſale.
48 And he wrote letters to all the lieutenants in Coeloſyria and Phenice, & to thē that were in Libanus, that they ſhulde bring cedre wood from Libanus to Ieruſalem, and buylde the citie with him.
49 And he wrote for all ſ Iewes, which went vp out of his kingdome vnto Iu-dea, concerning their libertie, that no prince, nor lieutenant, nor gouernour, nor ſteward ſhuld enter into their dores,
50 And that all the region which they kept ſhulde paye no tribute, and that the Idumeans ſhulde let go the villages of the Iewes which they helde, 51 And that euerie yere there ſhulde be giuen for the buylding of the Temple twentie talents vntil it were buylt, 52 And to mainteine the burnt offrings vpon the altar euerie day (as they had a commandement to offer ſeuentene) other then talents euerie yere.
53 And that all they which went from Babylon to buylde ſ citie, ſhulde haue libertie, aſwel they as their poſteritie, and all the Prieſts that went away.
54 He wrote alſo touching the charges and the Prieſts garment, wherein they ſhulde miniſter.
55 And he wrote that they ſhulde giue the Leuites their charges vntil the Houſe were finiſhed, and Ieruſalem buylt.
56 Alſo he wrote that they ſhulde giue penſions & wages to them that kept the citie.
57 And he ſent away all the veſſels which Cyrus had ſet aparte out of Babylon, and what ſoeuer Cyrus had comma ded to do, he alſo commanded to do it, and to ſend to Ieruſalem.
58 And when the "young man was gone *or, Zoroba-forthe, he lift vp his face to heauen to- bel.
wardes Ieruſalem, and gaue thankes to the King of heauen, 59 Saying, Of thee is the victorie, & of thee is wiſdome, & of thee is glorie, and I am thy ſeruant.
60 Bleſſed be thou which haſt giuen me wiſdome: for vnto thee I acknow-ledg it, ô Lord of our fathers.
61 ¶ So he toke ſ letters & went out & came to Babylon & telled all his bre-threm.
62 And thei bleſſed ſ God of their fathers, becauſe he had giuen them fredome & libertie,
63 To go vp & to buylde Ieruſalem, & the Temple, where his Name is renou med, & thei reioyced with inſtruments of muſike and ioye, ſeuen daies.

39 And was called after his name, and when the description of the kinred of these men had bene sought in the registre, and colde not be founde, they were set a parte from the office of Priests.

40 For ‖ Neemias and Attharias said to them that they shulde not be partakers of the holie things, til there arose an hie Priest clothed with doctrine and trueth.

41 So all they of Israel from them of twelue yere olde and litle children, were ‖ fortie thousand besides men seruants and women seruants, two thousand, thre hundreth and sixtie.

42 Their seruants and handmaides were seuen thousand, thre hundreth, fortie and seuen, the singing men and women two hundreth, fortie and fiue:

45 And to giue to the treasure of the workes, ‖ a thousand pound in golde, and fiue thousand pound in siluer, and an hundreth priestlie garments.

46 And the Priests and the Leuites and the people dwelt in Ierusalem and in the countrei, & the holie singers & the porters and all Israel in their ‖ villages.

47 ¶ But * when the seuenth moneth was nere, and when the children of Israel were euerie one at home, they were all gathered together with one accorde into the open place of the first gate which is towarde the East.

48 Then Ieshua the sonne of Iosedec and his brethren the Priests with Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel & his brethren, rising vp, made ready ỹ altar of the God of Israel, 49 To offre burnt offrings vpon it according as it is writen in the boke of Moyses the man of God.

50 Whither also there were garhered against them of all nacions of the land: but they dressed the altar in his owne place, although all the nacions of the land were their enemies and vexed thẽ, and they offred sacrifices according to the season, and burnt offrings to the Lord, morning & euening.

51 They kept also the feast of tabernacles, as it is * ordeined in the Law, & offred sacrifices euerie day, as was requisite, Leui. 23, 34

52 And afterwarde, the continual oblations and offrings of the Sabbaths & of the new moneths & of all holy feasts

53 ¶ And all * thei which had made any vowe to God, began to offre sacrifice vnto God in the first day of ỹ seuenth moneth, although the Temple of God was not yet buylt. Ezra 3, 88

54 They gaue also money to the masõs & to the workemen, and meat and drinke with gladnes,

56 And in the second yere and second moneth, came into the Temple of God in Ierusalem, Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and Iesus the sonne of Iosedec, and their brethren, and the Priests & Leuites, and all they that came owte ofcaptiuitie into Ierusalem, 61 And they sung with loud voice songs to the praise of the Lord because his mercie and glorie is for euer in all Israel.

1 Of Aggeus and Zacharias. 2 The buylding of the Temple. 3 Sisinnes wolde let them. 7 His epistle to Darius. 23 The Kings answer to the contrarie.

1 BVt* in the second vere of the reigne of Darius, Aggeus & Zacharias the sonne of Addo the Prophetes prophecied to the Iewes, euen vnto thē ỹ were in Iudea and Ieruſalem, in the Name of the Lord God of Israel, wh they called' vpon.
2 Then Zorobabel sonne of Salathiel, and Iesus the sonne of Iosedec stode vp, & began to buylde the House of ỹ Lord, wh is in Ieruſalem, the Prophetes of the Lord being with them, & helping them.
3 ¶ In that time Sisinnes the gouernour of Syria, and Phenice, and Sathrabouzanes with his companions came vnto them,
4 And said vnto them, By whose commandement buylde you this House & this buylding, and entrepriſe all these other things? and who are the buylders that entrepriſe suche things?
5 But the Ancients of the Iewes had grace of ỹ Lord after that he had visited the captiuitie, 6 That they were not letted to buyld, vntil it was signified vnto Darius of these matters, and an answer was receiued.
7 ¶ The copie of the epistle, which he did write and send to Darius. SISINNES gouernour of Syria and of Phenice, and Sathrabouzanes, and their cōpanions, presidents in Syria and Phenice, salute King Darius.
8 It may please the King our master plainely to vnderstand, that when we came to the countrey of Iudea, and entred into the citie of Ieruſalem, we found in the citie of Ieruſalem the Ancients of the Iewes that were of the captiuitie, 9 Buylding an House to the Lord great & newe, of hewen stones, and of great price, and the timber all ready laid vpon the walles.
10 And these workes are done with great spede, yea, and the worke hathe good succeſſe in thir hands, so that it wil be finished with all glorie & diligence,
11 Then we asked their Ancients, saying, By whose commandement buyld you this House & lay the fundacion of these workes?
12 We asked them these things to the intent to notifie them to thee, and to write to thee the men that gouerned it: therefore we demanded the names of the gouernours in writing.
13 But they answered, saying, We are the seruants of the Lord, which hathe created the heauen and the earth.
14 And* this House was buylt vp manie yeres ago by a King of Israel great & strong, and was finished.
15 But when our fathers, prouoking God to wrath, sinned against the Lord of Israel, which is in heauen, * he deliuered them into the hands of Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon of the Chaldeans, 16 Who brake downe the House & burnt it, & caryed the people captiue to Babylon.

17 But in the first yere of the reigne of Cyrus ouer the countrey of Babylon, King Cyrus wrote that this House shulde be buylt vp.

18 And the holie vessels of golde & of siluer, which Nabuchodonosor had caryed out of the House at Ierusalem, & had dedicated them in his owne Temple, Cyrus the King toke out of the Temple at Babylon, & they were giuen to Zorobabel, and to || Sanabassarus ruler.

|| or, Shashbazar.

19 And a commandement was giuen vnto him that he shulde cary away those vessels, & put them in the Temple at Ierusalem, & that this Temple of the Lord shulde be buylt in this place.

20 Then the same Sanabassarus, being come hether, layed the fundacions of the House of the Lord at Ierusalem, and since that time til now, it is in buylding, & is not finished.

21 Now therefore if it please the King, let it be soght vp in the Kings liberaries concerning Cyrus, 22 And if it be found that the buylding of the House of the Lord at Ierusalem hathe bene done by the consent of King Cyrus, & if it seme good to the lord our King, let him make vs answer concerning these things.

23 Then King Darius commanded to searche in the Kings libraries, that were in Babylon, and there was founde in Ecbatane which is a towre in the region of Media, a place where suche things were layed vp for memorie.

24 In the first yere of the reigne of Cyrus, King Cyrus commanded the House of the Lord at Ierusalem to be buylded, where thei did sacrifice with the continual fyre.

25 Of the which the height shulde be of threscore cubites, the breadth of threscore cubites with thre rowes of hewed stones, & one rowe of newe wood of that countrey, and that the costs shulde be payed out of the house of King Cyrus.

26 And that the holie vessels of the House of the Lord, aswel those of golde as of siluer, which Nabuchodonosor had caryed out of the house in Ierusalem, and broght into Babylon, shulde be restored to the House, which is in Ierusalem, & set in the place where they were afore.

27 Also he commanded that Sisinnes, gouernour of Syria and Phenice, and Sathrabouzanes, and their companiõs, and those which were constitute captaines in Syria and Phenice, shulde take hede to refraine from that place, and to suffer Zorobabel the seruant of the Lord, and gouernour of Iudea, and the Elders of the Iewes to buyld that House of the Lord in that place.

28 And I also haue commanded to buyld it cleane vp againe, and that they be diligent to helpe them of the captiuitie of the Iewes, til the House of the Lord be finished,

29 And that some parte of the tribute of Coelosyria and Phenice shulde be diligently giuen to these men for sacrifice vnto the Lord, and to Zorobabel the gouernour, for bulles, rams and lambes:

30 Also corne, & salte, and wine, and oile continually euerie yere without faile, as the Priests, which are in Ierusalem shal testifie to be spent euerie day, 31 That offrings may be made to the high God for the King, and his children, & that they may pray for their liues.

32 Furthermore he commanded that whosoeuer shulde transgresse anie thing afore spoken or writen, or derogate anie thing thereof, that a tre shulde be taken out of his possession, and he be hanged thereon, and that his goods shulde be the Kings.

33 And therefore let the Lord whose Name is there called vpon, destroye euerie King and nation, which stretcheth out his hand to hinder or do euil to that House of the Lord which is in Ierusalem.

34 * I Darius the King haue ordeined that it shulde be diligently executed according to these things. Ezra. 6, 13

CHAP. VII.

1 Sisinnes and his companions follow the Kings commandement and helpe the Iewes to buyld the Temple. 5 The time that it was buylt. 10 They kepe the Passeouer.

1 THen Sisinnes the gouernour of Coelosyria and Phoenice, and Sathrabouzanes, & their companions, obeing King Darius commandements.

2 Assisted diligetly the holie workes, working whith the Ancients and gouernours of the Sanctuarie.

3 And the holie workes prospered by Aggeus and Zacharias the Prophetes which prophecied.

4 So they finished all things by the commandement of the Lord God of Israel, and and with the consent of Cyrus and Darius, and Artaxerxes Kings of the Persians.

5 Thus the holie House was finished in the three and twentieth day of the moneth Adar in the sixt yere of Darius King of the Persians.

6 ¶ And the children of Israel, and the Priests and the Leuites, and the rest, & were of the captiuitie, & had anie charge, did according to the things writen in the boke of Moses.

7 And they offred for the dedication of the Temple of the Lord, an hundreth lambes,

8 And twelue goates for the sinne of all Israel, according to the nomber of the chief of the tribes of Israel.

9 And the Priests, and the Leuites stode according to their kinreds clothed with long robes in the workes of the Lord God of Israel, according to the boke of Moses, and also the porters in euerie gate.

10 And the children of Israel offred the Passeouer together with them of the captiuitie, in the fourthtenth day of the first moneth, after that the Priests and Leuites were sanctified.

11 But all the children of the captiuitie were not sanctified together, but all the Leuites were sanctified together.

12 And they offred the Passeouer, for all the children of the captiuitie, and for their brethren the Priests, and for them selues.

13 Then all the children of Israel which were of the captiuitie did eat, euen all they that had separated them selues from the abominations of the people of the lond, and soght the Lord.

14 And they kept the feast of vnleauened bread seuen dayes, reioycing before the Lord, 15 Because he had turned the counsel of the King of the Assyrians towardes thē to strengthen their hands in the workes of the Lord God of Israel.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Esdras cometh from Babylon to Ierusalem. 10 The copie of the commission giuen by Artaxerxes. 29 Esdras giueth thankes to the Lord. 32 The nomber of the heads of the people that came with him. 76 His prayer and confession.

1 AND after these things when Artaxerxes King of the Persians reigned, Esdras the sonne of [a] Saraias, the sonne of Ezerias, the sonne of Helcias, the sonne of Salum,

2 The sonne of Sadoc, the sonne of Achitob, the sonne of Amarias, the sonne of [b] Ezias, the sonne of [c] Memeroth, the sonne of [d] Zaraias, the sonne of [e] Sauias, the sonne of Boccas, the sonne of Abisum, the sonne of Phinees, the sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron was the the Priest.

3 This Esdras went out, of Babylon, & was a scribe wel taught in the Law of Moyses, giuen by the Lord God of Israel.

4 Also the King gaue him great honour, & he founde grace in his sight in all his requestes.

5 With him also there departed some of the children of Israel, and of the Priests and Leuites, and of the holy singers, and of the porters, and of the ministers of the Temple vnto Ierusalem.

7 In the seuenth yere of the reigne of Artaxerxes, & in the fist moneth: this was the seuenth yere of the King (for thei went out of Babylon in the first day of the first moneth,

7 And came to Ierusalem according as the Lord gaue them speed in their iournay)

8 For Esdras had gotten great knowledge, so that he wolde let nothing passe that was in the Law of the Lord, and in the commandements, and he taught all Israel all the ordinances and iudgements.

9 So the commisson writen by King Artaxerxes was giuen Esdras the Priest and reader of the Lav of the Lord: the copie thereof followeth.

10 King Artaxerxes to Esdras the Priest, & reader of the Law of the Lord, Salutacion.

11 Forasmuche as I consider things with pitie, I haue commanded that they that wil and desire of the nacion of the Iewes, and of the Priests and Leuites, & are in our kingdome, shulde go with thee vnto Israel.

12 Therefore as many as be willing, let them departe together, as it hathe semed good to me and my seuen frinds & counsellers,

13 They may visite the things that are in Iudea and Ierusalem diligently, as it is conteined in the Law of the Lord,

14 And cary the gifts to the Lord of Israel in Ierusalem, which I and my frinds vowed: also all the golde and siluer, which shal be fonde in the countrey of Babylon apperteining to the Lord in Ierusalem,

15 With that which is giuen of the people to the Temple of the Lord their God, that it might be broght to Ierusalem, aswel siluer as golde, for bulles, and rams, & lambes, and things thereunto perteining, 16 That they may offer sacrifices to the Lord vpon the altar of the Lord their God, which in Ierusalem.

17 And whatsoeuer thou and thy brethren wil do with the golde or siluer, accomplish it according to the wil of thy God.
18 And the holy vessels of the Lord, ẅ are giuen thee for the vse of the Temple of thy God, which in Ierusalem, thou shalt set before thy God in Ierusalem.
19 And what other things soeuer thou shalt remember for the vse of the Temple of thy God, thou shalt giue it out of the Kings treasure.
20 And I also King Artaxerxes haue commanded the treasurers, of Syria and Phenice, that whatsoeuer Esdras, the Priest & reader of the Law of the hiest God, shal send for, they shulde geue it him with all spede, euen to the some of an hundreth talents of siluer, 21 And likewise vnto an hundreth cores of corne, and an hundreth pieces of wine and other things in abundance.
22 Let all things be done to the hiest God according to the Law of God with diligence, that wrath come not vpon the kingdome of the King and of his sonnes.
23 Also to you it is commanded, that of none of the Priests or Leuites, or holy singers, or porters or ministers of the Temple, or of the workemen of this Temple, no tribute nor taxe be taken, nor that any, haue power to taxe them in any thing.
24 Thou also, Esdras, according to the wisdome of God, ordeine iudges and gouernours, that they may iudge in all Syria & Phenice all those which are wel instructed in the Law of thy God, and teache those, which are not instructed.
25 And let all those which shal transgresse the Law of God & the King, be diligently punished, ether with death, or orher punishment, ether with penaltie of money, or banishment.
26 ¶ Then Esdras the scribe said, Blessed be the onelie Lord God of my fathers, which hathe put this in the heart of the King to glorifie his House which is in Ierusalem, 27 And hathe honoured me before the King, and the counsellers, and all his friends and gouernours.
Ezr.8,2 28 ¶ * Therefore I was incouraged by the helpe of the Lord my God, and gathered men of Israel to go vp with me.
29 These are the guides after their families and order of dignities, which came vp with me out of Babylon in the reigne of Artaxerxes the King.

38 Of the sonnes of Babi, Zacharias sonne of Bebai, and ẅ him twentie & eight men.
39 Of the sonnes of [z] Astath, Iohannes sonne of Acatan, & with him an hundreth & ten.

41 ¶ And I gathered them together to ỹ flood called * Theras, & pitched our tents, there trhe daies, and nombred them.
42 But when I had founde there none of the Priests not Leuites, 43 I sent to Eleazar, and beholde, there came [d] Maasman, and Alnathan, & Samaian and [e] Ioribon, & Nathan, Ennatan, Zacharian, & Mosollamon the chief, & best learned.
44 And I bad them to go to Daddeus ỹ captaine, which was in the place of the treasurie, 45 With charge to bidde Daddeus and his brethren, & the treasurers that were there, to send to vs them, which shulde offer sacrifice in the House of our Lord.

48 And of the miniſters of the Temple, which Dauid gaue, & thoſe which were rulers ouer the worke of the Leuites, to wit, miniſters of the Temple, two hundreth & twentie, of whome all the names were regiſtred.

Ezra.8.21 49 ¶ And * there I proclaimed a faſt for the yong men before the Lord to aſke of him a good iourney bothe for vs, and for them that were with vs, for our children, & for our cattel.

50 For I was aſhamed to aſke the King fotemen, or horſemen, or conduict for ſauegarde againſt our enemies, 51 Becauſe we had ſaid to the King, that the power of our Lord ſhulde be with them that ſoght him to direct them in all things.

52 Wherefore we praied our Lord againe, according to theſe things, whome we founde fauorable.

53 Then I choſe from among the chief of the tribes & of the Prieſts, twelue men, to wit, ‖ Eſebrias and Aſſanias, and with them ten of their brethren.

54 And I weighed them the ſiluer and ȳ golde, & the holy veſſels of the Houſe of our Lord, which the King and his counſellers, & his princes, & all Iſrael had giuen.

55 And I weighed them, ſix hundreth & fifty talents of ſiluer, & ſiluer veſſels of an hundreth talents, & an hundreth talents of golde, 56 And twentie golden baſens, & twelue veſſels of braſſe, of fine braſſe ſhining like golde.

57 And I ſaid to them, You are alſo holy to the Lord, and the veſſels are holy, and the golde and the ſiluer is a vowe to the Lord of our fathers, 58 Watch and kepe them, til that you giue them to the heads of the families of the Prieſts, and Leuites, and captaines of the families of Iſrael in Ieruſalem in the chambers of the Houſe of our God.

59 So the Prieſts & Leuites toke the ſiluer and the golde, & the veſſels, & caryed them to Ieruſalem to the Temple of the Lord.

60 And we departed from the flood ȳ Thera, in the twelueth day of the firſt moneth, & came to Ieruſalem, according to the mightie power of our Lord with vs: and the Lord deliuered vs from the beginning of our iourney from all enemies. So we came to Ieruſalem.

61 And thre daies being paſt there, in the fourth day the ſiluer that was weighed, & the golde was deliuered in the Houſe of our Lord to ‖ Marmoth the Prieſt the ſonne of Iouri, 62 And with him to Eleazar the ſonne of Phinees. & there were with them, Ioſabad the ſonne of Ieſus, & ‖ Moeth ſonne of Sabbanus, Leuites: all was deliuered them by nomber and weight.

63 And all the weight of them was writen that ſame houre.

64 Afterwards thoſe that were come out of the captiuitie, offred ſacrifices to the Lord God of Iſrael, euen twelue bulles for all Iſrael, rams foure ſcore and ſixtene, 65 Lambs thre ſcore & twelue, twelue goates for ſaluacion, all in ſacrifice to the Lord.

66 And they preſented the commandements of the King to the Kings ſtewards, & to ȳ gouernours of Coeloſyria & Phenice who honored the people, and the Temple of God.

67 ¶ * When theſe things were done, the gouernours came to me, ſaying, The people of Iſrael, the princes and the Prieſts, & the Leuites haue not ſeparated from them the ſtrange people of the land, Ezr.9.1

68 Nor the pollutions of the Gentiles, to wit, of the Cananites, and Chetites, and Phereſites, and Iebuſites, and Moabites, and Egyptians, and Idumeans.

69 For they haue dwelt with their daughters, bothe they and their ſonnes, and the holie ſede is mixed with the ſtrange people of the land, & the gouernours & rulers haue bene partakers of this wickednes from the beginning of the thing.

70 And aſſone as I had heard theſe things, I rent my clothes, and the holie garment, & I pulled the heere of mine head, and of my bearde, and ſate me downe ſorowful, and verie ſad.

71 Then alſo all they that were moued with the worde of the Lord God of Iſrael, came to me whiles I wepte for the iniquitie, but I ſate verie ſad til the euening ſacrifice.

72 Then I roſe from the faſt with my clothes torne, and the holie garment, and bowed my knees and ſtretched forthe mine hands to the Lord,

73 And ſaid, * O Lord, I am aſhamed, & confounded before thy face. Ezr.9.6

day.
76 For our sinnes therefore, and our fathers we with our brethren, with our Kings and Priests haue bene giuen vp to the Kings of the earth, to the sworde and to captiuitie, and for a pray with all shame vnto this day.
77 And now how great hathe thy mercie bene, ô Lord, that there shulde be left vs a roote, and name in the place of thine holines!
78 And ỹ thou shuldest reueale to vs a light in ỹ House of ỹ Lord God, & geue vs meate in ỹ time of our seruitude!
79 For when we were in bondage, we were not left of our God, but he gaue vs fauour before the Kings of the Persians, that thei shulde giue vs meat, 80 And that they shulde honour the Temple of our Lord, and raise vp Sion that is desolate, and giue vs assurance in Iudea & Ierusalem.
81 And now, ô Lord, what shal we say, hauing these things? for we haue transgressed thy commandements, which thou hast giuen by the hands of thy seruants the Prophetes, saying,
Deut. 7, 1 82 * Because the land, which ye go to inherite, is a land polluted by the pollucions of the strangers of the land, which haue filled it with their filthines, 83 Therefore now ye shal not ioyne their daughters with your sonnes, nether giue your daughters to their sonnes,
84 Nether shal you desire to haue peace with them for euer, that ye may be made strong, and eat the good things of the land, and leaue it for an inheritance to your children for euer.
85 Therefore all that is come to passe, was done for our wicked workes, and for our great sinnes: yet, Lord, thou hast forborne our sinnes, 86 And hast giuen vs suche a roote: but we againe haue turned backe to transgresse thy Law, & to mixe vs with the vnclennes of the people of the land.
87 Mightest thou not be angrie with vs to destroye vs, so that thou shuldest nether leaue vs roote nor sede nor name?
88 But, ô Lord of Israel, thou art true: for there is a roote left, euen vnto this day.
89 Beholde, we are now before thee with our iniquities, nether can we indure before thee for these things.
Ezra. 10, 1 90 ¶ And * as Esdras prayed and confessed and wept, and laye vpon the grounde before the Temple, a verie great multitude was gathered vnto him out of Ierusalem of men and women, and yong children: for there was great lamentation among the multitude.
91 Then Iechonias the sonne of "Ieel of the sonnes of Israel, cryed out said, O Esdras, we haue sinned against the Lord God: we haue taken in mariage strange women of the nacions of the land. "or, Iehiel.
92 And now all Israel is douteful: therefore let vs make an othe concerning this to the Lord to put away all our wiues, which are strangers, with their children.
93 If it seme good to thee, and to all the that obey the Law of the Lord, rise vp and put it in execution.
94 For to thee doeth it apparteine, & we are with thee to make thee strong.
95 Then Esdras arose, & made all the chief of the families of the Priests and Leuites of all Israel to sweare, that they wolde do thus: and they sware.

CHAP. IX.

7 After Esdras had red the law for the strange wiues, 10 Thei promise to put them away.

1 THen * Esdras rose from the court of the Temple, & went to the chamber of Ioannan the sonne of Eliasib, Ezra. 10, 22
2 And being lodged there, he did eat no bread nor dranke water, but mourned for the great iniquities of the multitude.
3 And there was a proclamation in all Iudea and Ierusalem to all them, that were of the captiuitie, that they shulde be gathered to Ierusalem,
4 And that all they which shulde not mete there within two or thre dayes, according to the ordinance of the Elders, which bare rule, shulde haue their cattel confiscate to the Temple, and he cast out from among them of the captiuitie.
5 Then all they which were of the tribe of Iuda and Beniamin, came together within thre dayes into Ierusalem: this was the ninth moneth and twentieth day of the moneth.
6 And all the multitude sate in the broad place of the Temple shaking, because of the extreme winter.
7 Then Esdras arose and said to them, Ye haue sinned: for ye haue maried strange wiues, so that ye haue augmented the sinnes of Israel
8 Now therefore confesse and glorifie the Lord God of our fathers, 9 And do his wil, and separate your selues selues from the people of the land, and from the strange wiues.

10 Then all the multitude cryed out and said with a loude voice, We wil do so as thou hast said.

11 But because the multitude is great, and the time is winter, so that we can not stand without, and the worke is not of one day nor of two, seing that manie of vs haue sinned in this matter,

12 Let the chief men of the multitude and all they which haue strange wiues of our families, tarie:

13 And let the Priests and iudges come out of all places at the day appointed, til thei haue appeased the wrath of the Lord against vs for this matter.

14 Then Ionathas Asaels sonne, and [a] Ezecias sonne of [b] Thecan were appointed concerning these things, and Mosollam and Sabbateus did helpe them.

15 And they which were of the captiuitie, did after all these things.

16 Esdras the Priest also chose him certeine men, chief of their families, all by name: & thei sate together in the first day of the tenth moneth to examine this matter.

17 And they made an end of the things perteining to them that had maried strange wiues in the first day of the first moneth.

18 And there were founde of the Priests which had maried strange wiues, 19 Of the sonnes of Iesus, the sonne of Iosedec, & of his brethren [a] Mathelas, & Eleazar, and Ioribus, and Ionadan.

20 Who also gaue their hands to cast out their wiues, and offred a ram for their reconciliation in their purgation.

21 And of the sonnes of Emmer [a] Ananias, and Zabdeus, and Canes, and Sameus, and Hiereel, and Azarias.

22 And of the sonnes of [a] Phaisu, Ellionas, Massias, Esmaelus, and Nathanael, and [b] Ocidelus, and Talsas.

23 And of the Leuites [a] Iorabadus, and Semis, and Colius, who was called [b] Calitas, and Patheus, and Oudas, and Ionas.

24 Of the holie singers, [a] Eliazurus, Bacchurus.

25 Of the porters, [a] Sallumus, & Tolbanes.

26 Of them of Israel, of the sonnes of Phorus, [a] Hiermas, and Eddias, & Melchias, & Maelus, & Eleazar, & Asibias, & [b] Banaias.

27 Of the sonnes of [a] Ela, Matthanias, Zacharias, and [b] Hierielas, and [c] Hieremoth and Aedias.

28 And of the sonnes of [a] Zamoth, Eliadas, Elisimus, Othonias, Iarimoth, and [b] Sabatus, and Sardeus.

29 Of the sonnes of [a] Bebai, Ioannes, and Ananias, and [b] Iosabad, and Emathens.

30 Of the sonnes of Mani, Olamus, Mamuchus, Iedaias, Iasubus, Iasael, and Ieremoth.

31 And of the sonnes of [a] Addi, Naathus, Moosias, Laccunus, and Naidus, and Mathanias, and [b] Seschel, and Balnuus, and Manasseas.

32 And of the Sonnes of Annas, Elionas, & Aseas, and Melchias, and Sabbeus, and Simon a Chosamite.

33 And of the sonnes of [a] Asom, Altaneus & [b] Matthias, and Bannaias, Eliphalat, & Manasses, and Semei.

34 And of the sonnes of [a] Maani, Ieremias, Momdis, Omairus, Inel, Mamai, and Paclias, and Amos, Carabasion and Euasibus, and Mamnimatanaius, Elisiasis, Vamus, Eliali, Samis, Selemias, Nathanias, & of the sonnes of Ozoras, Sesis, Esril, Azailus, Samatas, Sambis, Iosiphus.

35 And of the sonnes of Ethna, Mazitias, Zabadias, Ethes, Inel, Banaias.

36 All these maryed strange wiues, and put them away with their children.

37 And the Priests & the Leuites dwelt in Ierusalem, & in the countrey, the first day of the seuenth moneth, and the children of Israel in their owne houses.

38 ¶ * Then all the multitude assembled together with one consent into the broad place before the gate of the Temple toward the East, Nehe. 8, 1

39 And spake to Esdras the Priest, and reader, that he shulde bring the Law of Moyses, which had bene giuen by the Lord God of Israel.

40 Then broght Esdras the chief Priest the Law to all the multitude, bothe man and woman, and to all the Priests, that they might heare the Law the first day of the seuenth moneth.

41 [a] And he red in the first broad place of the gate of the Temple, from morning to mid day, before the men and the women, and all the multitude hearkened to the Law.

42 So Esdras the Priest and reader of the Law, stode vpon a pulpet of wood that was prepared.

43 And there stode by him [a] Matgathias, Sammus, Ananias, Azarias, Ourias, Ezecias, Balasamus at his right hand, 44 And at his left hand [a] Phaldaius, and Sail, Melchias, Aothasaphus, Nabarias.

45 Then Esdras toke the boke of the Law before the multitude (for he sate

II. Esdras.

CHAP. I.

1 The people is reproued for their vnfaithfulnes. 30 God wil haue another people, if these wil not be reformed.

1 THE second boke of the Prophet * Esdras, the sonne of Sarajas, the sonne of Azarias, the sonne of Helcias, the sonne of Sadanias, the sonne of Sadoc, the sonne of Achitob,
2 The sonne of Achias, the sonne of Phinees, the sonne of Heli, the sonne of Amerias, the sonne of Asie, the sonne of Marimoth, the sonne of Arua, the sonne of Ozias, the sonne of Borith, the sonne of Abisei, the sonne of Phinees, the sonne of Eleazar,
3 The sonne of Aaron (of the tribe of Leui) which Esdras was prisonner in the land of Medes, in the reigne of Artaxerxes King of Persia.
4 * And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,
5 Go and shewe my people their sinnes, & their children their wickednes, which thei haue committed against me, that they may tel their childrens children.
6 For the sinnes of their fathers are increased in them, because they haue forgotten me, and haue offred vnto strange gods.
7 Haue not I broght them out of the land of Egypt from the house of bondage? but they haue prouoked me vnto wrath, and despised my consels.
8 Pull thou of then the heere of thine head, and cast all euil vpon them: for they haue not bene obedient vnto my Law, but they are a rebellious people.
9 How long shal I forbeare them, vnto whome I haue done so muche good?
10 * Many Kings haue I destroied for their sakes: Pharao with his seruants and all his armie haue I smittten downe.
11 All the nacions haue I destroied before them: * I haue destroied the East, the people of the two countreis Tyrus and Sidon, and haue slaine all their enemies.
12 Speake thou therefore vnto them, saying, Thus saith the Lord.

15 Thus saith the Almightie Lord, The quailes * were a token vnto you: I gaue you tentes for sauegarde, wherein ye murmured:
16 And ye triumphed not in my Name for the destruction of your enemies, but ye yet murmure stil.

Exod.32,8 24 What shal I do vnto thee, ô Iacob? thou * Iuda woldest not obey: I wil turne me to other nacions and vnto those wil I giue my Name, that they may kepe my lawes.
25 Seing ye haue forsaken me, I wil also forsake you: when ye aske mercie of me I wil not haue pitie vpon you.
Isa.1,15 26 * When ye call vpon me, I wil not heare you: for ye haue defiled your hands with blood, and your fete are swift to commit muther.
27 Althogh ye haue not forsakē me, but your owne selues, saith the Lord.
28 Thus saith the almightie Lord, Haue I not prayed you, as a father his sonnes, and as a mother her daughters, and as a nurse her yong babes, 29 That ye wolde be my people, as I am your God, and that ye wolde be my children, as I am your father?

32 I sent vnto you my seruants the Prophetes, whome ye haue taken and slaine and torne their bodies in pieces, who se blood I wil reuenge, saith the Lord.
33 Thus saith ỹ almightie Lord, Your house shalbe desolate: I wil cast you out as the winde doeth the stubbel.
34 Your children shal not haue generacion: for thei haue despised my commandement, & done the thing that I hate before me.
35 Your houses wil I giue vnto a people to come, who shal beleue me thoght they heare me not, and they, vnto whome I neuer shewed miracle, shal do the things that I commanded them.
36 Thogh they se no Prophetes, yet shal they hate their iniquities.
37 ¶ I wil declare the grace that I wil do for the people to come, whose children reioyce in gladnes, and thogh they haue not sene me with bodelie eyes, yet in heart they beleue the things that I say.
38 Now therefore brother, beholde what great glorie, and se the people that come from the East.

CHAP. II.

The Synagogue findeth faute with her owne children. 12 The Gentiles are called.

1 THus saith the Lord, I broght this people out of bondage: I gaue them also my commandements by my seruants the Prophetes, whome they wolde not heare, but despised my counsels.
2 The mother that bare them, saith vnto them, Go you away, ô children: for I am a widdowe and forsaken.
3 I broght you vp with gladnes, but with sorowe and heauines haue I lost you: for ye haue sinned against ỹ Lord your God, and done the thing that displeaseth him.
4 But what shal I now do vnto you? I am a widdowe and forsaken: go ye, ô my children, and aske mercie of the Lord.
5 And thee, ô father, I call for a witnes for the mother of these children, which wolde not kepe my couenant,
6 That thou bring them to confusion, and their motherto aspoile, that their kinred be not continued.
7 Let their names be scatred among the heathē: let them be put out of ỹ earth, for they haue despised my couenant.
8 Wo vnto thee, Assur: for thou hidest ỹ vnrighteous in thee: ô wicked people, remember * what I did vnto Sodom and Gomorrha, Gen.19,24
9 Whose land is mixt with cloudes of pitch and heapes of ashes: so wil I do vnto them, that heare me not, saith the almightie Lord.
10 ¶ Thus saith the Lord vnto Esdras, Tel my people, that I wil giue them the kingdome of Ierusalem, which I wolde haue giuen vnto Israel.
11 And I wil get me glorie by them, and giue them the euerlasting tabernacles, which I had prepared for those.
12 They shal haue at wil the tre of life, smelling of ointement: they shal nether labour nor be weary.

13 Go ye, & ye shal receaue it: pray ỹ the time, which is long, may be shortened: the kingdome is already prepared for you: watche.
14 Take heauen and earth to witnes: for I haue abolished the euil, and ereated the good: for I liue, saith the Lord.
15 Mother, embrace thy children, and bring them vp with gladnes: make their sete as fast as a piller: for I haue chosen thee, saith the Lord.
16 And those that be dead, wil I raise vp from their places, and bring them out of the graues, for I haue knowen my Name in Israel.
17 Feare not, thou mother of the children: for I haue chosen the, saith the Lord.
18 I wil send thee my seruants Esaie and Ieremie to helpe thee, by whose counnsel I haue sanctified & prepared for thee twelue trees laden with diuers frutes, 19 And as many fountaines, flowing with milke and hony, and seuen mightie mountaines, whereupon there growe roses and lilies, whereby I wil fil thy children with ioye.
20 Execute iustice for the widdowe: iudge the cause of the fatherles: giue to ỹ poore: defende the fatherles: clothe the naked.
21 Heale the wounded, and sicke: laugh not a lame man to scorne: defend the crepel, and let the blinde come into the light of my clerenes.
22 Kepe the olde & the yong that are within thy walles.
Tob. 1. 20 23 * Whereſoeuer thou findeſt the dead, take them and burye them, and I wil giue thee the first place in my resurrection.
24 Abide stil, ô my people, and rest: for thy quietnes shal come.
25 Nourish thy children, ô thou good nurse: stablish their fete.
26 None of the seruants that I haue giuen thee, shal perish: for I wil seke thē from among thy nomber.
27 Be not weary: for when the day of trouble and heauines commeth, other shal wepe aud be soroweful, but thou shalt be mery and haue abundance.
28 The heathen shal enuie thee, and shal do nothing against thee, saith the Lord.
29 Mine hands shal couer thee, so that thy children shal not se hell.
30 Be ioyful, ô thou mother, with thy children: for I wil deliuer thee, saith the Lord.
31 Remember thy children that slepe: for I wil bring them out of the sides of ỹ earth, and wil shewe mercie vnto them: for I am merciful, saith the Lord almightie.
32 Embrace thy children, vntil I come and shewe mercie vnto them: for my foutaines runne ouer, and my grace shal not faile.
33 I Esdras receiued a charge of ỹ Lord vpon ỹ mount Horeb, that I shulde go vnto them of Israel, but when I came to them, thei cast me of, and despised ỹ commandement of the Lord.
34 And therefore I say vnto you, ô ye heathen, that heare and vnderstand, Wait for your shepherd, who shal giue you euerlasting rest: for he is nere at hand, that shal come in the end of the worlde.
35 Be ready to the rewarde of the kingdome: for the euerlasting light shal shine vpon you for euermore.
36 Fle the shadowe of this worlde. receiue the ioye of your glorie: I testifie my Sauiour openly.
37 Receiue ỹ gift that is giuen you, and be glad, giuing thankes vnto him, ỹ hath called you to ỹ heauenlie kingdome.
38 Arise, and stand vp, and beholde the nomber of those that are sealed for the feast of the Lord, 39 Which are departed from the shadowe of the worlde, and haue receiued glorious garments of the Lord.
40 Take thy nomber, ô Sion, and shut vp them that are clothed in white, which haue fulfilled the Law of the Lord, 41 The nomber of thy children whome thou longest for, is fulfilled: beseche ỹ power of the Lord, that thy people ỹ haue bene called from the beginning, may be sanctified.
42 * I Esdras sawe vpon mount Sion a great people whome I colde not nomber, and they all praised the Lord with songs. Reuel. 7. 9 43 And in the middes of them there was a yong man hier in stature then them all, & vpon euerie one of their heads he set crownes, and was hier then the others, which I muche merueiled at.
44 So I asked the Angel, and said, Who are these, my lord?
45 Who answered, and said vnto me, These be they, ỹ haue put of the mortal clothing, and haue put on ỹ immortal, and haue confessed the Name of God: now are they crowned, and receiue the palmes.
46 Then said I vnto the Angel, What yong man is it, that setteth crownes on them, & giueth them ỹ palmes in their hands.
47 And he answered, & said vnto me, It is the sonne of God, whome they haue confessed in the worlde. Then began I greatly to commende them, that had stand so strongly for ỹ Name of Lord.
48 Then ỹ Angel said vnto me, Go thy way, and tel my people, what, and how great wonders of the Lord God thou hast haſt ſene.

CHAP. III.

The wonderous workes, which God did for the people, are recited. 31. Eſdras marueileth that God ſuffreth, the Babylonians to haue rule ouer his people, which yet are ſynners alſo.

1 IN the thirtieth yere after the fall of the citie, as I was at Babylon, I lay troubled vpon my bed, and my thoghts came vp to mine heart,
2 Becauſe I ſawe the deſolation of Sion, & ye wealth of them ye dwelt at Babylō.
3 So my ſpirit was ſore moued, ſo that I beganne to ſpeeke fearful wordes to ye moſt High, and ſaid,
4 O Lord, Lord, thou ſpeakeſt at the beginning when thou alone plantedſt the earth, and gaueſt commandement vnto the people,
Geneſ. 2. 7. 5 *And a bodie vnto Adam, without ſoule, who was alſo the workemanſhip of thine hands, and haſt breathed in him the breth of life, ſo that he liued before thee,
6 And leddeſt him into Paradiſe, which thy right hand had planted, or euer the earth [b] broght forthe.
[b] Or, went forward.
7 Euen then thou gaueſt him commandement to loue thy way: but he tranſgreſſed it, and immediatly thou appointedſt death to him and his generacion, of whome came nacions, tribes, people and kinreds out of nomber.
Geneſ. 12 8 *And euerie people walked after their owne wil, and did wonderful things before thee, and deſpiſed thy commandements.
Geneſ. 7. 10 9 *But at ye time appointed thou broghteſt the flood vpon thoſe that dwelt in the worlde and deſtroiedſt them, 10 So that by the flood, that came to euerie one of them, which came by death vnto Adam,
1. Pet. 3. 20 11 Yet thou lefteſt one, euen *Noe, with his houſholde, of whome came all righteous men.
12 And when they that dwel vpon the earth, began to multiplie, and the nomber of the children, people and many nacions were increaſed, they began to be more vngodlie then the firſt.
Geneſ. 12. 1 Geneſ. 17. 5 13 Now whē they liued wickedly before thee, * thon dideſt choſe thee a man from amōg them, whoſe name was *Abraham.
14 Whome thou louedſt, and vnto whome onely thou ſhewedſt thy wil.
15 And madeſt an euerlaſting couenant with him, promiſing him that thou woldeſt neuer forſake his ſede.
Geneſ. 21. 12 Geneſ 25. 23 Malac. 1 Rom. 9. 13 16 *And vnto him thou gaueſt Iſahac, *vnto Iſahac alſo thou gaueſt Iacob and Eſau, * and dideſt choſe Iacob, and caſt of Eſau, and ſo Iacob became a great multitude.
17 And when thou leddeſt his ſede out of Egypt, * thou broghteſt them vp to mount Sina, Exod 19. 1 Deut. 4. 10
18 And enclinedſt the heauens and bowedſt downe the earth, and dideſt moue the groūde, and cauſe the depths to ſhake, and dideſt aſtoniſh the worlde.
19 And thy glorie went thorowe foure gates of fyre, with earthquakes, winde and colde, that thou mighteſt giue the Lawe vnto the ſede of Iacob, and that which the generacion of Iſrael ſhulde diligently obſerue.
20 Yet tokeſt thou not away from them the wicked heart, that thy Law might bring forthe frute in them.
21 For * Adam firſt hauing a wicked heart, was ouercome and vainquiſhed, & all they that are borne of him.
Geneſ. 3. 6
22 Thus remained weakenes ioyned with the lawe in the hearts of the people with the wickednes of the roote: ſo that the good departed away, & the euil abode ſtil.
23 So the times paſſed away, and the yeres were broght to an end, * til ye dideſt raiſe thee vp a ſeruant called Dauid,
1. Sam. 16. 13
24 * Whome thou commādedſt to buyld a citie vnto thy Name, to call vpon thee therein with incenſe and ſacrifice.
2. Sam. 5. 1
25 When this was done many yeres, the inhabitants forſoke thee, 26 Following the waies of Adam and all his generacion, for they alſo had a wicked heart.
27 Therefore thou gaueſt thy citie ouer into the hands of thine enemies.
28 But do they that dwel at Babylon, any better, that they ſhulde haue the dominion of Sion?
29 For when I came thether, and ſawe their wicked dedes without nomber (for this is the thirtieth yere that I ſe many treſpacing) I was diſcouraged.
30 For I ſawe, thou ſufferedſt them that ſinne, and ſpareſt the wicked doers, where as ye haſt deſtroied thine owne people & preſerued thine enemies, and thou haſt not ſhewed it.
31 I can not perceiue how this commeth to paſſe. Are the dedes of Babylon better then they of Sion?
32 Or is there any other people ye knoweth thee beſides Iſrael? or what generacion hathe ſo beleued thy Teſtimonies, as Iacob?
33 And yet their reward appeareth not, and their labour hathe no frute: for I haue gone here & there thorow out the heathen, and I ſe them floriſh, and thinke not vpon thy commandements.
34 Weigh ye therefore our wickednes now in the balence, and theirs also that dwel in the worlde, and no mention of the shal be founde but in Israel.

35 Or when is it that they that dwel on the earth, haue not sinned in thy sight? or what people hathe so kept thy commandements?
36 Thou shalt surely finde that Israel by name hathe kept thy precepts, but not the heathen.

CHAP. IIII.

2 The Angel reproueth Esdras, because he semed to entre into the profounde iudgemets of God.

AND the Angel that was sent vnto me, whose name was Vriel, answered,
2 And said, Thine heart hathe taken to muche vpon it in this worlde, and ỹ thinkest to comprehende the waies of the Hiest.
3 Then said I, Yea, my lord. And he answered me, and said, I am sent to shewe thee thre waies, and to set forthe thre similitudes before thee,
4 Whereof if thou canst declare me one, I wil shewe thee also the way, that thou desirest to se, and I wil shewe thee from whence the wicked heart cometh.
5 And I said, Tell on, my lord. Then said he vnto me, Go thy way: weigh me the weight of the fyre, or measure me the blast of the winde, or call me againe the daye that is past.
6 Thē answered I, and said, What man is borne, that can do that, which thou requirest me, concerning these things?
7 And he said vnto me, If I shulde aske thee how depe dwellings are in the middes of the sea, or how great springs are in the beginning of the depth, or how greet spriggs are in the stretching out of the heauen, or which are the borders of Paradise,
8 Peraduenture thou woldest say vnto me, I neuer went downe to the depe, nor yet to the hell, nether did I euer clime vp to heauen, 9 But now haue I asked thee but of fyre & winde, and of the day, whereby thou hast passed, and from the which things thou canst not be separated, and yet canst thou giue me none answer of them.
10 He said moreouer vnto me, Thine owne things, and suche as are growen vp with thee, canst thou not knowe:
11 How shulde thy vessell then be able to comprehend the wayes of the Hiest, and now outwardly in the corrupt worlde, to vnderstand the corruption that is euident in my sight?
12 Then said I vnto him, It were better that we were not at all, them that we shulde liue in wickednes, and to suffer, and not to knowe wherefore.
13 And he answered me, & said, * I came to a forest in the plaine where the trees helde a counsel, Iudg. 9. 8. 2. Chro. 25. 18.
14 And said, Come, let vs go fight againste the sea, that it may giue place to vs, and that we may make vs more woods.
15 Likewise ỹ floods of the sea toke counsel and said, Come, let vs go vp and fight agaīst the trees of the wood, that we may get another countrey for vs.
16 But the purpose of the wood was vaine: for the fyre came and consumed it.
17 Likewise also the purpose of the floods of the sea: for the sand stode vp and stopped them.
18 If thou were iudge betwene these two whome woldest thou iustifie, or whome woldest thou condemne?
19 I answered and said, Verely it is a foolish purpose, that thei bothe haue deuised: for the grounde is appointed for ỹ wood, and the sea hathe his place to beare his floods.
20 Then answered he me, and said, Thou hast giuen a right iudgement: but why iudgest thou not thy self also? Isa. 55. 8?
21 For like as the grounde is appointed for the wood, and the sea for his flods, so * they that dwel vpon earth, can vnderstand nothing, but that which is vpon earth: & they that are in the heauens, the things that are aboue ỹ height of rhe heauens. Iohn 3. 32. 1. Cor. 2. 11.
22 Then answered I, & said, I beseche thee, ô Lord, let vnderstanding be giuen me.
23 For I did not purpose to inquire of thine hie things, but of suche as we daiely medle with all, namely wherfore Israel is made a reproche to the heathen, and for what cause the people, whome thou hast loued, is giuen ouer to wicked nacions, and why the Law of our fathers is abolished, and the writen ceremonies are come to none effect, 24 Why we are tossed to ād fro through the worlde as the gresshoppers, and our life is a very feare, and we are not thoght worthie to obteine mercie.
25 But what wil he do to his Name, which is called vpon ouer vs? Of these things haue I asked the question.
26 Then answered he me, and said, The more thou searchest, the more thou shalt maruel: for the worlde hasteth fast to passe away, 27 And can not comprehend the things, that that are promised to the righteous in time to come: for this worlde is ful of vnrighteousnes and weakenes.

28 But to declare thee the things whereof thou askest, the euil is sowen, but the destruction thereof is not yet come.
29 If ỹ euil now that is sowen, be not turned vp side downe, and if the place where the euil is sowen, passe not away, then can not the thing come, that is sowen w̃ good.
30 For the corne of euil sede hathe bene sowen in the heart of Adam from the beginning, & how muche vngodlines hathe he broght vp vnto this time? & how much shal he bring forthe vntil the harueste come?
31 Pondre with thy self, how muche frute of wickednes the corne of euil sede bringeth forthe, 32 And when the stalkes shalbe cut downe which are without nõber, how great an harueste must be prepared.
33 Then I answered, and said, How, & when shal these things come to passe? wherefore are our yeres fewe and euil?
34 And he answered me, saying, Haste not to be aboue ỹ moste High: for thou laboreste in vaine to be aboue hī, thogh thou indeuer neuer so muche.
35 Did not the soules also of the righteous aske question of these things in their chambres, saying, How long shal I thus hope? & when cometh the frute of my barne and our wages?
36 And vpon this Ieremiel the Archangel answered, and said, When the nomber of ỹ sedes is filled in you: for he hathe weighed the worlde in the balãce.
37 The measured of the times is measured: the ages are counted by nomber, and they shal not be moued or shaken, til the measure thereof be fulfilled.
38 Then answered I, & said, O lord, lord we are all euen ful of sinne, 39 And for our sake paraduenture the harueste of ỹ righteous is not fulfilled, because of the sinne of them that dwel vpon earth.
40 So he answered me, and said, Go, & aske a woman with childe, when she hathe fulfilled her nine moneths, if her wombe may kepe the birth anie longer within her.
41 Then said I, No, lord, she can not. And he said vnto me, In the graue the places of soules are like the wombe.
42 For as she that is with childe, hasteth to escape the necessitie of the trauail, so do these places hast to deliuer those things that are committed vnto them.
43 That which thou desireste to se, shalbe shewed thee from the beginning.
44 Then answered I, and said, If, I, haue founde grace in thy sight, and if it be possible, and if I be mete therefore,
45 Shewe me whether there be more to come then is past, or more things past then are to come.
46 What is past, I knowe, but what is to come, I knowe not.
47 And he said vnto me, Stand on the right side, and I wil expounde thee this by example.
48 So I stode, and beholde, a whote burning ouen passed before me: and when ỹ flame was gone by, I loked, & beholde, ỹ smoke had the vpper hand.
49 After this there passed before me a waterie cloude, and sent downe muche raine with a storme: and when the stormie raine was past, the droppes came after.
50 Then said he vnto me, Consider with thy self, as the raine is more then the droppes, and as fyre excedeadeth the smoke. so the porcion that is past, hathe the vpper hand, & the droppes and the smoke were muche.
51 Then I praied, & said, Maie I liue, thinkest thou vntil that time? or what shal come to passe in those daies?
52 He answered me, and said, Of the tokens whereof thou askest me, I can tell thee a parte: but I am not sent to shewe thee of thy life: for I do not knowe it.

CHAP V.

1 In the latter times trueth shalbe hid. 6 Vnrighteousnes & all wickednes shal reigne in the worlde. 23 Israel is reiected and God deliuereth them. 35 God doeth all things in season.

1 NEuertheles concerning the tokens beholde, the times shal come, that thei which dwell vpon earth, shalbe taken in a great nomber, & the way of the trueth shalbe hid & ỹ land shalbe baren from faith,
2 And * iniquitie shalbe increased more then thou hast sene now, or hast heard in time past. Mat. 24, 12
3 And it shal come to passe, that one shal set in fote, and thou shalt se the land desolate, which now reigneth.
4 Yea, if God grante thee to liue, thou shalt se after the third trumpet, that the sunne shal suddēly shine againe in the night, & he moone thre times a day
5 Blood shal drop out of the wood, and the stone shal giue his voyce, and the people shalbe moued:
6 And he shal rule, of whome thei hope not that dwell vpon earth, and the foules shal change place.
7 And the sea of Sodom shal cast out fish, and make a noyse in the night, which many shal not knowe, but they shal, all heare the voyce thereof.

8 There shalbe a confusiō in many places, and the fyre shal oft breake forthe & the wilde beasts shal change their places, and menstruous womē shal beare monstres,
9 And salt waters shalbe founde in the swete, & all friends shal fight one against another: then shal wit hide it self, and vnderstanding departe into his secret chamber.
10 It shalbe soght of many, and yet not be founde: then shal vnrighteousnes and voluptuousnes haue ȳ vpper hand vpon earth.
11 One land also shal aske another, & say, Is righteous iustice gone thorowe thee? And it shal say, No.
12 At the same time shal men hope, but not obteine: they shal labour, but their enterprises shal not prosper.
13 To shewe thee suche tokens I haue leaue, and if thou wilt praie againe and wepe as now, and fast seuen daies, thou shalt heare yet greater things thē these.
14 ¶ Then I awaked, and a fearefulnes went thorow my bodie, and my minde was feble and fainted.
15 But the Angel that was come to talke with me, helde me, comforted me, and set me vp vpon my fete.
16 And in the seconde night Salathiel ȳ captaine of the people came vnto me, saying, Where hast thou bene? and why is thy countenance so heauie?
17 Knowest thou not that Israel is committed vnto thee in the land of their captiuitie?
18 Vp then and eat, & forsake vs not, as the shepherd that leaueth his flocke in ȳ hands of the cruel wolues.
19 Then said I vnto him, Go thy waies from me, and come not nere me: and when he heard it, he went from me.
20 And I fasted seuen daies, mourning and weping, as Vriel the Angel had commanded me.
21 And after seuen daies the thoghts of mine heart were very grieuous vnto me againe.
22 And I had a desire to reason againe, and I beganne to talke with the moste High againe, 23 And said, O Lord, Lord: of euerie forest of the earth, and of all the trees thereof thou hast chosen thee one onely vineyarde.
24 And of all lands of the worlde thou hast chosen thee one pit, & of all the floures of the grounde thou hast chosen thee one lilie.
25 And of all ȳ depths of the sea thou hast filled thee one riuer, and of all buylded cities thou hast sanctified Siō vnto thy self.
26 And of all the foules that are created, thou hast named thee one doue, and of all the cattel that are made, thou hast appointed thee one shepe.
27 And among all the multitude of people thou hast gotten thee one people, and vnto this people whome thou louedst, thou gauest a Law, that is proued of all.
28 And now, ô Lord, why hast thou giuē this one people ouer vnto many? and vpon one roote thou hast set others, & hast scatred thine onelie people among many.
29 They treade them downe, which haue with stand thy promises, and beleue not thy testimonies.
30 And if thou dideſt somuche hate thy people, they shulde haue bene punished with thine owne hands.
31 ¶ Now when I had spoken these wordes, ȳ Angel that came to me the night a fore, was sent vnto me, 32 And said vnto me, Heare me, and I wil teache thee, & hearken that I may instruct thee further 33 And I said, Speake on, my lord, Then said he vnto me, Thou art sore vexed and troubled for Israels sake. Louest thou them better, then he doeth that made them?
34 And I said, No, lord: but of very sorow haue I spoken: for my raines paine euerie houre, while I labour to cōprehēd the way of the moste High, & to seke out parte of his iudgement.
35 And he said vnto me, Thou canst not. And I said, Wherefore, lord, wherefore was I borne? or why was not my morthers wombe then my graue? so had I not sene the trouble of Iacob, and ȳ grief of the flocke of Israel.
36 And he said vnto me, Nomber vnto me the things that are not yet come, or gather me the droppes, that are scatred, or make me the withered floures grene againe.
37 Open me the places that are closed, and bring me forthe the windes, that are shut vp therein: shewe me the image of a voyce, and then wil I declare thee the thing, that thou askest and laboreſt to knowe.
38 And I said, O Lord, Lord, who can knowe these things, but he that hathe not his dwelling with men?
39 But I that am ignorant, how can I speake of these thigs, whereof thou askest me?
40 Then said he vnto me, Like as thou canst do none of these things, that I haue spoken of, so canst thou not finde out my iudgement, nor the least benefite, that I haue promised vnto my people.
41 Then I said, Beholde, ô Lord, ȳ last things things are present vnto thee, and what shal they do that haue bene before me, or we that be now, or they that shal come after vs?

42 And he said vnto me, I wil compare my iudgement vnto a ring: as there is no slacknes of the last, so is there no swiftnes of the first.

43 Then I answered, and said, Coldest thou not make at once those ý haue bene, those that are now, & those that shal come, that thou mightest shewe thy iudgement the sonner?

44 Then answered he me, The creature said he, can not preuent the Creator, nether can the worlde holde them at once, that shalbe created therein.

45 And I said, As thou hast taught thy seruant, that thou, which giuest strength to all, hast giuē life at once to all ý worke created by thee, and hast sustcined it, so might it now also conteine all mē at once.

46 And he said vnto me, Aske the wombe of a woman, and say vnto her, Why must thou haue time before thou brigest forthe? require her to bring forthe ten at once.

47 And I said, Sureli she can not, but by distance of time.

48 Then said he vnto me, So haue I deuided the nomber of the earth by times when sede is sowen vpon it.

49 For as a yong child begetteth not that that belongeth to the aged, so haue I ordeined the time which I haue created.

50 ¶ I asked againe, and said, Seing thou hast now shewed me the way, I wil procede to speake before thee: for our mother, whome thou hast tolde me is yong, draweth she nere vnto age?

51 He answered me, and said, Aske a womā that traueileth, and she wil tell thee.

52 Say vnto her, Wherefore are not they (whome thou hast now brought forthe) like those that were before thee, but lesse of stature?

53 And she shal answer thee, Some were borne in the floure of youth, others were borne in the time of age, when the wombe failed.

54 Consider now thy self, how that ye are lesse of stature, then those that were before you, 55 And so are they that come after you, lesse then ye, as the creatures which now begynne to be olde, and haue passed ouer the strength of youth.

56 Then said I, Lord, I beseche thee, if I haue founde fauour in thy sight, shewe thy seruant, by whome doest thou gouerne thy workemanship?

CHAP. VI.

God hathe foreséne all things in his secret counsel, and is autor thereof, and hathe created them for his children. 25 The felicitie of the age to come.

1 AND he said vnto me, In the begīning when the rounde worlde was made, and before the borders of the worlde were set, and before the windes blewe one against another:

2 Before ý noyse of thundres sounded, before ý bright lightening did shine forthe, before the fundacions of Paradise were laide:

3 Before the faire floures did appeare, before the moueable powers were stablished, before the innumerable armies of Angels were gathered:

4 Before ý heights of ý aire were lifted vp, before ý measures of ý heauēs were named, before ý chimneis in Sion were hote:

5 Before ý present yeres were soght out and before ý affectiōs of thē that now sinne, were turned away, and they ý haue laid vp the treasure of faith, were sealed,

6 Then did I purpose these things, & they were made by me alone, and by none other. by me also they shalbe ended, and by none other.

7 The answered I, and said, What shalbe the diuision of times? or when shalbe ý end of the first, and the beginning of it that followeth?

8 And he said vnto me, From Abraham vnto Isaac, when Iacob and Esau were borne of him, *Iacobs hand helde first the hele of Esau. Genes. 25, 26

9 For Esau is the end of this worlde, and Iacob is the beginning of it that followeth.

10 The hād of man is betwixt ý hele and the hand. Other thīg, Esdras, aske ý not.

11 ¶ I answered then, & said, O Lord, Lord, if I haue foūde fauour in thy sight 12 I beseche thee, make an end to shewe thy seruant thy tokens, whereof thou shewedst me parte the last night.

13 So he answered me, and said, Stand vp vpon thy fete, and heare a mightie sounding voyce.

14 There shal come as an earthquake, but the place where thou standest, shal not be moued.

15 And therefore when he speaketh, be not afraied: for of the end shal be the worde, & of the fundacion of the earth shal it be vnderstand.

16 Therefore while one speaketh of thē it trēbleth ād is moued: for it knoweth that it must be changed at the end.

17 And when I had heard it, I stode vp vpon my fete, and hearkened, and beholde, there was a voyce ý spake, and the sounde of it was like the sounde of man y waters:

18 And it said, Beholde, the daies come, that I wil come & inquire of them that dwell vpon the earth,
19 And when I beginne to inquire of thē, who by their vnrighteousnes haue hurt others, and when the affliction of Sion shal be fulfilled,
20 And the wrolde, that shal vanish away, shalbe sealed, them wil I shewe these signes: the bokes shalbe opened before the heauen, and they shal se all it together.
21 And the children of a yere olde shal speake with their voyces: the women with child shal bring forthe vntimelie childrē of thre or foure moneths olde, and they shal liue that are raised vp.
22 Then suddenly shal the sowen places appeare as the vnsowne, & the ful store houses shal suddenly be founde emptie.
23 And the trumpet shal sounde, and all they that heare it, shalbe suddenly afraied.
24 At that time shal friends fight with friends, as with enemies, and the earth shal feare with them: the springs of the welles shal stand stil, & in thre houres they shal not renne.
25 Whosoeuer remaineth from all these things that I haue tolde thee, shal be saued & se my saluacion, & the end of your worlde.
26 And the men that are receiued, shal se it: they that haue not tasted death from their birth, and the heart of the inhabitants shal be changed, and turned to another meaning.
27 For euil shal be put out, and disceate shal be quenched, 28 But faith shal flourish: corruption shalbe ouercome, and the trueth which hathe bene so long without frute, shal come forthe.
29 ¶ And when he talked with me, beholde, I loked a litle vpon him before whome I stode.
30 And these wordes said he vnto me, I am come to shewe the, the time of the night to come.
31 If thou wilt pray againe, and fast seuen daies more, I wil tel thee more things, & greater then these, which I haue heard in the day.
32 For thy voyce is heard before the Highest: surely the mightie hathe sene thy righteous dealing, he hathe sene also thy chastitie, which thou hast kept since thy youth.
33 Therefore hathe he sent me to shewe thee all these things, and to say vnto thee, Be of good comfort, and feare not,
34 And haste not in the vaine consideration of the first times, nor make haste to the latter times.
35 And after this I wepte againe and fasted seuen daies in like maner, that I might fulfil the thre wekes, which he had appointed me.
36 And in the eight night was mine heart vexed within me againe, and I began to speake before the moste High.
37 For my spirit was greatly set on fyer, & my soule was in distresse.
38 And I said, O Lord, thou spakest expresly in the first creation (euen the first day) and commandedst * that the heauen and the earth shulde be made, and the worke followed thy worde.
39 And thē was there the spirit, and the darknes was on euerie side whith silence: there was no mans voyce as yet created of thee. Genes. 1.2
40 Then commandedst thou a bright light to come forthe out of thy treasures, that it might giue light to thy worke.
41 Vpon the second day thou createdst the heauenlie ayre, and commandedst it, that going betwene, it shulde make a diuision betwene the waters, that ỹ one parte might remaine aboue, and the other beneth.
42 Vpon the third day thou commandedst, that the waters shulde be gathered together in the seuenth parte of ỹ earth: six partes dideſt ỹ drye, & kept them to the intent that of these there shulde be that shulde serue thee, being sowen of God and tilled.
43 Assone as thy worde went forthe, the worke was incontinently made.
44 For immediatly great and innumerable frute did spring vp, and manie diuerse pleasures for the taste, and flowres of vnchangeable colour, and odours of a moste wonderful smel & these things were created the third day. Genes. 1.11.12
45 * Vpon the fourth day thou createdst the light of the sunne, and of the moone, and the order of the starres, 46 And gauest them a charge, to do * seruice euen vnto man that was for to be made. Genes. 11.14 & 15 Deut. 4.19
47 And vpon the fift day thou saidest vnto the seuenth parte * where the waters were gathered, that it shulde bring forthe beasts, as foules and fishes: and it was so. Genes. 1.20
48 For the domme waters, and without life broght forthe liuing things at the commandement of God that the nations might praise thy wonderous workes.
49 Then dideſt thou prepare two liuing things, the one thou calledst || Behemoth, & the other thou calledst Leuiathan, || Or, Enooch
50 And dideſt separate the one from the other: for the seuenth parte, whete the water was gathered, could not holde them.

51 Vnto Behemoth thou gaueſt one parte, which was dryed vp the third day, that he ſhulde dwell in the ſame parte, where in are a thouſand hilles.
52 But vnto Leuiathan thou gaueſt the ſeuenth parte, that is wett, and haſt prepared him to deuoure what thou wilt, and when thou wilt.
53 Vpon the ſixt day thou gaueſt commandement vnto the earth, that before thee it ſhulde bring forthe beaſts, catel and creping things.
54 And beſides this Adam, whome thou madeſt lord ouer all the workes which thou haſt created, of him come we all, and the people alſo, whome thou haſt choſen.
55 All this haue I ſpoken before thee, ô Lord, becauſe thou haſt created the worlde for our ſakes.
56 As for the other people which alſo come of Adam, thou haſt declared thē that they are nothing before thee, but be like vnto ſpittle, and haſt compared their riches vnto a drop that falleth from a veſſel.
57 And now, ô Lord, beholde theſe heathen which haue bene reputed as nothing, haue begonne to be lords ouer vs and to deuoure vs.
58 And we thy people (whome thou haſt called the firſt borne, the onely begotten, and thy feruent louer) are giuen into their hands.
59 If the worlde then be created for our ſakes, why haue we not the inheritance thereof in poſſeſsion? or how long ſhal we ſuffer theſe things?

CHAP. VII.

5 Without tribulation none can come to felicitie. 12 God aduertiſeth all in time. 28 The coming and death of Chriſt. 32 The reſurrection and laſt iudgement, 43 After the which all corruption ſhal ceaſe. 48 All fell in Adam. 59 The true life. 62 The mercies and goodnes of God.

1 AND when I had made an end of theſe wordes, there was ſent vnto me an Angel, which had bene ſent downe to me the nights afore.
2 And he ſaid vnto me, Vp, Eſdras, and heare the wordes that I am come to tell thee.
3 And ſaid, Speake on, my God. Then ſaid he vnto me, The ſea is ſet in a wyde place, that it might be deepe and great,
4 But preſuppoſe that the entrance thereof were narow, and like riuers,
5 Who colde go into the ſea to loke vpon it, and to rule it? If he went not thorowe the narowe, how colde he come into the broade?
6 There is alſo another thing: a citie is buylded and ſet vpon a broade field, and is ful of all good things:
7 The entrance thereof is narrowe and in a dangerous place to fall, that there is fyre at the right hand, and a deepe water at the lefte,
8 And there is but one path betwixt them, euen betwene the fyre and the water, ſo that there colde but one man go there.
9 If this citie were giuen vnto a man for an inheritance, if he neuer went thorowe the peril before it, howe colde he receaue his inheritance?
10 And I ſaid, It is ſo, Lord. Then ſaid he, So is the portion of Iſrael.
11 Surely for their ſakes haue I made the worlde: and when Adam tranſgreſſed my ſtatutes, then came this thing to paſſe.
12 Then were the entrances of the worlde made narowe, full of ſorowe and trauail: they are but fewe and euil, and full of perils, and verie peineful.
13 For the entrances of the fore worlde were wyde and ſure, and broght immortal frute.
14 If then they that are liuing, labour not to enter by theſe ſtrait and brittel things, they can not atteine to thoſe things that are hid.
15 Why then diſquietteſt thou thy ſelf, ſeing thou art corruptible? and why art thou moued, ſeing thou art mortal?
16 And why haſt thou not conſidered in in thy minde the things to come, rather then them that are preſent?
17 Then ſaid I, O Lord, Lord, * ſeing ỹ haſt ordeined in thy Law, that the righteous ſhulde inherite theſe things, and that the vngodlie ſhulde periſh, Deut.8,2 18 Shulde the righteous ſuffer ſtraitnes, in hoping for large things? yet thei ỹ haue liued vngodly and ſuffered straitnes ſhal not ſe the large things.
19 Then he ſaid vnto me, There is no iudge more iuſte then God, and there is none more wiſe then the moſte High,
20 For manie periſh in this life becauſe they deſpiſe the Law of God that is appointed.
21 For, God hathe diligētly admoniſhed ſuche as came, ſo oft as they came, what they ſhulde do to haue life, & what they ſhulde obſerue, to auoid puniſhment.
22 Neuertheles, they were not obedient vnto him, but ſpake againſt him, and imagined vaine things, 23 And deceiued them ſelues by their wicked dedes, & denied the power of the moſte High, and regarded not his waies.
24 But they deſpiſed his Law, and refused his promises: they haue vnfaithfully broken his ordinances, and haue not performed his workes.

25 And therefore, Esdras, vnto the emptie are emptie things, & to the ful ful things.

26 Beholde, the time shal come, that these tokens which I haue told thee, shal come to passe, and the bride shal appeare, and she shal come forthe, and be sene that now is vnder the earth.

27 And whosoeuer shal escape these euils, he shal se my wonders.

28 For my sonne Iesus shal appeare with those that be with him, and they that remaine, shal reioyce within foure hundreth yeres.

29 After these same yeres shal my sonne Christ dye, and all men that haue life.

30 And the worlde shalbe turned into ỹ olde silence for seuen dayes, as in the fore iudgements, so that no man shal remaine.

31 But after seuen dayes, the worlde that is yet a slepe, shalbe raised vp: and that shal dye, that is corrupt.

32 Then the earth shal restore those, that haue slept in her, and so shal the dust those that dwell therein in silence, and the secret places shal deliuer the soules that were committed vnto them.

33 And the most High shal appeare vpon the seate of iudgement, and miseries shal vanish away, and long suffring shal haue an end.

34 Iustice onely shal continue: the trueth shal remaine, and faith shal be strong.

35 The worke shal followe, and the reward shalbe shewed: the good dedes shalbe of force, and vnrighteousnes shal beare no more rule.

36 Then said I, * Abraham prayed first for the Sodomites, and Moyses for the fathers that sinned in the wildernes, Gen.18.23 exod.32.3

37 And they that came after him, for Israel in the time of Achaz, and Samuel,

38 And * Dauid for the destruction, * and Salomon for them that came into the Sanctuarie, 2.Sam.24.17 2.Chro.6.14

39 * And Elias for those that receiued raine, and for the dead that he might liue, 1.King.17.22 & 18.25 2 King.19.15

40 And Ezechias for the people in the time of Sennacherib, and diuerse others for manie.

41 Euen so now, seing vice is increased, & wickednes abunderth, and the righteous haue prayed for the vngodlie, wherefore shal not the same effect followe also now?

42 Then he answered me, & said, This present life is not the end: oft times honour is reteined in it: therefore haue they prayed for the weake.

43 But the day of iudgement shal be the end of this worlde, and the beginning of the immortalitie to come, wherein all corruption shal cease.

44 Intemperancie shal passe away: infidelitie shalbe cut of: righteousnes shal growe vp, and ỹ veritie shal spring vp.

45 Then shal no man be able to saue him that is destroyed, nor oppresse him hathe gotten the victorie.

46 I answered then, and said: This is my first and last saying, that it had bene better not to haue giuen the earth vnto Adam, or when it was giuen him, to haue kept him that he shulde not haue sinned, 47 For what profit is it for men in this present life to be in heauines, and after death to feare punishement?

48 O Adam, what hast thou done? * for in that that thou hast sinned, thou art not fallen alone, but the fall also redundeth vnto vs that come of thee. Rom.5.11

49 For what profit is it vnto vs, if there be promised an immortal life, when we do the workes that bring death?

50 And that an euerlasting hope shulde be promised vs, seing that we bitide our selues to deadlie vanitie?

51 And that there shulde be appointed vs dwellings of health and safetie, if we haue liued wickedly?

52 And that the glorie of the moste High shulde be kept to defende them which haue led a pacient life, if we haue walked in the wicked wayes?

53 And that an eternal Paradise shulde be shewed, whose frute remaineth incorruptible, wherein is safetie and health, if we wil not enter into it?

54 (For we haue bene conuersant in vnpleasant places)

55 And that ỹ faces of them, ẅ haue absteined, shuld shine more then starres, if our faces be blacker then darckenes?

56 For while we liued, we did not remember when we did vnrighteously, that we shulde suffer after death.

57 Then answered he me, and said, This is the maner of the battel, which man, that is borne in the earth, shal fight,

58 That if he be ouercome, he shulde suffer as thou hast said: but if he get the victorie, he shulde receaue ỹ thing that I said,

59 For this is the life, where of Moyses spake vnto the people, while he liued, saying, * Chuse thee life that thou maist liue. Deut.30.19

60 Neuertheles, they beleued him not, nether the Prophetes after him, nor me also which haue said vnto them, 61 That heauines shulde not so be to their destruction, as ioye shulde come vnto them, to whome saluacion is persuaded.

62 I answered then and said, I know, Lord, that the moste High is called merciful, in that he hathe mercie vpon them, them, which are not yet come to that worlde, 63 And that he hathe pitie on those that walke in his Law.

Rom.2,4 64 And that * he is pacient: for he long suffreth those that haue sinned as his creatures, 65 And that he is liberall: for he wil giue asmuche as nedeth,
66 And that he is of great mercie: for he ouercometh in mercie those that are present, and that are past, and them ẏ are to come.
67 For if he were not abondant in his mercies, the worlde colde not continue, nor they ẏ haue the possession thereof.
68 He perdoneth also: for if he gaue not of his goodnes that they, which haue done euil, might be relieued from their wickednes, the ten thousand parte of men shulde not remaine aliue.
69 And if he, being iudge, forgaue not those that be healed with his worde, and toke away the multitude of sinnes, 70 There shulde peraduenture be verie fewe left in an vnnumerable multitude.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The nomber of the godlie is smale. 6 The workes of God are excellent. 20 Esdras prayer for him and for his people. 39 The promes of saluacion to the iuste. 55 The destruction of the vniust.

1 AND he answered me, saying, The most High made this worlde for manie, but the worlde to come for fewe.
2 I wil tel thee a similitude, ô Esdras. As when thou askest the earth, it shal say vnto thee, that it giueth muche earthlie matter to make pottes, but litle dust that golde cometh of, so is it with the worke of this worlde.
Mat.20,16 3 * There be manie created, but fewe shalbe saued.
4 Then answered I, and said, Then swalowe vp the wit, ô my soule, and deuoure vnderstanding.
5 For thou hast promised to heare, and thou wilt prophecie: for thou hast no longer space, but the life giuen thee.
6 O Lord, if thou suffer not thy seruant, that we may intreat thee, that thou maist giue sede vnto our heart, and prepare our vnderstanding, that there may come frute of it, whereby euerie one which is corrupt, may liue, who can set him self for man?
7 For thou art alone, and we all are one worke manshipp of thine hands, as thou hast said
8 For when the bodie is facioned now in the wombe, & thou hast giuen it members, thy creature is preserued by fyre & water, and the worke, created by thee, doeth suffer nine moneths the creature, which is facioned in it.
9 But the thing that conteineth, and that which is conteined, shal bothe be preserued, and when time is come, the wombe, being preserued, deliuereth ẏ things that grewe in it.
10 For thou hast commanded the members, euen the breasts, to giue milke vnto the frute appointed to the breasts, 11 That the thing, which is created, may be nourished for a time, til thou disposest it to thy mercie.
12 Thou bringest it vp with thy righteousnes, nurturest it in thy Law, & reformest it with thy iudgement.
13 Thou slayest it as thy creature, & giuest it life as thy worke.
14 Seing then that thou destroyest him, & with so great labours is facioned, it is an aesie thing to appoint by thy commandement, that the thing also ẅ is made, might be preserued.
15 Now therefore, ô Lord, I wil speake (as touching men in general thou shalt rather prouide) but concerning thy people, for whose sake I am sorie, 16 And for thine inheritance for whose cause I mourne: for Israel, for whome I am woful, and for Iacob, for whose sake I am grieued.
17 For them wil I pray before thee, as wel for my self, as for them: for I se our faultes that dwelt in the land.
18 ¶ But I haue heard the sudden comming of the iudge, which is to come.
19 Therefore heare my voyce, and vnderstand my wordes, which I wil speake before thee. The beginning of the wordes of Esdras, before he was taken vp.
20 O Lord that liuest for euer, which beholdest from aboue that which is aboue, and in the ayre, 21 Whose throne is inestimable, & his glorie incomprehẽsible, before whome the hoste of the Angels stãd with trembling,
22 Whose keping is turned in winde and fyre, whose worde is true, and sayings sted fast, whose commandement is strong, and gouernement terrible,
23 Whose loke dryeth vp ẏ depths, and wrath maketh the mountaines to melt away as the thing beareth witnes. ẏ
24 Heare the prayer of thy seruant, and receiue into thine eares the petition of thy creature.
25 For while I liue, I wil speake, and so long as I haue vnderstanding, I wil answer.
26 Loke not vpon the sinnes of thy people, rather then thy faithful seruants.

27 Haue not respect vnto the wicked dedes of men, rather then to them ỹ haue thy testimonies in afflictions.
28 Thinke not vpon those that haue walked fainedly before thee, but remember them that reuerence thy wil.
29 Let it not be thy wil to destroye them which haue liued like beasts, but loke vpon them that haue clearly taught thy Law.
30 Take not displeasure with them, ẅ appeare worse then beasts, but loue thē that alway put their trust in thy righteousnes and glorie.
31 For we and our fathers haue all the same sicknes: but because of vs that are sinners thou shalt be called merciful.
32 If therefore thou wilt haue mercie vpon vs, thou shalt be called merciful towardes vs which haue no workes of righteousnes.
33 For the righteous, which haue laid vp manie good workes, let them receiue the rewarde of their owne dedes.
34 But what is man, that thou shuldest take displeasure at him? or what is this mortal generacion, that thou shuldest be so gricued towards it?
35 * For verely there is no man amonge them that be borne, but he hathe done wickedly, nor anie that doeth confesse thee, which hathe not done amisse.
36 For in this, ô Lord, thy righteousnes and thy goodnes shalbe praised, if thou be merciful vnto them which haue not the substance of good workes.
37 ¶ Then answered he me, and said, Some things hast thou spoken aright, and according vnto thy wordes it shalbe.
38 For I wil not verely cōsider the workes of them, before the death, before ỹ iudgement, before destruction:
39 But * I wil reioyce in the wayes of the righteous, and I wil remember the pilgrimage, the saluation and the rewarde that they shal haue.
40 Like as I haue spoken now, so shal it come to passe.
41 For as the husband man soweth muche sede vpon the grounde, & planteth many trees, & yet alway the thing that is sowen, cometh not vp in time, nether: yet doeth all that is planted take roote, so nether shal thei all that are brogh̄t into the worlde, be saued.
42 I answered thē & said, If I haue founde grace, let me speake.
43 Like as the husband mans sede perisheth, if it come not vp, and receiue not raine in due season, or if it be destroyed with to muche raine.
44 So perisheth man, which is created with thine hands, & thou art called his patern, because he is created to thine image, for whose sake thou hast made all things, and lickened him vnto the husbandmans sede.
45 Be not wroth with vs, ô Lord, but spare thy people & haue mercie vpon thine inheritance; for thou wilt be merciful vnto thy creature.
46 Then answered he me, and said, The things present are for the present, and the things to come for suche as be to come.
47 For thou art farre of, that thou shuldest loue my creature aboue me: but I haue oft times drawen nere vnto thee and vnto it, but neuer to ỹ vnrighteous.
48 In this also thou art maruelous before the Higheſt, 49 In that thou hast humbled thy self, as it becometh thee, and hast not iudged thy self worthie to boast thy self greatly among the righteous.
50 For many miseries & calamities remaine for them that shal liue in the latter time, because thei shal walke in great pride.
51 But learne thou for thy self, and seke out the glorie for suche as be like thee.
52 For vnto you is paradise opened: the tre of life is planted: the time to come is prepared, plenteousnes made ready: ỹ citie is buylded, and rest is prepared, perfite goodnes and absolute wisdome.
53 The roote of euil is sealed vp from you: ỹ weakenes and moth is destroyed from you, and into hell fleeth corruption to be forgotten
54 Sorowes are vanished away, and in the end is shewed the treasure of immortalitie.
55 Therefore aske thou no more questions concerning the multitude of thē that perish.
56 For when thei had libertie, they despised the most High: they contemned his Law & forsoke his wayes.
57 Moreouer, they haue troden downe his righteous,
58 * Saying in their heart, that there was no God, thogh they knewe that they shulde dye.
59 For as the thing that I haue spoken of, is made readie for you: so is thirst and peine prepared for them: for God wolde not that man shulde perish:
60 But they, after that they were created, haue defiled the Name of him ỹ made them, & are vnthankeful vnto him, which prepared life for them.
61 Therefore my iudgement is now at hand.
62 These things haue I not shewed vnto all men, but vnto thee, and to a fewe like thee: then I answered, and said.
63 Beholde now, ô Lord: thou hast shewed me the many wonders, which thou art determined to do in the last time, but in what time, thou hast not shewed me.

CHAP. IX.

2 All things in this worlde haue a beginning and an end. 10 Torments for The wicked after this life. 15 The nomber of the wicked is more then of the good. 29 The Iewes ingratitude: 36 Therefore they perish. 29 The vision of a woman lamenting.

1 HE answered me then, & said, Measure the time with it self, & when thou seest that one parte of the tokens come to passe, which I haue tolde thee before,

2 Then shalt thou vnderstand, that it is ỹ time wherin the moste High wil begin to visite the worlde, ẅ he made.

Mat. 24, 7 3 Therefore when there shalbe sene an *erthquake in ỹ worlde, and an vproare of the people, 4 Then shalt ỹ vndrstād ỹ ỹ moste High spake of those things from the daies ỹ were before ỹ, euen from ỹ begining.

5 For as all that is made in the worlde, hathe a beginning and an end, and the end is manifest,

6 So the times also of the most High haue plaine beginnings in wonders and signes and end in effect and miracles.

7 And euerie one that shal escape safe, & shalbe deliuered by his workes, and by the faith wherein ye haue beleued,

8 Shalbe preserued from the said perils and shal se my saluacion in my land, and within my borders: for I haue kept me holy from the worlde.

9 Then shal they haue pitie of them selues, which now haue abused my waies: & thei that haue cast them out dispitefully, shal dwell in peines.

10 For suche as in their life haue receiued benefites, and haue not knowen me,

11 But haue abhorred my Law, while they were yet in libertie, and when they had yet leasure of amendement, and wolde not vnderstand but despised it,

12 They must be taught it after death by peine.

13 And therefore be thou no more careful, to know how the vngodlie shalbe punished, but inquire how the righteous shalbe saued, and whose the worlde is, and for whome it is, and when.

14 Then answered I, and said,

15 I haue afore said that which I say now & wil speake it hereafter, that there be many mo of them which perish, then of them that shalbe *saued.

Chap. 8. 3 mat. 20, 16 16 As the flood is greater then a drop.

17 And he answered me, saying, As the field is, so is also the sede: as the floures be, so are the colours also: suche as the workeman is, suche is the worke: and as the housbandman is, so is his housbandrie: for it was the time of the worlde.

18 Surely when I prepared the worlde, which was not yet made for them to dwel in, that now liue, no man spake against me.

19 For then euerie one obeied. But now the maners of them that are created in this worlde, that is made, are corrupted by a perpetual sede, & by a Law, whereout, thei can not rid them selues.

20 So I considered the worlde, & beholde, there was peril, because of the deuises, that were sprung vp into it.

21 Yet when I sawe it, I spared it greatly, and haue kept me one grape of the cluster, and a plant out of a great people.

22 Let therefore the multitude perish, which are borne in vaine: and let my grape be kept, and my plant, which I haue dressed with great labour.

23 ¶ Neuertheles, if thou wilt cease seuen daies mo, but thou shalt not fast in them,

24 But shalt go into a faire field, where no house is buylded, & shalt eat onely of the floures of the field, and eat no flesh, nor drinke wine, but the floures onely,

25 And pray vnto the most High continually, thē wil I come, and talke ẅ the.

26 So I went my waye, as he had commanded me, into the field, which is called Ardath, & there I sate among the floures & did eat of the herbes of the field, and ỹ meat of ỹ same satisfied me,

27 And after seuen dayes, as I sate vpon the grasse, and mine heart was vexed with in me, as afore,

28 I opened my mouth, and began to talke before the moste High, and to say,

29 O Lord, when thou woldest shewe thy self vnto vs, * thou declaredst thy self vnto our fathers in the wildernes, in a place where no man dwelleth, in a baren place, when they came out of Egypt, Exod. 19. 9, & 24, 3, deu. 4, 12

30 And expressely spakest vnto them, saying, Heare me, ô Israel, and marke my wordes, thou sede of Iacob.

31 For beholde, I saw my Law in you, that it may bring forthe frute in you, and that ye may be honored by it for euer.

32 But our fathers, which receiued the Law, kept it not, nether obserued thine ordinances, nether did the frute of the lawe appeare, nether colde it, for it was thine.

33 *For they that receiued it, perished because they kept not the thing that was sowen in them. Exod. 32, 28

34 And lo, it is a custome when the grounde receiueth sede, or the sea a ship, or a vessel meat and drinke, if that perish wherein a thing is sowen, or wherein any thing is put,

35 Likewise the thing that is sowen, or is put therein, and the things that are receiued must perish: so the things that are receiued, do not remaine with vs: but in vs it cometh not so to passe.
36 For we that haue receiued the Law, perish in sinne, and our heart also which receiued it.
37 But the Law perisheth not, but remaineth in his force.
38 ¶ And when I spake these things in mine heart, I loked about me, & vpon the right side I sawe a woman, which mourned sore and lamented with a loude voyce, and was grieued in heart, and rent her clothes, and she had ashes vpō her head.
Chap. 10. 44
39 Then I left my thoghts, wherein I was occupied, and turned me vnto her,
40 And said vnto her, wherefore wepest thou? why art thou so sory in minde?
41 And she said vnto me, Syr, let me alone, that I may bewaile my self, and increase sorowe: for I am sore vexed in in my minde, and broght verie lowe.
42 Then I said vnto her, What aileth thee? tel me.
43 And she said vnto me, I thy seruant haue bene baren, & haue had no childe, hauing an housband thirtie yeres.
44 And euery houre, & euery day these thirtie yeres I pray to the moste High day & night.
45 And after thirtie yeres God heard me thine handmaid, & loked vpon my miserie, considered my trouble, & gaue me a sonne, & I was glad of him: so was mine housband also, and all they of my countrey, and we gaue great honour vnto the Almightie 46 And I nourished him with great trauail.
47 So when he grewe vp, and came to take a wife, I made a feast.

CHAP. X.

Esdras and the woman that appeareth vnto him, commune together.

1 BVt when my sonne went into his chaber, he felle downe, and dyed.
2 Then we all ouerthrewe the lights, & all my neighbours rose vp to comfort me: so I rested vntil the seconde day at night.
3 And when thei had all left of to comfort me, that I shulde be quiet, then I rose vp by night, & fled, and am come into this field as thou seest,
4 And am not purposed to returne into the citie, but to remaine heare and nether to eat nor drinke, but cōtinually to mourne & fast, vntil I dye.
5 Then left I my purpose wherein I was, and spake to her angerly, and said,
6 Thou foolish woman aboue all other, seest thou not our heauines, and what cometh vnto vs?
7 For Sion our mother is all woful and is sore afflicted, and mourneth extremely.
8 Seing we be all now in heauines, and make our mone (for we be all sorowful) art thou sorie for one sonne?
9 Demande the earth, and she shal tell thee that it is she which ought to mourne for the fall of so manie that growe vpon her.
10 For from the beginning all men are borne of her, and other shal come, and beholde, they walke almoste all into destruction, & the multitude of them shalbe destroyed.
11 Who shulde then rather mourne, she that hathe lost so great a multitude, or thou which art sorie but for one:
12 But if thou woldest say vnto me, My mourning is not like the mourning of the earth (for I haue lost the frute of my wombe, which I broght forthe with heauines, & bare with sorowes, 13 But the earth is according to the maner of the erth, and the present multitude returneth into her as it came)
14 Then say I vnto thee, As thou hast borne with trauail, so the earth also from the beginning giueth her frute vnto man, euen to him that labored her.
15 Now therefore withholde thy sorow in thy self, and beare constantly that is cometh vnto thee.
16 For if thou alloweste Gods purpose, and receiueste his counsel in time, thou shalt be commended therein.
17 Go thy way then into the citie to thine housband.
18 ¶ Then she said vnto me, I wil not, I wil not go into the citie, but here wil I dye.
19 So I continued to speake more with her, and said, 20 Do not so, but be counseled: for how manie falles hathe Sion? Be of good comfort because of the sorowe of Ierusalem.
21 For thou seest ý our Sanctuarie is layed waste: our altar is broken downe: our Temple is destroied.
22 Our psalterion fainteth, and ý song ceaseth, and our mirth is vanished away, and the light of our candelsticke is quenched, and ý Arke of our couenāt is taken away, and our holie things are defiled, and the Name that is called vpon ouer vs, is almoste dishonored, and our children are put to shame, and our Priests are burnt, & our Leuites are caryed into captiuitie, and our virgines are defiled, and our wiues rauished, and our righteous men spoyled, & our children

children destroyed, and our yong men are broght in bondage, and our strong men are become weake, 23 And, which is the greatest of all, Sion the seale hathe lost her worship: for she is deliuered into the hands of them ý hate vs.

24 And therefore shake of thy great heauines, and put away the multitude of sorowes, that ý Almightie may be merciful vnto thee, and ý the most high may giue thee rest and ease from thy labour.

25 And when I was talking with her, her face and beautie shined suddenly, and her countenance was bright, so that I was afrayed of her & mused what it might be.

26 And beholde, immediatly she cast out a great voyce, very fearful, so that the earth shoke at ý noyce of the woman.

27 And I loked, and beholde, the woman appeared vnto me nomore: but there was a citie buylded, and a place was shewed from the grounde and fundacion. Then was I afrayed, and cryed with a loude voyce, and said,

Chap. 4, 1 28 Where is Vriel the Angel* which came to me at the first? for he hathe caused me to come into manie and depe consideracions, and mine end is turned into corruption, and my prayer to rebuke.

29 And as I was speaking these wordes, beholde, he came vnto me, and loked vpon me,

30 And lo, I laye as one dead, and mine vnderstanding was altered, and he toke me by the right hand and comforted me, and set me vpon my feete, and said vnto me, 31 What aileth thee? and why is thine vnderstanding vexed? and the vnderstanding of thine heart? & wherefore art thou sorie?

Chap. 5, 20 32 And I said, Because thou hast forsakē me, and I haue done * according vnto thy wordes: I went into the field, and there haue I sene things, & se that I am not able to expresse.

33 Then said he vnto me, Stand vp manly, and I wil gine thee exhortacion.

34 Then said I, Speake vnto me, my lord, and forsake me not, lest I dye through rashnes.

35 For I haue sene that I knewe not, and heare that I do not knowe.

36 Or is mine vnderstanding disceiued, or doeth my minde, being hautie, erre?

37 Now therefore I beseche thee that thou wilt shewe thy seruant of this wondre.

38 Then he answered me, and said, Heare me and I wil informe thee, & tel thee wherefore thou art afrayed: for the moste High hathe reueiled manie secret things vnto thee.

39 He hathe sene thy good purpose that thou art sorie continually for thy people, and makest great lamentacion for Sion.

40 This therefore is the vnderstanding of the vision, which appeared vnto thee a litle while ago.

41 Thou sawest a woman mourning, & ý beganneste to comfort her:

42 But now seest thou the likenes of ý woman no more, but there appeared vnto thee a citie buylded.

43 And where as she tolde thee of the death of her sonne, this is the solution,

44 This woman, which thou sawest, she is Sion: and where as she tolde thee (euē she which thou seest now as a citie buylded)

45 And as touching that she said vnto thee, that she was baren thirtie yeres, this was concerning that, there was euē thirtie yeres wherein there was no offring offred in her.

46 But after thirtie yeares, Salomon buylt the citie and offred offrings: then bare the baren a sonne.

47 And where as she tolde thee, that she nourished him with labour, that was ý inhabiting of Ierusalem.

48 But where as she tolde thee that her sonne, as his chance was, dyed when she came into her chamber, that is the fall that is come to Ierusalem.

49 And when thou sawest her like one that mourned for her sonne, thou beganneste to comfort her: of these things which haue chanced these are to be opened vnto thee.

50 For now the moste High seeth, that thou art sorie in thy mind, & because thou suffrest with all thine heart for her, he shewed thee the clerenes of her glorie, and ý fairenes of her beautie.

51 And therefore I bad thee remaine in the field where no house was buylt.

52 For I knewe that the moste High wolde shewe these things vnto thee.

53 Therefore I commanded thee to go into the field, where no fundacion nor buylding is.

54 For the worke of mans buylding can not stand in that place where the citie of ý moste High shulde be shewed.

55 And therefore feare not, nether let thine heart be afrayed, but go in, and se the beautie & greatnes of the buylding as muche as thou art able to se with thine eyes.

56 And after this shalt thou heare, as muche as thine eares may comprehende.

57 For thou art blessed aboue manie, & art called with the moste High among the few.

58 But to moro wat night thou shalt remaine here, 56 And the moste High shal shewe thee visions of high things, which the moste High wil do vnto them that dwell vpon earth, in the last dayes. So I slept the same night & another, as he had commanded me.

CHAP. XI.

5 The vision of an egle coming forthe of the sea, and of her feathers. 37 Of a lyon coming out of the forest.

1 THen saw I a dreame, & beholde, there came vp from the sea an egle which had twelue feathered wings & thre heads.
2 And I sawe and beholde, she spred her wings ouer all the earth, & all the windes of ỹ ayre blewe on her, and gathered them selues.
3 And I behelde, & out of her feathers grew out other contrarie feathers, and they be came litle feathers and smale.
4 But her heads remained stil, & the head in the middes was greater then ỹ other heads, yet rested it with them.
5 Moreouer, I sawe that the egle flewe with his feathers and reigned vpon earth & ouer them that dwelt therein.
6 And I sawe that all things vnder heauen were subiect vnto her, and no man spake against her, no not one creature vpon earth.
7 I sawe also that the egle stode vp vpon her clawes, & spake to her feathers, saying,
8 Watch not all together: slepe euerie one in his owne place, and watch by course.
9 But let ỹ heads be preserued for ỹ last.
10 Neuertheles, I sawe that the voice went not out of her heads, but from ỹ middes of her bodie.
11 Then I nombred her contrarie feathers, and beholde, there were eight of them.
12 And I loked, and beholde vpon the right side there arose one feather, and reigned ouer all the earth.
13 And when it had reigned, the end of it came, and the place thereof appeared: nomore. So the next stood vp, and reigned: it continued a long time.
14 And when it had reigned, the end of it came also, and as the first, so it appeared no more.
15 Then there came a voyce vnto it, and said,
16 Heare thou that hast kept the earth so long: this I say vnto thee, before thou beginnest to appeare no more,
17 There shal none after thee atteine vnto thy time, nether to ỹ halfe thereof.
18 Then arose the third and reigned as the other afore, and it appeared no more also.
19 So came it to all the others one after another, so that euerie one reigned, and then appeared no more.
20 Then I loked, and beholde in processe of time the feathers that followed stode vp on the right side, that they might rule also, & some of them ruled, but within a while they appeared no more.
21 For some of them were set vp, but ruled not.
22 After this I loked & beholde, the twelue feathers appeared no more, nor the two wings.
23 And there was no more vpon ỹ egles bodie, but two heads that rested and six wings.
24 Then sawe I also that two wings deuided them selues from the six, and remained vnder the head, that was vpon the right side: for the foure continued in their place.
25 So I loked, & beholde, ỹ vnder wings thoght to set vp them selues, and to haue the rule.
26 Then was there one set vp, but shortly it appeared no more.
27 And the second were soner gone then the first.
28 Then I behelde, & lo, the two that remained, thoght also in them selues to reigne.
29 And when they so thoght, beholde, there awaked one of the heads that were at rest, which was in the middes: for that was greater then the two.
30 And them I sawe, that the two heads were ioined there with.
31 And beholde, the head was turned with them, that were with it, and did eat vp the two vnder wings that wolde haue reigned.
32 But this head put the whole earth in feare and bare rule in it, ouer all those that dwelt vpō earth with muche labour, & it had the gouernance of the worlde, more then all the wings that had bene.
33 After this I loked, and beholde, the head that was in the middes, suddenly appeared no more, as did the wings.
34 But the two heads remained, which also ruled likewise vpon earth, and ouer those that dwelt therein.
35 And I behelde, and lo the head vpon the right side deuored that was vpon the left side.
36 ¶ Then I heard a voyce which said vnto me, Loke before thee, and consider the thing that thou seest.
37 So I sawe, and beholde as it were a lyon ỹ roareth, renning hastely out of the wood: and I sawe that he sent out a mās voyce vnto ỹ egle, and spake, and said.

38 Heare

38 Heare thou, I wil talke with thee, & the moste High shal say vnto thee, 39 Art not thou that that of the foure beasts remainest, whome I made to reigne in my worlde, that by them the end of times might come,
40 And the fourth is come, and hathe ouercome all the beasts that were past, & hathe power ouer the worlde with great fearfulnes, and ouer the whole compasse of the earth with moste wicked oppression, and that dwelleth so long time in all the worlde with disceite?
41 For ỹ hast not iudged the earth with trueth.
42 Seing thou hast troubled the meke, ỹ hast hurte the peaceable, and thou hast loued lyers, and destroied the dwellings of them that broght forthe frute, & hast cast downe the walles of suche as did thee no harme,
43 Therefore is thy wrongful dealing come vp vnto the moste High, and thy pride vnto the Mightie.
44 The most High also hathe loked vpon ỹ proude times, & beholde, they are ended, and there abhominations are fulfilled.
45 Therefore appeare no more, thou egle, nor thine horrible wings, nor thy wicked feathers, nor thy malicious heads, and thy wicked clawes, nor all thy vaine bodie, 46 That all the earth may be refreshed, & come againe, as one deliuered from thy violence, & that she may hope for the iudgement and mercie of him that made her.

CHAP. XII.

The declaration of the former visions.

1 And when the lion spake these wordes to the egle, I sawe,
2 And beholde, the head that had the vpper hand, appeared no more, nether did the foure wings appeare any more, ỹ came to it, and set vp them selues to reigne, whose kingdome was smale and ful of vproares.
3 And I sawe, and beholde, thei appeared no more, and the whole bodie of the egle was burnt, so that the earth was in great feare. Then I awaked out of the trouble and trance of my minde, and from the great feare, and said vnto my spirit,
4 Lo, this hast thou done vnto me in ỹ thou searchest out the waies of ỹ moste High.
5 Lo, yet am I wearie in my minde, and very weake in my spirit, and litle strength is there in me, for the great feare that I receiued this night.
6 Therefore now I wil beseche the moste High that he wil comfort me vnto the end.
7 And I said, O Lord, Lord, if I haue foūde grace before thy sight, & if I am iustified with thee before many other, and if my praier in dede be come vp before thy face,
8 Comfort me, and shewe me thy seruant the interpretacion and difference of this horrible sight, that thou maist, perfectly comforte my soule,
9 Seing thou hast iudged me worthie to shewe me the last times.
10 ¶ Then he said vnto me, This is the interpretacion of this vision,
11 The egle, whome thou sawest come vp from the sea, is the *kingdome which was sene in the vision of thy brother Daniel. *Dan. 7.7
12 But it was not expounded vnto him: therefore now I declare it vnto thee.
13 Beholde, ỹ daies come, that there shal rise vp a kingdome vpon the earth, and it shalbe feared aboue all kingdomes that were before it.
14 In it shal twelue Kings reigne one after another, 15 Whereof the seconde shal beginne to reigne and shal haue more time then ỹ twelue.
16 And this do the twelue wings signifie, which thou sawest.
17 As for the voice that thou heardest speake, and that thou sawest not go out from the heads, but from the middes of the bodie thereof, this is the interpretacion,
18 That after ỹ time of that kingdome there shal arise great strife, & it shalbe in danger to fall, but it shal not thē fall, but shalbe restored againe to his beginning,
19 Concerning the eight vnder wings, ỹ thou sawest hang vnto her wings, this is the interpretacion, 20 In him shal arise eight Kings, whose time shal be but smale, and their yeres swift, and two of them shal perish.
21 But when the midde time cometh, there shalbe foure kept a time, whiles his time beginneth to come, that it maye be ended, but two shalbe kept vn to the end.
22 And where as thou sawest thre heads resting, this is the interpretation, 23 In his last dayes shal the moste High raise vp thre kingdomes, and shal call againe manie things into thē, and they shal haue the dominion of the earth,
24 And of those that dwell therein, with muche grief aboue all those that were before them: therefore are they called the heads of the egle.
25 For they shal accomplish his wickednes, and shal finish his last end.
26 And where as thou sawest that the great head appeared no more, it signifieth that one of them shal dye vpon his bed, and yet with peine.

27 For the two that remaine, the sworde shal deuore them.

28 For the sworde of the one shal deuoure the other: but at the last, shal he fall by the sworde himself.

29 And where as thou saweſt two vnderwings, that went of towarde the head, which was on the right side, this is the interpretacion, 30 These are they whome ỹ moſte High hathe preſerued for their end, whoſe kingdome is litle, and ful of trouble as thou saweſt.

31 And the lyon whome thou saweſt rising vp out of the wood and roaring, and speaking vnto the egle, and rebuking her for her vnrighteousnes with all the wordes that thou hast heard, 32 This is the winde which the moſte High hathe kept for them, and for their wickednes vnto the end, & he shal reproue them, and cast before thē their spoiles.

33 For he shal set them aliue in the iudgement, and shal rebuke them and correct them.

34 For he wil deliuer the reſidue of my people by affliction, which are preſerued vpon my borders, and he shal make them ioyful, vntil the comming of the day of iudgement, whereof I haue spoken vnto thee from the beginning.

35 This is the dreame that thou saweſt, and these are the interpretacions.

36 Thou onely hast bene mete to know this secret of the moſte High.

37 Therefore write all these things that thou hast sene, in a boke and hide them, 38 And teache them the wiſe of the people, whoſe hearts thou knoweſt may comprehende and kepe these secrets.

39 But waite thou here yet seuen daies mo, that it may be shewed thee what soeuer it pleaseth the moſte High to declare vnto thee: and with that he went his way.

40 And when all the people perceiued, that the seuen daies were past, and I not come againe into the citie, they gathered them all together, from the leaſt vnto the moſte, and came vnto me, and spake vnto me, saying,

41 What haue we offended thee? or what euil haue we done againſt thee, that thou forsakeſt vs, and sitteſt in this place?

42 For of all the people thou onely art left vs as a grape of the vine, and as a candle in a darke place, & as an hauen or shippe preſerued from the tempeſt.

43 Are not the euils which are come vnto vs, sufficient?

44 If thou then forsake vs, how muche better had it bene for vs, that we had bene burnt alſo as Sion was burnt?

45 For we are no better then they ỹ dyed there: and they wept with a loude voyce. Then answered I them, and said, Be of good comfort, ô Israel, and be not heauie, thou houſe of Iacob.

47 For the moſte High hathe you in remembrance, & the Almightie hathe not forgotten you in temptacion.

48 As for me I haue not forsaken you, nether am I departed from you, but am come into this place to praye for the deſolation of Sion, that I might seke mercie for the low eſtate of your Sanctuarie.

49 And now go your way home euerie man, and after these daies wil I come vnto you.

50 So the people went their way into ỹ citie, as I commanded them:

51 But I remained ſtil in the field seuen daies, as he had commãded me, and did eat onely of the floures of the field, & had my meat of the herbes in those daies.

CHAP. XIII.

The viſion of a winde coming forthe of the ſea, 3 Which became a man. 5 His propertie & power againſt his enemies. 21 The declaration of this viſion.

1 AND after the seuen daies I dreamed a dreame by night.

2 And beholde, there aroſe a winde from the sea, and it moued all the waues thereof.

3 And I loked, & beholde, there was a mightie man with the thousands of heauen: and when he turned his countenance to loke, all the things trembled that were sene vnder him.

4 And when the voyce went out of his mouth, all they burned that heard his voice, as the earth faileth when it feeleth the fyre.

5 After these things I saw, and beholde, there was gathered together a multitude of men out of nomber, from the foure windes of the heauen, to fight againſt the man ỹ came out from ỹ sea.

6 And I loked, and beholde, he graued him self a great mountaine, and flewe vp vpon it.

7 But I wolde haue sene the countrei or place whereout the hil was grauen, and I colde not.

8 I saw after the se things, and beholde, all they which came to fight againſt him, were sore afraied, and yet they durſt fight.

9 Neuertheles, when he saw the fiercenes of the multitude that came, he lifted, lifted not vp his hand: for he helde no sworde nor any instrument of warre, 10 But onely, as I sawe, he sent out of his mouth, as it had bene a blaste of fire, and out of his lippes the winde of the flame, and out of his tongue he cast out sparkes and stormes,

11 And they were all mixt together, euen this blast of fyre, the winde of the flame, and the great storme, and fell with violence vpon the multitude, which was prepared to fight, and burnt them vp all, so that of the innumerable multitude there was nothing sene, but onely dust, and smel of smoke. When I sawe this, I was afraied.
12 After warde sawe I the same man come downe from the mountaine, and calling vnto him another peaceable multitude.
13 And there came many vnto him, some with ioyful countenance, & some with sad: some of the were bound, and some broght of them that were offred: and I was sicke thorow great feare, and awaked, and said,
14 Thou hast shewed thy seruant these wonders from the beginning, and hast counted me worthie to receiue my praier.
15 Shewe me now therefore the interpretacion of this dreame.
16 For thus I consider in mine vnderstãding, wo vnto them ỹ shalbe left in those daies, and muche more wo vnto them that are nor left behinde.
17 For they that were not left, were in heauines.
18 Now vnderstand I the things that are laide vp in the latter daies, which shal come bothe vnto them, and to those that are left behinde, 19 Therefore are they come into great perils and many necessities, as these dreames declare.
20 Yet is it easier, that he that is in danger, shulde fall into these, & foresee the things to come hereafter, then to passe away as a cloude out of the worlde.
21 ¶ Then answered he me, & said, The interpretacion of the vision wil I shewe thee, and I wil open to thee the thing that thou hast required.
22 Where as thou hast spoken of them that are left behinde, this is the interpretacion, 23 He that shal beare the danger in that time, he shal kepe him self. They that be fallen into danger, are suche as haue workes and faith towarde the moste Mightie.
24 Knowe therefore, that they which be left behinde, are more blessed then thei that be dead.
25 These are the meanings of the vision, Where as thou sawest a man comming vp from the middes of the sea, 26 The same is he whome the moste High hathe kept a great season, who by his owne self shal deliuer his creature, & he shal order them that are left behinde.
27 ¶ And where as thou sawest, that out of his mouth there came as a blast with fyre and storms,
28 And that he nether helde sworde nor weapon, but that by his fiercenes he destroied the whole multitude, that came to fight against him, this is the interpretacion,
29 Beholde, the daies come that the moste High wil beginne to deliuer them that are vpon the earth:
30 And he shal astonish the hearts of thẽ that dwel vpon the earth:
31 And one shal prepare to fight against another, citie against citie, & place against place, * and nacion against nacion, & realme against realme. Mat. 24. 7
32 When this commeth to passe, then shal the tokens come, that I shewed thee before, & then shal my Sonne be reueiled, whome thou sawest go vp as a man.
33 And when all the people heare his voyce, euerie man shal in their owne land leaue the battel that they haue one against another.
34 And an innumerable multitude shalbe gathered as one, as they that be willing to come, and to fight against him.
35 But he shal stand vpon the toppe of mount Sion.
36 And Sion shal come, and shalbe, shewed to all, being prepared and buylded, as thou sawest the hil grauen forthe without any hands.
37 And this my Sonne shal rebuke the wicked inuentions of those nacions, which for their wicked life are fallen into the tempest, 38 And into torments like to flame, whereby they shalbe tormented: and without any labour wil he destroy them, euen by the Law, which is compared vnto the fyre.
39 And where as thou sawest that he gathered another peaceable people vnto him, 40 Those are the ten tribes which were caryed away captiues out of their owne land, * in ỹ tyme of Oseas ỹ King, whome Salmanasar the King of the Assyrians toke captiue, and caryed them beyonde the riuer so were they broght into another land. 3. King. 17.
41 But they toke this counsel to them selues, that they wolde leaue the multitude of the heathen, and go forthe into a further countrey, where neuer mankinde dwelt, 42 That they might there kepe their statutes, which they neuer kept in their owne land.

43 And they entred in at the narrowe passages of the riuer Euphrates.
44 For the moste High then shewed thē signes, * and stayed the springs of the flood til they were passed ouer.
45 For thorow the countrey there was a great iourney, euen of a yere and an halfe, and the same region is called [a] Arsareth
46 Then dwelt they there vntil the latter time: and when they come forthe againe, 47 The moste High shal holde stil the springs of the riuer againe, that they may go thorow: therefore sawest thou the multitude peaceable.
48 But thei that be left behinde of thy people, are those that be founde within my borders.
49 Now when he destroieth the multitude of the nacions that are gathered together, he shal defende the people that remaine, 50 And then shal he shewe great wonders vnto them.
51 Thē said I, O Lord, Lord, shewe me this, wherefore haue I sene the man cōming vp from the middes of the sea?
52 And he said vnto me, As thou canst nether seke out, nor knowe these thigs that are in the deepe of the sea, so can no man vpon earth se my Sōne, or those that be with him, but in the time of that day.
53 This is the interpretation of the dreame which thou sawest, and whereby thou onely art lightened.
54 For thou hast forsaken thine owne Law, and applied thy diligence vnto mine, and soght it.
55 Thy life hast thou ordered in wisdome, & hast called vnderstanding thy mother.
56 Therefore haue I shewed thee the rewardes with the moste High: and after thre other daies I wil speake other things vnto thee, and wil declare the great and wonderous things.
57 Then went I forthe vnto the field, glorifying and praising the moste High for the wonders which he did in time.
58 Which he gouerneth, and suche thigs as come in their seasons: and there I sate thre dayes.

CHAP. XIIII.

How God appared to Moses in the busshe. 10 All things decline to age. 15 The latter times worse then the former. 29 The ingratitude of Israel. 35 The resurrectiō and iudgement.

1 VPon the thirde day I sate vnder an oke, and beholde, there came forthe a voyce vnto me out of the busshe & said, Esdras, Esdras?
2 And I said, Here am I, Lord, & stode vp vpon my fete.
3 Then said he vnto me, * In the busshe I reueiled my self and spake vnto Moyses, when my people serued in Egypt:
4 And I sent him, and led my people out of Egypt, and broght him vpon the mount Sinai, & I helde him with me a long seasō.
5 And I tolde him many wōders, & shewed him the secrets of the times and the end, and commanded him, saying,
6 These wordes shalt thou declare, & these shalt thou hide.
7 And now I say vnto thee, that thou lay vp in thine heart the signes that I haue shewed, and the dreames that thou hast sene, & the interpretacions which thou hast heard.
8 For thou shalt be taken away from all and thou shalt remaine hence forthe with my counsel, & with suche as be like thee, vntil the times be ended.
9 For the worlde hathe lost his youth, & the times beginne to waxe olde.
10 For the worlde is deuided into twelue partes, & ten partes of it are gone alreadie and halfe of the tenth parte.
11 And there remaineth that which is after the halfe of the tenth parte.
12 Therefore set thine house in order, and reforme thy people, and comfort suche of them as be in trouble, and now renounce the corruption.
13 Let go from thee mortal thoghts: cast away from thee the burdens of men, & put of now the weake nature, 14 And set aside thy moste grieuous thoghts, and haste thee to departe from these times.
15 For greater euils then those, which thou hast sene now, shal thei commit.
16 For the weaker that the worlde is by reason of age, the more shal the euil be increased vpō them that dwell therein.
17 For the trueth is fled farre away, & lies are at hand: for now hasteth the vision to come, that thou hast sene.
18 ¶ Then answered I, and said before thee,
19 Beholde, ô Lord, I wil go as thou hast commanded me, and reforme the people, which are present: but they that shal be borne after warde, who shal admonish them?
20 Thus the worlde is set in darkenes, and they that dwell therein, are without light.
21 For thy Law is burnt, therefore no man knoweth the things that are done of thee, or the workes that shalbe done.
22 But if I haue founde grace before thee, send ȳ holie Gost into me, & I wil write all that hathe bene done in the worlde worlde since the beginning, which was writen in thy Law, that men may finde the path, & that thei which wil liue in the latter daies, may liue.

Exod. 3. 6

23 And he answered me, saying, Go, and gather the people, and say vnto them that thei seke thee not for fortie daies;

24 But prepare thee many boxe tables and take with thee these fiue, Sarea, Dabria, Selemia, Ecanus, and Asiel, which are readie to write swiftly, 25 And come hether, & I wil light a candle of vnderstanding in thine heart which shal not be put til the things be performed which thou shalt beginne to to write.

26 And then shalt thou declare some things openly vnto the perfite men, and some things shalt thou shewe secretly vnto the wise: to morowe this houre shalt thou beginne to write.

27 Then went I forthe, as he commanded me, and gathered all the people together, and said,

28 Heare these wordes, ô Israel,

Genes. 47.4 29 * Our fathers at the beginning were strangers in Egypt, from whence they were deliuered,

Act. 7. 53 30 And receiued the Law of life, * which they kept not, which ye also haue trāsgressed after them.

31 Then was the land, euen the land of Sion parted among you by lot: but your fathers and ye also haue done vnrighteously, and haue not kept the wayes which the moste High commanded you.

32 And for so muche as he is a righteous Iudge, he toke from you in time the thing that he had giuen you.

33 And now are ye here, and your brethren among you.

34 Therefore if so be that ye wil subdue your owne vnderstanding, and reforme your heart, ye shalbe kept aliue, and after death shal ye obteine mercie.

35 For after death shal the iudgement come, when we shal liue againe: & then shal the names of the righteous be manifest, and the workes of the vngodlie shalbe declared.

36 Let no man therefore come now vnto me, nor seke me these fortie daies.

37 So I toke the fiue men, as he commāded me, and we went into the field, and remained there.

Ezech. 3.2 38 The next daye beholde, a voyce called me, saying, Esdras, * open thy mouth, and drinke that I giue thee to drinke.

39 Then opened I my mouth, and beholde, he reached me a full cuppe, which was full as it were with water: but the colour of it was like fyre.

40 And I toke it and dranke, and when I had dronke it, mine heart had vnderstanding and wisdome grewe in my breast: for my spirit was strengthened in memorie, 41 And my mouth was opened, and shut no more.

42 The moste High gaue vnderstanding vnto the fiue men, that they wrote the hie things of the night, which they vnderstode not:

43 But in the night they did eat bread, but I spake by day, & helde not my tongue by night.

44 In fortie daies, they wrote two hundreth and foure bokes.

45 And when the fortie dayes were fulfilled, the moste High spake saying, The first that thou hast writen, publish openly, that the worthie and vnworthie may read it.

46 But kepe the seuentie last, that thou maiest giue them to the wise among thy people.

47 For in them is the veine of vnderstanding, and the fountaine of wisdome, and the riuer of knoweledge: and I did so.

CHAP. XV.

1 The prophecie of Esdras is certeine. 5 The euils that shal come on the worlde. 9 The Lord wil aduenge the innocent blood. 12 Egypt shal lament. 16 Sedition, 20 And punishment vpon the Kings of the earth, 24 Cursed are they that sinne. 29 Troubles & warres vpon the whole earth. 53 God is the reuenger of his elect.

1 BEholde, speake thou in the eares of my people the wordes of prophecie, which I wil put in thy mouth, saith the Lord:

2 And cause them to be writen in a lettre: for they are faithful and true.

3 Feare not the imaginacions against thee: let not the vnfaithfulnes of the speakers trouble thee, that spake against thee.

4 For euery vnfaithful shal dye in his vnfaithfulnes.

5 Beholde, saith the Lord, I wil bring plagues vpon all the worlde, the sworde, famine, death and destruction:

6 Because that iniquitie hathe fully polluted all the earth, and their wicked workes are fulfilled.

7 Therefore, saith the Lord, I wil holde my tongue no more for their wickednes, (they do vngodlie) nether wil I suffer them in the things, that they do wickedly.

8 Beholde, * the innocent and righteous blood cryeth vnto me, and the soules of the iust crye continually. Reuel. 6. 10 & 19. 2

9 I wil surely auenge them, saith the Lord, and receiue vnto me all the innocent blood from among them.

10 Beholde, my people is led as a flocke to the slaughter: I wil not suffer them now to dwell in the land of Egypt,
11 But I wil bring thē out with a mightie hand, and a stretched out arme, & smite it with plagues as afore, & wil destroie all the land thereof.
12 Egypt shal mourne, and the foundacions thereof shalbe smitten with the plague and punishment, that God shal bring vpon it.
13 The plowemen that till the groūde, shal mourne: for their sedes shal faile thorowe the blasting and haile, and by an horrible starre.
14 Wo to the worlde, & to them that dwell therein.
15 For the sworde and their destruction draweth nere, and one people shal stand vp to fight against another with swordes in their hands.
16 For there shalbe sedicion among men, & one shal inuade another: they shal not regarde their King, & the princes shal measure their doings by their power.
17 A man shal desire to go into a citie, and shal not be able.
18 Because of their pride the cities shalbe troubled, the houses shalbe afraied, & men shal feare.
19 A man shal haue no pitie vpon his neighbour, but shal destroye their houses with the sworde, & their goods shal be spoyled for lacke of bread, and because of great trouble.
20 Beholde, saith God, I call together all the Kings of the earth to reuerence me, which are from the *East, and from the South, from the East, and from Libanus, to turne vpon them, & to repay the things, that they haue done to thē.
21 As they do yet this day vnto my chosen, so wil I do also, and recompense them in there bosome: thus saith the Lord God, 22 My right hand shal not spare the sinners, nether shal the sworde cease from them, that shed innocent blood vpon earth.
23 The fyre is gone owte frō his wrath, and hathe cōsumed ỹ fundaciōs of the earth, and the sinners like the strawe, that is kindled.
24 Wo to them that sinne, and kepe not my commandements, saith the Lord.
25 I wil not spare them: departe, ô children, from the power: defile not my Sanctuarie.
26 For the Lord knoweth all them that sinne against him, and therefore deliuereth he thē vnto death & destruction.
27 For now are the plagues come vpon the worlde, and ye shal remaine in thē: for God wil not deliuer you, because ye haue sinned against him.
28 Beholde, an horrible visiō cometh fron the East.
29 Where generacions of dragons of Arabia shal come out with manie charets and the multitude of them shalbe caryed as the winde vpon the the earth, that all they which heare them, may feare and tremble.
30 Euen the Carmanians raging in wrath shal go forthe as the bores of the forest, and shal come with great power, and stand against them in battel, and shal destroye a porcion of the land of the Assyrians.
31 But after this shal the dragons haue ỹ vpper hand, and remember their nature, and shal turne about, and conspire to consume them with a great power.
32 Then these shalbe troubled, and kepe silence by their power, and shal flee.
33 From the land of the Assyrians shal the enemie besiege them, and consume some of them, and in their hoste shalbe feare & dread, and strife among their Kings.
34 Beholde cloudes from the East, & frō the North vnto the South, and they are verie horrible to loke vpon, ful of wrath and storme.
35 They shal smite one vpon another: and they shal smite downe a great multitude of starres vpon the earth, euen their owne starre, & the blood shalbe from the sworde vnto the bellie.
36 And the dongue of mā vnto the Camels litter.
37 And there shalbe great fearfulnes, and trembling vpon earth, and thei that se the wrath, shalbe afraied, and a trēbling shal come vpon them.
38 And then there shal come great stormes from the South, and frō the North and parte from the West.
39 And from the East shal windes arise and shal open it with ỹ cloude, which he raised vp in wrath, & ỹ starre, raised to feare the East & West winde, shalbe destroyed.
40 And the great, and mightie cloudes shalbe lift vp, ful of wrath, and the starre, that they may make all the earth afraied, and them that dwell therein, & that they may powe out ouer euerie hie place, and lifted vp, an horrible constellation,
41 As fyre and hayle, and flying swordes & many waters, that all fields may be ful, & all riuers with the abundance of great waters.
42 And they shal breake downe the cities and walles, and moūtaines, and hilles, and the trees of the wood, and the grasse of ỹ medowes, and their corne.
43 And they shal go w a streight course vnto Babylon, and make it afraied.
44 They

*Or, West.

44 They shal come to her, and besiege her, and shal powre forthe the constellation, & all the wrath against her: thē shal ȳ dust and smoke go vp vnto the heauen, and all they that be about her, shal bewaile her.

45 And thei that remaine vnder her, shal do seruice vnto them, that haue put her in feare.

46 ¶ And ȳ Asia, that art partaker of ȳ hope of Babylon, and the glorie of her personne, 47 Wo vnto thee, ô wretch, because thou hast made thy self like vnto her, and hast deck thy daughters in whoredome that they might please & glorie in thy louers, which haue alway desired to commit whoredome with thee.

48 Thou hast followed her that is hated in all her workes, and in her inuencions: therefore saith God, 49 I wil send plagues vpon thee, wedowhed, pouertie, and famine, & the sworde, and pestilence, to waste thine houses with destruction and death.

50 And the glorie of thy power shalbe dryed vp, as a floure whē the heat riseth, that is sent vpon thee.

51 Thou shalt be sicke as a poore wife that is plagued and beaten of women, so that the mightie and the louers shal not be able to receiue thee.

52 Wolde I thus hate thee, saith ȳ Lord,

53 If thou hadest not alway slaine my chosen, exalting the stroke of thine hands, and said ouer their death, when thou wast dronken, 54 Set forthe the beautie of thy countenance?

55 The reward of thy whoredome shalbe in thy bosome: therefore shalt thou receiue a rewarde.

56 As thou hast done vnto my chosen, saith the Lord, so wil God do vnto thee & wil deliuer thee vnto the plague.

57 And thy children shal dye of hunger, & thou shalt fall by the sworde, & thy cities shalbe broken downe, and all thy men shal fall by the sworde in the field.

58 And they that be in the mountaines shal dye of hunger, and eat their owne flesh, & drinke their owne blood for want of bread and thirst of water.

59 And thou, as vnhappie, shalt come thorowe the sea, and receiue plagues againe.

60 In the passage they shal cast downe ȳ slaine citie, and shal roote out one parte of thy land, & consume the porcion of thy glorie, & shal returne to her that was destroied.

61 When thou shalt be cast downe, thou shalt be to them as stubble, and they shalbe to thee as fyre.

62 And they shal destroy thee, & thy cities, thy land, & thy mountaines: all thy woods and all thy fruteful trees shal they burne with fyre.

63 Thy children shal they carye away captiue, and shal spoile thy substance, & marre the beautie of thy face.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Against Babylon, Asia, & Egypt and Syria 18, 38 Of the euils that shal come vpon the worlde, With admonition howe to gouerne thē selues in afflictions. 54 To acknowledge their sinnes, & to comit them selues to the Lord. 55 Whose mighte prouidence and iustice is to be reuerenced.

1 WO to thee, Babylon & Asia: wo to thee, Egypt and Syria.

2 Gird your selues w sacke & heere clothe, and mourne your children, & be sorie: for your destruction is at hand.

3 A sworde is sent vnto you, and who wil turne it backe? a fyre is sent among you & who wil quenche it?

4 Plagues are sent vnto you, and who can driue them away?

5 May any man driue away an hungrie lion in the wood? or quenche the fyre in stubble when it hathe once begone to burne? may one turne againe the arowe, that is shot of a strong archer?

6 The mightie Lord sēdeth the plagues and who can driue themaway? the fyre is gone forthe in his wrath, and who can quench it?

7 He shal cast lightenings, & who shal not feare? he shal thunder, and who shal not be afraied?

8 The Lord shal threaten, & who shal not vtterl ybe broken in pieces at his presence? the earth quaketh & the fundacion thereof: the sea ariseth vp with waues from the depe, & the waues thereof are troubled, & ȳ fishes thereof, before ȳ Lord and ȳ glorie of his power.

9 For strōg is his right hand, that bēdeth the bowe: his arrowes that he shooteth, are sharpe, & shal not misse, when they beginne to be shot into the ends of the worlde.

10 Beholde, the plagues are sent, & shal not turne againe, til they come vpon earth.

11 The fyre is kindled, & shal not be put out, til it consume the fundacions of the earth.

12 As ā arowe which is shot of a mightie archer, returneth not backward, so the plagues that shalbe sent vpon earth, shalt not turne againe.

13 Wo is me, wo is me: who wil deliuer me in those daies?

14 The beginning of sorowes and great mourning: the beginning of famine, and great death: the beginning of warres, and the powers shal feare: the beginning of euils, and all shal tremble. What shal I do in these things, when the plagues come?

15 Beholde, famine and plague, and trouble, and anguish are sent as scourges for amendement.

16 But for all these things they will not turne from their wickednes, nor be alway mindeful of the scourges.

17 Beholde, vitailes shalbe so good cheape vpon earth, that they shal thinke them selues to be in good case: but the shal the euils bud forthe vpon earth, euen the sworde, the famine and great confusion.

18 For many of them that dwell vpon earth, shal perish with famine, and the other that escape ỹ famine, shal ỹ sworde destroy.

19 And the dead shalbe cast out as dongue and there shalbe no man to comfort them: forthe earth shalbe wasted, and the cities shalbe cast downe.

20 There shalbe no man left to till the earth and to sowe it: the trees shal giue frute, but who shal gather them?

21 The grapes shalbe ripe, but who shal treade them? for all places shalbe desolate, so that one man shal desire to se another, or to heare his voyce.

22 For of one citie there shalbe ten left, and two of the field, which shal hide them selues in the thicke woods, and in the cleftes of rockes.

23 As when there remaine thre or foure oliues in the place where oliues growe, or among other trees.

24 Or as when a vineyarde is gathered, there are left some grapes of them that diligently soght thorowe the vine yarde:

25 So in those daies there shalbe thre or foure left by them that searche their houses with the sworde.

26 And the earth shalbe left waste, and the fields thereof shal waxe olde, & her waies and all her paths shal growe full of thornes, because no man shal trauail there through.

27 The virgines shal mourne, hauing no bridegromes: the women shal make lamentacion, hauing no housbands: their daughters shal mourne hauing no helpers.

28 In the warres shal their bridegromes be destroied, and their housbands shal perish with famine.

29 But, ye seruants of the Lord, heare these things, and marke them.

30 Beholde the worde of the Lord, receaue it: beleue not the gods of whome the Lord speaketh: beholde the plagues drawe nere, and are not slacke.

31 As a trauailing woman which in the ninthe moneth bringeth forthe her sonne, when the houre of birth is come, two or thre houres afore the peines come vpon her bodie, and when the childe cometh to the birth, they tarie not a whit, 32 So shal not the plagues be slake to come vpon the earth, & the worlde shal mourne, & sorowes shal come vpon it on euerie side.

33 O my people, heare my worde: make you ready to the battel, and in ỹ troubles be euen as strangers vpon earth

34 He that selleth, let him be as he that fleeth his way: & he that byeth, as one that wil lose.

35 Who so occupieth marchandise, as he that winneth not: and he that buyldeth as he that shal not dwell therein:

36 He that soweth, as one that shal not reape: he that cutteth the vine, as he that shal not gather the grapes.

37 They that mary, as they that shal get no children: and they that mary not, so as the widdowes, 38 Therefore they that labour, labour in vaine.

39 For stangers shal reape their frutes, and spoile their goods, and ouerthrowe their houses, and take their children captiue: for in captiuitie & famine shal they get their children.

40 And they that occupie their marchandise with couetousnes, the more they decke their cities, their houses, their possessions, and their owne personnes,

41 So muche more wil I be angrie against them for their sinnes, saith the Lord,

42 As a whore enuieth an honest and vertuous woman,

43 So shal righteousnes hate iniquitie, when she deketh her self, & shal accuse her openly, when he shal come that shal bridle the autor of all sinne vpon earth.

44 And therefore be ye not like thereunto, nor to the workes thereof: for or euer it be long, iniquitie shalbe taken away out of the earth, and righteousnes shal reigne among you.

45 Let not the sinner say, that he hathe not sinned: for coles of fyre shal burne vpon his head, which saith, I haue not sinned before the Lord God and his glorie.

46 Beholde, the Lord, * knoweth all ỹ workes of men, their imaginacions, their thoghtes and their hearts. Luk. 16.15

47 * For assone as he said, Let the earth be made, it was made: let the heauen be made, and it was created. Genes. 1.3

48 By his worde were the starres established, and he * knoweth the nomber of em Psal. 147.4

49 He searcheth the depth, and the treasures thereof: he hathe measured the sea, and sea, and what it conteineth.

50 He hathe shut the sea in the middes of the waters, and with his worde hathe he hanged the earth vpon the waters.
51 He spreadeth out the heauen like a vawte: vpon the waters hathe he founde it.
52 In the desert hathe he made springs of water, and poles vpon the toppe of the mountaines, to powre out floods from the hie rockes to water the earth.
53 He made man, and put his heart in ỹ middes of the bodie, and gaue him breth, life and vnderstanding.
54 And the Spirit of the Almightie God which made all things, & hathe searched all the hid things in the secrets of the earth, 55 He knoweth your inuencions, and what ye imagine in your heart when ye sinne & wolde hide your sinnes.
56 Therefore hathe the Lord searched and soght out all your workes, and wil put you all to shame.
57 And when your sinnes are broght forthe before men, ye shalbe confounded, and your owne sinnes shal stand as your accusers in that day.
58 What wil ye do, or howe wil ye hide your sinnes before God and his Angels?
59 Beholde, God him selfe is the iudge: feare him cease from your sinnes, and forget your iniquities, and medle no more from hence forthe with them: so shal God lead you forthe, and deliuer you from all trouble.
60 For beholde, the heate of a great multitude is kindled against you, and they shal take away certeine of you, and shal slaye you for meat to the idoles.
61 And they that consent vnto them, shalbe had in derision and in reproche, and troden vnder foote.
62 For in euerie place and cities that are nere, there shalbe great insurrection against those that feare the Lord.
63 They shalbe like mad men: they shal spare none: they shal spoyle, & waste suche as yet feare the Lord.
64 For they then shal waste and spoile their goods, and cast them out of their houses.
65 Then shal the tryal of my chosen appeare, as the golde is tryed by the fyre.
66 Heare, ô ye my beloued, saith the Lord: beholde, the daies of trouble are at hand, but I wil deliuer you from them: be not ye afraied: doute not: for God is your captaine.
67 Who so keepeth my commandements and precepts, saith ỹ Lord God, let not your sinnes weigh you downe, and let not your iniquities lift them selues vp.
68 Wo vnto thē that are bounde ẅ their sinnes, and couered with their iniquities, as a field is hedged in with bushes, and the path thereof couered with thornes, wherby no man may trauail: it is shut vp, and is appointed to be deuoured with fyre.

TOBIT.

CHAP. I.

1 Tobits parentage. 3 His godlines. 6 His equitie. 8 His charitie and prosperitie. 23 He fleeth, and his goods are confiscate, 25 And after, restored.

Tobias, being captiue amogest the Assyrians, did not leaue ỹ way of trueth.

1 THE boke of the wordes of Tobit sonne of Tobiel, the sonne of Anane, the sonne of Adu, the sonne of Gabael, of the seed of Asael & of the tribe of Nephthalim,
2 Who in the time of Enemessar King of the Assyrians was ledde away captiue out of Thisbe, which is at ỹ right hand of that citie, which is called properly Nephthalim, in Galilee aboue Aser.
3 I Tobit haue walked all my liue long in the way of trueth and iustice, and I did manie things liberally to the brethren, which were of my nation, and came with me to Niniue into the land of the Assyrians.
4 And when I was in mine owne countrei in the land of Israel, being but yong, all the tribe of Nephthalim my father fell from the house of Ierusalem, which was chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, that all the tribes shulde sacrifice there, where the Temple of the tabernacle of the moste High was consecrated, and buylt vp for all ages.
5 *Now all the tribes, which fell from God, yea, and my father Nephthalims house offred to the heifar called Baal. 1 King. 12,30
6 But I (as it was ordeined to all Israel by an euerlasting decre) went alone often to Ierusalem, * bringing the first frutes, and ỹ tēth of beasts, with that ẅ was first borne and offred them at the altar to ỹ Priests ỹ children of Aaron. He fledde from idoles. Exod. 22,29 deut. 12,6 nistred in Ierusalem: ther other tenth parte I solde, & came & bestowed it euerie yere at Ierusalem.

8 The thirde tenth parte I gaue vnto them to whome it was mete, as Debora my fathers mother had commaded me: for my father left me as a pupil.

He maryeth to wife Anna, & beareth him Tobiah. Nomb.36,7 9 ¶ Furthermore when I was come to the age of a man, I maried Anna of *mine owne kinred, and of her I begate Tobias.

Gen.43,32

10 ¶ But when I was ledde captiue to Niniue, all my brethren, & those which were of my kinred did eate of the *bread of the Gentiles.

11 But I kept my self from eating,

12 Because I remembred God with all mine heart.

He found grace in the sight of Salmanasar.

13 Therefore the most High gaue me grace and fauour before Enemessar, so that I was his puruoyer.

14 ¶ And I went into Media, and I deliuered ten talents of siluer to Gabael the "brother of Gabrias "in the land of Media.

*Or sonne.
"Or, in Rages a citie of Media.*

15 But when Enemessar was dead, Sennacherib his sonne raigned in his stead: whose state because it was troubled, I colde not go into Media.

"Or, Salmanasar.

16 ¶ But in y time of "Enemessar, I gaue many almose to my brethren and gaue my bread to them which were hungrie,

The charitie of Tobias.

17 And my clothes to the naked: and if I sawe any of my kinred dead, or cast about the walles of Nineue, I buryed him.

18 And if the King Sennacherib had slaine any, when he was come and fled frō Iudea, I buried the priuely (for in his wrath he killed many) but the bodies were not founde when they were soght for of the King.

19 Therefore when a certeine Nineuite had accused me to the King, because I did bur. them, I hid my self: and because I knewe that I was soght to be slaine, I withdrewe my self for feare.

Tobit fleeth frō the face of Sennacherib.

20 Then all my goods were spoyled nether was there any thing lett me besides my wife Anna and my sonne Tobias.

21 Neuertheles * within fiue and fiftie daies two of his sonnes killed him, and they fled into the mountaines of Arrarath, & Sarchedonus his sonne reigned in his stead who appointed ouer his father accomptes and ouer all his domestical affaires Achiacharus my brother Anaels sonne.

*2.King.19,37
2.chr 32,21*

22 And when Achiacharus had made a requeste for me, I came againe to Nineue: now Achiacharus was cupbearer & keper of the signet, & steward, & ouersawe the accomptes: so Sarchedonus appointed him next vnto him, & he was my brothers sonne.

Tobit returneth.

CHAP. II.

1 Tobit calleth the faithful to his table. 3 He leaueth thee feast to bury the dead. 10 How he became blinde 13 His wife laboreth for her liuing. 16 She reprocheth him bitterly.

1 NOw when I was come home againe, & my wife Anna was restored vnto me, with my sonne Tobias, in the feast of Pentecoste, which is the holy feast of the seuen wekes, there was a great dinner prepared me, in the which I sate downe to eat, Tobit doeth bid to diner those which feare God.

2 And when I sawe abundance of meat, I said to my sonne, Go, & bring what poore man soeuer thou shalt finde of our brethern which doth remember God, & lo I wil tary for thee.

3 But he came againe, and sated, Father, one of our nation is strangled, and is cast out in the market place.

Tobit leauing his gestes, taketh vp the dead bodie into his house to burye it.

4 Then before I had tasted anie meat, I start vp, and broght him into mine house vntil the going downe of the sunne.

5 Then I returned and washed, and ate my meat in heauines,

6 Remembring that Prophecie of * Amos, which had said, your solenne feasts shal be turned into mourning, & your ioyes into wailing.

*Amos 8,10
1.mac.1,41*

7 Therefore I wept, & after the going downe of the sunne I went & made a graue & buried him.

8 But my neighbours mocked me, and said, Doeth he not feare, to dye for this cause who * fled away, and yet, lo, he buryeth the dead againe.

Tobit is rebuked of his neighbours. Chap.1,22

9 The same night also when I returned from the buryal, & slept at the wall of mine house because I was polluted, & hauing my face vncouered,

10 And I knewe not the sparowes were in the wall, & as mine eyes were open, the sparowes cast downe warme dongue into mine eyes, & a whitenes came in mine eies, & I went to the phisicians who helped me not. Moreouer Achiacharus did nourish me vntil I went into Elimais.

He is made blinde for an exaple of patience to his posteritie.

11 And my wife Anna did take womens workes to do.

The wife of Tobit laboreth for herliuing.

12 And when she had sent them home to the owners, thei paied the wages, & gaue a kid.

13 Which when it was at mine house, and began to bleat, I said vnto her, From whence is this kid, is it not stollen? render it to the owners: * for it is not lawful to eat anie thing that is stollen.

The innocencie of Tobit. Deut.22,1

14 But she said, It was giuen for a gifte more then the wages: but I did not beleue, & bade her to render it to the owners, & I did blush, because of her.

Furthermore

Iob 2,9

Furthermore she said, * Where are thine almes, & thy righteousnes? beholde, they all now appeare in thee.

CHAP. III.

3 The prayer of Tobit. 7 Sarra Raguels daughter, & the things that came vnto her. 12 Her prayer heard. 19 The Angel Raphael sent.

1 THen I, being sorowful, did wepe, & in my sorowe pra ed, saying,
2 O Lord, thou art iuste, & all thy workes, & all thy wayes are mercie & trueth, and thou iudgest truely & iustely for euer.
3 Remember me & loke on me, nether punish me according to my sins or mine ignorances of my fathers, w haue sinned before thee.
4 For thei haue not obeied thy commãdements: wherefore thou hast deliuered vs * for a spoile, & vnto captiuitie, and to death, and for a prouerbe of a reproche to all them amorg whome we are dispersed, and now thou hast manie and iuste causes.
5 To do w me according to my sinnes, & my fathers, becausе we haue not kept thy commandements, nether haue walked in trueth before thee.
6 Now therefore deale with me as semeth best vnto thee, & commande my spirit to be taken from me, that I may be dissolued, & become earth: for it is better for me to dye thẽ to liue, because I haue heard falsе reproches, & am verie sorowful: commande therefore ỹ I may be dissolued out of this distresse, and go into the euerlasting place: turne not thy face away from me.
7 ¶ It came to passe the same day that in Ecbatane a citie of Media Sarra the daughter of Raguel was also reproched by her fathers maides,
8 Because she had bene maryed to seuen housbands, whome Asmodeus the euil spirit had killed, before that they had lien with her. Doest thou not knowe, said they, that thou hast strangled thine housbands? thou hast had now seuen housbands, nether wast thou named after anie of them.
9 Wherefore doest thou beat vs for them? if they be dead, go thy wayes hence to them, that we may neuer se of thee ether sonne or daughter.
10 When she heard these things, she was verie sorowful, so that she thoght to haue strangled her self. And she said, I am the onely daughter of my father, & if I do this I shal sclander him, and shal bring his age to the graue with sorowe.
11 Then she prayed towarde the windowe & said, Blessed art thou, ô Lord my God, and thine holie & glorious Name is blessed, and honorable for euer: let all thy workes praise thee for euer.
12 And now, o Lord, I set mine eyes, & my face toward thee, 13 And say, Take me out of the earth, ỹ I may heare no more anie reproche.
14 Thou knowest, ô Lord, that I am pure from all sinne with man,
15 And that I haue neuer polluted my name, nor the name of my father in ỹ land of my captiuitie: I am the onely daughter of my father, nether hathe he anie man child to be his heire, nether anie nere kinsman or childe borne of him, to whome I may kepe my self for a wife: my seuen housbands are now dead, & why shulde I liue? But if it please not thee that I shulde dye, commande to loke on me, and to pitie me that I do no more heare reproche.
16 So ỹ prayers of thẽ bothe were heard, before the maiestie of the great God.
17 And Raphael was sent to heale them bothe, that is, to take away the whitenes of Tobits eyes & to giue Sarra the daughter of Raguel for a wife to Tobias the sonne of Tobit, & to binde Asmodeus the euil spirit because she belonged to Tobias by right. The self same time came Tobit home, and entred into his house, and Sarra the daughter of Raguel came downe from her chamber.

Deut. 28,37

Or, thy iudgements are ma me and true.

Sarra is checked of her fathers maides.

Or, when she bette them for their faultes, thei said.

Sarra prayeth, & fasteth ỹ she may be deliuered from shame.

The innocentie of Sarra.

Her chastitie.

Grek nere brother.

The prayers of Tobit, an Sarra are heard bothe at a time.

Precepts and exhortatiõs of Tobit to his sonne.

1 IN that day Tobit remembred * the siluer which he had deliuered to Gabael in Rages a citie of Media,
2 And said with him self, I haue wished for death: wherefore do I not call for my sonne Tobias that I may admonish him before I dye?
3 And when he had called him, he said, My sonne, after that I am dead, bury me, & despise not thy mother, but honour her all the dayes of thy life, & do that which shal please her, and anger her not.
4 Remember, my sonne, how manie dangers she susteined when thou wast in her wombe, and when she dyeth, burye her by me in the same graue.
5 My sonne, set our Lord God alwayes before thine eyes, & let not thy wil be set to sinne or to trãsgresse the cõmandemẽts of God. Do vprightly all thy life long, and followe not the wayes of vnrighteousnes: for if ỹ deale truely, thy doings shal prosperously succede to thee, & to all them which liue iustely.

CHAP. V.

1 Tobias sent to Rages, 5 He meeteth with the Angel Raphael, which did conduct him.

1 TObias then answered & said, Father, I wil do all things which thou hast commanded me.

2 But how can I receiue the siluer, seing I know him not?

3 Then he gaue him the hand writing; and said vnto him, Seke thee a man, ẅ may go with thee, whiles I yet liue, and I wil giue him wages, and go and receiue the money.

Tobias, sent by his father to Rages, seketh a companion, meeteth with Raphael, whome he bringeth to his father.

4 Therefore when he was gone to seke a man, he founde Raphael the Angel.

5 But he knewe not, & said vnto him, May I go with thee into ỹ land of Media? and I noweſt thou those places wel?

6 To whome the Angel said, I wil go with thee: for I haue remained with our brother Gabael.

7 Then Tobias said to him, Tarie for me til I tell my father.

8 Then he said vnto him, Go, and tary not: so he went in said to his father, Beholde, I haue founde one, which wil go with me, Then he said, Call him vnto me, ỹ I may know of what tribe he is, and whether he be faithful to go with thee.

9 So he called him, and he came in, & they saluted one an other.

10 Then Tobit said vnto him, Brother, shewe me of what tribe and familie thou art.

11 To whome he said, Doest thou seke a stocke or familie, or an hired man to go with thy sonne? Then Tobit said vnto him, I wolde knowe thy kinred and name.

12 Then he said, I am of the kinred of Azarias & Ananias the great, & of thy brethren.

13 Then Tobit said, 'Thou art welcome: be not now angrie with me, because I haue enquired to knowe thy kinred, and thy familie: for thou art my brother of an honest and good stocke: for I knewe Ananias and Ionathas, sonnes of that great Samaias: for we went together to Ierusalem to worship, and offred the first borne, & the tenths of ỹ frutes, and they were not deceiued with the errour of our brethren: my brother, thou art of a great stocke.

[c] Or, thou comest happely.

14 But tel me, what wages shal I giue thee? wilt thou a grote a day & things necessarie, as to mine owne sonne?

15 Yea, moreouer if ye returne safe, I wil adde sonne thing to the wages.

16 So

16 So they agreed. Then said he to Tobias, Prepare thy self for the iourney, and go you on Gods Name. And when his sonne had prepared all things for the iourney, his father said, Go thou with this man, & God which dwelleth in heauen, prosper your iourney, and the Angel of God kepe you companie.

Tobias goeth forthe, ỹ Angel keping him copanie.

So they went forthe bothe and departed, and the dogge of the yong man with them.

His mother wepeth. Chap. 10.4

17 But *Anna his mother wept, and said to Tobit, Why hast thou sent away our sonne? is he not the staffe of our hand to minister vnto vs?

18 Wolde to God we had not laid money vpon money, but that it had bene cast away in respect of our sonne.

19 For that which God hathe giuen vs to liue with, doeth suffice vs.

20 Then said Tobit, Be not careful, my sister: he shal returne in safetie, & thine eyes shal se him.

21 For the good Angel doeth kepe him companie, and his iourney shal be prosperous, and he shal returne safe.

22 Then she made an end of weping.

CHAP. VI.

Tobias deliuered from the fish. ỹ Raphael sheweth him certeine medecines. 10 He conducteth him toward Sarra.

1 And as they went on their iourney, they came at night to the flood Tygris, and there abode.

Tobias, inuaded of a fish, is deliuered by the Angel.

2 And when the yong man went to wash him self, a fish leaped out of the riuer, and wolde haue deuoured him.

3 Then the Angel said vnto him, Take the fish. And the yong man toke the fish, and drewe it to land.

4 To whome the Angel said, Cut the fish, and take the heart, and the liuer, and the gall, and put them vp surely.

5 So the yong man did as the Angel cõmanded him: & when they had rosted the fish, they ate it: then they bothe went on their way, til they came to Ecbatane.

6 ¶ Then the yong man said to the Angel, Brother Azarias, what auaileth the heart and the liuer, and the gall of the fish?

7 And he said vnto him, Touching the heart and the liuer, if a deuil or an euil spirit trouble any, we must make a perfume of this before the man or the woman, and he shalbe no more vexed.

8 As for the gall, anoint a man that hathe whitenes in his eyes, and he shalbe healed.

9 ¶ And whey then were come nere to Rages,

10 The Angel said to the yong man, Brother, to day we shal lodge w Raguel, who is thy cousin: he also hathe one onelie daughter named Sarra: I wil speake for her that she may be giuen thee for a wife.

11 For to thee doeth * the right of her perteine, seing thou alone art remnant of his kinred, Nom. 27.8, & 36,8

12 And the maid is faire and wise: now therefore heare me, and I wil speake to her father, that we may make ỹ mariage when we are returned from Rages: for I knowe that Raguel can not marie her to another according to the Law of Moyses: els he shulde deserue death, because the right doeth rather apperteine to thee then to anie other man.

13 Then the yong man answered the Angel, I haue heard, brother Azarias, that this maid hathe bene giuen to seuen men, who all dyed in the mariage chamber:

14 And I am the onely begotten sonne of my father, and I am afraied, lest I go into her, and dye as the other: for a wicked spirit loueth her, which hurteth no bodie, but those which come into her: wherefore I also feare lest I dye, and bring my fathers and my mothers life because of me to the graue with sorowe: for they haue no other sonne to burye them.

15 Then the Angel said vnto him, Doest thou not remember the precepts which thy father gaue thee, that thou shuldest marie a wife of thine owne kinred? wherefore heare me, ô my brother: for she shalbe thy wife, nether be thou careful of the euil spirit: for this same night shal she be giuen thee in mariage.

16 And when thou shalt go into thy bed, thou shalt take of the hote coles for perfumes, and make a perfume of the heart, and of the liuer of the fish,

17 Which if the spirit do smell, he wil flee away, and neuer come againe anie more: but when thou shalt come to her, rise vp bothe of you, and praye to God which is merciful, who wil haue pitie on you, and saue you: feare not, for she is appointed vnto thee from the beginning, & thou shalt kepe her, & she shal go with thee: moreouer I suppose that she shal beare thee children: now when Tobias had heard these things, he loued her, and his heart was effectually ioyned to her

CHAP. VII.

Tobias maryeth Sarra Raguels daughter.

Raphael & Tobias come to Raguel.

1 AND when they were come to Ecbatane, they came to the house of Raguel: and Sarra met them, and after they had saluted one another, she broght them into the house.
2 Then said Raguel to Edna his wife, How like is this yong man to Tobit my cousin?
3 And Raguel asked, Whence are you, my brethren? To whome they said, that were of the tribe of Nephthalim, and of the captiues that dwelt at Nineue.
4 Then he said to them, Do ye knowe Tobit our kinsman? And they said, We knowe him. Then said he, Is he in good health?
5 And they said, He is bothe aliue, and in good health: and Tobias said, He is my father.
6 Then Raguel leaped, and kissed him, and wept.
7 And blessed him, & said vnto him, Thou art the sonne of a good and honest man: but when he had heard that Tobit was blinde, he was sorowful and wept.
8 And likewise Edna his wife, and Sarra his daughter wept. Moreouer they receiued them with a readie minde, and after that they had killed a ram of the flocke, they set muche meat on the Table. Then said Tobias to Raphael, Brother Azarias, put forthe those things whereof thou spakest in the waye, that this busines may be dispatched.

Tobias asketh Raguels daughter to wife.

9 So he communicated the matter with Raguel, and Raguel said to Tobias, Eat, and drinke and make merry.
10 For it is mete that thou shuldest marie my daughter: neuertheles, I wil declare vnto thee trueth.
11 I haue giuen my daughter in mariage to seuen men, who dyed that night when they came in vnto her: neuertheles, be thou of a good courage and merry. But Tobias said, I wil eat nothig here, vntil ye bring her hether, and betrothe her to me.
12 Raguel said then, Marie her then according to the custome: for thou art her cousin, and she is thine. God which is merciful, make this prosperous to you in all good things.

Raguel giueth his daughter Sarra to Tobias. Numbr. 36

13 Then he called his daughter Sarra, & she came to her father, and he toke her by the hand, & gaue her for wife to Tobias, saying, Beholde, take her after the * Law of Moyses, and lead her away to thy father: and he blessed them, 14 And called his wife Edna, and he toke a boke and wrote a contract, and sealed it.
15 Then they began to eate.
16 After, Raguel called his wife Edna, and said vnto her, Sister, prepare another chamber, and bring her in thether, 17 Which when she had done, as he had bidden her, she broght her thether: then Sarra wept and her mother wiped away her daughters teares,
18 And said vnto her, Be of good comfort, my daughter: the Lord of heauen & earth giue thee ioye for this thy sorowe be of good comfort, my daughter.

4 And after that they were bothe shut in, Tobias rose out of the bed, and said, Sister, arise and let vs pray, that God wolde haue pitie on vs.

Tobias praier

5 Then began Tobias to say, Blessed art thou, o God of our fathers, and blessed is thine holie and glorious Name for euer: let the heauens blesse thee, and all thy creatures.
6 Thou madest Adam, and gauest him *Eua his wife for an helpe, and stay: of them came mankinde. thou hast said, It is not good, that a man shulde be alone: let vs make vnto him an aide like vnto him self.

*Gen. 2, 7

7 And now, o Lord, I take not this my sister for fornication, but vprightly: therefore grante me mercie, that we may become aged together.
8 And she said with him, Amen.
9 So they slept bothe that night, and Raguel arose, and went and made a graue,

Raguel, thinking Tobias was dead, made a graue for him.

10 Saying, Is not he dead also?
11 But when Raguel was come into his house,
12 He said to his wife Edna, Send one of the maides, and let them se whether he be aliue: if not, that I may burye him, & none knowe it.
13 So the maid opened the dore, and went in, and founde them bothe a slepe, 14 And came forthe, and tolde them that hewas a liue.

Raguel praiseth God for Tobias.

15 Then Raguel praised God, & said, O God, ỹ art worthie to be praised with all pure, & holie praise: therefore let thy Saintes praise thee with all thy creatures, and let all thine Angels and thine elect praise thee for euer.

16 Thou art to be praised, ô Lord: for ỹ hast made me ioyful, and that is not come to me which I suspected: but thou hast delt with vs according to great mercie.

17 Thou art to be praised because thou hast had mercie of two that were the onely begotten children of their fathers: grante them mercie, ô Lord, & finish their life in health with ioye and mercie.

18 Then Raguel bade his seruants to fil the graue.

19 And he kept the wedding feast fourtene daies.

20 For Raguel had said vnto him by an othe, that he shulde not departe before that the fourtene daies of the mariage were expired, Raguel giueth halfe of his goods toward ỹ mariage of his daughter to Tobias.

21 And then he shulde take the halfe of his goods and returne in safetie to his father, and shulde haue the rest, when he and his wife were dead.

CHAP. IX.

Raphael leadeth Gabael to Tobias mariage.

1 THen Tobias called Raphael, & said vnto him,

2 Brother Azarias, take with thee a seruant and two camels, and go to Rages of the Medes to Gabael, and bring me the money and bring him to the wedding.

3 For Raguel hathe sworne that I shal not departe.

Tobias care for his sonne.

4 But my father counteth the daies: and if I tary long, he wil be verie sory.

The Angel goeth on Tobits message.

5 So Raphael went out and came to Gabael, and gaue him the hand writing, who broght forthe bagges which were sealed vp, and gaue them to him.

6 And in the morning they went forthe, bothe together, and came to the wedding. And Tobias begate his wife with childe.

CHAP. X.

1 Tobit and his wife thinke long for their sonne. 10 Raguel sendeth away Tobias and Sarra.

1 NOow Tobit his father counted euery day, & when the daies of the iournay were expired, and they came not,

The father & mother are in haines for Tobias tarying.

2 Tobit said, Are they not mocked? or is not Gabael dead, and there is no man to giue him the money?

3 Therefore he was verie sorie.

4 Then his wife said to him, My sonne is dead, seing he tarieth: and she began to bewaile him, and said,

5 Now * I care for nothing, my sonne, since I haue lost thee the light of mine eyes. Chap. 5. 23

6 To whome Tobit said, Holde thy peace: be not careful, for he is safe.

7 But she said, Holde thy peace, and deceiue me not: my sonne is dead: and she went out euerie day by the waye, which they went, nether did she eat meat on the daye time, & did consume whole nights in bewailing her sonne Tobias vntil the fourtene daies of the wedding were expired, which Raguel had sworne, that he shulde tarie there. Then Tobias said to Raguel, Let me go: for my father and my mother loke no more to se me.

8 But his father in law said vnto him, Tarie with me, and I wil send to thy father, and they shal declare him thine affaires.

9 But Tobias said, No, but let me go to my father.

Raguel giueth Tobias, & his wife leaue to departe.

10 Then Raguel arose, and gaue him Sarra his wife, and halfe his goods, as seruants, and cattel, and money, 11 And he blessed them, & sent them away, saying, The God of heauen make you, my children, to prosper before I dye.

Sarra is instructed by her parents.

12 And he said to his daughter, Honour thy father, & thy mother in law which are now thy parents, that I may heare good reporte of thee: and he kissed them. Edna also said to Tobias, The Lord of heauen restore thee, my dere brother, and grante that I may se thy children of my daughter Sarra, that I may reioyce before the Lord. Beholde now, I committe to thee my daughter as a pledge: do not intreat her euil.

CHAP. XI.

1 The returne of Tobias to his father. 9 How he was receiued. 10 His father hathe his sight restored and praiseth the Lord.

1 AFter these things Tobias went his way, praising God that he had giuen him a prosperous iournay, and blessed Raguel and Edna his wife, and went on his way til he drewe nere to Nineue.

2 Then Raphael said to Tobias, Thou knowest, brother, how thou didest leaue thy father.

The Angels counsel to Tobias.

3 Let vs haste before thy wife, and prepare the house,

4 And take in thine hand the gall of ỹ fish. So they went their way, & the dogge followed them.
5 Now Anna sate in the way loking for her sonne,
6 Whome when she sawe coming, she said to his father, beholde, thy sonne cometh, & the man that went with him.
7 Then said Raphael, I knowe, Tobias, that thy father shal receiue his sight.
8 Therefore anoint his eyes with the gall, and being pricked therewith, he shal rubbe and make the whitenes to fall away, and shal se thee.
9 ¶ Then Anna ranne forthe, and fel on the necke of her sonne, and said vnto him, Seing I haue sene thee, my sonne, from hence forthe I am content to dye, and they wepte bothe.
10 Tobit also went forthe towarde the dore, and stombled, but his sonne ranne vnto him, 11 And toke holde of his father & sprinkled of the gall on his fathers eyes, saying, Be of good hope, my father.
12 And when his eyes began to pricke, he rubbed them.
13 And the whitenes pilled away from the corners of his eyes, and when he sawe his sonne, he fel vpon his necke, 14 And he wept and said, Blessed art thou, ô Lord, & blessed be thy Name for euer, and blessed be all thine holie Angels.
15 For thou hast scourged me, and hast had pitie on me: for beholde, I se my sonne Tobias: and his sonne, being glad went in, & tolde his father ỹ great things ỹ had come to passe in Media.
16 Then Tobit wẽt out to mete his daughter in law, reioycing and praising God to the gate of Nineue: and they which sawe him Go, merueiled because he had receiued his sight.
17 But Tobit testified before them all that God had had pitie on him. And when he came nere to Sarra is daughter in law, he blessed her, saying, Thou art welcome, daughter: God be blessed, which hathe broght thee vnto vs, & blessed be thy father: and there was great ioye among all his brethren which were at Nineue.
18 And Achiacharus & Nasbas his brothers sonne came.
19 And Tobias mariage was kept seuen dayes with great ioye.

CHAP. XII.

2 Tobias declareth to his father the pleasures that Raphael had done him, 5 The which he wolde recompense. 11.15. Raphael declareth that he is an Angel sent of God.

1 THen Tobit called his sonne Tobias, and said vnto him, Prouide, my sonne, wages for the man, which went with thee, and thou must giue him more.
2 And he said vnto him, O father, it shal not grieue me to giue him halfe of those things which I haue broght.
3 For he hathe broght me againe to thee in safetie, and hathe made whole my wife, and hathe broght me the money, & hathe likewise healed thee.
4 Then the olde man said, It is due vnto him.
5 So he called the Angel, & said vnto him, Take halfe of all that ye haue broght, and go away in safetie.
6 But he toke them bothe a parte, and said vnto them, Praise God, and confesse him, and giue him the glorie, and praise him for the things which he hathe done vnto you before all them that liue. It is good to praise God, and to exalte his Name, and to shewe forthe his euident workes with honour: therefore be not wearie to confesse him.
7 It is good to kepe close the secrets of a King, but it is honorable to reueile ỹ workes of God: do that which is good, & no euil shal touche you.
8 Prayer is good with fasting, and almes, & righteousnes. A litle with righteousnes is better then muche with vnrighteousnes: it is better to giue almes then to laye vp golde.
9 For almes doeth deliuer from death, and doeth purge all sinne. Those which exercise almes and righteousnes, shalbe filled with life.
10 But they that sinne, are enemies to their owne life,
11 Surely I wil kepe close nothing from you: neuertheles, I said it was good to kepe close the secret of a King, but ỹ it was honorable to reueile the workes of God.
12 Now therefore when thou dideſt pray, & Sarra thy daughter in law, I did bring to memorie your prayer before the holie one: & when thou dideſt burye the dead, I was with thee likewise.
13 And whē thou wast not grieued to rise vp, and leaue thy diner to burye the dead, thy good dede was not hid from me: but I was with thee.
14 And now God hathe sent me to heale thee, and Sarra thy daughter in law.
15 I am Raphael one of the seuen holie Angels,

He that wilbe acceptable to God, must be proued with tentacion.

Angels, which present the prayers of y Saintes, and which go forthe before his holie maiestie.

16 Then they were bothe troubled, and fell vpon their face: for they feared.

17 But he said vnto them, Feare not, for it shal go wel with you: praise God therefore 18 For I came not of mine owne pleasure, but by the good wil of your God: wherefore praise him in all ages.

Gen. 18, 8. & 19, 3 Iudg. 13, 16

19 *All these dayes I did appeare vnto you, but I did nether eat nor drinke, but you sawe it in vision.

20 Now therefore giue God thankes: for I go vp to him that sent me: but write all things which are done, in a boke.

21 And when they rose, they sawe him no more.

22 Then they confessed the great & wonderful workes of God, and how the Angel of the Lord had appeared to them.

CHAP. XIII.

A thankes giuing of Tobit, who exhorteth all to praise the Lord.

1 THen Tobit wrote a prayer of reioycing, and said, Blessed be God that liueth for euer, & blessed be his kingdome.

Deut. 32, 39 1 Sam. 2, 6 Wisd. 16, 13

2 *For he doeth scourge, & hathe pitie: he leadeth to hel, and bringeth vp, nether is there anie that can auoide his hand.

3 Confesse him before the Gentiles, ye children of Israel for he hathe scatterd you among them.

4 There declare his greatnes, and extoll him before all the liuing: for he is our Lord and our God & our father for euer.

5 He hathe scourged vs for our iniquities, and wil haue mercie againe, & wil gather vs out of all nacions, among whome we are scattred.

6 If you turne to him with your whole heart, and with your whole minde, and deale vprightly before him, then wil he turne vnto you, and wil not hide his face from you, but ye shal se what he wil do with you: therefore confesse him, with your whole mouth, and praise the Lord of righteousnes, and extoll the euerlasting King. I wil confesse him in the land of my captiuitie, and wil declare his power, & greatnes to a sinful nacion. O ye sinners, turne & do iustice before him: who can tel if he wil receiue you to mercie, and haue pitie on you?

7 I wil extoll my God, and my soule shal praise the King of heauen, and shal reioyce in his greatnes.

8 Let all men speake, and let all praise him for his righteousnes.

9 O Ierusalem the holie citie, he wil scourge thee for thy childrens workes, but he wil haue pitie againe on the sonnes of righteous men.

10 Giue praise to the Lord duely, & praise the euerlasting King, that his tabernacle may be buylded in thee againe with ioye: and let him make ioyful there in thee, those that are captiues, and loue in thee for euer those that be miserable.

11 Manie nacions shal come from farre to the Name of the Lord God, with giftes in their hands, euen giftes to the King of heauen: all generacions shal praise thee, & giue signes of ioye.

12 Cursed are all they, which hate thee: but blessed are they for euer which loue thee.

13 Reioyce, and be glad for the children of the iuste: for thei shalbe gathered, and shal blesse the Lord of the iuste.

14 Blessed are they which loue thee: for they shal reioyce in thy peace. Blessed are they which haue bene sorowful for all thy scourges: for they shal reioyce for thee, when they shall se all thy glorie, and shal reioyce for euer.

15 Let my soule blesse God the great King.

16 For Ierusalem shalbe buylt vp with sapphires, and emerodes, and thy walles with precious stones, and thy towres, and thy bulwarkes with pure golde.

17 And the streetes of Ierusalem shalbe paued with beral, and carbuncle, and stones of "Ophir.

18 And all her streetes shal say, "Hallelluiah, and they shal praise him, saying, Blessed be God which hathe extolled "it for euer.

"Or, Souphir. "Or, praise ye the Lord. "That is Ierusalem.

CHAP. XIIII.

Lessons of Tobit to his sonne. 5 He prophecieth the destruction of Nineue, 9 And the restoring of Ierusalem and the Temple. 13 The death of Tobit, and his wife. 16 Tobias age and death.

1 SO Tobit made an end of praising God.

2 And he was eight and fiftie yere olde, when he lost his sight, which was restored to him after eight yere, and he gaue almes, and he continued to feare the Lord God, and to praise him.

3 And when he was verie aged, he called his sonne, and six of his sonnes sonnes, and said to him, My sonne, take thy children (or beholde, I am aged, and am ready to departe out of this life)

4 Go into Media, my sonne: for I beleue that those things which Ionas the Prophet spake of Nineue, that it shal be destroied, & for a time peace shal rather be in Media, and that our brethren shal be scattred in the earth from that good land, & Ierusalem shal be desolate, and the House of God in it shal be burned, and shal be desolate for a time.

Esay. 3, 8, & 6, 14

5 Yet againe God * wil haue pitie on them and bring them againe into the land where they shal buylde a Temple, but not like to the first, vntil the times of that age be ful filled, which being finished, they shal returne from euerie place out of captiuitie, & buylde vp Ierusalem gloriously, and the House of God shal be buylt in it for euer with a glorious buylding, as the Prophetes haue spoken thereof.

6 And all nacions shal turne, and feare ỹ Lord God truely & shal burye their idoles.

7 So shal all nacions praise the Lord, & his people shal confesse God, and the Lord shal exalte his people, and all those which loue the Lord in trueth and iustice, shal reioyce & those also which shewe mercie to our brethren.

8 And now, my sonne, departe out of Nineue, because that those things which the Prophet Ionas spake, shal surely come to passe.

9 But kepe thou the Law, & the commandements, & shewe thy self merciful & iust that it may go wel with thee.

10 And burye me honestly, and thy mother with me: but tarie no longer at Nineue. Remember, my sonne, how a man handled Achiacharus ỹ brought him vp, how out of light he brought him into darkenes, and how he rewarded him againe: yet Achiacharus was saued, but the other had his rewarde: for he went downe into darkenes. Manasses gaue almes, & escaped the snare of death, which they had set for him, but Aman fell into the snare and perished:

11 Wherefore now, my sonne, consider what almes doeth, and how righteousnes doeth deliuer. When he had said these things, he gaue vp the gost in the bed, being an hundreth and eight and fiftie yere olde, and he buryed him honorably.

Or, his soule failed him in the bed.

12 And when Anna was dead, he buryed her with his father: but Tobias went with his wife and children to Ecbatane to Raguel his father in lawe.

13 Where he became olde with honour, and he buryed his father and mother in lawe honorably, & he inherited their substance and Tobits his father.

14 And he dyed at Ecbatane in Media, being an hundreth and seuen & twentie yere olde.

15 But before he dyed, he heard of the destruction of Nineue, which was taken by Nabuchodonosor and Assuerus, and before his death, he reioyced for Nineue.

CHAP. I.

1 The buylding of Ecbatane. 5 Nabuchodonosor made warre against Arphaxad and ouercame him. 12 He threateneth them that wolde not helpe him.

1 IN the twelfth yere of ỹ reigne of Nabuchodonosor, who reigned in Nineue the great citie (in the daies of Arphaxad, which reigned ouer the Medes in Ecbatane),
2 And buylt in Ecbatane the walles rounde about, of hewen stone, thre cubites broad, and six cubites long, and made the height of the wall seuentie cubites, & the breadth thereof fiftie cubites,
3 And made the towres thereof in the gates of it of an hundreth cubites, & ỹ breadth thereof in the fundation threscore cubites,
4 And made the gates thereof, euen gates that were lifted vp on hie, seuentie cubites, & the breadth of them fortie cubites, for the going forthe of his mightie armies, and for the setting in aray of his fotemen)
5 Euen in those daies, King Nabuchodonosor made warre with King Arphaxad in the great field, which is the field in the coastes of Ragau.
6 Then came vnto him all they that dwelt in the mountaines, & all ỹ dwelt by Euphrates, and Tygris and Hydaspes, & the coutrey of Arioch the King of the Elymeans and verie manie nacions assembled them selues to the battel of the sonnes of Chelod.
7 And Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians sent vnto all that dwelt in Persia, & to all that dwelt in the West, & to those that dwelt in Cilicia, and Damascus, and Libanus and Antilibanus and to all that dwelt vpon the sea coast,
8 And to the people, that are in Carmel, & Galaad, and the hier Galilee, and ỹ great field of Esdrelam,
9 And to all that were in Samaria, & the cities thereof, & beyonde Iorden vnto Ierusalem, & Betane, & Chellus, & Cades, & ỹ riuer of Egypt, and Taphnes, and Rameſſe and all ỹ land of Gesem, 10 Vnto one come to Tanis, & Memphis & to all the inhabitants of Egypt, & to one come to the mountaines of Ethiopia.
11 But all the inhabitants of this countrey did not passe for the commandement of Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians, nether wolde they come with him to the battel: for they did not feare him: yea, he was before them as one man: therefore they sent away his ambassadours from them without effect, and with dishonour.
12 Therefore Nabuchodonosor was verie angrie with all this countrey, and sware by his throne and kingdome that he wolde surely be auenged vpon all those coastes of Cilicia and Damascus, and Syria, and that he wolde slay with the sworde all ỹ inhabitants of the lād of Moab, and the children of Ammon, and all Iudea, and all that were in Egypt, til one come to the borders of ỹ two seas.
13 Then he marched in battel aray with his power against King Arphaxad in the seuenteenth yere, and he preuailed in his battel: for he ouerthrewe all the power of Arphaxad, and all his horsemen, and all his chariots.
14 And he wanne his cities, and came vnto Ecbatane, and toke the towres, and spoiled, the stretes thereof, and turned the beautie thereof into shame.
15 He toke also Arphaxad in the mountaines of Ragau, & smote him through with his dartes and destroyed him vterly that daye.
16 So he returned afterwarde to Nineue bothe he and all his compagnies with a verie great multitude of men of warre, and there he passed the time, and banketed, bothe he, and his armie an hundreth and twentie dayes.

CHAP. II.

1 Nabuchodonosor commanded presumptuously that all people shulde be broght in subiection, 6 And to destroy those that disobeyd him. 15 The preparation of Olophernes armie. 25 The conquest of his enemies.

1 AND in the eightenth yere, ỹ two and twentieth daye of the first moneth, there was talke in the house of Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians that he shulde auenge him selfe on all the earth as he had spoken.
2 So he called vnto him all his officers and all his nobles, and communicated with them his secret counsel, and set before them with his owne mouth all the malice of the earth.
3 Then they decreed to destroie all flesh that had not obeied the commandement of his mouth.

4 And when he had ended his counsel, Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrias called Olofernes his chief captaine, and which was next vnto him, and said vnto him,
5 Thus saith the great King, the lord of the whole earth, Beholde, thou shalt go forthe from my presence, and take with thee men that trust in their owne strength, of fotemen, an hundreth and twentie thousand, & the nomber of horses with their riders, twelue thousand,
6 And thou shalt go against all the West countrei because thei desobeied my commandement.
7 And thou shalt declare vnto thē, that they prepare for me the land and the water: for I wil go forthe in my wrath against them, and wil couer the whole face of the earth with the fete of mine armie, and I wil giue them as a spoyle vnto them,
8 So that their wounded shal fil their valleis, & their riuers, & the flood shal ouerflowe, being filled with their dead.
9 And I wil bring their captiuitie to the vtmost partes of all the earth.
10 Thou therefore shalt departe hence, and take vp for me all their countrey: and if they yelde vnto thee, thou shalt reserue thē for me vntil the day that I rebuke them.
11 But concerning them that rebell, let not thine eye spare them, but put them to death, & spoyle them wheresoeuer thou goest.
12 For as I liue, and the power of my kingdome, whatsoeuer I haue spoken, that wil I do by mine hand.
13 And take thou hede that thou transgresse not any of the commandements of thy Lord, but accomplish them fully as I haue commanded thee, and differre not to do them.
14 ¶ Then Olofernes went forthe from the presence of his lord and, called all the gouernours, and captaines, and officers of the armie of Assur,
15 And he mustred the chosen men for the battel, as his lord had commanded him, vnto an hundreth & twentie thousand, and twelue thousand archers on horsbake.
16 And he set them in aray according to the maner of setting a great armie in aray.
17 And he toke camels & asses for their burdens, a very great nomber, and shepe, and oxen, & goates without nomber for their prouision, 18 And vitaile for euerie man of the armie, and very muche golde & siluer out of the Kings house.
19 Then he went forthe and all his power, to go before in the viage of King Nabuchodonosor, & to couer all the face of the earth Westwarde, with their charets, and horsemen, and chosen fotemen.
20 A great multitude also of sundrie sortes came with them like grashoppers and like the grauel of the earth: for ỹ the multitude was without nomber.
21 And they went forthe of Nineue thre daies iornay towarde the countrey of Bectileth, and pitched from Bectileth nere the mountaine which is at the left hand of the vpper Cilicia.
22 Then he toke all his armie, his fotemen and horsemen, and charets, and went from thence into the mountaines, 23 And he destroied Phud and Lud, and spoyled all the children of Rasses, and the children of Ismael, which were towarde the wildernes at the South of the Chelians.
24 Then he went ouer Euphrates, and went through Mesopotamia, & destroied all the hie cities that were vpon the riuer of Arbonai, vntil one come to ỹ sea.
25 And he toke the borders of Cilicia, and destroied all that resisted him, and came to the borders of Iapheth, which were towarde the South and ouer against Arabia.
26 He compassed also all the children of Madian, and burnt vp their tabernacles, and spoyled their lodges
27 Then he went downe into the countrey of Damascus, in the time of wheat haruest and burnt vp all their fields, and destroied their flockes and the herds: he robbed their cities, and spoyled their countrey, and smote all their yong men with the edge of the sworde.
28 Therefore feare and trembling fel vpon all the inhabitans of the sea coast, which were in Sidon and Tyrus, and them that dwelt in Sur & Ocina, & all that dwelt in Iemnaan: & they that dwelt in Azotus, & Ascalon feared him greatly.

CHAP. III.

The people subiect to Olofernes. 8 He destroied their gods that Nabuchodonosor might onely be worshipped.

1 SO they sent ambassadours to him with messages of peace, saying,
2 Beholde, we are the seruantes of Nabuchodonosor the great King: we lie downe before thee: vse vs as shalbe good in thy sight.
3 Beholde, our houses and all our places and all our fields of wheat, and our flockes, and our herdes, and all our lodges and tabernacles lie before thy face: vse them them as it pleaseth thee.

4 Beholde, euen our cities and the inhabitants thereof are thy seruants come, and take them, as semeth good to thee.

5 ¶ So the men came to Olofernes, and declared vnto them after his maner.

6 Then came he downe towarde the sea coast, bothe he and his armie, and set garisõs in ỹ high cities, and toke out of them chosen men for the warre.

7 So they and all the countrey rounde about receiued them, with crownes, with dances, and timbrels.

8 Yet he brake downe all their borders, and cut downe their woods: for it was inioyned him to destroy all the gods of the land, that all naciõs shulde worshippe Nabuchodonosor onely, ād that all tongues and tribes shulde call vpon him as God.

9 Also he came against Esdraelon, nere vnto Iudea, ouer against the great strait of Iudea, 10 And he pitched bewene Geba, and a citie of the Scythians, and there he taried a moneth, that he might assemble all the baggage of his armie.

CHAP. IIII.

The Israelites were afraied and defended their countrey. 6 Ioacim the Priest writeth to Bethulia, that they shulde fortifie them selues. 9 They cryed to the Lord, and humbled them selues before him.

1 NOw the children of Israel that dwelt in Iudea, heard all that Olofernes the chief captaine of Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians had done to the nacions, and how he had spoiled all their temples, and broght them to noght.

2 Therefore they feared greatly his presence, and were troubled for Ierusalem, and for the Temple of the Lord their God.

3 For they were newly returned frõ the captiuitie, and of late all the people was assembled in Iudea, and the vessels and the altar of the House had bene sanctified becawse of the pollution.

4 Therefore they sent into all the coastes of Samaria, and the villages, and to Bethoro, and Belmen, and Iericho, and to Choba, and Esora, and to the valley of Salem,

5 And toke all the toppes of hie mountaines, and walled the villages that were in them, and put in vitailes for the prouision of warre; for their fields were of late reaped.

6 Also Ioacim the hie Priest which was in those daies in Ierusalem, wrote to them that dwelt in Bethulia & Betomestham, which is ouer against Esdraelon towarde the open countrey nere to Dothaim,

7 Exhorting them to kepe the passages of the moutaines: for by them there was an entrie into Iudea, & it was easie to let them that wolde come vp, becawse the passage was streit for two men at the moste.

8 And the children of Israel did as Ioacim the hie Priest had commanded thē with the Ancients of all the people of Israel, which dwelt at Ierusalem.

9 Then cryed euerie man of Israel to God with great feruencie, and their soules with great affection.

10 Bothe they, and their wiues, & their children, and their cattel, and euerie stranger, and hireling, and their boght seruants put sackecloth vpon their loynes.

11 Thus euerie man & woman, and the children, and the inhabitants of Ierusalem fell before the Temple, & sprinkled ashes vpon their heades, and spred out their sackecloth before the face of the Lord: also they put sackecloth about the altar, 12 And cryed to the God of Israel, all with one consent moste earnestly, that he wolde not giue their children for a pray, and their wiues for a spoyle, and the cities of their inheritance to destruction, & the Sanctuaire to pollution and reproche, and vnto derision to the heathen.

13 So God heard their prayers, and loked vpon their affliction: for the people fasted many daies in all Iudea and Ierusalem before the Sanctuaire of the Lord almightie.

14 And Ioacim the hie Priest, and all thee Priests that stode before the Lord, & ministred vnto the Lord, had their loynes girt with sackecloth, and offred the continual burnt offring, with praiers and the fre giftes of the people,

15 And had ashes on their mytres, & cryed vnto the Lord, with all their power for grace, and that he wolde loke vpon all the house of Israel.

CHAP. V.

Achior the Ammonite doeth declare to Olofernes of the maner of the Israelites.

1 THen was it declared to Olofernes the chief captaine of the armie of Assur, that the children of Israel had prepared for warre, and had shut ỹ passages of the mountaines and had waled all the toppes of the hie hilles, and had laied impediments in the champein contrey

2 Where with he was very angrie, and called all the princes of Moab, and ỹ captaines of Ammon, and all the gouernours of the sea coast.

3 And he said vnto them, Shewe me ô ye sonnes of Chanaan, who is this people that dwelleth in the mountaines? and what are the cities that they inhabite? and what is the multitude of their armie? and wherein is their strength and their power? and what King or captaine is raised among them ouer their armie?

4 And why haue they determined not to come to mete me, more then all the inhabitants of the West?

Chap.11.7 5 ¶ Then * said Achior the captaine of all the sonnes of Ammon, Let my lord heare the worde of the mouth of his seruant, and I wil declare vnto thee the trueth concerning this people, that dwell in these mountaines, nere where thou remainest: & there shal no lie come out of the mouth of thy seruant.

6 This people come of the stocke of ỹ Chaldeans.

Genes.11.3 7 And * they dwelt before in Mesopotamia becaus they wolde not followe the gods of their fathers, which were in the land of Chaldea.

8 But they went out of the way of their ancestres and worshipped the God of heauen, the God whome they knewe: so they cast them out ftom the face of their gods, and they fled into Mesopotamia, & soiourned there many daies.

Genes.12.1 9 Then * their God commanded them to departe from the place where they soiourned, and to go into the land of Chanaan, where they dwelt, and were increased with golde and siluer, and ẅ very muche cattel.

10 But when a famine couered all the land of Chanaan, they went downe into Egypt, ad dwelt there til they returned and became there a great multitude, so that one colde not nomber their linage.

Exod.1.8 11 * Therefore the King of Egypt rose vp against thē, and vsed deceit against them, and broght them lowe with laboring in bricke, and made them slaues.

12 Then they cryed vnto their God, and he smote all the land of Egypt with incurable plagues: so the * Egyptians cast them out of their sight.

Exod.12.3

13 And * God dryed the red Sea in their presence,

Exod.14.21

14 And * broght them into mount Sina and Cades barne, and cast forthe all that dwelt in the wildernes.

Exod.19.1

15 So they dwelt in the land of the Amorites, ad them destroied by their strēgth all them of Esebon, and passing ouer Iordan, they inherited all the mountaines.

Ios.12.21 16 And they * cast forthe before them the Chanaanites & the Pherezites, and the Iebusites, and them of Sichem, and all the Gergesites, and they dwelt in that countrey many daies.

17 And whiles they sinned not before their God, they prospered, because the God that hated iniquitie, was ẅ them.

18 But * when they departed from the way which he appointed them, they were destroied in many battels after a wōderful sorte, * & were led captiues into a land that was not theirs: & the Tēple of their God was cast to the grounde & their cities were taken by the enemies.

Iudg 22.18. & 3.8

1.Kingg.25.1

19 But * now they are turned to their God, & are come vp from the scattering wherein thei were scattered, and haue possessed Ierusalem, where their Temple is, and dwell in the mountaines which were desolate.

Ezr.1.1

20 Now therefore, my lord & gouernour if there be anie faute in this people, so that they haue sinned agaīst their God let vs consider that this shalbe their ruine, and let vs go vp, and we shal ouercome them.

21 But if there be none iniquitie in this people, let my lord passe by, lest their Lord defend them, and their God be for them, and we become a reproche before all the worlde.

22 ¶ And when Achior had finished these sayings, all the people, standing roūde about the tēt, murmured: & ỹ chief mē of Olofernes, and all that dwelt by the sea side and in Moab, spake that he shulde kill him, 23 For say they, we feare not to mete the children of Israel: for lo, it is a people that haue no strength nor power agaīst a mightie armie.

24 Let vs therefore go vp, ô lord Olofernes, and they shal be meat for thy whole armie.

CHAP. VI.

Olofernes blasphemeth God whome Achior confessed. 14 Achior is deliuered into the hands of them of Bethulia. 18 The Bethulians crye vnto the Lord.

1 AND when the tumulte of the mē that were about the counsel, was ceased, Olofernes, the chief captaine of the armie of Assur, said vnto Achior before all the people of the strangers, and before all the children of Moab, & of them that were hired of Ephraim

2 Because thou hast prophecied among vs to day, and hast said that the people of Ierusalem is able to fight, * because their God wil defend them: and who is god but Nabuchodonosor?

Chapp.5.5

3 He wil

3 He wil send his power, and wil destroye them from the face of the earth, and their God shal not deliuer them: but we his seruants wil destroye them as one man: for they are not able to susteine the power of our horses.
4 For we wil tread the vnder fete with them, and their mountaines shalbe drūken with their blood, and their fields shalbe filled with their dead bodies, and their fote steppes shal not be able to stand before vs: but they shal vtterly perish.
5 The King Nabuchodonosor, lord of all the earth, hathe said, euen he hathe said, None of my wordes shalbe in vaine.
6 And thou Achior an hireling of Ammon, because thou hast spoken these wordes in the day of thine iniquitie, thou shalt se my face no more from this day vntil I take vengeance of that people that is come out of Egypt.
7 And then shal the yron of mine armie, and the multitude of them that serue me, passe through thy sides, and thou shalt fall among their slayne, when I shal put them to flight.
8 And my seruants shal cary thee into ỹ mountaines, and they shal leaue thee at one of the hie cities: but thou shalt not perish, til thou be destroyed with them.
9 And if thou persuade thy self in thy minde, that they shal not be taken, let not thy countenance fall: I haue spokē it, and none of my wordes shalbe in vaine.
10 Then commanded Olofernes them concerning Achior, that they shulde bring him to Bethulia, and deliuer him into the hands of the children of Israel.
11 So his seruants toke him, and broght him out of the campe into the plaine: and thei went out from the middes of the plaine into the mountaines, and came vnto the foutaines that were vnder Bethulia.
12 And when the men of the citie sawe them from the toppe of the moutaine, they toke their armour, and went for the of the citie vnto the toppe of the mountaine, euen all the throwers with slings, and kept them from comming vp, by casting stones against thē.
13 But they went priuely vnder the hill, & bounde Achior, and left him lying at the fote of the hill, & returned to their lord.
14 Then the Israelites came doune from their citie, and stode about him, and losed him & broght him into Bethulia & presented him to the gouernours of their citie,
15 Which were in those daies, Ozias the sonne of Micha, of the tribe of Simeon and Chabris the sonne of Gothoniel, & Charmis the sonne of Melchiel.
16 And they called together all the Ancients of the citie, and all their youth ranne together, and their women to the assemblie: and they set Achior in the middes of all their people. Then Ozias asked him of that which was done.
17 And he answered & declared vnto them the wordes of the counsel of Olofernes, and all the wordes that he had spoken in the middes of the princes of Assur and what soeuer Olofernes had spoken proudely against the house of Israel.
18 Then the people fel downe and worshipped God, and cryed vnto God, saying,
19 O Lord God of heauen, beholde their pride, and haue mercie on the basenes of our people, and beholde this day the face of those that are sanctified vnto thee.
20 Then they comforted Achior, & praised him greatly.
21 And Ozias toke out of the assemblie into his house, & made a feast to the Elders, and they called on the God of Israel all that night for helpe.

CHAP. VII.

1 Olofernes doeth besiege Bethulia. 8 The counsel of the Idumeans and other against the Israelites. 23 The Bethulians murmure against their gouernours for lacke of water.

1 THe next day, Olofernes commāded all his armie and all his people, which were come to take his parte that thei shulde remoue their campes against Bethulia, and that they shulde take all the streites of the hill, and to make warre against the children of Israel.
2 Then their strong men remoued their camps in that daye, and the armie of the men of warre was an hundreth thousand and seuentie fotemē, & twelue thousand horsemen, beside the baggage & other men that were a fote among them, a very great multitude.
3 And they camped in the plaine nere vnto Bethulia, by the fountaine, and thei spred abroad toward Dothai vnto Belbaim, & and in length from Bethulia vnto Ciamō, which is ouer against Esdraelom
4 Now the children of Israel, when they sawe the multitude, were greatly troubled, & said euerie one to his neighbour, Now wil they shut vp all the whole earth: for nether the hie mountaines nor the valleis, nor the hilles are able to abide their burden.

5 Then euerie one toke his weapons of warre, and burning fyres in their towres, they remained and watched all that night,
6 But in the seconde day, Olofernes broght forthe all his horsemen in the sight of the children of Israel, which were in Bethulia,
7 And vewed the passiges vp to their citie: and came to the fountaines of their waters, & toke them & set garisons of men of warre ouer thē, and remoued toward his people.
8 Then came vnto him all the chief of the children of Esau, and all the gouernours of the people of Moab, & all the captaines of the sea coast, and said, 9 Let our captaine now heare a worde, lest an inconuenience come in thine armie.
10 For this people of the children of Israel do not trust in their speares, but in the height of ẏ mountaines, wherein they dwell, because it is not easy to come vp to the toppes of their mountaines.
11 Now therefore, my lord, fight not against them in battel aray, and there shal not so muche as one man of thy people perish.
12 Ramaine in thy campe, and kepe all the men of thine armie, and let thy mē kepe stil the water of the countrey, that cometh forthe at the fote of the mountaine.
13 For all the inhabitants of Bethulia haue their water thereof: so shal thirst kil them, and they shal giue vp their cities: and we and our people wil go vp to the toppes of the mountaines that are nere, & wil campe vpon them, & watche that none go out of the citie.
14 So thei & their wiues, & their childrē shalbe cōsumed w̄ famine, & before the sworde come against them, thei shalbe ouerthrowen in the stretes where thei dwel.
15 Thus shalt thou render them an euil reward, because thei rebelled & obeied not thy personne peaceably.
16 And these wordes pleased Olofernes & all his soldiers, and he appointed to do as they had spoken.
17 So the campe of the children of Ammon departed, & with them fiue thousand of the Assyrians, and they pitched in the valley, & toke the waters, and ẏ fountaines of the waters of the children of Israel.
18 Then the children of Esau went vp with the children of Ammon, & camped in the mountaines ouer against Dothaim, & thei sent some of them selues towarde the South, and towarde the East, ouer against Rebel, which is nere vnto Chusi, that is vpon the riuer Mochmur: and the rest of the armie of the Assyrians camped in the field, and couered the whole land: for their tents & their baggage were pitched in a wonderful great place.
19 Then the children of Israel cryed vnto the Lord, their God, because their heart failed: for all their enemies had compassed them about, and there was no way to escape out from among thē.
20 Thus all the companie of Assur remained about them, bothe their fotemen, chariots and horsemen, foure and thirtie dayes: so that euen all the places of their waters failed all the inhabitāts of Bethulia.
21 And the cisternes were emptie, and they had not water ynough to drinke for one day: for they gaue them to drinke by measure.
22 Therefore their children swoned, and their wiues & yong men failed for thirst, and fel downe in the stretes of ẏ citie, & by the passages of the gates, and there was no strength in them.
23 Then all the people assembled to Ozias, and to the chief of the citie, bothe yong men and women, and children cryed with a loude voyce, and said before all the Elders, 24 The * Lord iudge betwene vs & you for you haue done vs great iniurie, in that ye haue not required peace of the children of Assur. Exod., 5. 21
25 For now we haue no helper: but God hathe solde vs into their hands, that we shulde be throwen downe before them with thirst and great destruction.
26 Now therefore call them together, & deliuer the whole citie for a spoile to the people of Olofernes, and to all his armie.
27 For it is better for vs to be made a spoile vnto them, thē to dye for thirst, for we wil be his seruants that we may liue, & not se the death of our infants before our eyes, nor our wiues, nor our children to dye.
28 We take to witnes against you the heauen and the earth, & our God and Lord of our fathers, which punisheth vs, according to our sinnes & the sinnes of our fathers, that he lay not these things to our charge.
29 Then there was a great crye of all with one consent in the middes of the assemblie, & thei cryed vnto the Lord God with a loude voyce.
30 Then said Ozias to them, Brethren, be of good courage: let vs waite yet fiue daies, in the which space the Lord our God may turne his mercie toward vs: for he wil not forsake vs in the end.
31 And if

31 And if these daies passe, & there come not helpe vnto vs, I wil do according to your worde.
32 So he separated the people, euerie one vnto their charge, & thei went vnto the walles and towres of their citie, & sent their wiues & their children into their houses, and they were very lowe broght in the citie.

CHAP. VIII.

The parentage, life & conuersation of Iudeth. 11 She rebuketh the faintenes of the gouernours. 12 She sheweth that they shulde not tempt God, but wait vpon him for succour. 33 Her entreprise against the enemies.

1 NOw at ỹ time, Iudeth heard thereof, which was the daughter of Merari the sonne of Ox, the sonne of Ioseph, the sonne of Oziel, the sonne of Elcia, the sonne of Ananias, the sonne of Gedeon, the sonne of Raphaim, the sonne of Acito, the sonne of Eliu, the sonne of Eliab, the sonne of Nathanael, the sonne of Samael, the sonne of Salasadai, the sonne of Israel.
2 And Manasses was her husband, of her stocke and kinred, who dyed in the barely harueſt.
3 For as he was diligent ouer them that bounde sheaues in the field, the heat came vpon his head, & he fel vpon his bed, & dyed in the citie of Bethulia, & thei buryed him with his fathers in the field betwene Dothaim and Balamo.
4 So Iudeth was in her house a widowe thre yeres and foure moneths.
5 And she made her a tente vpon her house, and put on sackecloth on her loynes, and ware her widowes apparel.
6 And she fasted all the daies of her widowhode, saue the day before the Sabbath and the Sabbaths, and the day before the newe moones, & in the feastes & solemne daies of the house of Israel.
7 She was also of a goodlie countenance & very beautiful to beholde: & her husband Manasses had left her golde & siluer, and men seruants, and maide seruants, and cattel, and possessions, where she remained.
8 And there was none that colde bring an euil reporte of her: for she feared God greatly.
9 Now when she heard the euil wordes of the people against the gouernour, because thei fainted for lacke of waters (for Iudeth had heard all the wordes ỹ Ozias had spoken vnto thē, and that he had * sworne vnto them to deliuer the citie vnto the Assyrias with in fiue daies)
10 Then she sent her maide that had the gouernement of all things that she had, to call Ozias and Chabris and Charmis the Ancients of the Citie.
11 And they came vnto her, and she said vnto them, Heare me, ô ye gouernours of the inhabitants of Bethulia: for your wordes that ye haue spoken before the people this day, are not right, thouching this othe which ye made & pronounced betwene God & you, & haue promised to deliuer the citie to ỹ enemies, vnles within these daies the Lord turne to helpe you.
12 And now who are you that haue tempted God this day, & set your selues in the place of God among the children of men?
13 So now you seke the Lord almightie, but you shal neuer knowe any thing.
14 For you can not finde out ỹ depth of the heart of man, nether can ye perceiue things that he thinketh: thē how can you search out God, that hathe made all these things, and knowe his minde, or comprehend his purpose? Nay my brethren, prouoke not the Lord our God to anger.
15 For if he wil not helpe vs within these fiue daies, he hathe power to defend vs when he wil, euen euerie day, or to destroy vs before our enemies.
16 Do not you therefore binde the counsels of the Lord our God: for God is not as man that he may be threatned, nether as the sonne of mā to be broght to iudgement.
17 Therefore let vs waite for saluacion of him & call vpon him to helpe vs, & he wil heare our voyce if it please him.
8 For there appeareth none in our age, nether is there any now in these daies, nether tribe, nor familie, nor people, nor citie among vs, which worship the gods made with hands, as hathe bene afore time.
19 For * the which cause our fathers were giuen to the sworde, & for a spoile, & had a great fall before our enemies. Iud 2.11 & 4, 1. & 6, 1
20 But we knowe none other God: therefore we trust that he wil not despise vs, nor any of our linage.
21 Nether when we shalbe taken, shal Iudea be so famous: for our Sanctuarie shalbe spoiled, and he wil require the prophanacion thereof at our mouth,
22 And the feare of our brethren, and ỹ captiuitie of the countrey, & the desolation of our inheritance wil he turne vpon our heads among the Gentiles, whereseouer we shalbe in bondage, & we shalbe an offence & a reproche to all them that possesse vs.
23 For our seruitude shal not be directed by fauour, but the Lord our God shal turne it to dishonour.
24 Now therefore, ô brethren, let vs shewe an example to our brethren, because their hearts depend vpon vs, & ȳ Sanctuarie, & the House, and the altar rest vpon vs.

Chap. 7. 4, 25

25 Moreouer, let vs giue thankes to the Lord our God, which tryeth vs euen as he did our fathers.

26 Remember what things he did to * Abrahã, and how he tryed Isaac, and all that he did to * Iacob in Mesopotamia of Syria when he kept the shepe of Laban his mothers brother.

Gen.22.1
Gen.28,7

27 For he hathe not tryed vs as he did them to ȳ examination of their hearts, nether doeth he take vengeance on vs, but the Lord punisheth for instruction them that come nere to him.

28 ¶ Then said Ozias to her, All that thou hast spoken, hast thou spoken with a good heart, and there is none that is able to resist thy wordes.

29 For it is not to day that thy wisdome is knowen, but from the beginning of thy life all the people haue knowen thy wisdome: for the deuice of thine heart is good.

30 But the people were very thirstie, and compelled vs to do vnto them, as we haue spoken, & haue broght vs to an othe which we may not transgresse.

31 Therefore now pray for vs, because thou art an holy woman, that the Lord may send vs rayne to fill our cisternes, and that we may faint no more.

32 Then said Iudeth vnto them, Heare me, and I wil do a thing, which shalbe declared in all generations, to the children of our nacion.

33 You shal stand this night in the gate, and I wil go forthe with mine handmaid: and within the daies that ye haue promised to deliuer the citie to our enemies, the Lord wil visit Israel by mine hand.

34 But iniquire not you of mine acte: for I wil not declare it vnto you, til the things be finished that I do.

35 Then said Ozias & the princes vnto her, Go in peace, and the Lord God be before thee, to take vengeance on our enemies.

36 So they returned from the tent, and went to their wardes.

CHAP. IX.

Iudeth humbleth her self before the Lord, & maketh her prayers for the deliuerance of her people. 7 Against the pride of the Assyrians. 11 God is the helpe of the humble.

1 THen Iudeth fel vpon her face, and put ashes vpon her head, and put of the sackecloth wherewith she was clothed. And about the time that the incense of that euening was offred in Ierusalem in the House of the Lord, Iudeth cryed with a loude voyce, & said,

2 O Lord God of my father * Simeon, to whome ȳ gauest a sworde to take vengeance of the strangers which opened the wombe of the maide, and defiled her, and discouered the thigh with shame, and polluted the wombe to reproche (for thou hadest commãded that it shulde not so be,

3 Yet thei did things for the which thou gauest their princes to the slaughter, for they were deceiued & washed their beds with blood) and hast striken the seruants with the gouernours, and the gouernours vpon their thrones,

4 And hast giuen their wiues for a pray and their daughters to be captiues, & all their spoiles for a bootie to the children that thou louedst: which were moued with thy zeale, and abhorred the pollution of their blood, & called vpõ thee for aide, ô God, ô my God, heare me also a widdowe.

5 For thou hast wroght the things afore, & these, and the things that shalbe after, and thou considerest the things that are present, and the things that are to come.

6 For the things which thou doest purpose, are present, & say, Beholde, we are here: for all thy waies are ready, & thy iudgements are foreknowen.

7 Beholde, the Assyrians are multiplied by their power: they haue exalted them selues with horses & horsemen: they glorie in the strength of their fotemen: they trust in shield, speare and bowe, & sling, and do not knowe that ȳ art the Lord that breakest the battels: the Lord is thy Name.

8 Breake thou their strength by thy power, and breake their force by thy wrath: for they haue purposed to defile thy Sanctuarie, & to pollute the tabernacle where thy glorious Name resteth, and to cast downe with weapons the hornes of the altar.

9 Beholde their pride, and send thy wrath vpon their heads: giue into mine hand which am a widow, the strength that I haue conceiued.

10 Smite by the deceit of my lippes the seruant with the prince, and the prince with the seruant: abbate their height by the hand of a woman.

Iud 4,21, & 5,26

11 * For thy power standeth not in the multitude, nor thy might in strong men: but thou, ô Lord, art the helpe of the humble and litle ones, the defender of the weake, & the protector of them that are forsaken, & the Sauiour of thē that are without hope.

Iud.7,7,2 Chron.14,11 & 6,18 & 20,6

12 Surely, surely thou art the God of my father, & the God of the inheritance of Israel, the Lord of heauen and earth, the creator of the waters, the King of all of all creatures: heare thou my prayer,

13 And grāt me wordes & craft, & a woūde, and a stroke against them ẏ entrepriſe cruel things against thy couenant, and against thine holy Houſe, & against the toppe of Sion, and against ẏ houſe of the poſſeſsion of thy children.
14 Shewe euidently among all thy people, & all the tribes, that they may knowe that thou art the God of all power & ſtrength, & that there is none other that defendeth the people of Iſrael, but thou.

CHAP. X.

1 Iudeth decketh her ſelf & goeth forthe of the citie. 11. She is taken of the watch of the Aſſyrians and broght to Olofernes.

1 NOw after ſhe had ceaſed to crye vnto the God of Iſrael, and had made an end of all theſe wordes,
2 She roſe where ſhe had fallen downe, and called her maide, & went downe into the houſe, in the which ſhe abode in the Sabbath daies and in the feaſt daies,
3 And putting away the ſackecloth wherewith ſhe was clad, & putting of the garments of her widowhode, ſhe waſhed her body with water, & anointed it with muche ointement, & dreſſed the heere of her head, and put attire vpon it, and put on her garments of gladnes, where with ſhe was clad during ẏ life of Manaſſes her houſband.
4 And ſhe put ſlippers on her fete, & put on bracelets, & ſleues, and rings, & earings, & all her ornaments, and ſhe decked her ſelfe brauely to allure the eyes of all men that ſhulde ſe her.
5 Then ſhe gaue her maide a bottel of wine, and a pot of oyle, and filled a ſcrippe with floure, & with drye figges, & with fine bread: ſo ſhe lapped vp all theſe things together and laid them vpon her.
6 Thus they went forthe to the gate of the citie of Bethulia, and found ſtanding there Ozias, and the ancients of citie, Chabris and Charmis.
7 And when they ſawe her that her face was changed, & that her garment was changed, they marueiled greatly at her wonderful beautie, and ſaid vnto her,
8 The God, the God of our fathers giue thee fauour, and accompliſh thine entrepriſes to the glorie of the children of Iſrael, and to the exaltation of Ieruſalem. Then they worſhipped God.
9 And ſhe ſaid vnto them, Commande the gates of the citie to be opened vnto me, that I may go forthe to accompliſh thē things which you haue ſpoken to me. So they commanded the yong men to open vnto her, as ſhe had ſpoken.
10 And when they had done ſo, Iudeth went out, ſhe and her maide with her, and the men of the citie loked after her, vntil ſhe was gone downe the mōtaine, and til ſhe had paſſed the valley, and colde ſe her no more.
11 Thus they went ſtreight forthe in the valley, & the firſt watche of ẏ Aſſyrians met her,
12 And toke her, & aſked her, Of what people art thou? and whence comeſt ẏ? and whether goeſt thou? And ſhe ſaid, I am a woman of the Hebrewes, and am fled from them: for they ſhalbe giuen you to be conſumed.
13 And I come before Olofernes, the chief captaine of your armie, to declare him true things, and I wil ſhewe before him the way whereby he ſhal go and winne all the mountaines, without loſing the bodie or life of anie of his men.
14 Now when the men heard her wordes, and behelde her countenance, they wondered greatly at her beautie, and ſaid vnto her,
15 Thou haſt ſaued thy life, in that thou haſt haſted to come downe to the preſence of our lord: now therefore come to his tente, and ſome of vs ſhal conduct thee vntil thei haue deliuered thee into his hands.
16 And when thou ſtandeſt before him, be not afraid in thine heart, but ſhewe vnto him according as thou haſt to ſay, and he wil intreat the wel.
17 Then they choſe out of thē an hundreth men, and prepared a charet for her and her maide, and broght her to the tent of Olofernes.
18 Then there was a running to and fro, throughout ẏ campe: for her comming was bruted among the tentes: & thei came and ſtode rounde about her: for ſhe ſtode without the tēt of Olofernes vntil they had declared vnto him concerning her.
19 And thei marueiled at her beautie, and wondered at the children of Iſrael becauſe of her, & euerie one ſaid vnto his neighbour, Who wolde deſpiſe this people, that haue among them ſuche women? ſurely it is not good that one man of them be left: for if thei ſhulde remaine, they might deceiue the whole earth.
20 Then Olofernes garde went out, and all his ſeruantes, and they broght her into the tente.
21 Now Olofernes reſted vpon his bed vnder a canopie, which was wouen with purple and golde and emeraudes, and precious stones.

22 So they shewed him of her, and he came forthe vnto the entrie of his tent, and they caried lampes of siluer before him.

23 And when Iudeth was come before him and his seruants, they all meruelled at the beautie of her countenance, and she fel downe vpon her face, & did reuerence vnto him, & his seruants toke her vp.

CHAP. XI.

1 Olofernes comforteth Iudeth, 3 And asketh the cause of her comming. 5 She deceiueth him by her faire wordes.

1 THen said Olofernes vnto her, Woman, be of good comfort: feare not in thine heart: for I neuer hurt any that wolde serue Nabuchodonosor ỹ King of all the earth.

2 Now therefore if thy people that dwelleth in ỹ mountaines, had not despised me, I wolde not haue lifted vp my speare against them: but they haue procured these things to thẽ selues.

3 But now tel me wherefore thou art fled from them, and art come vnto vs: for thou art come for safegard: be of good comfort, ỹ shalt liue from this night, & hereafter.

4 For none shal hurt thee, but intreat thee wel, as they do the seruants of King Nabuchodonosor my lord.

5 Then Iudeth said vnto him, Receiue the wordes of thy seruant, & suffer thine handmaide to speake in thy presence, and I wil declare no lie to my lord this night.

6 And if thou wilt folowe the wordes of thine handmaide, God wil bring the thing perfectly to passe by thee, & my lord shal not faile of his purpose.

7 As Nabuchodonosor King of all the earth liueth, and as his power is of force, who hathe sent thee to reforme all persones, not onely men shal be made subiect to him by thee, but also the beastes of the fields, & the cattel, & the foules of the heauen shal liue by thy power vnder Nabuchodonosor & all his house.

8 For we haue heard of thy wisdome and of thy prudent spirit, & it his declared through the whole earth, that thou onely art excellent in all the kingdome, and of a wonderful knowledge, and in feates of warre meruellous.

Chap. 5.3 9 Now * as concerning the matter which Achior did speake in thy counsel, we haue heard his wordes: for the men of Bethulia did take him, & he declared vnto them all that he had spoken vnto thee.

10 Therefore, ô lord & gouernour, reiect not his worde, but set it in thine heart: for it is true: for there is no punishment against our people, nether can ỹ sworde preuaile against thẽ, except they sinne against their God.

11 Now therefore lest my lord shulde be frustrate, & voide of his purpose, & that death may fall vpon them, and ỹ they may be taken in their sinne whiles they prouoke their God to angre, which is so oft times as they do that ỹ is not beseming,

12 (For becaũse their vittailes faile, and all their water is wasted, thei haue determined to take their cattel, and haue purposed to consume all things that God had forbidden them to eat by his Lawes:

13 Yea, they haue purposed to consume ỹ first frutes of the wheat, and the tithes of the wine, and of the oile which they had reserued and sanctified for the Priests that serue in Ierusalem before the face of our God: the which things it is not lawful for anie of the people to touche with their hands.

14 Moreouer they haue sent to Ierusalem, becaũse they also that dwel there, haue done the like, suche as shulde bring them licence from the Senate)

15 Now when they shal bring them worde they wil do it, and they shalbe giuen thee to be destroyed the same day.

16 Wherefore I thine handmaid, knowing all this, am fled from their presence, and God hathe sent me to worke a thing with thee, whereof all the earth shal wonder, & whosoeuer shal heare it.

17 For thy seruant feareth God, and worshipeth the God of heauen day and night, and now let me remaine with thee, my lord, and let thy seruant go out in the night into the valley, and I wil pray vnto God, that he may reueile vnto me when they shal commit their sinnes, 18 And I wil come and shewe it vnto thee: then thou shalt go forthe with all thine armie, & there shalbe none of thẽ that shal resist thee.

19 And I wil lead thee through the middes of Iudea, vntil thou come before Ierusalem, and I wil set thy throne in the middes thereof, and thou shalt driue them as shepe that haue no shepherd, & a dogge shal not barcke with his mouthe against thee: for these thigs haue bene spoken vnto me, & declared vnto me according to my foreknowledge, and I am sent to shewe thee.

20 ¶ Then her wordes pleased Olofernes, and all his seruants, & they meruelled ueiled at her wisdome, and said,

21 There is not suche a woman in all the worlde, bothe for beautie of face, and wisdome of wordes.
22 Likewise Olofernes said vnto her, God hathe done this, to sent thee before the people, that strenght be in our hands, and destruction vpon them that despise my lord.
23 And now thou art bothe beautiful in thy countenance, & wittie in thy wordes: surely if thou do as thou hast spoken, thy God shalbe my God, and thou shalt dwel in the house of Nabuchodonosor, shalt be renomed throughout ỹ whole earth.

a Or, hathe done wel.

CHAP. XII.

1 Iudeth wolde not pollute her self with the meat of the Gentiles. 5 She maketh her request that she might go out by night to pray. 11 Olofernes causeth her to come to the banket.

1 THen he commanded to bring her in where his treasures were layed, and bade that they shulde prepare for her of his owne meates, and that she shulde drinke of his owne wine.
2 But Iudeth said, * I may not eat of them, lest there shulde be an offence, but I can suffice my selfe with ỹ things that I haue broght.
3 Then Olofernes said vnto her, If the things that thou hast, shulde faile, how shulde we giue thee the like? for there is none with vs of thy nation.
4 Then said Iudeth vnto him, As thy soule liueth, my lord, thine handmaide shal not spend those things that I haue, before the Lord worke by mine hand the things that he hathe determined.
5 Then the seruants of Olofernes broght her into the tent, and she slept vntil midnight, and rose at the mourning watche,
6 And sent to Olofernes, saying, Let my lord commande that thine handmaide may go forthe vnto prayer.
7 Then Olofernes commanded his garde that thei shuld not stay her: thus she abode in the campe thre dayes, and wēt out in the night into the valley of Bethulia, and washed her self in a fountaine, euen in the water by the campe.
8 And when she came out, she prayed vnto the Lord God of Israel, that he wolde direct her way to the exaltation of the children of her people.
9 So she returned, & remained pure in the tent, vntil she ate her meat at euening.
10 ¶ And in the fourthe day, Olofernes made a feast to his owne seruants only and called none of them to the banket that had the affaires in hand.
11 Then said he to Bagoas the eunuche who had charge ouer all that he had, Go and persuade this Hebrewe woman, which is with thee, that she come vnto vs and eat, & drinke with vs.
12 For it were a shame for vs, if we shulde let suche a woman alone, & not talke w̄ her, & if we do not allure her, she wil mocke vs.
13 Then went Bagoas from the presence of Olofernes, & came to her, & said, Let not this faire maide make difficultie to go into my lord, & to be honored in his presence, and to drinke wine with ys ioyfully, & to be intreated as one of the daughters of the children of Assur, which remaine in the house of Nabuchodonosor.
14 Then said Iudeth vnto him, Who am I now, that I shulde gainesay my lord? Surely whatsoeuer pleaseth him, I wil do spedely, and it shalbe my ioye vnto the day of my death.
15 So she arose & trimmed her with garments, and with all the ornaments of women, & her maide went, & spred for her skinnes on ỹ grounde ouer against Olofernes, which she had receiued of Bagoas for her daily vse, that she might sit and eat vpon them.
16 Now when Iudeth came & sate downe, Olofernes heart was rauished with her, and his spirit was moued, and he desired greatly her companie: for he had waited for the time to deceiue her frō the day that he had sene her,
17 Then said Olofernes vnto her, Drinke now, and be mery with vs.
18 So Iudeth said, I drinke now, my lord because my state is exalted this day more then euer it was since I was borne.
19 Then she toke, & ate & drāke before him the things, that her maide had prepared.
20 And Olofernes reioyced because of her & dranke muche more wine then he had drunken at anie time in one day since he was borne.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Iudeth praieth for strengeth. 8 She smiteth of Olofernes necke. 10 She returneth to Bethulia & reioyceth her people.

1 NOw when the euening was come, his seruants made haste to departe, and Bagoas shut his tent without, & dimissed, those that were present, from the presēce of his lord, & they went to their beddes: * for they were all wearie, because the feast had bene long,
2 And Iudeth was left alone in the tent & Olofernes was stretched along vpon his bed: for he was filled with wine.

3 ¶ Now Iudeth had commanded her maide to ſtand without her chamber, & to waite for her comming forthe as ſhe did dayly: for ſhe ſaid, ſhe wolde go forthe to her prayers, & ſhe ſpake to Bagoas according to the ſame purpoſe.
4 So all went forthe of her preſence, & none was left in the chamber, nether litle nor great: then Iudeth ſtanding by his bed, ſaid in heart, O Lord God of all power, beholde at this preſent the workes of mine hands for the exaltation of Ieruſalem.
5 For now is the time to helpe thine inheritance, & to execute mine enterpriſes, to the deſtruction of the enemies which are riſen againſt vs.
6 Then ſhe came to the poſt of the bed which was at Olofernes head, & toke downe his fauchin from thence,
7 And approched to the bed, & toke holde of the heere of his head, and ſaid, Strengthen me, ô Lord God of Iſrael this day.
8 And ſhe ſmote twiſe vpon his necke with all her might, and ſhe toke away his head from him,
9 And roled his bodie downe from the bed, and pulled downe the canopie frō the pillers, and anone after ſhe went forthe, & gaue Olofernes head to her maid,
10 And ſhe put it in her ſcrippe of meat: ſo they twaine went together according to their cuſtome vnto prayer, and preſſing through the tentes, went about by that valley, and went vp the mountaine of Bethulia, and came to the gates thereof.
11 ¶ Then ſaid Iudeth afarre of to the watche men at the gates, Open now ŷ gate: God, euen our God is with vs to ſhewe his power yet in Ieruſalem, & his force againſt his enemies, as he hathe euen done this day.
12 Now when the men of her citie heard her voyce, thei made haſte to go downe to the gate of their citie, and they called the Elders of the citie.
13 And they ranne all together bothe ſmale and great: for it was aboue their expectation, that ſhe ſhulde come. So they opened the gate & receiued her, & made a fyre for a light, & ſtoode rounde about them twaine.
14 Then ſhe ſaid to them with a loude voyce, Praiſe God, praiſe God: for he hathe not taken away his mercie from the houſe of Iſrael, but hathe deſtroyed our enemies by mine hands this night.
15 So ſhe toke the head out of the ſcrippe & ſhewed it, and ſaid vnto them: beholde the head of Olofernes, the chief captaine of the armie of Aſſur, and beholde the canopie, wherein he did lie in is drunkenes, & the Lord hathe ſmitten him by the hand of a woman.
16 As the Lord liueth, who hathe kept me in my way that I went, my contenance hathe deceiued him to his deſtruction, & he hathe not commited ſinne with me by anie pollution or vilenie.
17 Then all the people were wonderfully aſtoniſhed, and bowed them ſelues, and worſhiped God, and ſaid with one accorde, Bleſſed be thou, ô our God, which haſt this day broght to noght ŷ enemies of thy people.
18 Then ſaid Ozias vnto her, O daughter, bleſſed art thou of the moſte hie God aboue all the women of the earth, and bleſſed be the Lord God, which ha the created the heauens and the earth, which hathe directed thee to the cutting of of the head of the chief of our enemies.
19 Surely this thine hope ſhal neuer departe out of ŷ heartes of men: for they ſhal remember the power of God for euer.
20 And God turne theſe things to thee for a perpetual praiſe, and viſite the with good things, becauſe thou haſt not ſpared thy life, becauſe of the afflictiō of our nacion, but thou haſt holpen our ruine, walking a ſtreight way before our God. And all the people ſaid, So be it, ſo be it.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 Iudeth cauſeth to hang vp the head of Olofernes. 10 Achior ioyneth him ſelfe to the people of God. 11 The Iſraelites go out againſt the Aſſyrians.

1 THen ſaid Iudeth vnto them, Heare me alſo, my brethren, and *take this head, and hang it vpon the hieſt place of your walles. 2. Mace. 15. 28
2 And ſo ſone as the morning ſhal appear and the ſonne ſhal come forthe vpon the earth, take you euerie one his weapons, and go forthe euerie valiant man out of the citie, and ſet you a captaine ouer thē, as though you wolde go downe into the field, towarde the watche of the Aſſyrians, but go not downe.
3 Then they ſhal take their armour, & ſhal go into their campe, and raiſe vp the captaines of the armie of Aſſur, and they ſhal runne to the tent of Olofernes, but ſhal not finde him: then feare ſhal fall vpon them, and they ſhal flee before your face.
4 So you and all that inhabite the coaſtes of Iſrael, ſhal purſue them, & ouerthrowe them as they go.
5 But before you do theſe things, call me Achior the Ammonite, that he may ſe, and knowe him that deſpiſed the houſe house of Israel, and that sent him to vs as to death.

6 Then they called Achior out of the house of Ozias, and when he was come and sawe the head of Olofernes in a certeine mans hand in the assemblie of the people, he fell downe on his face, and his spirit failed.

7 But when they had taken him vp, he fel at Iudeths fete, & reuerenced her, and said, Blessed art thou in all the tabernacle of Iuda, and in all nations, which, hearing thy name, shalbe astonished.

8 Now therefore tel me all the things, that thou hast done in these dayes. Thē Iudeth declared vnto him in the middes of the people all that she had done from ỹ daie ỹ she wēt forthe, vntil that houre she spake vnto them.

9 And when she had left of speaking, the people reioyced with a great voyce, and made a noyce of gladnes through their citie.

10 And Achior, seing all things that God had done for Israel, beleued in God vnfainedly, and circumcised the foreskine of his flesh, and was ioyned vnto the house of Israel vnto this day.

11 ¶ Assone as the morning arose, thei hanged the head of Olofernes out at the wall, & euerie man toke his weapons, and they went forthe by bandes vnto the straites of the mountaine.

12 But when the Assyrians sawe them, they sent to their captaines, which wēt to the gouernours and chief captaines, and to all their rulers.

13 So they came to Olofernes tent and said to him ỹ had the charge of all his things, Waken our lord, for the sclaues haue bene bolde to come downe against vs to battel, that they may be destroyed for euer.

14 Then went in Bogoas, & knocked at the dore of the tent: for he thoght that he had slept with Iudeth.

15 But beeause none answered, he opened it, and went into the chamber, and founde him cast vpon the floore, and his head was taken from him.

16 Therefore he cryed with a loude voyce with weping and mourning, & a mightie crye, and rent his garments.

17 After, he went into the tent of Iudeth where she vsed to remaine, and founde her not: then he leaped out to the people and cryed, 18 These sclaues haue committed wickednes: one woman of the Hebrewes hathe broght shame vpon the house of King Nabuchodonosor: for beholde, Olofernes lieth vpon the grounde without an head.

19 When the captaines of the Assyrians armie heard these wordes, they rent their coates, and their heart was wonderfully troubled, & there was a crye and a verie great noyce throughout the campe.

CHAP. XV.

1 The Assyrians are afraied and flee. 3 The Israelites pursue them. 8 Ioacim the hie Priest cometh to Bethulia to se Iudeth and to praise God for her.

1 AND when thei that were in the tents heard, they were astonished at the thing that was done.

2 And feare & trembling fel vpon thē, so that there was no man that durst abide in the sight of his neighbour: but altogether amased, thei fled by euerie way of the plaine and of the mountaines.

3 They also that had camped in the mountaines rounde about Bethulia, were put to flight. then the children of Israel, euery one that was a warriour amōg them, rushed out vpon them.

4 Then sent Ozias to Bethomasthem, and to Bebai, and Chobai, and Chola, & and to all the coastes of Israel, suche as shulde declare vnto them the things that were done, and ỹ all shulde rushe forthe vpon their enemies to destroy them.

5 Now when the children of Israel heard it, they all fell vpon them together vnto Choba: likewise also thei that came from Ierusalem & from all the mountaines: for men had tolde them what things were done in the campe of their enemies, and they that were in Galaad and in Galile chased them with a great slaughter vntil they came to Damascus and to the coastes thereof.

6 And the residue that dwelt at Bethulia, fel vpon ỹ campe of Assur and spoiled them, and were greatly enriched.

7 And the children of Israel that returned from the slaughter, had the reste & the villages & the cities that were in the mountaines, & in the plaine, had a great bootie: for the abundance was verie great.

8 Then Ioacim the hie Prieste and ỹ Ancients of the children of Israel that dwelt in Ierusalem, came to confirme the benefites that God had shewed to Israel, and to se Iudeth, and to salute her.

9 And when they came vnto her, thei blessed her with one accorde, and said vnto her, Thou art the exaltacion of Ierusalem: thou art the great glorie of Israel: thou art the great reioycing of our nacion.

10 Thou hast done all these things by thine hand; thou hast done muche good to Israel, & God is pleased therewith: blessed be thou of the almightie Lord for euermore: and all the people said, So be it.

11 And the people spoiled the campe ỹ space of thirtie daies, and thei gaue vnto Iudeth Olofernes tent, and all his siluer & beddes, and basins, and all his stuffe, & she toke it and laied it on her mules, & made readie her charets, & laied them thereon.

12 Then all the women of Israel came together to se her, and blessed her, and made a dance among them for her, and she toke branches in her hand, and gaue also to the women that were with her.

13 They also crowned her with oliues, and her that was with her, and she went before the people in the dãce, leading all the women: and all the men of Israel followed in their armour, with crownes and with songs in their mouthes.

CHAP. XVI.

Iudeth praiseth God with a song. 19 She offreth to the Lord Olofernes stuffe. 23 Her continence, life and death, 25 All Israel lamenteth her.

1 THen Iudeth began this confession in all Israel, and all ỹ people sang this song with a loude voyce.

2 And Iudeth said, Beginne vnto my God with tymbrels: sing to my Lord with cymbales: tune vnto him a psalme: exalt his praise, and call vpon his Name.

3 For God breaketh the battels, and pitched his campe in the middes of the people, & deliuered me out of the hãd persecuters.

4 Assur came from the mountaines forthe of the North: he came with thousands in his armie, * whose multitude hathe shut vp the riuers and their horsemen haue couered the valleis. Chap. 2, 18

5 He said that he wolde burne vp my borders & kill my yong men with the sworde, and dash the sucking children against the grounde, & make mine infants as a pray, and my virgenes a spoile.

6 But the almihgtie Lord hathe broght them to naught by the hand of a woman.

7 For the mightie did not fall by the yong men, nether did the sonnes of Titan smite him, nor the hie gyants inuade him, but Iudeth the daughter of Merari did discomfite him by the beautie of her countenance.

8 For she put of the garment of her widdowhode, for the exaltacion of those that were oppressed in Israel, and anointed her face with ointment, and bounde vp her heere in a coife, and toke a linen garment to deceiue him.

9 Her slippers rauished his eyes: her beautie toke his minde prisoner, and the fauchin passed through his necke.

10 The Persians were astonished at her boldenes, and the Medes were troubled with her hardines.

11 But mine afflicted reioyced, & my feble ones showted: then they feared, they lifted vp their voyce and turned backe.

12 The childrẽ of maides perced them, and wounded them as they fled away like children: they perished by the battel of the Lord.

13 I wil sing vnto the Lord a song and praise, O Lord, thou art great and glorious, maruelous and inuincible in power.

14 Let all thy creatures serue thee: *for thou hast spoken and they were made: ỹ hast sent thy Spirit, and he made thẽ vp, & there is none that can resist thy voyce. Gen. 1, 2, 3, 4 Psal. 33, 6, 9

15 For the mountaines leape vp from their fundacions with ỹ waters: the rockes melt at thy presence like waxe: yet thou art merciful to them that feare thee.

16 For all sacrifice is to litle for a swete sauour, and all the fat his to litle for thy burnt offring: but he that feareth ỹ Lord, is great at all times.

17 Wo to the nacions that rise vp against my kinred, the Lord almightie wil take vengeance of them in the day of iudgemẽt in sending fyre and wormes vpon their flesh, and they shal fele them & wepe for euer.

18 ¶ After, when they went vnto Ierusalem, they worshiped the Lord, and assone as the people were purified, they offred their burnt offrings, and their free offrings, and their giftes.

19 Iudeth also offred all the stuffe of Olofernes, which the people had giuen her, and gaue the canopie which she had taken of his bed, for an oblacion to ỹ Lord.

20 So the people reioyced in Ierusalem by the Sanctuarie, for the space of thre moneths, and Iudeth remained with them.

21 After this time, euerie one returned to his owne inheritance, and Iudeth went to Bethulia, and remained in her owne possession, and was for her time honorable in all the countrey.

22 And manie desired her, but none had her companie all the dayes of her life after that Manasses her housband was dead, & was gathered to[u] his people. [u] Or, their people.

23 But

23 But she increased more and more in honour, and waxed olde in her housbands house, being and hundreth and fiue yere olde, & made her maid free: so she dyed in Bethulia, and they buryed her in ỹ graue of her housband Manasses.

Gen. 50.10 24 And * ỹ house of Israel lamented her seuen daies, & before she dyed, she did distribute her goods to all them that were nereſt of kinred to Manasses her housband, and to them that were the nereſt of her kinred.

25 And there was none that made the children of Israel anie more afraied in the daies of Iudeth, nor a long time after her death.

ESTHER.

Certeine porcions of the storie of Esther, Which are founde in some Greke and Latin translations.

Which follow the tenth chapter.

4 THEN Mardocheus said, God hathe done these thigs.

5 For I remember a dreame, which I sawe concerning these matters, and there was nothing thereof omitted.

6 A litle fountaine which became a flood, and was a light, and as the sunne, & as muche water, this flood was Esther whome ỹ King maried, and made Quene.

7 And the two dragons are I and Aman.

8 And ỹ people are they that are assembled to destroye the name of the Iewes.

9 And my people is Israel, which cryed to God, and are saued: for the Lord hathe saued his people, and the Lord hathe deliuered vs from all these eueils, and God hathe wroght signes, and great wonders, which haue not bene done among the Gentiles.

10 Therefore hathe he made two lottes, one for the people of God, and another for all the Gentiles.

11 And these two lottes came before God for all nations, at ỹ houre and time appointed, and in the day of iudgement.

12 So God remembred his owne people, & iustified his inheritance.

13 Therefore those dayes shalbe vnto them in the moneth Adar the fortenth and fiftenth day of the same moneth, with an assemblie and ioye, and with gladnes before God, according to the generations for euer among his people.

CHAP. XI.

1 IN the fourth yere of the reigne of Ptolomeus and Cleopatra Dositheus, who said he was a Priest and Leuite, and Ptolomeus his sonne, that broght the former letters of 'Phrurai, which thei said Lysimachus the sonne of Ptolomeus, which was at Ierusalem, interpreted,

'Or, lotter.

2 In the second yere of the reigne of great Artaxerxes in the first day of the moneth Nisan, Mardocheus the sonne of Iarus, the sonne of Semei the sonne of Cis of the tribe of Beniamin had a dreame,

3 A Iewe dwelling in the citie of Susis, a noble man, that bare office in ỹ Kings court.

4 He was also one of the captiuitie which Nabuchodosor the King of Babylon broght from Ierusalem with Iechonias.

5 And this was his dreame, Beholde a noice of a tempest with thunders, and earthquakes, and vproare in the land.

6 Beholde two great dragons came forthe ready to fight one against another.

7 Their crye was great, whereby all the heathen were ready to fight against the righteous people.

8 And the same day was ful of darkenes & obscuritie, & troble, & anguish: yea, aduersitie, and great affliction was vpō the earth.

9 For then the righteous fearing their afflictions, were amased, and being ready to dye, cryed vnto God.

10 And while they were crying, the litle wel grewe into a great riuer, and flowed ouer with great waters.

11 The light & ỹ sunne rose vp, & ỹ lowlie were exalted, & deuoured ỹ glorious 12 Now when Mardocheus had sene this dreame, he awoke and rose vp and thoght in his heart vntil ỹ night, what God wolde do, & so he desired to knowe all the matter.

CHAP. XII.

1 AT the same time dwelt Mardocheus in the Kings court with Bagathas, and Thara the Kings eunuches & kepers of the palace.

Esth.c 2,21,& 6,2

2 *But when he heard their purpose, and their imaginacions, he perceiued that they went about to lay their hãds vpon the King Artaxerxes, and so he certified the King thereof.

3 Then caused the King to examine the two eunuches with torments, and when they had confessed it, they were put to death.

4 This the King caused to be put in the Chronicles. Mardocheus also wrote the same thing.

5 So ỹ King commanded ỹ Mardocheus shulde remaine in the court, and for ỹ aduertisement, he gaue him a rewarde.

6 But Amã the sonne of Amadathus the Agagite, which was in great honour and reputacion with the King, went about to hurt Mardocheus & his people, because of the two eunuches of the King that were put to death.

CHAP. XIII.

The copie of the letters of Artaxerxes against ỹ Iewes, & The prayer of Mardocheus.

Ioseph. Antiq. li.11, Chap.6

1 THe copie of the letters was this, The great King Artaxerxes writeth these things to the princes & gouernours that are vnder him from India vnto Ethiopia in an hũdreth and seuen and twentie prouinces.

2 When I was made lord ouer manie people, & had subdued the whole earth vnto my dominion, I wolde not exalte my self by the reason of my power, but purposed with equitie alway and gentelnes to gouerne my subiects, and wholy to set them in a peaceable life, and thereby to bring my kingdome vnto tranquiltie, that men might safely go thorow on euerie side, and to renew peace againe, which all men desire.

3 Now when I asked my counselers how these things might be broght to passe, one that was conuersant with vs, of excellent wisdome, and constant in good wil, and shewed him self to be of sure fidelitie, which had the seconde place in the kingdome, euen Aman,

4 Declared vnto vs, that in all nacions there was scatered abroade a rebellious people, that had Lawes contrarie to all people, and haue alway dispised ỹ cõmandements of Kings, and so that this general empire, that we haue begonne, can not be gouerned without offence.

5 Seing now we perceiue, ỹ this people alone are altogether cõtrarie vnto euerie man, vsing strange and other maner of lawes, and hauing an euil opinion of our doings, and go about to stablishe wicked matters, that our kingdome shulde not come to good estate,

6 Therefore haue we commanded, that all they that are appointed in writing vnto you by Aman, (which is ordeined ouer the affaires, & is as our seconde father) shal all with their wiues and children be destroyed and rooted out with the sworde of their enemies without all mercie, and that none be spared the forteenth day of the twelfth moneth Adar of this yere,

7 That they which of olde, and now also haue euer bene rebellious, may in one day with violence be thruste downe into the hell, to the intente that after this time our affaires may be without troubles, and wel gouerned in all pointes.

8 Then Mardocheus thoght vpõ all the workes and of the Lord, and made his prayer vnto him, 9 Saying, O Lord, Lord, ỹ King almightie (for all things are in thy power) and if thou hast appointed to saue Israel, there is no man ỹ can withstande thee.

10 For thou hast made heauen and earth, and all the wonderous things vnder ỹ heauen.

11 Thou art Lord of all things, and there is no man that can resist thee, which art the Lord.

12 Thou knowest all things, & thou knowest, Lord, that it was nether of malice, nor presumption, nor for anie desire of glorie, that I did this, and not bowe downe to proude Aman.

13 For I wolde haue bene content with good wil for the saluation of Israel, to haue kist the sole of his fete.

14 But I did it, because I wolde not preferre the honour of a man aboue the glorie of God, and wolde not worship anie but onely thee, my Lord, and this haue I not done of pride.

15 And therefore, ô Lord God and King, haue mercie vpon thy people: for they imagine how thei may bring vs to naught, yea they wolde destroye the inheritance, that hathe bene thine from the beginning.

16 Dispise not the porcion, which thou hast deliuered out of Egypt for thine owne self.

17 Heare my prayer, and be merciful vnto thy portion: turne our sorowe into ioye that we may liue, ô Lord, and praise thy Name: shut not the mouthes of them that praise thee.

18 All Israel in like maner cryed moste earnestly vnto the Lord, because that death was before their eyes.

CHAP. XIIII.

The prayer of Esther for the deliuerance of her, and her people.

1 QVene

QVene Esther also, being in dāger of death, resorted vnto the Lord,
2 And laid away her glorious apparel, and put on the garments of sighing, and mourning In the stead of precious ointement, she scatered ashes, and dongue vpon her head: and she hūbled her bodie greatly with fasting, and all the places of her ioye filled she with the heere that she plucte of.
3 And she prayed vnto the Lord God of Israel, saying, O my Lord, thou onely art our King: helpe me desolate woman, which haue no helper but thee.
4 For my danger is at hand.
5 From my youth vp I haue heard in ỹ kinred of my father, that thou, ô Lord takest Israel from among all people, and our fathers frō their predecessours for a perpetual inheritance, and thou hast performed that which thou didest promise them.
6 Now Lord, we haue sinned before thee therefore hast thou giuen vs into the hands of our enemies.
7 Because we worshipped their gods, ô Lord, thou art righteous.
8 Neuertheles, it satisfieth them not, that we are in bitter captiuitie, but they haue stroken hands with their idoles.
9 That thei wil abolish the thing that ỹ with thy mouth hast ordeined, & destroye thine inheritance, to shut vp the mouthe of them that praise thee, and to quēche the glorie of thy temple, and of thine altar,
10 And to open the mouthes of the heathen, that they may praise the power of the idoles, and to magnifie a fleshlie King for euer.
11 O Lord, giue not thy scepter vnto thē that be nothing, lest thei laugh vs to scorne in our miserie: but turne their deuise vpon thēselues, and make him an example, that hathe begonne the same against vs.
12 Thinke vpon vs, ô Lord, and shewe thy self vnto vs in the time of our distresse, and strengthen me, ô King of gods and Lord of all power.
13 Giue me an eloquent speache in my mouth before the Lion: turne his heart to hate our enemie, to destroye him, and all suche as consent vnto him.
14 But deliuer vs with thine hand, and helpe me that am solitarie, which haue no defense but onely thee.
15 Thou knowest all things, ô Lord: thou knowest, that I hate the glorie of the vnrighteous, & that I abhorre the bed of ỹ vncircuncised, and of all ỹ heathē.
16 Thou knowest my necessitie. for I hate this token of my preeminence, which I beare vpon mine head, what time as I must shewe my self, & that abhorre it as a menstruous cloth, & that I weare it not when I am alone by my self,
17 And that I thine hand maide haue not eaten at Amans table, and that I haue had no pleasure in the Kings feast, nor drunke the wine of the drinke offrings,
18 And that I thine hand maide haue no ioye sence the day that I was broght hether, vntil this day, but in thee, ô Lord God of Abraham.
19 O thou mihgtie God aboue all, heare the voyce of them, that haue none other hope, and deliuer vs out of ỹ hand of the wicked, and deliuer me out of my feare.

CHAP. XV.

1 Mardocheus moueth Esther to go into the King and make intercessiō for her people. 9 And she performeth his request.

1 MArdocheus also bade Esther to go in vnto the King, and pray for her people and for her countrey.
2 Remember, saith he, the daies of thy lowe estate, how ỹ wast nourished vnder mine hand: for Aman ẅ is next vnto ỹ King, hathe giuē sentēce of death against vs.
3 Call thou therefore vpon the Lord, and speake for vs vnto the King, and deliuer vs from death.
4 And vpon the thirde day when she had ended her prayer, she laid away the mourning garments, and put on her glorious apparel,
5 And decte her self goodly, after that she had called vpon God, which is the beholder and sauiour of all things, & tokē two handmaides with her.
6 Vpon the one she leaned her self, as one that was tender.
7 And the other followed her, and bare the traine of her vesture.
8 The shine of her beautie made her face rose coloured: and her face was chearful & amiable, but her heart was sorowful for great feare.
9 Then she went in thorow all the dores and stode before the King, and ỹ King sate vpon his royal throne, & was clothed in his goodlie araye, all glittering with golde and precious stones, and he was very terrible.
10 Then he lift vp his face, that shone with maiestie, and loked fiercely vpon her: therefore the Quene fel downe, and was pale and faint and leaned her self vpon the head of the maide, that went with her.
11 Neuertheles, God turned the Kings minde that he was gentle, who being careful, leaped out of his throne, & toke her in his armes, til she came to her selfe againe, and comforted her with louing wordes, and said, 12 Esther, what is the matter? I am thy brother, be of good cheare, 13 Thou shalt not dye: for our commandement toucheth the commons, and not thee. Come nere.

14 And so he helde vp his golden septre, & laid it vpon her necke, 15 And kissed her, and said, Talke with me.
16 Then said she, I sawe thee, ô lord, as an Angel of God, & mine heart was troubled for feare of thy maiestie.
17 For wonderful art thou, ô lord, and thy face is ful of grace.
18 And as she was thus speaking vnto him, she fel downe againe for faintnes.
19 Then the King was troubled, and all his seruants comforted her.

CHAP. XVI.

The copie of the letters of Artaxerxes, whereby he reuoketh those which he first sent forthe.

1 THe great King Artaxerxes, which reigneth from India vnto Ethiopia, ouer an hundreth and seuen and twentie prouinces, sendeth vnto ý princes and rulers that haue the charge of our affaires, Salutation.
Ioseph. Antiq. li. chap. 6.
2 There be many that through the goodnes of Princes and honour giuen vnto them, become very proude,
3 And indeuoure not onelye to hurt our subiects, but not content to liue in wealth, do also imagine destruction agaīst those that do them good,
4 And take not onely all thankefulnes away from men, but in pride & presumption, as thei that be vnmindeful of benefites, thei thinke to escape the vengeance of God, that seeth all things & is contrairie to euil.
5 And oft times manie, which be set in office, and vnto whome their friends causes are committed by vaine intisements do wrappe them in calamities, ý can not be remedied: for thei make the partakers of innocent blood.
6 And disceitfully abuse the simplicitie & gentlenes of princes with lying tales
7 This may be proued not onely by olde histories, but also by those things ý are beforé our eyes, and are wickedly committed of suche pestilences as are not worthie to beare rule.
8 Therefore we must take hede hereafter, that we may make the kingdome peaceable for all men, what change so euer shal come,
9 And discerne the things that are before our eyes, to withstand them with gentlenes.
10 For Aman, a Macedonian, the sonne of Amadathus, being in dede a stranger from the Persians blood, and farre from our goodnes, was receiued of vs, 11 And hathe proued the friendship that we beare towarde all nations, so that he was called our father, and was honored of euerie man, as the next persone vnto the King.
12 But he colde not vse him self soberly in this great dignitie, but went about to depriue vs of the kingdome, & of our life
13 With manifolde disceite also hathe he desired to destroye Mardocheus our preseruer, which hath done vs good in all things, and innocent Ester the partaker of our kingdome, with all her nation.
14 For his minde was (when he had take them out of the way) to lay waite for vs, and by this meanes to translate the kindome of the Persians vnto them of Macedonia.
15 But we finde that the Iewes (which were accused of this moste wicked man that thei might be destroyed) are no euil doers, but vse moste iust Lawes, 16 And that they be the children of the moste high and almightie and euer liuing God, by whome the kingdome hathe bene preserued vnto vs, and our progenitours in verie good ordre.
17 Wherefore ye shal do wel, if ye do not put in execution those letters, that Aman the sonne of Amadathus did write vnto you.
18 For he that inuented them, hangeth at Susis before the gates with all his familie, & God (which hathe all things in his power) hathe spedely rewarded him after his deseruing
19 Therefore ye shal publishe the copie of this letter in all places, that the Iewes may frely liue after their owne Lawes.
20 And ye shal aide them, that vpon ý thirteenth day of the twelfth moneth Adar thei may be aduenged of them, which in the time of their trouble wolde haue oppressed them.
21 For almightie God hathe turned to ioye the day, wherein the chosen people shulde haue perished.
22 Moreouer, among other solemne daies ye shal kepe this day with all gladnes,
23 That bothe now & in time to come this day may be a remembrance of deliuranee for vs and all suche as loue ý prosperitie of the Persians, but a remembrance of destruction to those that be sedicious vnto vs.
24 Therefore all cities and coutreis that do not this, shal horribly be destroyed with sworde and fyre, and shal not onely not be inhabited of men, but be abhorred also of the wilde beastes and foules for euer.

THE

THE WISDOME of Salomon.

CHAP. I.

How we ought to search and enquire after God. 2 Who be those that finde him. 5 The holy Goste. 8, 11. We ought to flee from backbyting and murmuring. 12 Whereof death cometh. 13 Righteousnes & vnrighteousnes.

1.King.3.8 Isa.56.1

1 LOue * righteousnes, ye that be Iudges of the earth, thinke reuerently of the Lord & seke him in simplicitie of heart.

Deu.4.29. 2.Chro.15.4

2 * For he wil be founde of them that tempte him not, & appeareth vnto suche as be not vnfaithful vnto him.

3 For wicked thoghts separate frō God: and his power when it is tryed, reproueth the vnwise,

4 Because wisdome can not enter into a wicked heart, nor dwell in the body ý is subiect vnto sinne.

Ier.4.22

5 For the holy * Spirit of discipline fleeth from disceit, & withdraweth him self from the thoghts that are without vnderstanding, and is rebuked when wickednes cometh.

Gal.5.23

6 For the Spirit of wisdome * is louing and wil not absolue him, that blaspheme th with his lippes: for God is a witnes of his reines, and a true beholder of his heart, and an hearer of the tongue.

7 For the Spirit of the Lord filleth all the worlde: and the same that mainteineth all things, hathe knowledge of ý voyce.

8 Therefore he that speaketh vnrighteous things can not be hid: nether shal the iudgement of reproche let him escape.

9 For inquisition shalbe made for the thoghtes of the vngodlie, and the sounde of his wordes shal come vnto God for the correction of his iniquities.

10 For the eare of ielousie heareth all things, and the noyce of the grudgings shal not be hid.

11 Therefore beware of murmuring, which profiteth nothing, & refraine your tongue from sclander: for there is no worde so secret, that shal go for noght, & the mouth that speaketh lies slaieth the soule.

Deut.4.29

12 Seke not death in the errour of your life: * destroye not your selues thorow the workes of your owne hands.

Ezek.18.23. & 33.11

13 * For God hathe not made death, nether hathe he pleasure in the destructiō of the liuing.

14 For he created all things, that thei might haue their being: and the generacions of the worlde are preserued, and there is no poyson of destruction in them, & the kingdome of hell is not vpon earth.

15 For righteousnes is immortal, but vnrighteousnes bringeth death.

16 And the vngodlie call it vnto them bothe w hands and wordes: and while they thinke to haue a friend of it, they come to naught: for they are confederate with it: therefore are they worthie to be partakers thereof.

CHAP. II.

The imaginacions and desires of the wicked, & their counsel against the faithful.

1 FOr the vngodlie say, as they falsely imagine with them selues, * Our life is shorte and tedious: and in the death of a man there is no recouerie, nether was any knowen that hathe returned from the graue. Iob.7.1 Matth.22.23 1.Cor.15.32

2 For we are borne at all aduenture, and we shalbe hereafter as though we had neuer bene: for the breth is a smoke in our nostrels, and the wordes as a sparke raised out of our heart.

3 Which being extinguished, the body is turned into ashes, and the spirit vanisheth as the soft aire.

4 Our life shal passe away as the trace of a cloude, & come to naught as the mist that is driuen away with the beames of the sunne, and cast downe with the heat thereof. Our name also shalbe forgotten in time, and no man shal haue our workes in remembrance.

5 * For our time is as a shadowe that passeth away, and after our end there is no returning: for it is fast sealed, so that no man cometh againe. 1.Chro.29.15 Iob.8.9

6 * Come therefore, and let vs enioye ý pleasures, that are present, & let vs cherefully vse the creatures as in youth 7 Let vs fill our selues with costlie wine and ointements, and let not the floure of life passe by vs. Isa.22.13. & 56.12. 1.Cor.15.32

8 Let vs crowne our selues with rose buddes a fore they be withthered.

9 Let vs all be partakers of our wantonnes: let vs leaue some token of our pleasure in euerie place: for that is our porcion, and this is our lotte.

10 Let vs oppresse the poore, that is righteous: let vs not spare the widdowe, nor reuerence the white heeres of ỹ aged, that haue liued many yeres.
11 Let our strength be the lawe of vnrighteousnes: for the thing that is feble is reproued as vnprofitable.
12 Therefore let vs defraude the righteous: for he is not for our profite, & he is contrarie to our doings: he checketh vs for offending against the Lawe, and blameth vs as transgressours of discipline.
13 He maketh his boaste to haue ỹ knowledge of God: and he calleth him self ỹ sonne of the Lord.
14 He is made * to reproue our thoghts.
15 It grieueth vs also to loke * vpon him for his life is not like other mens: his waies are of another facion.
16 He counteth vs as bastardes, and he withdraweth him self from our waies as from filthines: he commendeth greatly the latter end of the iust, and boasteth that God is his father.
17 Let vs se then if his wordes be true: let vs proue what end he shal haue.
18 For if the righteous man be the* sonne of God, he wil helpe him, & deliuer him from the hands of his enemies.
19 Let vs * examine him with rebukes and torments, that we may knowe his mekenes, and proue his pacience.
20 Let vs condemne him vnto a shameful death: for he shal be preserued as he him self saith.
21 Suche things do they imagine, and go astraye: for their owne wickednes hathe blinded them.
22 And they do not vnderstand the mysteries of God, nether hope for ỹ rewarde of righteousnes, nor can discerne the honour of the soules that are fauteles.
23 For God created man without corruption, and made him after the * image of his owne likenes.
24 * Neuertheles, thorow enuy of the deuil came death into the worlde: and they that holde of his side, proue it.

CHAP. III.

1 The conuersacion and assurance of the righteous. 7 The rewarde of the faithful. 11 Who are miserable.

1 BVt the * soules of the righteous are in the hand of God, and no torment shal touche them.
2 * In the sight of the vnwise thei appeared to dye, and their end was thoght grieuous,
3 And their departing from vs, destruction, but they are in peace.
4 And thogh they suffer paine before men, yet is * their hope ful of immortalitie.
5 They are punished, but in fewe things, yet in many things shal they be wel rewarded: * for God proueth them, & findeth them mete for him self.
6 He tryeth them as the golde in the fornace, and receiueth them as a perfect frute offring.
7 * And in the time of their vision they shal shine, and runne through as the sparkes among the stubble.
8 They * shal iudge the nacions, and haue dominion ouer the people, and their Lord shal reigne for euer.
9 They that trust in him, shal vnderstand the trueth, and the faithful shal remaine with him in loue: for grace and mercie is among his Saintes, and he regardeth his elect.
10 * But the vngodlie shalbe punished according to their imaginacions: for they haue despised the righteous, and forsaken the Lord.
11 Who so despiseth wisdome and discipline, is miserable, and their hope is vaine, & their labours are foolish, and their workes vnprofitable.
12 Their wiues are vndiscrete, & their children wicked: their offring is cursed.
13 Therefore the barren is blessed which is vndefiled, and knoweth not the sinful bed: * she shal haue frute in the visitation of the soules,
14 And the eunuche, which with his hands hathe not wroght iniquitie, nor imagined wicked things against God: for vnto him shal be giuen the special gift of faith, and an acceptable porcion in the Temple of the Lord.
15 For glorious is the frute of good labours, and the roote of wisdome shal neuer fade away.
16 But ỹ children of adulterers shal not be partakers of the holy things, and ỹ seed of the wicked bed shalbe rooted out.
17 And thogh they liue long, yet shal they be nothing regarded: and their last age shalbe without honour.
18 If they dye hastely, they haue no hope nether comfort in the day of tryal.
19 For horrible is the end of the wicked generacion.

CHAP. IIII.

Of vertue and the commoditie thereof. 10 The death of the righteous, and the condemnation of the vnfaithful.

1 BEtter is barennes with vertue: for the memorial thereof is immortal for it is knowen with God and with men.

2 When

2 When it is present, men take example thereat, and if it go away, yet they desire it: it is alway crowned and triumpheth, and winneth the battel and the vndefiled rewardes.
3 But the multitude of the vngodlie which abunde in children, is vnprofitable: & the bastard plantes shal take no depe roote, nor laye any fast fundacion.
4 For though they budde forthe in the branches for a time,* yet they shal be shaken with the winde: for they stand not fast, and thorowe the vehemencie of the winde they shalbe rooted out. Mat. 7.19
5 For the vnperfect branches shalbe broken, & their frute shalbe vnprofitable & sower to eat, and mete for nothing.
6 For all the children that are borne of the wicked bed, shalbe witnes of the wickednes against their parents when they be asked.
7 But though the righteous be preuented with death, yet shal he be in rest.
8 For ỹ honorable age is not that which is of long time, nether that which is measured by the nomber of yeres.
9 But wisdome is the graye heere, and an vndefiled life is the olde age.
10 * He pleased God, & was beloued of him, so that where as he liued among sinners, he translated him. Genes. 5.24 Eb. 11. 5
11 He was taken away, lest wickednes shulde alter his vnderstanding, or deceit beguile his minde.
12 For wickednes by bewitching obscureth the things that are good, & the vnstedfastnes of concupiscence peruerteth the simple minde.
13 Though he was sone dead, yet fulfilled he muche time.
14 For his soule pleased God: therefore hasted he to take him away from wickednes.
15 Yet the people se & vnderstand it not & consider no suche things in their hearts, how that grace and mercie is vpō his Saintes, and his prouidence ouer ỹ elect.
16 Thus the righteous that is dead, cōdemneth the vngodlie which are liuing & the youth that is sone broght to an end, the long life of the vnrighteous.
17 For they se the end of the wise, but they vnderstād not what God hathe deuised for him, and wherefore the Lord hathe preserued him in safetie, 18 They se him and despise him, but the Lord wil laugh them to scorne.
19 So that they shal fall hereafter without honour, and shal haue a shame among the dead for euermore: for without anie voyce shal he burste them & cast them downe, and shake them from the fundacions, so that they shalbe vterly wasted, and they shalbe in sorowe, and their memorial shal perish.
20 So they being afraied, shal remember their sinnes, & their owne wickednes shal come before them to conuince them.

CHAP. V.

1 The constantnes of the righteous before their persecuters. 14 The hope of the vnfaithful is vaine. 15 The blessednes of the saintes and godlie.

THen shal the righteous stand in great boldenes before the face of suche as haue tormented him, and taken away his labours.
2 When thei se him, thei shalbe vexed w horrible feare, and shalbe amased for his wonderful deliuerance,
3 And shal change their mindes, & sigh for grief of minde, and say within thē selues, This is he whome we sometime had in derision, and in a parable of reproche.
4 * We fooles thoght his life madnes and his end without honour. Chap. 3. 2.
5 How is he counted among the childrē of God, and his porcion is among the Saintes.
6 Therefore we haue erred from the waye of trueth, and the light of righteousnes hathe not shined vnto vs, & ỹ sunne of vnderstāding rose not vpō vs.
7 We haue wearied our selues in the waye of wickednes and destruction, & we haue gone through dāgerous waies: but we haue not known the way of ỹ Lord.
8 What hathe pride profited vs? or what profite hathe the pompe of riches broght vs?
9 All those things are * passed away like a shadow, and as a poste that passeth by: 1. Chro. 29. 15 Chap. 2. 5
10 As a shippe that passeth ouer the waues of the water, which when it is gone by, ỹ trace thereof can not be fonde, nether the path of it in the floods:
11 Or as * a birde that fleeth thorowe in the aire, and no man can se anie token of her passāge, but onely heare ỹ noise of her wings, beating the light winde, parting the aire thorow the vehemencie of her going, & fleeth on shaking her wings, where as afterwarde no token of her way can be founde: Prou. 30. 19
12 Or as when an arowe is shot at a marke, it parteth the aire, which immediatly cometh together againe, so that a man can not knowe where it wēt thorowe.
13 Euen so we, assone as we were borne, we beganne to drawe to our end, & haue shewed no token of vertue, but are consumed in our owne wickednes.

Iob.8.9.psal. 14. & 143.4. Prou.10.25 Iam.1.10

14 For * the hope of the vngodlie is like the dust that is blowne away with ỹ winde, and like a thinne fome that is scattered abroad with the storme, and as the smoke, which is dispersed with the winde, and as the remembrance of him passeth, that tarieth but for a day.
15 But the righteous shal liue for euer: their rewarde also is with the Lord, & the moste High hathe care of them.
16 Therefore shal they receiue a glorious kingdome, and a beautiful crowne of the Lords hand: for with his right hand shal he couer them, and with his arme shal he defende them:
17 He shal take his ielousie for armour, & shal arme the creatures to be reuenged of the enemies.
18 He shal put on righteousnes for a brestplate, and take true iudgement in stead of an helmet.
19 He wil take holines for an inuincible shield.
20 He wil sharpen his fierce wrath for a sworde, and the worlde shal fight with him against the vnwise.
21 Then shal the thunder boltes go streight out of the lightnings, and shal flee to the marke as out of the bent bowe of the clouds, and out of his angre that throweth stones, shal thicke haile be cast, and the water of the sea shalbe wroth: against them, & the floods shal mightely ouerflowe.
22 And a mightie winde shal stand vp against them, and like a storme shal scatter them abroad. Thus iniquitie shal bring all the earth to a wildernes, and wickednes shal ouerthrowe the thrones of the mightie.

CHAP. VI.

The calling of Kings, princes and iudges, which are also exhorted to searche wisdome.

1 HEare therefore, ô ye Kings, and vnderstād: learne, ye that be iudges of the ends of the earth.
2 Giue eare, ye that rule the multitudes & glorie in the multitude of people.
Rom.13.2 3 For the rule* is giuen you of ỹ Lord and power by ỹ moste High, which wil trye your workes, and searche out your imaginacions.
4 Because that ye being officers of his kingdome haue not iudged aright, nor kept the Law, nor walked after the wil of God,
5 Horribly and sodenly wil he appeare vnto you: for an hard iudgement shal they haue that beare rule.
6 For he that is moste lowe, is worthie mercie, but the mightie shalbe myghtely tormented.
7 For he that is Lord ouer all, wil spare no * persone, neither shal he feare anie greatnes: for he hathe made the small and great, and careth for all a like,
8 But for the mightie abideth the sorer trial.
9 Vnto you therefore, ô tyrants, do I speake, that ye may learne wisdome, & not go amisse.
10 For they that kepe holines holily, shalbe holie, and they that are learned there, shal finde a defence.
11 Wherefore set your delite vpon my wordes & desire them, & ye shalbe instructed.
12 Wisdome shineth & neuer fadeth away, and is easely sene of them that loue her, & founde of suche as seke her.
13 She preuenteth them that desire her, that she may first shewe her self vnto them.
14 Whoso awaketh vnto her betimes, shal haue no great trauail: for he shal finde her sitting at his dores.
15 To thinke vpon her then is perfite vnderstanding: and who so watcheth for her, shalbe sone without care.
16 For she goeth about, seking suche as are mete for her, and sheweth her self cherefully vnto them in the wayes, & meteth them in euerie thought.
17 For the moste true desire of discipline is her beginning: and the care of discipline is loue:
18 And loue is the keping of her lawes: and the keping of the lawes is the assurance of immortalitie:
19 And immortalitie maketh vs nere vnto God.
20 Therefore the desire of wisdome leadeth to the kingdome.
21 If your delite be then in thrones, & scepters, ô Kings of the people, honour wisdome, that ye may reigne for euer.
22 Now I wil tell you what wisdome is, & whence it cometh, & wil not hide the misteries from you, but wil seke her out frō the begining of her natiuitie, and bring the knowledge of her into light, and wil not kepe backe the trueth.
23 Nether wil I haue to do with consuming enuie: for suche a man shal not be partaker of wisdome.
24 But the multitude of the wise is the preseruacion of the worlde, and a wise King is the staye of the people.
25 Be therefore instructed by my wordes, & ye shal haue profite.

CHAP. VII.

Wisdome ought to be prefered aboue all thigs.

1 IMy self am also mortal and a man like all other, and am come of him that was

Deut.10.17 2.Chron.19.7 Iob.34.19 Eccles.35.16 Act.10.34 Rom.2.11. Gal.2.6. Ephes.6.9 Col.3.25 Pet.1.17 that was first made of the earth.

Iob 10,10
2 And in my mothers wombe was I facioned to be flesh in ten moneths: I was *broght together into blood of the sede of man, and by the pleasure that cometh with slepe.
3 And when I was borne, I receiued the commune aire, and fel vpon the earth, which is of like nature, crying & weping at the first as all other do.
4 I was nourished in swadling clothes, & with cares.
5 For there is no King that had anie other beginning of birth.
Iob 2,21 1.tim. 6,7
6 All* men then haue one entrance vnto life, and a like going out.
7 Wherefore I praied, and vnderstanding was giuen me: I called & the spirit of wisdome came vnto me.
8 I preferred her to scepters and thrones, and counted riches nothing in comparison of her.
Iob. 28,15
9 *Nether did I compare precious stones vnto her: for all golde is but a litle grauel in respect of her, and siluer shalbe counted but clay before her.
10 I loued her aboue health and beautie, & purposed to take her for my light: for her light can not be quēched.
1.King.3,19 matt.6,33
11 All * good things therefore came to me together with her, and innumerable riches thorow her hands.
12 So I was glad in all: for wisdome was the autor thereof, & I knewe not that she was the mother of these things.
13 And I learned vnfainedly, & communicated without enuie, and I do not hide her riches.
14 For she is an infinite treasure vnto men, which whose so vse, become partakers of the loue of God, and are accepted for the gifts of knowledge.
15 God hathe granted me to speake according to my minde, and to iudge worthely of the things, that are giuen me: for he is the leader vnto wisdome, and the directer of the wise.
16 For in his hand are bothe we and our wordes, and all wisdome, & the knowledge of the workes.
17 For he hathe giuen me the true knowledge of the things that are, so that I knowe how the worlde was made, and the powers of the elements,
18 The beginning and the end, & the middes of the times: how the times alter, and the change of the seasons,
19 The course of the yere, the situation of the starres,
20 The nature of liuing things, and the furiousnes of beasts, the power of the windes and the imaginacions of men, the diuersities of plants, and the vertues of rootes.
21 And all things bothe secret and knowen do I knowe: for wisdome the worker of all things, hathe taught me it.
22 For in her is the spirit of vnderstanding which is holie, the onely begottē, manifolde, subtil, moueable, cleare, vndefiled, euident, not hurtful, louing the good, sharpe, which can not be letted, doing good,
23 Courteous, stable, sure, without care, hauing all power, circumspect in all things, & passing through all, intellectual, pure and subtil spirits.
24 For wisdome is nimbler then all nimble things, she goeth thorow and atteineth to all things, because of her purenes.
25 For she is the breth of the power of God, and a pure influence that floweth from the glorie of the Almightie: therefore can no defiled thing come vnto her.
Ebr.1,3
26 For* she is the brightnes of the euerlasting light, the vndefiled miroure of the maiestie of God, and the image of his goodnes.
27 And being one, she can do all things, & remaining in her self, renueth all, & according to ỹ ages she entreth into ỹ holie soules, and maketh them the friends of God and Prophets.
28 For God loueth none, if he dwell not with wisdome.
29 For she is more beautiful thē the sunne and is aboue all the order of the starres, and the light is not to be compared vnto her.
30 For night cometh vpon it, but wickednes can not ouercome wisdome.

CHAP. VIII.

The effects of wisdome.

1 SHe also reacheth frō one end to another mightely, and comely doeth she order all things.
2 I haue loued her, and soght her from my youth: I desired to marye her, suche loue had I vnto her beautie.
3 In that she is conuersant with God, it commendeth her nobilitie: yea, the Lord of all things loueth her.
4 For she is the scholemastres of the knowledge of God, and the choser out of his workes.
5 If riches be a possession to be desired in this life, what is richer then wisdome, that worketh all things?
6 For if prudence worketh, what is it among all things, that worketh better then she?
7 If a man loue righteousnes, her labours are vertuous: for she teacheth sobernes & prudencie, righteousnes and strength, ẅ are the moste profitable things ỹ men can haue in this life.
8 If a man desire great experience, she can tell the things that are past, and discerne things to come: she knoweth the subtilties of wordes, and the solutions of darke sentences: she foreseeth the signes and wonders, or euer they come to passe, and the succes of seasons and times.

9 Therefore I purposed to take her vnto my companie, knowing that she wolde counsel me good things, and comfort me in cares and griefs.

10 For her sake shal I haue glorie amõg the multitude and honour among the Elders thogh I be yong.

11 I shal be founde of sharpe iudgement, so that I shal be marueilous in the sight of great men.

12 When I holde my tongue, they shal abide my leasure: when I speake, they shal heare diligently, & if I talke muche, they shal laye their hands vpon their mouth.

13 Moreouer, by her I shal obteine immortalitie, and leaue an euerlasting memorial among them that come after me.

14 I shal gouerne the people, and the nacions shalbe subdued vnto me.

15 Horrible tyrants shalbe afraied when they heare me: among the multitude I shalbe counted good, and mightie in battel.

16 When I come home, I shal rest with her: for her companie hathe no bitternes, and her felowshippe hathe no tediousnes, but mirthe and ioye.

17 Now when I considered these things by my self, and pondered them in mine heart, how that to be ioyned vnto wisdome is immortalitie, 18 And great pleasure is in her friendshippe, and that in the workes of her hands are infinite riches, and that in ỹ exercise of talking with her is prudentie, & glorie by communing with her, I went about, seking how I might take her vnto me.

19 For I was a wittie childe, and was of a good spirit.

20 Yea, rather being good, I came to an vndefiled bodie.

21 Neuertheles, when I perceiued that I colde not enioye her, except God gaue her (and that was a pointe of wisdome also, to knowe whose gifte it was) I wẽt vnto the Lord, and besoght him, and with my whole heart I said,

CHAP. IX.

A prayer of Salomon to obteine wisdome.

1 O God of fathers, and Lord of mercei, which hast made all things wt thy worde,

2 And ordeined man thorow thy wisdome that he shulde haue * dominion ouer the creatures which thou hast made,

Gen. 1. 28

3 And gouerne the worlde according to equitie and righteousnes, & execute iudgement with an vpright heart.

4 Giue *me that wisdome, which sitteth by thy throne, and put me not out frõ among thy children. 1. King. 3. 9

5 For I thy * seruant, & sonne of thine handmaide am a feble personne, & of a shorte time, and yet lesse in the vnderstanding of iudgement and the lawes. Psal. 116. 16

6 And thogh a man be neuer so perfite among the children of men, yet if thy wisdome be not with him, he shalbe nothing regarded.

7 *Thou hast chosen me to be a King of thy people, and the iudge of thy sonnes & daughters. 1. Chr. 28. 5 2. chr. 1. 9

8 Thou hast commanded me to buyld a temple vpon thine holy Mount, & an altar in the citie, wherein thou dwellest, a likenes of thine holie Tabernacle, which thou hast prepared from the beginning,

9 And thy * wisdome with thee, which knoweth thy workes, which also was when thou madest the worlde, and wt knewe what was acceptable in thy sight, & right in thy commandements. Prouer. 8. 18 Sap. 1. 9

10 Send her out of thine holy heauens, & send her from the throne of thy maiestie that she may be with me, & labour, that I may know what is acceptable in thy sight.

11 For she knoweth and vnderstandeth all things, and she shal lead me soberly in my workes, and preserue me by her glorie.

12 So shal my workes be acceptable, and then shal I gouerne thy people righteously, & be mete for my fathers throne.

13 For * what man is he that can knowe the counsel of God? or who can thinke what the wil of God is? Isa. 40. 13 rom 11. 34 1. cor. 2. 16

14 For the thoghts of mortal men are feareful, and our forecasses are vncerteine, 15 Because a corruptible bodie is heauie vnto the soule, & the earthlie mansion kepeth downe the minde that is ful of cares.

16 And hardly can we discerne the thigs that are vpon earth, and with great labour finde we out the things which are before vs: who can then seke out the things that are in heauen?

17 Who can know thy counsel, except ỹ giue him wisdome, and send thine holy Spirit from aboue?

18 For so the waies of them which are vpon earth, are reformed, & men are taught the things that are pleasant vnto thee, and are preserued thorow wisdome.

CHAP. X.

The deliuerance of the righteous and destruction of the enemies cometh thorow wisdome.

1 SHe preserued the first father of the worlde, that was formed, & kept him whē he was created alone, & brought him out of his offence,

Gen. 2,20 2 And * gaue him power to rule all things,

Gen 4,8 3 * But the vnrighteous in his wrath departed from her, and perished by killing his brother in his furie.

Gen. 7,21 4 For whose cause the * earth was ouerflowen, but wisdome preserued it againe, gouerning the iust man by a litle wood.

Gen. 11,1 5 Moreouer, * when the nacions were ioyned in their malicious confederacies, she knewe the righteous, and preserued him faūteles vnto God, and *kept him sure, because she loued him tēderly as a sonne.

*Or, kept him strong in his tender loue toward his sonne Gen. 20,17

6 She preserued the righteous, * when the vngodlie perished, when he fled from the fyre that fel downe vpon the fiue cities.

7 Of whose wickednes the waste land that smoketh, yet giueth testimonie, & the trees that beare frute that neuer cometh to ripenes: and for a remembrance of the vnfaithful soule, there standeth a piller of salte.

8 For all suche as regarded not wisdome, had not onely this hurt, that they knewe not the things which were good, but also left behinde them vnto men a memorial of their foolishnes, so that in ý things wherein they sinned, thei can not lie hid.

9 But wisdome deliuered them that serued her.

Gen. 28,35 10 * When the righteous fled because of his brothers wrath, she led him ý right way, shewed him the kingdome of God, gaue him knowledge of holie things, made him riche in his labours, and made his peines profitable.

11 Against the couetousnes of suche as defrauded him, she stode by him and made him riche.

12 She saued him from the enemies, and defended him from them, that lay in waite, and she gaue him the price in a mightie battel, that he might knowe that the feare of God is stronger then all things.

Gen. 37,28 & 39,1 act. 7,10 13 * When the righteous was solde, she forsoke him not, but deliuered him frō sinne: she went downe with him into the dongeon,

14 And failed him not in the bandes, til she had broght him the scepter of the realme, and power against those that oppressed him, & them that had accused him, she declared to be liers, & gaue him perpetual glorie.

15 * She deliuered the righteous people and fautles sede from the nacions that oppressed them. Exod. 1,10

16 She entred into the soule of the seruant of the Lord, and stode * by him in wonders and signes against the terrible Kings. Exod. 5,1 17 She gaue the Saintes the rewarde of their labours, and led them forthe a maruelous waie: on the daie time she was a shadow vnto them, and a light of starres in the night.

18 * She broght them thorow the red sea, and caryed them through ý great water, Exod. 14,21 psal. 78,13

19 But she drowned their enemies, and broght them out of the botome of the depe.

20 So the righteous toke the spoiles of the vngodlie, * & praised thine holy Name, ô Lord, and magnified thy victorious hand with one accorde. Exod. 15,1 21 For wisdome openeth the mouth of ý domme, and maketh the tongues of babes eloquent.

CHAP. XI.

1 The miracles done for Israel. 13 The vengeance of sinners. 28 The great power and mercie of God.

1 SHe prospered their workes in the hands of thine holy Prophet.

2 * They went through the wildernes that was not inhabited, and pitched their tentes in places where there lay no way. Exod. 16,1

3 * They stode against their enemies, & were aduenged of their aduersaries. Exod. 17,10

4 * When they were thirsty, they called vpon thee, and water was giuen them out of the hie rocke, and their thirst was quenched out of the hard stone. Nom. 20,11

5 For by the things whereby their enemies were punished, by the same were the Israelites helped in their nede.

6 For in steade of a fountaine of running water, the enemies were troubled at the corrupt blood, which was to rebuke the commandement of the killing of the children, but thou gauest vnto thine owne abundance of water vnloked for,

7 Declaring by the thirst that was at that time * how thou hadest punished thine aduersaries. Exod. 7,20

8 For when they were tryed and chastised with mercie, they knewe how the vngodlie were iudged and punished in wrath.

9 For these hast thou exhorted as a father, and proued them: but thou hast condemned the other as a righteous King, when thou didest examine them.

10 Whether they were absent or present, their punishment was alike: for their grief was double with mourning, & the remembrance of things past.
11 For when they perceiued that through their torments good came vnto them, they felt the Lord.
12 And seing the things that came to passe at the last they wondered at him, whome afore they had cast out, denied and derided: for they had another thirst then the iuste.
13 Because of the foolish deuises of their wickednes wherewith they were deceiued, and worshiped *serpents, that had not the vse of reason, & vile beastes, ý sendidst a multitude of vnreasonable beastes vpon them for a vengeance, ý they might knowe that wherewith a man sinneth, by the same also shal he be punished.
14 *For vnto thine almightie hand, that made the worlde of naught, it was not vnpossible to send among them a multitude of beares, or fierce lyons, 15 Or furious beasts, newly created, and vnknowen, which shulde breathe out blastes of fyre, and cast out smoke as a tempest, or shoote horrible sparkes like lightnings out of their eyes.
16 Which might not onely destroye thē with hurting, but also to kill them with their horrible sight.
17 Yea, without these might they haue bene cast downe with one winde, being persecuted by thy vengeance, and scattered abroade thorow the power of thy Spirit: but thou hast ordered all things in measure, nomber & weight.
18 For thou hast euer had great strength and might, and who can withstand the power of thine arme?
19 For as the small thing that the balance weigheth, so is the worlde before thee, and as a droppe of the morning dewe, that falleth downe vpon the earth.
20 But thou hast mercie vpon all: for ý hast power of all things, and makest as though thou sawest not the sinnes of mē, because they shulde amende.
21 For thou loueſt all the things that are, and hatest none of them whome thou hast made: for thou woldest haue created nothing that thou hadest hated.
22 And how might anie thing endure, if it were not thy wil? or how colde anie thing be preserued, except it were called of thee?
23 But thou sparest all: for they are thine, ô Lord, which art the louer of soules.

Chap. 12, 24 rom. 1, 23

CHAP. XII.

The mercie of God toward sinners. 14 The workes of God are vnreproueable. 19 God gineth leasure to repent.

1 FOr thine incorruptible spirit is in all things.
2 Therefore thou chastnest them measurably that go wrong, and warnest them by putting them in remembrance of the thigs wherein they haue offended, that leauing wickednes they may beleue in thee, ô Lord.
3 * As for those olde inhabitants of the holy land, thou dideſt hate them. Deut. 9, 3. 12, 29 20 & 18, 9
4 For they committed abominable workes, as sorceries and wicked sacrifices,
5 And slaying of their owne children without mercie, and eating of the bowels of man fleth in banketing, where the raging Priests shed abominable blood.
6 And the fathers were the chief murtherers of the soules, destitute of all helpe, whome thou woldest destroy by the hands of our fathers,
7 That the land which thou loueſt aboue all other, might be a mete dwelling for the children of God.
8 *Neuertheles, thou sparedst them also, Exod. 33, 2 deut. 2, 21 as men, and sendedst the forerunners of thine hoste, euen hornettes to destroye them by litle and litle,
9 Not that thou wast vnable to subdue the vngodlie vnto ý righteous in battel, or with cruel bestes, or with one rough worde to destroie thē together.
10 But in punishing them by litle and litle, thou gaueſt them space to repent, knowing wel, that it was an vnrighteous nacion and wicked of nature, and that their thoght colde neuer be altered.
11 For it was a cursed sede from the beginning: yet hast thou not spared them when they sinned, because thou feared any man.
12 For who dare say, * What hast thou done? or who dare stand against thy iudgement? or who dare accuse thee for the nacions that perish, whome thou hast made? or who dare stand against the to reuenge the wicked men? Rom. 9, 22
13 For there is none other God but thou, * that careſt for all things, that thou maist declare how that thy iudgement is not vnright. 1. Pet. 5, 7
14 There dare nether King nor tyrant in thy sight require accountes of them whome thou hast punished.
15 For so muche then as thou art righteous thy self, thou ordreſt all things righteously, * thincking it not agreable to thy power to condemne him, that hathe not deserued to be punished. Iob. 10, 3 16 For thy power is the beginning of righteousnes, and because thou art Lord of all things, it causeth thee to spare all things.
17 When

17 When men thinke thee not to be of a perfite power, thow declareſt thy power, and reproueſt the boldenes of the wiſe.
18 But thou ruling the power, iudgeſt with equitie, & gouerneſt vs with great fauour: for thou maiſt ſhewe thy power when thou wilt.
19 By ſuche workes now haſt ȳ taught thy people, that a man ſhulde be iuſt and louing, and haſt made thy childrē to be of a good hope: for thou giueſt repentance to ſinners.
20 For if thou haſt puniſhed the enemies of thy children that had deſerued death with ſo great conſideration, and requeſting vnto them, giuing them time & place that they might change from there wickednes,
21 With how great circumſpection wilt thou puniſh thine owne children, vnto whoſe fathers thou haſt ſworne and made couenants of good promiſes?
22 So when thou doeſt chaſten vs, thou puniſheſt our enemies a thouſand times more, to the intent that when we iudge, we ſhulde diligently conſider thy goodnes, and when we are iudged, we ſhulde hope for mercie.
23 Wherefore thou haſt tormented the wicked that haue liued a diſſolute life by their owne imaginations.
Chap.11,16 rom.1,23 24 *For they went aſtray verie farre in the waies of errour, and eſtemed the beaſts, which their enemies diſpiſed, for gods, being abuſed after the maner of children, that haue none vnderſtanding.
25 Therefore haſt thou ſent this puniſhment that they ſhulde be in deriſion as children without reaſon.
26 But they that wil not be reformed by thoſe ſcorneful rebukes, ſhal fele the worthie puniſhment of God.
27 For in thoſe things when they ſuffred, they diſdeined: but in theſe whome they counted godlie when they ſawe them ſelues puniſhed by them, they all acknowledged ȳ true God whome afore they had denied to knowe: therefore came extreme damnation vpon them.

CHAP. XIII.

1 All things be vaine, except the knowledge of God. 10 Idolaters and idoles are mocked.

Rom.1,19 1 SVrely all men are vaine by nature, and are ignorant of God, * & colde not knowe him that is, by the good things that are ſene, nether conſider by the workes the worke maſter.
Deut. 4,19: & 17,3 2 * But thei thoght the fyre, or the winde or the ſwift aire, or the courſe of ȳ ſtarres, or the raging water, or the lights of heauen to be gouernours of the worlde, and gods.
3 Thogh they had ſuche pleaſure in their beautie that they thoght them gods, yet ſhulde they haue knowē how muche more excellent he is that made them: for the firſt autor of beautie hathe created theſe things.
4 Or if they marueiled at the power, and operation of them, yet ſhulde they haue perceiued thereby, how muche he that made theſe things, is mightier.
5 For by the greatnes of their beautie, and of the creatures, the Creator being compared with them, may be conſidered.
6 But yet the blame is leſſe in theſe, ȳ ſeke God and wolde finde him, & yet peraduenture do erre.
7 For * they go about by his workes to ſeke him, and are perſuaded by the ſight, becauſe the things are beautiful that are ſene. Rom.1,20
8 Howbeit they are not to be excuſed.
9 For if they can knowe ſo muche, that they can diſcerne the worlde, why do they not rather finde out the Lord thereof?
10 But miſerable are they, and among the dead is their hope, that call them gods which are the workes of mens hands, golde, and ſiluer, and the thing that is inuented by arte, and the ſimilitude of beaſts, or anie vaine ſtone ȳ hathe bene made by the hand of antiquitie.
11 * Or as when a carpenter cutteth downe a tre mete for the worke, and pareth of all the barke thereof cunningly, and by arte maketh a veſſel profitable for the vſe of life. Iſa.44,12 iere.10,5
12 And the things that are cut of from his worke, he beſtoweth to dreſſe his meat to fil him ſelf,
13 And that which is left of theſe thigs, which is profitable for nothing (for it is a croked piece of wood and ful of knobbes) he caruеth it diligently at his leaſure, & according as he is expert in cunning, he giueth it a proporcion, and facioneth it after the ſimilitude of a man.
14 Or maketh it like ſome vile beaſt, and ſtraketh it ouer with red, and painteth it and couereth euerie ſpotte that is in it.
15 And when he hathe made a conueniēt tabernacle for it, he ſetteth it in a wall, and maketh it faſt with yron, 16 Prouiding ſo for it, leſt it fall: for he knoweth ȳ it can not helpe it ſelf becauſe it is an image, which hathe nede of helpe.
17 Then he prayeth for his goods, and for his mariage and for children: he is not ashamed to speake vnto it, that hath no life.

18 He calleth on him that is weake for health: he prayeth vnto him that is dead for life: he requireth him of helpe that hathe no experience at all.

19 And for his iourney, him that is not able to go, and for gaine, and worke, and successe of his affaires he requireth furtherāce of him, that hathe no maner of power.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 The detestacion and abominacion of images, 8 A curse of them, and of him that maketh them. 14 Whereof idolatrie proceded. 23 What euils come of idolatrie.

1 AGaine, another man purposing to saile, and intending to passe thorowe the raging waues, calleth vpon a stocke more rotten then the shippe ỹ carieth him.

2 For as for *it couetousnes of money hathe founde it out, and the craftesman made it by cunning.

3 But thy prouidence, ô father, gouerneth it: * for thou hast made away, euen in the sea, and a sure path among the waues,

4 Declaring thereby, that thou hast power to helpe in all things, yea, though a man went to the sea without meanes:

5 Neuertheles thou woldest not, that the workes of thy wisdome shulde be vaine, and therefore do men commit their liues to a smale piece of wood and passe ouer the stormie sea in a shippe, and are saued.

6 *For in the olde time also when the proude gyants perished, the hope of the worlde went into a shippe which was gouerned by thine hand, and so left sede of generation vnto the worlde.

7 For blessed is the tre whereby righteousnes commeth.

8 But that is cursed that is made with hands, * bothe it, & he that made it: he because he made it, and it being a corruptible thing, because it was called god.

9 *For the vngodlie, and his vngodlines are bothe like hated of God: so truely the worke & he that made it, shalbe punished together.

10 Therefore shal there be a visitation for the idoles of the nations: for of the creatures of God they are become abominacion, * and stumbling blockes vnto the soules of men, & a snare for the fete of the vnwise.

11 For the inuenting of idoles was the beginning of whoredome, and the finding of them is the corruption of life.

12 For they were not from ỹ beginning, nether shal they continue for euer.

13 The vaine glorie of men broght them into the worlde: therefore shal they come shortly to an end.

14 When a father mourned grieuously for his sonne that was taken away suddenly, he made an image for him that was once dead, whome now he worshipeth as a god, & ordeined to his seruants ceremonies and sacrifices.

15 Thus by proces of time this wicked custome preuailed, and was kept as a law, and idoles were worshiped by the commandement of tyrants.

16 As for those that were so farre of ỹ men might not worship them presentely, they did conterfet the visage that was farre of, and made a gorgeous image of a King, whome they wolde honour, that thei might by all meanes flatter him that was absent, as though he had bene present.

17 Againe ỹ ambition of the craftesman thrust forarde the ignorant to increase the superstition.

18 For he peraduenture willing to please a noble man, labored with all his cunning to make the image of the best facion:

19 And so thorowe the beautie of the worke the multitude was allured, and so toke him now for a god, which a litle afore was but honored as a man.

20 And this was the deceiuing of mans life, when men, being in seruitude, through calamitie and tyranie ascribed vnto stones and stockes ỹ name, which ought not to be communicate vnto anie.

21 Moreouer, this was not ynough for them that they erred in the knowledge of God: but where as they liued in great warres of ignorance, those so great plagues called they peace.

22 For ether * they slewe their owne children in sacrifice, or vsed secret ceremonies, or raging dissolutenes by strange rites, 23 And so kept nether life nor mariage cleane: but ether one slewe another by treason, or els vexed him by adulterie.

24 So were all mixt together, blood and slaughter, theefte & deceit, corruption, vnfaithfulnes, tumultes, periurie, 25 Disquieting of good men, vnthankefulnes, defiling of soules, changing of birth, disordre in mariage, adulterie & vnclennes.

26 For the worshiping of idoles ỹ ought not to be named, is the beginning and the cause and the end of all euil.

27 For either they be mad when they be merie, or prophecie lies, or liue vngodlie, or els lightly forsweare them

28 For in so muche as their trust is in the idoles, which haue no life, though thei sweare falsely, yet they thinke to haue no hurt.
29 Therefore for two causes shal they iustely be punished, because they haue an euil opinion of God, addicting them selues vnto idoles, and because they sweare vniustly to deceiue, and despise holines.
30 For it is not the power of them by whome they sweare, but the vengeance of them that sinne, which punisheth alwayes the offence of the vngodlie.

CHAP. XV.

The ioyce of the faithful, praising the mercie of God by whose grace they serue not idoles.

1 BVt thou, ô our God, art gracious & true, long suffring, and gouernest all things by mercie.
2 Though we sinne, yet are we thine: for we knowe thy power: but we sinne not, knowing that we are counted thine.
3 For to knowe thee, is perfite righteousnes, and to knowe thy power is the roote of immortalite.
4 For nether hathe the wicked inuention of men disceiued vs, nor the vnprofitable labour of the painters, nor an image spotted ẅ diuers colours.
5 Whose sight stirreth vp the desire of the ignorant: so that he coueteth ẏ forme that hathe no life of a dead image.
6 They that loue suche wicked things, are worthie to haue suche things to trust to, and they that make them, and they that desire them, and they that worship them.
Rom. 9, 20 7 The* potter also tempereth soft earth, and facioneth euerie vessel with labour to our vse: but of the same clay he maketh bothe the vessels, that serue to cleane vses, and the contrarie likewise: but whereto euerie vessel serueth, the potter is the iudge.
8 So by his wicked labour he maketh a vaine god of the same claye: euen he, which a litle afore was made of earth him self, and within a litle while after goeth thither againe whence he was taken, when he shal make accounte for the lone of his life.
Luk. 12, 20 9 Notwithstanding he careth not for the labour he taketh, nor that his life is shorte, but he striueth with the goldesmithes, and siluersmithes, and counterfaiteth the coopersmithes, and taketh it for an honour to make deceiuable things.
10 His heart is ashes, and his hope is more vile then earth, and his life is lesse worthie of honour then claye.
11 For he knoweth not his owne maker, that gaue him his soule, that had power & breathed in him the breth of life.
12 But they counte our life to be but a pastime, and our conuersacion as a market, where there is gaine: for they say we ought to be getting on euerie side, though it be by euil meanes.
13 Now he that of earth maketh fraile vessels and images, knoweth him self to offend aboue all other.
14 All the enemies of thy people, that holde them in subiection, are moste vnwise, & more miserable then the verie fooles.
15 For they iudge all the idoles of the nacions to be gods, which nether haue eye sight to se, nor noses to smel, nor eares to heare, nor fingers of hands to grope, & their fete are slowe to go.
16 For man made them, & he that hathe but a borowed spirit, facioned them: but no man can make a god like vnto him self.
17 For seing he is but mortal him self, it is but mortal that he maketh with vnrighteous hands: he him self is better then thei whome he worshippeth: for he liued, but they neuer liued.
18 Yea, they worshipped beasts also, ẅ are their moste enemies, & which are the worste, if they be compared vnto others because they haue none vnderstanding.
19 Nether haue they anie beautie to be desired in respect of other beasts: for they are destitute of Gods praise, and of his blessing.

CHAP. XVI.

The punishement of idolaters. 10 The benefites done vnto the faithful.

1 THerefore by suche things they are worthely punished & *tormented by the multitude of bestes. Chap. 11, 18 nomb. 11, 33
2 In steade of the which punishmēt thou hast bene fauorable to thy people, & to satisfie their appetite, hast prepared a meat of a strange taste, euen quailes,
3 To the intent that they that desired meat, by the things ẅ were shewed & sent among them, might turne awaye their necessarie desire, & that thei, ẅ had suffred penurie for a space, shulde also sele a newe taste.
4 For it was requisite, that they which vsed tyrannie, shulde fall into extreme pouertie, and that to these onelie it shulde be shewed, how their enemies were tormented.
5 * For when the cruel fiercenes of the beasts came vpon them, and they were hurt with the stings of cruel serpents, Nom. 21, 6 1. cor. 10, 6

7 For he that turned toward it, was not healed by the thing that he sawe, but by thee, ô Sauiour of all.
8 So in this thou shewedst our enemies, that it is thou, which deliuerest from all euil.
Exod. 8, 24 & 10, 4, Psalm. 99 9 * For the biting of grashopers and flyes killed them, and there was no remedie founde for their life: for they were worthie to be punished by suche.
10 But the teeth of the venemous dragons colde not ouercome thy children: for thy mercie came to helpe them, and healed them.
11 For they were pricked, because thei shulde remember thy wordes, and were spedely healed, lest they shulde fall into so depe forgetfulnes, that thei colde not be called backe by thy benefite.
12 For nether herbe nor plaster healed them, but thy worde, ô Lord, which healeth all things.
13 For thou hast the power of life & death, * and leadest downe vnto the gates Deut. 32, 39 1 Sam 2, 6 Iob. 13, 2 of hel, and bringest vp againe.
14 A man in dede by his wickednes may slaie another: but when the Spirit is gone forthe, it turneth not againe, nether can he call againe the soule that is taken away.
15 But it is not possible to escape thine hand.
Exod. 9, 23 16 * For the vngodlie that wolde not knowe thee, were punished by the strength of thine arme, with strange raine and with haile, and were pursued with tempest, that they colde not auoide, & were consumed with fyre.
17 For it was a wonderous thing that fyre might do more then water, which quencheth all things: but the worlde is the aduenger of the righteous.
18 For some time was the fyre so tame, that the beasts, which were sent against the vngoldie, burnt not: and that, because they shulde se and knowe, that they were persecuted with the punishment of God.
19 And some time burnt the fyre in the middes of the water aboue the power of fyre, that it might destroye the generacion of the vniust land.
Exod. 16, 14 numb. 11, 7 Psal. 78, 25 ioh. 6, 31 20 * In the stead where of thou hast fed thine owne people with Angels fode, & sent them bread readie from heauen without their labour, which had abundance of all pleasures in it & was mete for all tastes.
21 For thy sustinance declared thy swetnes vnto thy children, which serued to the appetite of him, that toke it, & was mete to that that euerie man wolde.
Exod. 9, 23 22 Moreouer the * snowe and yce abode the fyre & melted not, that thei might knowe, that the fyre burning in the hayle, & sparkeling in the raine, destroyed the frute of the enemies.
23 Againe it forgate his owne strength, that the righteous might be nourished.
24 For the creature that serueth thee which art the maker, is fierce in punishing the vnrighteous: but it is easie to do good vnto suche as put their trust in thee.
25 Therefore was it changed at the same time vnto all facions to serue thy grace, which nourisheth all things, according to the desire of them that had nede thereof,
Deut. 8, 3 mat. 4, 4 26 That thy children whome thou louest, ô Lord, might knowe, * that it is not the increase of frutes that fedeth men, but that it is thy worde, which preserueth them that trust in thee.
27 For ỳ which colde not be destroyed with the fyre, being onely warmed a litle with the sunne beames, melted, 28 That it might be knowen ỳ we ought to preuente the sunne rising to giue thankes vnto thee, and to salute thee before the daye spring.
29 For the hope of the vnthankeful shal melt as the winter yce, and flowe away as vnprofitable waters.

CHAP. XVII.

The iudgements of God against the wicked.

1 FOr thy iudgements are great, and can not be expressed: therefore men do erre, that wil not be reformed.
2 For when the vnrighteous thoght to haue thine holie people in subiection, thei were bounde with the bands of darkenes, and long night, and being shut vp vnder the rofe, did lie there to escape the euerlasting prouidence.
3 And while they thoght to be hid in their darke sinnes, thei were scattered abroad in the darke couering of forgetfulnes, fearing horribly and troubled with visions.
4 For the denne that hid them, kept them not from feare: but the soundes that where about them troubled them, and terrible visions and sorowful sights did appeare.
5 No power of the fyre might giue light, nether might the clere flames of the starres lighten the horrible night.
6 For there appeared vnto them onely a sudden fyre, verie dredful: so that being afraied of this vision, b which they colde not se, they thoght the things, which they sawe, to be worse a That is, the mightie visions worse.

Exod. 7. 12 & 8. 7

7 *And ỹ illusions of the magical artes were broght downe, and it was a moste shameful reproche for the boasting of their knowledge.

8 For they that promised to driue away feare and trouble from the sicke persone, were sicke for feare, & worthie to be laughed at.

9 And though no feareful thing did feare them, yet were they afraied at the beastes which passed by them, and at ỹ hyssing of the serpents, so that thei dyed for feare, and said they sawe not the ayre, which by no meanes can be auoided.

10 For it is a feareful thing, when malice is condemned by her owne testimonie: and a conscience that is touched, doeth euer forecast cruel things.

11 For feare is nothing els, but a betraying of the succours, which reason offreth.

12 And the lesse that the hope is within, the more doeth he esteme the ignorance of the thing, that tormenteth him, great.

13 But they that did endure the night that was intollerable, and that came out of the dungeon of hell, which is insupportable, slept the same slepe.

14 And sometimes were troubled with monstruous visions, and sometime they sowned, as though their owne soule shulde betray them: for a sudden feare not loked for, came vpon them.

15 And thus, whosoeuer fel downe, he was kept and shut in prison, but without chaines.

16 For whether he was an housband man, or a shepherd, or one that was set to worke alone, if he were taken, he must suffer this necessitie, that he colde not auoide:

17 (For with one chaine of darkenes were they all bounde) *whether it were an hyssing winde, or a swete song of the birds among the thicke branches of the trees, or the vehemencie of hastie running water, 18 Or a great noyce of the falling downe of stones, or the running of skipping beastes that colde not besene, or the noyce of cruel beastes that roared, or ỹ ‖sounde that answereth againe in the holow moutaines: these feareful things made them to swone.

‖ Or, Echo.

19 For all the worlde shined with clere light, and no man was hindred in his labour.

20 Onely vpon them there fel an heauie night, an image of that darkenes that was to come vpon them: yea, they were vnto them selues more grieuous then darkenes.

4 But they were worthie to be depriued of the light, and to be kept in darkenes, which had kept thy children shut vp, by whome the vncorrupt light of ỹ Law shulde be giuen to the world.

5 *Where as they thoght to slay the babes of the Saintes, by one childe that was cast out, and preserued to reproue them, thou hast taken away ỹ multitude of their children and destroyed thē all together in the mightie water.

Exod. 1. 16

6 Of that night were our fathers certified afore, ỹ they knowing vnto what othes they had giuen credit, might be of good chere.

7 Thus thy * people receiued the health of the righteous, but the enemies were destroyed.

Exod. 14. 29. 30

8 For as thou hast punished the enemies, so hast thou glorified vs whome thou hast called.

9 For the righteous children of the good men offred secretly, and made a law of righteousnes by one consent, that the Saints shulde receiue good and euil in like maner, and that the fathers shulde first sing praises.

10 But a disagreing priee was heard of the enemies, and there was a lamentable noice for the children that were bewailed.

11 For the * master and the seruant were punished with like punishment, & the commune people suffred alike with the King,

Exod. 12. 29

12 So they altogether had innumerable that dyed with one kinde of death: nether were the liuing sufficient to burie them: for in the twinckling of an eye the noblest offspring of them was destroied.

13 So they that colde beleue nothing, because of the inchantments, confessed this people to be the children of God, in the destructiō of the first borne.

14 For while all things were in quiet silence, & the night was in the middes of her swift course,
15 Thine almightie worde leapt downe from heauen out of thy royal throne, as a fierce man of warre in the middes of the land that was destroyed,
16 And broght thine vnfained commandement as a sharpe sworde, and stode vp, and filled all things with death, and being come downe to the earth, it reached vnto the heauens.
17 Then the sight of the feareful dreames vexed them suddenly, and fearefulnes came vpon them vnawares.
18 Then lay there one here, another there halfe dead, & shewed the cause of his death.
19 For the visions that vexed them, shewed them these things afore, so ý they were not ignorant, wherefore they perished.
20 Now tentation of death touched the righteous also, and * among the multitude in the wildernes there was a plague but the wrath indured not long.
21 For the blameles man made haste, & defended them, and toke the weapons of his ministracion, euen prayer, & the recōciliation by the perfume, & set him self against the wrath, and so broght ý miserie to an end, declaring that he was thy seruant.
22 For he ouer came not the multitude with bodelie power, nor with force of weapons, but with the worde he subdued him that punished, alledging the othes and couenant made vnto the fathers.
23 For when the dead were fallen downe by heapes one vpon another, he stode in the middes, and cut of the wrath, and parted it from comming to the liuing.
24 * For in the long garment was all the ornament, and in the foure rowes of the stones was the glorie of the fathers grauen with thy maiestie in the diademe of his head.
25 Vnto these the destroyer gaue place, and was afraied of them: for it was sufficient, that they had tasted the wrath.

1 The death of the Egyptians, and the great ioye of the Hebrewes. 11 The meat that was giuen at the desire of the people. 17 All the elements serue to the wil of God.

1 AS for the vngodlie, the wrath came vpon them without mercie vnto the end: for he knewe what shulde come vnto them,
2 That they (when they had consented to let them go, and had sent them out with diligence) wolde repent, and pursue them.
3 For while yet sorow was before them, and they lamented by the graues of the dead thei deuised another foolishenes, so that they persecuted them in their fleing, whome they had cast out afore with prayer.
4 For the destinie, whereof they were worthie, broght them to this end, and caused them to forget the things that had come to passe, that they might accomplish the punishment, which remained by torments
5 Bothe that thy people might trye a marueilous passage, and ý these might finde a strange death.
6 For euerie creature in his kinde was facioned of newe, and serued in their owne offices inioyned them, that thy children might be kept without hurt.
7 For the cloude ouershadowed their tētes, and the drye earth appeared, where afore was water: so that in the red Sea there was a way without impediment, and the great depe became a grene field.
8 Through the which all the people wēt that were defended with thine hand, seing thy wonderous marueiles.
9 For they "neyed like horses, and leaped like lambes, praising thee, ô Lord, which hadest deliuered them.
10 For they were yet mindeful of those things which were done in ý land where they dwelt, how the grounde broght forthe flies in steade of cattel, & how the riuer scrauled with the multitude of frogges in steade of fishes.
11 * But at the last they sawe a new generation of birdes, when thei were intised with lust, & desired delicate meates.
12 * For the quailes came forthe of the sea vnto them for comfort, but punishmēts came vpō the "sinners not without signes that were giuen by great thundrings: for they suffred worthely according to their wickednes, becausse they shewed a cruel hatred towarde strangers.
13 For the one sorte wolde not receiue them when thei were present, becausse they knewe them not: the other sorte broght the strangers into bondage that had done them good.
14 Beside all these things some wolde not suffer, that anie regarde shulde be had of them: for thei handeled the strangers dispitefully.
15 Others that had receiued them with great banketing, and admitted them to be partakers of the same lawes, did afflict them with great labours.

17 Thus the elements agreed among them selues in this change, as when one tune is changed vpon an instrument of musike, and the melodie stil remaineth which may easely be perceiued by the sight of the things that are come to passe.

18 For the things of the earth were chāged into things of the water, & the thing that did swimme, went vpon the grounde.

19 The fyre had power in the water cōtrarie vnto his owne vertue, & the water forgate his owne kinde to quench.

20 Againe, ŷ flames did not hurte the flesh of the corruptible beasts that walked therein, nether melted they ŷ ẅ semed to be yce, and was of a nature that wolde melt, and yet was an immortal meat.

21 For in all things, ô Lord, thou hast magnified and glorified thy people, & hast not despised to assist them in euerie time and place.

THE WISDOME OF

Iesus the sonne of Sirach, called Ecclesiasticus.

This argument was founde in a certeine Greke copie.

THis Iesus was the sonne of Sirach, and Sirachs father was also called Iesus, and he lived in the latter times, after the people had bene led away captiue, and broght home againe, and almoste after all the Prophetes. Now his grandfather, as he him self witnesseth, was a man of great diligence, and wisdome among the Hebrewes, who did not onely gather the graue sentences of wise men, that had bene before him, but he him self also spake many ful of great knowledge and wisdome. So this first Iesus dyed, and left this which he had gathered, and Sirach afterwarde left it to Iesus his sonne, who toke it and put it in order in a boke, and called it WISDOME, intitling it bothe by his owne name, his fathers name, and his grandfathers: thinking by this title of Wisdome to allure the reader to read this boke with more great desire, and to consider it more diligently. Therefore this boke conteineth wise sayings, and darke sentences, and similitudes with certeine diuine histories which are notable and ancient, euen of men that were approued of God, and certeine prayers, and songs of the autor him self: moreouer, what benefites the Lord had bestowed vpon his people, and what plagues he had heaped vpon their enemies. This Iesus did imitate Salomon, and was no lesse famous in wisdome and doctrine, who was therefore called a man of great knowledge, as he was in dede.

The prologue of the Wisdome of Iesus the sonne of Sirach.

WHereas manie, and great things haue bene giuen vs by the Law, and the Prophetes, and by others that haue followed thē, (for the which things Israel ought to be commended by the reason of doctrine and wisdome, whereby ŷ readers ought not onely to become learned them selues, but also may be able by the diligent studie thereof to be profitable vnto strangers bothe by speaking & writing) after that my grande father Iesus had giuen him self to the reading of the Law, and the Prophetes, & other bokes of our fathers, and had gotten therein sufficient iudgement, he purposed also to write some thing pertening to learning and wisdome, to the intēt that they which were desirous to learne, & wolde giue them selues to these things, might profite muche more in liuing according to ŷ Law. Wherefore, I exhorte you to receiue it louingly, and to read it with diligence, and to take it in good worthe, thogh we seme to some in some things not able to atteine to the interpretacion of suche wordes as are hard to be expressed: for the things that are spoken in the Hebrēwe tongue, haue another force in them selues then when they are translated into another tongue, and not onely these things, but other things also, as the Law it self, & the Prophetes, & other bokes haue no smale difference when they are spoken in their owne language. Therefore in the eight and thirtieth yere, when I came into Egypt vnder King Euergetes, and continued there, I founde a copie ful of great learning, and I thoght it necessarie, to bestowe my diligence, and trauaile to interprete this boke. So for a certeine time with great watching and studie I gaue my self to the finishing of this boke, that it might be published, that they which remaine in banishement, and are desirous to learne, might applie them selues vnto good maners, and liue according to the Law.

28 A pacient man wil suffer for a time, and then shal he haue the rewarde of ioye.
29 He wil hide his wordes for a time, & manie mens lippes shal speake of his wisdome:
30 In the threasures of wisdome are the secrets of knowledge, but the sinner abhorreth the worship of God.
31 If thou desire wisdome, kepe the cōmandements, and the Lord shal giue her vnto thee, [and wil fil her treasures.]
32 For the feare of the Lord, is wisdome and discipline: he hathe pleasure in faith and mekenes.
33 Be not disobedient to the feare of the Lord, and come not vnto him with a double heart.
34 ¶ Be not an hypocryte that men shulde speake of thee, but take hede what thou what thou speakest

25 Exalte not thy self, lest thou fall and bring thy soule to dishonour, and so God discouer thy secretes, & cast thee downe in the middes of the congregacion, because thou woldest not receiue the true feare of God, and thine heart is ful of deceite.

CHAP. II.

1 He exhorteth the seruantes of God to righteousnes, loue, [vnderstanding, and pacience. 11 To trust in the Lord. 13 A curse vpon them that are fainte hearted and impacient.

1 MY sonne, if thou wilt come into the seruice of God, [stand fast in righteousnes and feare, and] prepare thy soule to tentacion.
2 Settle thine heart, & be pacient: [bow downe thine eare, and receiue the wordes of vnderstanding] and shrinke not awaie, when thou art assailed, [but waite vpon God patiently.]
3 Ioyne thy self vnto him, and departe not away, that thou maist be increased at thy last end.
4 What soeuer cometh vnto thee, receiue it paciently, and be patient in the chãge of thine affliction.
Wisdo 3. 6 *Prou. 17. 3 5 * For as golde [& siluer are] tryed in the fyre, euen so are men acceptable in the fornace of aduersitie.
6 Beleue in God and he wil helpe thee: order thy waye aright, & trust in him: [holde fast his feare, and growe olde therein.
7 Ye that feare the Lord, waite for his mercie: shrinke not awaye from him ỳ ye fall not.
8 Ye that feare the Lord, beleue him & your rewarde shal not faile.
9 O ye that feare the Lord, trust in good things, & in the euerlasting ioy & mercie.
10 [Ye that feare the Lord, loue him, & your hearts shalbe lightened.]
11 Consider the olde generacions [of mẽ, ye children,] and marke them wel: *was there euer anie confounded, that put his trust in the Lord? or who hathe continued in his feare, and was forsakẽ? or whome did he euer dispise, that called vpon him?
Psal. 18. 25 12 For God is gracious and merciful, & forgiueth sinnes and saueth in the time of trouble, [& is a defender for all thẽ that seke him in the trueth.]
[a] Or, double 13 Wo vnto them, that haue a [a] feareful heart, [and to the wicked lippes] and to the faint hands, and to the sinner ỳ goeth two * maner of wayes.
1. King. 18. 21 14 Wo vnto him that is faint hearted, for he beleueth not: therefore shal he not be defended.
15 Wo vnto you that haue lost pacience, & haue forsaken the right wayes, & are turned backe into frowarde wayes] for what wil ye do when the Lord shal visit you?
16 They that feare the Lord, wil not disobey his worde: and they that * loue him, wil kepe his wayes. Iob. 14. 24
17 They that feare the Lord, wil seke out the things that are pleasant vnto him: and they that loue him, shalbe fulfilled with his Law.
18 They that feare the Lord, wil prepare their hearts, and humble their soules in his sight.
19 [Thei that feare the Lord, kepe his commandements, and wil be pacient til he se them, 20 Saying, if we do not repent] we shal fall into the hands of the Lord, and not into the hands of men.
21 Yet as his greatnes is, so is his mercie.

CHAP III.

2 To our father and mother ought we to giue double honor. 10 Of the blessing ãd curse of the father and mother. 22 No mã ought ouer curiously to searche out the secrets of God.

1 THe children of wisdome are the Church of the righteous, & their offspring is obedience and loue.]
2 Heare your fathers iudgement, ô children, and do thereafter, that ye may be safe.
3 For the Lord wil haue the father honored of the children, and hathe cõfirmed the autoritie of the mother ouer the children.
4 Who so honoreth his father, his sinnes shalbe forgiuen him, [and he shal absteine from them, & shal haue his daily desires.]
5 And he that honoreth his mother, is like one that gathereth treasure.
6 Who so honoreth his father, shal haue ioye of his owne children, & when he maketh his prayer, he shalbe heard.
7 He that honoreth his father, shal haue a long life, and he that is obedient vnto the Lord, shal comfort his mother.
8 He that feareth the Lord, honoreth his parents, and doeth seruice vnto his parents, as vnto lords.
Exod. 20. 12 Deut. 5. 16 Mat. 15. 4 Ephes. 6. 2 9 * Honour thy father and mother in dede and in worde [& in all pacience,] that thou maist haue [a] Gods blessing, [& that his blessing may abide with thee in the end.]
[a] Or, the blessing of men
10 For the blessing, of the father establisheth the houses of the children, & the mothers curse rotteth out the fundacions.
11 Reioyce not at the dishonour of thy father: for it is not honour vnto thee, but shame.

12 Seing that mans glorie cometh by his fathers honour, & the reproche of the mother is dishonour to the children,
13 My sonne, helpe thy father in his age and greue him not as long as he liueth.
14 And if his vnderstanding faile, haue pacience with him, & despise him not when thou art in thy ful strength.
15 For the good intreatie of thy father shal not be forgotten, but it shalbe a forteres for thee against sinnes, [and for thy mothers offence thou shalt be recompensed with good, and it shalbe founded for thee in righteousnes.]
16 And in the day of trouble thou shalt be remẽbred: thy sinnes also shal melt away as the yce in the faire wether.
17 He that forsaketh his father, shal come to shame, and he that angreth his mother, is cursed of God.
18 ¶ My sonne, performe thy doings with mekenes, so shalt thou be beloued of them that are approued.
Philip.2.3 19 The * greater thou art, the more hũble thy self [in all things,] & thou shalt finde fauour before the Lord.
20 Many are excellent & of renoume: but the secrets are reueiled vnto the meke.
21 For the power of the Lord is great, & he is honored of the lowlie.
Prou.25.27 Rom.12.3 22 * Seke not out the things that are to hard for thee, nether searche the things rashly which are to mightie for thee.
23 [But] what [God] hathe commanded thee, thinke vpon that with reuerence, [and be not curious in many of his workes:] for it is not nedeful for thee to se with thine eyes the things that are secret.
24 Be not curious in superfluous things: for many things are shewed vnto thee aboue the capacitie of men.
25 The medlig with suche hathe beguiled many, and an euil opinion hathe deceiued their iudgement.
26 Thou canst not se without eyes: professe not the knowledge therefore that thou hast not.
27 A stubberne heart shal feare euil at ỹ last: and he that loueth danger, shal perish therein.
28 An heart that goeth two waies, shal not prosper: and he that is frowarde of heart, shal stumble therein.
29 An obstinate heart shalbe laden with sorowes: and the wicked man shal heape sinne vpon sinne.
30 The persuasion of the proude is without remedie, and his steppes shalbe plucked vp: for the plant of sinne hathe taken roote in him, [and he shal not be estemed.]
31 The heart of him that hathe vnderstanding, shal perceiue secret things, & an attentiue eare is the desire of a wise man.
32 [An heart that is wise & vnderstanding, wil absteine from sinne, and shal prosper in ỹ workes of righteousnes.]
Dan.4.24 33 Water quencheth burning fyre, * and almes taketh away sinnes.
34 And he that rewardeth good dedes, wil remẽber it afterward, & in the time of the fall, he shal finde a staye.

CHAP. IIII.

1 Almes must be done with gentlenes. 12 The studie of wisdome and her frute. 20 An exhortation to eschewe euil, and to do good.

1 MY sonne, defraude not the poore of his liuing, and make not the nedie eyes to waite long.
2 Make not an hungrie soule sorowful, nether vexe a man in his necessitie.
3 Trouble not the heart that is grieued, & differre not the gift of the nedie.
4 Refuse not the prayer of one that is in trouble: turne not away thy face from the poore.
5 Turne not thine eyes a side [in angre] from the poore, and giue him none occasion to speake euil of thee.
6 For if he curse thee in the bitternes of his soule, his prayer shalbe heard of him that made him.
7 Be courteous vnto the companie [of poore, and humble thy soule vnto the Elder,] and bowe downe thine head to a man of worship.
8 Let it not greue thee to bowe downe thine eare vnto the poore, [but pay thy dette,] and giue him a friendlie answer.
9 ¶ Deliuer him that suffreth wrong, from the hand of the oppressour, & be not faint hearted " when thou iudgest. " Or, to defende him.
10 Be as a father vnto the fatherles, and as an housband vnto their mother: so shalt thou be as the sonne of the moste High: and he shal loue thee more then thy mother doeth.
11 Wisdome exalteth her children, and receiueth them that seke her. [& wil go before them in the way of righteousnes.]
12 He that loueth her, loueth life, & they that seke life in the morning, shal haue great ioye.
13 He that kepeth her, shal inherit glorie for vnto whome she entreth, him the Lord wil blesse.
14 They that honour her, shalbe ỹ seruants of the holie one, and them that loue her, the Lord doeth loue.
15 Who so giueth eare vnto her, shal iudge the nacions, and he that goeth vnto her, shal dwell safely.
16 He that is faithful vnto her, shal haue her ue her in possession, and his generacio shal possesse her.

17 For first she wil walke w him by croked waies, and bring him vnto feare, & dreede, and torment him with her discipline vntil she haue tryed his soule, and haue proued him by her iudgements.
18 Then wil she returne the straight way vnto him, and comfort him, and shew him her secrets, [and heape vpon him the treasures of knowledge, and vnderstanding of righteousnes.]
19 But if he go wrong, she wil forsake him, and giue him ouer into the hands of his destruction.
Rom. 12. 11 20 [¶ My sonne,] * Make muche of time, and eschewe y thing that is euil, 21 And be not ashamed [to say the trueth] for thy life: for there is a shame that bringeth sinne, and a shame that bringeth worship and fauour.
22 Accept no personne against thine owne conscience, that thou be not confounded to thine owne decaye, [and forbeare not thy neighbour in his faute.]
23 And kepe not backe counsel when it may do good, nether hide thy wisdome when it may be famous.
24 For by the talke is wisdome knowen, and learning by the wordes of the tongue, [& counsel, wisdome and learning by the talking of y wise, & stedfastnes in the workes of righteousnes.]
25 In no wise speake against the worde of trueth, but be ashamed of the lies of thine owne ignorance.
26 Be not ashamed to confesse thy sinnes, & resist not the course of the riuer.
27 Submit not thy self vnto a foolish man, nether accept the persone of the mightie.
28 Striue for the trueth vnto death, [and defende iustice for thy life,] and the Lord God shal fight for thee [against thine enemies.]
29 Be not hastie in thy tongue, nether slacke and negligent in thi workes.
30 Be not as a lion in thine owne house, nether beat thy seruants for thy fantasie, [nor oppresse them that are vnder thee.]
Act. 20. 35 31 * Let not thine hand be stretched out to receiue, and shut when thou shuldest giue.

CHAP. V.

1 Riches may we not put any confidence. 7 The vengeance of God oght to be feared, and repentance may not be differred.

1 TRust not vnto thy riches, and say not, I haue ynough for my life: [for it shal not helpe in the time of vengeance and indignation.]
2 Folowe not thine owne minde and thy strength to walke in the wayes of thine heart:
3 Nether say thou, [How haue I had strength?] or who wil bring me vnder for my workes? for God the aduenger wil reuenge the wrong done by thee.
4 And say not, I haue sinned, and what euil hathe come vnto me? for the Almightie is a pacient rewarder, but he wil not leaue thee vnpunished.
5 Becaus thy sinne is forgiuen, be not without feare, to heape sinne vpō sinne.
6 And say not, The mercie of God is great: he wil forgiue my manifolde sinnes: for mercie & wrath come from him & his indignacion cometh downe vpon sinners
7 Make no tarying to turne vnto the Lord, and put not of from day to day: for suddenly shal the wrath of the Lord breake forthe, & in thy securitie thou shalt be destroied, and thou shalt perish in time of vengeance.
8 Trust not in wicked riches: for they shal not helpe thee in the day of punishment [and vengeance.]
9 Be not caryed about with euerie winde, and go not into euerie way: for so doeth the sinner that hathe a double tongue.
10 Stand fast in thy sure vnderstanding [& in the way and knowledge of the Lord] & haue but one maner of worde, [& followe y worde of peace & righteousnes.]
11 Be humble to heare y worde of God, that thou maist vnderstand it, and make a true answere with wisdome.]
12 Be swift to heare good things, and let thy life be pure, & giue a pacient answer.
13 If thou hast vnderstāding, answer thy neighbour: if not, laye thine hand vpon thy mouth, [lest thou be trapped in an vndiscrete worde, and so be blamed.]
14 Honour and shame is in the talke, & the tongue of a mā causeth him to fall.
15 Be not counted a talebearer, & lie not in waite w thy tongue: for shame [and repentance] followe the thief, and an euil condemnacion is ouer him that is double tongued: [but he that is a backebiter, shalbe hated, enuied and confounded.]
16 Do not rashly, nether in small things nor in great.

CHAP. VI.

1 It is the propertie of a sinner to be euil tongued. 6 Of friendship. 33 Desire to be taught.

1 BEnot of a frēd [thy neighbours] enemie: for suche shal haue an euil name, shame and reproche, and he shal be in infamie as the wicked that hathe a double tongue.

2 Be not proude in the deuice of thine owne minde, lest thy soule rent thee as a bull,
3 And eat vp thy leaues, and destroie thy frute, & so thou be lefte as a drye tree[in the wildernes.]
4 For a wicked soule destroieth him ȳ hathe it, ād maketh him to be laughed to scorne of his enemies,[and bringeth him to the porcion of the vngodlie.]
5 A swete talke multiplieth the friends [& pacifieth them that beat variāce,] and a swete tongue increaseth muche good talke.
6 Holde friendship with manie, neuertheles haue but one cōsseler of a thousand.
7 If thou getteſt a friend, proue him first & be not hastie to credit him.
8 For some man is a friend for his owne occasion, and wil not abide in the day of thy trouble.
9 And there is some friend that turneth to enimitie, and taketh parte against thee, and in contention he wil declare thy shame.
10 Againe some friend is but a companion at the table, and in the day of thine affliction he continueth not.
11 But in thy prosperitie he wil be as ȳ thy self, and wil vse libertie ouer thy seruants.
12 If thou be broght low, he wil be against thee, and wil hide him self from thy face.
13 Departe from thine enemies, and beware of thy friends.
14 A faithful friend is a strong defence, and he that findeth suche one, findeth a treasure.
15 A faithful friend ought not to be chāged for any thing, and the weight [of golde & siluer] is not to be compared to the goodnes [of his faith:]
16 A faithful friend is the medicine of life [and immortalitie,] & thei that feare the Lord, shal finde him.
17 Who so feareth the Lord, shal direct his friendship a right, and as his owne self, so shal his friend be.
18 ¶ My sonne, receiue doctrine from thy youth vp: so shalt thou finde wisdome [which shal indure] til thine olde age.
19 Go to her as one that ploweth, & soweth, and waite for her goad frutes: for thou shalt haue but litle labour in her worke: but thou shalt eat of her frutes right sone.
20 How exceading sharpe is she to the vnlearned? he that is without iudgement, wil not remaine with her.
21 Vnto suche one she is as a fine touchestone, and he casteth her from him without delay.
22 For thei haue the name of wisdome, but there be but fewe that haue the knowledge of her
23 [For with them that knowe her, she abideth vnto the appearing of God.]
24 Giue eare, my sonne: receiue my doctrine, and refuse not my counsel, 25 And put thy fete into her linkes, & thy necke into her chaine
26 Bowe downe thy shulder vnto her, & beare her, and be not wearie of her bands.
27 Come vnto her with thy whole heart & kepe her waies with all thy power.
28 Seke after her, and searche her, & she shalbe shewed thee: and when thou hast gotten her, forsake her not.
29 For at the last thou shalt finde rest in her, and that shalbe turned to thy ioye.
30 Then shal her fetters be a strong defence for thee, [and a sure fundacion] & her chaines a glorious raiment.
31 For there is a golden ornamēt in her, & her bands are the laces of purple colour.
32 Thou shalt put her on as a roobe of honour, & shalt put her vpon thee, as a crowne of ioye.
33 My sonne, if thou wilt, thou shalt be taught, and if thou wilt applie thy minde, thou shalt be wittie.
34 If thou loue to heare, thou shalt receiue[doctrine,] and if thou delite in hearing, thou shal be wise.
35 Stand with the multitude of the Elders, which are wise, and ioyne with him that is wise.
36 *Desire to heare all godlie talke, & let not the graue sentences of knowledge escape thee. *Chap. 8. 9.
37 And if thou seest a man of vnderstanding, get thee sone vnto him, and let thy foote weare the stepes of his dores.
38 Let thy minde be vpon the ordinances of the Lord, and be ‖continually occupied in his commandements: so shal he stablish thine heart, and giue thee wisdome at thine owne desire. ‖Or, earnest ly

CHAP. VII.

2 We must forsake euil, and yet not iustifie our selues. 23 The behauiour of the wise towarde his wife, his frīed, his children, his seruants, his father and mother.

1 DO no euil: so shal no harme come vnto thee.
2 Departe from the thing that is wicked and sinne shal turne away from thee.
3 My sonne, sowe not vpon the forowes of vnrighteousnes, lest that thou reape them seuen folde.
4 Aske not of the Lord preeminence, nether of the King ȳ seate of honour.

5 *Iustifie

5 * Iustifie not thy self before the Lord: [for he knoweth thine heart,] & boast not thy wisdome in the presence of the King.
6 Seke not to be made a iudge, lest thou be not able to take away iniquitie, and lest thou, fearing the persone of the mightie, shuldest commit an offence against thine vprightenes.
7 Offend not against the multitude of a citie, and cast not thy self among the people.
8 * Binde not two sinnes together: for in one sinne shalt thou not be vnpunished.
9 Say not, God wil loke vpon the multitude of mine oblacions: and when I offer to the moste high God, he wil accept it.
10 Be not faint hearted, when thou makest thy praier, nether slacke in giuing of almes.
11 Laugh no man to scorne in the heauines of his soule: for [God which seeth all things] is he * that can bring downe, & set vp againe.
12 Sowe not a lie against thy brother, nether do the same against thy friend.
13 Vse not to make anie maner of lie: for the custome thereof is not good.
14 Make not manie wordes when thou art among the Elders, nether repeate a thing in thy prayer.
15 Hate not laborious worke, nether the housbandrie, which the moste High hathe created.
16 Nomber not thy self in the multitude of the wicked, but remember that vengeance wil not slacke.
17 Humble thy minde greatly: for the vengeance of the wicked is fyre and wormes.
18 Giue not ouer thy friend for anie good, nor thy true brother for ỹ golde of Ophir.
19 Departe not from a wise and good woman, [that is fallen vnto thee for thy porcion in the feare of the Lord:] for her grace is aboue golde.
20 * Where as thy seruant worketh truely, intreate him not euil, nor the hireling that bestoweth him self wholie for thee.
21 Let thy soule loue a good seruant, and defraude him not of libertie, [nether leaue him a poore man.]
22 * If thou haue cattel, loke wel to thē, and if thei be for thy profite, kepe thē with thee.
23 If thou haue sonnes, instruct them, and holde their necke from their youth.
24 If thou haue daughters, kepe their bodie and shewe not thy face chereful towarde them.
25 Marie thy daughter, & so shalt thou performe a weightie matter: but giue her to a man of vnderstanding.
26 If thou haue a wife after thy minde, forsake her not, but cōmit not thy self to the hateful.
27 * Honour thy father from thy whole heart, and forget not the sorowes of thy mother.
28 Remember that thou wast borne of them, and how canst thou recompense them the things that they haue done for thee?
29 ¶ Feare the Lord with all thy soule, & honor his ministers.
30 Loue him that made thee, with all thy strength, * and forsake not his seruants.
31 Feare the Lord with all thy soule, and honor the Priests, * and giue them their porcion, as it is commanded thee, the first frutes, [and purificacions] and sacrifices for sinne, & the offrings of the shoulders, and the sacrifices of sanctificacion, and the first frutes of the holie things.
32 Stretche thine hand vnto the poore ỹ thy [a] blessing, [and reconciliation] may be accomplished.
33 Liberalitie pleaseth all men liuing, & * from the dead restraine it not.
34 * Let not them that wepe, be without [comfort:] but mourne with suche as mourne.
35 * Be not slow to visit the sicke: for ỹ shal make thee to be beloued.
36 Whatsoeuer thou takest in hand, remember the end, and thou shalt neuer do amisse.

CHAP. VIII.

We must take hede with whome we haue to do.

1 STriue not with a mightie man, lest thou fall into his hands.
2 * Make not variance with a riche man, lest he on the other side weigh downe thy weight: * for golde [and siluer] hathe destroyed manie & hathe subuerted the hearts of Kings.
3 Striue not with a man ỹ is ful of wordes, & laie no stickes vpon his fyre.
4 Playe not with a man that is vntaught, lest thy kinred be dishonored.
5 * Despise not a man that turneth him self away from sinne, nor cast him not not in the teeth with all, but remember that we are all worthie blame.
6 * Dishonour not a man in his olde age: for they were as we which are not olde.
7 Be not glad of the death of thine enemie, but remember that we must dye all, [and so enter into ioy.]
8 * Despise not the exhortation of the [Elders] that be wise, but acquaint thy self with their wise sentences: for of the thou shalt learne wisdome, [and the doctrine of vnderstanding,] and how to serue great men without complaint.]

9 Go not from the doctrine of the Elders: for they haue learned it of their fathers, and of them thou shalt learne vnderstanding, and to make answer in the time of nede.
10 Kindle not the coles of sinners, [whē thou rebukest them,] lest thou be burnt in the fyre of flames [of their sinnes.]
11 Rise not vp against him that doeth wrong, that he may not wait as a spie for thy mouth.
12 *Lend not vnto him that is mightier then thy self: for if thou lendest him, count it but lost. Chap. 29, 4
13 Be not suretie aboue thy power: for if thou be suretie, thinke to paie it.
14 Go not to law with the iudge: for thei will giue sentence according to his owne honour.
15 *Trauaile not by the way with him that is rash, lest he do thee iniurie: for he followeth his owne wilfulnes, and so shalt thou perish throw his folie. Gen. 17, 8
16 *Stripe not with him that is angrie, and go not with him into the wildernes: for blood is as nothing in his sight, and where there is no helpe, he will ouerturne thee. Prou. 22, 24
17 Take no counsel at a foole: for he can not kepe a thing close.
18 Do no secret thing before a stranger: for thou canst not tell what he goeth about.
19 Open not thine heart vnto euerie man, lest he be vnthankefull to thee, [& put thee to reproue.]

CHAP. IX.

Of iealousie. 12 An olde friend is to be preferred before a newe. 18 Righteous men should be bidden to thy table.

1 BE not ielous ouer thy wife of thy bosome, nether teache her by thy meanes an euil lesson.
2 Giue not thy life vnto a woman, lest she ouercome thy strength, [& so thou be confounded.]
3 Mete not an harlot, lest thou fall into her snares.
4 Vse not the companie of a woman that is a singer, [and a dancer, nether heare her,] lest thou be taken by her craftines.
5 Gaze not on a *maide, that thou fall not by that that is precious in her. Gen. 6. 2
6 *Cast not thy minde vpon harlots [in anie maner of thing,] lest thou destroye [bothe thy self and] thine heritage. Prou. 5, 21
7 Go not about gazing in the streates of the citie, nether wander y in the secret places thereof.
8 *Turne awaye thine eye from a beautiful woman, and loke not vpon others beautie: for manie *haue perished by the beautie of women: for thorow it loue is kindled as a fyre. Mat. 5, 28 Gen. 34, 1 2. sam. 11. 2 iudeth. 10, 17
9 [Euerie woman that is an harlot, shalbe trodden vnder fote as doungue, of euerie one that goeth by the waye.
10 Many wondering at the beautie of a strange woman, haue bene cast out: for her wordes burne as a fyre]
11 Sit not at all with another mans wife, [nether lie with her vpon the bed,] nor banket with her, lest thine heart incline vnto her, and so through thy desire fall into destruction.
12 ¶ Forsake not an olde friend: for the new shal not be like him: a newe friend is as newe wine: when it is olde, y shalt drinke it with pleasure.
13 * Desire not the honour [and riches] of a sinner: for thou knowest not what shalbe his end. Iudg. 9, 3 2. sam. 13, 12
14 Delite not in the thing that the vngodlie haue pleasure in, but remember that they shal not be founde iust vnto their graue.
15 Kepe thee from the man that hathe power to slaye: so shalt thou not doute the feare of death: and if thou come vnto him, make no faute, lest he take away thy life: remember that thou goest in the middes of snares, and that thou walkest vpon the towres of the citie.
16 Trye thy neighbour as nere as thou cāst, *and aske counsel of the wise. Chap. 7, 8
17 Let thy talke be with the wise, & all thy communication in the Law of the moste High.
18 Let iust men eat and drinke with thee, and let thy reioycing be in the feare of the Lord.
19 In the hands of the creaftesmen shal the workes be commended, and the wise prince of the people by his worde, [& the worde by the wisdome of the Elders] Or, the workes remain praised according to the worke.
20 A man ful of wordes is dangerous in his citie, and he that his rash in his talking, shalbe hated.

CHAP. X.

1 Of Kings and iudges. 7 Pride and couetousnes are to be abhorred. 28 Labour is praised.

1 A Wise iudge wil instruct his people with discretion: the gouernance of a prudent man is wel ordered.
2 As the iudge of the people is him self, so are his officers, and what maner of man man the ruler of the citie is, ſuche are all they that dwell therein.

3.King.12,2 3 *An vnwiſe King deſtroieth his people, but where they that be in autoritie, are men of vnderſtanding, there the citie proſpereth.

4 The gouernement of the earth is in the hand of the Lord, [and all iniquitie of the nacions is to be abhorred,] & when time is, he wil ſet vp a profitable ruler ouer it.

5 In the hand of God is the proſperitie of man, and vpon the ſcribes wil he laye his honour.

Leu.19,17 6 *Be not angrie for any wrong, with thy neighbour, & do nothing by iniurious practiſes.

7 Pride is hateful before God and man, & by bothe doeth one cõmit iniquitie.

Ier 27,6 dan.4,14 8 *Becauſe of vnrighteous dealing and wrongs and riches gotten by deceit, ý kingdome is tranſlated from one people to another.

9 There is nothing worſe then a couetous man: [why art thou proude, õ earth and aſhes? there is not a more wicked thing, then to loue money:] for ſuche one wolde euen ſel his ſoule. & for his life euerie one is compelled to pul out his owne bowels:

10 [All tyrannie is of ſmale indurance, & the diſeaſe that is hard to heale, is grieuous to the phyſicion.

11 The phyſicion cutteth of the ſore diſeaſe, & he that is to day a King, to morow is dead.

12 Why is earth & aſhes proude, ſeing that when a man dyeth, he is the heire of ſerpents, beaſtes and wormes?

13 The beginning of mans pride, is to fall away from God, and to turne away his heart from his maker.

14 For pride his the original of ſinne, & he that hathe it, ſhal powre out abomination, til at laſt he be ouerthrowen: therefore the Lord bringeth the perſuaſions [of the wicked] to diſhonour, and deſtroieth them in the end.

15 The Lord hathe caſt downe the thrones of the [proude] princes, and ſet vp the meke in their ſteade.

16 The Lord plucketh vp the rootes of the [proude] nacions, and planteth the lowlie with glorie among them.

17 The Lord ouerthroweth the lands of the heathen, and deſtroieth them vnto the fundacions of the earth: he cauſeth them to wither away, & deſtroieth thẽ, and maketh their memorial to ceaſe out of the earth.

18 [God deſtroieth the memorial of the proude, & leaueth ý remembrãce of the humble.]

19 Pride was not created in men, nether wrath in the generacion of women.

20 There is a ſede of man, which is an honorable ſede: the honorable ſede are they that feare the Lord: there is a ſede of man, which is without honour: ý ſede without honour, are they that tranſgreſſe the commandements of ý Lord: it is a ſede that remaineth which feareth the Lord, and a faire plant, that loue him: but they are a ſede without honour, that deſpiſe the Law, and a deceiuable ſede that breake the commandements.

21 He that is the chief among brethrẽ, is honorable: ſo are they that feare the Lord in his ſight.

22 The feare of the Lord cauſeth that the kingdome faileth not, but the kingdome is loſt by crueltie and pride.

23 The feare of the Lord is the glorie aſwel of the riche and the noble, as of the poore.

24 It is not mete to deſpiſe the poore man that hathe vnderſtanding, nether is it conuenient to magniſie the riche ý is a wicked man.

25 The great man and the iudge and the man of autoritie, are honorable, yet is there none of them greater, then he ý feareth the Lord.

Prou.17,2 2.Sam.12,13 26 *Vnto the ſeruant that is wiſe, ſhal they that are free do ſeruice: * he that hathe knowledge, wil not grudge when he is reformed, [and the ignorant ſhal not come to honor.]

27 Seke not excuſes when thou ſhuldeſt do thy worke, nether be aſhamed thereof through pride in the time of aduerſitie.

Prou.12,9 28 *Better is he that laboreth and hathe plenteouſnes of all things, thẽ he that is gorgeous, and wanteth bread.

29 My ſonne, get thy ſelf praiſe my mekenes, & eſteme thy ſelf as ý deſerueſt.

30 Who wil counte him iuſt that ſinneth againſt him ſelf? or honour him, that diſhonoreth his owne ſoule?

31 The poore is honored for his knowledge [and his feare,] but the riche is had in reputacion becauſe of his goods.

32 He ý is honorable in pouertie, how muche more ſhal he be when he is riche? and he that is vnhoneſt being riche, how muche more wil he be ſo when he is pouertie?

CHAP. XI.

1 The praiſe of humilitie. 2 After the outward appearance ought we not to iudge. 7 Of raſh iudgement. 14 All things come of God. 29 All men are not to be brought into thine houſe.

Gen.41,40 dan.6,3 1 WIſdome *lifteth vp the head of him that is lowe, and maketh him to ſit among great men.

2 Commend not a man for his beautie, nether despise a man in his owteward appearence.

3 The bee is but smal among the foules, yet doeth her frute passe in swetenes.
4 Be not proude of clothing and raimēt, *& exalte not thy self in the day of honour. for the workes of the Lord are wonderful,[and glorious,] secret, [and vnknowen]are his workes among men.
5 Many tyrants haue sit downe vpon the earth, *and the vnlikelie hathe worne the crowne.
6 Many mightie men haue bene broght to dishonour,& ỹ honorable haue bene deliuered into other mens hands.
7 ¶ *Blame [no man]before thou haue inquired the matter: vnderstand first and then reforme[righteously.]
8 *Giue no sentence, before thou hast heard the cause, nether interrupt men in the middes of their tales.
9 Striue not for a matter that thou hast not to do with,and sit not in the iudgement of sinners.
10 My sonne, medle not with many matters: * for if thou gaine muche, thou shalt not be blameles,and if thou follow after it, yet shalt ỹ not atteine it, nether shalt thou escape, thogh thou flee from it.
11 *There is some man that laboreth & taketh peine,and the more he hasteth, the more he wanteth.
12 Againe there is some that is slouthful, and * hathe nede of helpe: for he wanteth strength,and hathe great pouertie, yet the eye of the Lord loketh vpon him to good, and setteth him vp from his lowe estate,
13 And he liftith vp his head: so that manie men marueil at him, [and giue honour vnto God.]
14 *Prosperitie and aduersitie, life and death,pouertie and riches come of the Lord.
15 Wisdome & knowledge, and vnderstanding of the Law are of the Lord: loue and good workes come of him.
16 Errour and darckenes are appointed for sinners, and they that exalte them selues in euil,waxe olde in euil.
17 The gift of the Lord remaineth for the godlie, & his good wil giueth prosperitie for euer.
18 ¶Some man is riche by his care and nigardship, and this is the porcion of his wages, 19 In that he saith, * I haue gotten rest, and now wil I eat continually of my goods,yet he considereth not, that the time draweth nere, that he must leaue all these things vnto other men,and dye him self.
20 Stand thou in thy state, and exercise thy self therein, & remaine in thy worke vnto thine age.
21 Marueil not at the workes of sinners, but trust in the Lord, and abide in thy labour,for it is an easie thing in ỹ sight of the Lord suddenly to make a poore man riche.
22 The blessing of the Lord is in the wages of the godlie,and he maketh his prosperitie sone to florish.
23 ¶Say not, What profite and pleasure shal I haue? & what good things shal I haue hereafter?
24 Againe say not, I haue ynough, and possesse many things, * and what euil can come to me hereafter? Chap.18,25
25 In thy good state remember aduersitie, & in aduersitie forget not prosperitie.
26 For it is an easie thing vnto the Lord in the day of death to rewarde a man according to his waies.
27 The aduersitie of an houre maketh one to forget pleasure: and in a mans end,his workes are discouered.
28 Iudge none blessed before his death: for a man shalbe knowen by his children.
29 Bring not euerie mā into thine house,for the disceitful haue many traines, [and are like stomackes that belche stinkingly.]
30 As a patriche is taken vnder a basket,[and the hinde is taken in the snare,]so is the heart of the proude man, which like a spie watcheth for thy fall.
31 For he lieth in waite & turneth good vnto euil,and in things worthie praise he wil finde some faute.
32 Of one litle sparke is made a great fyre,[& of one disceitful man is blood increased:]for a sinful man laieth waite for blood.
33 Beware of a wicked man: for he imagineth wicked things to bring thee into a perpetual shame.
34 Lodge a stranger, and he wil destroie thee with vnquietnes, and driue thee from thine owne.

CHAP. XII.

1 Vnto whome we ought to do good. 10 Enemies ought not to be trusted.

1 WHen thou wilt do good, knowe to whome thou doest it, so shalt thou be thanked for thy benefites.
2 Do good vnto the righteous, and thou shalt finde[great] rewarde, thogh not of him,yet of the moste High.
3 He can not haue good that continueth in euil,and giueth no almes: [for the moste High hateth the sinners, and hathe mercie vpon them that repent.]

6 For the moſte High hateth the wicked, and wil repay vengeance vnto the vngodlie, and kepeth them againſt the day of horrible vengeance.
7 Giue vnto the good, and receiue not the ſinner.
8 A friend can not be knowen in proſperitie, nether can an enemie be vnknowen in aduerſitie.
9 When a man is in wealth, it grieueth his enemies, but in heauines & trouble a mans very friend wil departe from him.
10 Truſt neuer thine enemie: for like as an yron ruſteth, ſo doeth his wickednes.
11 And thogh he make muche crouching and kneeling, yet aduiſe thy ſelf, and beware of him, & thou ſhalt be to him, as he that wipeth a glaſſe, and thou ſhalt knowe that all his ruſt hathe not bene wel wiped away.

14 Binde not two ſinnes together: for there ſhal not one be vnpunished.
15 Who wil haue pitie of the charmer, ẏ is ſtinged of the ſerpent? or of all ſuche as come nere the beaſtes? ſo is it with him that kepeth companie with a wicked man, and wrappeth him ſelf in his ſinnes.
16 For a ſeaſon wil he bide with thee: but if thou ſtomble, he tarieth not.
Iere. 41. 6 17 *An enemie is ſwete in his lippes: he can make manie good wordes, and ſpeake manie good things: yea, he can weepe with his eyes, but in his heart he imagineth how to throwe thee into the pit: and if he may finde opportunitie, he wil not be ſatiſfied with blood.
18 If aduerſitie come vpon thee, thou ſhalt finde him there firſt, and thogh he pretend to helpe thee, yet ſhal he vndermine thee: he wil ſhake his head, and clappe his hands, and wil make manie wordes, and diſguiſe his countenance.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The companies of the proude & of the riche are to be eſchewed. 15 The loue of God.

1 HE that toucheth pitch, ſhalbe defiled with it: and he that is familiar with the proude, ſhal be like vnto him. Deu. 7. 3
2 Burthen not thy ſelf aboue thy power, whiles thou liueſt, and companie not with one that is mightier, and richer then thy ſelf: for how agre the kettel and the earthen pot together? for if the one be ſmitten againſt the other, it ſhal be broken.
3 The riche dealeth vnrighteouſly, and threatneth with all: but ẏ poore being oppreſſed muſt intreat: if the riche haue done wrong, he muſt yet be intreated: but if the poore haue done it, he ſhal ſtraight waies be threatned.
4 If thou be for his profite, he vſeth thee: but if thou haue nothing, he wil forſake thee.
5 If thou haue anie thing, he wil liue with thee: yea, he wil make thee a bare man, and wil not care for it.
6 If he haue nede of thee, he wil defraude thee, and wil laugh at thee, and put thee in hope, and giue thee all good wordes, and ſay, What wanteſt thou?
7 Thus wil he ſhame thee in his meat, vntil he haue ſupt thee cleane vp twiſe or thriſe, and at the laſt he wil laugh thee to ſcorne: afterwarde, whē he ſeeth thee, he wil forſake thee, and ſhake his head at thee.
8 [Submit thy ſelf vnto God, & waite vpon his hand.]
9 Beware that thou be not diſceiued in thine owne conceit and broght downe by thy ſimplenes: [be not to humble in thy wiſdome.]
10 ¶If thou be called of a mightie man, abſent thy ſelf: ſo ſhal he call thee the more oft.
11 Preaſe not thou vnto him, that thou be not ſhut oute, but go not thou farre of, leſt he forget thee.
12 Withdrawe not thy ſelf from his ſpeache, but beleue not his manie wordes: for with muche communication wil he tempt thee, and laughingly wil he grope thee.
13 He is vnmerciful, & kepeth not promes: he wil not ſpare to do thee hurt, & to put thee in priſon.
14 Beware, & take good hede: for thou walkeſt in peril of thine ouerthrowing: when thou heareſt this, awake in thy ſlepe.
15 Loue the Lord all thy life, and call vpon him for thy ſaluacion.
16 ¶Euerie beaſt loueth his like, and euerie man loueth his neighbour.
17 All fleſh wil reſorte to their like, and euerie man wil kepe companie with ſuche as he is him ſelf.

18 How can the wolfe agre with the lam be? nomore can the vngodlie with the righteous.

* Which is a wilde beast that counterfaiteth the voyce of men, and so entiseth them out of their houses and deuoureth them.

19 What felowship hathe * hyena with a dogge? and what peace is betwene the riche and the poore?

20 As the wilde asse is the lions pray in the wildernes, so are poore men the meat of the riche.

21 As the proude hate humilitie, so do the riche abhorre the poore.

22 If a riche man fall, his friends set him vp againe: but when the poore falleth, his friends driue him away.

23 If a riche man offend, he hathe many helpers: he speaketh proude wordes, and yet men iustifie him: but if a poore man faile, they rebuke him, & though he speake wisely, yet can it haue no place.

24 When the riche man speaketh, euerie man holdeth his tongue: and loke what he saith, they praise it vnto the cloudes: but if the poore man speake, they say, What felow is this? and if he do amisse, they wil destroie him.

25 Riches are good vnto him that hathe no sinne [in his conscience,] & pouertie is euil in ỹ mouth of the vngodlie.

26 The heart of a man changeth his countenance, whether it be in good or euil.

27 A chearful countenance is a token of a good heart: for it is an hard thing to knowe the secrets of the thoght.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 The offence of the tongue. 17 Man is but a vaine thing. 21 Happie is he that continueth in wisdome.

Chap 19,7 Iam.3,2

1 BLessed is the man * that hathe not fallen by the worde of his mouth, and is not tormented with the sorow of of sinne.

2 Blessed is he that is not condemned in his conscience, and is not fallen from his hope in the Lord.

3 Riches are not comelie for a nigarde, & what shulde an enuious man do with money?

4 He that gathereth together from his owne soule, heapeth together for others, that wil make good cheare with his goods.

5 He that is wicked vnto him self, to whome wil he be good? for suche one can haue no pleasure of his goods.

6 There is nothing worse, then when one enuieth him self: and this is a rewarde of his wickednes.

7 And if he do anie good, he doeth it, not knowing thereof, and against his wil: and at the last he declareth his wickednes.

8 The enuious man hathe a wicked loke: he turneth away his face, and dispiseth men.

9 A couetous mans eye hathe neuer ynough of a porcion, and his wicked malice withereth his owne soule.

10 A * wicked eye enuieth the bread, and there is scarcenes vpon his table. Prou.17,20

11 My sonne, do good to thy self of that thou hast, and giue the Lord his due offrings.

12 Remember that death tarieth not, & that the couenant of the graue is not shewed vnto thee.

13 * Do good vnto thy friend before thou dye, & according to thine habilitie stretch out thine hand, and giue him. Chap.4,1 Tob.4,7 Luk.14,13

14 Defraude not thy self of the good day, and let not the portion of the good desires ouerpasse thee.

15 Shalt thou not leaue thy trauails vnto another, and th labours for the deuiding of the heritage?

16 Giue and take and sanctifie thy soule: [worke thou righteousnes before thy death:] for in the hell there is no meat to finde.

17 ¶ * All flesh waxeth olde, as a garmẽt, and this is the condition of all times, Thou shalt dye the death. Isa.40,6 1.per.1,24 Iam.1,10

18 As the grene leaues on a thicke tree, some fall, and some growe, so is the generacion of flesh and blood: one cometh to an end, and another is borne.

19 All corruptible things shal faile, and the worker thereof shal go withal.

20 [Euerie excellent worke shalbe iustified, and he that worketh it, shal haue honour thereby.]

21 * Blessed is the man that doeth meditate honest things by wisdome, [and exerciseth him self in iustice,] and he that reasoneth of holie things by his vnderstanding, Psal.1,2

22 Which considereth in his heart her wayes, and vnderstandeth her secrets.

23 Go thou after her as one that seketh her out, and lie in waite in her wayes.

24 He shal loke in at her windowes, & hearken at her dores.

25 He shal abide beside her house, and fasten a stake in her walles: he shal pitche his tent besides her.

26 And he shal remaine in the lodging of good men, & shal set his children vnder her couering, and shal dwell vnder her branches.

27 By her he shalbe couered from the heat, and in her glorie shal he dwell.

CHAP. XV.

1 The goodnes that followeth him which feareth

veth God. 9 God reiecteth and casteth of the sinner. 11 God is not the author of euil.

1 HE that feareth the Lord, wil do good, and he that hathe the knowledge of the Law, wil kepe it sure.
2 As an [honorable] mother shal she mete him, and she, as his wife maried of a virgine, wil receiue him.
3 With the bread [of life] and vnderstanding shal she fede him, & giue him the water of [wholsome] wisdome to drinke.
4 He shal assure him self in her, & shal not be moued, & shal holde him self fast by her, & shal not be confounded.
5 She shal exalt him aboue his neighboures, and in the middes of the congregacion shal she open his mouth: [with the spirit of wisdome, and vnderstanding shal she fil him: & clothe him with the garment of glorie.]
6 She shal cause him to inherit ioye, and the crowne of gladnes, & an euerlasting name.
7 But foolish men wil not take holde vpon her: [but suche as haue vnderstanding wil mete her:] the sinners shal not se her.
8 For she is farre from pride [and disceite,] & men that lie, can not remember her: [but men of trueth shal haunt her: and shal prosper euen vnto the beholding of God.]
9 Praise is not semelie in the mouth of the sinner: for that is not sent of the Lord.
10 But if praise come of wisdome, [and be plenteous in a faithful mouth] then the Lord wil prosper it.
11 Say not thou, It is through the Lord ý I turne backe: for thou oghtest not to do the things that he hateth.
12 Say not thou, He hathe caused me to erre: for he hathe no nede of the sinful man.
13 The Lord hateth all abominacion [of errour:] and they that feare God, wil loue it.
14 *He made man from the beginning, & left him in the hand of his counsel, [and gaue him his commandements & precepts.] Gen.1,27
15 If thou wilt, thou shalt obserue the commandements, and testifie thy good wil.
16 He hathe set water and fyre before thee: stretche out thine hand vnto ẅ thou wilt.
17 *Before man is life and death, [good and euil:] what him liketh, shalbe giuē him. Ier.21,8
18 For the wisdome of the Lord is great, and he is mightie in power, and beholdeth all things [continually.]
19 *And the eyes [of the Lord] are vpon them that feare him, & he knoweth all the workes of man. Psal.34,16
20 He hathe commanded no man to do vngodlie, nether hathe he giuen anie man licence to sinne: [for he desireth not a multitude of infidels, and vnprofitable children.]

CHAP. XVI.

1 Of vnhappie, and wicked children. 17 No man can hide him self from God. 24 An exhortacion to the receiuing of instruction.

1 DEsire not the multitude of vnprofitable children, nether delite in vngodlie children, thogh thei be manie, reioyce not in them, except the feare of the Lord be with them.
2 Trust not thou to their life, nether rest vpon their multitude.
3 For one that is iuste, is better then a thousand suche, and better it is to dye whithout children, then to leaue behinde him vngodlie children.
4 For by one that hathe vnderstanding, shal the citie be inhabited: but the stocke of the wicked shal be wasted incontinently.
5 Manie suche things haue I sene with mine eyes, and mine eare hathe heard greater things then these.
6 *In the congregacion of the vngodlie shal a fyre be kindeled, and among vnfaithful people shal the wrath be set on fyre. Chap.21,10
7 *He spared not the olde gyants, which were rebellious, trusting to their owne strength, Gen.6,4
8 *Nether spared he where as Lot dwelt, those whome he abhorred for their pride. Gen.19,23
9 He had no pitie vpon the people that were destroyed, and puffed vp in their sins.
10 *And so he preserued the six hundreth thousand fotemen, that were gathered in the hardnes of their heart, in afflicting thē & piteyng them, in smiting them and healing them, with mercie, & with chastisement. Nom.14, 15. & 26,46
11 Therefore if there be one stiffe necked among the people, it is marueil if he scape vnpunished: for mercie and wrath are with him: he is mightie to forgiue, and to powre out displeasure.
12 *As his mercie is great, so is his punishment also: he iudgeth a man according to his workes. Chap.5,10
13 The vngodlie shal not escape with his spoile, and the pacience of the godlie shal not be delayed.
14 He wil giue place to all good dedes, and euerie one shal finde according to his workes, [and after the vnderstanding of his pilgrimage.]

15 The Lord hardened Pharao, that he shulde not knowe him, and that his workes shulde be knowen vpon the earth vnder the heauen.
16 His mercie is knowen to all creatures: he hathe separate his light from the darkenes with an adamant.
17 Say not thou, I wil hide my self from the Lord: for who wil thinke vpon me from the aboue? I shal not be knowen in so great an heape of people: for what is my soule among suche an infinite nomber of creatures?
2. Pet. 3, 10 18 Beholde, the heauen, and the* heauen of heauens, which are for God, the depth, and the earth, and all that therein is, shalbe moued when he shal visite.
19 All the worlde which is created and made by his wil, the mountaines also, & the fundacions of the earth shal shake for feare, when the Lord loketh vpon them.
20 These things doeth no heart vnderstand worthely, [but he vnderstandeth euerie heart.]
21 And who vnderstandeth his wayes? and the storme that no man can see? for the moste parte of his workes are hid.
22 Who can declare the workes of his righteousnes? or who can abide them? for his ordinance is farre of, and the trying out of all things faileth.
23 He that is humble of heart, wil consider these things: but an vnwise and erronious man casteth his minde vpon foolish things.
24 My sonne, hearken vnto me, and learne knowledge, and marke my wordes with thine heart.
25 I wil declare thee weightie doctrine, and I wil instruct thee exactly in knowledge.
26 The Lord hathe set his workes in good order from ỹ beginning, & parte of them hathe he sundred from the other when he first made them.
27 He hathe garnished his workes for euer, and their beginnings so long as they shal indure, they are not hungrie nor wearied in their labours, nor cease from their offices.
28 None of them hindreth another, nether was anie of them disobedient vnto his wordes.
29 After this the Lord loked vpon the earth and filled it with his good things.
30 With all maner of liuing beasts hathe he couered the face thereof, and they returne into it againe.

CHAP. XVII.

1 The creacion of man, and the goodnes that God hathe done vnto him. 20 Of almes, 26 And repentance.

Gen. 1, 27 & 5, 1 wisd. 2, 23 & 9, 6 1. cor. 11, 7 col. 3, 10 1 THe* Lord hathe created man of the earth, and turned him vnto it againe.
2 He gaue him the nomber of dayes & certeine times, and gaue him power of the things, that are vpon earth.
3 He clothed them with strength, as they had nede, and made them according to his image.
4 He made all flesh to feare him, so that he had the dominion ouer the beasts, and foules.
Gen. 2, 22 5 [*He created out of him an helper like vnto him self,] and gaue them discrecion and tongue, and eyes, eares, and an heart to vnderstand, and sixtly he gaue them a spirit, and seuently he gaue them speache to declare his workes.
6 And he filled them with knowledge of vnderstanding, and shewed them good and euil.
7 He set his eye vpon their hearts, declaring vnto them his noble workes,
8 And gaue them occasion to reioyce perpetually in his miracles, that they shulde prudently declare his workes, & that the elect shulde praise his holie Name together.
9 Beside this, he gaue them knowledge, & gaue them the Law of life for an heritage, that thei might now knowe that thei were mortal.
10 He made an euerlasting couenant with them, and shewed them his iudgements.
11 Their eyes sawe the maiestie of his glorie, and their eares heard his glorious voyce.
Exod. 20, 21 & 22, 23 12 And he said vnto them, Beware of all vnrighteous things. * He gaue euerie man also a commandement concerning his neighbour.
13 Their wayes are euer before him, and are not hid from his eyes.
14 Euerie man from his youth is giuen to euil, and their stonie hearts can not become flesh.
15 He appointed a ruler vpon euerie people, when he deuided the nacions of the whole earth.
Deut. 4, 20 & 10, 15 16 *And he did chuse Israel, as a peculiar people to him self, whome he nourisheth with discipline as his first borne, and giueth him moste louing light, and doeth not forsake him.
17 All their workes are as the sunne before him, and his eyes are continually vpon their wayes.
18 None of their vnrighteousnes is hid from him, but all their sinnes are before the Lord.
19 And as he is merciful, and knoweth his worke, he doeth not leaue them nor forsake forsake them, but spareth them.

Chap.29,10 20 * The almes of a man, is as a thing sealed vp before him, and he kepeth the good dedes of man as the apple of the eye, and giueth repentance to their sonnes, and daughters.
Mat.25,35 21 *At the last shal he arise, & rewarde them, and shal repay their rewarde vpon their heads.
Act 3,19 22 * But vnto them that wil repent, he giueth them grace to returne, and exhorteth suche as faile, with pacience, [and sendeth them the porcion of the veritie.]
Ier.3,12 23 * Returne then vnto the Lord, & forsake thy sinnes make thy prayer before his face and take away the offence.
24 Turne againe vnto the most High: for he wil bring thee from darkenes to wholsome light: forsake thine vnrighteousnes, and hate greatly all abomination.
25 [Knowe the righteousnes & iudgements of God: stand in the porcion that is set forthe for thee, and in the prayer of the most high God, & go in ỹ partes of the holie worlde with suche as be liuing and confesse God.]
Psal.6,6 Isa.38,19 26 * Who can praise the moste High in in the hell, as do all they that liue and confesse him?
27 [Abide not thou in the errour of the vngodlie, but praise the Lord before death]
28 Thankefulnes perisheth from the dead, as though he were not: but the liuing, and he that is founde of heart, praiseth the Lord, [and reioyceth in his mercie.]
29 How great his the louing kindenes of the Lord our God, and his compassiō vnto suche as turne vnto him in holines!
30 For all things can not be in men, because the sonne of man is not immortal, [and they take pleasure in the vanitie of wickednes.]
31 What is more cleare then the sunne? yet shal it faile.
32 So flesh and blood that thinketh euil, [shalbe reproued.]
33 He seeth the power of the high heauen, and all men are but earth & ashes.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 The maruelous workes of God. 6. 7 The miserie & wretchednes of man 9 Against God ought we not to complaine. 21 The performing of Vowes.

Gen.1,1 1 He that liueth for euer, * made all things together: the Lord who onelie is iust, and there is none other but he, [& he remaineth a victorious King for euer.]
2 He ordereth the worlde with the power of his hand, and all things obey his wil: for he gouerneth all things by his power, and deuideth the holie things from the prophane.
3 To whome hathe he giuen power to expresse his workes? who wil seke out the grounde of his noble actes?
4 Who shal declare the power of his greatnes? or who wil take vpon him to tell out his mercie?
5 As for the wonderous workes of the Lord, there may nothing be taken from them, nether can anie thing be put vnto them, nether may the grounde of them be founde out.
6 But when a man hathe done his best, he must b ginne againe, and when he thinketh to come to an end, he must go againe to his labour.
7 ¶ What is man? whereto serueth he? what good or euil can he do?
Psal.19,10 8 * If the nomber of a mans daies be an hundreth yere, it is muche: and no man hathe certeine knowledge of his death.
9 As droppes of raine are vnto the sea, and as a grauel stone is in comparison of the sand, so are a thousand yeres to the dayes euerlasting.
10 Therefore is [God] pacient with them, and powreth out his mercie vpon them.
11 He sawe & perceiued, that [the arrogancie of their heart, and their ruine was euil: therefore heaped he vp his mercie vpon them, and shewed them the way of righteousnes.]
12 The mercie that a man hathe, reacheth to his neighbour: but the mercie of the Lord is vpon all flesh: he chastneth, and nurtureth, and teacheth, and bringeth backe, as a shepherd his flocke.
13 He hathe mercie of them that receiue discipline, and that diligently seke after his iudgements.
14 ¶ My sonne, when thou doest good, reproue not: and what soeuer thou giuest, vse no discomfortable wordes.
15 Shal not the dewe aswage the heat? so is a worde better then a gift.
16 Lo, is not a worde better then a good gift? but a gracious man giueth them bothe.
17 A foole wil reproche churlishly, and a gift of the enuious putteth out the eyes.
18 [Get thee righteousnes before thou come to iudgement:] learne before thou speake, and vse physike or euer thou be sicke.
1.Cor.11,28 19 * Examine thy self, before thou be iudged, & in the day of the visitacion thou shalt finde mercie.
20 Humble thy self before thou be sicke, and while thou maiest yet sinne, shewe thy conuersion.

21 Let nothing let thee to pay thy vowe in time, and differre not vnto death to be reformed: [for the rewarde of God endureth for euer.]

22 Before thou praiest, prepare thy self, and be not as one that tempteth the Lord.

Chap. 7, 18

23 Thinke vpon the * wrath, that shalbe at the end, and the houre of vengeance, when he shal turne away his face.

Chap. 11, 17

24 *When thou hast ynough, remember the time of hunger: and when thou art riche, thinke vpon pouertie and nede.

25 From the morning vntil the euening the time is changed, and all suche things are sone done before the Lord.

26 A wise man feareth in all things, and in the daies of transgression he kepeth him self from sinne: but the foole doeth not obserue the time.

27 ¶ Euerie wise man knoweth wisdome, and knowledge, and praiseth him that findeth her.

28 They that haue vnderstanding, deale wisely in wordes: [they vnderstand the trueth and righteousnes,] and power out with modestie graue sentences for mans life.

29 The chief autoritie of speaking is of the Lord alone: for a mortal man hathe but a dead heart.

Rom. 6, 6 & 8, 14

30 ¶ *Follow not thy lustes, but turne thee from thine owne appetites.

31 For if thou giuest thy soule her desires, it shal make thine enemies that enuie thee, to laugh thee to scorne.

32 Take not thy pleasure in great voluptuousnes, and intangle not thy self with suche companie.

33 Become not a begger by making bankets of that that thou hast borowed, & so leaue nothing in thy purse: els thou shuldest slanderously lie in waite for thine owne life.

CHAP. XIX.

2 Wine & whoredome bring men to pouertie. 6 In thy wordes vse discretion. 22 The difference of the wisdome of God and man. 27 Whereby thou maist knowe what is in man.

1 A Laboring man that is giuen to drunkennes, shal not be riche: and he that contemneth smale things, shal fall by litle and litle.

Gen. 19, 33 1. king. 11, 1

2 * Wine and women leade wise men out of the way, [and put men of vnderstanding to reprofe.]

3 And he that companieth adulterers, shal become impudent: rotennes and wormes shal haue him to heritage, and he that his to bolde, shalbe taken away, and be made a publicke example.

Iosu. 22, 18

4 * He that is hastie to giue credit, is light minded, and he that erreth, sinneth against his owne soule.

5 Whoso reioyceth in wickednes, shal be punished: [he that hateth to be reformed, his life shalbe shortened, and he that abhorreth babling of wordes, quencheth wickednes:] but he that resisteth pleasures, crowneth his owne soule.

6 He that refraineth his tongue, may liue with a troublesome man, and he that hateth babling, shal haue lesse euil.

7 Rehearse not to an other, that which is tolde vnto thee. so thou shalt not be hindred.

8 Declare not other mens maners, nether to friend nor foe: and if the sinne apperteine not vnto thee, reueile it not.

9 For he wil hearken vnto thee, and marke thee, and when he findeth opportunitie, he wil hate thee.

Chap. 22, 18. & 27, 17

10 *If thou hast heard a worde [against thy neighbour,] let it dye with thee, & be sure, it wil not burst thee.

11 A foole trauaileth when he hathe heard a thing, as a woman that is about to bring forthe a childe.

12 As an arrowe that sticketh in ones thigh, so is a worde in a fooles heart.

Leui. 19, 17 mat. 18, 15

13 *Reproue a friend lest he do euil, & if he haue done it, that he do it no more.

14 Reproue a friend that he may kepe his tongue: and if he haue spoken, that he say it no more.

15 Tell thy friend his faute: for oft times a sclander is raised, and giue no credence to euerie worde.

Iam. 3. 2

16 A man falleth with his tongue, but not with his wil: * and who is he, that hathe not offended in his tongue?

17 Reproue thy neighbour before thou threaten him, and being without anger, giue place vnto the Law of the moste High.

18 The feare of the Lord is the first degre to be receiued of him, and wisdome obteineth his loue.

19 The knowledge of the commandements of the Lord is the doctrine of life, and they that obey him, shal receiue the frute of immortalitie.

20 The feare of the Lord is all wisdome, and the performing of the Law is perfite wisdome, & the knowledge of his almightie power.

21 If a seruant say vnto his master, I wil not do as it pleaseth thee, thogh afterward he do it, he shal displease him y nourisheth him.

22 The

22 The knowledge of wickednes is not wisdome, nether is there prudencie where as the counsel of sinners is: but it is euen excecrable malice: and the foole is voide of wisdome.

23 He that hathe smale vnderstanding, and feareth God, is better then one that hathe muche wisdome, & transgresseth the Law of the moste High.

24 There is a certeine subtilitie that is fine, but it is vnrighteous: & there is ý wrasteth the open and manifest Law: yet there is that is wise and iudgeth righteously.

25 There is some that being about wicked purposes, do bowe downe them selues, and are sad, whose inward partes burne altogether with deceit he loketh downe with his face, and faineth him self deafe: yet before thou perceiue, he wil be vpon thee to hurt thee.

26 And thogh he be so weake that he can do thee no harme, yet when he may finde opportunitie, he wil do euil.

27 ¶ A man may be knowen by his loke, and one that hathe vnderstanding, may be perceiued by the marking of his countenance.

Chap. 21. 23 28 * A mans garment, and his excessiue laughter, and going declare what persone he is CHAP. XX.

1 Of correction & repentance. 6 To speake & kepe silence in time. 17 The fall of the wicked. 23 Of lying. 24 The thief & the murtherer. 28 Giftes blinde the eyes of the wise.

1 THere is some rebuke that is not comelie: againe, some man holdeth his tongue, and he is wise.

2 It is muche better to reproue, then to beare euil wil: and he that acknowledgeth his faute, shalbe preserued from hurt.

Chap. 30. 22 3 As * when a gelded man thorowe lust wolde defile a maide, so is he that vseth violence in iudgement.

4 How good a thing is it, when thou art reproued, to shewe repentance? for so shalt thou escape wilful sinne.

5 Some man kepeth silence, and is founde wise, and some by muche babling becometh hateful.

6 Some man holdeth his tongue, because he hathe not to answere: and some kepeth silence, waiting a cõuenient time.

Chap. 32. 6 7 * A wise man wil holde his tongue til he se opportunitie: but a trifler & a foole wil regarde no time.

8 He that vseth manie wordes, shal be abhorred, and he that taketh autoritie to him self, shalbe hated.

9 Some man hathe oft times prosperitie in wicked things, and some time a thing that is founde, bringeth losse.

10 There is some gift that is not profitable for thee, and there is some gift, whose rewarde is double.

11 Some man humbleth him self for glories sake, and some by humblenes lifteth vp the head.

12 Some man byeth muche for a litle price: for the which he payeth seuen times more.

Chap. 65. 13 * A wise man with his wordes maketh him self to be loued, but the mery tales of fooles shal be powred out.

14 The gift receiued of a foole, shal do thee no good, nether yet of ý enuious for his importunitie: for he loketh to receiue manie things for one: he giueth litle, & he vpbraideth muche: he openeth his mouthe like a toune crier: to day he lendeth, to morowe asketh he againe, and suche one is to be hated of God and man.

15 The foole saith, I haue no friend: I haue no thanke for all my good dedes: and they that eat my bread, speake euil of me.

16 How oft, and of how manie shal he be laughed to scorne? for he comprehendeth not by right iudgement that which he hath: & it is all one as thogh he had it not.

17 The fall on a pauement is verie sudden: so shal the fall of the wicked come hastely.

18 A man without grace is as a fooliſh tale which is oft tolde by the mouthe of the ignorant.

19 A wise sentence loseth grace when it cometh out of a fooles mouthe: for he speaketh not in due season.

20 Some man sinneth not because of pouertie, and yet is not grieued when he is alone.

21 Some man there is that destroyeth his owne soule, because he is ashamed, and for the regarde of persones loseth it.

22 Some man promiseth vnto his friend for shame, and getteth an enemie of him for naught.

Chap. 25. 4 23 * A lie is a wicked shame in a man: yet is it oft in the mouth of the vnwise.

24 A thief is better, then a man that is accustomed to lie: but they bothe shal haue destruction to heritage.

25 The condicions of liers are vnhoneſt, and their shame is euer with them.

26 A wise man shal bring him self to honor with his wordes, and he that hathe vnderstanding, shal please great men.

Prou. 12. 11 & 28. 19 27 * He that tilleth his land, shal increase his heape: [he that worketh righteousnes, shalbe exalted,] and he that pleaseth great men, shal haue pardon of his iniquitie.

Exod. 23.8 Deut. 16.19
28 * Rewardes and giftes blinde the eyes of the wise, and make them dome, that they can not reproue fautes.
29 Wisdome that is hid, & treasure that is horded vp, what profite is in them bothe?
30 Better is he that kepeth his ignorance secret, then a man that hideth his wisdome.
31 The necessarie pacience of him, that followeth the Lord, is better then he that gouerneth his life without the Lord.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Not to continue in sinne. 5 The prayer of the afflicted. 6 To hate to be reproued. 17 The mouthe of the wise man. 26 The thoght of the foole.

1 MY sonne, hast thou sinned? do so no more, * but pray for the fore sinnes [that they may be forgiue thee.]
Chap. 5.9 Psal. 41.5 Luk. 15.21
2 Flee from sinne, as from a serpent: for if thou comest to nere it, it wil bite thee: the teeth thereof are as the teeth of a lyon, to slaye the soules of men.
3 All iniquitie is as a two edged sworde, the woundes whereof can not be healed.
4 Strife & iniuries waste riches: so the house of the proude shalbe desolate.
Exod. 3.9, and 22.23.
5 * The prayer of the poore going out of the mouth, cometh vnto the eares of the Lord, and iustice is done him incontinently.
6 Who so hateth to be reformed, is in the way of sinners: but he that feareth the Lord, conuerteth in heart.
7 An eloquent talker is knowen a farre of: but he that is wise, perceiueth when he falleth.
8 Who so buyldeth his house with other mens money, is like one that gathereth stones to make his graue.
Chap. 16.7
9 * The congregacion of the wicked is like towe wrapped together: their end is a flame of fyre to destroye them.
10 The waye of sinners is made plaine with stones, but at the end thereof is hel, [darkenes and paines.]
11 He that kepeth the Law of the Lord, * ruleth his owne affections thereby: & the increase of wisdome is the end of the feare of God:
* Or, kepeth the vnderstanding thereof.
12 He that is not wise, wil not suffer him self to be taught: but there is some wit that increaseth bitternes.
13 The knowledge of the wise shal abounde like water that runneth ouer, and his counsel is like a pure fountaine of life.
Chap. 33.1
14 * The inner partes of a foole are like a broken vessel: he can kepe no knowledge whiles he liueth.
15 When a man of vnderstanding heareth a wise worde, he wil commend it, and increase it: but if an ignorant man heare it, he wil disalowe it, and cast it behinde his backe.
16 The talking of a foole is like a burden in the way, but there is comelines in the talke of a wise man.
17 The inquire at the mouthe of the wise man in the congregacion, & they shal ponder his wordes in their heart.
18 As is an house that is destroyed, so is wisdome vnto a foole, and the knowledge of the vnwise is as wordes without order.
19 Doctrine vnto fooles is as fetters on the fete, and like manicles vpon the right hand.
20 * A foole lifteth vp his voyce with laughter, but a wise man doeth scarse smile secretely. Chap. 19.27
21 Learning is vnto a wise man a iewel of golde, and like a bracelet vpon his right arme.
22 A foolish mans fote is sone in [his neighbours] house: but a man of experience is ashamed to loke in.
23 A foole wil pepe in at the dore into the house: but he that is wel nurtered, wil stand without.
24 It is the point of a foolish man to hearken at the dore: for he that is wise, wil be grieued with suche dishonour.
25 The lippes of talkers wilbe telling suche things as perteine not vnto the, but the wordes of suche as haue vnderstanding, are weighed in the balance.
26 The heart of fooles is in their mouth but ỹ mouth of the wise is in their heart.
27 When the vngodlie curseth Satan, he curseth his owne soule.
28 * A backebiter defileth his owne soule, & is hated where soeuer he is: [but he that kepeth his tongue, and is discrete, shal come to honour.] Chap. 28.19

CHAP XXII.

1 Of the sluggard. 12 Not to speake muche to a foole. 16 A good conscience feareth not.

1 A Slothful man is like a filthie stone, which euerie man mocketh at for his shame.
2 A slothful man is to be compared to the dongue of oxen, & euerie one that taketh it vp, wil shake it out of his hand.
3 An euil nurtered sonne is the dishonour of the father: & the daughter is least to be estemed.

4 A wise

4 A wife daughter is an heritage vnto her housband: but she that liueth dishonestly, is her fathers heauines.
5 She that is bolde, dishonoreth bothe her father and her housband, [and is not inferior to the vngodlie,] but they bothe shal dispise her.
6 A tale of out time is as musike in mourning: but wisdome knoweth the seasons of correction and doctrine.
7 Who so teacheth a foole, is as one that gleweth a potsherde together, & as he that waketh one that slepeth, from a sounde slepe.
8 If children liue honestly, & haue wherewith, they shal put away the shame of their parents.
9 But if children be proude, with hautines and foolishnes they defile the nobilitie of their kinred.
10 Who so telleth a foole of wisdome, is as a man, which speaketh to one that is a slepe: when he hathe tolde his tale, he saith, What is the matter?
Chap. 38. 16 11 *Wepe for the dead, for he hathe lost the light: so wepe for the foole, for he wanteth vnderstanding: make smale weping for the dead, for he is at rest: but the life of the foole is worse then the death.
12 Seuen dayes do men mourne for him that is dead: but the lamentacion for the foole, & vngodlie [shulde endure] all the dayes of their life.
13 Talke not mucne with a foole, & go not to him that hathe no vnderstanding: * beware of him, lest it turne thee to paine, and lest thou be defiled when he shaketh him self. Departe from him & thou shalt finde rest, and shalt not receiue soroxe by his foolishnes, Chap. 12. 12 14 What is heauier then lead? and what other name shulde a foole haue?
Prou. 27. 3 15 *Sand and salt, and a lumpe of yron, is easier to beare, then an vnwise, [foolish and vngodlie man.]
16 As a frame of wood ioyned together in a buylding can not be losed with shaking, so the heart that is stablished by aduised counsel, shal feare at no time.
17 The heart that is confirmed by discrete wisdome, is as a faire plaistering on a plaine wall.
18 As reedes that are set vp on hie, can not abide the winde, so the feareful heart with foolish imaginacion can indure no feare.
19 He that hurteth the eye, bringeth forthe teares, & he that hurteth the heart, bringeth forthe the affection.
20 Who so casteth a stone at the birdes fraieth them away: & he that vpbraideth his friend, breaketh friendship.
21 Thogh thou dreweste a sworde at thy friend, yet dispaire not: for there may be a returning to fauour.
22 If thou haue opened thy mouth against thy friend, feare not: for there may be a reconciliation, so that vpbraiding or pride or disclosing of secrets or a traiterous wounde do not let: for by these things euerie friend wil departe.
23 Be faithful vnto thy friend in his pouertie, that thou maist reioyce in his prosperitie. Abide stedfast vnto him in the time of his trouble, that thou maist be heire with him in his heritage: for pouertie is not alwayes to be contemned, nor the riche that is foolish, to be had in admiration.
24 As the vapour, & smoke of the chimnay goeth before the fyre, so euil wordes, [rebukes & threatenings] go before bloodsheding.
25 I wil not be ashamed to defende a friend: nether wil I hide my self from him, thogh he shulde do me harme: whosoeuer heareth it shal beware of him.
26 Who shal set a watch before my mouth, and a seale of wisdome vpon my lippes, that I fall not suddenly by them, and that my tongue destroye me not?

CHAP. XXIII.

1 A prayer of the autor. 13 Of othes, blasphemie, and vnwise communication. 16 Of thre kindes of sinnes. 23 Manie sinnes procede of adulterie. 27 Of the feare of God.

1 O Lord, father & gouernour of all my whole life, leaue me not to their counsel, and let me not fall by ‖ them.
‖ Or, my lippes
2 Who wil correct my thoght, and put the doctrine of wisdome in mine heart, that they may not spare me in mine ignorance, nether let ‖ their fautes passe?
‖ That is of the tongue and lippes.
3 Lest mine ignorances increase, and my sinnes abounde to my destruction, and lest I fall before mine aduersarie, and mine enemies reioyce ouer me, whose hope is farre from thy mercie.
4 O Lord, father & God of my life, [leaue me not in their imaginacion] nether giue me a proude looke, but turne away from thy seruante a stoute minde.
5 Take from me vaine hope, and concupiscence, and reteine him in obedience, that desireth continually to serue thee.
6 Let not the griedines of the bellie, nor lust of the flesh holde me, and giue not me thy seruant ouer into an impudent minde.

7 ¶ Heare, ô ye children, ỹ instructiõ of a mouth that shal speake trueth: who so kepeth it, shal not perishe thorow his lippes, [nor be hurte by wicked workes.]

8 The sinner shalbe taken by his owne lippes: for ỹ euil speaker and the proude do offende by them.

Exod. 20. 7 Chap 27. 15 Mat. 5 33

9 * Accustome not thy mouth to swearing: [for in it there are many falles,] nether take vp for a custome ỹ namig: of the Holy one: [for thou shalt not be vnpunished for suche things.]

10 For as a seruant which is oft punished, can not be without some skarre, so he that sweareth and nameth God continually, shal not be fautles.

11 A man that vseth muche swearing, shalbe filled with wickednes, and the plague shal neuer go from his house: when he shal offend, his faute shalbe vpon him, and if he knowledge not his sinne, he maketh a double offence: and if he sweare in vaine, he shal not be innocent, but his house shalbe ful of plagues.

12 There is a worde which is clothed w death: God grante that it be not founde in the heritage of Iacob: but they that feare God, eschewe all suche, & are not wrapped in sinne.

 Or, inordinat swearing.*

13 Vse not thy mouth to * ignorant rashnes: for therein is the occasion of sinne.

14 ¶ Remember thy father and thy mother when thou art set among great men, lest thou be forgotten in their sight, and so through thy custome become a foole, and with that thou hadest not bene borne, and curse the day of thy natiuitie.

2. Sam. 16. 7

15 * The man that is accustomed to opprobrious wordes, wil neuer be reformed all the daies of his life.

16 There are two sortes [of men] that abounde in sinne, and the third bringeth wrath [and destruction:] a minde hote as fyre, that can not be quenched til it be consumed: an adulterous man that giueth his bodie no rest, til he haue kindled a fyre.

17 (All bread is swete to a whoremonger: he wil not leaue of til he perish.)

18 A man that breaketh wedlocke, and thinketh thus in his heart, * Who seeth me? I am copassed about with darkenes: the walles couer me: no bodie seeth me: whome nede I to feare? the moste High wil not remember my sinnes.

Isa. 29. 15

19 Suche a man onely feareth the eyes of men, & knoweth not that the eyes of the Lord are ten thousand times brighter then the sunne, beholding all ỹ the waies of men, [& ỹ ground of the deepe,] and considereth the moste secret partes.

20 He knewe all things or euer they were made, and after they be broght to passe also he loketh vpon them all.

21 * Thesame man shalbe punished in the streates of ỹ citie, [& shalbe chased like a yong horsefoale,] and when he thinketh not vpon it, he shalbe taken: [thus shal he be put to shame of euerie man, because he wolde not vnderstand the feare of the Lord.]

Leuit. 20. 10 Deut. 22. 22

22 And thus shal it go also with euerie wife, that leaueth her housband, and getteth inheritance by another.

23 * For first she hathe disobeid ỹ Law of the moste High, and secondly, she hathe trespaced against her owne housband, & thirdly, she hathe plaide the whore in adulterie, & gotten her children by another man.

Exod. 20. 14

24 She shalbe broght out into the congregacion, & examinacion shalbe made of her children.

25 Her children shal not take roote, and her branches shal bring forthe no frute.

26 A shameful reporte shal she leaue, & her reproche shal not be put out.

27 And they that remaine, shal knowe that there is nothing better then the feare of the Lord, and that there is nothing sweter then to take hede vnto ỹ commandements of the Lord.

28 It is great glorie to followe ỹ Lord, and to be receiued of him is long life.

CHAP. XXIIII.

1 A praise of wisdome proceding forthe of the mouth of God. 6 Of her workes and place where she resteth. 20 She is giuen to the children of God.

1 WIsdome shal praise her self, [& be honored in God,] and reioyce in the middes of her people:

2 In the congregacion of ỹ moste High shal she open her mouth, and triumph before his power.

3 [In the middes of her people shal she be exalted, and wondred at in the holy assemblie.

4 In the multitude of the chosen she shalbe commended, and among suche as be blessed, she shalbe praised, and shal say,]

5 I am come out of the mouth of the moste High, [first borne before all creatures.

6 I caused the light that faileth not, to arise in the heauen,] and couered the earth as a cloude.

7 My dwelling is aboue in the height, & my throne is in ỹ piller of the cloude.

8 I alone haue gone round about the compasse

compasse of heauen and haue walked in the botom of the depth.

9 I possessed the waues of the sea, & all the earth, and all people, and nacions [and with my power haue I troden downe the hearts of all, bothe High and low]

10 In all these things I soght rest, & a dwelling in some inheritance.

11 So the creator of all things gaue me a commandement, and he that made me, appointed me a tabernacle, and said, Let thy dwelling be in Iacob, and take thine inheritance in Israel, and roote thy selfe among my chosen.

Prou. 8. 23. 12 * He created me from the beginning, & before the worlde, & I shal neuer

Exod 31. 3 faile: * In the holie habitacion haue I serued before him, and so was I stablished in Sion.

Psal. 132. 8 13 * In the welbeloued citie gaue he me rest, and in Ierusalem was my power.

14 I toke roote in an honorable people, euen in the portion of the Lords inheritance.

15 I am set vp on hie like a ceder in Libanus, and as a cipers tre vpon the mountaines of Hermon.

* Or, in Cades 16 I am exalted like a palme tre * about the banke, and as a rose plante in Iericho, as a faire oliue tre in a pleasant feld, and am exalted as a plane tre by the water.

17 I smelled as the cinnamō, & as a bagge of spices: I gaue a swete odour as ỹ best myrrhe, as galbanum, and onyx, and swete storax, & perfume of incense in an house.

18 As the terebinth, haue I stretched out my branches and my branches are the branches of honour and grace.

Iohn. 15. 1 19 * As the vine haue I brogt forthe [frute] of swete sauour, and my floures are the frute of honour and riches.

20 I am the mother of beautiful loue, and of feare, and of knowledge, and of holy hope: I giue eternal things to all my children to whome God hathe cōmanded

21 [In me is all grace of life and trueth: in me is all hope of life and vertue.]

22 Come vnto me all ye that be desirous of me, and fill your selues with my frutes.

Psal. 19. 12 23 * For ỹ remembrance of me is swete then honie, and mine enheritance [sweter] then the honie combe: [the remembrance of me endureth for euer more] 24 They that eat me, shal haue the more hunger, and they that drinke me, shal thirst the more.

25 Who so heareth vnto me, shal not come to confusion, & they that worke by me, shal not offende: [they that make me to be knowen, shal haue euerlasting life.]

26 All these things are the boke [of life,] & the couenant of the moste high God, [& the knowledge the trueth,] * & the Law that Moses [in the precepts of righteousnes] commanded for an heritage vnto the house of Iacob, [and the promises perteining vnto Israel.] Exod. 20. 1 & 24 3 Deut. 4. 1 & 29. 9

27 Be not weary to behaue your selues valiantly with the Lord, that he may also confirme you: cleaue vnto him: for the Lord almightie is but one God, & besides him there is none other Sauiour

28 [Out of Dauid his seruant he ordeined to raise vp a moste mightie King that shulde sit in the throne of honour for euer more.]

29 He filleth all things with his wisdome, as * Phison & as Tygris, in the time of the newe frutes: Genes. 2. 12

30 He maketh the vnderstanding to abounde like * Euphrates, & as Iorden Ios. 3. 13 in the time of the harueste.

31 He maketh the doctrine of knowledge to appeare as the light, and ouerfloweth as Geon in the time of the vintage.

32 The first mā hathe not knowen her perfitely: no more shal the last seke her out.

33 For her considerations are more abūdant then the sea, and her counsel is profounder then the great deepe.

34 I wisdome [haue cast out floods:] I am as an arme of the riuer: I runne into Paradise as a watercondite.

35 I said, I wil water my faire garden, & wil water my pleasant grounde: and lo my ditche became a flood, and my flood became a sea.

36 For I make doctrine to shine as the light of the morning, and I lighten it for euer.

37 [I wil pearce thorow all the lower partes of the earth: I wil loke vpon all suche as be a slepe, & lighten all thē that trust in the Lord.]

38 I wil yet powre out doctrine, as prophecie, and leaue it vnto all ages for euer.

39 * Beholde that I haue not labored for my self onely, but for all them that seke wisdome. Chap 33. 18

CHAP XXV.

1 Of three things which please God, and of three which he hateth. 7 Of nine things that be not to be suspect. 15 Of the malice of a woman.

1 THre things reioyce me, & by thē am I beautified before God and men: * the vnite of brethren, ỹ loue of neighbours, a man & wife that agre together. Genes 13. 8 Rom. 12. 10

2 ¶ Thre sortes of men my soule hateth & I vtterly abhorre the life of them: a poore man that is proude: a riche man that is a lier, and an olde adulterer that doteth.
3 ¶ If thou hast gathered nothing in thy youth, what canst ỹ finde in thine age?
4 ¶ Oh, how pleasant a thing is it when graie headed men minister iudgement, & when the elders can giue good counsel?
5 Oh, how comelie a thing is wisdome vnto aged men, and vnderstanding & prudencie to men of honour.
6 The crowne of olde men is to haue muche experience, and the feare of God is their glorie.
7 ¶ There be nine things, which I haue iudged in mine heart to be happie, and the tenth wil I pronouce with my tongue: a man that while he liueth, hathe ioye of his children, and seeth the fall of his enemies.
8 ¶ Wel is him that dwelleth with a wife of vnderstanding, * and that hathe not fallen with his togue, and that hathe not serued suche as are vnworthie of him.
9 Wel is him that findeth prudencie, & he that can speake in the eares of them that wil heare.
10 ¶ Oh, how great is he that findeth, wisdome? yet is there none aboue him that feareth the Lord.
11 The feare of ỹ Lord passeth all things in clerenes.
12 [Blessed is the man, vnto whome it is granted to haue the feare of God.] Vnto whome shal he be likened that hathe atteined it?
13 The feare of the Lord is the beginning of his loue, & faith is the beginning to be ioyned vnto him.
14 [¶ The greatest heauines is the heauines of the heart, and the greatest malice is the malice of a woman.]
15 Giue me any plague, saue onely the plague of the heart, and any malice, saue the malice of a woman:
16 Or any assalt, saue the assalt of them that hate, or any vengeance, saue the vengeance of the enemie.
17 There is not a more wicked head thē the head of the serpent, and there is no wrath aboue the wrath of an [b] enemie.
18 * I had rather dwell with a lion and dragon, then to kepe house with a wicked wife.
19 The wickednes of a woman changeth her face, and maketh her countenance blacke as [c] a sacke.
20 Her husband is sitting among his neighbours: because of her: he sigheth sore or he beware.
21 All wickednes is but litle to the wickednes of a woman: let the porcion of the sinner fall vpon her.
22 As the climing vp of a sandie way is to the fete of the aged, so is a wife ful of wordes to a quiet man.
23 * Stumble not at the beautie of a woman, and desire her not for thy pleasure.
24 If a woman nourish her husband, she is angrie and impudent and ful of reproche.
25 A wicked wife maketh a sorie heart, an heauie countenance, and a wounded minde, weake hands and feble knees, and can not comfort her husband in heauines.
26 Of the * woman came the beginning of sinne, and thorow her we all dye.
27 Giue the water no passage, [no not a litle,] nether giue a wicked woman libertie to go out.
28 If she walke not in thine obedience, [she shal confound thee sight of thine enemies.] Cut her of then from thy flesh: [a] Giue her, and forsake her.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 The praise of a good woman. 5 Of the feare of thre things, and of the fourth. 6 Of the ielous and drunken woman. 29 Of two things that cause sorow, and of the thirde which moueth wrath.

1 BLessed is the man that hathe a verteous wife: for the nomber of his yeres shalbe double.
2 An honest woman reioyceth her husband, and she shal fill the yeres of his life with peace.
3 A verteous woman is a good porcion which shalbe giuen for a gift vnto suche as feare the Lord.
4 Whether a man be riche or poore, he hathe a good heart toward the Lord, & they shal at all times haue a chereful countenance.
5 ¶ There be thre things that mine heart feareth, & my face is afraied of the fourth: treason in a citie: the assemble of the people, and false accusation: all these are heauier then death.
6 ¶ But the sorow and grief of the heart is a woman that is ielous ouer another: and she that communeth with all, is a scourge of the tongue.
7 An euil wife is a yoke of oxen that drawe diuerse waies: he that hathe her is as though he helde a scorpion.
8 A drunken woman and suche as can not be tamed, is a great plague: for she can not couer her owne shame.
9 The whordome of a woman may be knowen in the pridie of her eyes, and eye liddes.
10 ¶ * If thy daughter be not shame-fast, holde

Chap. 42. 11

faſt, holde her ſtraitly, leſt ſhe abuſe her ſelf thorowe ouer muche libertie.
11 Take hede of her that hathe an vnſhamefaſt eye: and merueile not if ſhe treſpace againſt thee.
12 As one that goeth by the way, and is thirſtie, ſo ſhal ſhe open her mouth, and drinke of euerie next water: by euerie hedge ſhal ſhe ſitte downe, and open her quiuer againſt euerie arowe.
13 The grace of a wife reioyceth her houſband, & fedeth his bones with her vnderſtanding.
14 A peaceable woman and of a good heart is a gift of the Lord, and there is nothing ſo muche worthe as a woman wel inſtructed.
15 A ſhamefaſt and faithful woman is a double grace, and there is no weight to be compared vnto her continent minde.
16 As the ſunne when it ariſeth in the high places of the Lord, ſo is the beautie of a good wife the ornament of her houſe.
17 As the clere light is vpon the holie candleſticke, ſo is the beautie of the face in a ripe age.
18 As the golden pillers are vpon the ſockettes of ſiluer: ſo are faire fete with a conſtant minde.
19 [Perpetual are the fundacions that be laide vpon a ſtrong rocke: ſo are the commandemēts of God in the heart of an holie woman.]
20 My ſonne, kepe the ſtrength of thine age ſtable, and giue not thy ſtrēgth to ſtrangers.
21 When thou haſt gotten a fruteful poſſeſſion through all the fields, ſowe it with thine owne ſede, truſting in thy nobilitie.
22 So thy ſtocke ý ſhal liue after thee, ſhal growe: truſting in the great liberalitie of their nobilitie.
23 An harlot is compared to a ſowe: but the wife that is maried, is counted as a towre againſt death to her houſband.
24 A wicked woman is giuen as a reward to a wicked man: but a godlie woman is giuen to him that feareth the Lord.
25 A ſhameles woman contemneth ſhame: but a ſhamefaſt woman wil reuerence her houſband.
26 A ſhameles woman is compared to a dogge: but ſhe that is ſhamefaſt, reuerenceth the Lord.
27 A woman that honoreth her houſband, ſhalbe iudged wiſe of all: but ſhe that deſpiſeth him, ſhalbe blaſed for her pride.
28 A lowde crying woman and a babler let her be ſoght out to driue away the enemies: the minde of euerie man that liueth with ſuche, ſhalbe conuerſant among ý troubles of warre.
29 There be two things that grieue mine heart, and the thirde maketh me angrie: a man of warre that ſuffreth pouertie: and men of vnderſtanding that are not ſet by: and when one departeth from righteouſnes vnto ſinne: the Lord appointeth ſuche to the ſworde.
30 [There be two things, which me thinke to be hard and perilous. [A marchant can not lightly kepe him from wrong, and a vitailer is not without ſinne.

CHAP. XXVII.

3 Of the poore that wolde be riche. 5 The probacion of the man that feareth God. 13 The vnconſtantnes of a foole. 16 The ſecrets of friēds are not to be vttered. 26 The wicked imagineth euil which turneth vpon him ſelf.

1 BEcauſe of pouertie haue manie ſinned: and * he that ſeketh to be riche, turneth his eyes aſide. 1. Tim. 6, 9 Prou. 23, 4
2 As a naile in the wall ſticketh faſt betwene the ioīntes of the ſtones, ſo doeth ſinne ſticke betwene the ſelling & the bying.
3 If he holde him not diligently in the feare of the Lord, his houſe ſhal ſone be ouerthrowen.
4 As when one ſifteth, the filthines remaineth in the ſiue, ſo the filth of man remaineth in his thoght.
5 The fornace proueth the potters veſſel: * ſo doeth [tentacion] trye mens thoghts. Prou. 27, 21
6 The frute declareth if the tre haue bene trimmed: ſo the worde [declareth] what man hathe in his heart.
7 Praiſe no man except thou haue heard his talke: for this is the tryal of men.
8 ¶If thou followeſt righteouſnes, thou ſhalt get her, and put her on as a faire garment, [and ſhalt dwell with her, and ſhe ſhal defend thee for euer and in the daye of knowledge thou ſhalt finde ſtedfaſtnes.]
9 The birdes reſorte vnto their like: ſo doeth the trueth turne vnto them, that are practiſed in her.
10 As the lyon waiteth for the beaſt, ſo doeth ſinne vpon them that do euil.
11 The talking of him ý feareth God, is all wiſdome: as for a foole, he changeth as the moone.
12 If thou be among the vndiſcrete, obſerue the time, but haunte ſtil the aſſemblie of them that are wiſe.
13 The talking of fooles is grieuous, and their ſporte is in ý plaiſer of ſinne.
14 * The talke of him that ſweareth muche, maketh the heere to ſtand vp: Chap. 23, 8 and to striue with suche, stoppeth the eares.

15 The strife of the proude is blood shedding, and their skouldings are grieuous to heare.

16 *Who so discouereth secrets, loseth his credit, and findeth no friend after his wil. Chap. 19. 10 & 22, 24

17 Loue thy friend, & be faithefull vnto him: but if thou bewrayest his secrets, thou shalt not get him againe.

18 For as a man destroyeth his enemie, so doest thou destroye the friendshipp of thy neighbour.

19 As one that letteth a birde go out of his hand, so if thou giue ouer thy frie̅d, thou canst not gette him againe.

20 Followe after him no more, for he is to farre of: he is as a roe escaped out of the snare: [for his soule is wounded.]

21 As for woundes, they may be bounde vp againe, and an euil worde may be reconciled: but whoso bewrayeth the secrets of a friend, hathe lost all his credit.

22 *He that winketh with the eyes, imagineth euil: and he that knoweth him, wil let him alone. Prou. 10, 10

23 When thou art present, he wil speake swetely, and praise thy wordes: but at the last he wil turne his tale, and sclander thy saying.

24 Manie things haue I hated, but nothing so euil as suche one: for the Lord also hateth him.

25 Who so casteth a stone on hie: casteth it vpon his owne head: and he that smiteth with guile, maketh a great wounde.

26 Wo so *diggeth a pit, shal fall therein, [and he that laieth a stone in his neighbours way, shal stomble there o̅,] and he that laieth a snare for another, shalbe taken in it him self. Prou. 26, 27 eccles. 10, 8

27 He that worketh euil, shalbe wrapped in euil, and shal not knowe from whence they come vnto him.

28 Mockerie and reproche followe the proude, and vengeance lurketh for thē as a lyon.

29 They that reioyce at the fall of the righteous, shalbe taken in the snare, & anguish shal consume them before they dye.

30 Dispite and angre are abominable things, and the sinful man is subiect to them bothe.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 We ought not to desire vengeance, but to forgiue the offence. 13 Of the vices of the tongue, and of the dangers thereof.

1 HE *that seketh vengeance, shal finde vengeance of the Lord, and he wil surely kepe his sinnes. Deut. 32, 35 rom. 12, 19

2 ‖Forgiue thy neighbour the hurt that he hathe done to thee, so shal thy sinnes be forgiuen thee also, when thou praiest. ‖ Mā ought not to seke vengeance.

3 Shulde a man beare hatred against man, & *desire forgiuenes of the Lord? Matt. 6, 14

4 He wil shewe no mercie to a man, ẅ is like him self: and wil he aske forgiuenes of his owne sinnes?

5 If he that is but flesh, nourishe hatred, [and aske pardone of God,] who wil intreate for his sinnes?

6 Remembre the end, and let enemitie passe: imagine not death and destructiō to another through angre, but perseuere in the commandements.

7 Remember the commandements: so shalt thou not be rigorous against thy neighbour: [consider diligently] the couenant of the moste High, and forgiue his ignorance.

8 *Beware of strife, and thou shalt make thy sinnes fewer: for an angrie man kindleth strife. Chap. 8, 1

9 And the sinful man disquieteth frieds, and bringeth in false accusations amōg them that be at peace.

10 *As the matter of the fyre is, so it burneth, and mans angre is according to his power: and according to his riches his angre increaseth, and the more vehement the angre is, the more is he inflamed. Prou. 16, 32

11 An hastie brauling kindleth a fyre, & an hastie fighting shedeth blood: [a tongue that beareth false witnes, bringeth death.]

12 If thou blowe the sparke, it shal burne: if thou spit vpon it, it shal be quenched, and bothe these come out of the mouth.

13 ‖*Abhorre the sclanderer and double tongued: for suche haue destroyed many that were at peace. ‖ The tongue Chap. 21, 30

14 The double tongue hathe disquieted manie, and driuen them from nacion to nacion: strong cities hathe it broken downe, and ouerthrowen the houses of great men: [the strength of the people hathe it brought downe, and bene the decaye of mightie nacions.]

15 The double tongue hathe cast out manie vertuous women, and robbed them of their labours.

16 Whoso hearkeneth vnto it, shal neuer finde rest, and neuer dwell quietly.

17 The stroke of the rodde maketh markes in the flesh, but the stroke of the tongue breaketh the bones.

18 There be manie that haue perished by the edge of the sworde, but not so manie as haue fallen by the tongue.

tongue.

19 Wel is him that is kept from an euil tongue, and cometh not in the angre thereof, which hathe not drawen in that yoke, nether hathe bene bounde in the bandes thereof.

20 For the yoke thereof is a yoke of yron, and the bandes of it are bandes of brasse.

21 The death thereof is an euil death: hell were better then suche one.

22 It shal not haue rule ouer them that feare God, nether shal they be burnt with the flame thereof.

23 Suche as forsake the Lord, shal fall therein: and it shal burne them, and no man shalbe able to quenche it: it shal fall vpon them as a lyon, and deuoure them as a leopard.

24 Hedge thy possession with thornes, and make dores and barres for thy mouth.

25 Binde vp thy siluer and golde, and weigh thy wordes in a balance, and make a dore and a barre, [and a sure bridle] for thy mouth.

26 Beware that thou slide not by it, and so fall before him that lieth in waite, [and thy fall be incurable, euen vnto death.]

CHAP. XXIX.

1 Do lend money, and do almes. 15 Of a faithful man answering for his friend. 24 The poore mans life.

‖ Of wel doing.

1 HE that wil shewe mercie, ‖ lendeth to his neighbour: and he that hathe the power ouer him self, kepeth the commandements.

2 Lend to thy neighbour in time of his nede, & pay thou thy neighbour againe in due season,

3 Kepe thy worde and deale faithfully with him, and thou shalt alwaye finde the thing that is necessarie for thee.

4 Manie when a thing was lent them, rekened it to be founde, and grieued them that had helped them.

5 Til they receiue, they kisse his hands, and for their neighbours goode thei humble their voyce: but when they shulde paie againe, they prolong the terme, and giue a careles answer, and make excuses by reason of the time.

6 And thogh he be able, yet giueth he scarse the halfe againe, and rekeneth the other as a thing founde: els he deceiueth him of his money, and maketh him an enemie without a cause: he paieth him with cursing and rebuke, & giueth him euil wordes for his good dede.

7 There be manie which refuse to lend because of this inconuenience, fearing to be defrauded without cause.

8 Yet haue thou pacience with him that humbleth him self, and differre not mercie from him.

9 Helpe the poore for the commandements sake, and turne him not away, be cause of his pouertie.

10 Lese thy money for thy brothers & neighbours sake, and let it not rust vnder a stone to thy destruction.

11 * Bestowe the treasure after the commandement of the moste High, and it shal bring thee more profite then golde. Dan. 4, 24. Luk. 11, 41 act. 10, 4

12 * Lay vp thine almes in thy secret chambers, and it shal kepe thee from all affliction. ‖ Or, giue thine almes secretly.

13 [A mas almes is as a purse with him, & shal kepe a mans fauour as the apple of the eye, and afterwarde shal it arise, and paye euerie man his rewarde vpon his head.]

14 It shal fight for thee against thine enemies, better then the shield of a strong man, or speare of the mightie.

‖ Of suretieshipe.

15 An honest man is ‖ suretie for his neighbour: but he that is impudent, forsaketh him.

16 Forget not the friendshipe of thy suretie: for he hathe laied his life for thee.

17 The wicked despiseth the good dede of his suretie.

18 The wicked wil not become suretie: and he that is of an vnthankeful minde, forsaketh him that deliuered him.

19 [Some man promiseth for his neighbour: and when he hathe lost his honestie, he wil forsake him.]

20 Suretieshippe hathe destroyed manie a riche man, and remoued them as the waues of the sea: mightie men hathe it driuen away from their houses, & caused them to wander among strange nacions.

21 A wicked man, transgressing the commandements of the Lord, shal fall into suretieshippe: and he that medleth muche whith other mens busines, is intangled in controuersies.

22 Helpe thy neighbour according to thy power, and beware that thou thy self fall not.

23 *The chief thing of life is water, and bread, and clothing, and lodging to couer thy shame. Chap. 39, 31

‖ Sober liuing.

24 ‖ The poore mans life in his owne lodge is better then delicate fare in another mans.

25 Be it litle or muche, holde thee cōtented, ỹ ỹ house speake not euil of thee.

26 For it is a miserable life to go from house to house: for where ỹ art a stranger, thou darest not open thy mouth.

27 Thou shalt lodge and fede vnthankeful men, and after shalt haue bitter wordes for the same, saying, 28 Come, thou stranger, and prepare the table, and fede me of that thou hast readie.

29 Giue place, thou stranger, to an honorable man: my brother cometh to be lodged, and I haue nede of mine house.
30 These things are heauie to a man that hathe vnderstanding, the vpbraiding of the house, and the reproche of the lender.

CHAP. XXX.

1 Of the correction of children. 14 Of the cõmoditie of health. 17 Death is better thẽ a sorowful life. 22 Of the ioye and sorow of the heart.

Prou. 13, 24. & 13, 13
1 HE that loueth his sonne,* causeth him oft to fele the rodde, that he ma/ haue ioye of him in the end.
2 He that chastiseth his sonne, shal haue ioy in him, and shal reioyce of him among his acquaintance.
Deut. 6, 7
3 He that* teacheth his sonne, grieueth the enemie, and before his friends he shal reioyce of him.
4 Though his father dye, yet is he as though he were not dead: for he hathe left one behinde him that is like him.
5 In his life he sawe him, and had ioye in him, and was not sorie in his death, [nether was he ashamed before his enemies.]
6 He left behinde him an aduenger against his enemies, and one that shulde shewe fauour vnto his friends.
7 He that flattereth his sonne, bindeth vp his woundes, and his heart is grieued at euerie crye.
8 An vntamed horse wil be stubburne, and a wanton childe wil be wilful.
9 If thou bring vp thy sonne delycately, he shal make thee afraide: and if thou playe with him, he shal bring thee to heauines.
10 Laugh not with him, lest thou be sorie with him, and lest thou gnash thy teeth in the end.
Chap. 7, 25
11 *Giue him no libertie in his youth, & winke not at his folie.
12 Bowe downe his necke while he is yong, and beat him on the sides, while he is a childe, lest he waxe stubburne, and be disobedient vnto thee, and so bring sorow to thine heart.
13 Chastise thy childe, and be diligent therein, lest his shame grieue thee.
The praise of health.
14 ¶ ||Better is the poore, being whole and strong, then a riche man that is afflicted in his bodie.
15 Health and strength is aboue all golde, and a whole bodie aboue infinite treasure.
16 There is no riches aboue a sounde bodie, and no ioye aboue the ioye of the heart.
17 Death is better then a bitter life, [& long rest,] then continual sickenes.
18 The good things that are powred on a mouth shut vp, are as messes of meat set vpon a graue.
19 What good doeth the offring vnto an idole? for he can nether eat, nor smell: so is he that is persecuted of the Lord, [and beareth the rewarde of iniquitie.]
Chap. 20, 8
20 He seeth with his eyes, and groneth like* a gelded man, that lieth with a virgin and sigheth.
Prou. 12, 21 & 15, 13 & 17, 20
21 *Giue not ouer thy minde to heauines, and vexe not thy self in thine owne counsel.
22 The ioye of the heart is the life of man, and a mans gladnes is the prolonging of his daies.
23 Loue thine owne soule, and comforte thine heart: driue sorow farre frõ thee: for sorow hathe slaine many, and there is no profite therein.
24 Enuie and wrath shorten the life, and carefulnes bringeth age before the time.
25 A noble and good heart wil haue cõsideration of his meat and diet.

1 Of couetousnes. 2 Of them that take paine to gather riches. 8 The praise of a riche man without a faute. 12 We ought to flee drunkennes and followe sobernes.

‖Couetousnes
1 WAking ‖after riches pineth away the bodie, and the care thereof driueth away slepe.
2 This waking care breaketh the slepe, as a great sickenes breaketh the slepe.
3 The riche hathe great labour in gathering riches together, and in his rest he is filled with pleasures.
4 The pore laboreth in liuing poorely, and when he leaueth of, he is stil poore.
5 He that loueth golde, shal not be iustified, and he that followeth corruption, shal haue ynough thereof.
Chap. 8, 3
6 *Many are destroied by the reason of golde, and haue founde their destructiõ before them.
7 It is as a stumbling blocke vnto them that sacrifice vnto it, and euerie foole is taken therewith.
Luk. 6, 24
8 Blessed is the* riche which is founde with out blemish, and hathe not gone after golde, [nor hoped in money and treasures.]
9 Who is he, and we wil commẽde him? for wonderful things hathe he done among his people.
10 Who hathe bene tryed thereby, and founde perfite? let him be an example of of glorie, who might offende, and hathe not offended, or do euil, and hathe not done it.

21 Therefore shal his goods be stablisshed, and the congregacion shal declare his almes.
‖Temperaneie. 22 If thou sit at a costlie table, ‖open not thy mouth wide vpon it, and say not, Beholde muche meat.
23 Remember that an euil eye is a shrewe: and what thing created is worse then a wicked eye? for it wepeth for euerie cause.
24 Stretch not thine hand whereseouer it loketh, and thrust it not with it into the dish.
25 Consider by thy self him that is by thee, and marke euerie thing.
26 Eat modestly that which is set before thee, and deuoure not, lest thou be hated.
27 Leaue thou of first for nourtours sake, and be not insaciable, lest thou offend.
28 When thou sittest among many, reache not thine hand out first of all.
Chap. 37, 32 29 *How litle is sufficient for a man wel taught? and thereby he belcheth not in his chamber, [nor feleth any paine.]
30 A wholsome slepe cometh of a temperat bellie: he riseth vp in the morning, and his wel at ease in him self: but paine in watching and cholericke diseases, and pangs of the bellie are with an vnsaciable man.
31 If thou hast bene forced to eat, arise, go forthe, vomit, and then take thy rest: [so thou shalt bring no sickenes vnto thy bodie.]
32 My sonne, heare me, and dispise me not, and at the last thou shalt finde as I haue tolde thee: in all thy workes be quicke, so shal there no sicknes come vnto thee.
Prou. 22, 9 ‖Liberalitie. 33 *Who so is ‖liberal in his meat, men shal blesse him: & the testimonie of his honestie shal be beleued.
34 But against him that is a nigard of his meat, the whole citie shal murmure: the testimonies of his nigardnes shalbe sure.

38 Wine was made [from the beginning] to make men glad, [and not for drunkennes.] Wine mesurably dronken and in time, bringeth gladnes and cherefulnes of the minde.
39 But wine dronken with excesse, maketh bitternes of minde with braulings and skouldings.
40 Drunkennes increaseth the courage of a foole til he offend: it diminisheth his strength & maketh woundes.
41 *Rebuke not thy neighbour at the wine, and dispise him not in his mirth: giue him no dispiteful wordes, & presse not vpon him with contrarie wordes. Chap. 20, 5

2 And when thou hast done all thy duetie, sit downe, that thou maist be merie with them, and receiue a crowne for thy good behauiour.
3 Speake thou that art the elder: for it becometh thee, but with sounde iudgement, and hinder not musicke.
4 Powre not out wordes, where there is no audience, * and shewe not forthe wisdome out of time. Chap. 3, 7, & 20, 7
5 The consent of musicians at a banket is as a signet of carbuncle set in golde.
6 And as the signet of an emeraude wel trimmed with golde, so is the melodie of musicke in a pleasant banket.
7 [Giue eare, and be stil, and for thy good behauiour thou shalt be loued.]
8 Thou that art yong, speake if nede be, and yet scarsely when thou art twise asked.
9 Comprehende muche in fewe wordes: [in manie thigs be as one that is ignorant.] be as one that vnderstandeth, & yet holde thy tongue.
10 If thou be among great men, compare not thy self vnto them: and when an elder speaketh, bable not muche.
Iob. 32, 6 11 Before the *thunder goeth lightning, and before a shamefast man goeth fauour.
12 Stand vp betimes, and be not the last: but get thee home without delay, 13 And there take thy pastime, and do what thou wilt, so that thou do none euil, or vse proude wordes.
14 But aboue all things, giue thankes vnto him that hathe made thee, and replenished thee with his goods.
15 ¶ Who so feareth the Lord, wil receiue his doctrine, and they that rise early, shal finde fauour.
16 He that seketh the Law, shalbe filled therewith: but the hypocrite wil be offended thereat.
17 They that feare the Lord, shal finde that which is righteous, and shal kindle iustice as a light.

28 An vngodlie man wil not be reformed, but findeth out excuses according to his wil.
29 A man of vnderstanding dispiseth not counsel: but a lewde and proude man is not touched with feare, euen when he hathe done rashly.
30 [My sonne,] do nothing without aduisement: so shal it not repent thee after the dede.
31 Go not in the way where thou maist fall, nor where thou maist stomble among the stones, nether trust thou in ỹ way that is plaine,
32 And beware of thine owne children, [and take hede of them that be thine owne housholde.]
33 In euerie good worke be of a faithful heart: for this is the keping of the commandements.
34 Who so beleueth in *the Lord, kepeth the commandements: and he that trusteth in the Lord, shal take no hurt.

CHAP. XXXIII.

1 The deliuerance of him that feareth God. 4 The answere of the wise. 12 Man is in the hand of God, as the clay is in the hand of the potter. 25 Of euil seruants.

1 THere shal no euil come vnto him that ‖ feareth the Lord: but when he is in tentation, he wil deliuer him againe.
2 A wise man hateth not the Law: but he ỹ is an hypocrite therein, is as a shippe in a storme.
3 A man of vnderstãding walketh faithfully in the Law, and the Law is faithful vnto him.
4 As the question is made, prepare the answer, and so shalt thou be heard: be sure of the matter, and so answer.
5 The heart of the * foolish is like a carte whele: and his thoghts ar like a rolling axeltre.
6 As a wilde horse neieth vnder euerie one that sitteth vpon him, so is a scorneful friend.
7 Why doeth one day excell another, seing that the light of the daies of the yere come of the sunne?
8 The knowledge of the Lord hathe parted them a sondre, and he hathe by them dispосed the times and solemne feastes.
9 Some of them hathe he chosen & sanctified, and some of them hathe he put among the daies to nomber.
10 And all men are of the * grounde, and Adam was created out of the earth: but the Lord hathe deuided them by great knowledge, and made their waies diuers.
11 Some of them hathe he blessed and exalted, and some of them hathe he sanctified, and appropriate to him self: but some of them hathe he cursed, and brogh t then lowe, and put them out of their estate.
12 * As the claye is in the potters hand, to order it at his pleasure, so are men also in the hand of their creator, so that he may rewarde them as liketh him best.
13 Against euil is good, and against death is life: so is the godlie against ỹ sinner, and the vngodlie against the faithful.
14 So in all the workes of the most High thou maist se that there are euer two, one against another.
15 I am awaked vp last of all, as one that gathereth after them in the vintage. In the blessing of ỹ Lord I am increased, and haue filled my wine presse, like a grape gatherer.
16 * Beholde, howe I haue not labored onely for my self, but for all them that seke knowledge.
17 Heare me, ô ye great men of the people, and hearken with your eares, ye rulers of the congregacion.
18 Giue not thy sonne and wife, thy brother and friend, power ouer thee while thou liuest, and giue not away thy substance to another, lest it repent thee, and thou intreat for the same againe.
19 As long as thou liuest, and hast breth, giue not thy self ouer to anie persone.
20 For better it is that thy children shulde pray vnto thee, then that thou shuldest loke vp to the hands of thy children.
21 In all thy workes be excellent, that thine honour be neuer stained.
22 At the time when thou shalt end thy dayes, and finish thy life, distribute thine inheritance.
23 ¶ The fodder, the wippe and the burden belong vnto the asse: and meat, correction and worke vnto thy seruant.
24 If thou set thy seruant to labour, thou shal finde rest but if thou let him go idle, he shal seke libertie.
25 The yoke and the whippe bow downe the hard necke: so tame thine euil seruant with the wippes and correction.
26 Send him to labour, that he go not idle: for idlenes bringeth muche euil.

Of dreames. 13 The praise of them that feare God. 18 The offrings of the wicked. 22 The bread of the nedie. 27 God doeth not alowe the workes of an vnfaithful man.

1 ‖Dreames. THe hope of a foolish man is vaine and false, ‖and dreames make foles to haue wings.

2 Who so regardeth dreames, is like him that wil take holde of a shadowe, and followe after the winde.

3 Euen so is it with the appearings of dreames, as the likenes of a face is before another face.

4 Who can be clensed by the vncleane? or what trueth can be spoken of a lier?

5 Soth sayings, witchraft, and dreaming, is but vanitie, and a minde that is occupied with fantasies, is as a woman ỹ trauaileth.

6 Where as suche visions come not of ỹ moste High to trye thee, set not thine heart vpon them.

7 For dreames haue disceiued many, and thei haue failed that put their trust therein.

8 The Law shalbe fulfilled without lies, and wisdome is sufficient to a faithful mouth: [what knowledge hathe he that is not tryed?]

9 A man that is instructed, vnderstãdeth muche, and he that hathe good experience can talke of wisdome.

10 He that hathe no experience, knoweth litle, and he that erreth, is ful of crafte.

11 Offer swete incense, and fine floure for a remembrance: make the offring fat, for thou art not the ‖ first giuer.

‖ God bestoweth first his benefites, and we must render a porciõ thereof to suche vses as he appointeth.

12 Then giue place to the physicion: for the Lord hathe created him: let him not go from thee, for thou hast nede of him.

13 The houre may come, that their enterprises may haue good succesſe.

14 For they also shal praye vnto ỹ Lord, that he wolde prosper that, which is giuen for ease, and their physicke for the prolonging of life.

15 He that sinneth before his maker, let him fall into the hands of the physicion.

Chap. 22, 10

16 My sonne, * powre forthe teares ouer the dead, ‖ and beginne to mourne, as if thou hadest suffred great harme thy self, and then couer his bodie according to *his appointement, and neglect not his buryal.

‖ Of mourning.

*Or, the custome.

17 Make a grieuous lamentacion, and be earnest in mourning, and vse lamentacion as he is worthie, and that, a daye or two, lest thou be euil spoken of, and then comforte thy self for thine heauines.

18 * For of heauines cometh death, and the heauines of the heart breaketh the strength. Prou. 15, 13. & 17, 22

19 Of the affection of the heart cometh sorow, and the life of him that is afflicted, is according to his heart.

20 Take no heauines to heart: driue it away & remember the last end.

21 Forget it not: for there is no turning againe: thou shalt do him no good, but hurte thy self.

22 Remember his iudgement: thine also shalbe likewise, vnto me yesterdaye, & vnto thee to day.

23 *Seing the dead is at rest, let his remẽbrance rest, and comforte thy self againe for him, when his spirit is departed from him. 2. Sam. 13, 39

24 ¶ The wisdome of a learned man cometh by vsing wel his vacant time: and he that ceaseth from his owne matters and labour, may come by wisdome.

25 How can he get wisdome that holdeth the plough, and he that hathe pleasure in the gode, and in driuing oxen, and is occupied in there labours, and talketh but of the breede of bullockes?

26 He giueth his minde to make forowes, and is diligent to giue the kine fodder.

27 So is it of euerie carpenter, and worke master that laboreth night & daye: and they that cut, and graue seales, and make sondrie diuersities, and giue them selues to contrefait imagerie, and watch to performe the worke.

28 The smithe in like maner abideth by his anuil, and doeth his diligence to labour the yron: the vapour of the fyre dryeth his flesh, and he muste fight with the heat of the fornace: the noyce of the hammer is euer in his eares, and his eyes loke stil vpon the thing that he maketh: he setteth his minde to make vp his worke: therefore he watcheth to polish it perfitely.

29 So doeth the potter sit by his worke, he turneth the whele about with his fete: he is careful alwaye at his worke, and maketh his worke by nomber.

30 He facioneth the claye with his arme, and with his feete he tempereth the hardnes thereof: his heart imagineth how to couer it with lead, and his diligence is to clense the ouen

31 All these hope in their hands, and euerie one bestoweth his wisdome in his worke.

32 Without these can not the cities be mainteined, nor inhabited, nor occupied.

33 And yet they are not asked their iudgemens gement in the counsel of the people, nether are thei hie in the congregaciō, nether sit they vpon the iudgement seates, nor vnderstād the order of iustice: they can not declare matters according to the forme of the Law, and they are are not mete for hard matters.

34 But thei mainteine the state of the worlde, and their desire is concerning their worke and occupacion.

CHAP. XXXIX

1 A wise man. 16 The workes of God. 24 Vnto the good, good things profite, but vnto the euil, euen good things are euil.

1 HE onelie that applieth his minde to the Law of the moste High, & is occupied in the meditation thereof, seketh out the ‖ wisdome of all the ancient, & exerciseth him self in the prophecies. ‖ Of true wisdome.

2 He kepeth the sayings of famous mē, & entreth in also to the secrets of darke sentences.

3 He seketh out the mysterie of graue sentences, and excerciseth him self in darke parables.

4 He shal serue among great men & appeare before the prince: he shal traueil through strange contreis: for he hathe tryed the good and the euil among men.

5 He wil giue his heart to resorte early vnto the Lord that made him, and to praye before the moste High, and wil open his mouth in prayer, and praie for his sinnes.

6 When the great Lord wil, he shalbe filled with the Spirit of vnderstāding, that he may powre out wise sentences, and giue thankes vnto the Lord in his praier.

7 *He shal direct his counsel, & knowledge: so shal he meditate in his secrets. *Or, the Lord

8 He shal shewe forthe his science and learning, and reioyce in the Law and couenant of the Lord.

9 Manie shal commende his vnderstanding, and his memorie shal neuer be put out, nor departe away: but his name shal continue from generacion to generacion.

10 * The congregacion shal declare his wisdome, and shewe it. *Chap. 44. 14

11 Thogh he be dead, he shal leaue a greater fame then a thousand: and if he liue stil, he shal get the same.

12 Yet wil I speake of mo things: for I am ful as the moone.

13 Hearken vnto me, ye holy children, and bring forthe frute, as the roose that is plāted by the brokes of ý field,

14 And giue ye a swete smel as *incense, and bring forthe flowres as the the lilie: giue a smel and sing a song of praise: blesse the Lord in all his workes. *Or, Libanus.

15 Giue honour vnto his Name, & shewe forthe his praise with the sogs of your lippes, and with harpes, and ye shal say after this maner,

16 * All the workes of the Lord are exceading good, and all his commandements are done in due season. *Genes. 1. 31. Mar. 7. 37

17 And none may say, What is this? wherefore is that? for at time conuenient thei shal all be soght out: at his cōmandement the water stode as an heape, & at the worde of his mouth the waters gathered them selues.

18 His whole fauour appeared by his cōmandement, & none can diminish that which he wil saue.

19 The workes of all flesh are before him, and nothing can be hid from his eyes.

20 He seeth from euerlasting to euerlasting, & there is nothing wonderful vnto him.

21 A man nede not to say, What is this? wherefore is that? for he hathe made all things for their owne vse.

22 His blessing shal renne ouer as the streame, and moisture the earth like a flood.

23 As he hathe turned the waters into saltnes, so shal the heathen fele his wrath.

24 As his waies are plaine and right vnto the iust, so are they stumbling blockes to the wicked.

25 ¶ For the good, are good things created from the beginning, & euil things for the sinners.

26 * The principal things for the whole vse of mans life is water, fyre, and yrō, and salt, and meale, wheate and hony, & milke, the blood of the grape, & oyle, and clothing. *Chap. 29. 28

27 All these things are for good to the godlie: but to the sinners they are turned vnto euil.

28 There be spirites that are created for vengeance, which in their rigour laye on sure strokes: in the time of destruction they shewe forthe their power, & accomplish the wrath of him that made them.

29 Fyre, and haile, and famine, and death all these are created for vengeance.

30 The teeth of wilde beasts, and the scorpions, and the serpents, and ý sworde execute vengeance for the destruction of the wicked.

31 They shalbe glad to do his commandements: & when nede is, they shalbe redie vpon earth: and when their houre is come, they shal not ouerpasse the commandement.

32 Therefore haue I taken a good courage vnto me from the beginning, and haue thoght on these things, and haue put them in writing.

Genes. 1. 31

33 * All the workes of the Lord are good, & he giueth euerie one in due season, & when nede is.

34 So that a man nede not to say, This is worse then that: for in due season they are all worthie praise.

35 And therefore praise the Lord with whole heart and mouth, and blesse the Name of the Lord.

CHAP. XL.

1 Many miseries in mans life. 14 Of the blessing of the righteous and prerogatiue of the feare of God.

e The miseries of mans life.

1 GReat || trauail is created for all men, and an heauie yoke vpon the sonnes of Adam from the day that they go out of their mothers wombe, til the day that thei returne to the mother of all things,

2 Namely their thoghts, & feare of the heart, and their imaginacion of the things they waite for, and the daye of death,

3 From him that sitteth vpon the glorious throne, vnto him that is beneth in the earth and ashes:

4 From him that is clothed in blewe silke, & weareth a crowne, euen vnto him that is clothed in simple linen.

5 Wrath & enuie, trouble, and vnquietnes, and feare of death, and rigour, and strife, & in the time of rest the slepe in the night vpon his bed, change his knowledge.

6 A litle or nothing is his rest, and afterwarde in sleping he is as in a watche towre in the daye: he is troubled with the visions of his heart, as one that renneth out of a battel.

7 And when all is safe, he awaketh, and marueileth that the feare was nothing.

8 Suche things come vnto all flesh, bothe man and beast, but seuen folde to the vngodlie:

Chap. 39. 35

9 Moreouer, * death & blood, and strife, & sworde, oppression, famine, destruction, and punishment.

10 These things are all created for the wicked, and for their sakes came the * flood also.

Gene. 7. 11
Genes. 3. 19

11 * All things that are of the earth shal turne to earth againe: and they that are of the * waters, shal returne into the sea.

Chap. 41. 13
Eccles. 2. 7

12 ¶ All bribes and vnrighteousnes shal be put awaye: but || faithfulnes shal endure for euer.

e Faithfulnes.

13 The substance of the vngodlie shalbe dryed vp like a riuer, & they shal make a sounde like a great thonder in the raine.

14 When he openeth his hand, he reioyceth; but all the transgressours shal come to naught.

15 The children of the vngodlie shal not obteine manie branches: for the vncleane rootes are as vpon the high rockes.

16 Their tender stalke by what water soeuer it be or water banke, it shalbe pulled vp before all other herbes.

17 ¶ Friendlines is as a moste plentiful garden of pleasure, & mercie endureth for euer.

18 * To labour and to be content with that a man hathe, is a swete life: but he that findeth a treasure, is aboue them bothe.

Philip. 4. 12
1. Timot. 6. 6

19 Children, and the buylding of the citie maketh a perpetual name: but an honest woma is coũted aboue thẽ bothe.

20 Wine & musike reioyce ỹ heart: but the loue of wisdome is aboue them bothe.

21 The pipe and the psalterion make a swete noyce: but a pleasant tongue is aboue them bothe.

22 Thine eye desireth fauor & beautie: but a grene sede time, rather then thẽ bothe.

23 A friend, and companion come together at opportunitie: but aboue them bothe is a wife with her husband.

24 Friends and helpe are good in the time of trouble, but almes shal deliuer more then them bothe.

25 Golde and siluer fasten the fete: but counsel is estemed aboue them bothe.

26 Riches and strength lift vp the minde: but the feare of the Lord is aboue them bothe: there is no want in the feare of the Lord, and it nedeth no helpe.

27 The feare of the Lord is a pleasant garden of blessing, & there is nothing so beautiful as it is.

28 ¶ My sonne, lead not a beggers life: for better it were to dye then to begge.

29 The life of him that dependeth on another mans table, is not to counted for a life: for he tormenteth him self after other mens meat: but a wise man and wel nourtred, wil beware thereof.

30 Begging is swete in ỹ mouth of the vnshamefast, & in his bellie there burneth a fyer.

CHAP. XLI.

1 Of the remembrance of death. 3 Death is not to be feared. 8 A curse vpon thẽ that forsake the Law of God. 12 Good name & fame. 14 An exhortacion to giue hede vnto wisdome. 17 Of what things a man ogbt to be ashamed.

1 O || Death,

¶ Of death.

1 O ‖ Death, how bitter is the remembrance of thee to a man that liueth at reſt in his poſſeſsions, vnto the man that hathe nothing to vexe him, and that hathe proſperitie in all things: yea, vnto him that yet is able to receiue meat.

2 O death, how acceptable is thy iudgement vnto the nedeful, and vnto him whoſe ſtrength faileth, and that is now in the laſt age, and is vexed with all things, and to him that diſpaireth, and hathe loſt pacience.

3 Feare not the iudgement of death: remember them that haue bene before thee, and that come after: this is the ordinance of the Lord ouer all fleſh.

4 And why woldeſt thou be againſt the pleaſure of the moſte High? whether it be ten or an hundreth, or a thouſand yeres, there is no defenſe for life againſt the graue.

5 ¶ The children of the vngodlie are abominable children, and ſo are they that kepe cõpanie with the vngodlie.

6 The inheritance of vngodlie children ſhal periſh, and their poſteritie ſhal haue a perpetual ſhame.

7 The children cõplaine of an vngodlie father, becauſe they are reproched for his ſake.

8 Wo be vnto you, ô ye vngodlie, which haue forſaken the Lawe of the moſte high God: for thogh you increaſe, yet ſhal you periſh.

9 If ye be borne, ye ſhalbe borne to curſing: if ye dye, the curſe ſhalbe your porcion.

10 All that is of the earth, ſhal turne to earth againe: ſo the vngodlie go from the curſe to deſtruction.

11 Thogh men mourne for their bodie, yet the wicked name of the vngodlie ſhalbe put out.

12 Haue regarde to thy name: for that ſhal continue with thee aboue a thouſand treaſures of golde.

13 A good life hathe the dayes nombred: but ‖ a good name endureth euer.

¶ A good name. Chap. 30. 33

14 * My children, kepe wiſdome in peace: for wiſdome that is hid, and a treaſure that is not ſene, what profite is in them bothe.

15 A man that hideth his fooliſhnes, is better then a man that hideth his wiſdome.

16 Therefore beare reuerence vnto my wordes: for it is not good in all things to be ‖ aſhamed: nether are all things alowed as faithful in all men.

¶ Of ſhamefaſtnes.

17 Be aſhamed of whordome before father and mother: be aſhamed of lies before the prince and men of autoritie:

18 Of ſinne before the iudge and ruler: of offence before the congregacion & people: of vnrighteouſnes before a cõpanion and friend, 19 And of theft before the place where thou dwelleſt, & before the trueth of God & his couenant, and to leane with thine elbowes vpon the " bread, or to be reproued for giuing or taking.

" Or, table

20 And of ſilence vnto them that ſalute thee, and to loke vpon an harlot,

21 And to turne away thy face from thy kinſman: or to take away a porcion or a gift, or to be euil minded toward another mans wife,

22 Or to ſollicite anie mans maide, or to ſtand by her bed, or to reproche thy friends with wordes, 23 Or to vpbraide when thou giueſt anie thing, or to reporte a matter that thou haſt heard, or to reueile ſecret wordes.

24 Thus maieſt thou wel be ſhamefaſt, and ſhalt finde fauour with all men.

CHAP. XLII.

1 The Law of God muſt be taught. 9 A daughter. 14 A woman. 18 God knoweth all things, yea, euen the ſecrets of thine heart.

¶ In what things we ought not to be aſhamed.

1 OF theſe things be not thou ‖ aſhamed, nether haue regarde to offẽd for anie perſone,

2 Of the Law of the moſt High and his couenant, & of iudgement to iuſtifie the godlie:

3 Of the cauſe of thy companion, & of ſtrangers, or of diſtributing the heritage among friends:

4 To be diligẽt to kepe true balance, & weight, whether thou haue muche or litle:

5 To ſel marchandiſe at an indifferent price, and to correct thy children diligently, and to beat an euil ſeruant to the blood:

6 To ſet a good locke where an euil wife is, and to locke where manie hands are:

7 If thou giue anie thing by nomber, & weight, to put all in writing, bothe ỹ that is giuen out, and that that is receiued againe:

8 To teache the vnlearned, & the vnwiſe, & the aged, that contend againſt the yong: thus ſhalt thou be wel inſtructed and approued of all men liuing.

9 ¶ The daughter " maketh the father to watche ſecretly, and the carefulnes that he hathe for her, takerh away his ſlepe in the youth, leſt ſhe ſhulde paſſe the floure of her age: and when ſhe hathe an houſband, leſt ſhe ſhulde be hated:

" Or, is a ſecret watche to the father.

10 In her virginitie, leſt ſhe ſhulde be defiled, or gotten with childe in her fathers house, and, when she is with her husband, lest she misbehaue her self: and when she is maried, lest she continue vnfruteful.

Chap. 26. 10 11 *If thy daughter be vnshamefast, kepe her straitly, lest she cause thine enemies to laugh thee to scorne, and make thee a commune talke in the citie, and diffame thee among the people, & bring thee to publicke shame.

Chap. 25. 28 12 *Beholde not euerie bodies beautie, and companie not among women.

13 For as the moth cometh out of garments: *so doeth wickednes of the woman.

Genes. 3. 6

14 The wickednes of a man is better then the good intreatie of a woman, to wit, of a woman that is in shame, and reproche.

15 ¶ I wil remember the workes of the Lord, and declare the thing that I haue sene: by the worde of the Lord are his workes.

16 The sunne that shineth, loketh vpon all things, and all the worke thereof is ful of the glorie of the Lord.

17 Hathe not ỹ Lord appointed that his Saincts shulde declare all his wonderous workes, which ỹ almightie Lord hathe stablished to confirme all things by in his maiestie?

18 He seketh out the depth, & the heart, and he knoweth their practises: for the Lord knoweth all science, and he beholdeth the signes of the worlde.

19 He declareth the things that are past, and for to come, & discloseth the paths of things that are secret.

Iob 41. 4 Isai. 29. 15 20 *No thoght may escape him, nether may anie worde be hid from him.

21 He hathe garnished the excellent workes of his wisdome, and he is from euerlasting to euerlasting, and for euer: vnto him may nothing be added, nether can he be minished: he hathe no nede of anie counseler.

22 Oh, how delectable are all his workes, & to be considered euen vnto the sparkes of fyre.

23 They liue all, and endure for euer: & when soeuer nede is, they are all obedient.

24 Thei are all double, one against another: he hathe made nothing that hathe anie faute.

25 The one # commendeth the goodnes of the other, & who can be satisfied w beholding Gods glorie?

Or, Stablisheth

CHAP. XLIII.

The summe of the creacion of the Workes of God.

1 THis high ornament ‖ the cleare firmament, the beautie of the heauen so glorious to beholde,

‖ The wonderful workes of God.

2 The sunne also, a marueilous instrument when it appeareth, declareth, at his going out, the worke of the moste High.

3 At noone it burneth the countrey, & who may abide for the heat thereof?

4 The sunne burneth the mountaines thre times more then he that kepeth a fornace with continual heat: it casteth out the fyrie vapours, & with the shinning beames blindeth the eyes.

5 Great is the Lord that made it, and by his commandement he causeth it to runne hastely.

Genes. 1. 16 6 *The moone also hathe he made to appeare according to her season, that it shulbe a declaration of the time, & a signe for the worlde:

Exod. 12. 2 7 *The feasts are appointed by ỹ moone: the light thereof diminisheth vnto the end.

8 The moneth is called after the name thereof, & groweeth wondrously in her changing.

9 It is a campe pitched on high, shining in the firmament of heauen: the beautie of heauen are the glorious starres, and the ornament that shineth in the high places of the Lord.

10 By the commandement of the holie one they continue in their order, and faile not in their watche.

Genes. 9. 14 11 ¶ *Loke vpon the raine bowe, and praise him that made it: verie beautiful is it in the brightnes thereof.

Isai. 40. 12 12 *It compasseth the heauen about w a glorious circle, and the hands of the moste High haue bended it.

13 ¶ Thorowe his commandement he maketh the snowe to haste, and sendeth swiftly the lightning of his iudgement.

14 Therefore he openeth his treasures, and the cloudes flie forthe as the foules.

15 In his po er hathe he strengthened ỹ cloudes, and broken the haile stones.

16 The mountaines leape at the sight of him: the South winde bloweth according to his wil.

17 The sounde of his thonder beateth the earth: so doeth the storme of the North: the whirlewinde also, as birdes that flie, scattereth the snowe, and the falling downe thereof is as the gresshopers that light downe.

18 The eye marueileth at the beautie of the whitenes thereof, & the heart is astonished at the raine of it.

19 He also powreth out the frost vpon the earth like salt, and when it is frosen, it sticketh on the toppes of pales.

20 When the colde North winde bloweth, anyce is frosen of the water, it abideth vabideth vpon all the gatherings together of water, and clotheth the waters as with a brest plate.

21 It deuoureth the mountaines, & burneth the wildernes, and destroyeth that that is grene, like fyre.

22 The remedie of all these is when a cloude cometh hastely, & when a dewe cometh vpon the heat, it refresheth it.

23 [By his worde he stilleth he wide:] by his counsel he appeaseth the depe, and planteth ylands therein.

24 They that saile ouer the sea, tel of ŷ perils thereof, and when we heare it w̄ our eares, we marueile thereat.

25 For there be strange, & wonderous workes, diuers maner of beasts, and the creation of whales.

26 Thorowe him are all things directed to a good end, & are stablished by his worde.

27 And when we haue spoken muche, we can not atteine vnto them: but this is ŷ summe of all, that he is all.

28 What power haue we to praise him: for he is aboue all his workes?

29 The Lord is terrible, and verie great, * & marueilous is his power.

30 Praise the Lord, & magnifie him as muche as ye can, yet doeth he farre excede: exalt him with all youre power, & be not wearie, yet can ye not atteine vnto it.

31 * Who hathe sene him, that he might tel vs? and who can magnifie him as he is?

32 For there are hid yet greater things them these be, & we haue sene but a fewe of his workes.

33 For the Lord hathe made all things, and giuen wisdome to suche as feare God.

CHAP. XLIIII.

The praise of certein holie men, Enoch, Noe, Abraham, Isaac, Iacob.

1 LEt vs now commende the famous men, and our fathers, of whome we are begotten.

2 The Lord hathe gotten great glorie by them, & that through his great power from the beginning:

3 Thei haue borne rule in their kingdomes, & were renoumed for their power, and were wise in counsel, and declared prophecies.

4 * They gouerned the people by counsel & by the knowledge of learning mete for ŷ people, in whose doctrine were wise sentences.

5 They inuēted the melodie of musicke, and expounded the verses that were writen.

6 They were riche & mightie in power, and liued quietly at home.

7 All these were honorable men in their generacions, & were wel reported of in their times.

8 There are of them ŷ haue left a name behinde them, so that their praise shal be spoken of.

9 There are some also which haue no memorial, * and are perished, as though they had neuer bene, and are become as though they had neuer bene borne, and their children after them.

10 But the former were merciful men, whose righteousnes hathe not bene forgotten.

11 For whose posteritie a good inheritance is reserued, and their sede is conteined in the couenant.

12 Their stocke is conteined in the couenant, and their posteritie after them.

13 Their sede shal remaine for euer, and their praise shal neuer be taken away.

14 Their bodies are buryed in peace, but their name liueth for euermore.

15 * The people speake of their wisdome, & the congregacion talke of their praise.

16 ‖ * Enoch pleased ŷ Lord God: therefore was he translated for an example of repentance to the generacions.

17 ‖ * Noe was founde perfite, & in the time of wrath he had a rewarde: therefore was he left as a remnant vnto ŷ earth, when the flood came.

18 An euerlasting couenant was made w̄ him, that all flesh shulde* perish no more by the flood.

19 ‖ Abraham was a * great father of manie people: in glorie was there none like vnto him.

20 He kept the Law of the moste High, & was in couenant with him, and he set the couenant * in his flesh, and in tentation he was founde faithful.

21 Therefore he assured him by an * othe, that he wolde blesse the nacions in his sede, and that he wolde multiplie him as the dust of the earth, and exalte his sede as the starres, and cause thē to inherite from sea to sea, and from ŷ Riuer vnto the end of the worlde.

22 * With ‖ Isaac did he confirme likewise for Abraham his fathers sake, the blessing of all men, and the couenant.

23 And caused it to rest vpon the head of ‖ Iacob, and ″ made him self knowē by * his blessings, and gaue him an heritage & deuided his porcions, * & parted them among the twelue tribes.

24 And he broght out of him a ‖ merciful man, which founde fauour in the sight of all flesh.

4 He toke care for his people, that they shulde not fall, and fortified the citie against the siege?

5 How honorable was his conuersation among the people, and when he came out of the house couered with the vaile?

6 He was as the morning starre in the middes of a cloude, and as the moone when it is ful,

7 And as the sunne shining vpon the Temple of the moste High, and as the rainebowe that is bright in the faire cloudes,

8 And as the floure of the roses in the springe of the yeare, & as lilies by the springs of waters, and as the branches of the frankensetre in the time of somer,

14 And that he might accomplish his ministerie vpon the altar, and garnish the offring of the moste High, and almightie, 15 He stretched out his hãd to the drinke offring, and powred of the blood of the grape, and he powred at the fote of the altar a perfume of good sauour vnto the moste high King of all.
16 Then showted the sonnes of Aaron, and blowed with brasen trumpets, and made a great noyce to be heard, for a remembrance before the moste High.
17 Then all the people together hasted, and fell downe to the earth vpon their faces to worship their Lord God almightie, and moste high.
18 The singers also sang with their voyces, so that the sounde was great, and the melodie swete.
19 And the people prayed vnto the Lord moste high with prayer before him ỹ is merciful, til the honour of the Lord were performed, and they had accomplished his seruice.

A prayer of Iesus the sonne of Sirach.

1 I Will confesse thee, ô Lord and King, and praise thee, ô God, my Sauiour: I geue thankes vnto thy Name.
2 For thou art my defender and helper, and hast preserued my bodie from destruction, and from the snare of the sclanderous tongue, and from the lippes that are occupied with lies: thou hast holpen me against mine aduersaries,
3 And hast deliuered me according to the multitude of thy mercie, and for thy Names sake, from the roaring of them that were readie to deuoure me, and out of the hands of suche as sought after my life, and from the manifolde afflictions, which I had,
4 And from the fyre that choked me rounde about, and from the middes of the fyre that I burned not,
5 And from the botome of the belie of hel, from an vncleane tongue, from lying wordes, from false accusation to the King, and from the sclander of an vnrighteous tongue.
6 [My soule shal praise the Lord vnto death:] for my soule drewe nere vnto deathe: my life was nere to ỹ hel beneth.
7 They compassed me on euerie side, and there was no man to helpe me: I loked for the succour of men, but there was none.
8 Then thoght I vpon thy mercie, ô Lord, and vpon thine actes of olde, how thou deliuerest suche as waite for thee, and sauest them out of the hands of the ‖ enemies.
9 Then lift I vp my prayer from the earth, and praied for deliuerance from death, time of the proude without helpe.

11 I wil praise thy Name continually, & wil sing praise with thankesgiuing: and my prayer was heard.
12 Thou sauedst me from destruction, & deliueredst me from the euil time: therefore wil I giue thankes and praise thee, and blesse the Name of the Lord.
13 When I was yet yong, or euer I went abroad, I desired wisdome openly in my prayer.
14 I praied for her before the Temple, & soght after her vnto farre countreis, and she was as a grape that waxeth ripe out of the floure.
15 Mine heart reioyced in her: my foote walked in the right way, and from my youth vp soght I after her.
16 I bowed some what downe mine eare, and receiued her, and gate me muche wisdome:
17 And I profited by her: therefore wil I ascribe the glorie vnto him, that giueth me wisdome.
18 For I am aduised to do thereafter. I wil be ielous of that that is good: so shal I not be confounded.
19 My soule hathe wresteled with her, & I haue examined my workes: I lifted vp mine hands on hye, and considered the ignorances thereof.
20 I directed my soule vnto her, and I founde her in purenes: I haue had mine heart ioyned with her from the beginning: therefore shal I not be forsaken.
21 My bowels are troubled in seking her: therefore haue I gotten a good possession.
22 The Lord hathe giuen me a tongue for my rewarde, wherewith I wil praise him.
23 Drawe nere vnto me, ye vnlearned, & dwell in the house of learning.
24 Wherefore are ye slowe? and what say you of these things, seing your soules are very thirstie?
25 I opened my mouth, and said, * Bye her for you without money. Isa.55.1
26 Bowe downe your necke vnder the yoke, and your soule shal receiue instruction: she is ready ȳ ye may finde her.
27 Beholde with your eyes, * how that I haue had but litle labour, and haue gotten vnto me muche rest. Chap.6.28
28 Get learning with a great some of money: for by her ye shal possesse muche golde.
29 Let your soule reioyce in the mercie of the Lord, and be not ashamed of his praise.
30 Do your duetie betimes, and he wil giue you a rewarde at his time.

1 AND these are the wordes of the boke, ✠ Baruch the sonne of Nerias, the sonne of Maasias, the sonne of Sedecias, the sonne of "Asadias, ȳ the sonne of Helcias wrote in at Babylon. "Or, Sedecias.
2 In the fift yere, and in the seuenth day of the moneth, what time as the Chaldeans toke Ierusalem, and burnt it with fyre.
3 And Baruch did read the wordes of this boke, that Iechonias the sonne of Ioacim King of Iuda might heare, and all the people that were come to heare the boke,
4 And in the audience of the gouernour, and of the Kings sonnes, and before the Elders, and before the whole people, from the lowest vnto the hiest, before all them that dwelt at Babylon by the riuer "Sud. "Or, Sodi
5 Which when they heard it, wept, fasted and made praiers before the Lord.
6 They made a collection also of money, according to euerie mans power,
7 And sent it to Ierusalem vnto Ioacim the sonne of Helcias the sonne of Salom Priest, and vnto the other Priests, and to all the people, which were with him at Ierusalem,
8 When he had receiued the vessels of the Temple of the Lord, that were taken away out of the Temple, to bring them againe into the land of Iuda, the tenth day of the moneth "Siuan, to wit, siluer vessels, which Sedecias the sonne of Iosias King of Iuda had made, "Or, Siban.
9 After that Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon had led away Iechonias from Ierusalem, and his princes, and his nobles, prisonners, and the people, and caryed them to Babylon.

18 And they said beholde, we haue sent you monei, wherewith ye shal bye burnt offrings for sinne, and incense, and prepare a meat offring, and offre vpon the altar of the Lord our God,

Or, manna for minhah which was ỹ euening & morning sacrifice.

19 And pray for the life of Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon, and for the life of Baltasar his sonne, that their daies may be vpon earth, as the daies of heauen, 20 And that God wolde giue vs strength and lighten our eyes, that we may liue vnder the shadowe of Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon, and vnder the shadowe of Baltasar his sonne, that we may long do them seruice, & finde fauour in their sight.

21 Pray for vs also vnto the Lord our God (for we haue sinned against the Lord our God, and vnto this day the furie of the Lord and his wrath is not turned from vs)

22 And rede this boke (which we haue sent to you to be rehearsed in the Tẽple of the Lord) vpon the feast daies, and at time conuenient.

Chap. 2, 6

23 Thus shal ye say, * To the Lord our God belongeth righteousnes, but vnto vs the confusion of our faces, as it is come to passe this day vnto them of Iuda, and to the inhabitants of Ierusalem,

24 And to our Kings, and to our princes, and to our Priests, and to our Prophetes, and to our fathers,

Dan. 9, 5

25 Because we haue * sinned before the Lord our God.

26 And haue not obeied him, nether hearkened vnto the voyce of the Lord our God, to walke in the commandements that he gaue vs openly.

27 From the day that the Lord broght our fathers out of the land of Egypt, euen vnto this day, we haue bene disobedient vnto the Lord our God, and we haue bene negligent to heare his voyce.

Deu. 28. 15

28 * Wherefore these plagues are come vpon vs, and the curse which the Lord appointed by Moyses his seruãt at the time that he broght our fathers out of the land of Egypt, to giue vs a land ỹ floweth with milke and honie, as appeareth this day.

29 Neuertheles, we haue not hearkened vnto the voyce of the Lord our God, according to all the wordes of the Prophetes, whome he sent vnto vs.

30 But euerie one of vs followed the wicked imaginacion of his owne heart, to serue strange gods, and to do euil in the sight of the Lord our God.

CHAP. II.

2 The Iewes confesse that they suffer iustely for their sinnes. The true confession of the Christians. 11 The Iewes desire to haue the wrath of God turned from them. 32 He promiseth that he wil call againe the people from captiuitie, and giue them a newe and euerlasting testament.

1 THerefore the Lord our God hathe performed his worde, which he pronounced against vs, and against our iudges that gouerned Israel, & against our Kings, and against our princes, and against the men of Israel and Iuda,

2 To bring vpon vs great plagues, such as neuer came to passe vnder the whole heauen, as they that were done in Ierusalem, *according to things, that were written in the Lawe of Moyses.

Deu. 28, 53

3 That some among vs shulde eat the flesh of his owne sonne, and some the flesh of his owne daughter.

4 Moreouer, he hathe deliuered them to be in subiection to all the kingdomes, that are rounde about vs, to be as a reproche and desolation among all the people rounde about where ỹ Lord hathe scattred them.

5 Thus they are broght beneth and not aboue, because we haue sinned against the Lord our God, and haue not heard his voyce.

6 *To the Lord our God apperteineth righteousnes, but vnto vs & to our fathers open shame, as appeareth this day.

Chap. 1, 15

7 For all these plagues are come vpon vs, which the Lord hathe pronounced against vs.

8 Yet haue we not prayed before the Lord, that we might turne euerie one from the imaginacions of his owne wicked heart.

9 So the Lord hathe watched ouer the plagues, and the Lord hathe broght them vpon vs: for the Lord is righteous in all his workes, which he hathe commanded vs.

10 Yet we haue not hearkened vnto his voyce, to walke in the commandements of the Lord that he hathe giuen vnto vs.

11 * And now, ô Lord God of Israel, that hast broght thy people out of the land of Egypt with a mightie hand, & an hie arme, and with signes, and with wonders and with great power, and hast gotten thy self a Name, as appeareth this day,

Dan. 9. 15

12 O Lord our God, we haue sinned: we haue done wickedly: we haue offended in all thine ordinances.

13 Let thy wrath turne from vs: for we are but a fewe left among the heathen, where thou hast scattred vs.

14 Heare our praiers, ô Lord, and our peticions, ficions, and deliuer vs for thine owne sake, and giue vs fauour in the sight of them, which haue led vs away, 15 That all the earth may knowe that ỹ art the Lord our God, and that thy Name is called vpon Israel and vpon their posteritie.

16 Therefore loke downe from thine holy Temple, and thinke vpon vs: encline thine eare, ô Lord and heare vs.

Deu. 26, 15 Isa. 63, 15 Psal. 6, 6. & 115, 17 isa. 38, 18

17 * Open thine eyes, and beholde: for the dead that are in ỹ graues, & whose soules are out of their bodies, * giue vnto the Lord, neither ‖ praise, nor righteousnes.

‖ Or, glorie, nor praise of righteousnes.

18 But the soule that is vexed for the greatnes of some, and he that goeth crokedly, and weake, & the eyes that faile, and the hungrie soule wil giue thee praise and righteousnes, ô Lord.

19 For we do not require mercie in thy sight, ô Lord our God, for the righteousnes of our fathers, or of our Kings.

20 But because thou hast sent out thy wrath and indignacion vpon vs, as ỹ hast spoken by ‖ thy seruants the Prophetes, saying,

‖ Or, by the hand of thy seruants. Iere. 27, 7

21 * Thus saith the Lord, Bowe downe your shulders, and serue the King of Babylō: so shall ye remaine in ỹ land, ỹ I gaue vnto your fathers.

22 But if ye wil not heare the voyce of the Lord, to serue the King of Babylon, 23 I wil cause to cease in the cities of Iuda, and in Ierusalem, I wil cause to cease the voyce of mirthe, and the voyce of ioye, and the voyce of the bridegrome, and the voyce of the bride, and the lād shalbe desolate of inhabitants.

24 But we wolde not hearken vnto thy voyce, to serue the King of Babylon: therefore hast thou performed ỹ wordes that thou spakest by thy seruants the Prophetes: namely, that the bones of our Kings, and the bones of our fathers shulde be caryed out of their places.

25 And lo, they are cast out to the heat of the day, & to ỹ colde of the night, and are dead in great miserie with famine, & with the sworde, & in banishment.

26 And the Temple wherein thy Name was called vpon, thou hast broght to the state, as appeareth this day, for the wickednes of the house of Israel, & the house of Iuda.

27 O Lord our God, thou hast intreated vs according to equitie, and according to all thy great mercie.

28 As thou spakest by thy seruant Moyses, in the day when thou dideste cōmand him to write thy Law before the children of Israel, saying,

29 * If ye wil not obey my voyce, then shal this great swarme and multitude be turned into a verie fewe among the nacions where I wil scater them. Leu. 26, 14 deu. 28, 15

30 For I knowe that they wil not heare me: for it is a stifnecked people: but in the land of their captiuitie they shal remember them selues, 31 And knowe that I am the Lord their God: then wil I giue them an heart to vnderstand, and eares.

32 And they shal heare, and praise me in the land of their captiuitie, and thinke vpon my Name.

33 Then shal they turne them from their harde backes, and from their euil workes: for they shal remember the way of their fathers, which sinned before the Lord.

34 And I wil bring them againe into the land, which I promised with an othe vnto their fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Iacob, and they shal be Lords of it: and I wil increase them, and they shal not be diminished.

35 And I wil make an euerlasting couenant with thē, that I wil be their God, and they shalbe my people: and I wil no more driue my people of Israel out of the land that I haue giuen them.

CHAP. III.

1 The people continueth in their praier begon for their deliuerance. 9 He praiseth wisdome vnto the people, shewing that so great aduersities came vnto them for the despising thereof. 36 Onely God was the finder of wisdome. 37 Of the incarnacion of Christ.

1 O Lord almightie, ô God of Israel, the soule that is in trouble, & the spirit that is vexed, cryeth vnto thee.

2 Heare, ô Lord, and haue mercie: for ỹ art merciful, and haue pitie vpon vs, because we haue sinned before thee.

3 For thou endurest for euer, and we vterly perish.

4 O Lord almightie, the God of Israel, heare now the praier of the dead Israelites, and of their children, which haue sinned before thee, and not hearkened vnto ỹ voyce of ỹ their God, wherefore these plagues hang vpon vs.

5 Remember not the wickednes of our fathers, but thinke vpon thy power, & thy Name at this time.

6 For thou art the Lord our God, and thee, ô Lord, wil we praise.

7 And for this cause hast thou put thy feare in our hearts, that we shulde call vpon thy Name, and praise thee in our captiuitie: for we haue considered in our mindes all the wickednes of our fathers, that sinned before thee.

8 Beholde, we are yet this day in our captiuitie, where thou hast scatered vs, to be a reproche, and a curse, and subiect to payments, according to all the iniquities of our fathers, which are departed from the Lord their God.
9 O Israel, heare the commandements of life: hearken vnto them, that thou maiest learne wisdome.
10 What is the cause, ô Israel, that thou art in thine enemies land, and art waxē olde in a strange countrey?
11 And art defiled with the dead? & art counted with them, that go downe to the graues?
12 Thou hast forsaken the fountaine of wisdome.
13 For if thou hadest walked in the way of God thou shuldest haue remained safe for euer.
14 Learne where is wisdome, where is strength, where is vnderstanding, that thou maist knowe also from whence cometh long continuance, and life, and where the light of the eyes, and peace is.
15 Who hathe found out her place? or who hathe come into her treasures?
16 Where are the princes of the heathē, and suche as ruled the beasts vpon the earth?
17 They that had their pastime with the foules of the heauen, that hoorded vp siluer, and golde, wherein men trust, and made none end of their gathering?
18 For they that coyned siluer, and were so careful of their worke, and whose inuention had none end, 19 Are come to naught, and gone downe to hel, and other men are come vp in their steades.
20 When they were yong, they sawe the light, and dwelt vpon the earth: but they vnderstode not the way of knowledge, 21 Nether perceiued the paths thereof, nether haue their children receiued it: but they were farre of from that way.
22 It hathe not bene heard of in the lād of Chanaan, nether hathe it bene sene in Theman, 23 Nor the Agarines that soght after wisdome vpon the earth, nor the marchants of Nerran, and of Theman, nor the expounders of fables, nor the searchers out of wisdome haue knowē the way of wisdome, nether do they thinke vpon the pathes thereof.
24 O Israel, how great is the House of God! and how large is the place of his possesion!
25 It is great, and hathe none end: it is hie, and vnmeasurable.
26 There were the gyants, famous from the beginning ẏ were of so great stature, and so expert in warre.
27 Those did not the Lord chose, nether gaue he the way of knowledge vnto them.
28 But thei were destroied, because thei had no wisdome, and perished through their owne foolishnes.
29 Who hathe gone vp into heauen, to take her, and broght her downe from the cloudes?
30 Who hathe gone ouer the sea, to finde her, and hathe broght her, rather then fine golde?
31 No man knoweth her waies, nether considereth her paths.
32 But he that knoweth all things, knoweth her, and he hathe founde her out with his vnderstanding: this same is he which hathe prepared the earth for euermore, and hathe filled it with foure footed beastes.
33 When he sendeth out the light, it goeth: and when he calleth it againe, it obeieth him with feare.
34 And the starres shine in their watch, and reioyce. When he calleth them, they say, Here we be: and so with cherefulnes they shewe light vnto him ẏ made them.
35 This is our God, and there shal none other be compared vnto him.
36 He hathe founde out all the way of knowledge, and hathe giuen it vnto Iacob his seruant, and to Israel his beloued.
37 After warde he was sene vpon earth, and dwelt among men.

CHAP. IIII.

The reward of them that kepe the Law, & the punisment of them that despise it. 12 A comforting of the people being in captiuitie. 19 A complaint of Ierusalem and vnder thē figure thereof the Church. 25 A consolation and comforting of the same.

1 THis is the boke of the commandements of God, and the Law ẏ endureth for euer: all they that kepe it, shal come to life but suche as forsake it, shal dye.
2 Turne thee, ô Iacob, and take holde of it: walke by this brightnes before ẏ light thereof.
3 Giue not thine honour to another, nor the things ẏ are profitable vnto thee, to a strange nacion.
4 O Israel, we are blessed: for the things that are acceptable vnto God, are declared vnto vs.
5 Be of good cōfort, ô my people, which are art the memorial of Israel.

6 Ye are solde to the nacions, not for your destruction: but because ye prouoked God to wrath, ye were deliuered vnto the enemies.
7 For ye haue displeased him that made you, offring vnto deuils and not to God.
8 Ye haue forgotten him that created you, euen the euerlasting God, and ye haue greiued Ierusalem, that nourished you.
9 When she sawe the wrath comming vpon you from God, she said, Hearken, ye that dwell about Sion: for God hathe broght me into great heauines.
10 I se the captiuitie of my sonnes and daughters, which the Euerlasting wil bring vpon them.
11 With ioye did I nourish them but I must leaue them with weping & mourning.
12 Let no man reioyce ouer me a widdowe, and forsaken of manie, which for the sinnes of my children am desolate, because they departed from the Law of God.
13 They wolde not knowe his righteousnes, nor walke in the wayes of his commandements: nether did they enter into ỹ paths of discipline, throughe his righteousnes.
14 Come, ye that dwell about Sion, and call to remembrance the captiuitie of my sonnes and daughters, which the euerlasting hathe broght vpon them.
15 For he hathe broght vpon them a nation from farre, an impudent nacion, and of a strange langage, 16 Which nether reuerence the aged, nor pitie the yong: these haue caried away ỹ deare beloued of the widdowes, leauing me alone, and destitute of my daughters.
17 But what can I helpe you?
18 Surely he that hathe broght these plagues vpon you, can deliuer you from the hands of your enemies.
19 Go your way, ô children, go your way: for I am left desolate.
20 I haue put of ỹ clothing of peace, & put vpon me the sackecloth of prayer, and so long as I liue, I wil call vpon the Euerlasting.
21 Be of good comfort, ô children: crye vnto God, and he wil deliuer you from the power, and hand of the enemies.
22 For I haue hope of your saluation through the Euerlasting, & ioye is come vpon me from the Holy one, because of the mercie, which shal quickely come vnto you from our euerlasting Sauiour.
23 For I sent you away with weping, and mourning but with ioye and perpetual gladnes wil God bring you againe vnto me.
24 Like as now the neighbours of Siō saw your captiuitie, so shal they also se shortly your saluacion from God, which shal come vnto you with great glorie, and brightnes from the Euerlasting.
25 My children, suffer paciently the wrath that is come vpon you frō God: for thine enemie hathe persecuted thee, but shortly thou shalt se his destruction, and shalt treade vpon his necke.
26 My darlings haue gone by rough wayes, and were led away as a flocke that is scatered by the enemies.
27 Be of good comfort, my children, & crye vnto God: for he that led you away, hathe you in remembrance.
28 And as it came into your minde to go astray from your God, so endeuoure your selues ten times more, to turne againe and to seke him.
29 For he that hathe broght these plages vpon you, wil bring you euerlasting ioye againe, with your saluation.
30 Take a good heart, ô Ierusalem: for he which gaue thee that name, wil cōfort thee.
31 They are miserable that afflict thee, and suche as reioyce at thy fall.
32 The cities are miserable whome thy children serue: miserable is she that hathe taken thy sonnes.
33 For as she reioyced at thy decay, and was glad of thy fall, so shal she be sorie for her owne desolation.
34 For I wil take away the reioycing of her great multitude, and her ioye shalbe turned into mourning.
35 For a fyre shal come vpon her from the Euerlasting, long to endure, & she shalbe inhabited of deuils for a great season.
36 O Ierusalem, loke towarde the East, & beholde the ioye that cometh vnto thee from thy God.
37 Lo, thy sonnes (whome thou hast let go) come gathered together from the East vnto the West, reioycing in the worde of the Holy one vnto the honour of God.

CHAP. V.

1 Ierusalem is moued vnto gladnes for the returne of her people, and vnder the figure thereof the Church.

PVt of thy mourning clothes, ô Ierusalem, and thine affliction, & decke thee with the worshippe & honour, that cometh vnto thee from God, for euermore.
2 Put on the garment of righteousnes, that cometh from God, and, set a crowne vpon thine head of the glorie of the Euerlasting.

3 For God wil declare thy brightenes to euerie countrey vnder the heauen.
4 And God wil name thee by this name for euer, The peace of righteousnes, and the glorie of the worship of God.
5 Arise, ô Ierusalem, and stand vpon hie, and loke about thee towarde the East, and beholde thy children gathered frō the East vnto ỹ West by the worde of the Holie one, reioycing in the remembrance of God.
6 For they departed from thee on foote, and were led away of their enemies: but God wil bring them againe vnto thee, exalted in glorie, as children of the kingdome.
7 For God hathe determined to bring downe euerie high mountaine, and the long enduring rockes, & to fil the valleys, to make the grounde plaine, that Israel may walke safely vnto the honour of God.
8 The woods & all swete smelling trees shal ouershadowe Israel at the commādement of God.
9 For God shal bring Israel with ioye in the light of his maiestie, with the mercie and righteousnes that cometh of him.

CHAP. VI.

A COPIE OF THE EPIstle, ỹ Ieremias sent vnto thē that were led away captiues into Babylon by the King of the Babylonians, to certifie them of the thing that was commanded him of God.

1 BEcause of the sinnes, that ye haue committed against God, ye shalbe led away captiues vnto Babylon, by Nabuchodonosor, King of the Babylonians.
2 So when ye be come into Babylon, ye shal remaine there manie yeres, and a long season, euen seuen generacions, & after that wil I bring you away peaceably from thence.
3 Now shal ye se in Babylon gods of siluer, and of golde, and of wood, borne vpon mens shulders, to cause the people to feare.
4 *Beware therefore that ye in no wise be like the strangers, nether be ye afraide of them, when ye se the multitude before them and behinde them worshipping them:
5 But say se in your hearts, O Lord, we must worshippe thee.
6 For mine Angel shalbe with you, and shal care for your soules.
7 As for their tongue, it is polished by the carpenter, and they them selues are gilted, and laied ouer with siluer: yet are they but lies, and can not speake.
8 And as they take golde for a maide ỹ loueth to be deck,
9 So make they crownes for the heads of their gods: some times also ỹ Priests them selues conue ay the golde, & siluer from their gods, and bestowe it vpon them selues.
10 Yea, they giue of the same vnto the harlots, that are in their houses: againe, they decke these gods of siluer, & gods of golde, and of wood with garments like men,
11 Yet can not they be preserued from rust and wormes,
12 Thogh they haue couered them with clothing of purple, and wipe their faces becausse of the dust of the Temple, whereof there is muche vpon them.
13 One holdeth a scepter, as thogh he were a certeine iudge of the countrey: yet can he not slay suche as offende him.
14 Another hathe a dagger or an axe in his right hand: yet is he not able to defende him self from battel, nor from theues: so then it is euident, that they be no gods.
15 Therefore feare thē not: for as a vessel that a man vseth, is nothing worthe when it is broken, 16 Suche are their gods: when they be set vp in their temples, their eyes be ful of dust by reason of the fete of those that come in:
17 And as the[u] gates are shut in round about vpon him that hathe offended ỹ King: or as one that shulde be led to be put to death, so the Priests kepe their temples with doores, and with lockes, and with barres, lest their gods shulde be spoyled by robbers.
18 They light vp candels before them: yea, more then for them selues whereof they can not se one: for they are but as one of the postes of the Temple.
19 They confesse, that euen their hearts are gnawen vpon: but when the things, that crepe out of the earth, eat them & their clothes: they feele it not.
20 Their faces are blacke thorow the smoke that is in the temple:
21 The owles, swalowes and birdes flie vpon their bodies, and vpon their heads, yea, and the cattes also.
22 By this ye may be sure, that they are not gods: therefore feare them not.
23 Notwithstanding the golde, that is about them to make them beautiful, except one wipe of the rust, they can not shine: nether when they were molten, did they fele it.
24 The things wherein is no breth, are boght for a moste high price.

25 *They

*Isa. 44, 10. psal. 115, 9. wis. 13, 14

[u] Or, courtes.

Esa. 46. 7

25 * They are borne vpon mens shulders, because they haue no feete, where by they declare vnto men, that they be nothing worthe: yea, & they that worship them, are ashamed.

26 For if they fall to the grounde at anie time, they can not rise vp againe of them selues, nether if one set them vp right, can they moue of them selues, nether if they be bowed downe, can they make them selues streight: but they set giftes before them, as vnto dead men.

27 As for the things that are offred vnto them, their Priests sell them, and abuse them: likewise also the women lay vp of the same: but vnto the poore & sicke they giue nothing.

28 The menstruous women, & they that are in childebed, touche their sacrifices: by these things ye may knowe that they ar no gods: feare them not.

29 From whence cometh it then, that they are called gods? because the women bring giftes to the gods of siluer, and golde, and wood.

30 And the Priests sit in their temples, hauing their clothes rent, whose heades and beardes are shauen, and being bare headed,

31 They roare, & crye before their gods, as men do at the feast of one that is dead.

32 The Priests also take away of their garments, and clothe their wiues and children.

33 Whether it be euil that one doeth vnto them, or good, they are not able to recompense it: they can nether set vp a King nor put him downe.

34 In like maner they can nether giue riches, nor money: thogh a man make a vowe vnto them and kepe it not, they wil not require it.

35 They can saue no man from death, nether deliuer the weake from the mightie.

36 They can not restore a blinde man to his sight, nor helpe anie man at his nede.

37 They can shewe no mercie to the widdowe, nor do good to the fatherles.

38 Their gods of wood, golde and siluer are as stones, that be hewen out of the mountaine, and they that worship thē, shalbe confounded.

39 How shulde a man then thinke or say that they are gods?

40 Moreouer the Chaldeans them selues dishonor them: for when thei se a domme man, that can not speake, thei present him to Bel, 41 And desire that he wolde make him to speake, as thogh he had anie feling: yet thei that vnderstand these things, can not leaue them: for they also haue no sense.

42 Furthermore the women, girded with coards, sit in ỹ stretes, & burne "strawe.

" Or, braune.

43 And if one of them be drawen away and lie with anie suche as come by, she casteth her neighbour in the teeth, because she was not so worthely reputed, nor her coard broken.

44 What soeuer is done among them, is lies: how may it then be thoght or said that they are gods?

45 Carpenters and goldesmithes make them, nether be they anie other thing, but euen what the workeman wil make them.

46 Yea, they that make them, are of no long continuance: how shulde then the things that are made of them, be gods?

47 Therefore they leaue lies, and shame for their posteritie.

48 For when there cometh anie warre or plague vpon them, the Priests imagine with them selues, where they may hide them selues with them.

49 How then can men not perceiue, that they be no gods, which can nether defend them selues from warre, nor from plagues?

50 For * seing they be but of wood, and of siluer, and of golde, men shal knowe hereafter that they are but lies, and it shalbe manifest to all nacions & Kings that they be no gods, but the workes of mens hands, & that there is no worke of God in them.

Psal. 115. 2
wisd. 13. 10

51 Whereby it maye be knowen, that they are no gods.

52 They can set vp no King in the land nor giue raine vnto men.

53 They can giue no sentēce of a matter, nether preserue from iniurie: they haue no power, but are as crowes betwene ỹ heauen and the earth.

54 When there falleth a fyre vpon the house of those gods of wood, & of siluer, & of golde, the Priests wil escape & saue them selues, but thei burne as the balkes therein.

55 Thei can not withstand anie King or enemies: how can it then be thoght or said that they be gods?

56 Moreouer these gods of wood, of golde, and of siluer can nether defend them selues from theues nor robbers.

57 For they that are strongest, take awaye their golde and siluer, and apparel, wherewith they be clothed: and whē they haue it, they get them awaye: yet can they not helpe them selues.

58 Therefore it is better to be a King, & so to shewe his power, or els a profitable vessel in an house, whereby he that oweth it, might haue profite, then suche false gods: or to be a dore in an house, to kepe suche things safe as be therein, then suche false gods: or a piller of wood in a palace, then suche false gods.

59 For the sunne, and the moone, & the starres that shine, when thei are sent downe for necessarie vses, obey.

60 Likewise also the lightning when it shineth, it is euident: & the winde bloweth in euerie countrey.

61 And when God cõmandeth the cloudes to go about the whole worlde, they do as thei are bidden.

62 When the fyre is sent downe from aboue to destroye hilles and woods, it doeth that which is commanded: but these are not like anie of these things, nether in forme, nor power.

63 Wherefore men shulde not thinke, nor say that they be gods, seing thei cã nether giue sentence in iudgement, nor do men good.

64 For so muche now as ye are sure, that they be no gods, feare them not.

65 For they cannether curse, nor blesse Kings:

66 Nether can thei shewe signes in the heauen among the heathen, nether shine as the moone.

67 The beastes are better then they: for thei can get them vnder a couert, and do them selues good.

68 So ye may be certified that by no maner of meanes, they are gods: therefore feare them not.

69 For as a skarcrowe in a gardẽ of cucũbers kepeth nothing, so are their gods of wood and of siluer, and of golde:

70 And likewise their gods of wood, & golde & siluer are like to a white thorne in an orcharde, that euerie birde sitteth vpon, and as a dead bodie that is cast in the darke.

71 By the purple also and brightnes, which fadeth vpon them, ye may vnderstãd, that they be no gods: yea, they them selues shal be consumed at the last, and they shalbe a shame to the countrey.

72 Better therefore is ý iuste man, ý hathe none idoles: for he shalbe farre frõ reprofe.

THE SONG OF THE

thre holie children, which followeth in the third chapter of Daniel after this place: Thei fell downe bound into the middes of the hote fyrie furnace.

CHAP. I.

25 The praier of Azarias. 46 The cruelties of the King. 48 The flame deuoureth the Chaldeans. 49 The Angel of the Lord was in the fornace. 51 The thre children praise the Lord and prouoke all creatures to the same.

24 AND they walked in the middes of the flame, praising God and magnified the Lord.

25 Then Azarias stode vp, & praied on this maner, and opening his mouth in the middes of the fyre, said, 26 Blessed be thou, ô Lord God of our fathers: thy Name is worthie to be praised and honored for euermore.

27 For thou art righteous in all ý things that thou hast done vnto vs, & all thy workes are true, & thy waies are right, & all thy iudgements certeine.

28 In all the things that ý hast broght vpon vs, & vpon Ierusalem, the holie citie of our fathers, thou hast executed true iudgements: for by right and equitie hast thou broght all these things vpon vs, because of our sinnes.

29 For we haue sinned & done wickedly, departing from thee: in all things haue we trespassed, 30 And not obeied thy commandements, nor kept them, nether done as thou hadest commãded vs, ý we might prosper.

31 Wherefore in all that ý hast broght vpon vs, & in euerie thing that thou hast done to vs, thou hast done them in true iudgement:

32 As in deliuering vs into the hands of our wicked enemies, & moste hateful traitors, and to an vnrighteous King, and the moste wicked in all the worlde.

33 And now we may not open our mouthes: we are become a shame and reprofe vnto thy seruants, and to them that worshippe thee.

34 Yet for thy Names sake, we beseche thee giue vs not vp for euer, nether breake thy couenant.

35 Nether take awaye thy mercie from vs, for thy beloued Abrahams sake, & for thy seruant Isaaks sake, & for thine holy holy Israels sake,

36 To whome thou hast spoken and promised, ỳ thou woldest multiplie their sede as the starres of heauen, and as the sand, that is vpon the seashore.
37 For we, ô Lord, are become lesse thē anie nacion, and be kept vnder this daye in all the worlde, because of our sinnes.
38 So that now we haue nether prince, nor Prophet, nor gouernour, nor burnt, offring, nor sacrifice, nor oblacion, nor incense, nor place to offer the first frutes before thee, that we might finde mercie.
39 Neuertheles in a contrite heart, and an humble spirit, let vs be receiued.
40 As in the burnt offring of rams and bullockes, & as in ten thousand of fat lambs, so let our offring be in thy sight this day, that it may please thee: for there is no confusion vnto thē that put their trust in thee.
41 And now we followe thee with all our heart, and feare thee, and seke thy face.
42 Put vs not to shame, but deale with vs after thy louing kindenes and according to the multitude of thy mercies.
43 Deliuer vs also by thy miracles, and giue thy Name the glorie, ô Lord, 44 That all they which do thy seruants euil, may be confounded: euen let them be confounded by thy great force and power, and let their strength be broken.
45 That they maye knowe, that thou onelie art the Lord God, and glorious ouer the whole worlde.
46 ¶ Now the Kings seruants that had cast them in, ceased not to make the ouen hote with [a] naphtha, & with pitche, and with towe, and with fagotes.
47 So that the flame went out of the fornace fortie and nine cubites.
48 And it brake forthe, & burnt those Chaldeans, that it founde by the fornace.
49 But the Angel of ỳ Lord went downe into the fornace with them that were with Azarias, and smote the flame of the fyre out of the fornace, 50 And made in the middes of the fornace like a moyste hissing winde, so ỳ the fyre touched them not at all, nether grieued, nor troubled them.
51 Thē these thre (as out of one mouth) praised, and glorified, and blessed God in the fornace, saying,
52 Blessed be thou, ô Lord God of our fathers, and praised, and exalted aboue all things for euer, & blessed be thy glorious and holie Name, and praised aboue all things, and magnified for euer.
53 Blessed be thou in the Temple of thine holy glorie, and praised aboue all things, and exalted for euer.
54 Blessed be thou that beholdest the depths, & sittest vpon the Cherubims, & praised aboue all things, and exalted for euer.
55 Blessed be thou in ỳ glorious Throne of thy kingdome, and praised aboue all things, and exalted for euer.
56 Blessed be thou in the firmament of heauen, and praised aboue all things, & glorified for euer.
57 All ye workes of the Lord, blesse ye the Lord: praise him, and exalte him aboue all things for euer.

THE HISTORIE OF

The Song of Susanna, Which some ioyne to the end of Daniel, and make it the 13. chap.

The two gouerners are taken with the loue of Susanna. 19 They take her alone in the garden. 20 They solicite her to wickednes. 23 She chooseth rather to obey God, though it be to the danger of her life. 34 She is accused. 45 Daniel doeth deliuer her. 62 The gouerners are put to death.

1 THERE dwelt a man in Babylon called Ioacim,
2 And he toke a wife whose name was Susanna, the daughter of Helcias, a verie faire woman, and one that feared God.
3 Her father and her mother also were godlie people, & taught their daughter according to the Law of Moses.
4 Now Ioacim was a great riche man, & had a faire garden ioyning vnto his house, and to him resorted the Iewes, because he was more honorable then all others.
5 The same yere were appointed two of the ancients of the people to be iudges, such as the Lord speaketh of, that the iniquitie came from Babylon, & from the ancient iudges, which semed to rule the people.
6 These hanted Ioacims house, & all such as had anie thing to do in the Law came thither vnto them.
7 Now when the people departed away at noone, Susanna went into her housbands garden to walke.
8 And the two Elders sawe her that she went in daily and walked, so that their lust was inflamed towarde her.
9 Therefore thei turned away their [a]minde, & cast downe their eyes, ỹ thei shulde not se heauen, nor remembre iuste iudgements.
10 And albeit thei bothe were wounded with her loue, yet durst not one shewe another his grief.
11 For they were ashamed to declare their lust, that they desired to haue to do with her.
12 Yet they watched diligẽtly from day to day to se her.
13 And the one said to the other, Let vs go now home, for it is dinner time.
14 So they went their way, and departed one from another: yet they returned againe.

[a] To wit, from God.

againe, & came into the same place, & after that they had asked one another the cause, thei acknowledged their lust: thē appointed they a time bothe together when they might finde her alone.
15 Now when they had spied out a conuenient time, that she went in, as her maner was, with two maides onely, and thoght to wash her self in the garden (for it was an hote season)
16 And there was no bodie there, saue ý two Elders that had hid them selues, and watched for her:
17 She said to her maides, Bring me oyle & sope, and shut the garden dores, that I may wash me.
18 And they did as she bade them, and shut the garden dores, and went out them selues at a backe dore, to fet the thing that she had cōmanded them: but they sawe not the Elders, becausethey were hid.
19 Now when the maides were gone forthe the two Elders rose vp, and ranne vnto her, saying,
20 Beholde, the garden dores are shut, that no man can se vs: & we burne in loue with the: therefore consent vnto vs, and lye with vs.
21 If thou wilt not, we wil beare witnes against thee, that a yong man was with thee, and therefore thou dideſt send a way thy maides from thee.
22 Then Susanna sighed, and said, I am in trouble on euerie side: for if I do this thing, it is death vnto me: & if I do it not, I can not escape your hands.
23 It is better for me to fall into your hāds, and not do it, then to sinne in the sight of the Lord.
24 With that Susanna cryed with a loude voyce, and the two Elders cryed out against her.
25 Then ranne the one, and opened the garden dore.
26 ¶ So when the seruants of the house heard the crye in the gardē, they rushed in at ý backe dore, to se what was done vnto her.
27 But when the Elders had declared their matter, the seruants were greatly ashamed: for there was neuer suche a reporte made of Susanna.
28 On the morow after, came the people to Ioacim her housband, & the two Elders came also, ful of mischieuous imaginacion against Susanna, to put her to death, 29 And said before the people, Send for Susanna the daughter of Helcias Ioacims wife. And immediatly they sent.
30 So she came with her father and mother, her children and all her kinred.
31 Now Susanna was very tender, & faire of face
32 And these wicked mē cōmāded to vncouer her face (for she was couered) that thei might so be satisfied w herbeautie.
33 Therefore they that were about her, and all they that knewe her, wept.
34 Then the two Elders stode vp in the middes of the people, and layed their hands vpon her head, 35 Which wept and loked vp towarde heauen: for her heart trusted in ý Lord.
36 And the Elders said, As we walked in the garden alone, she came in with two maides, whome she sent away from her, and shut the garden dores.
37 Then a yong man, which there was hid, came vnto her, and lay with her.
38 Then we which stode in a corner of the garden, seing this wickednes, ranne vnto them, and we sawe them as they were together,
39 But we colde not holde him: for he was stronger then we, and opened the dore, and leaped out.
40 Now when we had taken this woman, we asked her what yong man this was, but she wolde not tel vs: or these things are we witnesses.
41 Then the assemblie beleued them, as those that were the Elders and iudges of the people: so thei condemned her to death.
42 Then Susanna cryed out with a loude voyce, and said, O euerlasting God that knoweſt the secrets, and knoweſt all things afore they come to passe, 43 Thou knoweſt, that they haue borne false witnes against me, and beholde, I must dye, where as I neuer did suche things as these men haue maliciously inuented against me.
44 And the Lord heard her voyce.
45 ¶ Therefore when she was led to be put to death, the Lord raised vp the holie spirit of a yong childe, whose name was Daniel.
46 Who cryed with a loude voyce, I am cleane from the blood of this woman.
47 Then all ý people turned them toward him, and said, What meane these wordes, that thou hast spoken?
48 Then Daniel stode in the middes of them, and said, Are ye suche fooles, O Israelites, that without examinacion, or knowledge of the trueth, ye haue cōdemned a daughter of Israel?
49 Returne againe to iudgement: for they haue borne false witnes against her.
50 Wherefore the people turned againe in all haste, & the Elders said vnto him Come, sit downe among vs, & shewe it vs, seing God hathe giuen thee the office of an Elder.
51 Then said Daniel vnto them, Put these two aside, one farre from another, and I wil examine them.
52 So when they were put a sonder, one from another, he called one of them & said vnto him, O thou that art olde in a wicked life, now thy sinnes which ỹ hast committed afore time, are come to light.

53 For thou hast pronoũced false iudgemẽts and hast condemned the innocẽt, and hast let the giltie go fre albeit the Lord saith, * The innocent and righteous shalt thou not slay.

Exod. 22.7

54 Now then, if thou hast sene her, tel me, vnder what tre sawest thou them companying together? Who answered, Vnder a lentiske tre.

55 Then said Daniel, Verely thou hast lyed against thine owne " head: for lo, ỹ Angel of God hathe receiued the sentence of God, to cut thee in two.

" Or, life

56 So put he him aside, and commanded to bring the other, & said vnto him, O thou sede of Chanaan and not of Iuda, beautie hathe disceiued thee, and lust hathe subuerted thine heart.

57 Thus haue ye dealt with the daughters of Israel, and they for feare companied with you: but the daughter of Iuda wolde not abide your wickednes.

58 Now therefore tel me vnder what tre didest thou take them companying together? Who answered, Vnder a " prime tree.

" Or, mirtle tre

59 Then said Daniel vnto him, Verely thou hast also lyed against thine head: for the Angel of God waiteth with the sworde to cut thee in two, and so to destroie you bothe.

60 ¶ With that all the whole assemblie cryed with a loude voyce, and praised God, which saueth them that trust in him.

61 And they arose against the two Elders (for Daniel had conuict them of false witnes by their owne mouth).

62 * And according to the Law of Moses they delt with them, as they delt wickedly against their neighbour, and put them to death. Thus the innocent blood was saued the same day.

63 Therefore Helcias and his wife praised God for their daughter Susanna, with Ioacim her husband, and all the kinred, that there was no dishonestie founde in her.

64 From that day forthe was Daniel had in great reputacion in the sight of the people.

65 And King Astyages was laide with his fathers, and Cyrus of Persia reigned in his steade.

THE HISTORIE OF

Bel and of the dragon, which is the fourteenth chapter of Daniel after the Laten.

1 NOw when King Astyages was laide with his fathers, Cyrus ỹ Persian receiued his kingdome.

2 And Daniel did eat at the Kings table, & was honored aboue all his friends.

3 Now the Babylonians had an idole, called Bel, and there were spent vpon him euerie day, twelue [a] great measures of fine floure, and fortie shepe, and six great [b] pottes of wine.

a Called Aruba whereof euerie one conteined somewhat more then nine gallons, which make in all an hundreth & eight galons at ỹ least 4 And the King worshipped it, & went daily to honour it: but Daniel worshipped his owne God. And the King said vnto him, Why doest not thou worship Bel?

5 Who answered, & said, Because I may not worship idoles made with hands, but the liuing God, which hathe created the heauen & the earth, and hathe power vpon all flesh.

b Called Metreta, and euerie one of these measures conteined about ten galons, which in all make three score.

6 Then said the King vnto him, Thinkest thou not that Bel is a liuing God seest thou not how muche he eateth & drinketh euerie day?

7 Then Daniel smiled and said, O King be not deceiued: for this is but claye within, and brasse without, and did neuer eat any thing.

8 So the King was wroth, and called for his Priests, & said vnto them, If ye tell me not, who this is that eateth vp these expenses, ye shal dye:

9 But if ye can certifie me that Bel eateth them, then Daniel shal dye: for he hathe spoken blasphemie against Bel. And Daniel said vnto the King, Let it be according to thy worde.

10 (Now the Priests of Bel were three score and ten beside their wiues & children:) and the King went with Daniel into the temple of Bel.

11 So Bels Priests said, Beholde, we wil go out, and set thou the meat there, o King, & let the wine be filled: then shut the dore fast, and seale it with thine signet.

12 And to morowe when thou commest in if thou findest not that Bel hathe eaten vp all, we wil suffer death, or els

Daniel

Daniel that hathe lyed vpon vs.

33 Now they thoght them selues sure ynough: for vnder the table thei had made a priuie entrance, and there went they in euer, & toke away the things.

34 So when they were gone forthe the King set meates before Bel. Now Daniel had commanded his seruants to bring ashes, and these they strowed thorowout all the temple, in the presence of the King alone: then went they out, and shut the dore, and sealed it with ỹ Kings signet, and so departed.

35 Now in the night came the Priests, with their wiues and children, (as they were went to do) and did eat & drinke vp all.

36 In the morning betimes, the King arose and Daniel with him.

37 And the King said, Daniel, are the seales whole? Who answered, Yea, ô King, thei be whole.

38 And assone as he had opened the dore, the King loked vpon the table, and cryed with a loude voyce, Great art thou, ô Bel, and with thee is no disceite.

39 Then laughed Daniel, and helde the King that he shulde not go in, and said, Beholde now the pauement, and marke wel whose footesteppes are these.

40 And the King said, I se the footesteppes of men, women, and children: therefore the King was angrie, 41 And toke the Priests, with their wiues, and children, and they shewed him the priuie dores, where they came in, and consumed suche things as were vpon the table.

42 Therefore the King slewe them, and deliuered Bel into Daniels power, who destroyed him and his temple.

43 ¶ Moreouer in that same place there was a great dragon, which the Babylonias worshipped.

44 And the King said vnto Daniel, Sayest thou that this is of brasse also? lo, he liueth and eateth and drinketh, so that thou canst not say, that he is no liuing God: therefore worshippe him.

45 Then said Daniel vnto the King, I wil worshippe the Lord my God: for he is the liuing God.

46 But giue me leaue, ô King, and I wil slay this dragon without sworde or staffe. And the King said, I giue thee leaue.

47 Then Daniel toke pitche, and fatte, and heere, and did seeth them together, and made lompes thereof: this he put in the dragons mouthe, and so the dragon burst in sunder. And Daniel said, Beholde, whome ye worshippe.

48 When the Babylonians heard it, they were wonderful wroth, and gathered them together against the King, saying, The King is become a Iewe: for he hathe destroyed Bel, and hathe slaine the dragon, and put the priests to death.

49 So they came to the King, and said, Deliuer vs Daniel, or els we wil destroy thee and thine house.

50 Now when the King sawe, that thei preased sore vpon him, and that necessitie cõstreined him, he deliuered Daniel vnto them:

51 Who cast him into the lions denne, where he was six daies.

52 In the denne there were seuen lions, and they had giuen them euerie day two bodies and two shepe, which then were not giuen them, to the intent that they might deuour Daniel.

53 ¶ Now there was in Iewrie a Prophet called Abbacuc, which had made potage, and broken bread into a bowle, and was going into the field for to bring it to the reapers.

54 But the Angel of the Lord said vnto Abbacuc, Go, carye the meat that thou hast, into Babylon vnto Daniel, which is in the lions denne.

55 And Abbacuc said, Lord, I neuer sawe Babylon, nether do I knowe where the denne is.

56 Then the Angel toke him by the crowne of the head, and bare him by the heare of the heade, and through amightie winde set him in Babylõ vpõ the denne.

57 And Abbacuc cryed, saying, O Daniel, Daniel, take the dinner that God hathe sent thee.

58 Then said Daniel, O God, thou hast thoght vpon me, and thou neuer faileste them that seke thee and loue thee.

59 So Daniel arose, and did eat, and the Angel of the Lord set Abbacuc in his owne place againe immediatly.

60 Vpon the seuenth day, the King went to be bewaile Daniel: & when he came to the denne, he loked in, and beholde, Daniel sate in the middes of the lions.

61 Then cryed the King with a loude voyce, saying, Great art thou, ô Lord God of Daniel, and there is none other besides thee.

62 And he drewe him out of the denne, & cast them that were the cause of his destruction into the denne, and they were deuoured in a momente before his face.

THE FIRST BOKE OF the Maccabees.

CHAP. I.

1 The death of Alexander the King of Macedonia. 11 Antiochus taketh the kingdome. 12 Many of the children of Israel make couenant with the Gentiles. 21 Antiochus subdueth Egypt and Ierusalem vnto his dominion. 50 Antiochus setteth vp idoles.

1 AFter that Alexander the Macedonian, the sonne of Philippe, went forthe of the land of Chettiim, & slewe Darius King of the Persians & Medes, and reigned for him, as he had before in Grecia,

2 He toke great warres in hand, & wan strong holdes, & slewe the Kings of the earth.

3 So went he thorow to the ends of the worlde, and toke spoiles of many nacions, in so muche that the worlde stode in awe of him: therefore his heart was puffed vp and was hawtie.

4 Now when he had gathered a mightie strong hoste,

5 And had reigned ouer regions, naciõs and kingdomes, they became tributaries vnto him.

6 After these things he fel sicke, and knewe that he shulde dye.

7 Then he called for the chief of his seruantes, which had bene broght vp with him of children, and parted his kingdome among them, while he was yet aliue.

8 So Alexander had reigned twelue yeres when he dyed.

9 And his seruants reigned euerie one in his roume.

10 And they all caused them selues to be crowned after his deathe, & so did there children after them many yeres, muche wickednes increased in ỹ worlde.

11 For out of these came the wicked rote, euen Antiochus[a] Epiphanes the sonne of king Antiochus, which had bene an hostage at Rome, and he reigned in the hundreth and seuen and thirtieth yere of the kingdome of the Grekes.

12 In those daies went there out of Israel wicked men, which entyced many, saying, Let vs go, and make a couenant with the heathen, that are rounde about vs: for since we departed from them, we haue had muche sorowe.

13 So this deuice pleased them wel.

14 And certeine of the people were readie, and went to the King which gaue thẽ licence to do after the ordinances of the heathen.

15 Then set thei vp a place of exercise at Ierusalem, according to the facions of the heathen, Ioseph Antiq. 12. chap. 6.

16 And made them [a] selues vncircumcised, and forsoke the holy couenant, & ioyned them selues to the heathen, and were solde to do mischief. [a] By drawing the skinne ouer the parte that was circumcised, as Cels. 7. chap. 25. Epip. lib. de põderib. & mensur

17 So when Antiochus kingdome was set in order, he went about to reigne ouer Egypt, that he might haue the dominion of two realmes.

18 Therefore he entred into Egypt with a mightie companie, with charets, and elephantes, and with horsemen, & with a great nauie, 19 And moued warre against Ptolemeus King of Egypt: but Ptolemeus was afraied of him, and fled, and manie were wounded to death.

20 Thus Antiochus wanne many strong cities in the land of Egypt, and toke away the spoiles of the land of Egypt.

21 And after that Antiochus had smitten Egypt, he turned againe in the hundreth, fortie and thre yere, 22 And went vp towarde Israel and Ierusalem with a mightie people.

23 And entred proudly into the Sanctuarie, and toke away the golden altar, and the candlestucke for the light, and all the instruments thereof, and the table of the shewbread, and the powring vessels, and the bowles, and the golden basings, and the vaile, and the crownes, and the golden apparel, which was before the Temple, and brake all in pieces.

24 He toke also the siluer and golde, & the precious iewels, and he toke the secret treasures that he founde, and when he had taken away all, he departed into his owne land, 25 After he had murthered many men, and spoken verie proudely.

26 Therefore there was a great lamentacion in euerie place of Israel.

27 For the princes and the Elders mourned: the yong women, and the yong mẽ were made feble, and the beautie of the women was changed.

28 Euerie bridegrome toke him to mourning, and she that sate in the mariage chamber, chamber was in heauines.

[b] Or, noble.

29 The land also was moued for the inhabitants thereof: for all the house of Iacob was couered with confusion.
30 After two yeres the King sent his chief taxe maister into ỹ cities of Iuda, which came to Ierusalem with a great multitude.
31 Who spake peaceable wordes vnto them in disceite, and thei gaue credit vnto him.
32 Then he fell suddenly vpon the citie, & smote it with a great plague, and destroied muche people of Israel.
33 And when he had spoiled the citie, he set fyre on it, casting downe the houses thereof & walles thereof on euerie side.
34 The women and their children toke thei captiue, and led awa the cattel.
35 Then fortified they the citie of Dauid with a great & thicke wall, & with mightie towres, and made it a strong holde for them.
36 Moreouer they set wicked people there, and vngodlie persones, and fortified them selues therein.
37 And they stored it with weapons and vitailes, and gathered the spoile of Ierusalem, and laied it vp there.
38 Thus became they a sore snare & were in ambushmẽt for ỹ Sanctuarie, & were wicked enemies euermore vnto Israel.
39 For thei shed innocent blood on euerie side of the Sanctuarie and defiled the Sanctuarie.
40 In so muche that the citizens of Ierusalem fled away because of them, and it became an habitacion of strangers, being desolate of them whome she had borne: for her owne children did leaue her.
41 Her Sanctuarie was left waste as a wildernes: her holie daies were turned into mourning, her Sabbaths into reproche, and her honour broght to naught.
42 As her glorie had bene great, so was her dishonor, and her excellencie was turned into sorow.
Ieseph. Anti. 12. cha. 6, & 7
43 Also ỹ King wrote vnto all his kingdome, that all the people shulde be as one, and that euerie man shulde leaue his lawes.
44 And all the heathen agreed to the commandement of the King.
45 Yea, many of the Israelites consented to his religion, offring vnto idoles, and defiling the Sabbath.
46 So the King sent letters by the messengers vnto Ierusalem, and to the cities of Iuda, that they shulde followe the strange lawes of the countrey,
47 And ỹ they shulde forbid the burnt offrings and sacrifices, and the *offrings in the Sanctuarie, 48 And that they shulde defile the Sabbaths and the feasts,
49 And pollute the Sanctuarie and the holie men,
50 And to set vp altars, and groues, and chappels of idoles, and offer vp swines flesh, and vncleane beasts,
51 And that they shulde leaue their children vncircumcised, and defile their soules, with vnclennes, and pollute thẽ selues that they might forget the Law and change all the ordinances,
52 And that whosoeuer wolde not do according to the commandement of the King, shulde suffer death.
53 In like maner wrote he thorow out all his kingdomes, & set ouerseers ouer all the people for to compell them to do these things.
54 And he commanded the cities of Iuda to do sacrifice, citie by citie.
55 Then went many of the people vnto thẽ by heapes, euery one that forsoke the Law, and so they committed euil in the land.
56 And they drowe the Israelites into secret places, euen whereseouer they colde flee for succour.
57 The fifteenth da of Chasleu, in the hundreth and fiue and fortieth yere, they set vp the abominacion of desolacion vpon the altar, and they buylded altars thorow out the cities of Iuda on euerie side.
58 And before the dores of the houses, & in the stretes they burnt incense.
59 And the bokes of the Law, ẅ they founde, they burnt in the fyre, and cutte in pieces.
60 Whosoeuer had a boke of the Testament founde by him, or whosoeuer cõsented vnto the Law, the Kings commandement was, that they shulde put him to death by their autoritie.
61 And they executed these things euerie moneth vpon the people of Israel ỹ were founde in the cities.
62 And in the fiue and twentieth day of the moneth, they did sacrifice vpõ the altar, which was in the stead of the altar of sacrifices.
63 And according to the commandemẽt, they put certeine women to death, ẅ had caused their childrẽ to be circumcised, 64 And they hanged vp the children at their neckes, and thei spoiled their houses, and slewe the circumcisers of them.
65 Yet were there many in Israel, which were of courage, and determined in thẽ selues, that they wolde not eat vncleane things, 66 But chose rather to suffer death, thẽ to be defiled with those meats: so because thei wolde not breake the holie couenant, they were put to death.

*Or, drinke offrings.

67 And this [a]tyrannie was verie sore vpō the people of Israel.

[a] Or, Rage.

CHAP. II.

1 The mourning of Mattathias and his sonnes for the destruction of the holy citie. 19 They refuse to do sacrifice vnto idoles. 24 The zeale of Mattathias for the Law of God. 33 They are slaine and will not fight againe because of the Sabbath day. 49 Mattathias dying commandeth his sonnes to stick to the worde of God, after the example of the fathers.

1 IN those dayes stode vp Mattathias the Priest, the sonne of Ioannes, the sonne of Simeon, of the sonnes of Ioarib of Ierusalem, and dwelt in Modin.

Ioseph. Anti. 12. chap. 7

2 And he had fiue sonnes, Ioanan called Gaddis,

3 Simon called Thassi,

4 Iudas which was called Maccabeus,

5 Eleazar called [a]Abaron, and Ionathan, whose name was Apphus.

[a] Or, Auaran.

6 Now he sawe the blasphemies, which were commited in Iuda and Ierusalem:

7 And he said, Wo is me: wherefore was I borne, to se this destruction of my people, and the destruction the holy citie, and thus to sit stil? it is deliuered into the hands of the enemies,

8 And the Sanctuarie is in the hands of strangers: her Temple is as a man that hathe no renoume.

9 Her glorious vessels are caryed away into captiuitie: her infants are slayne in the stretes, and her yong men are fallen by the worde of the enemies.

10 What people is it, that hathe not some possession in her kingdome, or hathe not gotten of her spoiles?

11 All her glorie is taken away: of a free woman, she is become an handmaid.

12 Beholde our Sanctuarie and our beautie, and honor is desolate, and the Gentiles haue defiled it.

13 What helpeth it vs then to liue anie longer?

14 And Mattathias rent his clothes, he, and his sonnes, and put sackecloth vpon them, and mourned verie sore.

15 ¶ Then came men from the King to the citie of Modin to compell them to forsake God, and to sacrifice.

16 So manie of the Israelites consented vnto them, but Mattathias and his sonnes assembled together.

17 Then spake the commissioners of the King, and said vnto Mattathias, Thou art y chief & an honorable man, and great in this citie, and hast many children and brethren.

18 Come thou therefore first, and fulfil the Kings commandement, as all the heathen haue done, and also the men of Iuda, and suche as remaine at Ierusalem: so shalt thou and thy familie be in the Kings fauour & thou and thy children shalbe enriched with siluer & golde, and with manie rewards.

19 Then Mattathias answered and said with a loude voyce, Though all nacions that are vnder the Kings dominion, obey him, and fall away euerie man frō the religion of their fathers, and consent to his commandements, 20 Yet wil I and my sonnes, and my brethren, walke in the couenant of our fathers.

21 God be merciful vnto vs, that we forsake not the Law and the ordinances.

22 We wil not hearken vnto the Kings wordes to transgresse our religion, neither on the right side, nor on the left.

23 And when he had left of speaking these wordes, there came one of the Iewes, in the sight of all to sacrifice vpon the altar which was at Modin, according to the Kings commandement.

24 Now when Mattathias sawe it, he was so inflamed with zeale, that his raines shoke, and his wrath was kindled according to the ordinance of the Law: therefore he ran vnto him, and killed him by the altar:

25 And at the same time he slewe the Kings commissioner, that compelled him to do sacrifice, and destroied the altar.

26 Thus bare he a zeale to the Law of God, x doing, as Phinees did vnto Zambri the sonne of Salom.

Numb. 25.

27 ¶ Then cryed Mattathias with a loude voyce in the citie, saying, Whosoeuer is zealous of the Law, and wil stand by the couenant, let him come forthe after me.

28 So he, and his sonnes fled into the mountaines, and left all that they had in the citie.

29 Then manie that [a]soght after iustice and iudgement,

[a] Or, that lined iustly and vprightly.

30 Went downe into the wildernes to dwell there, bothe they, and their children, and their wiues, and their cattel: for the afflictions increased sore vpon them.

31 ¶ Now when it was tolde vnto the Kings seruants, and to the garisons, which were in Ierusalem in the citie of Dauid, that men had broken the Kings commandement, and were gone downe into the secret places in the wildernes,

32 Then many pursued after them: and hauing ouertaken them, they camped against them, and set the battel in array ray againſt them on the Sabbath day,

33 And ſaid vnto them, Let this now be ſufficient: come forthe and do according to the commandement of the King, and ye ſhal liue.
34 But they anſwered, We wil not go forthe nether will we do the Kings commandement, to defile the Sabbath day.
35 Then they gaue them the battel.
36 But the other anſwered them nothing nether cait anie one ſtone at them, nor ſtopped the priuie places,
37 But ſaid, We wil dye all in our innocentie: the heauen and earth ſhal teſtifie for vs, ý ye deſtroy vs wrongfully.
38 Thus thei gaue them the battel vpon the Sabbath, and ſlewe bothe men and cattel, their wiues and their children to the nomber of a thouſand people.
39 ¶ When Mattathias and his friends vnderſtode this, thei mourned for thē greatly,
40 And ſaid one to another, If we all do as our brethren haue done, and fight not againſt the heathen for our liues, & for our Lawes, then ſhal thei incontinently deſtroye vs out of the earth.
41 Therefore they concluded at the ſame time, ſaing, Whoſoeuer ſhal come to make battel with vs vpon the Sabbath daye, we wil fight againſt him, ý we dye not all, as our brethren that were murthered in the ſecret places.
42 Then came vnto them the aſſemblie of the Aſideans, which were of the ſtrongeſt men of Iſrael, all ſuche as were wel minded toward the Law.
43 And all they that were fled for perſecution, ioined them ſelues vnto them, and were an helpe vnto them.
44 So they gathered a power, and ſmote the wicked men in their wrath, and the vngodlie in their angre: but the reſt fled vnto the heathen, and eſcaped.
45 Then Mattathias and his friends wēt about, and deſtroyed the altars, 46 And circumciſed the children by force that were vncircumciſed, as manie as they founde within the coaſts of Iſrael, 47 And they purſued after the proude men: and this acte proſpered in their hands.
48 So they recouered the Law out of the hand of the gentiles, and oute of the hande of Kings, & gaue not place to the wicked.
49 Now when the time drewe nere, that Mattathias ſhulde dye, he ſaid vnto his ſonnes, Now is pride and perſecution increaſed, and the time of deſtruction, and the wrath of indignacion.
50 Now therefore my ſonnes, be ye zealous of the Law, and giue your liues for the couenant of our fathers.
51 Call to remembrance what actes our fathers did in their time: ſo ſhal ye receiue great honour and an euerlaſting name.
52 * Was not Abraham founde faithful in tentacion, and it was imputed vnto him for righteouſnes? Gen. 22, 9
53 * Ioſeph in the time of his trouble kept the commandement, and was made the lord of Egypt. Gen. 41, 40
54 * Phinees our father, becauſe he was zealous and feruent, obteined the couenant of the euerlaſting prieſthode. Nom. 25. 13 eccleſ. 45, 28
55 * Ieſus for fulfilling the worde, was made the gouernour of Iſrael. Ioſh. 1, 2
56 * Caleb, becauſe he bare witnes before the congregacion, receiued the heritage of the land. Nom. 14, 6 Ioſh. 14, 13
57 * Dauid, becauſe of his mercie obteined the throne of the kingdome for euermore. 2. Sam. 2, 4
58 * Elias, becauſe he was zealous and feruent in the Law, was taken vp euen vnto heauen. 2 King. 2, 11
59 * Ananias, Azarias and Miſael by their faith were deliuered out of the flame. Dan. 3, 16
60 * Daniel, becauſe of his innocencie, was deliuered from the mouth of the lions. Dan. 6. 22
61 And thus ye may conſider thorow out all ages, that whoſoeuer put their truſt in him ſhal not want ſtrength.
62 Feare not ye then the wordes of a ſinful man: for his glorie in but dongue and wormes.
63 To day is he ſet vp, and to morowe he ſhal not be founde: for he his turned into his duſt, & his purpoſe periſheth.
64 Wherefore, my ſonnes, take good hearts, and ſhewe your ſelues men for the Law: for by it ſhal you obteine glorie.
65 And beholde, I knowe that your brother Simon is a man of counſel: giue eare vnto him alway: he ſhalbe a father vnto you.
66 And Iudas Maccabeus hathe bene mightie and ſtrong, euen frō his youth vp: let him be your captaine and fight you the battel for the people.
67 Thus ſhal ye bring vnto you all thoſe that obſerue the Law, and ſhal aduenge the iniuries of your people.
68 Recompenſe fully the heathen, and giue your ſelues to the commandemēt of the Law.
69 So he bleſſed them, and was laied with his fathers,
70 And dyed in the hundreth, fortie and ſix yere, and his ſonnes buryed him in his fathers ſepulchre at Modin, and all Iſrael made great lamētacion for him.

CHAP. III.

1 Iudas is made ruler ouer the Iewes. 11 He killeth Apollonius and Seron the princes of Syria. 44 The confidence of Iudas towarde God. 55 Iudas determineth to fight against Lysias, whome Antiochus had made captaine ouer his hoste.

1 THen Iudas his sonne, called Maccabeus, rose vp in his place.
2 And all his brethren helped him, & all they ý helde with his father, and foght with courage the battel of Israel.
3 So he gate his people great honour: he put on a brestplate as a gyant, and armed him self, and set the battel in array, and defended the campe with the sworde.
4 In his actes he was lyke a lyon, and as a lyons whelpe roaring after the pray.
5 For he pursued the wicked, and soght them out, and burnt vp those that vexed his people,
6 So that the wicked fled for feare of him, and all the workers of iniquitie were put to trouble: and saluacion prospered in his hand.
7 And he grieued diuers Kings, but Iacob reioyced by his actes, and his memorial is blessed for euer.
8 He went also thorowe the cities of Iuda, and destroyed the wicked out of them, and turned away the wrath from Israel.
9 So was he renoumed vnto the ends of the earth, and he assembled together those that were readie to perish.
10 ¶ But [a] Apollonius gathered the Gentiles, and a great hoste out of Samaria, to fight against Israel.
11 Which when Iudas perceiued, he went forthe to mete him, and smote him, and slue him, so that many fell downe slaine, and the rest fled.
12 So Iudas toke their spoiles, and toke also Apollonius sworde, & foght with it all his life long.
13 ¶ Now when Seron a prince of the armie of Syria heard that Iudas had gathered vnto him the congregacion, and Church of the faithful, and went forthe to the warre, 14 He said, I wil get me a name, and wil be glorious in the realme: for I wil go fight with Iudas, & them that are with him, which haue despised the Kings commandement.
15 So he made him readie to go vp, and there went with him a mighty hoste of the vngodlie to helpe him, and to be auenged of the children of Israel.
16 And when he came nere to the going vp of Bethhoron, Iudas went forthe to mete him with a smale companie.
17 But when they sawe the armie coming against them, they said to Iudas, How are we able, being so fewe, to fight against so great a multitude, & so strōg, seing we be so wearie, and haue fasted all this day?
18 Then said Iudas, It is an easie thing for many to be shut vp in the hands of fewe, and there is no difference before the God of heauen, to deliuer by a great multitude, or by a smale companie.
19 For the victorie of the battel stādeth not in the multitude of the hoste, but the strength cometh from heauen.
20 They come against vs with a cruel & proude multitude, to destroy vs, & our wiues, and our children, and to robbe vs.
21 But we do fight for our liues, and for our Lawes,
22 And God him self wil destroie them before our face: therefore be not ye afraied of them.
23 And when he had left of speaking, he lept suddenly vpon them: so was Seron and his hoste destroied before him.
24 And they pursued them from the going downe of Bethhoron vnto the plaine: where there were slaine eight hundreth men of them, and the residue fled into the land of the Philistims.
25 Then the feare and terrour of Iudas and his brethren fel vpon the nacions rounde about,
26 So that his fame came vnto the King: for all the Gentiles colde tell of the warres of Iudas.
27 ¶ But when King Antiochus heard these tidings, he was angrie in his minde: wherefore he sent forthe, and gathered all the power of his realme a very strong armie, 28 And opened his treasurie, and gaue his hoste a yeres wages in hand, commanding them to be readie for a yere for all occasions.
29 Neuertheles, when he sawe that the money of his treasures failed, and that tributes in the countrey were smale, because of the dissencion, and plagues that he had brought vpon the land, in taking away the lawes which had bene of olde time,
30 He feared lest he shulde not haue now at the seconde time, as at the first, for the charges and giftes that he had giuē with a liberal hand afore: for in liberalitie he farre passed the other Kings ý were before him.
31 Wherefore he was heauie in his minde, and thoght to go into Persia, for to take tributes of the countreis, and to gather muche money.
32 So he left Lysias a noble man and of the Kings blood to ouersee the Kings busines, from the riuer of Euphrates vnto the borders of Egypt,

33 And

[a] Who was gouernour of Syria. Ioseph. Antiq. 12. chap. 9.

33 And to bring vp his ſonne Antiochus, til he came againe.
34 Moreouer, he gaue him halfe of his hoſte and elephantes, and gaue him the charge of all things that he wolde haue done,
35 And concerning thoſe which dwelt in Iuda and Ieruſalem, that he ſhulde ſend an armie againſt them, to deſtroy and roote out the power of Iſrael and the remnant of Ieruſalem, and to put out their memorial from that place, 36 And to ſet ſtrangers for to inhabite all their quarters, and parte their land among them.
37 And the King toke the halfe of the hoſte that remained, & departed from Antiochia his royal citie, in the yere an hundreth fortie & ſeuen, & paſſed the riuer Euphrates, and went thorow the hie countreis.
38 Then Lyſias choſe Ptolemeus the ſonne of Dorimnus, and Nicanor, and Gorgias, mightie men, and the Kings friends, 39 And ſent with them fortie thouſand fote men, and ſeuen thouſand horſemen, to go into the land of Iuda, and to deſtroye it, as the King commanded.
40 So they went forthe with all their power and came and pitched by ‖ Emmaus in the plaine country. ‖ Emmaus.
41 Now when the marchants of the countrey heard the rumour of them, they toke very muche ſiluer and golde, and ſeruants, and came into the campe to bye the children of Iſrael for ſclaues, and the ſtrength of Syria & of ſtrange nacions ioyned with them.
42 ¶ Now when Iudas and his brethren ſawe that trouble increaſed, and that the hoſte drewe nere vnto their borders, conſidering the Kings wordes, whereby he had commãded to deſtroy the people, and vtterly aboliſh them, 43 They ſaid one to another, Let vs redreſſe the decay of our people, and let vs fight for our people, and for our Sanctuarie.
44 Then the congregacion were ſone readie gathered to fight, and to praye, and to deſire mercie and compaſsion.
45 As for Ieruſalem, it was not inhabited, but was as a wildernes. There went none that was borne in it, in or out at it, and the Sanctuarie was troden downe, and the ſtrangers kept the forteresſe, and it was the habitacion of the heathen: and the mirth of Iacob was taken away: the pipe and the harpe ceaſed.
46 So they gathered them ſelues together, and came to Maſpha before Ieruſalem: for in Maſpha was the place where they praied afore time in Iſrael.
47 And they faſted that day, and put ſackecloth vpon them, and caſt aſhes vpon their heads, and rent their clothes,
48 And opened the boke of the Law, wherein the heathen ſoght to paint the likenes of their idoles, 49 And broght the Prieſts garments, and the firſt frutes, and the tithes, and ſet there the Nazarites, which accompliſhed their daies.
50 And they cryed with a loude voyce, towarde heauen, ſaying, What ſhal we do with theſe? and whether ſhal we carye them away?
51 For thy Sanctuarie is troden downe, & defiled, and thy Prieſts are in heauines, and broght downe.
52 And beholde, the heathen are come againſt vs to deſtroie vs: thou knoweſt what things they imagine againſt vs.
53 How can we ſtand before them, except thou helpe vs?
54 Then they blewe the trumpets, and cryed with a loude voyce.
55 And after this Iudas ordeined captaines ouer the people, euen captaines ouer thouſands, and captaines ouer hundreths, and captaines ouer fifties, and captaines ouer ten.
56 And they commanded them ý buyIded houſes, or maried wiues, or planted vineyardes, or were fearful, that they ſhulde returne euerie one to his owne houſe, according * to the Law. *Deut. 20. 5 Iud. 7, 3
57 So the hoſte remoued, and pitched vpon the Southſide of Emmaus.
58 And Iudas ſaid, Arme your ſelues, and be valiant men, and be readie againſt the morning to fight with theſe nacions, which are gathered together againſt vs, to deſtroie vs and our Sanctuarie.
59 For it is better for vs to dye in battel, then to ſe the calamities of our people and of our Sanctuarie.
60 Neuertheles as the wil of God is in heauen, ſo be it.

CHAP. IIII.

1 Iudas goeth againſt Gorgias which lieth in wait. 14 He putteth Gorgias and his hoſte to flight. 28 Lyſias inuadeth Iudea. 29 But Iudas driueth him out. 43 Iudas purifieth the Temple and dedicateth the altar.

1 THen toke Gorgias fiue thouſand fote men, and a thouſand of the beſt horſemen, and departed out of the campe by night, Ioſeph lib 12 chap. 10
2 To inuade the campe of the Iewes, & to ſlaye them ſuddenly: and the men of the forteresſe were his guides.
3 Now when Iudas heard it, he remoued, and they that were valiant men, to ſmite the Kings armie which was at Emmaus,

4 Whiles yet the armie was disperſed from the campe.
5 In the meane ſeaſon came Gorgias by night into Iudas campe: and when he founde no man there, he ſoght them in the mountaines: for ſaid he, They flee from vs.
6 But aſſone as it was day, Iudas ſhewed him ſelf in the field with thre thouſand men which had nether harnes nor ſwordes to their mindes.
7 And thei ſawe that the armies of the heathen were ſtrong and well armed, and their horſemen about them, and that theſe were experte men of warre.
8 Then ſaid Iudas to the men that were with him, Feare ye not their multitude, nether be afraied of their aſſalt.
9 Remember, how our fathers were deliuered * in the red Sea, when Pharao purſued them with an armie. Exod. 14. 9
10 Therefore now let vs crye vnto heauen, and the Lord wil haue mercie vpō vs, and remember the couenant of our fathers, and wil deſtroie this hoſte before our face this day:
11 So ſhal all the heathen knowe, that there is one, which deliuereth and ſaueth Iſrael.
12 Then the ſtrangers lift vp their eyes, and ſawe them coming againſt them, 13 And they went out of their tentes into the battel, and they that were with Iudas blew the trumpets.
14 So they ioyned together, & the heathen were diſcomfited and fled by the plaine.
15 But the hinmoſte of them fel by the ſworde, and they purſued them vnto * Gazeron and into the plaines of Idumea, and of Azotus, and of Iamnia, ſo that there were ſlaine of them about thre thouſand men. * Or, Aſaremoth.
16 So Iudas turned againe with his hoſte from purſuing them,
17 And ſaid vnto the people, Be not griedie of the ſpoiles: for there is a battel before vs:
18 And Gorgias and the armie is here by vs in the mountaine: but ſtand ye now faſt againſt your enemies, and ouercome them: then may ye ſafely take the ſpoiles
19 As Iudas was ſpeaking theſe wordes, there appeared one parte which loked from the mountaines.
20 But when Gorgias ſawe that his were fled, and that Iudas ſoldiers burnt the tentes: (for the ſmoke that was ſene, declared what was done.)
21 When they ſaw theſe things, they were ſore afraied, and when they ſawe alſo that Iudas and his hoſte were in the field readie to ſet them ſelues in array,
22 They fled euerie one into the land of ſtrangers.
23 So Iudas turned againe to ſpoile the tentes, where he gate muche golde and ſiluer and precious ſtones, and purple of the ſea, and great riches.
24 Thus they went home, and ſang pſalmes, and praiſed toward the heauen: for he is gracious, and his mercie endureth for euer.
25 And ſo Iſrael had a grat victorie in that day.
26 ¶ Now all the ſtrangers that eſcaped, came, and tolde Lyſias all the things that were done.
27 Who when he heard theſe things, was ſore afraied, and diſcouraged, becauſe ſuche things came not vpon Iſrael as he wolde, nether ſuche things as the King had commanded him, came to paſſe.
28 Therefore the next yere following, gathered Lyſias thre ſcore thouſande choſen foremen, and fiue thouſande horſemen, to fight againſt Ieruſalem. " Or. Iudea
29 So they came into " Idumea, and pitched their tentes at " Beth-ſura, where Iudas came againſt them with ten thouſand men. " Or, Bethhara
30 And whē he ſawe that mightie armie, he praied and ſaid, Bleſſed be thou, o Sauiour of Iſrael, * which dideſt deſtroie the aſſalte of the mightie man by the hand of thy ſeruant Dauid, * & gaueſt the hoſte of the ſtrangers into the hand of Ionathan the ſonne of Saul, & of his armour bearer: 1. Sam. 17. 50 1 Sam 14. 13
31 Shut vp this armie in the hand of thy people of Iſrael and let them be confounded with their power, & with their horſemen.
32 Make them afraied, & conſume their boldenes and ſtrength, that thei may be aſtoniſhed at their deſtruction.
33 Caſt them downe by the ſworde of them that loue thee, then ſhal all thei that knowe thy Name, praiſe thee with ſongs.
34 So they ioyned together, and there were ſlaine of Lyſias hoſte, fiue thouſand men, and they fell before them.
35 Then Lyſias, ſeing his armie put to flight and the manlines of Iudas ſoldiers, and that they were readie, either to liue or dye valiantly, he went into Antiochia, and gathered ſtrangers, and when he had furniſhed his armie, he thoght againe (being prepared) to come againſt Iudea.
36 Then ſaid Iudas and his brethren, Beholde, our enemies are diſcomfited: let vs now go vp to clenſe, and to repaire the Sanctuarie.
37 So all the hoſte gathered them together, and went vp into the mountaine of Sion.

38 Now

38 Now when they sawe the Sanctuarie layed waste, and the altar defiled, and the dores burnt vp, and the shrubbes growing in the courtes, as in a forest, or as on one of the mountaines, & that the Priests chambers were broken downe,

39 They rent their clothes, & made great lamentation, and cast ashes vpon their heads, 40 And fell downe to the grounde on their faces, and blewe an alarme with the trumpets, and cryed towarde heauen.

41 Then Iudas commanded certeine of the men to fight against those which were in the castel, til he had clensed the Sanctuarie.

42 So he chose Priests that were vndefiled, suche as desired in the Law,

43 And they clensed the Sanctuarie, and bare out the defiled stones into an vncleane place, 44 And consulted what to do with the altar of burnt offrings, which was polluted.

45 So they thoght it was best to destroie it, lest it shulde be a reproche vnto them, because the heathen had defiled it: therefore they destroyed the altar, 46 And layed vp the stones vpon the mountaine of the Temple in a conuenient place, til there shulde come a Prophet, to shewe what shulde be done with them.

47 So they toke whole stones according to the Law, and buylded a newe altar according to the former,

48 And made vp the Sanctuarie, & the things that were with in the Temple, & the courts and all things.

49 They made also new holie vessels, & broght into the Temple the candelsticke, and the altar of burnt offrings, and of incense, and the table.

50 And they burnt incense vpon the altar, and lighted the lampes which were vpon the candelsticke, that they might burne in the Temple.

51 They set also the shewbread vpon the table, and hanged vp the vailes, and finished all ỹ workes that they had begon to make.

52 And vpon the fiue and twentieth day of the ninth moneth, which is called the moneth of Chasleu, in the hundreth and eight and fortieth yere they rose vp betimes in the morning, 53 And offred sacrifice according to the Law, vpon the new altar of burnt offrings, that they had made.

54 According to the time, and according to the day, that the heathen had defiled it, in the same day was it made new with songs and harpes, & lutes, & cymbales.

55 And all the people fel vpon their faces, worshipping and praising towarde the heauen him that had giuen them good successe.

56 So they kept the dedicacion of the altar eight daies, offring burnt offrings with gladnes, and offred sacrifices of deliuerance and praise, 57 And decte the forefronte of the Temple with crownes of golde and shields, and dedicated the gates and chambers, and hanged dores vpon them.

58 Thus there was very great gladnes among the people, and the reproche of the heathen was put away.

59 So Iudas and his brethren with the whole congregacion of Israel ordeined that the daies of dedicacion of the altar shulde be kept in their season from yere to yere, by the space of eight daies, from the fiue and twentie day of the moneth Chasleu, with mirth and gladnes.

60 And at the same time buylded they vp mount Sion with hie walles & strog towers rounde about, lest the Gentiles shulde come, and treade it downe, as they had done afore.

61 Therefore they set a garison there to kepe it, and fortified Beth-sura to kepe it, that the people might haue a defence against Idumea.

CHAP. V.

Iudas vanquished the heathen that go about to destroie Israel, and is holpen of his brethren Simon and Ionathan. So He ouerthroweth the citie of Ephron, because they denyed him passage thorowe it.

1 NOw when the nacions roũde about heard, that the altar was buylded, & the Sanctuarie renued, as afore, they were sore grieued.

2 Therefore they thoght to destroie the generacion of Iacob that was among them, and beganne to slaye & destroye the people.

3 Then Iudas foght against the children of Esau in Idumea at Arrabathene (Or, Arabathane.) because they besieged the Israelites and he smote them with a great plague, & droue them to straites, and toke their spoiles.

4 He thoght also vpon the malice of the children of Bean, which had bene a snare and an hinderance vnto the people, when they laye in waite for them in the hie way.

5 Wherefore he shut them vp in towers, and besieged them, and destroied them vtterly, and burnt their towers with fire, with all that were in them.

6 Afterwarde, went he against the children of Ammon, where he founde a mightie power, and a great multitude with Timotheus their captaine.

7 So he had manie battels with them, but they were destroyed before him, & so he discomfited them,
8 And toke Gazer with the townes thereof, and so turned againe into Iudea.
9 ¶ Then the heathen that were in Galaad, gathered them together against ỹ Israelites that were in their quarters, to slay them: but they fled to the castel of Datheman,
10 And sent letters to Iudas, and to his brethren, saying, The heathen that are about vs, are gathered against vs to destroye vs, 11 And they make them readie for to come, and to take the forteresse, whereunto we are fled, and Timotheus is captaine of their hoste.
12 Come now therefore, and deliuer vs out of their hands: for manie of vs are slaine:
13 And all our brethren that were at Tubin, are slaine, and they haue taken away their wiues, and their children, & their goods, and destroyed there almost a thousand men.
14 While these letters were yet a reading, beholde there came other messengers from Galile with their clothes rent, which tolde the same tidings, 15 And said, that they of Ptolemais, and of Tyrus, and of Sidon, and of all Galile of the Gentiles were gathered against them to destroye them.
16 When Iudas, and the people heard these wordes, a great congregacion came together, to consulte what they might do for their brethren, that were in trouble, and whome they besieged.
17 Then said Iudas to Simō his brother, Chuse thee out men, and go and deliuer thy brethren in Galile, & I and my brother Ionathan, wil go into the countrey of Galaad.
18 ¶ So he left Iosephus the sonne of Zacharias, and Azarias to be captaines of the people, and to kepe the remnant of the hoste in Iudea, 19 And commanded them, saying, Take the ouersight of this people, and make no warre against the heathen, vntil we come againe.
20 And vnto Simon were giuen thre thousand men to go into Galile, and to Iudas eight thousand mē for the countrey of Galaad.
21 Then went Simon into Galile, and gaue diuers battels to the heathen, & the heathen were discomfited by him.
22 And he pursued them vnto the gates of Ptolemais: and there were slaine of the heathen almoste thre thousand mē: so he toke their spoiles.
23 Thus they rescued them that were in Galile and in Arbattis with their wiues, and their children and all ỹ they had, and broght them into Iudea with great ioye.
24 ¶ Iudas Maccabeus also, and his brother Ionathan went ouer Iorden, and trauailed thre dayes iourney in the wildernes, 25 Where they met with the Nabathites, who receiued them louingly, & tolde thē euerie thing that was done vnto their brethren in the countrey of Galaad,
26 And how that manie of them were besieged in Bosorra, & Bosor, in Alemis, Chasbon, Maged and Carnaim (all these cities are strong, and great) Or, Chaspho.
27 And that they were kept in other cities of Galaad, and to morow they are appointed to bring their hoste vnto these fortes, and to take them, and to destroye them all in one day.
28 So Iudas & his hoste turned in all haste by the way of the wildernes towarde Bosorra, and wan the citie, and slewe all the males with the edge of the sworde, & toke all their spoile and set fyre vpon the citie.
29 And in the night he remoued from thence, and went towarde the forteresse.
30 And betimes in the morning when thei loked vp, beholde there was an innumerable people bearing ladders, & instruments of warre, to take ỹ forte, & had assalted them.
31 When Iudas sawe that the battel was begon, and that the crye of the citie went vp to heauen with trumpets, and a great sounde, 32 Then he said vnto the armie, Fight this day for your brethren.
33 So he went forthe behinde them with thre companies, and they blew the trumpets, & cryed with prayer.
34 Then the hoste of Timotheus knewe that it was Maccabeus, and they fled from him, and he smote them with a great slaughter, so that there was killed of thē the same day, almoste eight thousand men.
35 ¶ Then departed Iudas vnto Maspha, and laid siege vnto it, and wanne it, & slewe all the males thereof, and spoiled it, and set fyre vpon it.
36 From thence went he and toke Chasbon, Maged, and Bosor, and the other cities in Galaad.
37 After these things gathered Timotheus another hoste, and he camped before Raphon beyonde the flood.
38 Now Iudas had sent to espie the hoste, & they broght him worde againe, saying, All the hethen that be rounde about vs, are gathered vnto him, & the hoste is verie great,
39 And

39 And he hathe hyred the Arabians to helpe them, and they haue pitched their tentes beyonde the flood, and are readie to come and fight againſt thee. So Iudas went to mete them.

40 Then Timotheus ſaid vnto the captaines of his hoſte, When Iudas & his hoſte come nere the flood, if he paſſe ouer firſt vnto vs, we ſhal not be able to withſtād him: for he wil be to ſtrōg for vs.

41 But if he be afraid, & campe beyonde the flood, we wil go ouer vnto him, and ſhal preuaile againſt him.

42 Now when Iudas came nere to the flood, he cauſed the gouernours of the people to remaine by the flood, & commāded them, ſaying, Suffer none to pitche a tent but let euerie man come to the battel.

43 So he went firſt ouer towarde them, & all people after him: and all the heathen were diſcomfited before him, and caſt away their weapons, and fled into the temple that was at Carnaim.

44 Which citie Iudas wanne, and burnt the temple with all that were in it: ſo was Carnaim ſubdued, and might not withſtand Iudas.

45 ¶ Then Iudas gathered all the Iſraelites that were in the countrey of Galaad, from the leaſt vnto the moſte, with their wiues and their children, & their baggage, a verie great hoſte, to come into the land of Iuda.

46 So they came vnto Ephron, which was a great citie by the way, and ſtrongly defenſed: they colde not paſſe, nether at the right hand nor at the left, but muſt go thorowe it.

47 But they that were in the citie, ſhut them ſelues in, & ſtopped vp the gates with ſtones: and Iudas ſent vnto them with peaceable wordes, ſaying, 48 Let vs paſſe thorowe your land, that we may go into our owne countrey, & none ſhal hurt you: we wil but onely go thorowe on fote: but they wolde not open vnto him.

49 Wherefore Iudas commanded a proclamacion to be made thorowe out the hoſte, that euerie man ſhulde aſſalt it according to his ſtanding.

50 So the valiant men ſet vpon it, & aſſalted the citie all that day, and all that night, and the citie was giuen ouer into his hands:

51 Who ſlewe all the males with the edge of the ſworde, and deſtroyed it, and toke the ſpoile thereof, and went thorowe the citie ouer them that were ſlaine.

52 Then went they ouer Iorden into the great plaine before Bethſan.

53 And Iudas gathered together thoſe that were behinde, and gaue the people good exhortation all the way thorowe, til they were come into the land of Iuda.

54 Thus they went vp with ioye, and gladnes vnto mount Sion, where they offred burnt offrings, becauſe there were none of them ſlaine, but came home againe in ſafetie.

55 ¶ Now whiles Iudas and Ionathan were in the land of Galaad, and Simon their brother in Galile before Ptolemais, 56 Ioſeph the ſonne of Zacharias, and Azarias the captaines, hearing of the valiant actes, and battels which they had atchiued, ſaid, 57 Let vs get vs a name alſo, & go fight againſt the heathen that are round about vs.

58 So thei gaue their hoſte a commandement and went towarde Iamnia.

59 But Gorgias and his men came out of the citie to fight againſt them.

60 And Ioſeph and Azarias were put to flight and purſued vnto the borders of Iudea: and there were ſlaine that day of the people of Iſrael about two thouſand men: ſo that there was a great ouerthrowe among the people of Iſrael, 61 Becauſe they were not obedient vnto Iudas, & his brethrē, but thought to do ſome valiant thing.

62 Alſo they came not of the ſtocke of theſe men, by whoſe hands deliuerance was giuen to Iſrael.

63 But the man Iudas, and his brethren were greatly commended in the ſight of all Iſrael, and of all the heathen, whereſoeuer their name was heard of.

64 And the people came vnto them, bidding them welcome.

65 Afterwarde went Iudas forthe with his brethren, and foght againſt the children of Eſau in the land toward the South, where he wanne Hebron, & the townes thereof, and he deſtroied the caſtel thereof, and burnt the toweres thereof rounde about. Ioſeph Antiq. 12. chap. 11. & 12

66 Then remoued he to go into the lād of the "ſtrangers, and went thorow Samaria. Or, Philiſtis.

67 At the ſame time were the Prieſts of the cities ſlaine in the battel, which wolde ſhewe their valiantnes, and went forthe to battel without counſel: and when Iudas came to Azotus in the ſtrangers land, he brake downe their altars, and burnt with fyre the images of their gods, and toke away the ſpoiles of the cities, and came againe into the land of Iuda.

CHAP. VI.

CHAP. VI.

Antiochus, willing to take the citie of Elimais, is driue away of the citizens. 8 He falleth into sickenes, and dyeth. 17 His sonne Antiochus is made king. 34 The maner to prouoke elephantes to fight. 43 Eleazarus valiant acte. 49 The siege of Sion.

1 NOw when King Antiochus trauailed thorow the high countreis, he heard that Elimais in the countrey of Persia was a citie greatly renoumed for riches, siluer and golde, Ioseph. Antiq. 12. chap. 13.

2 And that there was in it a verie riche temple, where as were couerings of golde, cote armoures, & harnes, which Alexandre King of Macedonia ý sonne of Philippe (that reigned first in Grecia) had left there.

3 Wherefore he went about to take the citie, & to spoile it, but he was not able: for the citizens were warned of the matter,

4 And rose vp against him in battel, & he fled and departed thence with great heauines, and came againe into Babylon.

5 Moreouer, there came one ŵ broght him tidings in the countrey of Persia, that the armies that went against the land of Iuda, were driuen away,

6 And that Lysias, which wēt forthe first with a great power, was driuen away of the Iewes, & that they were made strōg by the armour, and power, and diuers spoyles which they had gotten of the armies whome they had destroyed,

7 And ý they had pulled downe ý abomination, which he had set vp vpon ý altar at Ierusalem, and fensed the Sanctuarie with high walles, as it was afore and Beth-sura his citie.

8 So when the King had heard these wordes he was astonished, and sore moued: therefore he laid him downe vpon his bed, & fel sicke for verie sorowe, because it was not come to passe, as he had thoght.

9 And there continued he manie dayes: for his grief was euer more & more, so that he sawe he must nedes dye.

10 Therefore he sent for all his friends, and said vnto them, The slepe is gone from mine eyes, and mine heart faileth for verie care.

11 And I thinke with my self, Into what aduersitie am I come? & into what floods of miserie am I fallen now, where as afore time I was in prosperitie, and greatly set by, by reason of my power?

12 And nowe do I remeber the euils that I haue done at Ierusalem: for I toke all the vessels of golde and of siluer that were in it, and sent to destroye the inhabitants of Iuda without cause.

13 I knowe that these troubles are come vpon me for the same cause, & behold I must dye with great sorowe in a strange land.

14 Then called he for Philippe, one of his friends, whome he made ruler of all his realme, 15 And gaue him the crowne, and his robe, & the ring, that he shulde instruct his sonne Antiochus, and bring him vp, til he might reigne him self.

16 So King Antiochus dyed there in the hundreth, and fortie and nintn yere.

17 ¶ When Lysias knewe that the King was dead, he ordeined Antiochus his sonne (whome he had broght vp) to reigne in his fathers stead, and called him Eupator.

18 Now they that were in the castle at Ierusalem, kept in the Israelites rounde about the Sanctuarie, and sought alwaies their hurt, and the strengthening of the heathen.

Ioseph. Anti. 12. chap. 14

19 Therefore Iudas thoght to destroy them, & called all the people together to besiege them.

20 So they came together, and besieged them in the hundreth and fiftie yere, and made instruments to shoote & other engins of warre.

21 But certeine of them that were besieged, gate forthe, (vnto whome some vngodlie men of Israel ioyned them selues.)

22 And they went vnto the King, saying, How long wilt thou cease from executing iudgement, and aduenge our brethren?

23 We haue bene readie to serue thy father, & to go forwarde in those things, that he appointed, & to obey his commandements.

24 Therefore they of our nacions fel from vs for this cause, and whersoeuer they founde anie of vs, they slewe them, and spoyled our inheritance

25 And they haue not onely laied hand vpō vs, but vpō all about their borders.

26 And beholde, this day are they besieging the castle at Ierusalem to take it, and haue fortified the Sanctuarie, & Beth-sura.

27 And if thou doest not preuent them quickely, they wil do greater things thē these, and thou shalt not be able to ouercome them.

28 When the King heard this, he was verie angrie, and called all his friends, the captaines of his armie, and his horsemen, 29 And bandes that were hired, came vnto him from the Kings, that were confederate, and from the yles of the sea.

30 So the nomber of his armie was an hundreth hundreth thousand fotemen, and twentie thousand horsemen, and two & thirtie elephantes exercised in battel.

31 These came through Idumea & drewe nere to Beth-sura, and besieged it a long season, and made engins of warre: but thei came out, and burnt them with fyre, and foght valiantly.

32 Then departed Iudas from the castle, & remoued the hoste towarde Beth-zacarias ouer against the Kings campe.

33 So the King arose verie earely, and broght the armie and his power towarde the way of Beth-zacarias, where the armies set them selues in array to the battel, and blewe the trumpets

34 And to prouoke the elephantes for to fight, thei shewed them the blood of grapes and mulberies, 35 And they set the beasts according to the ranges: so that by euerie elephant there stode a thousand men armed with coates of maile and helmets of brasse vpon their heads, & vnto euerie beast were ordeined fiue hundreth horsemen of the best.

36 Which were readie at all times wheresoeuer the beast was: and whethersoeuer the beast went, they went also, and departed not from him.

37 And vpon them were strong towres of wood that couered euerie beast, which were fastened thereon with instrumets, & vpon euerie one was two and thirtie men that foght in them, and the India that ruled him.

38 They set also the remnant of the horsemen vpon bothe y sides in two wings of the hoste to stirre them vp, and to kepe them in the valleis.

39 And when the sunne shone vpon the golden shields, the moutaines glistered there with, and gaue light as lampes of fyre.

40 Thus parte of the Kings armie was spred vpon the hie mountaines, & parte beneth: so they marched forwarde warely and in order.

41 And all they that heard the noyce of their multitude & the marching of the companie, and the ratteling of the harnes, were astonished: for the armie was verie great and mightie.

42 Then Iudas and his hoste entred into the battel, and thei slewe six hundreth men of the Kings armie.

43 ¶ Now when Eleazar, the sonne of Abaron, sawe one of the elephantes armed with royal harnes, and was more excellent thē all the other beasts, he thoght that the King shulde be vpō him.

44 Wherefore he ieoparded him self to deliuer his people, and to get him a perpetual name, 45 And ranne boldely vnto him through the middes of the hoste, slaying on the right hand, and on the left, so that thei departed away on bothe sides.

46 So went he to the elephantes fete, & gate him vnder him, and slewe him: thē fel the elephant downe vpon him, and there he dyed.

47 But the other, seing the power of the King, and the fiercenes of his armie, departed from them.

48 ¶ And the Kings armie went vp to mete them towarde Ierusalem, and the King pitched his tents in Iudea towarde mount Sion.

49 Moreouer, the King toke truce with them that were in Beth-sura: but when they came out of ŷ citie, becausе they had no vitailes there, and were shut vp therein, & the land had rested,

50 The King toke Beth-sura, and set there a garison to kepe it

51 And besieged the Sanctuarie many dayes, & made instruments to shoote, & other engins of warre, and instrumēts to cast fyre and stones and pieces to cast dartes and slings.

52 Thei also made engins against their engins, and foght a long season. *Or, the Iewes

53 But in the garners there were no vitailes: for it was the seuenth yere, and then they that were in Iudea, & were deliuered from the Gentiles, had eaten vp the residue of the store, 54 So that in the Sanctuarie were fewe men left: for the famine came so vpon them, that they were scattered euerie man to his owne place.

55 ¶ Now when Lysias heard that Philippe (whome Antiochus the King, whiles he liued, had ordeined to bring vp Antiochus his sonne, that he might be King)

56 Was come againe out of Persia, and Media, and the Kings hoste with him, and thoght to take vnto him the rule of things, 57 He and his hasted, and were stirred forwarde by them in the castel to go & tell the King, and the captaines of the hoste, and to others saying, We decrease dayly, & our vitailes are but smale: & the place that we laye siege vnto, is strong, and the affaires of the realme depende vpon vs.

58 Now therefore let vs agree with these men, and take truce with them, and with all their nacion. *Or, giue bād

59 And grante them to liue after their Law, as they did afore: for they be grieued, and do all these things, becausе we haue broken their Lawes.

60 So the King and the princes were content, and sent vnto them to make peace, & they receiued it.

61 When the King & the princes had made an othe vnto them, they came vpon this out of the forteresse.

*Or, Saura.

62 And the King went vp to mount Sion: but when he sawe that ỹ place was wel defensed, he brake his othe that he had made, and commanded to breake downe the wal rounde about.
63 Then departed he in all haste, and returned vnto Antiochia where he founde Philippe hauing dominion of the citie: so he foght against him, and toke the citie by force.

CHAP. VII.

1 Demetrius reigned, after he had killed Antiochus and Lysias. 5 He troubleth the children of Israel thorowe the counsel of certeine wicked personnes. 37 The prayer of the Priests against Nicanor. 41 Iudas killeth Nicanor, after he had made his prayer.

Ioseph. Antiq. 12. chap. 5

1 IN the hundreth and one and fiftieth yere, departed Demetrius ỹ sonne of Seleucus from Rome, and came vp with a fewe men vnto a citie of the sea coast, and reigned there.
2 And when he came into the possession of his fathers kingdome, his soldiers toke Antiochus and Lysias, and broght them vnto him.
3 But when it was tolde him, he said, Shewe me not their faces.
4 So thei put them to death. Now when Demetrius was set vpon the throne of his kingdome,
5 There came vnto him all the wicked and vngodlie men of Israel, whose captaine was Alcimus, that wolde haue bene the hie Priest.
6 These men accused the people vnto ỹ King, saying, Iudas and his brethren haue slayne all thy friends, and driuen vs out of our owne land.
7 Wherefore send now some man, whome thou trustest, that he maye go and se all the destruction, which he hathe done vnto vs, and to the Kings land, & let him punish them with all their partakers.
8 Then the King chose Bacchides a friend of his, which was a great man in ỹ realme, and ruled beyonde the flood, & was faithful vnto the King, and sent him,
9 And that wicked Alcimus, whome he made hie Priest, and commanded him to be aduenged of the children of Israel.
10 So they departed, and came with a great hoste into the land of Iuda, and sent messengers to Iudas & his brethrē deceitfully with peaceable wordes.
11 But they beleued not their saying: for they sawe that they were come with a great hoste.
12 Then a companie of the gouernours assembled vnto Alcimus and Bacchides to intreat of reasonable points.
13 And the "Asideans were the first that required peace among the children of Israel. "or, Hasidimens
14 For said they, He that is a Priest of the sede of Aaron, is come with this armie: therefore he wil not hurt vs.
15 Then he speake vnto them peaceably and swore vnto them, and said We wil do you no harme, nether your friends:
16 And they beleued him: but he toke of them thre score men, and slewe them in one day according to ỹ wordes that were writen.
17 * Thei haue cast the bodies of thy Saintes, and their blood rounde about Ierusalem, and there was no man that wolde burye them. Psal. 79. 2
18 So there came a feare and trembling among all ỹ people: for they said, There is nether trueth nor righteousnes in them: for they haue broken the appointement & othe that they made.
19 Then Bacchides remoued from Ierusalem, & pitched his tente at "Bethzecha, where he set forthe & toke manie of the men that had forsaken him, & certeine of the people whome he slewe & cast into the great pit. "Or, Bethsetis Or, Bezeth
20 Then committed he the countrey vnto Alcimus, & left men of warre with him to helpe him: so Bacchides went vnto the King.
21 Thus Alcimus stroue for the priesthode.
22 And all suche as troubled the people resorted vnto him: in somuche, that they obteined the land of Iuda, and did muche hurt in Israel.
23 Now when Iudas sawe all ỹ mischief that Alcimus and his companie had done among the Israelites more then the heathen, 24 He went forthe rounde about all the bordes of Iudea, & punished those that were fallen away, so that they came no more abroade in the countrey.
25 But when Alcimus sawe that Iudas & his people had goten the vpper hād, & knewe that he was not able to abide them, he went againe to the King, and accused them of wicked things.
26 Then the King sent Nicanor one of his chief princes, which hated Israel deadly, and commanded him, that he shulde destroye the people. Ioseph. Antiq. 12. chap. 16
27 ¶ So Nicanor came to Ierusalem with a great hoste, and sent vnto Iudas, and his brethren deceitfully with friendlie wordes, saying,
28 Let there be no warre betwene me & you: I wil come with fewe men, to se how ye do, friendly.
29 So he came vnto Iudas, and they saluted luted one another peaceably: but the enemies were prepared to take away Iudas.

30 Neuertheles, it was tolde Iudas, that he came vnto him vnder disceit: therefore he feared him, and wolde not se his face no more.

31 When Nicanor perceiued that his counsel was bewrayed, he wēt out to fight against Iudas, beside "Carphasalama.

32 Where there were slaine of Nicanors hoste about fiue thousand men: so they fled vnto the citie of Dauid.

33 After this came Nicanor vp vnto mount Sion, & some of the Priests with the Elders of the people went forthe of the Sanctuarie to salute him peaceably, & to shew him ý burnt offring that was offered for the King.

34 But he laughed at them, and mocked them and counted them prophane, and spake proudly, 35 And swore in his wrath, saying, If Iudas and his hoste be not deliuered now into mine hands, if euer I come againe in safetie, I wil burne vp this house. With that, went he out in a great anger.

36 Then the Priests came in, and stode before the altar in the Temple, weping, and saying,

37 For so muche as thou, ô Lord, hast chosen this House, ý thy Name might be called vpon therein, & that it shulde be an house of prayer, and peticion for thy people, 38 Be auenged of this man and his hoste, and let them be slaine by the sworde: remember their blasphemies, and suffre them not to continue.

39 ¶ When Nicanor was gone from Ierusalem, he pitched his tent at Bethhoron, & there an hoste met him out of Syria.

40 And Iudas pitched in "Adasa with thre thousand men where Iudas prayed, saying, 41 O Lord, * because the messengers of King Sennacherib blasphemed thee, thine Angel went forthe, and slewe an hundreth, foure score, & fiue thousand of them.

42 So destroye thou this hoste before vs to day, that all other may knowe that he hathe spoken wickedly against thy Sanctuarie, & punish him according to his malice.

43 So the armies ioyned together in battel, the thirteenth day of the moneth Adar: but Nicanors hoste was discomfited and he him self was first slaine in the battel.

44 Now when his armie sawe that Nicanor was slaine, they cast away their weapons and fled, 45 But they pursued after them a dayes iourney from Adasa vnto Gasera, blowing an alarme with the trumpets after them.

46 So they came forthe of all the townes of Iudea rounde about, and rushed vpon them, and threwe them from one to another, so that they all fel by the sworde, & there was not one of them lefte.

47 Then they toke the spoyles, and the pray, and smote of Nicanors head, and his right hand, which he helde vp so proudly, and broght it with them, and hanged them vp afore Ierusalem.

48 So the people reioyced greatly, and kept ý day as a day of great gladnes.

49 And they ordeined, to kepe yerely ý day on the thirteenth day of the moneth Adar.

50 Thus the land of Iuda was in rest a litle while.

1 Iudas, considering the power and policie of the Romains, maketh peace with them. 22 The conditions of mutual friendship sent to the Iewes.

9 Againe when it was tolde them that the Grecians were comming to destroye them,

10 They sent against them a captaine, & gaue them battel, & slewe manie of thē, & toke manie prisoners with their wiues, and children, and spoyled them, & conquered their land, & destroyed there strong holdes, and subdued them to be their bondmen, vnto this day.

11 Moreouer, how they destroyed, and broght into subiection other kingdomes & yles, whosoeuer had withstand them:

12 But that thei kept amitie with their owne friends, and those that stayed vpō them: finally, that conquered kingdomes, bothe farre and nere, in so muche that whosoeuer heard of their renoume, was afrayed of them.

13 For whome they wolde helpe to their kingdomes, those reigned, and whome they wolde, they put downe: thus were thei in moste high autoritie.

14 Yet for all this that none of thē ware a crowne, nether was clothed in purple, to be magnified thereby,

15 But that thei had ordeined them selues a counsel, wherein thre hundreth & twentie men consulted daiely, and prouided for the commune affaires, to gouerne them wel,

16 And that they committed their gouernement to one man euerie yere, who did rule ouer all their countrey, to whome euerie man was obedient: and there was nether hatred nor enuie among thē.

17 ¶ Then Iudas chose Eupolemus the sonne of Iohn, the sonne of Accus, & Iason, the sonne of Eleazar, & sent them vnto Rome to make friendship, & mutual felowship with them,

18 That they might take from them the yoke (for they sawe that the kingdome of the Grecians wolde kepe Israel in bondage)

19 So they went vnto Rome, which was a verie great iourney, and came into ỹ "Senat where they speake and said, 22 And this is the copie of the epistle ỹ they wrote in tables of brasse and sent to Ierusalem, that they might haue by them a memorial of the peace, and mutual felowship.

23 Good successe be to the Romaines, & to the people of the Iewes, by sea, and by land for euer, and the sworde and enemie be from them.

25 The people of the Iewes shal helpe them, as the time shalbe appointed, ẇ all their heart, 26 Also "they shal giue nothing to thē that come to fight for them, nor serue them with wheat nor weapons, nor monei, nor shippes as it pleaseth the Romaines, but "they shal kepe their couenantes without taking anie thing of thē.

29 According to these articles the Romains made the bonde with the people of the Iewes.

30 If after these pointes the one partie, or the other wil adde or diminish, they may do it, at their pleasures, and what soeuer they shal adde, or take away, shal be ratified.

31 And as touching ỹ euil ỹ Demetrius hathe done vnto the Iewes, we haue written vnto him, saying, Wherefore layest thou thine heauie yoke vpon our friends, and confederates the Iewes?

32 If therefore they complaine anie more against thee, we wil do them iustice, and fight with thee by sea and by land.

CHAP. IX.

1 After the death of Nicanor, Demetrius sendeth his armie against Iudas. 18 Iudas is slaine. 31 Ionathan is put in the stead of his brother. 47 The battel betweene Ionathan, and Bacchides. 55 Alcimus is smitten with the palsie, & dyeth. 68 He cometh vpon Ionathan by the counsel of certeine wicked persones, and is ouercome 70 The truce of Ionathan with Bacchides.

1 IN the meane season when Demetrius had heard how Nicanor, and his hoste had giuen the battel, he sent Bacchides, and Alcimus againe into Iudea, & his "chief strength with them.

Ioseph. Anti. 12. chap 18

" Or, the right horne

2 So they went forthe by the way that is towarde Galgala, and pitched their tētes before Mesaloth which is in Arbelis, & wanne it & slewe muche people.

3 And in the first moneth of the hundreth, fiftie and two yere, they layed their siege against Ierusalem.

4 But they raised their campe, & came to Berea, with twentie thousand fote men, & two men, and two thousand horsemen.

5 Now Iudas had pitched his tent at [a] Ieasa, and thre thousand chosen men with him.

6 And when they sawe, that the multitude of the armie was great, they were sore afraide, and manie conueied them selues oute of the hoste, so that there abode no mo of them, but eight hundreth men.

7 When Iudas sawe that his hoste failed him, & that he must nedes fight, he was sore troubled in minde that he had no time to gather them together, and was discouraged.

8 Neuertheles, he said vnto them that remained, Let vs rise, and go vp against our enemies, if paraduenture we may be able to fight with them.

9 But they wolde haue staied him, saying, We are not able: but let vs rather saue our liues: turne backe now, seing our brethren are departed: for shal we fight against them, that are so fewe?

10 Then Iudas said, God forbid, that we shulde do this thing, to fle from them: if our time be come, let vs dye manfully for oure brethren, & let vs not staine our honour.

11 Then the hoste remoued out of the tētes, and stode against them, who had deuided their horsemen into two troupes, and they ý threwe with slings, and the archers marched in the forewarde, and they that foght in the forewarde, were all valiant men.

12 And Bacchides was in ý right wing. So ý armie drewe nere on bothe sides, & blewe the trumpets.

13 They of Iudas side blew the trumpets also, and the earth shoke at the noyce of the armies, and the battel continued from morning to night.

14 And when Iudas sawe that Bacchides and the strength of his armie was on the right side, he toke with him all the hardie men, 15 And brake the right wing, and followed vpon them vnto mount Azotus.

16 Now when they which were of the left wing sawe that the right wing was discomfited, they followed Iudas behinde, and them that were with him hard at the heles, 17 Then was there a sore battel for many were slaine of bothe the parties.

18 Iudas also him self was killed, and the remnant fled.

19 So Ionathan and Simon toke Iudas their brother, and buryed him in his fathers sepulchre in ý citie of Modin.

20 And all the Israelites wept for him, & mourned greatly for him, and lamented many daies, saying, 21 How is the valiant man fallen which deliuered Israel?

22 Concerning the other things of Iudas, bothe the battels and the valiant actes that he did, & of his worthines, they are not writen: for they were very many.

23 ¶ Now after the death of Iudas, wicked men came vp in all the coastes of Israel, and there arose all suche as gaue them selues to iniquitie. Ioseph. Antiq. 13. cap. 1. & 3

24 In those daies was there a very great famine in the land, and all the countrey gaue ouer them selues with them.

25 And Bacchides did chuse wicked mē, and made them lords in the land.

26 These soght out, & made searche for Iudas friends, and broght them vnto Bacchides, which aduenged him self vpon them, and mocked them.

27 And there came so great trouble in Israel, as was not since the time that no Prophet was sene among them.

28 Then came all Iudas frieds together, and said vnto Ionathan,

29 Seing thy brother Iudas is dead, and there is none like him to go forthe against our enemies, euen against Bacchides, and [a] against them of our nacion that are enemies vnto vs, 30 Therefore, this day we chuse thee ý thou maist be our prince and captaine in his place to order, our battel.

31 So Ionathan toke the gouernance vpon him at the same time, and ruled in stead of his brother Iudas.

32 But when Bacchides knewe it, he soght for to slay him.

33 Then Ionathan and Simon his brother, perceiuing that, fled into the wildernes of Thecua with all their companie, and pitched their tentes by the water poole of Asphar.

34 Which when Bacchides vnderstode, he came ouer Iorden with all his hoste vpon the Sabbath day.

35 ¶ Now had Ionathan sent his brother Iohn, a captaine of the people, to pray his friends the Nabathites, that they wolde kepe their baggage which was muche.

36 But the children of [a] Ambri came out of Medaba, and toke Iohn, and all that he had, and when they had taken it, went their way.

37 After this came worde vnto Ionathā, and to Simō his brother, that the children of Ambri made a great mariage, and broght the bride from [a] Medaba with great pompe: for she was daughter to one of the nobleste princes of Canaan.

38 Therefore they remembred Iohn their brother, and went vp, and hid them selues vnder the couert of the mountaine.

39 So they lift vp their eyes, and loked, and beholde, there was a great noyce,

[a] Or, Laisa.

[a] Or, against the enemies of our nacion.

[a] Or, Iambri.

[a] Or, Nadabath.

and muche preparation: then the bridgrome came forthe, and his friends & his brethren met them with tymbrels, and instruments of musike, and manie weapons.

40 Then Ionathans men that lay in ambushe, rose vp against them, & slewe manie of them, and the remnant fled into the mountaines, so that they toke all their spoiles.

41 Thus ẏ mariage was turned to mourning, and the noyce of their melodie into lamentacion.

42 And so when they had aduenged the blood of their brother, they turned againe vnto Iorden.

43 When Bacchides heard this, he came vnto the border of Iorden with a great power vpon the Sabbath day.)

44 Then Ionathan said vnto his companie, Let vs rise now, and fight against our enemies, for it is not to day as in time past.

45 Beholde, the battel is before vs, and behinde vs, and the water of Iorden on this side and that side, and the marise, & forest, so that there is no place for vs to turne aside.

46 Wherefore crye now vnto heauen, that ye may be deliuered from the power of your enemies: so they ioyned battel.

47 Then Ionathan stretched out his hand to smite Bacchides: but he turned aside from him and reculed.

48 Then Ionathan, and they that were with him, leapt into Iorden, and swimmed ouer vnto the further banke: but the other wolde not passe through Iorden after them.

49 So in that day were slaine of Bacchides side about a thousand men.

50 Then he turned againe to Ierusalem, and buylt vp the strong cities in Iuda, as the castel of Iericho, and Emmaus, and Bethoron, and Bethel, and Thamnatha, Pharathoni, and Tepho, with high walles, with gates, and with barres, 51 And set garisons in them, that they might vse their malice vpon Israel.

52 He fortified also the citie Beth-sura, and Gazara, and the castel, and set a garison in them with prouision of victailes.

53 He toke also the chiefest mens sonnes in the country for hostages, and put them in the castel at Ierusalem to be kept.

54 ¶ Afterwarde in the hundreth, fiftie and three yere, in the seconde moneth, Alcimus commanded, ẏ the walles of the inner court of the Sanctuarie shulde be destroied, and he pulled downe the monumentes of the Prophetes, and began to destroy them.

55 But at the same time Alcimus was plagued, and his enterprises were hindred, and his mouth was stopped: for he was smitten with a palsie, and colde no more speake, nor giue order concerning his house.

56 Thus dyed Alcimus with great torment at the same time.

57 And when Bacchides sawe, ẏ Alcimus was dead, he turned againe to ỹ King, & so ẏ land of Iuda was in rest two yeres.

58 Then all the vngodlie men helde a counsel, saying, Beholde, Ionathā & his companie dwell at ease, & without care: wherefore let vs bring Bacchides hither, & he wil take thē all in one night.

59 So they went & consulted with him.

60 Who arose and came with a great hoste, and sent letters priuely to his adherentes, which were in Iudea, to take Ionathan and those that were with him: but they colde not, for their counsel was knowen vnto them.

61 And *chey toke fiftie men of the countrey, which were the chief workers of this wickednes, and slewe them. *Ionathan.

62 ¶ Then Ionathan and Simon ẅ their companie departed vnto *Beth-basin ẅ is in the wildernes, and repaired the decay thereof, and made it strong. *Or, Beth-bassen.

63 When Bacchides knewe this, he gathered all his hoste, and sent worde to them that were of Iudea.

64 Then came he & laid siege to Beth-basin, and foght against it a long season, and made instruments of warre.

65 But Ionathan had left his brother Simon in the citie, and went forthe into the countrey, and came with a certeine nomber, 66 And slewe *Odomeras and his brethren and the children of Phasiron in their tentes: so he began to slaye, and increased in power. *Or, Odares.

67 Simon also and his companie went out of the citie, and burnt vp the instruments of warre, 68 And foght against Bacchides, & discomfited him, and vexed him sore, so that his counsel and forney was in vaine.

69 Wherefore he was very wroth at the wicked men, that gaue him counsel to come into the countrey, and slewe many of them, and purposed to returne into his owne countrey.

70 Whereof when Ionathan had knowledge, he sent ambassadours vnto him to intreat of peace with him, and that the prisonners shulde be deliuered.

71 Which thing he accepted, and did according to his desire, and made an othe, that he wolde neuer do him harme all the daies of his life:

72 So he restored vnto him the prisoners that he had taken afore time out of

of the land of Iuda, and so returned & went into his owne land, nether did he come any more into their borders.

73 Thus the sworde ceased frō Israel, & Ionathan dwelt at Machmas, and begā there to gouerne the people, & destroied the vngodlie men out of Israel.

CHAP. X.

4 Demetrius desireth to haue peace with Ionathan. 18. Alexander also desireth peace ẅ the Iewes. 48 Alexander maketh warre against Demetrius. 50, Demetrius is slayn. 51 The friendship of Ptolemeus & Alexander.

Ioseph. Anti. 13. chap. 23

1 IN the hundreth and thre score yere came Alexander the sonne of Antiochus Epiphanes and toke Ptolemais, & they receiued him & there he reigned.

2 Now when Demetrius the king heard it, he gathered an exceading great hoste, and went forthe against him to fight,

3 Also Demetrius sent letters vnto Ionathan, with louing wordes, as though he wolde preferre him.

4 For he said, We wil first make peace ẅ him before he ioyne with Alexander against vs.

5 Els he wil remember all the euil that we haue done against him, and against his brethren and his nacion.

6 And so he gaue Ionathan leaue to gather an hoste, and to prepare weapons, and to be confederate with him, & commanded the hostages that were in the castel, to be deliuered vnto him.

7 ¶ Then came Ionathan to Ierusalem, and red ẏ letters in the audience of all the people, and of them that were in ẏ castel.

8 Therefore they were sore afraied, because they heard that the king had giuen him licence to gather an armie.

9 So they that were of the castel, deliuered the hostages vnto Ionathan, who restored them to their parents.

10 Ionathan also dwelt at Ierusalem, and began to buyld, and repaire the citie.

11 And he commanded the workemen to buylde the walles, and the mount Sion rounde about with hewen stone, to fortifie it: and so they did.

12 Then the strangers that were in the castels ẅ Bacchides had made, fled, 13 So that euerie man left his place, and went into his owne countrey.

14 Onely at Beth-sura remained certeine which had forsaken the Law and the cōmandements: for it was their refuge.

15 ¶ Now when King Alexander had heard of the promises ẏ Demetrius had made vnto Ionathan: & whē it was tolde him of the battels and noble actes, ẅ he and his brethren had done, & of the peines that they had indured, 16 He said, Might we finde suche a man? now therefore we wil make him our friend & confederate.

17 Vpon this he wrote a letter, and sent it vnto him, with these wordes, saying, 18 KING ALEXANDER to his brother Ionathan sendeth salutation.

19 We haue heard of thee, that thou art a very valiant man, and worthie to be our friend.

20 Wherefore this day we ordeine thee to be the hie Priest of thy nacion, & to be called the Kings friend: and he sent him a purple robe & a [a] crowne of golde, that thou maist [b] consider what is for our profite, and kepe friendship towarde vs.

21 So in the seuenth moneth of the hundreth and threscore yere, vpon the feast daye of the tabernacles: Ionathan put on the holie garment, & gathered an hoste, & prepared many weapons.

22 ¶ Which when Demetrius heard, he was marueilous sory, and said, 23 What haue we done, that Alexander hathe preuented vs in getting the friendship of the Iewes for his strength?

24 Yet wil I write and exhorte them, and promes them dignities and rewardes, ẏ they may helpe me.

25 Wherevpon he wrote vnto them these wordes, KING DEMETRIVS vnto the nacions of the Iewes sendeth greting.

26 We haue heard that ye haue kept your couenant towarde vs, and continued in our friendship, and haue not ioned with our enemies, whereof we are glad.

27 Now therefore remaine stil, and kepe fidelitie towarde vs, and we wil recompense you for the good things that ye haue done for vs, 28 And wil release you of many charges, and geue you rewardes.

29 And now I discharge for your sake all ẏ Iewes frō tributes, & fre you frō the customes of salte, and the crowne taxes, and from the thirde parte of the sede.

30 And from the halfe of the frute of the trees which is mine owne dwetie, I so release them that from this day forthe, none shal take any thing of ẏ land of Iuda, or of the thre gouernements ẅ are added thereunto as of Samaria and of Galile, [a] from this daye forthe for euermore.

31 Ierusalem also with all things belonging thereto, shalbe holye and fre from the tenthes and tributes.

32 Also I release the power of the castel which is at Ierusalem, and giue it vnto the hie Priest, that he may set in it suche men, as he shal chuse to kepe it.

a And of the countrey beyonde Iorden, as Iosephus writeth.

33 Moreouer I frely deliuer euerie one of the Iewes that were taken away prisoners out of the land of Iuda through out all my realme, and euerie one of them shalbe free from tributes, yea, euen their catel,

34 And all the feastes, and Sabbaths, and new moones, and the daies appointed and ỹ thre daies before the feast, & the thre daies after the feast, shalbe daies of fredome and libertie for all the Iewes in my realme, 35 So that in in them no man shal haue power to do any thing, or to vexe any of them in any maner of cause.

36 Also thirtie thousand of the Iewes shalbe writen vp in the Kings hoste, & haue their wages paied them as apperteineth to all them ỹ are of the Kings armie: and of them shalbe ordeined certeine to kepe the Kings strong holdes.

37 And some of them shalbe set ouer the Kings moste secret affaires, and their gouernours and their princes shalbe of them selues, and they shal liue after their owne lawes, as the King hathe commanded in the land of Iuda.

38 And the thre gouernements that are added vnto Iudea from the countrey of Samaria, shalbe ioyned vnto Iudea, and they shalbe as vnder one, and obey none other power, but the hie Priest.

39 And I giue Ptolemais and the borders thereof vnto the Sanctuarie at Ierusalem, for the necessarie expenses of the holie things.

40 Moreouer, I wil giue euerie yere fiftene thousand sikels of siluer ỹ of Kings reuenues out of ỹ places apperteining vnto me.

41 And all the ouerplus which they haue not paied for the things due, as they did in the former yeres, from hence forthe they shal giue it towarde the workes of the Temple.

42 And besides this, the fiue thousand sicles of siluer which they receiued yerely of the accounte appointed for the interteinement of the Sanctuarie, these yeres passed, euen these things shalbe released because they apperteine to the Priests that minister.

43 Item, whosoeuer they be that flee vnto the Temple at Ierusalem, or within the liberties thereof, and are indetted to the King for any maner of thing, they shalbe pardoned, and all that they haue in my realme.

44 For the buylding also and repairing of the workes of the Sanctuarie, expenses shal be giuen of the Kings reuenues.

45 And for the making of the walles of Ierusalem, & fortifiing it rounde about that the holdes in Iudea may be buylt vp, shal also the costes be giuen out of the Kings reuenues.

46 ¶ But when Ionathan and the people heard these wordes, thei gaue no credit vnto them, neither receiued them: for thei remembred the great wickednes that he had done in Israel, and how sore he had vexed them.

47 Wherefore they agreed vnto Alexãder: for he was the first that had intreated of true peace with them, and so were confederat with him alway.

48 Then gathered King Alexander a great hoste, and camped ouer against Demetrius.

49 So the two Kings ioyned battel, but Demetrius hoste fled, & Alexander pursued him, and preuailed against them.

50 So that sore battel continued til the sunne went downe, and Demetrius was slaine the same day. Ioseph. Antiq. 13. chap. 5

51 ¶ Then Alexander sent ambassedours vnto Ptolemeus the King of Egypt w̃ these wordes, saying,

52 For so muche as I am come againe to my realme, and am set in the throne of my fathers, and haue gotten the dominion, and haue destroied Demetrius, & enioye my countrey,

53 Seing that I haue euen giuen him the battel, and he and his armie is discomfited by me, and I sit in the throne of his kingdome, 54 Let vs now make friendship together, and giue me now thy daughter to wife: so shal I be thy sonne in law, and giue thee rewardes, and vnto her things according to thy dignitie.

55 Then Ptolemeus the King gaue answer, saying, Happie be ỹ day, wherein thou art come againe vnto the lande of thy fathers, and sittest in the throne of their kingdome.

56 Now therefore wil I fulfil thy writing: but mete me at Ptolemais that we may se one another, and that I may make thee my sonne in law, according to thy desire.

57 So Ptolemeus went out of Egypt with his daughter Cleopatra, and came vnto Ptolemais in the hundreth threscore & two yere.

58 Where King Alexander met him, and he gaue vnto him his daughter Cleopatra, and maried them at Ptolemais with great glorie, as the maner of Kings is.

59 ¶ Then wrote King Alexander vnto Ionathan, that he shulde come and mete him, 60 So he went honorably vnto Ptolemais, and there he met the two Kings, & gaue thẽ great presents of siluer and golde, and to their friends, and founde fauour in their sight.

61 And

61 And there assembled certeine pestilent felowes of Israel, & wicked mē to accuse him: but the King wolde not heare them.

62 And the King commanded that they shulde take of the garments of Ionathan, & clothe him in purple: & so they did: & the King appointed him to sit by him, 63 And said vnto his prices, Go with him into the middes of the citie, and make a proclamaciõn, that no man complaine against him of anie matter, and that no man trouble him for anie maner of cause.

64 So when his accusers sawe his honour according as it was proclaimed, & that he was clothed in purple, they fled all away.

65 And the King preferred him to honour, and wrote him among his chief friends, and made him a duke, and partaker of his dominion.

66 ¶ Thus Ionathan returned to Ierusalē with peace and gladnes.

67 ¶ In the hundreth, thre score & fiue yere came Demetrius ỹ sonne of Demetrius from Creta into his fathers land.

68 Whereof when King Alexander heard, he was verie sorie, & returned vnto Antiochia.

69 Then Demetrius appointed Apollonius the gouernour of Celosyria, who gathered a great hoste, and camped in Iamnia, and sent vnto Ionathan the hie Priest, saying.

70 Darest thou, being but alone, lift vp thy self against vs? and I am laughed at & reproched, because of thee: now therefore why doest thou vaunt thy self against vs in the mountaines.

71 Now then if thou trust in thine owne strength, come downe to vs into ỹ plaine field & there let vs trye the matter together: for I haue ỹ strēgth of cities.

72 Aske and learne who I am, and thei shal take my parte: and they shal tell thee that your fote is not able to stand before our face: for thy fathers haue bene twice chased in their owne land.

73 And now how wilt thou be able to abide so great an hoste of horsemen & fotemen in the plaine, where is nether stone, nor rocke, nor place to flee vnto.

74 When Ionathan heard the wordes of Apollonius, he was moued in his minde: wherefore he chose ten thousand men, and went out of Ierusalem. & Simon his brother met him for to helpe him.

75 And he pitched his tents at Ioppe: but they shut him out of the citie: for Apollonius garison was in Ioppe.

76 Then they foght against it, and they that were in the citie, for verie feare let him in: so Ionathan wan Ioppe.

77 Apollonius hearing of this, toke thre thousand horsemen with a great hoste of fote men and went towarde Azotus, as though he wolde go forwarde, and came immediatly into the plaine field, because he had so manie horsemen, & put his trust in them.

78 So Ionathan followed vpon him to Azotus, and the armie skirmished with his arriere bande.

79 For Apollonius had left a thousand horsemen behinde them in ambush.

80 And Ionathan knewe that there was an ambushment behinde him, & thogh they had compassed in his hoste, & shot dartes at the people from the morning to the euening, 81 Yet the people stode stil, as Ionathan had commanded them, til their horses were wearie.

82 Then broght Simon forthe his hoste, and set them against the bande: but the horses were wearie, and he discomfited them, & thei fled: so the horsemen were scattered in the field, 83 And thei fled to Azotus, & came into the temple of Dagon their idole, ỹ thei might there saue them selues.

84 But Ionathan set fyre vpon Azotus & all the cities rounde about it, and toke their spoiles, & burnt with fyre ỹ temple of Dagon with all then ỹ were fled into it.

85 Thus were slayne and burnt about eight thousand men.

86 So Ionathan remoued the hoste from thence, & camped by Ascalon, where ỹ men of ỹ citie came forthe, & met him with great honour.

87 After this went Ionathan & his hoste againe to Ierusalem with great spoiles.

88 And when King Alexander heard these things, he began to do Ionathan more honour, 89 And sent him a colar of golde, as the vse is to be giuen vnto suche as are of the Kings blood: he gaue him also Accaron, w ỹ borders thereof in possession.

CHAP. XI.

1 The dissension betwene Ptolemeus and Alexander his sonne in law. 17. The death of Alexander. 19 Demetrius reigneth after the death of Ptolemeus. 22 Sion is besieged of Ionathan. 42 Demetrius seing that no man resisted him, sendeth his armie againe. 54 Tryphon moueth Antiochus against Demetrius.

1 AND the King of Egypt gathered a great hoste, like the sand that lyeth vpon the sea shore, & manie ships, and went about through deceit to obteine the kingdome of Alexander, and to joyne it vnto his owne realme. Iosephus. Antiq. 13. chap. 7

2 Vpon this he went into Syria with friendlie wordes, and was let into the cities, and men came forthe to mete him: for King Alexander had commãded them to mete him, because he was his father in Law.

3 Now when he entred into the citie of Ptolemais, he lefte bands and garisons in euerie citie.

4 And when he came nere to Azotus, they shewed him the temple of Dagon that was burnt, and Azotus, and the suburbes thereof that were destroyed, and the bodies cast abroad, and them that he had burnt in the battel: for they had made heapes of them by the way where he shulde passe.

5 And thei tolde the King what Ionathã had done, to the intent thei might get him euil wil: but the King helde his peace.

6 And Ionathan met the King with great honour at Ioppe, where they saluted one another, and laye there,

7 So when Ionathan had gone with the King vnto the water that was called Eleutherus, he turned againe to Ierusalẽ.

8 So king Ptolemeus gate the dominion of the cities by the sea vnto Seleucia vpon the sea coast, imagining wicked counsels against Alexander.

9 ¶ And sent Ambassadours vnto King Demetrius, saiyng, Come, let vs make a league betwene vs, and I will giue thee my daughter, which Alexander hathe, and thou shalt reigne in thy fathers kingdome.

10 For I repent that I gaue Alexander my daughter for he goeth about to slaye me.

11 Thus he sclandered Alexander, as one that wulde desire his realme.

12 And he toke his daughter from him, and gaue her vnto Demetrius, and forsoke Alexander, so that their hatred was openly knowen.

13 Then Ptolemeus came to Antiochia, where he set two crownes vpon his owne head of Asia and of Egypt.

14 In the meane season was King Alexãder in Cilicia: for they ỹ dwelt in those places had rebelled against him.

15 But when Alexander heard it, he came to warre against him, and Ptolemeus broght forthe his hoste, and met him with a mightie power, and put him to flight.

16 Then fled Alexander into Arabia, there to be defended: so Ptolemeus was exalted.

17 And Zabdiel the Arabian smote of Alexanders head, and sent it vnto Ptolemeus.

18 But ỹ third day after, King Ptolemeus dyed: and they that were in the holdes, were slaine one of another.

19 And Demetrius reigned in the hundreth, thre score and seuenth yere.

20 ¶ At the same time gathered Ionathã them that were in Iudea, to laye siege vnto the castle, which was at Ierusalem, and they made manie instruments of warre against it.

21 Then went there certeine vngodlie persones (which hated their owne people) vnto king Demetrius, and tolde him that Ionathan besieged the castle.

22 So when he heard it, he was angrie, & immediatly came vnto Ptolemais, and wrote vnto Ionathan, that he shulde laye no more siege vnto it, but that he shulde mete him and speake with him at Ptolemais in all haste.

23 Neuertheles when Ionathã heard this, he commanded to besiege it: he chose also certeine of the Elders of Israel, & the Priests, and put him self in danger, 24 And toke with him siluer and golde, and apparel, and diuerse presents, and went to Ptolemais vnto the King, and founde fauour in his sight.

25 And thogh certeine vngodlie men of his owne nacion had made complaintes vpon him,

26 Yet the King intreated him as his predecessers had done, & promoted him in the sight of all his friends, 27 And confirmed him in the hie priesthode with all the honorable tidings, that he had afore, and made him his chief friend.

28 Ionathan also desired the King, that he wolde make Iudea fre with the thre gouernements, and the countrey of Samaria, and Ionathan promised him thre hundreth talents.

29 Hereunto the king consented, and gaue Ionathan writing of the same, coteining these wordes, 30 KING DEMETRIVS vnto his brother Ionathan, and to the nacion of the Iewes sendeth greting.

31 We send you here a copie of the letter which we did write vnto our cousin Lasthenes concerning you, that ye shulde se it.

32 King Demetrius vnto Lasthenes his father sendeth greting.

33 For the faithfulnes that our friends ỹ nacion of the Iewes kepe vnto vs, and for their good wil towardes vs we are determined to do them good.

34 Wherefore we assigne to them the coasts of Iudea with the thre gouernements, Apherema, and Lydda, and Ramathe (which are added vnto Iudea frõ the countrey of Samaria) and all that appertaineth to all them that sacrifice in Ierusalem: bothe concerning the paiments which the King toke yerely afore time, both for the frutes of ỹ earth, & for the frutes of the trees,

35 As

35 As for the other things apperteining vnto vs of the tenths and tributes, ẅ were due vnto vs, and the customes of salte, and crowne taxes, which were payed vnto vs, we discharge them of all from hence forthe.

36 And nothing hereof shalbe reuoked from this time forthe and for euer.

37 Therefore se that ye make a copie of these things, and deliuer it vnto Ionathan, that it may be set vp vpon the holy mount in an open place.

38 After this when Demetrius the King sawe that his land was in rest, and that no resistance was made against him, he sent away all his hoste, euerie man to his owne place, except certeine bandes of strangers, whome he broght frō the yles of the heathen: wherefore all his fathers hoste hated him.

39 Now was there one Tryphon, that had bene of Alexanders parte afore: ẅ when he sawe that all the hoste murmured against Demetrius, he went to "Simalcue the Arabian, that broght vp Antiochus the sonne of Alexander,

"Or, Emalcuel

40 And lay sore vpon him, to deliuer him this yong Antiochus, ẏ he might reigne in his fathers stead: he tolde him also what great euil Demetrius had done, & how his men of warre hated him, and he remained there a long season.

41 Also Ionathan sent vnto King Demetrius to driue them out which were in the castel at Ierusalem, and those that were in the fortereſſes: for they fought against Israel.

42 So Demetrius sent vnto Ionathan, saying, I wil not onely do these things for thee and thy nacion, but if opportunitie serue, I wil honour thee and thy nacion.

43 Now therefore thou shalt do me a pleasure, if thou wilt send me men to helpe me for all mine armie is gone from me.

44 So Ionathan sent him thre thousand strong men vnto Antiochia, and they came vnto the King: wherefore the King was verie glad at their comming.

45 ¶ But they that were of the citie, euē an hundreth and twentie thousand mē, gathered thē together in the middes of the citie, & wolde haue slaine ẏ King.

46 But the King fled into the palace, & the citizens kept the stretes of the citie, and beganne to fight.

47 Then the King called to the Iewes for helpe, ẅ came to him altogether, and went abroade throgh the citie, 48 And slewe the same day an hundreth thousand, and set fyre vpon the citie, and toke many spoiles in that day, and deliuered the King.

49 So when the citizens sawe that the Iewes had gotten the vpper hand of the citie, and that they them selues were disappointed of their purpose, they made their supplicatiō vnto the King, saying,

50 "Grant vs peace, and let the Iewes cease from vexing vs and the citie.

"Or, giueus the right hand.

51 So they cast away their weapons, and made peace, and the Iewes were greatly honored before the King, and before all that were in his realme, and they came againe to Ierusalem with great pray.

52 Then King Demetrius sate in the throne of his kingdome, and had peace in his land.

53 Neuertheles he dissembled in all that euer he spake, and withdrewe him self from Ionathan, nether did he reward him according to the benefites which he had done for him, but trobled him verie sore.

54 ¶ After this returned Tryphon with the yong childe Antiochus, which reigned, and was crowned.

55 Then there gathered vnto him all the men of warre, whome Demetrius had scatered, and they foght against him, who fled and turned his backe.

56 So Tryphon toke the beastes, and wan Antiochia.

"Or, elephant.

57 And yong Antiochus wrote vnto Ionathan, saying, I appoint thee to be the chief Prieſt, and make thee ruler ouer the foure gouernements, that ẏ maist be a friend of the Kings 58 Vpon this he sent him golden vessels to be serued in, and gaue him leaue to drinke in golde, and to weare purple, and to haue a colar of golde.

59 He made his brother Simon also captaine from the coastes of Tyrus vnto ẏ borders of Egypt.

60 Then Ionathan went forthe and passed through ẏ cities beyonde ẏ flood, and all the men of warre of Syria gathered vnto him for to helpe him: so he came vnto Ascalon, and they of the citie receiued him honorably.

61 And from thence went he vnto Gaza: but they of Gaza shut him out: whe refore he laid siege vnto it, and burned the suburbes thereof with fyre, and spoiled them.

62 Then they of Gaza made supplication vnto Ionathan, and he made peace with them, and toke of the sonnes of the chief men for ostages, & sent them to Ierusalem, and went through the countrey vnto Damascus.

63 And when Ionathan heard that Demetrius princes were come into Cades, ẅ is in Galile, with a great hoste, purposing to driue him out of the countrey, 64 He came against them, and left Simō his brother in the countrey.

65 And Simon besieged Beth-sura, and foght against it a long season, and shut it vp.
66 So they desired to haue peace with him, which he granted them, and afterwarde put them out from thence, and toke the citie, and set a garison in it.
67 Then Ionathan with his hoste came to the water of Genesar, and betimes in the morning came to the plaine of Azor.
*Or, bethen. 68 And beholde the hostes of the *strangers met him in the plaine, and had layed ambushments for him in the mountaines.
69 So that when they came against them, the ambushments rose out of their places and skirmished.
70 So that all that were of Ionathans side, fled: and there was not one of them left, except Mattathias the sonne of
*Or, Absa-lomus. *Absalomus, and Iudas the sonne of Calphi the captaines of the hoste.
71 Then Ionathan rent his clothes, and cast earth vpon his head, and prayed, 72 And turned againe to thē to fight, & put thē to flight, so that they fled away.
73 Now when his owne men that were fled, sawe this, they turned againe vnto him, & helped him to followe after all vnto their tentes at Cades, & there they camped.
74 So there were slaine of the strangers
the same day about thre thousand men, and Ionathan turned againe to Ierusalē,

CHAP. XII.

1 Ionathan sendeth ambassadours to Rome, 2 And to the people of Sparta, to renewe their couenant of friendship. 20 Ionathan putteth to flight the princes of Demetrius. 40 Tryphon taketh Ionathan by disceite.

Ioseph. Anti. 13 chap. 8

1 Ionathan now seing that the time was mete for him, chose certeine men, & sent them vnto Rome, to establish and renew the friendship with them.
*Or, Lacede-monians. 2 He sent letters also vnto *the Spartians & to other places, for the same purpose.
3 So they went vnto Rome, and entred into the Senate, and said, Ionathan the hie Priest and the nacion of the Iewes sent vs vnto you, for to renewe friendship with you, and the bonde of loue, as in times past.
4 So the Romaines gaue them fre pas-ports, that men shulde lead them home into the land of Iuda peaceably.
5 ¶AND THIS is the copie of the letters that Ionathan wrote vnto the Spartians,
6 Ionathan the hie Priest with the Elders of the nacion, and the Priests, and the rest of the people of the Iewes, send greting vnto ȳ Spartiās their brethren.
7 Here to fore were letters sent vnto Onias the hie Priest, from *Arius, ẅ then reigned among you, that ye wolde be our brethren, as the copie here vnder written specifieth.
8 And Onias intreated the ambassadour honorably, and receiued the letters:
wherein there was mencion made of the bonde of loue and friendship.
9 But as for vs, we nede no suche writings: for we haue the holy bokes in our hands for comfort.
10 Neuertheles we thoght it good to send vnto you, for the renewing of the bretherhode and friendship, lest we shulde be strange vnto you: for it is lōg since the time that ye sent vnto vs.
11 ẅherefore we remember you at all seasons continually, and in the feastes & other daies appointed when we offre sacrifices and prayers, as it is mete and conueniēt to the thinke vpon our brethren.
12 And we reioyce at your prosperous estate.
13 And though we haue bene enuironed with great troubles and warres, so that the Kings rounde about vs haue foght against vs,
14 Yet wolde we not be grieuous vnto you, nor to other of our confederates and friends in these warres.
15 For we haue had helpe from heauen, ȳ hathe succoured vs, & we are deliue-red from our enemies, and our enemies are subdued.
16 Yet haue we chosen Numenius the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Iason, and sent them vnto the Romaines, for to renewe ȳ former friendship with them, and league.
17 ẅe commanded them also to go vnto you, and to salute you, and to deli-uer you our letters, concerning the renewing of our brotherhode.
18 And now ye shal do vs a pleasure to giue vs an answer of these things.
19 ¶And this was the copie of the letters, which Arius the king of Sparta sent vnto Onias.
20 THE KING of the Spartians vnto Onias the hie Priest sendeth greting.
21 It is founde in writing, that the Spar-tians and Iewes are brethren, and come out of the generacion of Abraham.
22 And now for somuche as this is come to our knowledge, ye shal do wel, to wri te vnto vs of your prosperitie.
23 As for vs, we haue writen vnto you, that your cattel and goods are ours, and ours are yours: these things haue we commanded to be shewed vnto you.
24 ¶Now when Ionathan heard, that Demetrius princes were come to fight against him, with a greater hoste then afore,

Ioseph. Antiq. 12. Chap. 5
Or, Darius.

25 He went

25 He went from Ierusalem, and met thē in the land of Hamath: for he gaue thē not space to come into his owne countrey.
26 And he sent spies vnto their tentes, which came againe, and tolde him, that they were appointed to come vpō him in the night.
27 Wherefore, when the sunne was gone downe, Ionathan commanded his men to watche, and to be in armes ready to fight all the night, and sent watchmen rounde about the hoste.
28 But when the aduersaries heard that Ionathan was ready with his men to the battel, they feared, and trembled in their hearts, and kindled fyres in their tentes, and fled away.
29 Neuertheles Ionathan and his companie knewe it not til the morning: for thei sawe the fyres burning.
30 Then Ionathan followed vpon them, but he colde not ouertake them: for they were gone ouer the flood Eleutherus.
31 So Ionathan turned to the Arabians, w were called Zabedei, and slewe them, and toke their spoile.
32 He proceded further also, and came vnto Damascus, and went through all the countrey.
33 But Simon his brother went forthe, and came to Ascalon and to the next holdes, departing vnto Ioppe, and wanne it.
34 For he heard that they wolde deliuer the holde to them that toke Demetrius parte: wherefore he set a garison there to kepe it.
35 ¶ After this came Ionathan home, & called the Elders of the people together, and deuised with them for to buyld vp the strong holdes in Iudea, 36 And to make the walles of Ierusalem hier, and to make a great mount betwixt the castel and the citie, for to separate it from the citie, that it might be alone, and that men shulde nether bye, nor sel in it.
37 So they came together to buylde vp the citie: for parte of the wall vpon the broke of the East side was fallen downe, and they repaired it, and called it Caphenatha.
38 Simon also set vp Adida in Sephela, & made it strong with gates & barres.
39 ¶ In the meane time Tryphon purposed to reigne in Asia, & to be crowned whē he had slaine the King Antiochus.
40 But he was afraied that Ionathā wolde not suffer him, but fight agaīst him: wherefore he went about to take Ionathan, and to kil him: so he departed, & came vnto Bethsan.
41 Then went Ionathan forthe against him to the battel with fortie thousand chosen men, and came vnto Bethsan.
42 But when Tryphon sawe that Ionathan came with so great an hoste, he durst not lay hand vpon him, 43 But receiued him honorably, & commended him vnto all his friends, and gaue him rewardes, and commāded his men of warre to be as obedient vnto him as to him self,
44 And said vnto Ionathan, Why hast ỹ caused this people to take suche trauail, seing there is no warre betwene vs?
45 Therefore send them now home againe and chuse certeine men to wait vpon thee, and come thou with me to Ptolemais: for I wil giue it thee, w the other strong holdes, and the other garisons, & all them that haue the charge of the commune affaires: so wil I returne, and departe: for this is the cause of my comming.
46 Ionathan beleued him, and did as he said, and sent away his hoste, which wēt into the land of Iuda, 47 And reteined but thre thousand with him, whereof he sent two thousand into Galile, and one thousand went with him self.
48 Now assone as Ionathan entred into Ptolemais, they of Ptolemais shut the gates, and toke him, and slewe all them with the sworde, that came in with him.
49 Then sent Tryphon an hoste of fotemen, and horsemen into Galile, and into the great plaine, to destroye all Ionathans companie.
50 But when they knewe that Ionathan was taken, and slaine, and those that were with him, they incouraged one another, and came forthe against them readie to the battel.
51 But when thei which followed vpon them, sawe that it was a matter of life, they turned backe againe.
52 By this meanes all they came into the land of Iuda peaceably, and bewailed Ionathan, & them that were with him, and feared greatly, and all Israel made great lamentacion.
53 For all the heathen that were round about them, soght to destroye them.
54 For they said, Now haue they no captaine, nor anie man to helpe them: therefore let vs now fight against them and roote out their memorie from among men.

Ioseph. Anti. 13. chap. 9

CHAP. XIII.

1 After Ionathan was taken, Simon is chosen captaine. 17 Tryphon, taking his children, and money for the redemption of Ionathan, killeth him and his children. 31 Tryphon killeth Antiochus, and possesseth the realme. 36 Demetrius taketh truce with Simon.

43 Simon winneth Gaza. 50 He possesseth the tower of Sion. 53 He maketh his sonne Iohn captaine.

Ioseph Antiq. 13. chap 9.

NOw when Simon heard that Tryp on gathered a great hoste to come into the land of Iuda, and to destroye it,

And sawe that the people was in great trembling and feare, he came vp to Ierusalem, and gathered the people together,

3 And gaue them exhortacion, saying, Ye knowe what great things I, and my brethren, and my fathers house haue done for the Law, and the Sanctuarie, and the battels, and troubles that we haue sene.

4 By reason whereof all my brethrē are slaine for Israels sake, & I am left alone.

5 Now therefore God forbidde, that I shulde spare mine owne life in ame time of trouble, for I am not better then my brethren.

6 But I will auenge my nacion, and the Sanctuarie, and our wiues, and our children: for all the heathen are gathered together to destroy vs of very malice.

7 In hearing these wordes the hearts of the people were kindled,

8 So that they cryed with a loude voyce, saying, Thou shalt be our captaine in stead of Iudas and Ionathan thy brethren.

9 Fight thou our battels, and whatsoeuer thou commandest vs, we wil do it.

10 ¶ So he gathered all the men of warre, making haste to finish the walles of Ierusalem, & fortified it rounde about.

11 Then sent he Ionathan the sonne of Absalomus with a great hoste vnto Ioppe, which droue them out that were therein, and remained there himself.

12 Tryphon also remoued from Ptolemais with a great armie, to come into the land of Iuda, and Ionathan was with him as prisonner.

*Or, Addus.

13 And Simon pitched his tentes at *Addidis vpon the open plaine.

14 But when Tryphon knewe that Simō stode vp in stead of his brother Ionathan, & y he wolde fight against him, he sent messengers vnto him, saying,

15 Where as we haue kept Ionathan thy brother, it is for money y he is owing in the Kings account concerning the busines that he had in hand.

16 Wherefore send now an hundreth talents of siluer, and his two sonnes for hostages, that when he is letten forthe, he wil not turne from vs, and we wil send him againe.

17 Neuertheles Simon knewe that he dissembled in his wordes, yet commāded he the money and children to be deliuered vnto him, lest he shulde be in greater hatred of the people of Israel.

18 Who might haue said, Because he sent him not the money and the children, therefore is Ionathan dead.

19 So he sent the children and an hundreth talents: but he dissembled, and wolde not let Ionathan go.

20 ¶ Afterwarde came Tryphon into y land to destroye it, and went rounde about by the way, that leadeth vnto Adora: but whersoeuer they went, thether went Simon and his hoste.

21 Now they that were in the castel, sent messengers vnto Tryphon, that he shulde make haste to come by the wildernes, and to send them vitailes.

22 So Tryphon made readie all his horsemen: but the same night fell a very great snowe, so that he came not, because of the snowe: but he remoued and went into the countrey of Galaad.

23 And whe he came nere to Bascama, he slewe Ionathan & he was buryed there.

24 So Tryphon returned, & went into his owne land.

25 ¶ Then sent Simō to take the bones of Ionathan his brother, & they buryed him in Modin his fathers cities.

26 And all Israel bewailed him with great lamentacion, & mourned for him verie long.

27 And Simon made vpon the sepulchre of his father and his brethren, a building high to loke vnto, of hewen stone behinde and before,

28 And set vp seuen pillers vpon it, one against another, for his father, his mother, and foure brethren, 29 And set great pillers round about them, and set armes vpon the pillers for a perpetual memorie, and carued shippes beside the armes, y they might be sene of men sailing in the sea.

30 This sepulchre which he made at Modin, standeth yet vnto this day.

31 ¶ Now as Tryphon went forthe with the yong King Antiochus, he slewe him traiterously, Ioseph. Antiq. 13. cha. 10

32 And reigned in his stead, & crowned him self King of Asia, and brought a great plague vpon the land.

33 Simon also buylte vp y castels of Iudea, and compassed them about with high towers, & great walles, euen with towers, and gates and barres, and laid vp vitailes in the strong holdes.

34 Moreouer Simon chose certeine men and sent them to King Demetrius, that he wolde discharge y land, for all Tryphons doings were robberies.

35 Whereupon Demetrius the King answered him, and wrote vnto him after this maner.

36 DEMETRIVS the King vnto Simon the high Priest, and the friend of Kings, and to the Elders and to the the nacion of the Iewes sendeth greting.

[a] Or, Colar or, hundrickes: in Greke Banni or banen.

37 The golden crowne, & precious stone that we sent vnto vs, haue we receiued, and are readie to make a stedfast peace with you, and to write vnto the officers, to release you of y things where in we made you rise.

38 So the things that we haue granted you, shalbe stable: the strong holdes which ye haue buylded, shalbe your owne.

39 Also we forgiue the ouersights, & faultes committed vnto this day, and the crowne taxe that ye ought vs: and where as was anie other tribute in Ierusalē, it shalbe now no tribute.

40 And they that are mete among you to be written with our men, let the be writen vp that there may be peace betwene vs.

41 Thus the yoke of the heathen was taken from Israel in the hundreth, & seuentie yere.

42 And the people of Israel began to write in their letters, & publike instrumēts IN THE FIRST yere of Simon the high and chief Priest, gouernour and prince of the Iewes.

43 In those dayes Simon camped against Gaza, and besieged it rounde about, where he set vp an engine of warre, and approched nere the citie, and bet a towre, and tooke it.

44 So they that were in the engine, leape into the citie, & there was great trouble in the citie,

45 In so muche that the people of the citie rent their clothes, and climed vp vpon the walles with their wiues, and children, and cryed with a loude voice, beseeching Simon to grant them peace, saying,

46 Deale not with vs according to our wickednes, but according to thy mercie.

47 Then Simon pitied them, and wolde fight no more against them, but put them out of the citie, and clensed the houses, wherein the idoles were, and so entred therevnto with psalmes & thanksgiuing.

48 So when he had cast all the filthines out, he set such men in it as kept the Law, and fortified it and buylded the rea dwelling place for him self,

49 Now, when they in the castel at Ierusalem were kept, that they colde not come for the nor go into the countre, nether bye nor sel, they were very hungrie, and many of them were famished to death,

50 Inso muche that they besoght Simō to make peace with them, which he granted them, & put them out frō thence, and clensed the castel from filthines.

51 And vpon y thre and twentie day of the seconde moneth, in the hundreth seuentie and one yere, they entred into it with thanksgiuing and branches of palme trees, and with harpes, and with cymbales, and with violes, & with psalmes and songs, because the great enemie of Israel was ouercome.

52 And he ordeined that the same day shulde be kept euerie yere with gladnes.

53 And he fortified the mount of the Temple that was beside the castel where he dwelt him self with his copanie.

54 Simon also seing that Iohn his sonne was now a man, he made him captaine of all the hostes, & caused him to dwell in Gazaris.

CHAP XIIII.

1 Demetrius is ouercome of Arsaces. 11 Simon being captaine, there is great quietnes in Israel. 18 The couenant of friendship with the Romains, and with the people of Sparta is renewed.

1 IN the hundreth, seuentie and two yere gathered King Demetrius his hoste, & departed vnto Media, to get him helpe for to fight against Trypho.

2 But when Arsaces the king of Persia and Media heard, that Demetrius was entred with in his borders, he sent one of his princes to take him aliue.

3 So he went, and ouercame the armie of Demetrius, and tooke him, & broght him to Arsaces, which kept him warde.

4 Thus all the land of Iuda was in rest, so long as Simon liued: for he soght the welth of his nacion: therefore were thei glad to haue him for their ruler, and to do him worship alway.

5 Simon also wanne the citie of Ioppe to his great honour to be an hauen towne, and made it an entrance vnto the yles of the sea.

6 He enlarged also the borders of his people and conquered the countreis.

7 He gathered vp manie of their people that were prisoners, and he had the dominion of Gazaris and Beth-sura, and the castel, which he clensed from filthines, & there was no man that resisted him,

8 So that euerie man tilled his grounde in peace, and the land gaue her frutes, & the trees gaue their frute.

9 The Elders sate in the open places, & consulted altogether for the commune welth, and the yong men were honorably clothed and armed.

10 He prouided vitailes for the cities, and all kinde of munition, so that his glorious fame was renoumed vnto the end of the worlde.

11 He made peace thorow out the land, and Israel had perfite mirth and ioye

12 For euerie man sate vnder his vine, & the fig trees, & there was no man to fray them.
13 There was none in the land to fight against them: for then the Kings were ouercome.
14 He helped all those that were in aduersitie among his people. he was diligent to se the Law kept, and he toke awa the vngodlie, and wicked.
15 He beautified the Sanctuarie, and encreased the vessels of the Temple.
16 When the Romains heard, and the Spartians had knowledge, that Ionathā was dead, they were very sorie.
17 But when they heard, that Simon his brother was made high Priest in his steade, & how he had wonne the land againe with the cities in it.
18 They wrote vnto him in tables of brasse, to renewe the friendship, & bonde of loue, which they had made with Iudas & Ionathan his brethren.
19 Which writings were red before the congregation at Ierusalem, and this is the copie of the letters that the Spartians sent, 20 THE SENATORES and citie of Sparta vnto Simon the great Priest, and to the Elders, and to the Priests, and to the residue of the people of the Iewes their brethren send greting.
21 When your ambassadours that were sent vnto our people, certified vs of your glorie & honour, we were glad of their coming,
22 And haue registred their ambassage in the publike recordes in this maner, Numenius the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Iason the Iewes ambassadours came vnto vs, to renewe amitie with vs.
23 And it pleased the people, that the mē shulde be honorably intreated, & that the copie of their ambassage shulde be registred in the publike recordes, that it might be for a memorial vnto the people of Sparta: and a copie of the same was sent to Simon the chief Priest.
24 After this Simon sent Numenius to Rome, with a great shield of golde of a thousand pounde weight, to confirme the friendship with them.
25 Which when the people vnderstode, thei said, What thankes shal we recompense againe vnto Simon and his children?
26 For he and his brethren, & the house of his father haue stablished Israel, & ouercome their enemies, and haue confirmed the libertie thereof: therefore they wrote this in tables of brasse, and set it vpon pillers in mount Sion.
27 The copie of the writing is this, In ỹ eight and twentie day of the moneth * Elul in the hundreth, seuentie & two yere, in the thirde yere of Simon the high Priest.
28 In "Saramel in the great congregatiō of the Priests, and of the people, and of the gouernours of the nacion, and of the Elders of the countrei, we wolde signifie vnto you, that manie battels haue bene foghten in our countrey. " Or, Ierusalē.
29 Wherein Simon the sonne of Mattathias (come of the children of Iarib) & his brethren put them selues in danger, and resisted the enemies of their nacio, that their Sanctuarie, and Law might be maintened, & did their nacion great honour.
30 For Ionathan gathered his nacion together, and became their high Priest, & is laid with his people.
31 After that wolde their enemies haue inuaded their countrey, and destroyed their land, and lay their hands on their Sanctuarie.
32 Then Simon resisted them, and foght for his nacion, and spent muche of his owne substance, and armed the valiant men of his nacion, and gaue them wages.
33 He fortified also the cities of Iudea, and Beth-sura that lyeth vpō the borders of Iudea (where the ordinance of their enemies lay sometime) & set there a garison of the Iewes.
34 And he fortified Ioppe, which lyeth vpon the sea, & Gazara that bordereth vpon Azotus (where the enemies dweit atore) and there he placed Iewes, and furnished them with things necessarie for the reparation thereof.
35 Now whē the people sawe the faithfulnes of Simon, and to what glorie he thoght to bring his nacion vnto, they made him their gouernour, & ỹ chief Priest, because he had done all these things, and for the vprightnes, and fidelitie that he had kept to his nacion, and that soght by all meanes to exalte his people.
36 For in his time they prospered wel by him, so that the heathē were taken out of their countrey, and they also which were in the citie of Dauid at Ierusalem where they had made them a castel, out of the which they went, and defiled all things that were about the Sanctuarie, and did great hurt vnto religion.
37 And he set Iewes in it, and fortified it for the assurance of the land, and citie, and raised vp the walles of Ierusalem.
38 And King Demetrius confirmed him in his high priesthode for these causes.
39 And made him one of his friends, & gaue him great honour.
40 For it was reported that ỹ Romains called the Iewes their friends, and confederates, & that they honorably receiued Simons ambassadours.

Aug.

41 And

41 And that the Iewes, & Priests consented, that Simon shulde be their prince, & high Priest perpetually, til God raised vp the true Prophet,
42 And that he shulde be their captaine, and haue the charge of the Sanctuarie, and so set men ouer the workes, and ouer the countrey, & ouer the weapons, and ouer the fortereſſes, and that shulde make prouision for the holie things,
43 And that he shulde be obeyed of euery man, and that all the writings in the countrey shulde be made in his name, and that he shulde be clothed in purple, and weare golde,
44 And that it shulde not be lawful for anie of the people or Priests to breake anie of these things, or to withstand his wordes, or to call anie congregacion in the countrey without him, or be clothed in purple, or weare a colar of gold:
45 And if anie did contrarie to these things or brake anie of them, he shulde be punished.
46 So it pleased all the people to agre ý it shulde be done to Simon according vnto these wordes.
47 Simon also accepted it, and was content to be the high Priest, and the captaine, & the prince of the Iewes, and of the Priests, and to be the chief of all.
48 And they commanded to set vp this writing in tables of brasse, and to faste it to the wall that compassed the Sanctuarie in an open place, 49 And that a copie of the same shulde be laied vp in the treasurie, that Simō and his sonnes might haue it.

CHAP. XV.

1 Antiochus maketh a couenant of friendship with Simon. 11 Tryphon is pursued. 15 The Romains write letters vnto Kings and nacions in the defense of the Iewes. 27 Antiochus refusing the helpe that Simon sent him, breaketh his couenant.

1 MOreouer King Antiochus ý sonne of Demetrius sent letters frō the yles of the sea vnto Simon the Priest, and prince of the Iewes, and to all the nacion,
2 Conteining these wordes, ANTIOCHVS the King vnto Simon the great Priest, & to the nacion of the Iewes sendeth greting.
3 For so muche as certeine pestilent mē haue vsurped the kingdome of our fathers, I am purposed to chalenge the realme againe, and to restore it to the olde estate: wherefore I haue gathered a great hoste, and prepared shippes of warre,
4 That I may go thorowe the countrey, & be auenged of them, which haue destroyed our countrey, & wasted manie cities in the realme.
5 Now therefore I do cōfirme vnto thee all the liberties, whereof all the Kings my progenitours haue discharged thee, and all the paiments, whereof they haue released thee.
6 And I giue thee leaue to coyne money of thine owne stampe with in thy countrey,
7 And that Ierusalem, and the Sanctuarie be fre, and that all the weapons, that thou hast prepared, and the fortereſſes which thou hast buylded, and kepest in thine hands, shalbe thine.
8 And all that is due vnto the King, and all that shalbe due vnto the King, I forgiue it thee, from this time forthe for euermore.
9 And when we haue obteined our kingdome, we wil giue thee, & thy nacion & the Temple great honour, so that your honour shalbe knowen thorowe out the worlde.
10 ¶ In the hundreth, seuentie and foure yere, went Antiochus into his fathers land, and all the bandes came together vnto him, so that fewe were left with Tryphon. Ioseph. Antiq. 13. chap. 11
11 So the King Antiochus pursued him, but he fled and came to Dora, which lyeth by the sea side.
12 For he sawe that troubles were towarde him, & that the armie had forsaken him.
13 Then camped Antiochus against Dora with an hundreth and twentie thousand fighting men, and eight thousand horsemen.
14 So he compassed the citie about, and the shippes came by the sea. Thus they presſed the citie by land, & by sea, in so muche that thei suffred no man to go in nor out.
15 In the meane seaſon came Numenius, and his companie from Rome, hauing letters writtē vnto the Kings & countreis, wherein were cōteined these wordes, 16 LVCIVS THE Consul of Rome vnto King Ptolemeus sendeth greting.
17 The ambassadours of the Iewes are come vnto vs as our friends and confederates from Simon the hie Priest, & from the people of the Iewes to renue friendship, and the bonde of loue, 18 Who haue broght a shield of golde weying a thousand pounde.
19 Wherefore we thoght it good to write vnto the Kings and countreis, that they shulde not go about to hurt them, nor to fight against them, nor their cities, nor their countreie, nether to mainteine their enemies against them.
20 And we were content to receiue of them the shield.

21 If therefore there be anie pestilent felowes fled from their countrey vnto you, deliuer them vnto Simon the hie Priest, that he maye punishe them according to their owne Law.
22 The same things were writen to Demetrius the King, and to Attalus, and to Arathes and to Arsaces.
[a] Or, Sampsa-ce. 23 And to all countreis, as [a]Sampsames, and to them of Sparta, and to Delus, & to Mindus, and to Sicion, and to Caria, and to Samos, and to Pamphylia, & to Lycia, and to Halicarnassus, and to Rhodus, and to Phaselis, and to Cos, & to Siden, and to Cortyna, & to Gnidon, and to Cyprus, and to Cyrene.
24 And they sent a copie of them to Simon the hie Priest.
25 ¶ So Antiochus the King camped against Dora the seconde time euer readie to take it, and made diuers engins of warre, and kept Tryphon in, that he colde nether go in nor out.
26 Then Simon sent him two thousand chosen men to helpe him, with siluer & golde, and muche furniture
27 Neuertheles, he wolde not receiue thē, but brake all the couenant, which he had made with him afore, and withdrewe him self from him,
28 And sent vnto him Athenobius one of his friends to commune with him, saying, Ye withholde Ioppe, & Gazara with the castle that is at Ierusalem, the citie of my realme,
29 Whose borders ye haue destroyed & done great hurt in the land, and haue ȳ gouernement of manie places of my kingdome.
30 Wherefore now deliuer the cities, ẅ ye haue taken, with the tributes of the places, that ye haue rule ouer without the borders of Iudea,
31 Or els giue me for them siue hūdreth talents of siluer, and for the harme that ye haue done, and for the tributes of ȳ places other siue hundreth talents: if not, we wil come, and fight against you.
32 So Athenobius the Kings friend came to Ierusalem, & when he sawe the honour of Simon, & the cubbert of golde and siluer plate, and so great preparaciō, he was astonished, and tolde him
the Kings message.
33 Then answered Simon, and said vnto him, We haue nether taken other mēs lands, nor withholden that which apperteineth to others, but our fathers heritage, ẅ our enemies had vnrighteously in possession a certeine time.
34 But when we had occasion, we recouered the inheritance of our fathers.
[b] Or, complai-nest concer-ning. 35 And whereas thou [b]requirest Ioppe and Gazara, they did great harme to our people, and through our countrey, yet wil we giue an hundreth talents for thē. But Athenobius answered him not one worde,
36 But turned againe angrie vnto the King, and tolde him all these wordes, and the dignitie of Simon, with all that he had sene, and the King was verie angrie.
37 ¶ In the meane time fled Tryphon
by shippe vnto Orthosias.
38 Then the King made Cendebeus captaine of the sea coast, and gaue him ba-des of fotemen and horsemen, 39 And commanded him to remoue the hoste towards Iudea, and to buylde vp Cedron, & to fortifie the gates, and to warre against the people: but the King pursued Tryphon.
40 So Cendebeus came vnto Iamnia, & began to vexe the people, and to inua-de Iudea, and to take the people prisoners, & to slay them.
41 And he buylte vp Cedron, where he set horsemen and garisons, that they might make outrodes by the waies of Iudea, as the King had cōmanded him.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Cendebeus the captaine of Antiochus hoste is put to flight by the sonnes of Simon.
11 *Ptolomeus the sonne of Abobus killeth
Simon and his two sonnes at a banket.*
23 Iohn killeth them that lye in waite for his life.

1 THen came Iohn vp from Gazara, and tolde Simon his father, what Cendebeus had done. Ioseph. Antiq. 13. chap. 12.
2 So Simon called two of his eldest sōnes, Iudas and Iohn, and said vnto thē, I, & my brethren, and my fathers house, haue euer from our youth vnto this day foghten against the enemies of Israel & the matters haue had good successe vnder our hands, and we haue deliuered Israel often times.
3 But I am now olde, & ye by Gods mer-cie are of a sufficient age: be ye there-fore in stead of me & my brother, and go forthe & fight for our nacion, & the helpe of heauen be with you.
4 So he chose twentie thousand fighting men of the countrey with the horse-men, which went forthe against Cende-beus, & rested at Modin.
5 In the morning thei arose, and went into ȳ plaine field: & beholde, a migh-tie great hoste came against them bo-the of fotemen, & horsemen: but there was a riuer betwixt them.
6 And Iohn ranged his armie ouer a-gainst him, and when he sawe that the people was a frayed to go ouer the ri-uer, he went ouer first him self, and the men seing hi, passed through after him.

7 Then

9 Then he deuided his men, and set the horsemen in the middes of the fotemen.
8 For their enemies horsemen were verie manie: but when thei blewe the trumpets, Cendebeus fled & his hoste, whereof manie were slayne, & the remnant gate them to the forteresse.
9 Then was Iudas Iohns brother wounded: but Iohn followed after them, til he came to Cedron, which Cendebeus had buylt.
10 Also thei fled vnto the towres, that were in the fields of Azotus, and those did Iohn burne with fyre: thus were there slaine two thousand men of them: so he returned peaceably into the land of Iuda.
11 ¶ Now in the field of Iericho was Ptolomeus the sonne of Abubus made captaine, and he had abundance of siluer & golde.
12 (For he had maried the daughter of the hie Priest)
13 Therefore he waxed proude in his minde, and thoght to rule the land, & thoght to slay Simon and his sonnes by deceit.
14 Now as Simon went about thorowe ý cities of the countrey, & studied carefully for them, he came downe to Iericho with Mattathias, & Iudas his sonnes in the hundreth seuentie and seuen yere, in the eleuenth moneth, which is the moneth Sabat.
15 Then the sonne of Abubus receiued them by treason into a litle holde, called Dochus, which he had buylte, where he made them a great banket, & had hid men there.
16 So when Simon and his sonnes had made good chere, Ptolemeus stode vp with his men, and toke their weapons, and entred in to Simon in the banket house, and slewe him with his two sonnes, and certeine of his seruants.
17 Whereby he committed a great vilenie, and recompensed euil for good.
18 Then wrote Ptolemeus these things & sent to the King, that he might send him an hoste to helpe him, & so wolde deliuer him the countrey with ý cities.
19 He sent other men also vnto Gazara, to take Iohn, and sent letters vnto the captaines to come to him, and he wolde giue them siluer, & golde & rewardes.
20 And to Ierusalem he sent other to take it, & the mountaine of the Temple.
21 But one ranne before, and tolde Iohn in Gazara, that his father, & his brethren were slaine, and that Ptolemeus had sent to slay him.
22 When he heard this, he was sore astonished, & laid hands of them that were come to slay him, and slewe them: for he knewe that they went about to kill him.
23 Concerning other things of Iohn, bothe of his warres, and of his noble actes (wherein he behaued him self manfully) of the buylding of walles ý he made, and other of his dedes, 24 Beholde, they are writen in ý chronicles of his priesthode, from the time, that he was made high Priest after his father.

THE SECONDE BOke of the Maccabees.

CHAP. I.

1 An epistle of the Iewes that dwelt at Ierusalem sent vnto them that dwelt in Egypt, wherein they exhorte them to giue thakes for the death of Antiochus. 19 Of the fyre that was hid in the pitte. 24 The prayer of Neemias.

THE brethren the Iewes, which be at Ierusalem, and they that are in the countrey of Iudea, vnto the brethren ý Iewes, that are thorowout Egypt, send salutation & prosperitie.
2 God be gracious vnto you and remember his couenant made with Abraham, and Isaac, and Iacob his faithful seruants.
3 And giue you all an heart, to worship him, and to do his wil with a whole hart and with a willing minde,
4 And open your hearts in his Law, and commandements, and send you peace,
5 And heare your prayers, and be reconciled with you, and neuer forsake you in time of trouble.
6 Thus now we praye here for you.
7 When Demetrius reigned, in the hundreth threscore & nine yere, we Iewes wrote vnto you in the trouble, and violence that came vnto vs in those yeres, after that Iason, and his companie departed out of the holie land and kingdome,

8 And burnt the porche, and shed innocent blood. Then we praied vnto the Lord, and were heard: we offred sacrifices and fine floure, and lighted the lapes, and set forthe the bread.

9 Now therefore kepe ye the dayes of ỹ feast of the Tabernacles in ỹ moneth Chasleu.

10 ¶ In the hundreth, foure score and eight yere, the people that was at Ierusalem, and in Iudea, and the counsel & Iudas, vnto Aristobulus King Ptolemeus master, which is of the stocke of the annointed Priest, & to the Iewes ỹ are in Egypt, sendeth greting & helth.

11 In so muche as God hathe deliuered vs from great perils, we thanke him highly, as thogh we had ouercome the King.

12 For he broght them into Persia by heapes, that foght against the holie citie.

13 For albeit the captaine, and the armie, that was with him, semed inuincible, yet they were slaine in the temple of Nanea, by the disceit of Naneas Priests.

14 For Antiochus, as thogh he wolde dwell with her, came thether, he, and his friends with him, to receiue money vnder the title of a dowrie.

15 But when the Priests of Naneas had laid it forthe, and he was entred with a smale companie, with in the Temple, they shut the Temple, when Antiochus was come in.

16 And by opening a priue dore of the vaute, they cast stones, as it were thunder, vpon the captaine & his, and hauig bruised them in pieces, thei cut of their heads & threwe them to those that were without.

17 God be blessed in all things, which hathe deliuered vp the wicked.

18 Whereas we are now purposed to kepe the purification of the Temple vpon the siue & twentie day of the moneth Chasleu, we thoght it necessarie to certifie you thereof, ỹ ye also might kepe the feast of the Tabernacles, & of the fyre which was giuen vs when Neemias offred sacrifice, after that he had buylt the Temple, and the altar.

19 For when as our fathers were led away vnto Persia, ỹ Priests, which soght the honor of God, toke the* fyre of the altar priuely, and hid it in an hollow pit, which was drie in ỹ bottom, & therein they kept it, so that the place was vnknowen vnto euerie man.

Leuit. 6. 13. & 10. 2, & 16 3

20 Now after manie yeres when it pleased God that Neemias shulde be sent from the King of Persia, he sent of the posteritie of those Priests, which had hid it, to fetche the fyre, & as they tolde vs, they founde no fyre, but thicke water.

21 Then commanded he them to drawe it vp, and to bring it: and when ỹ things apperteining to the sacrifices were broght, Neemias commanded the Priests to sprinkle the wood, & the things laid thereupon, with water.

22 When this was done, and the time came that the sunne shone, which afore was hid in the cloude, there was a great fyre kindled, so ỹ euerie man maruciled.

23 Now the Priests, and all prayed while the sacrifice was consuming: Ionathan began, and the other answered thereūto.

24 And the prayer of Neemias was after this maner, O Lord, Lord God maker of all things, which art feareful, and strong, & righteous, and merciful, and ỹ onlye and gracious King,

25 Onely liberal, onely iuste and almightie and euerlasting, thou that deliuerest Israel from all trouble, and hast chosen the fathers, and sanctified them, 26 Receiue the sacrifice for thy whole people of Israel, & preserue thine owne porcion, and sanctifie it.

27 Gather those together, that are scatered from vs: deliuer them that serue among the heathen: loke vpon them ỹ are despised, and abhorred, that ỹ heathē may knowe that thou art our God.

28 Punish them that oppresse vs, & with pride do vs wrong.

29 Plant thy people againe in thine holie place * as Moyses hathe spoken. Deut. 30. 5

30 And the Priests sang psalmes thereunto.

31 Now when the sacrifice was consumed Neemias commanded the great stones to be sprinkled with the residue of the water.

32 Which when it was done, there was kindled a flame, which was consumed by the light, that shined from the altar.

33 ¶ So when this matter was knowen, it was tolde the King of Persia, that in the place where the Priests, which were led away, had hid fyre, there appeared water, wherewith Neemias and his cōpanie had purified the sacrifices.

34 The King tryed out the thing, & closed the place about, & made it holie.

35 And to them that the King fauoured, he gaue and bestowed manie giftes.

36 And Neemias called the same place Ephthar, which is to say, purificacion: but manie men called it ‖ Nephthar. ‖ Or, Nephi.

CHAP. II.

1 How Ieremie hid the tabernacle, the Arke, and the altar in the hil. 23 Of the fine bokes of Iason conteined in one.

1 It is foun-

1 IT is founde also in the writings of Ieremias the Prophet, that he commanded them, which were caried away, to take fyre, as was declared, and as the Prophet commanded them that were led into captiuitie,

Baruch 6

2 * Giuing them a Law that they shulde not forget ỹ commãdements of the Lord, and that they shulde not erre in their mindes, when they sawe images of golde and siluer, with their ornaments.

3 These and suche other things commanded he them, and exhorted them ỹ they shulde not let the Law go out of their hearts.

4 It is writen also, how the Prophet, by an oracle that he had, charged them to take the tabernacle and the arke, and follow him: and when he came vp into the mountaine where Moyses went vp, * & sawe the heritage of God,

Deu. 34, 1

5 Ieremias went forthe, and founde an hollowe caue, wherein he laid the Tabernacle, and the Arke, and the altar of incense, and so stopped the dore.

6 And there came certeine of those that followed him, to marke the place: but they colde not finde it.

7 Which whē Ieremias perceiued, he reproued them, saying, As for that place, it shalbe vnknowen, vntil the time ỹ God gather his people together againe, and that mercie be shewed.

8 Then shal the Lord shewe them these things, and the maiestie of the Lord shal appeare & ỹ cloude also, as it was shewed vnder Moyses, and as * when Salomon desired, that the place might be honorably sanctified.

2. King 8, 62

9 For it is manifest that he, being a wise man, offred the sacrifice of dedication, and consecracion of the Temple.

Leu. 9, 24. & 10, 16

10 * And as when Moyses prayed vnto the Lord, the fyre came downe from heauen, and consumed the sacrifice: so,

2. Chron. 7, 1

when Salomon prayed, * the fyre came downe from heauen, and consumed the burnt offring.

11 And Moyses said, Because the sinoffring was not eaten, therefore is it consumed.

12 So Salomon kept those eight dayes.

13 These things also are declared in the writings, and regesters of Neemias, and how he made a librarie, and how he gathered the actes of the Kings, and of the Prophets, and the actes of Dauid, & the epistles of the Kings concerning ỹ holie giftes.

14 Euen so Iudas also gathered all things that came to passe by the warres that were among vs, which things we haue.

15 Wherefore if ye haue nede thereof, send some to fetche them vnto you.

16 Where as we then are about to celebrate the purification, we haue writen vnto you, and ye shal do wel, if ye kepe the same dayes.

17 We hope also that the God, which deliuered all his people, and gaue an heritage to them all and the kingdome, & the priesthode, & ỹ Sanctuarie, 18 *As he promised in the Law, wil shortly haue mercy vpon vs, and gather vs together from vnder the heauen into his holie place: for he hathe saued vs from great perils, and hathe clensed the place.

Deut. 30, 3

19 As concerning Iudas Maccabeus, and his brethren, the purification of the great Temple, and the dedicacion of the altar,

20 And the warres against Antiochus Epiphanes, and Eupator his sonne,

21 And the manifest signes, that came frō heauen vnto those, which manfully stode for the Iewes religion (for thogh they were but fewe, yet they ranne through whole countreis, and pursued the barbarous armies, 22 And repaired the Temple that was renoumed thorow out all the worlde, & deliuered the citie, and established the Lawes, that were like to be abolished, becaus the Lord was merciful vnto them with all lenitie)

23 We wil assay to abbridge in one volume those things, that Iason the Cyrenean hathe declared in fiue bokes.

24 For considering the wonderful nōber, and the difficultie, that thei haue ỹ wolde be occupied in the rehearsal of stories, because of the diuersitie of the matters,

25 We haue indeuored, that they that wolde read, might haue pleasure, and that thei which are studious, might easily kepe them in memorie, and that whosoeuer read them, might haue profite.

26 Therefore to vs that haue taken in hand this great labour, it was no easie thing to make this abbridgement, but required bothe sweat, and watching.

27 Like as he that maketh a feast, & seketh other mens commoditie, hathe no smale labour: so we also for manie mēs sakes are verie wel content to vndertake this great labour.

28 Leauing to the autor the exact diligence of euerie particular, we wil labour to go forwarde according to the prescript order of an abbrigdement.

29 For as he that wil buylde a newe house, must prouide for ỹ whole buylding, but he that setteth out the plat or goeth about to painte it, seketh but onely what is comlie for the decking thereof:

30 Euen so I thinke for vs, that it apperteineth to the first writer of a storie to enter depely into it,,and to make mẽcion of all things, and to be curious in euerie parte.

31 But it is permitted to him that wil shorten it,to vse fewe wordes,and to auoyde those things that are curious there in,

32 Here then wil we beginne the storie, adding thus muche to our former wordes, that it is but a fooliſh thing to aboũde in wordes before the storie, and to be shorte in the storie.

CHAP. III.

1 Of the honour done vnto the Temple by the Kings of the Gentiles. 6 Simon vttereth what treasure is in the Temple. 7 Heliodorus is sente to take them away. 26 He is striken of God and healed at the prayer of Onias.

1 VVHat time as the holy citie was inhabited with all peace, and when the Lawes were very wel kept, becausé of the godlines of Onias ý hie Prieſt,and hatred of wickednes,

2 It came to passe that euẽ the Kings did honour the place, and garnished the Temple with great giftes.

3 In so muche that Seleuchus King of Asia of his owne rentes, bare all the costes belonging to the seruice of the sacrifices.

4 But one Simon of the tribe of Beniamin being appointed ruler of the Tẽple,contended with the hie Prieſt concerning ‖ the iniquitie committed in the citie.

‖ Or, the state & prouision.

5 And when he colde not ouercome Onias,he gate him to Apollonius the sone of Thraseas, which then was gouernour of Coelosyria and Phenice,

6 And tolde him that the treasurie in Ieruſalẽ was ful of innumerable money, which did not belong to the prouision of the sacrifices,and that it were possible that these things might come into the Kings hands.

7 Now when Apollonius came to the King and had shewed him of the money,as it was tolde him,the King chose out Heliodorus his treasurer, and sent him with a commandement, to bring him the foresaid money.

8 Immediatly Heliodorus toke his iourney as thogh he wolde visite the cities of Coelosyria and Phenice,but in effect to fulfil the Kings purpose.

9 So when he came to Ierusalem, & was courteously receiued of the hie Prieſt into the citie,he declared what was determined concerning the money, and shewed the cause of his coming, and asked if these things were so in dede.

10 Then the hie Prieſt tolde him that there were suche things laide vp by the widdowes and fatherles,

11 And that a certeine of it belonged vnto Hircanus the sonne of Tobias a noble man,and not as that wicked Simon had reported, and that in all there were but foure hundreth talents of siluer, and two hundreth of golde, 12 And that it were altogether vnpossible to do this wrong to them that had committed it of truit to the holines of the place and Temple, which is honored thorowe the whole worlde for holines and integritie.

13 But Heliodorus becausé of the Kings commandement giuen him, said that in any wise it must be broght into ý Kings treasurie.

14 So he appointed a day, and went in to take order for these things: then there was no smale grief thorowout the whole citie.

15 For the Prieſts fell downe before the altar in the Prieſts garments,and called vnto heauen vpõ him which had made a Law concerning things giuen to be kept,that they shulde be safely preserued for suche as had committed them to be kept.

16 Then thei that loked the high Prieſt in the face, were wounded in their heart:for his countenance, and the changing of his colour declared the sorowe of his minde.

17 The man was so wrapped in feare and trembling of the bodie,that it was manifeſt to them that loked vpon him, what sorowe he had in his heart.

18 Others also came out of their houses by heapes vnto the commune prayer, becausé the place was like to come vnto contempt.

19 And the women,girt with sackecloth vnder their breſtes, filled the stretes, and the virgines that were kept in,ranne some to the gates and some to the walles, & others loked out of the windowes.

20 And all helde vp their hands toward heauen and made prayer.

21 It was a lamentable thing to se the multitude that fell downe of all sortes, and ý expectation of the high Prieſt being in suche anguish.

22 Therefore thei called vpon the almightie Lord that he wolde kepe safe and sure the things, which were layed vp for those that had deliuered them.

23 Neuertheles, ý thing ý Heliodorus was determined to do,that did he performe.

24 And as he and his souldiers were now there present by the treasurie, he that is the Lord of the spirits, and of all all power, shewed a great vision, so that all they which presumed to come with him, were astonished at the power of God, and fell into feare, and trembling.

25 For there appeared vnto them an horse with a terrible man sitting vpō him, moste richely barbed, and he ranne fiercely, and smote at Heliodorus with his fore fete, and it semed that he that sate vpon the horse, had harnes of golde.

26 Moreouer, there appeared two yong men notable in strength: excellent in beautie, and comelie in apparel, which stode by him on ether side, and scoureged him continually, and gaue him manie sore stripes.

27 And Heliodorus fel suddenly vnto the grounde, and was couered wᵗ great darkenes: but they that were with him, toke him vp, and put him in a litter.

28 Thus he that came with so great cōpanie, and manie souldiers into the said treasurie, was borne out: for he colde not helpe him self with his weapons.

29 So they did knowe the power of God manifestly, but he was domme by the power of God, and lay destitute of all hope and helth.

30 And they praised the Lord that had honored his owne place: for the Temple which a litle afore was ful of feare and trouble, when the almightie Lord appeared, was filled with ioye and gladnes.

31 Then streight waies certeine of Heliodorus friends prayed Onias, that he wolde call vpon the moste High to grant him his life, which lay readie to giue vp the goste.

32 So the hie Priest, considering that the King might suspect that the Iewes had done Heliodorus some euil, he offered a sacrifice for the helth of the man.

33 Now when the hie Priest had made his prayer, the same yong men in the same clothing appeared & stode beside Heliodorus, saying, Giue Onias the hie Priest great thankes: for his sake hathe the Lord granted thee thy life.

34 And seing that thou hast bene scourged from heauen, declare vnto all men the mightie power of God: and when they had spoken these wordes, they appeared no more.

35 So Heliodorus offred vnto the Lord sacrifice, and made great vowes vnto him, which had granted him his life, & thanked Onias, and went againe with his hoste to the King.

36 Then testified he vnto euerie man of the great workes of God that he had sene with his eyes.

37 And when the King asked Heliodorus, who were mete to be sent yet once againe to Ierusalem, he said, 38 If thou hast anie enemie or traitor, send him thether, and thou shalt receiue him wel scourged, if he escape with his life: for in that place, no doubte, there is a special power of God.

39 For he that dwelleth in heauen, hathe his eye on that place, & defendeth it, and he beateth and destroyeth them that come to hurt it.

40 This came to passe concerning Heliodorus, and the keping of the treasurie.

CHAP. IIII.

1 Simon reporteth euil of Onias. 7 Iason obteineth the office of the hie Priest by corrupting the King. 27 And was by Menelaus defrauded by like bribing. 34 Onias is slaine traiterously by Andronicus.

1 THis Simon now, of whome we spake afore, being a brewraier of the money and of his owne natural countrey, reported euil of Onias, as though he had moued Heliodorus vnto this, & had bene the inuenter of the euil.

2 Thus was he bolde to call him a traitour that was so beneficial to the citie, and a defender of his nacion, and so zealous of the Lawes.

3 But when his malice increased so farre, that thorow one that belonged to Simon murthers were committed,

4 Onias considering the danger of this contencion, and that Appollonius as he that was the gouernour of Coelosyria and Phenice, did rage, and increased Simons malice,

5 He went to the King not as an accuser of the citizens, but as one that intended the commune welth bothe priuatly and publikely.

6 For he sawe it was not possible except the King toke order to quiet the matters, and that Simon wolde not leaue of his folie.

7 But after the death of Seleucus, when Antiochus, called Epiphanes, toke the kingdome, Iason the brother of Onias labored by vnlawful meanes to be hie Priest.

8 For he came vnto the King, and promised him thre hundreth & thre score talents of siluer, and of another rente, foure score talents.

9 Besides this he promised him an hundreth & fiftie, if he might haue licence to set vp a place for exercise, and a place for the youth, and that they wolde [a] name them of Ierusalem Antiochians.

10 The which thing when the King had granted, and he had gotten the superioritie, he began immediatly to drawe his kinsmen to the customes of the Gētiles, 11 And abolished the friendlie priuiledges of the Kings, that the Iewes had set vp by Iohn, the father of Eupolemus, which was sent ambassadour vnto Rome, to become friends and confederates: he put downe their lawes and policies, and broght vp newe statutes, and contrarie to the Lawe.

12 For he presumed to buylde a place of exercise vnder the castel, and broght ẏ chief yong men vnder his subiection, and made them weare [a] hattes.

13 So there began a great desire to follow the maners of the Gentiles, & they toke vp the facions of strange nacions by the exceading wickednes of Iason, not the hie Priest, but the vngodlie persone, 14 So that the Priestes were now no more diligent about the seruice of the altar, but despised the Temple, and regarded not the sacrifices, but made haste to be partakers of the wicked expenses at the playe [a] after the casting of the stone.

15 For they did not set by the honour of their fathers, but liked the glorie of ẏ Gentiles best of all.

16 By reason whereof great calamitie came vpon them: for they had them to be their enemies and punishers, whose custome they followed so earnestly, and desired to be like them in all things.

17 For it is not a light thing to trāsgresse against the Lawes of God, but the time following shal declare these things.

18 ¶ Now when the games that were vsed euerie fiue yere, were plaide at Tyrus, ẏ King being present, 19 This wicked Iason sent from Ierusalem men to loke vpon them, as though they had bene Antiochians, ẅ broght thre hundreth drachmes of siluer for a sacrifice to Hercules, albeit they that caryed them, desired they might not be bestowed on the sacrifice (because it was not comelie) but to be bestowed for other expenses.

20 So he ẏ sent them, sent them for the sacrifice of Hercules: but because of those that broght them, they were giuen to the making of gallets.

21 ¶ Now Appollonius the sonne of Menestheus was sent into Egypt because of the coronacion of King Ptolemeus Philometor: but when Antiochus perceiued ẏ he was euil affectioned towarde his affaires, he soght his owne assurance, and departed from thence to Ioppe, and so came to Ierusalem,

22 Where he was honorably receiued of Iason, and of the citie, & was broght in with torche light, and ẅ great showtings, and so he went with his hoste vnto Phenice, 23 Thre yere afterwarde Iason sent Menelaus, the foresaid Simons brother, to beare the money vnto the King, and to bring to passe certeine necessarie affaires, whereof he had giuē him a memorial.

24 But he, being commended to the King, magnified him for the appearāce of his power, and turned the priesthode vnto him self, for he gaue thre hundreth talents of siluer more then Iason.

25 So he gate the Kings [a] letters patentes, albeit he had nothing in him self worthie of the hie priesthode, but bare the stomacke of a cruel tyrant, and the wrath of a wilde beast.

26 Then Iason, which had disceiued his owne brother, being deceiued by another, was compelled to flee into the countrey of the Ammonites.

27 So Menelaus gate the dominion: but as for the money that he had promised vnto the King, he toke none order for it, albeit Sostratus the ruler of the castel required it.

28 For vnto him apperteined the gathering of the customes: wherefore they were bothe called before the King.

29 Now Menelaus left his brother, Lysimachus in his stead in the priesthode, and Sostratus left Crates which was gouernour of the Cyprians.

30 ¶ Whiles these things were in doing, the Tharsians and they of Mallot made insurrection, because they were giuē to ẏ Kings cōcubine called Antiochis.

31 Then came ẏ King in all haste, to appease the busines, leauing Andronicus a man of autoritie to be his lieutenant.

32 Now Menelaus, supposing that he had gotten a conuenient time, stole certeine vessels of golde out of the Temple, & gaue certeine of them to Andronicus: and some he solde at Tyrus and in the cities thereby.

33 Which when Onias knewe of a suretie, he reproued him, & withdrewe him self into a Sanctuarie at Daphne by Antiochia, 34 Wherefore Menelaus, taking Andronicus a parte, prayed him to slay Onias: so when he came to Onias, he counseled him craftely, giuing him his right hand ẅ an othe: (howbeit he suspect him, and persuaded him to come out of the Sanctuarie) so he slewe him incontinently without any regarde of righteousnes.

35 For

[a] Or, that he wolde write the Antiochians that were at Ierusalem, amonge them.

[a] Or, buskins in token of wantones as Gentiles did.

[a] This game was to trye strength by casting a stone that had an hole in ẏ middes, or a piece of mettal.

[a] Or, commandements.

35 For the which cause not onely the Iewes but many other nacions also were grieued, & toke it heauily for the vnrighteous death of this man.

36 ¶ And when the King was come againe from the places about Cilicia, the Iewes that were in the citie, and certeine of the Grekes ý abhorred ý fact also, complained because Onias was slaine without cause.

37 Therefore Antiochus was sorie in his minde, and he had compassion, and wept because of the modestie and great discretion of him that was dead.

38 Wherefore being kindled with angre, he toke away Andronicus garment of purple, and rent his clothes, and commanded him to be led through out the citie, and in the same place where he had committed the wickednes against Onias, he was slaine as a murtherer. Thus the Lord rewarded him his punishmẽt, as he had deserued.

39 ¶ Now when Lysimachus had done many wicked dedes in ý citie through the counsel of Menelaus, and the brute was spred abroad, the multitude gathered thẽ together against Lysimachus: for he had caryed out now muche vessel of golde.

40 And when the people arose, and were ful of angre, Lysimachus armed about thre thousand, and began to vse vnlauful power, a certeine tyrant being their captaine, who was no lesse decayed in wit then in age.

41 But when they vnderstode the purpose of Lysimachus, some gate stones, some great clubbes, and some cast handfuls of dust, which lay by, vpõ Lysimachus men, and those that inuaded them.

42 Whereby manie of them were wounded, some were slaine, and all the other chased away: but ý wicked Churchrobber himself they killed besides ý treasurie.

43 For these causes an accusation was laide against Menelaus.

44 And when the King came to Tyrus, thre men sent from the senat pleaded ý cause before him.

45 But Menelaus, being now conuinced, promised to Ptolemeus the sonne of Dorimenes muche money, if he wolde persuade the King.

46 So Ptolemeus went to the King into a courte, where as he was to coule him self, and turned the Kings minde.

47 In so muche that he discharged Menelaus from the accusacions (not withstãding he was the cause of all mischief) and condemned those poore men to death, which if they had tolde their cause, yea, before the Scythians, thei shulde haue bene heard as innocent.

48 Thus were they sone punished vniustly, which followed vpon the matter for the citie, and for the people, and for the holie vessels.

49 Wherefore they of Tyrus hated that wickednes, and ministred all things liberally for their buryal.

50 And so through the couetousnes of them that were in power, Menelaus remained in authoritie, increasing in malice, and declared him selfe a great traiter to the citizens.

CHAP. V.

2 Of the signes and tokens sene in Ierusalem 6 Of the end & wickednes of Iason. 12 The pursute of Antiochus against the Iewes 15 The spoiling of the Temple. 27 Mactabeus fleeth into the wildernes.

1 ABout the same time Antiochus vndertoke his seconde voyage into Egypt.

2 And then were there sene through out all the citie of Ierusalem, fortie dayes long, horsemen running in the aire, with robes of golde, and as bandes of speare men,

3 And as tropes of horsemen set in array, incountering and coursing one against another with shaking of shields and multitude of darres and drawing of swordes, and shoting of arowes, and the glittering of the goldẽ armour sene and harnes of all sortes.

4 Therefore euerie man prayed, ý those tokens might turne to good.

5 Now whẽ there was gone forthe a false rumour, as thogh Antiochus had bene dead, Iason toke at the least a thousand men, and came suddenly vpõn the citie, and they that were vpon the walles, being put backe and the citie at length taken,

6 Menelaus fled into the castel, but Iason slewe his owne citizens without mercie, not considering that to haue the aduantage against his kinsmen is greatest disauantage, but thoght that he had gotten the victorie of his enemies, and not of his owne nacion.

7 Yet he gate not the superioritie, but at the last receiued shame for the reward of his traison, and went againe like a vagabound into the countrey of the Ammonites.

8 Finally he had this end of his wicked conuersation, that he was accused before Areta, the King of the Arabians, and fled from citie to citie, being pursued of euerie man, and hated as a forsaker of the Lawes, and was in abominacion, as an enemie of his countrey and citizens, and was driuen into Egypt. Or shut vp.

9 Thus he that had chased manie out of their owne countrey, perished as a banished man, after that he was gone to the Lacedemonians, thinking there to haue gotten succour by reason of kinred.

10 And he that had cast manie out vnburyed, was throwen out him self, no man mourning for him, nor putting him in his graue: nether was he partaker of his fathers sepulchre.

11 ¶Now when these things that were done, were declared to the King, he thoght that Iudea wolde haue fallen from him: wherefore he came with a furious minde out of Egypt, and toke ỹ citie by violence.

12 He commanded his men of warre also that they shulde kill, and not spare suche as they mette, and to slaye suche as went into their houses.

13 Thus was there a slaughter of yong men, and olde men, and a destruction of men and women and children, and virgines, and infants were murthered:

14 So that within thre dayes were slayne foure score thousand, and fortie thousand taken prisoners, and there were as manie solde as were slayne.

15 Yet was he not content with this, but durst go into the moste holy Temple of all the worlde, hauing Menelaus that traitour to the Lawes, and to his owne countrey to be his guide,

16 And with his wicked hands toke the holie vessels, which other Kings had giuen for the garnishing, glorie and honour of that place, and handled them with his wicked hands.

17 So hautie in his minde was Antiochus, that he considered not, that God was not a litle wrothe for the sinnes of them that dwelt in the citie, for the which suche contempt came vpon that place.

18 For if they had not bene wrapped in manie sinnes he, assone as he had come, had suddenly bene punished, & put backe from his presumption, as Heliodorus was, whome Seuleucus the King sent to vewe the treasurie.

19 But God hathe not chosen the nacion for the places sake, but ỹ place for the nacions sake.

20 And therefore is the place become partaker of the peoples trouble, but afterwarde shal it be partaker of the benefites of the Lord, and as it is now forsaken in the wrath of the Almightie, so when the great Lord shalbe reconciled, it shalbe set vp in great worship againe.

21 ¶So when Antiochus had take eighten hundreth talents out of the Temple, he gate him to Antiochia in all haste, thinking in his pride to make men sayle vpon the drye land, & to walke vpō the sea: suche an hie minde had he.

22 But he left deputes to vexe the people: at Ierusalem Philippe a Phrygian by birth, in maners more cruel then he that set him there:

23 And at Garizin, Andronicus, & with them Menelaus, which was more grieuous, to the citizens then the other, and was despiteful against the Iewes his citizens.

24 He sent also Apollonius a cruel prince, with an armie of two and twentie thousand, whome he commanded to slaye those that were towarde mans age, and to sell the women, and the yonger sorte.

25 So when he came to Ierusalem, he fained peace, and kept him stil vntil the holy day of Sabbath: and then finding the Iewes keping the feast, he commanded his men to take their weapons.

26 And so he slewe all them that were gone forthe to the shewe, and running through the citie with his men armed, he murthered a great nomber.

27 But Iudas Maccabeus, being as it were the tenth, fled into the wildernes, and liued there in the mountaines with his companie among the beastes, and dwelling there, and eating grasse, lest they shulde be partakers of ỹ filthines.

CHAP. VI.

1 The Iewes are compelled to leaue the Law of God. 4 The Temple is defiled. 10 The women cruelly punished. 28 The grieuous paine of Eleazarus.

1 NOt long after this, sent the King an olde man of "Athens, for to cōpell the Iewes, to transgresse the Lawes of the fathers, and not to be gouerned by the Law of God,

"Or, Antiochie

2 And to defile the Temple that was at Ierusalem, and to call it the temple of Iupiter Olympius, and that of Garizin, according as they did that dwelt at that place, Iupiter; that kepeth hospitalitie.

3 This wicked gouernement was sore and grieuous vnto the people.

4 For the Temple was ful of dissolucio, and glottonie of the Gentiles, which dallied with harlots, and had to do w̄ women within the circuit of the holie places, and broght in suche things as were not lawful.

5 The altar also was ful of suche things, as were abominable & forbiden by ỹ Law.

6 Nether was it lawful to kepe ỹ Sabbath, nor to obserue their anciēt feasts, nor plainely to confesse him self to be a Iewe.

a Iewe.

7 In the day of the Kings birth they were grieuously compelled parforce euerie moneth to banket, and when the feast of Bacchus was kept, they were constrained to go in the procession of Bacchus with garlandes of yuie.

8 Moreouer through the counsel of Ptolemeus there went out a commandemēt vnto the next cities of the heathen against the Iewes, that the like customes, and "banketting shulde be kept.

"Or, eating of the flesh that was sacrificed

9 And who so wolde not conforme thē selues to the maners of the Gentiles, shulde be put to death: then might a man haue sene the present miserie.

10 For there were two women brought forthe, that had circumcised their sonnes, whome when they had led rounde about the citie (the babes hanging at their breasts) they cast them downe headlong ouer the walles.

11 Some that were runne together into dēnes to kepe the Sabboth day secretly, were discouered vnto Philippe, and were burnt together, because that for the reuerence of the honorable day they were afraied to helpe them selues.

12 ¶ Now I beseche those which reade this boke, that thei be not discouraged for these calamities, but that thei iudge these afflictions, not to be for destruction, but for a chastening of our nacion.

13 For it is a token of his great goodnes not to suffer sinners long to continue, but straight waies to punish them.

14 For the Lord doeth not long waite for vs, as for other nacions, whome he punisheth when thei are come to the fulnes of their sins.

15 But thus he dealeth with vs, that our sinnes shulde not be heaped vp to the ful, so that afterwarde he shulde punish vs.

16 And therefore he neuer withdraweth his mercie from vs: and thogh he punish with aduersitie, yet doeth he neuer forsake his people.

17 But let this be spoken now for a warning vnto vs: and now wil we come to the declaring of the matter in fewe wordes.

18 ¶ Eleazar then one of the principal scribes, an aged man, and of a wel fauoured countenance, was constrained to open his mouth and to eate swines flesh.

19 But he desiring rather to dye gloriously them to liue with hatred, offred him self willingly to the torment, and spit it out.

20 As thei ought to go to death which suffer punishment for suche things, as it is not lawful to taste of for the desire to liue.

21 But thei that had the charge of this wicked banket, for that olde friēdship of the man, toke him aside priuely, and prayed him, that he wolde take suche flesh, as was lawful for him to vse, and as he wolde prepare for him self, & dissemble as thogh he had eatē of ỹ thigs appointed by the King, euen the flesh of the sacrifice,

22 That in so doing he might be deliuered from death, and that for the olde friendship that was among them, he wolde receiue this fauour.

23 But he began to consider discretely, and as became his age, and the excellcie of his ancient yeres, and the honour of his gray heeres whereunto he was come, and his moste honest conuersation from his childehode, but chiefly ỹ holie Law made and giuen by God: therefore he answered consequently, and willed them straight waies to send him to the graue.

24 For it becometh not our age, said he, to dissemble, whereby manie yong persones might thinke, that Eleazar being foure score yere olde and ten were now gone to "another religion, "Or, to another maner of life.

25 And so through mine hypocrisie (for a litle time of a transitorie life) they might be deceiued by me, and I shulde procure malediction, and reproche to mine olde age.

26 For thogh I were now deliuered from the torments of men, yet colde I not escape the hand of the Almightie, nether aliue nor dead.

27 Wherefore I wil now change this life manfully, and wil shewe my self suche as mine age requireth, 28 And so wil leaue a notable example for suche as be yong, to dye willingly and courageously for the honorable & holie Lawes. And when he had saied these wordes, immediatly he went to torment.

29 Now they that led him, changed the loue which they bare him before, into hatred, because of the wordes that he had spoken: for they thoght it had bene a rage.

30 And as he was readie to giue the gost because of the strokes, he sighed and said, The Lord that hathe the holy knowledge, knoweth manifestly, that whereas I might haue bene deliuered from death, I am scourged and suffer these sore peines of my bodie: but in my minde I suffer thē gladly for his religion.

31 Euen now after this maner, ended he his life, leauing his death for an example of a noble courage, and a memorial of vertue, not onely vnto yong men, but vnto all his nacion.

CHAP. VII.

The punishment of the seuen brethren and of their mother.

1 IT came to passe also that seuen brethren, with their mother, were taken to be compelled by the King against ỹ Law, to taste swines flesh, and were tormented with scourges and whippes.

2 But one of them, which spake first, said thus, What seekest thou? and what woldest thou knowe of vs? we are readie to dye, rather then to transgresse the Lawes of our fathers.

3 Then was the King angrie, and commanded to heat pannes and cauldrons, which were incontinently made hote.

4 And he commanded the tongue of him that spake first, to be cut out, and to flay him, and to cut of the vtmost partes of his bodie in the sight of his other brethren and his mother.

5 Now when he was thus mangled in all his members, he commanded him to be broght aliue to the fyre & to frye him in the panne: and while the smoke for a long time smoked out of the panne, the other brethren with their mother, exhorted one another to dye courageously, saying in this maner,

6 The Lord God doeth regarde vs, and in dede taketh pleasure in vs, as Moyses *declared in the song wherein he testified openly, saying, That God will take pleasure in his seruantes. Deut. 32. 36

7 ¶ So when the first was dead after this maner, they broght the seconde to make him a mocking stocke: and when they had pulled the skinne with the heere ouer his head, they asked him, if he wolde eat, or he were punished in all the members of the bodie.

8 But he answered in his owne langage, & said, No. Wherefore he was tormented forthe with like the first.

9 And when he was at the last breth, he said, Thou murtherar takest this present life from vs, but the King of the worlde wil raise vs vp, which dye for his Lawes, in the resurrection of euerlasting life.

10 After him was the thirde had in derision, and when they demanded his tongue, he put it out incontinently, and stretched forthe his hands boldely, 11 And spake manfully, These haue I had from the heauen, but now for the Law of God, I despise them, and trust that I shal receiue them of him againe.

12 In so muche that the King and they which were with him, marueiled at the yong mans courage, as at one that nothing regarded the paines.

13 ¶ Now when he was dead also, they vexed and tormented the fourth in like maner.

14 And when he was now readie to dye, he said thus, It is better that we shulde change this which we might hope for of men, and wait for our hope fro God, ỹ we may be raised vp againe by him: as for thee, thou shalt haue no resurrectiõ to life.

15 ¶ Afterwarde they broght the fift also and tormented him,

16 Who loked vpon the King, and said, Thou hast power among mẽ, and thogh thou be a mortal man, thou doest what thou wilt: but thinke not, that God hathe forsaken our nacion.

17 But abide a while, and ỹ shalt se his great power, how he wil torment thee and thy sede.

18 After him also they broght the sixt, who being at the point of death, said, Deceiue not thy self foolishly: for we suffer these things, wᵗ are worthie to be wondred at for our owne sakes, because we haue offended our God.

19 But thinke not thou, which vndertakest to fight against God, ỹ thou shalt be vnpunished.

20 But the mother was marueilous aboue all other, & worthie of honorable memorie: for when she sawe her seuen sonnes slaine with in the space of one day, she suffred it with a good wil, because of the hope that she had in the Lord.

21 Yea, she exhorted euerie one of thẽ in her owne langage, & being ful of courage and wisdome, stirred vp her womanlie affectiõs with a manlie stomacke, and said vnto them,

22 I can not tel how ye came into my wombe: for I nether gaue you breth nor life: it is not I that set in order the members of your bodie,

23 But douteles the Creator of the worlde, which formed the birth of man, and founde out the beginning of all things, wil also of his owne mercie giue you breth and life againe, as ye now regarde not your owne selues, for his Lawes sake.

24 Now Antiochus thinking him self despised, and considering the iniurious wordes, while the yongest was yet aliue, he did exhorte him not onely with wordes but swore also vnto him by an othe ỹ he wolde make him riche & wel thie, if he wolde forsake the Lawes of his fathers, and that he wolde take him as a friend, & giue him offices.

25 But when the yong man wolde in no case hearken vnto him, the King called his mother, and exhorted that she wolde counsel the yong man to saue his life.

26 And when he had exhorted her with manie wordes, she promised him that she wolde counsel her sonne,

27 So

27 So she turned her vnto him, laughing the cruel tyrant to scorne, and spake in her owne langage, O my sonne, haue pitie vpon me, that bare thee nine moneths in my wombe, and gaue thee sucke thre yeres, and nourished thee, and toke care for thee vnto this age, and broght thee vp.

28 I beseche thee, my sonne, loke vpon the heauen and the earth, and all that is therein, and consider that God made thē of things that were not, and so was mankinde made like wise.

29 Feare not this hangman, but shewe thy self worthie suche brethren by suffering death, that I may receiue thee in mercie with thy brethren.

30 While she was yet speaking these wordes, the yong mā said, Whome wait ye for? I wil not obey the Kings commandement: but I will obey ỹ cōmandemēt of the Lawe that was giuē vnto our fathers by Moyses.

31 And thou that imagineſt all mischief against the Hebrewes, shalt not escape the hand of God.

32 For we suffer these things, because of our sinnes,

33 But though the liuing Lord be angrie with vs a litle while for our chastening and correction, yet wil he be reconciled with his owne seruants.

34 But thou, ō man without religion and most wicked of all men, lift not thy self vp in vaine, which art puffed vp with vncertein hope, and liftest thine hāds against the seruants of God.

35 For thou hast not yet escaped the iudgement of almightie God, which seeth all things.

36 My brethren that haue suffered a litle paine, are now vnder the diuine couenāt of euerlasting life: but ỹ thou gh the iudgement of God, shalt suffer iust punishments for thy pride.

37 Therefore I, as my brethren haue done, offer my bodie and life for the Lawes of our fathers, beseching God, that he wil sone be merciful vnto our nacio, and that thou by torment & punishmet mayest confesse, ỹ he is the onelie God, 38 And that in me and my brethren the wrath of the Almightie, which is righteously fallen vpon all our nation, may cease.

39 Then the King being kindled with anger, raged more cruelly against him then the others, and toke it grieuously, that he was mocked.

40 So he also dyed holely, and put his whole trust in the Lord.

41 Last of all after the sonnes, was the mother put to death.

42 Let this now be ynough spoken concerning the bankets, and extreme cruelties.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Iudas gathereth together his hoste. 9 Nicanor is sent against Iudas. 16 Iudas exhorteth his souldiers to constancie. 20 Nicanor is ouercome. 27 The Iewes giue thankes, after they haue put their enemies to flight, diuiding parte of the spoiles vnto ỹ fatherles & vnto the widdowes. 30 Timotheus & Bacchides are discomfited. 35 Nicanor fleeth vnto Antiochus.

1 THen Iudas Maccabeus, and they ỹ were with him, went priuely into the townes, and called their kinsfolkes and friends together, and toke vnto them all suche as continued in the Iewes religion, and assembled six thousand men.

2 So they called vpon the Lord, that he wolde haue an eye vnto his people, which was vexed of euerie man, & haue pytie vpon the Temple that was defiled by wicked men,

3 And that he wolde haue compassion vpon the citie that was destroyed, and almost broght to the grounde, and that he wolde heare the voyce of the blood that cryed vnto him,

4 And that he wolde remember the wicked slaughter of the innocent childrē, and the blasphemies committed against his Name, and that he wolde shewe this hatred against the wicked.

5 Now when Maccabeus had gathered this multitude, he colde not be withstand by the heathen: for the warth of the Lord was turned into mercie.

6 Therefore he came at vnwares, and burnt vp the townes and cities: yet he toke the moste commodius places, and slewe many of the enemies,

7 But specially he vsed the nightes to make suche assaults, in so muche that the brute of his manlines was spred euerie where.

8 ¶So when Philippe sawe that this man increased by litle and litle, and that things prospered with him for the moste parte, he wrote vnto Ptolemeus the gouernour of Coelosyria and Phenice, to helpe him in the Kings busines.

9 Then sent he spedely Nicanor the sonne of Patroclus, a special friend of his, and gaue him of all nacions of the heathen no lesse then twentie thousand men, to rote out the whole generacion of the Iewes, and ioyned with him Gorgias a captaine, which in matters of warre had great experience.

10 Nicanor ordeined also a tribute for the King of two thousand talents, which the Romaines shulde haue, to be taken of the Iewes that were taken prisoners.

11 Therefore immediatly he sent to the cities on the sea coast, prouoking them to bye Iewes to be their seruants, promising to sel foure score and ten for one talent: but he considered not the vengeāce of almightie God, that shulde come vpon him.

12 When Iudas then knewe of Nicanors coming, he tolde them that were with him, of the coming of the armie.

13 Now were there some of them fearful, which trusted not vnto the righteousnes of God, but fled away, and abode not in that place.

14 But the other solde all that they had left, and besoght the Lord together, to deliuer them from that wicked Nicanor, which had solde them, or euer he came nere them.

15 And thogh he wolde not do it for their sakes, yet for the couenant made with their fathers, & because they called vpon his holie and glorious Name.

16 And so Maccabeus called his men together, about six thousand, exhorting them not to be afraied of their enemies, nether to feare the great multitude of the Gentiles, which came against them vnrighteously, but to fight manly,

17 Setting before their eyes the iniurie that they had vniustly done to the holy place, and the crueltie done to the citie by derision, and the destruction of the orders established by their fathers,

18 For they, said he, trust in their weapōs and boldenes: but our confidence is in the almightie God, which at a becke can bothe destroy them that come against vs, and all the worlde.

19 Moreouer he admonished them of the helpe that God shewed vnto their fathers, as when there perished an hundreth and foure score, and fiue thousand vnder *Sennacherib,

20 And of the battel that they had in Babylon against the Galatians, how they came in all to the battel eight thousand, with foure thousand Macedoniās: and when the Macedonians were astonished, the eight thousand slewe an hundreth & twentie thousand through the helpe that was giuen them from heauē, whereby they had receiued many benefites.

21 Thus when he had made them bolde with these wordes, and readie to dye for the Lawes and the countrey, he deuided his armie into foure partes, 22 And made his owne brethren captaitaines ouer the armie, to wit, Simon, and Ioseph and Ionathan, giuing eche one fiftene hundreth men.

23 And when Eleazarus had red the holie boke, and giuen them a token of ỹ helpe of God, Iudas which led the forewarde, ioyned with Nicanor,

24 And because the Almightie helped them, they slewe aboue nine thousand men, and wounded and maimed the moste parte of Nicanors hoste, and so put all to flight,

25 And toke the money from those that came to bye them, and pursued them farre: but lacking time they returned.

26 For it was the day before the Sabbath, and therefore they wolde no longer pursue them.

27 So they toke their weapons, and spoiled the enemies, and kept the Sabbath, giuing thankes and praising the Lord wonderfully, which had deliuered thē that day, and powrd vpon them the beginning of his mercie.

28 And after the Sabbath, *they distributed the spoiles to the sicke, and to ỹ fatherles, and to the widdowes, and deuided the residue among them selues & their children.

29 When this was done, and they all had made a general prayer, they besoght ỹ merciful Lord to be reconciled at the length with his seruants.

30 Afterwarde with one consent they fel vpon Timotheus and Bacchides, and slewe aboue twētie thousand, and wanne hie and strong holdes, and deuided great spoiles, and gaue an equal porcion vnto the sicke, and to the fatherles, and to the widdowes, and to aged persones also.

31 Moreouer they gathered their weapons together, and layed them vp diligently inconuenient places, & broght the remnant of the spoiles to Ierusalem.

32 They slewe also Philarches a moste wicked persone, which was with Timotheus, and had vexed the Iewes manie wayes.

33 And when they kept the feast of victorie in their countrey, they burnt Callisthenes that had set fyre vpon the holie gates, which was fled into a litle house: so he receiued a rewarde mete for his wickednes.

34 And that moste wicked Nicanor, ẅ had broght a thousand marchants to bye the Iewes, 35 He was through the helpe of ỹ Lord broght downe of thē whome he thoght as nothing, in so muche that, he put of his glorious raiment, and fled ouerthwart the countrey like a fugitiue seruant, & came alone to Antiochia, with great dishonour through the destructiō of his hoste.

36 Thus he that promised to pay tribute to ỹ Romaines, by meanes of the prisoners of Ierusalem, broght newes, that the the Iewes had a [o] defender, and for this cause none colde hurt the Iewes, because they followed the Lawes appointed by him.

CHAP. IX.

1 Antiochus willing to spoyle Persepolis, is put to flight. 5 As he persecuteth the Iewes, he his stricken of the Lord. 13 The fained repentance of Antiochus. 28 He dyeth myserably.

1 AT the same time, came Antiochus againe with dishonour out of the countrey of Persia.

2 For when he came to Persepolis, and went about to robbe the Temple, & to subdue the citie, the people ranne in a rage to defende them selues with their weapons, and put them to flight, and Antiochus was put to flight by the inhabitants, and returned with shame.

3 Now when he came to Ecbatana, he vnderstode the things that had come vnto Nicanor, and Timotheus.

4 And then being chafed in his fume, he thoght to impute to the Iewes their faute, which had put him to flight, and therefore commanded his charet man to driue continually, & to dispatche the iourney: for Gods iudgement compelled him: for he had said thus in his pride, I wil make Ierusalem a commune buryeng place of the Iewes, when I come thether.

5 But the Lord almightie & God of Israel smote him with an incurable and inuisible plague: for assone as he had spoken these wordes, a paine of ỹ bowels, that was remediles, came vpon him, & sore torments of the inner partes,

6 And that moste iustely: for he had tormented other mens bowels with diuerse, and strange torments.

7 Howbeit he wolde in no wise cease frō his arrogancie, but swelled the more ẅ pride, breathing out fyre in his rage against the Iewes, & commanded to haste the iornay: but it came to passe that he fel downe from the charet that ranne swiftely, so that all the membres of his bodie were bruised with the great fall.

8 And thus he that a litle afore thoght he might commande the floods of the sea (so proude was he beyonde the cōdicion of man) & to weigh the hie mountaines in the balance, was now cast on the ground, and caried in an horselitter, declaring vnto all the manifest power of God.

9 *So that the wormes came out of the bodie of this wicked man in abundance: and whiles he was aliue, his flesh fel of for paine and torment, and all his armie was grieued at his [n] smel.

*2. Mac. 12. 23

[n] Or, rotennes.

10 Thus no man colde beare because of his stinke, him that a litle afore thoght he might reach to the starres of heauen.

11 Then he began to leaue of his great pride, & self wil, when he was plagued, & came to the knowledge of him self by the scourge of God, & by his paine which increased euerie moment.

12 And when he him self might not abide his owne stinke, he said these wordes It is mete to be subiect vnto God, and that a man which is mortal, shulde not thinke him self equal vnto God through pride.

13 This wicked persone prayed also vnto the Lord, who wolde now haue no mercie on him, 14 And said thus that he wolde set at libertie the holie citie vnto the which he made haste to destroy it, & to make it a burying place.

15 And as touching the Iewes, whome he had iudged not worthie to be buryed, but wolde haue cast thē out with their children to be deuoured of the foules & wilde beastes, he wolde make them all like the citizens of Athenes.

16 And where as he had spoiled the holie Temple afore, he wolde garnish it with great giftes, and encrease ỹ holie vessels, and of his owne rentes beare the charges belonging to ỹ sacrifices.

17 Yea & that he wolde also become a Iewe him self, & go through all ỹ worlde that was inhabited, & preache the power of God.

18 But for all this his paines wolde not cease: for the iust iudgement of God was come vpon him: therefore despairing of his helth, he wrote vnto the Iewes this letter vnder writen, conteining the forme of a supplication.

19 ¶ THE KING & prince Antiochus vnto the Iewes, his louing citizens wisheh muche ioye & helth and prosperitie.

20 If ye and your children fare wel, and if all things go after your minde, I giue great thankes vnto God hauing hope in the heauen.

21 Thogh I lie sicke, yet I am mindeful of your honour, & good wil for the loue I beare you: therefore when I returned from the countrey of Persia, & fel into a sore disease, I thoght it necessarie to care for ỹ commune safetie of all,

22 Not distrusting mine helth, but hauing great hope to escape this sickenes.

23 Therefore considering that when my father led an hoste against ỹ high coūtreys, he appointed who shulde succede him:

24 That if anie controuersie happened contrary to his expectation, or if that anie tidings were broght ỹ were grie-uous, they in the land might knowe to whome the affaires were committed, ỳ they shulde not be troubled.

25 Againe, when I ponder how that the gouernours, ỳ are borderers, & neighbours vnto my kingdome, waite for all occasions, & loke but for opportunitie, I haue ordeined that my sonne Antiochus shal be King whome I oft commended & committed to many of you, when I went into the hie prouinces, and haue writen vnto him as followeth hereafter.

26 Therefore, I pray you & require you, to remember the benefites that I haue done vnto you generally, & particulary, and that euerie man wil be faithful to me and to my sonne.

27 For I trust that he wil be gentle, and louing vnto you accordig to my minde.

28 ¶ Thus the murtherer & blasphemer suffered moste grieuously, & as he had intreated other men, so he dyed a miserable death in a strange countrey among the mountaines.

29 And Philippe that was broght vp w̄ him, caryed away his bodie, who fearing the sonne of Antiochus, went into Egypt to Ptolemeus Philometor.

CHAP. X.

1 Iudas Maccabeus taketh the citie & the Tẽple. 10 The actes of Eupator. 16 The Iewes fight against the Idumeans. 24 Timotheus inuadeth Iudea, with whome Iudas ioyneth battel. 29 Fiue men appeare in the aire to the helpe of the Iewes. 37 Timotheus is slaine.

1 MAccabeus now and his companie, through the helpe of the Lord, wan the Temple and the citie againe,

2 And destroyed the altars, and chapels that the heathen had buylded in the open places,

3 And clensed the Temple, & made another altar, & burned stones, & toke fyre of them, and offred sacrifices, and incense two yeres, and six monethes after, and set forthe the lampes, and the shewebread.

4 When that was done, they fel downe flat vpon the grounde, and besoght the Lord, that they might come no more into suche troubles: but if they sinned anie more against him, that he him self wolde chasten them with mercie, & that they might not be deliuered to the blasphemous, and barbarous nacions.

5 Now vpon the same day, that the strāgers polluted the Temple, on the verie same day it was clensed againe euē the siue & twentieth day of the same moneth, which is Chasleu.

6 They kept eight dayes with gladnes as in the feast of the Tabernacles, remēbring, that not long afore they held the feast of the Tabernacles when thei liued in the mountaines and dennes like beastes.

7 And for the same cause they bare grene bowes, and faire branches and palmes, and sang psalmes vnto him that had giuen them good successe in clensing his place.

8 They ordeined also by a commune statute, and decree that euerie yere those dayes shulde be kept of the whole nacīō of the Iewes.

9 And this was the end of Antiochus called Epiphanes.

10 ¶ Now wil we declare the actes of Antiochus Eupator, which was the sonne of this wicked man gathering briefly the calamities of the warres, that followed.

11 For when he had taken the kingdome, he made one Lysias, which had bene captaine of the hoste in Phenice, & Coelosyria, ruler ouer the affaires of ỳ realme.

12 For Ptolemeus that was called Macrō purposed to do iustice vnto the Iewes for the wrong, that had bene done vnto them, & went about to behaue him self peaceably with them.

13 For the which cause he was accused of his frends before Eupator, and was called oft times traitour, because he had left Cyprus that Philometor had committed vnto him, and came to Antiochus Epiphanes: therefore seing that he was no more in estimation, he was discouraged, & poysōned him self, & dyed.

14 ¶ But when Gorgias was gouernour of the same places, he interteined strāgers, & made warre oft times against ỳ Iewes.

15 Moreouer the Idumeans that helde ỳ strong holds, which were mete for their purpose, troubled the Iewes, and by receiuing them that were driuen from Ierusalē, toke in hand to continue warre.

16 Then thei that were with Maccabeus made prayers, and besoght God that he wolde be their helper, and so they fel vpon ỳ strong holdes of the Idumeans, 17 And assalted them sore, that they wāne the places, & slewe all that foght against them on the wall, and killed all that they met with, & slewe no lesse thē twentie thousand.

18 And because certeine (which were no lesse then nine thousand) were fled into two strong castels, hauing all maner of things conuenient to susteine the siege, 19 Maccabeus left Simon, & Ioseph, and Zaccheus also, and those that were with them, which were ynowe to besiege thē, and departed to those places which were more necessarie.

20 Now thei

20 Nowe thei ẏ were with Simon, being led with couetousnes, were intreated for monei, (thorowe certeine of those that were in the castel,) and toke seuentie thousand drachmes, & let some of them escape.

21 But whē it was tolde Maccabeus what was done, he called ẏ gouernours of ẏ people together, & accused those men, that they had solde their brethren for money, and let their enemies go.

22 So he slewe them when they were conuict of traison, & immediatly wan the two castels:

23 And hauing good successe, as in all ẏ warres that he toke in hād, he slew in ẏ two castels mo then twentie thousand.

24 Now Timotheus whome the Iewes had ouercome afore, gathered an armie of strangers of all sortes, & broght a great troupe of horsemen out of Asia to winne Iewrie by strength.

25 But when he drewe nere, Maccabeus, and they that were with him, turned to praye vnto God, & sprinkled earth vpō their heads, & girded their reines with sackecloth, 26 And fel downe at the fote of the altar & besoght the Lord to be merciful to them, & to be an enemie to their enemies, and to be an aduersarie to their aduersaries, * as the Law declareth.

Exod. 23 28 Deut. 24

27 So after the prayer, they toke their weapons, and went on further from the citie, & when they came nere to the enemies, they toke hede to them selues.

28 And when the morning appeared, they bothe ioyned together: ẏ one parte had the Lord for their refuge, & pledge of prosperitie, & noble victorie: & the other toke courage as a guide of ẏ warre.

29 But when the battel waxed strong, there appeared vnto the enemies from heauen fiue comelie men vpon horses ẅ bridles of golde, and two of them led the Iewes,

30 And toke Maccabeus betwixt them, & couered him on euerie side ẅ their weapons, & kept him safe, but shot dartes, & lightenings against the enemies, so that thei were cōfounded ẅ blindenes, & beaten downe & ful of trouble.

31 There were slaine of fotemen twentie thousand & fiue hundreth and six hundreth horsemen.

32 As for Timotheus him self, he fled vnto Gazara, which was called a very strong holde, wherein Chereas was captaine.

33 But Maccabeus and his companie laid siege against the fortereſſes with courage for foure daies.

34 And thei that were within, trusting to the height of the place, blasphemed exceedingly, & spake horrible wordes.

35 Neuertheles vpon the [a] fifth day in the morning twentie yong mē of Maccabeus companie, whose hearts were inflamed, because of the blasphemies, came vnto the wall, & with bolde stomakes smote downe those that they met.

[a] Or, the fiue & twenticth day.

36 Others also that climed vp vpon the engines of warre against them that were within, set fyre vpon the towers, and burnt those blasphemers quicke with ẏ fyres that they had made, and others brake vp the gates, and receiued the rest of ẏ armie, and toke the citie.

37 And hauing found Timotheus, ẏ was crept into a caue, they killed him and Chereas his brother ẅ Apollophanes.

38 When this was done, they praised the Lord with psalmes, and thankesgiuing, which had done so great things for Israel, & giuen them the victorie.

CHAP. XI.

1 Lysias goeth about to ouercome the Iewes. 8 Succour is sent from heauen vnto the Iewes. 16 The letter of Lysias vnto the Iewes. 20 The letter of King Antiochus vnto Lysias. 27 A letter of the same vnto the Iewes. 34 A letter of the Romains to the Iewes.

1 VErie shortely after this, Lysias the Kings steward, and a kinsman of his, which had the gouernance of the affaires, toke sore displeasure for the things that were done.

2 And when he had gathered about foure score thousand, with all the horsmen he came against the Iewes, thinking to make the citie an habitacion of the Gentiles.

3 And the Temple wolde he haue to get money by, like the other temples of ẏ heathen: for he wolde sel the Priests office euerie yere.

4 And thus being puffed vp in his minde, because of the great nomber of fotemē, & thousands of horsmen, & in his foure score elephants,

5 He came into Iudea, and drewe nere to Beth-sura, which was a castel of defence, fiue [a] furlongs from Ierusalem, & laid sore siege vnto it.

[a] whereof eight make a mile.

6 But when Maccabeus, and his companie knewe that he besieged the holdes, they, & all the people made prayers ẅ weping, and teares before the Lord, ẏ he wolde send a good Angel to deliuer Israel.

7 And Maccabeus him self first of all toke weapons, exhorting the other that they wolde ieoparde them selues together with him to helpe their brethren: so they went forthe together with a courageous minde.

8 And as thei were there besides Ierusalē there appeared before them vpon horsebacke a man in white clothing, shaking his harnes of golde.

9 Then they praised the merciful God all together, and toke heart, in so muche that they were ready, not onely to fight with men, but with the moste cruel beasts, & to breake downe walles of yron.
10 Thus they marched forwarde in array, hauing an helper from heauen: for the Lord was merciful vnto them.
11 And running vpon their enemies like lions, they slewe eleuen thousand fotemē and sixten hundreth horsemen, & put all the other to flight.
12 Manie of them also being wounded, escaped naked, and Lysias him self fled away shamefully, and so escaped,
13 Who as he was a man of vnderstāding considering what losse he had had, and knowing, that the Hebrewes colde not be ouercome because ý almightie God helped them, sent vnto them,
14 And promised, that he wolde consent to all things which were reasonable, & persuade the King to be their friend.
15 Maccabeus agreed to Lysias requestes hauing respect in all things to the cōmune welth, & whatsoeuer Maccabeus wrote vnto Lysias concernīg the Iewes, the King granted it.
16 For there were letters writen vnto ý Iewes frō Lysias conteining these wordes, LYSIAS vnto the people of the Iewes sendeth greting.
17 Iohn & Abessalom, which were sent frō you, deliuered me ýi things that you demande by writing, and required me to fulfil ý things that they had declared.
18 Therefore what thīgs soeuer were mete tobe reported to the King him self, I haue declared them, and he granted that that was possible.
19 Therefore if ye behaue your selues as frīeds toward his affaires hereafter also, I wil indeuour my self to do you good.
20 As concerning these things, I haue giuen commandement to these men, & to those whome I sent vnto you, to commune with you of ý same particularly.
21 Fare ye wel, the hundreth and eight and fortie yere, the foure and twentieth day of the moneth Dioscorinthius.
22 ¶ Now the Kings letter conteined these wordes, KING ANTIOCHVS vnto his brother Lysias sendeth greting.
23 Since our father is translated vnto ý gods, our wil is, that they which are in our realme, liue quietly, that euerie mā may applie his owne affaires.
24 We vnderstand also that the Iewes wolde not consent to our father, for to be broght vnto the custome of the Gētiles, but wolde kepe their owne maner of liuing: for the which cause they requre of vs, that we wolde suffer them to liue after their owne Lawes.
25 Wherefore our minde is that this nacion shalbe in rest, and haue determined to restore them their Temple, that thei may be gouerned according to the custome of their fathers.
26 Thou shalt do wel therefore to send vnto them, and graūte them peace, that when they are certified of our minde, they maie be of good comfort, and cherefully go about their owne affaires.
27 And this was the Kings letter vnto ý nacion, KING ANTIOCHVS vnto the Elders, of the Iewes, and to ý rest of the Iewes sendeth greting.
28 If ye fare wel, we haue our desire: we are also in good helth.
29 Menelaus declared vnto vs that your desire was to returne home, & to applie your owne busines.
30 Wherefore, those that wil departe, we giue them fre libertie, vnto the thirtie daye of the moneth of *Panthicus, 31 That the Iewes may vse their owne maner of liuing & Lawes, like as afore, & none of them by anie maner of waies to haue harme for thīgs done by ignorance.
32 I haue sent also Menelaus to comforte you.
33 Fare ye wel: the hundreth and eight & fortie yere, the fiftenth day of the moneth of Panthicus.
34 ¶ The Romains also sent a letter cōteining these wordes, QVINTVS MEMMIVS and Titus *Manilius embassadours of the Romains, vnto the people of the Iewes send greting.
35 The things that Lysias ý Kings kinsman hathe granted you, we grant the same also.
36 But concerning that which he shal report vnto the King, send hether some with spede, when ye haue considered ý matter diligently, that we may consult thereupon as shalbe best for you: for we must go vnto Antiochia.
37 And therefore make haste and send some men, ý we may knowe your mīde.
38 Fare wel this hundreth and eight, and fortie yere, the fiftenth day of the moneth of Panthicus.

CHAP. XII.

Timotheus troubleth the Iewes. 3 The wicked dede of them of Ioppe against the Iewes. 6 Iudas is auenged of them. 9 He setteth fyre in the hauen of Iamnia 29 The pursute of the Iewes against Timotheus. 24 Timotheus is taken and let go vnhurt. 32 Iudas purseueth Gorgias.

WHen these couenants were made, Lysias went vnto the King, and the Iewes tilled their grounde.

2 But the

2 But the gouernours of ỹ places, as Timotheus and Apollonius the ſonne of Genneus, and Ieronymus, and alſo Demophon, and beſides them Nicanor the gouernour of Cyprus, wolde not let thẽ liue in reſt and peace.

3 ¶ They of Ioppe alſo did ſuche a vile act: they prayed the Iewes that dwelt among them, to go with their wiues and children into the ſhippes, which they had prepared as though they had ought them none euil wil.

4 And ſo by the commune aduiſe of the citie, the obeyed them, & ſuſpect nothing: but when they were gone forthe into the depe, thei drowned no leſſe thẽ two hundreth of them.

5 Now when Iudas knewe of this cruelties ſhewed againſt his nacion, he commanded thoſe men that were with him, to make them readie.

6 And hauing called vpon God ỹ righteous iudge, he went forthe againſt the murtherers of his brethren, and ſet fyre in the hauen by night, & burnt the ſhips, & thoſe that fled thence, he ſlewe.

7 And when the citie was ſhut vp, he departed as though he wolde come againe & roote out all thẽ of ỹ citie of Ioppe.

8 ¶ But when he perceiued that the Iamnites were minded to do in like maner vnto the Iewes, ẅ dwelt among them, 9 He came vpon the Iamnites by night, & ſet fyre in the hauen with the nauie, ſo that the light of the fyre was ſene at Ieruſalem vpon a two hundreth & fortie furlongs.

10 Now when they were gone frõ thence nine furlõgs, in their iourney towarde Timotheus, about fiue thouſand mẽ of fote and fiue hundreth horſemen of the Arabians ſet vpon him.

11 So the battel was ſharpe, but it proſpered with Iudas thorowe the helpe of God: the [a] Nomades of Arabia being ouercome beſoght Iudas to make peace with them, & promiſed to giue him certeine cattel, and to helpe him in other things, 12 And Iudas thinking that they ſhulde in dede be profitable concerning manie things, granted them peace: whereupon thei ſhoke hands, and ſo they departed to their tents.

13 ¶ Iudas alſo aſſalted a citie called Caſpis, which was ſtrong by reaſon of a bridge, and fenced rounde about with walles, and had diuers kindes of people dwelling therein.

14 So thei that were within it, put ſuche truſt in the ſtrength of the walles, & in ſtore of vitailes, that they were ỹ ſlacker in their doings, reuiling them that were with Iudas, and reproching them: yea, they blaſphemed and ſpake ſuche wordes as were not lawful.

15 But Maccabeus ſouldiers, calling vpõ the great Prince of the worlde (which without anie "inſtruments, or engins of warre, did *caſt downe the walles of Iericho, in the time of Ieſus) gaue a fierce aſſalt againſt the walles, 16 And toke the citie by the wil of God, and made an exceding great ſlaughter in ſo muche that a lake of two furlongs broad, which laye thereby, ſemed to flowe with blood.

17 ¶ Then departed thei from thence, ſeuen hundreth and fiftie furlongs, and came to Characa vnto the Iewes, that are called Tubieni.

18 But they founde not Timotheus there: for he was departed from thence, & had done nothing, and had left a gariſon in a verie ſtrong holde.

19 But Doſitheus, and Soſipater, which were captaines with Maccabeus, went forthe, & ſlewe thoſe that Timotheus had left in the fortereſſe more then ten thouſand men.

20 And Maccabeus prepared, & ranged his armie by bandes and went courageouſly againſt Timotheus, which had ẅ him an hundreth & twentie thouſand men of fote, and two thouſand and fiue hundreth horſemen.

21 When Timotheus had knowledge of Iudas comming, he ſent the women, and children, and the other baggage afore vnto a fortereſſe called Carnion (for it was hard to beſiege, & vneaſie to come vnto becauſe of the ſtraites on all ſides.)

22 But when Iudas firſt bande came in ſight, the enemies were ſmitten with feare, and a trembling was among them thorow the preſence of him that ſeeth all things, in ſo muche that thei fleing one here, another there, were oft times hurt by their owne people, and wounded with ỹ pointes of their owne ſwordes.

23 But Iudas was verie earneſt in purſuing, and ſlewe thoſe wicked men: yea, he ſlewe thirtie thouſand mẽ of them.

24 Timotheus alſo him ſelf fell into the handes of Doſitheus, & Soſipater, whome he beſoght with muche crafte to let him go with his life, becauſe he had manie of the Iewes parents & ỹ brethren of ſome of them, which if they put him to death, ſhulde be deſpiſed.

25 So when he had aſſured them with manie wordes, & promiſed that he wolde reſtore them without hurt, thei let him go for the helth of their brethren.

26 ¶ Then went Maccabeus towarde Carmon, and Atargation, and ſlewe fiue and twentie thouſand perſonnes.

27 And after that he had chaſed away & ſlayne them, Iudas remoued the hoſte towarde Ephron a ſtrong citie, wherein was Lysias & a great multitude of all nacions, & the strog yong men kept the walles defending them mightely: there was also great preparacion of engins of warre, & dartes.

28 But when they had called vpon the Lord, which with his power breaketh the strength of the enemies, they wan ỹ citie, and slewe fiue and twentie thousand of them that were within.

29 ¶ From thence went thei to Scythopolis, which lieth six hundreth furlongs from Ierusalem.

30 But when the Iewes which dwelt there, testified, that the Scythopolitās delt louingly with them, and intreated them kindely in the time of their aduersitie, 31 They gaue them thankes, desiring thē to be friendlie stil vnto them, and so thei came to Ierusalem, as the feast of the wekes approched.

32 ¶ And after the feast called Penticost thei went forthe against Gorgias the gouernour of Idumea.

33 Who came out w̄ thre thousand men of fote, & foure hundreth horsemen.

34 And when they ioyned together, a fewe of the Iewes were slayne, 35 And Dositheus one of the Baccenors, which was on horsebacke & a mightie man, toke Gorgias, and laied holde of his garment, and drewe him by force, because he wolde haue taken the wicked man aliue: but an horsemā of Thracia fel vpō him, & smote of his shulder, so that Gorgias fled into Marisa.

* Or, With Gorgias.

36 And when they that were * with Eserin, had foghten long, and were wearie, Iudas called vpon the Lord, that he wolde shewe him self to be their helper and captaine of the field.

37 And then he began in his owne langage, & sung psalmes with a loude voyce, in so muche that straight wayes he made them that were about Gorgias, to take their flight.

38 ¶ So Iudas gathered his hoste, and came into ỹ citie of Odolla. And whē the seuenth day came, they clensed thē selues (as the custome was) and kept the Sabbath in the same place.

39 And vpon the daye following, as necessitie required, Iudas and his companie came to take vp the bodies of them that were slayne, & to burye them with their kinsemen in their fathers graues.

40 Now vnder the coates of euerie one, that was slayne, they founde iewels that had bene consecrate to the idoles of ỹ *Iamnites, which thing is forbidden ỹ Iewes by the Law. Then euerie man sawe, that this was the cause wherefore thei were slayne.

Deut. 7. 25 Ioſh. 7. 26.

41 And so euerie man gaue thankes vnto the Lord, the righteous Iudge, which had opened the things that were hid.

42 And they gaue them selues to prayer & besoght him, that they shulde not vtterly be destroied for the faute committed. Besides that, noble Iudas exhorted the people to kepe them selues from sinne, for so muche as they sawe before their eyes the things which came to passe by the sinne of these that were slayne,

43 And hauig made a gathering through the companie, sent to Ierusalem about two thousand drachmes of siluer, to offer a sinneoffring, doing very wel, and honestly ỹ he thoght of the resurrectiō, 44 For if he had not hoped, that thei ỹ were slaine, shulde rise againe, it had bene superfluous, and vaine, to [a] pray for the dead.

45 And therefore he perceiued, ỹ there was great fauour laid vp for those that dyed godly. (It was an holie, & a good thoght) So he made a reconciliation for the dead that they might be deliuered from sinne.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The comming of Eupator into Iudea. 4 The death of Menelaus. 10 Maccabeus going to fight against Eupator, moueth his souldiers vnto prayer 15 He killeth fouretene thousand men in the tentes of Antiochus. 12 Rhodocus the betrayer of the Iewes is taken.

1 IN the hundreth, fortie and nine yere it was tolde Iudas, that Antiochus Eupator was comming with a great power into Iudea.

2 And Lysias the stewarde and ruler of his affaires with him, hauing bothe in their armie an hundreth and ten thousand men of fote of the Grecians, and fiue thousand horsemen, and two and twentie elephants, and thre hundreth charets set with hookes.

3 Menelaus also ioyned him self with them and with great disceit incouraged Antiochus, not for the safegard of the countrei, but because he thoght to haue bene made the gouernour.

4 But the King of Kings moued Antiochus minde against this wicked man; & Lysias informed the King that this mā was the cause of all mischief, so that the King commanded to bring him to Berea to put him vnto death as the maner was in that place.

5 Nowe there was in that place a tower of fiftie cubites high, ful of ashes, and it had an instrument that turned rounde, and on euerie side it rouled downe into the ashes.

6 And there whosoeuer was condemned of sacrilege, or of anie other grieuous crime, was cast of all men to the death.

7 And so it

[a] From this verse to the end of this chapter the Greeke text is corrupt, so that no good sense, muche lesse certeine doctrine can be gathered thereby: also it is euident that this place was not writen by ỹ holie Gost, bothe because it dissenteth from the rest of the holie Scriptures, and also the autor of this boke acknowledging his owne infirmitie, desireth pardon, if he haue not atteined to that he shulde. And it semeth, ỹ this Iason the Cyrenean, out of whome he toke this abridgemēt is Ioseph Ben Gorīō, who hathe writen in Ebrewe fiue bookes of these matters, and intreating this place, maketh no mencion of this prayer for the dead, lib. 3 chap. 19, for it is contrarie to the custome of the Iewes, euen to this day, to pray for the dead. And thogh Iudas had so done yet this particular example is not sufficient to establish a doctrine no more then Zipporahs was to proue that women might minister the sacraments, Exod. 4. 25, or the example of Razis ỹ one might kil him self, whome this autor so muche commendeth, 2. Macc. 14. 41.

7 And so it came to passe that this wicked man shulde dye suche a death, and it was a moste iuste thing that Menelaus shulde want buryal,

8 For because he had committed manie sinnes by the altar, whose fyre and ashes were holie: he him self also dyed in the ashes.

9 ¶ Now the King raged in his minde, & came to shewe him self more cruel vnto the Iewes then his father.

10 Which things when Iudas perceiued, he commanded the people to call vpon the Lord night and day, that if euer he had holpen them, he wolde now helpe them, when they shulde be put from there Lawe, frō there countrey & from the holie Temple:

11 And that he wolde not suffer the people, which a litle afore began to recouer, to be subdued vnto the blasphemous nacions.

12 So when they had done this all together, and besoght the Lord for mercie with weping, and fasting, and falling downe thre daies together, Iudas exhorted them to make them selues readie.

13 And he being apparte with the Elders, toke counsel to go forthe, afore ý King broght his hoste into Iudea, and shulde take the citie, and commit the matter to the helpe of the Lord.

14 So committing the charge to ý Lord of the worlde, he exhorted his souldiers to fight manfully, euen vnto death for the Lawes, the Temple, the citie, their countrey, and the commune wealth, & camped by Modin.

15 And so giuing his souldiers for a watche worde, The victorie of God, he piked out the manliest yong men, and went by night into the Kings campe, & slewe of ý hoste foureten thousand mē, & the greateste elephant with all ý sate vpon him.

16 Thus when they had broght a great feare, and trouble in the campe, and all things went prosperously with them they departed.

17 This was done in the breake of the day, because the protectiō of the Lord did helpe them.

18 ¶ Now when the King had tasted the manlines of the Iewes, he went about to take the holdes by policie, 19 And marched towarde Beth-sura, which was a strong holde of the Iewes: but he was chased away, hurt and lost of his men.

20 For Iudas had sent vnto them that were in it, suche things as were necessarie.

21 But Rhodocus which was in the Iewes hoste, disclosed the secretes to the enemies: therefore he was soght out, & when they had gotten him, they put him in prison.

22 After this did the King commune with them that were in Beth-sura, and [a] toke truce with them, departed, and ioyned battel with Iudas, who ouercame him.

23 But when he vnderstode, that Philippe (whome he had left to be ouerseer of his busines at Antiochia) did rebell against him, he was astonished, so that he yelded him self to the Iewes, and made them an othe do all things that were right, and was appeased towarde them, and offred sacrifice and adorned the Temple, and shewed great gentlenes to the place, 24 And embraced Maccabeus, and made him captaine and gouernour from Ptolemais vnto the Gerreneans.

25 Neuertheles, when he came to Ptolemais, ý people of ý citie were not content with this agremēt: & becuse they were grieued, they wolde that he shulde breake the couenants.

26 Then went Lysias vp into the iudgement seat, and excused the fact as wel as he colde, and persuaded them, and pacified them, and made them wel affectioned, and came againe vnto Antiochia. This is the matter concerning the Kings iournay, and his returne.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 Demetrius moued by Alcimus sendeth Nicanor to kil the Iewes. 18 Nicanor maketh a compacte w the Iewes. 29 Which he yet breaketh through the motion of the King. 37 Nicanor commandeth Razis to be taken, who slayeth him self.

1 After thre yeres was Iudas enformed that Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus was come vp with a great power, and nauie, by the hauen of Tripolis,

2 When he had wonne the countrey, and slaine Antiochus and his lieutenant Lysias.

3 Now Alcimus, which had bene the high Priest, and wilfully defiled him self in the time that all things were cōfounded, seing that by no meanes he colde saue him self, nor haue anie more entrance to the holie altar,

4 He came to King Demetrius in the hundreth, fiftie and one yere, presenting vnto him a crowne of golde, and a palme, and of the boughes, which were vsed solemnely in the Temple, & that day he helde his tongue.

5 But when he had gotten opportunitie, and occasion for his rage, Demetrius called him to counsel, and asked him what deuises or counsels the Iewes leaned vnto.

6 To the which he answered, the Iewes that be called Asideans whose captaine is Iudas Maccabeus, mainteine warres, and make insurrections, and wil not let the realme be in peace.

7 Therefore I, being depriued of my fathers honour (I meane the high priesthode) am now come hether,

8 Partely because I was wel affectioned vnto the Kings affaires, and secondly because I soght the profite of mine owne citizens: for all our people, thorowe their rashnes, are not a litle troubled.

9 Wherefore, ô King, seing thou knowest all these things, make prouision for the countrey, and our nacion which is abused, according to thine owne humanitie, that is readie to helpe all men.

10 For as long as Iudas liueth, it is not possible that the matter shulde be wel.

11 When he had spoken these wordes, other friends also hauing euil wil at Iudas, set Demetrius on fyre.

12 Who immediatly called for Nicanor, the ruler of the elephantes, & made him captaine ouer Iudea, 13 And sent him forthe, commanding him to slay Iudas, and to scatter them that were with him, & to make Alcimus high Priest of the great Temple.

14 Then the heathē which fled out of Iudea from Iudas, came to Nicanor by flockes, thinking the harme and calamities of the Iewes to be their welfare.

15 Now when the Iewes heard of Nicanors comming, and the gathering together of the heathen, they sprinkled them selues with earth, & prayed vnto him which had appointed him self a people foreuer, and did alwais defende his owne porcion with euident tokens.

16 So at the commandement of the captaine, they remoued straight wayes frō thence, and came to the towne of Dessan, 17 Where Simon Iudas brother had ioyned battel with Nicanor, and was some what astonished thorowe the sudden silence of the enemies.

18 Neuertheles Nicanor hearing the malines of them that were with Iudas, and the bolde stomackes that they had for their countrey, durst not proue the matter with blood shedding.

19 Wherefore, he sent Posidonius, [a] Theodocius, and [b] Matthias before, to make peace.

20 So when they had taken long aduisement thereupon, & the captaine shewed it vnto the multitude, they were agreed in one minde, and consented to the couenants.

21 And they appointed a day when they shulde particularly come together: so when the day was come, they set for euerie man his stoole, 22 Neuertheles Iudas commanded certeine men of armes to waite in conuenient places, lest there shulde suddenly arise anie euil thorowe the enemies: and so they communed together of ỹ things whereupon they had agreed.

23 Nicanor, while he abode at Ierusalem did none hurt, but sent away the people that were gathered together.

24 He [c] loued Iudas, and fauoured him in his heart. [c] Or, had Iudas before his eyes.

25 He praid him also to take a wife, & to beget children: so he maried, & they liued together.

26 But Alcimus perceiuing the loue that was betwene them, and vnderstanding the couenants that were made, came to Demetrius, and tolde him that Nicanor had taken strange matters in hand, & ordeined Iudas a traitour to the realme, to be his successour.

27 Then the King was displeased, and by the reportes of this wicked man, he wrote to Nicanor, saying, that he was very angrie for the couenants, commanding him that he shulde send Maccabeus in all haste prisoner vnto Antiochia.

28 When these things came to Nicanor, he was astonished and sore grieued, that he shulde breake ỹ things wherein they had agreed, seing that that man had committed no wickednes.

29 But becaus it was not commodious to him to withstand the King, he soght craftely to accomplish it.

30 Notwithstanding when Maccabeus perceiued that Nicanor beganne to be rough vnto him, and that he intreated him more rudely then he was wonte, he perceiued that suche rigour came not of good, and therefore he gathered a fewe of his men, and withdrewe him self from Nicanor.

31 But the other perceiuing that he was preuented by Maccabeus worthie policie, came into the great & holie Temple, and commanded the Priests, which were offring their vsual sacrifices, to deliuer him the man.

32 And when they sware that they colde not tell where the man was, whome he soght, 33 He stretched out his right hand toward the Temple, and made an othe in this maner, If ye wil not deliuer me Iudas as a prisoner, I wil make this Temple of God a plaine field, and wil breake downe the altar, and wil erect a notable Temple vnto Bacchus.

34 After

[a] Or, Theodotus.
[b] Or, Mattathias.

34 After these wordes he departed: then the Priests lift vp their hands towarde heauen, and besoght him that was euer the defender of their nacion, saying in this maner, 35 Thou, ô Lord of all things, which hast nede of nothing, woldest ý the Temple of thine habitaciō shulde be amongvs.

36 Therefore now, ô moste holie Lord, kepe this house euer vndefiled, which lately was clensed, and stoppe all the mouths of the vnrighteous.

37 Now was there accused vnto Nicanor Razis one of the Elders of Ierusalem, a louer of the citie, and a man of very good reporte, ẅ for his loue was called a father of the Iewes.

38 For this man afore times when the Iewes were minded to kepe them selues vndefiled & pure, being accused to be of the religion of the Iewes, did offer to spend his bodie and life with all constancie for the religion of the Iewes.

39 So Nicanor willing to declare the hatred that he bare to ý Iewes, sent about fiue hundreth mē of warre to take him.

40 For he thoght by taking him to do the Iewes muche hurte.

41 But when this companie wolde haue taken his castel, and wolde haue brokē the gates by violence, and commanded to bring fyre to burne the gates, so that he was readie to be taken on euerie side, he [a] fel on his sworde,

42 Willing rather to dye manfully, then to giue him self into the hands of wicked men, & to suffer reproche vnworthie for his noble stocke.

43 Notwithstanding what time as he missed of his stroke for haste, and the multitude russhed in violently betewen the dores, he ran boldely to the wall, & cast him self downe manfully among ý multitude.

44 Which connayed them selues lightly away, & gaue place, so that he fell vpō his bellie.

45 Neuertheles while there was yet breth in him, being kindled in his minde, he rose vp, & thogh his blood gushed out like a fountaine, and he was verie sore wounded, yet he ran thorow the middes of the people.

46 And gate him to the toppe of an hie rocke: so when his blood was vtterly gone, he toke out his owne bowels with bothe his hands, and threwe them vpō the people, calling vpon the Lord of life and spirit, that he wolde restore thē againe vnto him, and thus he dyed.

a As this priuate example ought not to be followed of the godlie, because it is contrary to ý worde of God althogh the autor seme here to approue it: so that place as touching prayer chap. 12. 44. thogh Iudas had appointed it, yet were it not sufficient to proue a doctrine, because it is onely a particular example.

CHAP. XV.

Nicanor goeth about to come vpon Iudas on the Sabbath day. 5 The blasphemie of Nicanor. 14 Maccabeus expounding vnto the Iewes the vision, incourageth them. 21 The prayer of Maccabeus. 30 Maccabeus commandeth Nicanors head & hands to be cut of, and his tongue to be giuen vnto the foules. 39 The autor excuseth him self.

1 NOw when Nicanor knewe that Iudas and his companie were in the countrey of Samaria, he thoght with all assurance to come vpon them, vpon the Sabbath day.

2 Neuertheles the Iewes that were compelled to go with him, said, O kill not so cruelly and barbarously, but honour and sanctifie the day, that is appointed by him that seeth all things.

3 But this moste wicked persone demāded, Is there a Lord in heauen, that cōmanded the Sabbath day to be kept?

4 And when thei said, There is a liuing Lord, which ruleth in the heauen, who commanded ý seuenth day to be kept.

5 Then said he, And I am mightie vpon earth to commande them for to arme them selues, and to performe the Kings businesse. Notwithstanding, he colde not accomplish his wicked enterprise.

6 For Nicanor lifted vp with great pride, purposed to set vp a memorial of ý victorie obteined of all them that were with Iudas.

7 But Maccabeus had euer sure confidence and a perfite hope that the Lord wolde helpe him,

8 And exhorted his people not to be afraid at the coming of the heathen, but alway to remember the helpe that had bene shewed vnto them from heauen, and to trust now also, that they shulde haue the victorie by the Almightie.

9 Thus he incouraged them by the Law & Prophetes, putting them in remembrance of the battels ý they had wonne afore, & so made thē more willing,

10 And stirred vp their hearts, and shewed them also the disceitfulnes of the heathen, & how they had broken their othes.

11 Thus he armed euerie one of them, not with the assurance of shields & speares, but with wholsome wordes & exhortacions, and shewed them a dreame worthie to be beleued, and reioyced thē greatly.

12 And this was his vision, He thoght ý he sawe Onias (which had bene ý high Priest, a vertuous & a good man, reuerent in behauiour, and of sober conuersation, wel spoken, and one that had bene exercised in all pointes of godlines from a childe) holding vp his hāds towarde heauen, and praying for the whole people of the Iewes.

13 ¶ After this there appeared vnto him another man which was aged, honorable, and of a wonderful dignitie, and excellencie about him.

14 And Onias spake, & said, This is a louer of the brethren, who prayeth muche for the people, and for the holie citie, to wit, Ieremias ỹ Prophet of God.
15 He thoght also that Ieremias helde out his right hand, and gaue vnto Iudas a sworde of golde: & as he gaue it, he spake thus,
16 Take this holie sworde a gifte from God, wherewith thou shalt wounde the aduersaries.
17 And so being comforted by the wordes of Iudas, which were very swete & able to stirre them vp to valiantnes & to incourage the heartes of the yong men, they determined to pitch no campe, but courageously to set vpon them, and manfully to assaille them, and to trye the matter hand to hand, becaus the citie and the Sanctuarie, and the Temple were in danger.
18 As for their wiues, and children, and brethren and kinsfolkes, they set lesse by their danger: but their greatest and principal feare was for ỹ holie Temple.
19 Againe they that were in the citie, were careful for ỹ armie that was abroad.
20 Now whiles thei all waited for the tryal of the matter, & the enemies now met with them, and the hoste was set in araye, and the beastes were separated into conuenient places, and the horsemen were placed in the wings,
21 Maccabeus considering the coming of the multitude and the diuers preparations of weapons, and the fiercenes of the beastes, helde vp his hands towarde heauen, calling vpon the Lord that doeth wonders, & that loked vpon them, knowing that the victorie cometh not by the weapons, but that he giueth the victorie to them that are worthie, as semeth good vnto him.
22 Therefore in his prayer he said after this maner, O Lord, * thou that dideſt send thine Angel in the time of Ezecias king of Iudea, who in the hoste of Sennacherib slewe an hundreth, foresc. & fiue thousand,
23 Send now also thy good Angel before vs, ô Lord of heauens, for a feare and dreade vnto them,
24 And let them be discomfited by the the strength of thine arme, which come against thine holie people to blaspheme. Thus with these wordes he made an end.
25 Then Nicanor and they that were ẅ him, drewe nere with trumpets & shoutings for ioye.
26 But Iudas and his companie praying & calling vpon God, incountered with the enemies.
27 So that with their hands they foght, but with their hearts they prayed vnto God, & slewe no lesse then fiue & thirtie thousand men: for thorowe the presence of God they were wonderously comforted.
28 Now when they left of, & were turning againe with ioye, they vnderstode that Nicanor him self was slaine for all his armour.
29 Then they made a great shoute and acrye, praising the Almightie in their owne langage.
30 Therefore Iudas, which was euer the chief defender of his citizens bothe in bodie & minde, and which bare euer good affection towardes them of his nacion, commanded to smite of Nicanors head, with his hand & shulder, and to bring it to Ierusalem.
31 And when he came there, he called all them of his nacion, and set the Priests by ỹ altar, & sent for them of the castel.
32 And shewed them wicked Nicanors head, & the hand of that blasphemour which he had holden vp against ỹ holie Temple of the Almightie with proude bragges.
33 He caused the tongue also of wicked Nicanor to be cut in litle pieces, & to be cast vnto the foules, and that the rewardes of his madnes shulde be hanged vp before the Temple.
34 So euerie man praised towarde ỹ heauen the glorious Lord, saying, Blessed be he, ỹ hathe kept his place vndefiled.
35 He hanged also Nicanors head vpon the hie castel, for an euident and plaine token vnto all of the helpe of God.
36 And so they established all together by a commune decree that they wolde in no case suffer this daie to escape without keping it holie
37 And that the feast shulde be the thirtenth day of the twelfth moneth, ẅ is called Adar in the Syrians langage, the day before Mardocheus day.
38 Thus farre as concerning Nicanors matters, and from that time the Hebrewes had the citie in possession. And here wil I also make an end.
39 If I haue done wel, & as the storie required, it is the thing that I desired: but if I haue spoken slenderly & barely, it is that I colde.
40 For as it is hurtful to drinke wine alone, and then againe water: and as wine tempered with water is pleasant and deliteth the taste, so the setting out of the matter deliteth the eares of them that read the storie. And here shalbe the end.

A BRIEF

A BRIEF TABLE OF THE

INTERPRETATION OF THE PROPRE NAMES WHICH ARE chiefly founde in the olde Testament, wherein the first nomber signifieth the chapter: the secode the verse.

It is placed now in this edition here, because that the most vse of the same, is in the old Testament.

WHereas the wickednes of time, and the blindnes of the former age hathe bene suche that all things altogether haue bene abused and corrupted, so that the very right names of diuerse of the holie men named in the Scriptures haue bene forgotten, and now seme strange vnto vs, and the names of infants that shulde euer haue some godlie aduertisements in them, and shulde be memorials and markes of the children of God receiued into his housholde, haue bene hereby also changed and made the signes and badges of idolatrie and heathenish impietie, we haue now set forthe this table of ỹ names that be moste vsed in the olde Testament with their interpretations, as the Ebrewe importeth, partly to call backe the godlie from that abuse, when they shal know the true names of the godlie fathers, & what they signifie, that their children nowe named after them may haue testimonies by there verie names, that they are within that faithful familie that in all their doings had euer God before their eyes, and that they are bounde by these their names to serue God from their infancie, & haue occasion to praise him for his workes wroght in them and their fathers: but chiefly to restore the names to their integritie, whereby many places of the Scriptures and secret misteries of the holie Goste shal better be vnderstand. We haue medled rarely with the Grekes names, because their interpretation is vncerteine, & many of them are corrupted from their original, as we may also se these Ebrewe names set in the margent of this table, which haue bene corrupted by the Grecians. Now for the other Ebrewe names that are not here interpretate, let not the diligent reader be careful: for he shal finde them in places moste conuenient amongs the annotations, at least so many as may seme to make for any edification, and vnderstanding of the Scriptures.

THE HOLY [a] GOSPEL OF IESVS CHRIST, [b] ACCORDING TO MATTHEWE.

THE ARGUMENT.

IN this historie written by Matthewe, Marke, Luke, and Iohn, the Spirit of God so gouerned their hearts, that although they were foure in nomber, yet in effect and purpose they so consent, as though the whole had bene composed by any one of them. And albeit in stile and maner of writing they be diuers, and sommetime one writeth more largely that which the other doeth abbridge: nenertheles in matter and argument they all tende to one end: which is, to publish to the worlde the fauour of God towarde mankinde through Christ Iesus, whome the Father hathe giuen as a pledge of his mercie & loue. And for this cause they intitle their storie, Gospel. Which signifieth good tidings, for asmuche as God hathe performed in dede that which the fathers hoped for. So that hereby we are admonished to forsake the worlde, and the vanities thereof, and with moste affectioned hearts embrace this incomparable treasure freely offred vnto vs: for there is no ioye nor consolacion, no peace nor quietnes, no felicitie nor saluacion, but in Iesus Christ, who is the very substance of this Gospel, and in whome all the promises are yea, and amen. And therefore vnder this word is conteined the whole Newe testament: but commonely we vse this name for the histories which the foure Euangelistes write, conteining Christs coming in the flesh, his death and resurrection, which is the perfite summe of our saluation. Matthewe, Marke and Luke are more copious in describing his life and death: but Iohn more laboreth to set forthe his doctrine, wherein bothe Christs office, and also the vertue of his death and resurrection more fully appeare: for without this, to knowe that Christ was borne, dead & risen againe, shulde nothing profite vs. The which thing notwithstanding that the thre first touche partely, as he also sometime intermedleth the historical narration, yet Iohn chiefly is occupied herein. And therefore as a moste learned interpreter writheth, they describe, as it were, the bodie, and Iohn setteth before our eyes the soule. Wherefore the same aptely termeth the Gospel writ by Iohn the keye which openeth the dore to the vnderstanding of the others: for whosoeuer doeth knowe the office, vertue and power of Christ, shal reade that which is written of the Sonne of God come to be the redemer of the worlde, with moste profite. Now as concerning the writers of this historie, it is euident that Matthewe was a Publicane or custome gatherer, and was thence chosen of Christ to be an Apostle. Marke is thought to haue bene Peters disciple, and to haue planted the first Churche at Alexandria, where he dyed the eight yere of the reigne of Nero. Luke was a phisition of Anthiochia and became Pauls disciple, and fellowe in all his trauels: he liued foure score and foure yeres, and was buryed at Constantinople. Iohn was that Apostle whome the Lord loued, the sonne of Zebedeus, and brother of Iames: he dyed thre score yeres after Christ, and was buryed nere to the Citie of Ephesus.

19 Then Ioseph her housband being a [o] iust man, and not willing to * make her a publike example, was minded to put her away secretly.
20 But whiles he thoght these things, behold, the Angel of the Lord appeared vnto him in a [p] dreame, sayng, Ioseph the [q] sonne of Dauid, feare not to take Marie for thy wife: for that which is conceiued in her, is of the holie Gost.

3 When King Herode heard this, he was troubled, and all Ierusalem with him.
4 And gathering together all the chief Priests & Scribes of the people, he asked of them, were Christ shulde be borne.
5 [c] And they said vnto him, At Beth-lehem in Iudea: for so it is written by the Prophet,
6 * And thou Beth-lehem in the land of Iuda, art not the least among the Princes of Iuda: for out of thee shal come the gouernour that shal fede my people Israel.
7 Then Herode [f] priuely called the Wisemen, and diligently inquired of them the time of the starre that appeared,
8 And sent them to Beth-lehem, saying, Go, and searche diligently for the babe: and when ye haue founde him, bring me worde againe, that I may come also, and worship him.
9 ¶ So when they had heard the King, they departed: and lo, the [g] starre which they had sene in the East, went before them, til it came, and stode ouer the place where the babe was.
10 And when they sawe the starre, they reioyced with an exceading great ioye, 11 And went into the house, and [n] founde the babe with Marie his mother, and fel downe, and worshipped him, and opened their treasures, and presented vnto him giftes, [h] euen golde, and incense, and myrrhe.
12 And after they were warned of God in a dreame, that they shulde [i] not go againe to Herode, they returned into their countrey another way.
13 ¶ After their departure, beholde the Angel of the Lord appeareth to Ioseph in a dreame, saying, Arise, & take the babe and his mother, and flee into Egypt, and be there til I bring thee worde: for Herode wil seke the babe, to destroye him.
14 So he arose and toke the babe and his mother by night, and departed into Egipt, 15 And was there vnto the death of Herode, [k] that it might be fulfilled, which was

1 The state of the kingdome of God set forthe by the parable of the sede. 24 Of the tares. 31 Of the mustarde sede. 33 Of the leuē. 44 Of the treasure hid in the field. 45 Of the perle. 47 And of the nette. 57 The Prophet is contemned in his owne countrey.

1 THe* same day went Iesus out of the house, and sate by the sea side.

Mar.4,1 Lu.8,5

2 And [a] great multitudes resorted vnto him so that he went into a ship, and sate downe: and the whole multitude stode on the shore.

a All desired to heare his doctrine, but there was not like affection in all.

3 Then he spake many things to them in parables, saying, Beholde, a sower went forthe to sowe.

4 And as he sowed, some fel by the wayes side, and the foules came and deuoured them vp.

5 And some fel vpon stonie grounde, where they had not muche earth, and anone they they sprōg vp, because they had no depth of earth.

6 And when the sunne rose vp, they were parched, and for lacke of rooting, withered away.

7 And some fel among thornes, & the thornes sprong vp, and choked them.

8 Some againe fel in good grounde, and broght forthe frute, one corne an hundreth folde, some sixtie folde, and another thirtie folde.

9 He that [b] hathe eares to heare, let him heare.

10 ¶ Then the disciples came, and said to him, Why speakest thou to them in parables?

11 And he answered and said vnto thē, Because it is giuen vnto you, to knowe the secrets of the kingdome of heauen, but to them it is not [c] giuen.

12 [d] For whosoeuer hathe, to him shalbe giuen, and he shal haue abundance: but whosoeuer hathe not, from him shalbe taken away, euen [e] that he hathe.

13 Therefore speake I to them in parables, because they seing, do not see: and hearing they heare not, nether vnderstand.

14 So in them is fulfilled the prophecie of Esaias, which prophecie saith, *By hearing ye shal heare, and shal not vnderstād, and seing ye shal se, and shal not perceiue.

15 [f] For this peoples heart is waxed fatte, and their eares are dul of hearing, and with their eyes they haue winked, lest they shulde se with their eyes, and heare with their eares and shulde vnderstand with their hearts, and shulde returne, that I might heale them.

16 But blessed are your eyes, for they [g] se: & your eares, for they heare.

17 *For verely I say vnto you, that many Prophetes, & rightous men haue desired to se those things which ye se, & haue not sene them, and to heare those things which ye heare, & haue not heard them.

18 ¶* Heare ye therefore the parable of the sower

19 Whensoeuer a man heareth the worde of the kingdome, and vnderstandeth it not, the euil one cometh, and catcheth away that which was sowen in his heart: & this is he which "hathe receiued the sede by the way side.

20 And he that receiued sede in the stonie grounde, is he which heareth the worde, & incontinently with ioye receiueth it.

21 Yet hathe he no roote in him self, & dureth but a season: for assone as tribulation or persecution cometh because of the worde, by and by he is offended.

22 And he that receiueth the sede among thornes, is he that heareth the worde: but the care of this worlde, and the deceitfulnes of riches choke the worde, and he is made vnfruteful.

23 But he that receiueth the sede in the good grounde, is he that heareth the worde and vnderstādeth it, which also beareth frute, & bringeth forthe, some an hūdreth folde, some sixtie folde, & some thirtie folde.

24 ¶ Another parable put he forthe vnto them, saying, The kingdome of heauen is like vnto a man which sowed good seed in his field.

25 [h] But while men slept, there came his enemie, and sowed tares among the wheat, & went his way.

26 And when the blade was sprong vp, and broght forthe frute, then appeared the tares also.

27 Then came the seruants of the housholder, and said vnto him, Master, sowedst not thou good sede in thy field? frō whence then hathe it tares?

28 And he said to them, The enuious man hathe done this. Then the seruants said vnto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them vp?

29 But he said, Nay, lest while ye go about to gather the tares, ye plucke vp also with them the wheat.

30 [i] Let bothe growe together vntil the harueste, and in time of harueste I wil say to the reapers, Gather ye first the tares, and binde them in sheaues to burne them: but gather the wheat into my barne.

31 ¶* Another parable he put forthe vnto them, saying, The kingdome of heauen is like vnto a graine of mustard sede, which a man taketh and soweth in his field:

32 Which in dede is the [k] least of all sedes: but when it is growen, it is the greatest among herbes, and it is a tre, so that the birdes of heauen come and buylde in the branches thereof.

33 ¶* Another parable spake he to thē, The kingdome of heauen is like vnto leauen, which a woman taketh and hideth in three peckes of meale, [l] til all be leauened.

34 ¶* All these things spake Iesus vnto the multitude in parables, and without parables spake he not to them, 35 That it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the Prophet, saying, *I wil open my mouth in [m] parables, & wil vtter ŷ things which haue ben kept secret from the fundacion of the worlde.

36 Then sent Iesus the multitude away, and went into the house. And his disciples came vnto him, saying, Declare vnto vs the parable of the tares of the field.

37 Then answered he and said to thē, He ŷ soweth the good sede, is the Sonne of man,

38 And the field is the world, & the good sede, they are the children of the kingdome, and the tares are the children of the wicked, 39 And the enemie that soweth them, is the deuil, *and the harueste is the end of the worlde, and the reapers be the Angels.

40 As then the tares are gathered and burned in the fyre, so shal it be in the end of this worlde.

41 The Sonne of man shal send forthe his Angels, and they shal gather out of his kingdome all things that [n] offend, & them

11 And Iesus answered, and said vnto them, Certeinely Elias must first come, and restore all things.

12 But I say vnto you, that Elias is come already, and they knewe him not, but haue done vnto him whatsoeuer they wolde: likewise shal also the Sonne of man suffer of them.

3 Christ sheweth for what cause a woman may be diuorced. 11 Continence is a gift of God. 14 He receiueth litle babes. 16 To obteine life euerlasting. 24 That riche men cã scarsely be saued. 28 He promiseth them which haue left all to followe him, life euerlasting.

1 AND * it came to passe, that when Iesus had finished those sayings, he departed from Galile, and came into ỹ coastes of Iudea beyonde Iordē.

2 And great multitudes followed him, & he healed them there.

3 Then came vnto him the Pharises tẽpting him, and saying, to him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for euerie "saute.

4 And he answered and said vnto them, Haue ye not red, * that he which made them at the beginning, made them male and female,

5 And said, * For this cause, shal a man leaue father and mother, and cleaue vnto his wife, and they[a] twaine shalbe one "flesh?

6 Wherefore they are no more twaine, but one flesh. Let not man therefore put a sundre that, which God hathe coupled together.

7 They said to him, Why did then *Moses commande to giue a bil of diuorcement, and to put her away?

8 He said vnto them, Moses, because of the[b] hardnes of your heart, suffred you to put away your wiues: but [c] from the beginning it was not so.

9 I say therefore vnto you, * that whosoeuer shal put away his wife, except it be for whoredome, and marie another, [d] committeth adulterie: and whosoeuer marieth her which is diuorced, doeth commit adulterie.

10 Then said his disciples to him, If the matter be so betwene man and wife, it is not good to marie.

11 But he said vnto them, All men can not receiue this thing, saue they to whome it is giuen.

12 For there are [e] some [f] chaste which were so borne of their mothers bellie: and there be some chaste, which be made chaste by men: and there be some chaste, [g] which haue made them selues chaste, for the kingdome of heauen. He [h] that is able to receiue this, let him receiue it.

13 ¶ * Then were broght to him litle children, that he shulde put his hands on them, and pray: and the disciples rebuked them.

14 But Iesus said, Suffre litle children, and forbid them not to come vnto me: for of such is the kingdome of heauen.

15 And he laid his hands on them, and departed thence.

16 And behold, one came and said to him, Good Master, what good thing shal I do, that I may haue eternal life?

17 And he said to him, Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, that is God. But if thou wilt enter into life, kepe the commandements.

18 He said to him, Which? Iesus said, Thou shalt not kil, Thou shalt not commit adulterie, Thou shalt not steale, Thou shalt not beare false witnes, 22 But when the yong man heard that saying, he went away sorowful: for he had great possessions.

23 Then said Iesus to his disciples, Verely I say to you, that a riche man shal hardly entre into the kingdome of heauen.

24 And again I say to you, It is easier for a camel to go thorow a nedles eye, then for a riche man to entre into the kingdome of God.

25 When his disciples heard that, they wondred greatly, saying, Who then can be saued?

26 But Iesus behelde them, and said to them, With men this is vnpossible, but with God all thinges are possible.

27 Then answered Peter and said to him, Behold, we haue forsaken all, and folowed thee: what shal we haue therefore?

28 And Iesus said to them, Verely I say to you, that ye which haue folowed me, in the regeneration, when the sonne of man shal sit in the seate of his glorie, ye also shal sit vpon twelue seates, iudging the twelue tribes of Israel.

33 ¶ Heare another parable, There was a certeine housholder, * which planted a p vineyarde, and q hedged it round about, and " made a winepresse therein, and buylt a tower, and let it out to husbandmen, and went into a strange countrey.
34 And when the time of the frute drewe nere, he sent his seruants to r the housbandmen to receiue the frutes thereof.

3 And a sent forthe his seruants, to call them that were bid to the wedding, but they wolde not come.
4 Againe he sent forthe other seruants, saying, Tel them which are bidden, Beholde, I haue prepared my dinner: mine oxen and my fatlings are killed, and all things are readie: come vnto the mariage.
5 But they made light of it, and went their wayes, one to his ferme, & another about his marchandise.
b God punisheth extremely suche ingratitude.
6 And the remnant toke his seruants, & intreated them sharpely, and slewe them.
7 But when the King heard it, he was wroth, & sent forthe his warriers, & b destroyed those murtherers, and burnt vp their citie.
c The ingratitude of the ẅ are bid, can not cause Gods liberalitie & his holie meates to perish, which he hathe prepared for his.
8 Then said he to his seruants, Truely the wedding is prepared: but they which were bidden, were not worthie.
9 Go ye therefore out into ỹ high wayes, and as manie as ye finde, bid them to ỹ mariage.
d In ỹ Church the hypocrites are mixed with the godlie.

20 And he said vnto them, Whose is this image and superscription?
21 They said vnto him, Cesars. Then said he vnto them, * Giue therefore to Cesar, the things which are Cesars, and giue vnto God, those which are Gods.
22 And when they heard it, they marueiled, and left him, and went their way.
23 ¶ *The same day the Sadduces came to him (which say that there is no resurrection) and asked him,

CHAP. XXIII.

Christ condemneth the ambicion, couetousnes, and hypocrise of the Scribes and Pharises. 31 Their persecutions against the seruants of God. 37 He prophecieth the destruction of Ierusalem.

1 THen spake Iesus to the multitude, & to his disciples,
2 Saying, The* Scribes and the Pharises [a] sit in Moses seat.
3 All therefore whatsoeuer they bid you obserue, that [b] obserue and do: but after their workes do not: for they say, and do not.
4 *For they binde heauie burdens, and grieuous to be borne, and laye them on mẽs shulders, but they them selues wil not moue thẽ with one of their fingers.
5 All their workes they do for to be sene of men: for they make their ᶜ phylacteries broad, and make long the *fringes of their garmentes,
6 *And loue ẏ chief place at feasts, and to haue the chief seates in ẏ assemblies,
7 And gretings in the markets, and to be called of men, ‖Rabbi, Rabbi.
8 *But be not ye called, [d] Rabbi: for one is your [e] doctor, to wit, Christ, and all ye are brethren.
9 And* call no man your father vpon ẏ earth: for their is but one, your Father which is in heauen.
10 Be not called [e] doctors: for one is your doctor, euen Christ.
11 But he that is ᶠ greatest among you, let him be your seruant.
12 *For whosoeuer wil exalt him self, shalbe broght low: and whosoeuer wil humble him self, shalbe exalted.
13 ¶ Wo therefore be vnto you Scribes and Pharises, hypocrites, because ye ᵍ shut vp the kingdome of heauen before men: for ye your selues go not in, nether suffer ye them ʰ that wolde enter, to come in.
14 *Wo be vnto you Scribes and Pharises, hypocrites: for ye deuoure widdowes houses, euen vnder a colour of long prayers: wherefore ye shal receiue the greater damnacion.
15 Wo be vnto you, Scribes and Pharises, hypocrites: for ye compasse ⁱ sea and land to make one of your profession: and when he is made, ye make him two folde more ẏ childe of hel, then you your selues.
16 Wo be vnto you blinde guides, which say, Whosoeuer sweareth by the Tẽple, it is nothing: but whosoeuer sweareth by the golde of the Temple, he ᵏ offendeth.
17 Ye fooles and blinde, whether is greater, the golde, or the Temple that ᵏ sanctifieth the golde?
18 And whosoeuer sweareth by the altar, it is nothing: but whosoeuer sweareth by the offring that is vpõ it, offendeth.
19 Ye fooles and blinde, whether is greater, the offring, or the altar which sanctifieth the offring?
20 Whosoeuer therefore sweareth by ẏ altar, sweareth by it, and by all things thereon.
21 *And whosoeuer sweareth by ẏ Temple, sweareth by it, and by him that dwelleth therein.
22 *And he that sweareth by heauen, sweareth by the throne of God, and by him that sitteth thereon.
23 ¶ *Wo be to you, Scribes and Pharises, hypocrites: for ye tythe mynt, & annyse, & commin, and leaue the weightier matters of the Law, as iudgement, and mercie, & fidelitie. These ought ye to haue done, & not to haue left the other.
24 Ye blinde guides, which [l] straine out a gnatte, and swallow a camel.
25 ¶ Wo be to you, Scribes and Pharises, hypocrites: for ye make cleane the vtter side of the cup, and of the platter: but within they are ful of briberie & ‖ excesse.
26 Thou blinde Pharise, clense first the inside of the cup and platter, that the outside of them may be cleane also.
27 Wo be to you, Scribes and Pharises, hypocrites: for ye are like vnto ᵐ whited tombes, which appeare beautiful outwarde, but are within ful of dead mens bones, and of all filthynes.

1 Conspiracie of the Priests against Christ. 10 He excuseth Magdalene. 26 The institution of the Lords supper. 31 The disciples weakenes. 48 The traison of Judas. 62 The sworde. 64 Because Christ calleth him self ỹ sonne of God, he is iudged worthie to dye. 69 Peter denieth, and repenteth.

Mar. 14, 1. luk. 22, 1. Iuxta in Dominica in Palmarum.

1 AND * it came to passe, when Iesus had finished all these sayings, he said vnto his disciples,
2 Ye knowe that within two dayes is the Passeouer, and the Sonne of man shalbe deliuered to be crucified.
3 * Then assembled together the chief

John. 11, 47.

Priests and the Scribes, and ỹ Elders of the people into ỹ hall of ỹ high Priest, called Caiaphas,

4 And consulted how they might take Iesus by subtiltie, and kill him.

5 But they said, Not on the feast day, lest anie vprore be among the people.

Mar.14.3. iohn.11.2. and 2,5.

6 ¶ * And when Iesus was in Bethania, in the house of Simon the leper,

7 There came into him a woman, which had a boxe of verie costelie ointement, & [a] powred it on his head, as he sate at the table.

a He sheweth what occasion Iudas toke to commit his traison.

8 And when his disciples sawe it, they had [b] indignation, saying, What neded this waste?

b This was through Iudas motion to whome they gaue credit.

9 For this ointemẽt might haue bene solde for muche, and bene giuẽ to ỹ poore.

10 And Iesus knowing it, said vnto thẽ, Why trouble ye the woman? for she hathe wroght a good worke vpon me.

Deut.15.11.

11 * For ye haue ỹ poore alwayes wt you, but me shal ye not [c] haue alwayes.

c This fact was extraordinarie, nether was it left as an example to be followed: also Christ is not present wt vs bodelie or to be honoured wt anie outwarde pompe.

12 For in that she powred this ointment on my bodie, she did it to [d] burye me.

d To honour my buryal wt all.

13 Verely I say vnto you, Whereseuer this Gospel shalbe preached throughout all the worlde, there shal also this that she hathe done, be spoken of for a memorial of her.

Mar.14.10. luk.22.14.

14 ¶ * Then one of the twelue, called Iudas Iscariot, went vnto the chief Priests, 15 And said, what wil ye giue me, and I wil deliuer him vnto you? and they appointed vnto him thirtie [e] pieces of siluer.

e Euery one in value was about foure pẽce halfe pennie of oldesterling.

16 And from that time, he soght opportunitie to betraye him.

Mar.14.12. luk.22.7.

17 ¶ * Now on the first day of the feast of vnleauened bread the disciples came to Iesus, saying vnto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat ỹ Passeouer?

18 And he said, Go into the citie to suche a man, & say to him, The master saith, [f] My time is at hand: I wil kepe ỹ Passeouer at thine house wt my disciples.

f He maketh haste to a more worthie sacrifice, to wit, to ỹ which ỹ Passeouer signified.

19 And the disciples did as Iesus bad giuen them charge, and made ready the passeouer.

Mar.14.18. luk.22.14. iohn.13.21.

20 * So when the euen was come, he sate downe with the twelue.

21 And as they did eat, he said, Verely I say vnto you, that one of you shal betraye me.

22 And they were exceading sorowful, and begã euerie one of them to say vnto him, Is it I, Master?

g He that is accustomed to eat wt me daily at the table, psal.41.9.

23 And he answered and said, He that [d] dippeth his hãd with me in the dish, he shal betraye me.

h To the intẽt his disciples might knowe ỹ all this was appointed by the providence of God.

24 Surely the Sonne of mã goeth his way, [h] as it is written of him: but wo be to that man, by whome the Sonne of man is betrayed: it had bene good for that man if he had neuer bene borne.

25 Then Iudas which betrayed him, answered, and said, Is it I, Master? He said vnto him, Thou hast said it.

26 ¶ * And as they did eat, Iesus toke ỹ bread: and when he had giuen thãkes, he brake it, and gaue it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat: [i] this is my bodie.

i That is, a true signe and testimonie that my bodie is made yours, and by me your soules are nourished.

27 Also he toke the cup, & when he had giuen thankes, he gaue it them, saying, drinke ye all of it.

28 For this is my [k] blood of the Newe testament, that is shed for manie, for the remission of sinnes.

k The wine signifieth ỹ our soules are refreshed and satisfied with the blood of Christ, spiritually receiued, so that without him we haue no nourishment.

29 I say vnto you, that [l] I wil not drinke hẽce forthe of this frute of the vine vntil that day, when I shal drinke it newe with you in my Fathers kingdome.

l You shal no more enioye my bodelie presence til we mete together in heauen.

30 And when they had sung a psalme, they went out into the mount of oliues.

Mar.14.27. iohn.16.32. & 18.8.

31 ¶ * Then said Iesus vnto them, All ye shal be [m] offended by me this night: for it is written, * I wil smite ỹ shepherd, and the shepe of the flocke shalbe scattred.

m Shal turne backe and be discouraged.

Zach.13.7. Mar.14.28. & 16.7.

32 But * after I am risen againe, I wil go before you into Galile.

33 But Peter answered, and said vnto him, [n] Though that all men shulde be offended by thee, yet wil I neuer be offended.

n This declareth what danger it is to trust to muche to our owne strength.

34 * Iesus said vnto him, Verely I say vnto thee, that this night, before the cocke crowe, thou shalt denie me thrise.

Iohn.13.38. Mar.14.32. luk.22.39.

35 Peter said vnto him, Though I shulde dye with thee, yet wil I not denie thee. Likewise also said all the disciples.

36 ¶ * Then went Iesus with them into a place which is called Gethsemane, and said vnto his disciples, Sit ye here, while I go and pray yonder.

37 And he toke Peter, and the two sonnes of Zebedeus, and began to waxe sorowful, [o] and grieuously troubled.

o He feared not death of it self, but trembled for feare of Gods anger towarde sinne, ỹ burdẽ whereof he bare for our sakes.

38 Then said Iesus vnto them, My soul is verie heauie euen vnto the [p] death: tarie ye here, and watche with me.

p For he sawe Gods angre kindled towardes vs.

39 So he went a litle further, and fell on his face, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, let this [q] cup [r] passe from me neuertheles, not, as I wil, but as thou wilt.

q That is, ỹ angre of God for mans sinnes.

r He knewe wel what his Father had determined, and therefore was ready to obey, but he prayeth as ỹ faithful do in their troubles without respect of the eternal counsel of God.

40 After he came vnto the disciples, and foũde thẽ a slepe, & said to Peter, What? colde ye not watche wt me one houre?

41 Watch and pray, that ye enter not into tentation: the spirit in dede is readie, but the flesh is [s] weake.

s And therefore we must cõtinually fight against the flesh.

42 Againe he went away ỹ seconde time & prayed, saying, O my father, if this cup can not passe away frõ me, but that I must drinke it, thy wil be done.

43 And he came, and founde them a slepe againe for their eyes were heauie.

44 So he left them and went away againe, and prayed the third time, saying ỹ same wordes.

45 Thẽ came he to his disciples, and said vnto them, [t] Slepe henceforthe, and take your v Chriſt dyed willingly, and therefore, preſented him ſelf to his enemies. Mar.14.43. luk.22.47. iohn.18.3.

46 v Riſe, let vs go: beholde, he is at hãd that betrayeth me.

47 *And while he yet ſpake, lo, Iudas, one of the twelue, came, and with him a great multitude with ſwordes and ſtaues, from the high Prieſts and Elders of the people.

48 Now he that betrayed him, had giuen thẽ a token, ſaying, Whome ſoeuer I ſhal kiſſe, that is he, lay holde on him.

49 And forthe with he came to Ieſus, and ſaid, God ſaue thee, Maſter, & kiſſed him.

x He rebuketh his vnkindenes vnder the cloke of pretenſed friendſhippe.

50 Then Ieſus ſaid vnto him, x Friend, wherefore art ỹ come? Then came they, and laid hands on Ieſus, and toke him.

51 And beholde, one of them which were with Ieſus, ſtretched out his hãd, & drewe his ſworde, and ſtroke a ſeruant of ỹ high Prieſt, and ſmote of his eare.

y The exerciſing of of the ſworde is forbide to priuate perſones. Alſo he wolde haue hindered by his vndiſcrete zeale the worke of God.

52 Then ſaid Ieſus vnto him, Put vp thy ſworde into his place: *for all that y take the ſworde, ſhal periſhe with the ſworde.

z Euerie legiõ conteined communely 6000. footemen, and 732. horſemen, whereby here he meaneth an infinit nomber. Iſa.53.10. Lamen.4.20.

53 Ether thinkeſt thou, that I can not now pray to my Father, and he wil giue me mo then twelue z legions of Angels?

54 How then ſhulde the *Scriptures be fulfilled, which ſay, that it muſt be ſo?

55 The ſame houre ſaid Ieſus to the multitude, Ye be come out as it were againſt a thief, with ſwordes and ſtaues, to take me: I ſate daily teaching in the Temple among you, and ye toke me not.

Chap.26.3.

56 But all this was done, that the *Scriptures of the Prophetes might be fulfilled. * Then all the diſciples forſoke him, and fled.

Mar.14.58. luk.22.54. iohn.18.14.

57 ¶ *And they toke Ieſus, and led him to Caiaphas the hie Prieſt, where ỹ Scribes and the Elders were aſſembled.

58 And Peter followed him a farre of vnto the hie Prieſts hall, and went in, & ſate with the ſeruants to ſe the end.

Mar.14.55.

a He declareth how Ieſus was wrong fully accuſed, to ỹ end that we may knowe his innocencie, and not that he ſuffered for him ſelf, but for vs.

59 Now * the chief Prieſts & the Elders, and all the whole counſil a ſoght falſe witnes againſt Ieſus, to put him to death.

b Which colde iuſtely witnes againſt him.

60 But they founde none, and thogh many falſe witneſſes came, yet founde they b none: but at the laſt came two falſe witneſſes, Iohn.2.19.

61 And ſaid, This man ſaid, * I can deſtroy the Temple of God, and buylde it in thre dayes, d Or adiure thee by thine allegeance towards God.

62 Then the chief Prieſt aroſe, and ſaid to him, Anſwereſt thou nothing? What is the matter that theſe men witnes againſt thee?

63 But Ieſus c helde his peace. Then the chief Prieſt anſwered, and ſaid to him, I d charge thee by the liuing God, that thou tel vs, if thou be the Chriſt the Sonne of God.

64 *Ieſus ſaid to him, e Thou haſt ſaid it: neuertheles I ſay vnto you, hereafter ſhal ye ſe the Sonne of man, ſitting at ỹ right hand of the power of God, and come in the cloudes of the heauen.

e Chriſt cõfeſſeth ỹ he is the Sonne of God. Chap.16.27. rom.14.10. 1.theſ.4.14.

65 Then the hie Prieſt rent his f clothes, ſayig, He hathe g blaſphemed: what haue we any more nede of witneſſes? beholde, now ye haue heard his blaſphemie.

f This was one of their owne traditions, if they had heard any Iſraelite blaſpheme.

66 What thinke ye? They anſwered, & ſaid, He is worthie to dye.

g The enemies of God call a true confeſſion blaſphemie. Iſa.50.6.

67 *Then ſpat they in his face, and buffeted him: and h other ſmote him with their roddes, h The officers ſmite Chriſt with their roddes or litle ſtaues.

68 Saying, i Prophecie to vs, ô Chriſt, Who is he that ſmote thee?

i They mocked him after this ſorte that he might not ſeme to be a prophet, and ſo wolde turne ỹ peoples minde from him. Mar.14.66. luk.22.55. iohn.18.25.

69 ¶ *Peter ſate without in the hall: & a maide came to him, ſaying, Thou alſo was with Ieſus of Galile.

70 But he denied before thẽ all, ſaying, I wot not what thou ſaiſt.

71 And when he went out into the porche, another maide ſawe him, and ſaid vnto them that were there, This man was alſo with Ieſus of Nazaret.

k An example of our infirmitie ỹ we may learne to depẽde vpon God and not put our truſt in our ſelues.

72 And k againe he denyed with an othe, ſaying, I knowe not the man.

l He was liuely touched with repentance by the motion of Gods Spirit, who neuer ſuffereth his to periſh vterly, thogh for a time they fall, to the intent they may fele their owne weaknes & acknoledge his great mercie.

73 So after a while, came vnto him they that ſtode by, and ſaid vnto Peter, Surely thou art alſo one of them: for euen thy ſpeache bewrayeth thee.

74 Then began he to curſe him ſelf, and to ſweare, ſaying, I knowe not the man. And immediatly the cocke crewe.

75 Then Peter remembred the wordes of Ieſus, which had ſaid vnto him, Before the cocke crowe, thou ſhalt deny me thriſe. So he wẽt out, and l wept bitterly.

CHAP. XXVII.

Chriſt is deliuered vnto Pilate. 5 Iudas hangeth him ſelf. 24 Chriſt is pronounced innocent by the iudge, and yet is condẽned, and crucified amõg thieues. 46 He prayeth vpon the croſſe. 51 The vaile is rent. 52 The dead bodies ariſe. 57 Ioſeph buryeth Chriſt. 64 The Watchmen kepe the graue.

1 WHen *the morning was come all the chief Prieſts, & the Elders of the people toke counſel againſt Ieſus, to put him to death, a For they had no autoritie to condemne him or to put any to death.

2 And led him away bounde, and a deliuered him vnto Pontius Pilate the gouernour.

3 ¶ Then when Iudas ỹ betrayed him, ſawe that he was cõdemned, b he repented him ſelf, and broght againe ỹ thirtie pieces of ſiluer to ỹ chief Prieſts, and Elders, b Ouer late repentance bringeth deſpairation.

4 Saying, I haue c ſinned betraying the innocent blood. But they ſaid, What is that to vs? d ſe thou to it.

c Although he abhorre his ſinnes, yet is he not diſpleaſed there with, but diſpaireth in Gods mercies, and ſeketh his owne deſtruction.

d Theſe hypocrites laye the whole faute vpon Iudas.

5 And when he had caſt downe the ſiluer pieces in the Tẽple, he departed, and went, *and hanged him self.

6 And the chief Priests toke the siluer pieces, and said, it is not [e] lawful for vs to put them into the 'treasure, because it is the price of blood.
7 And they toke counsel, and boght with them a potters field, for the buryal of [f] strangers.
8 Wherefore that field is called, * the field of blood, vntil this day.
9 (Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by Ieremias the Prophet, saying, *And they toke thirtie siluer pieces, the price of him that was valued, whome they of the children of Israel valued.
10 And they gaue them for the potters field, as the Lord appointed me.)
11 ¶ *And Iesus stode before the gouernour, and the gouernour asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Iewes? Iesus said vnto him, Thou saist it.
12 And when he was accused of ỹ chief Priests and Elders, he answered nothig.
13 Then said Pilate vnto him, Hearest thou not how many things they laye against thee?
14 But he answered him not to one worde, in so muche that ỹ gouernour marueiled greatly.
15 Now at the feast, the gouernour was wont to [g] deliuer vnto the people a [a] prisoner, whome they wolde.
16 And they had then a notable prisoner, called Barabbas.
17 * When they were then gathered together, Pilate said vnto them, Whether wil ye that I let loose vnto you Barabbas, or Iesus which is called Christ?
18 For he knewe wel, that for enuie they had deliuered him.
19 Also when he was set downe vpon the iudgement seat, his wife sent to him, saying, [h] Haue thou nothing to do with that iuste man: for I haue suffered many things this day in a dreame by reason of him.)
20 *But ỹ chief Priests & the Elders had persuaded the people that they shulde aske Barabbas, and shulde destroy Iesus.
21 Then the gouernour answered, and said vnto them, Whether of the twaine wil ye that I let loose vnto you? And they said, [i] Barabbas.
22 Pilate said vnto them, What shal I do thē with Iesus which is called Christ? Thei all said to him, Let hi be crucified.
23 Then said the gouernour, But what euil hathe he done? Then they cryed ỹ more, saying, Let him be crucified.
24 When Pilate sawe that he auailed nothing but that more tumulte was made, he toke water and wasshed his hāds before the multitude, saying, I am innocēr of the blood of this [k] iuste man: loke you to it.
25 Then answered all the people, and said, His [l] blood be on vs, and on our children.
26 Thus let he Barabbas loose vnto thē, and scourged Iesus, and deliuered him to be crucified.
27 ¶ *Then ỹ souldiours of ỹ gouernour toke Iesus into the commune hall, and gathered about him the whole bande.
28 And they stripped him, & put vpon him a [m] skarlet robe,
29 And platted a crowne of thornes, and put it vpon his head, and a rede in his right hand, and bowed their knees before him, and mocked him, saying, God saue thee King of the Iewes,
30 And spitted vpon him, and toke a rede, and smote him on the head.
31 Thus whē they had mocked him, they toke the robe frō him, and put his owne raiment on him, and led him away to crucifie him.
32 *And as they came out, they founde a man of Cyrene, named Simon: him they compelled to beare his crosse.
33 * And when they came vnto ỹ place called Golgotha, (that is to say, ỹ place of dead mens skulles.)
34 They gaue him [n] vineger to drinke, mingled with gall: and when he had tasted thereof, he wolde not drinke.
35 And when they had crucified him, they parted his garmēts, & did cast lottes, that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the Prophet, *They deuided my garmēts among them, and vpon my vesture did cast lottes.
36 And they sate, and watched him there.
37 ¶ They set vp also ouer his head his cause written, [o] THIS IS IESVS THE KING OF THE IEWES.
38 And there were two thieues crucified with him, one on the right hand, and another on the left.
39 And they that passed by, reuiled him, wagging their heads, 40 And saying, * Thou that destroyest ỹ Tēple, and buyldest it in thre dayes, saue thy self: if thou be the Sonne of God, come downe from the crosse.
41 Likewise also the hie Priests mocking him, with the Scribes, and Elders, and Pharises, said, 42 He saued others, but he can not saue him self: if he be ỹ King of Israel, let him now come downe from the crosse, and we wil beleue him.
43 He [p] trusteth in God, let him deliuer him now, if he wil haue him: for he said, I am the Sonne of God.
44 That same also the [q] thieues which were crucified with him, cast in his teeth.
45 Now from the [r] sixt houre was there darkenes ouer all the [s] land, vnto the ninth houre.
46 And about ỹ ninth houre Iesus cryed [t] a loude voyce, saying, *Eli, Eli, lama sabacthani?

57 ¶ * And when the euen was come, there came a a riche man of Arimathea, named Ioseph, who had also him self bene Iesus disciple.

58 He went to Pilate, and asked the bodie of Iesus. Then Pilate commanded ỹ bodie to be deliuered.

59 So Ioseph toke the bodie, & wrapped it in a cleane linnen cloth, 60 And put it in his newe b tōbe, which he had hewen out in a rocke, & rolled a great stone to the dore of the sepulchre, and departed.

61 And there was Marie Magdalene, and the other Marie sitting ouer against the sepulchre.

62 ¶ Now the next day that followed the c Preparation of the Sabbath, the hie Priests and Pharises assembled to Pilate, 64 Commande therefore, that ỹ sepulchre be made sure vntil ỹ thirde day, lest his disciples come by night, & steale him away, & say vnto ỹ people, He is risen from the dead: so shal the last d errour be worse then the first.

65 Then Pilate said vnto them, Ye haue e a watche: go, and make it sure as ye knowe.

66 And they went, and made the sepulchre f sure with the watche, and sealed the stone.

6 The resurrection of Christ. 12 The brethren of Christ. 12 The hie Priests bribe the souldiers. 17 Christ appeareth to his disciples, & sendeth thē forthe to preache, & to baptize. 20 Promising to them continual assistance.

1 NOw * in the a end of the a Sabbath, whē the first day of the weke began to dawne, Marie Magdalene, and the other Marie came to se the sepulchre.

2 And beholde, there was a great earthquake: for the b Angel of the Lord descended from heauen, and came & rolled backe the stone from the dore, and sate vpon it.

3 And his countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snowe.

4 And for feare of him, the kepers were astonied, and became as dead men.

5 But the Angel answered, and said to ỹ women, Feare ye not: for I knowe that ye seke Iesus which was crucified:

6 He is not here, for he is risen, as he said: come, se the place where the Lord was laid,

7 And go quickely, and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead: and beholde, he goeth before you into Galile: there ye shal se him: c lo, I haue tolde you.

8 So they departed quickely from the sepulchre, with feare and great d ioye, & did runne to bring his disciples worde.

9 And as they went to tell his disciples, beholde, Iesus also met them, saying, God saue you. And they came, and toke him by the fete, and worshipped him.

10 Then said Iesus vnto them, Be not afraid. Go, and tell my brethren, that thei go into Galile, and there shal they se me.

11 ¶ Now whē they were gone, beholde, some of the watche came into the citie, & shewed vnto the hie Priests all ỹ things that were done.

12 And thei gathered thē together with the Elders, and toke cōsel, & gaue large mony vnto the souldiers, 13 Saying, Say, His disciples came by night & stole him away while we slept.

14 And if ỹ gouernour heare of this, we wil persuade him, and saue you harmeles.

15 So they toke the mony, & did as they were taught: and this e saying is noised among the Iewes vnto this day.

16 ¶Then the eleuen disciples went into Galile, into a mountaine, where Iesus had appointed them.

18 And Iesus came, and spake vnto thē, saying, *All power is giuen vnto me in heauen, and in earth.

CHAP. I.

2 The office, doctrine & life of Iohn the Baptiſte. 9 Christ is baptized, 13. And tepted. 14 He preacheth. 17 Calleth the fiſhers. 23 Christ healeth the man with the vncleane ſpirit. 27 New doctrine. 29 He healeth Peters mother in law. 34 The deuils knowe him. 41 He clenſeth the leper, and healeth diuers others.

1 THe [a] beginning of the Goſpel of Iesus Christ, the Sonne of God:
2 As it is writen in ſ Prophetes, *Beholde, I ſend my [b] meſſenger before thy face, which ſhal prepare thy way before thee.
3 *The voyce of him that cryeth in the wildernes is, [c] Prepare the way of the Lord: make his paths ſtraight.
4 *Iohn did baptize in ſ wildernes, and [d] preache the baptiſme of amendement of life, for remiſsion of ſinnes.
5 And all the countrey of Iudea, & they of Ieruſalem went out vnto him, & were all baptized of him in the riuer Iordā, confeſsing their ſinnes.
6 Now Iohn was clothed with camels heere, & with a girdle of a ſkinne about his loines: and he did eat *locuſtes & wilde honie,
7 *And preached, ſaying, A ſtronger thē I, cometh after me, whoſe ſhoes latchet I am not worthie to ſtoup downe, & vnloſe.
8 Truelh it is, I haue* baptized you with [e] water: but he wil baptize you with the holie Goſt.
9 ¶*And it came to paſſe in thoſe dayes, that Iesus came from Nazaret a citie of Galile, and was baptized of Iohn in Iordan.
10 And aſſone as [g] he was come out of ſ water, Iohn ſawe the heauens clouen in twaine, and the [f] holie Goſt deſcending vpon him like a doue.
11 Then there was a voyce from heauen, ſaying, Thou art my beloued [g] Sonne, in whome I am wel pleaſed.
12 *And immediatly the [h] Spirit driueth him into the wildernes.
13 And he was there in the wildernes fortie daies, and was [h] tempted of Satan: he was alſo with the wilde beaſts, and the Angels miniſtred vnto him.
14 ¶*Now after that Iohn was cōmitted to priſon, Iesus came into Galile, preaching [i] the Goſpel of the kingdome of God, 15 And ſaying, The time is fulfilled, and the kingdome of God is at hand: repēt and beleue the Goſpel.
16 ¶ *And as he walked by the [h] ſea of Galile, he ſawe Simon, and Andrewe his brother, caſting a nette into ſ ſea, (for they were fiſhers)
17 Thē Ieſus ſaid vnto them, Followe me, & I wil make you to be [k] fiſhers of men.
18 And ſtraight waye they forſoke their nettes, and followed him.
19 And when he had gone a litle further thence, he ſawe Iames the ſonne of Zebedeus, and Iohn his brother, as they were in the ſhippe, mending their nettes.
20 And anone he called them: and they left their father Zebedeus in the ſhip with his hyred ſeruants, and went their way after him.
21 ¶So *they entred into Capernaū, and ſtraight way on the Sabbath daye he entred into the Synagogue and taught.
22 And they were aſtoined at his doctrine: *for he taught them as one that had autoritie, and [l] not as the Scribes.
23 ¶And there was in their Synagogue a man which had an vncleane ſpirit, & he cryed, 24 Saying, Ah, what haue we to do with thee, ô Ieſus of Nazaret? Art thou come to deſtroy vs? I knowe thee what thou art, euen that holie one of God.
25 And Ieſus rebuked him, ſaying, [m] Holde thy peace, and come out of him.
26 And the vncleane ſpirit tare him, & cryed with a loude voyce, and came out of him.
27 And they were all amaſed, ſo that they demanded one of another, ſaying What,

What thing is this? what n new doctrine is this? for he commandeth the foule spirits with autoritie, and they obey him.

28 And immediatly his fame spred abroad throughout all ỹ region bordering on Galile.

29 ¶ *And assone as they were come out of the Synagogue, they entred into the house of Simon and Andrewe, with Iames & Iohn.

30 And Simons wiues mother in law laye sicke of a feuer, and anone they tolde him of her.

31 And he came & toke her by the hand, & lift her vp, and the feuer forsoke her by & by, and she ministred vnto them.

32 And when euen was come, & ỹ sunne was downe, they broght to him all that were diseased, and them that were possessed with deuils.

33 And the whole citie was gathered together at the dore.

34 And he healed manie that were sicke of diuers diseases: and he cast out manie deuils, & o suffred not the deuils to say that they knewe him.

35 And in the morning verie earely, *before day Iesus arose and went out into a solitarie place, and there praied.

36 And Simon, and thei that were with him, followed after him.

37 And when they had founde him, they said vnto him All men seke for thee.

38 Then he said vnto thē, Let vs go into the next townes, that I may preache there also: for I came out for that purpose.

39 And he preached in their Synagogues, throughout all Galile, and cast the deuils out.

40 ¶*And there came a leper to him, beseching him, and kneled downe vnto him, & said to him, If thou wilt, thou canst make me cleane.

41 And Iesus had compassion, & put forthe his hand, and touched him, & said to him, I wil: be thou cleane.

42 And assone as he had spoken, immediatly the leprosie departed from him, & he was made cleane.

43 And after he had giuen him a streict p commandement, he sent him awaye furthewith, 44 And said vnto him, Se thou say nothing to anie man, but get thee hence, & shewe thy self to q the* Priest, & offer for thy clensing those things which Moses commanded, for a r testimonial vnto them.

45 But whē he was departed, *he beganne to tel manie things, & to publish the matter: so that Iesus s colde no more openly enter into ỹ citie, but was without in desert places: and they came to him from euerie quarter.

3 He healeth the man of the palsie. 5 He forgiueth sinnes. 14 He calleth Leui the enstomer. 16 He eateth with sinners. 19 He excuseth his disciples, as touching fasting, and keping the Sabbath daye.

1 AFter *a fewe dayes, he entred into Capernaum againe, & it was noysed that he was in the a house.

2 And anone, manie gathered together, in so muche that the places about ỹ dore colde not receiue anie more: and he preached the worde vnto them.

3 And there came vnto him, that broght one sicke of the palsie, borne of foure men.

4 And because they colde not come nere vnto him for the multitude, they vncouered the rofe of ỹ house where he was: & when they had broken it open, thei let downe the bed, wherein the sicke of the palsie laye.

5 Now when Iesus sawe their faith, he said to ỹ sicke of the palsie, Sonne, thy b sinnes are forgiuen thee.

6 And there were certeine of ỹ Scribes, sitting there, and reasoning in their hearts,

7 Why doeth this mā speake suche blasphemies?* who can forgiue sinnes, but God onelie?

8 And immediatly when Iesus perceiued in his spirit, that thus they thoght with thē selues, he said vnto thē, Why reason ye these things in your hearts?

9 c Whether is it easier to say to the sicke of the palsie, Thy sinnes are forgiuen thee? or to say, Arise, and take vp thy bed, and walke?

10 And that ye may knowe, that ỹ Sonne of man hathe autoritie in earth to forgiue sinnes, (he said vnto ỹ sicke of the palsie.)

11 I say vnto thee, Arise & take vp thy bed, and get thee hence into thine owne house.

12 And by & by he arose, & toke vp his bed, and went forthe before thē all, insomuche that they were all amased, and glorified God, saying, d We neuer sawe suche a thing.

13 ¶ Then he went againe towarde ỹ sea, and all the people resorted vnto him, & he taught them.

14 *And as Iesus passed by, he sawe Leui the sonne of Alpheus sit at the receite of custome, & said vnto him, Followe me. And he arose and followed him.

15 ¶ And it came to passe, as Iesus sate at table in his house, many Publicanes & sinners sate at table also wt Iesus, & his disciples: for there were many ỹ followed him.

16 And when ỹ Scribes & Pharises sawe him eat with the Publicanes & sinners, they said vnto his disciples, How is it, that he eateth and drinketh with Publicanes & sinners?

19 And Iesus said vnto thē, Can ỹ [f] children of the mariage chāber fast, whiles the bridegrome is with thē? as long as they haue ỹ bridegrome with thē, they can not fast.

f Christ sheweth that he wil spare his & not burden them before it be necessarie.

20 But the dayes wil come, whē ỹ bridegrome shalbe taken from them, & then shal they fast in those dayes.

21 Also no ma soweth a piece [g] of new cloth in an olde garment: for els ỹ new piece taketh away the filling vp frō the olde, and the breache is worse.

23 ¶ * And it came to passe as he went through the corne on ỹ Sabbath day, that his disciples, as they went on their way, began to plucke the eares of corne.

24 And the Pharises said vnto him, Beholde, why do they on ỹ Sabbath day, that which is not lawful?

2 And they watched him, whether he wolde heale him on ỹ Sabbath day, that they might accuse him.

3 Then he said vnto the man which had the withered hand, Arise stand forthe in the middes.

4 And he said to them, Is it lawful to do a good dede on the Sabbath day, or to do euil? to saue ỹ life, or to kil? But they [a] helde their peace, a They holde tongues of malice: for they wolde neither confesse nor denie.

5 Then he loked rounde about on thē [b] angerly, mourning also for ỹ hardenes of their hearts, & said to ỹ man, Stretch forthe thine hand. And he stretched it out: and his hand was restored, as whole as the other.

b Christ is in suche sorte angrie with man that he pitieth him & seketh to winne him.

6 ¶ And ỹ Pharises departed, & straight waye gathered a councel with ỹ [c] Herodians against him, that they might destroye him.

c Although they hated one another deadly, yet this hindered thē, not to ioine their malice to resiste Christ, read Mat. 22. 16.

7 But Iesus auoyded with his disciples to the sea: and a great multitude followed him from Galile, and from Iudea,

8 And from Ierusalem, and frō Idumea, & beyonde Iordan: and they that dwelled about Tyrus & Sidō, whē thei had heard what great things he did, came vnto him in great nomber.

9 And he commanded his disciples, that a ship shulde waite for him, because of the multitude, lest they shulde throng him.

10 For he had healed many, in somuche that they preassed vpō him, to touche him as many as had [d] plagues.

d Or, scourges, meaning diseases.

11 And when the vncleane spirits sawe him, they fel downe before him, & cryed, saying, Thou art the Sonne of God.

21 And when [u] his kinsfolkes heard of it, they went out to lay [e] holde on him: for thei thoght he had bene beside him self.

22 ¶ * And the Scribes which came from Ierusalem, said, He hathe Beelzebub, & through the prince of deuils he casteth out deuils.

23 But he called them vnto him, and said vnto them in parables, How can Satan driue out Satan?

24 For if a kingdome be deuided against it self, that kingdome can not stand.

25 Or if a house be deuided against it self, that house can not continue.

26 So if Satan make insurrection against him self, & be deuided, he can not endure, but is at an end.

27 No man can entre into a strong mans house, and take away his goods, except he first binde that strong man, and then spoile his house.

28 ¶ * Verely I say vnto you, all sinnes shal be forgiuen vnto the children of men, and blasphemies, wherewith they blaspheme:

29 But he that [f] blasphemeth against ȳ holy Gost, shal neuer haue forgiuenes, but is culpable of eternal damnation, 30 Because they said, He had an vncleane spirit.

31 ¶ * Then came his [u] brethren and mother, & stode without, & sent vnto him, and called him.

32 And the people sate about him, and they said vnto him, Beholde, thy mother, and thy brethren seke for thee without.

33 But he answered them, saying, Who is my mother & my brethren?

34 And he loked rounde about on them, which sate in cōpasse about him, & said, Beholde my mother and my brethren.

CHAP. IIII.

By the parables of the sede, & the mustarde corne, Christ sheweth the state of the kingdome of God. 11 A special gift of God to knowe the mysteries of his kingdome. 37 He stilleth the tempeste of the sea which obeyed him.

AND * he began againe to teache by the sea side, & there gathered vnto him a great multitude, so that he entred into a ship, and sate in the sea, & all the people was by the sea side on the land.

2 And he taught [a] them many things in parables, & said vnto them in [a] his doctrine.

3 Hearken: Beholde, there went out a sower to sowe.

4 And it came to passe as he sowed, that some fel by the way side, and the foules of the heauen came & deuoured it vp.

5 And some fel on stonie grounde, where it had not muche earth, and by and by sprang vp, because it had not depth of earth.

6 But assone as ȳ sunne was vp, it caught heate, and because it had not roote, it withered away.

7 And some fel among the thornes, & the thornes grewe vp & choked it, so that it gaue no frute.

8 Some againe fel in good grounde, and did yelde frute that sprong vp, & grew, & it broght forthe, some thirtie folde, some sixtie folde, and some an hundreth folde.

9 Then he said vnto them, He that hathe [b] eares to heare, let him heare.

10 And when he was alone, they that were about him with the twelue, asked him of the parable.

11 And he said vnto them, To [c] you it is giuen to knowe the mysterie of the kingdome of God: but vnto them that are [d] without, all things be done in parables, 12 * That they seing, may se, & not discerne: & they hearing, may heare, and not vnderstand, lest at any time they shulde turne, & their sinnes shulde be forgiuen them.

13 Againe he said vnto them, Perceiue ye not this parable? how then shulde ye vnderstand all other parables?

14 The sower soweth the worde.

15 And these are they that receiue the sede by the wayes side, in whome the worde is sowen: but when they haue heard it, Satan cometh immediatly, and taketh away the worde that was sowen in their hearts.

16 And likewise they that receiue ȳ sede in stonie grounde, are they, which when they haue heard ȳ worde, straight wayes receiue it with gladnes.

17 Yet haue they no roote in them selues, and endure but a time: for when trouble and persecution ariseth for the worde, immediatly they be offended.

18 Also they that receiue the sede amōg the thornes, are suche as heare the worde:

19 But the cares of this worlde, and the * disceitfulnes of riches, and the lustes of other things entre in, and choke the worde, and it is vnfruteful.

20 But they that haue receiued sede in good grounde, are they that heare the worde and receiue it, and bring forthe frute, one corne thirtie, another sixtie, & some an hundreth.

17 And when Iesus knewe it, he said vnto them, Why reason you thus because ye haue no bread? perceiue ye not yet, neither vnderstand? haue ye your hearts yet hardened?

25 After that, he put his hands againe vpon his eyes, & made him loke againe. And he was restored to his sight, & sawe euerie man a farre of clearely.

CHAP. IX.

1 The transfiguration. 7 Christ is to be heard. 26 The domme spirit is cast out. 29 The force of prayer and fasting. 31 Of the death and resurrection of Christ. 33 The disputacion who shulde be the greatest. 38 Not to hinder the course of the Gospel. 42 Offences are forbidden.

1 AND *he said vnto them, Verely I say vnto you, that there be some of them that stand here, which shal not taste of death, til they haue sene the a kingdome of God come with power.

a The preaching of the Gospel receiued & increased: he spake this to comforte them & ỹ they shulde not thinke their trauailed in vaine.

8 And sudde they loked rounde about, and sawe no more anie man saue Iesus onely with them.
9 *And as thei came downe from the mountaine, he charged them that thei shulde tell no man what they had sene saue when the Sonne of man were risen from the dead againe.
10 So they kept that matter to thē selues, and demanded one of another, what the rising from the dead againe shulde meane?

11 Also they asked him, saying, Why say the Scribes, that * Elias [e] must first come?
12 And he answered, and said vnto them,
Elias verely shal first come and restore all things: and * as it is writen of the Sonne of man, he must suffer manie things, and be set at noght.
13 But I say vnto you, that [f] Elias is come, (and they haue done vnto him what soeuer they wolde) as it is * written of him.
14 ¶ * And when he came to his [g] disciples, he sawe a great multitude about them, & the Scribes disputing with them.
15 And straight waye all the people, whē thei behelde him, were amased, and ranne to him, and saluted him.
16 Then he asked the Scribes, What dispute you [n] among your selues?
17 And one of the companie answered,
& said, Master, I haue broght my sonne vnto thee, which hathe a domme spirit:
18 And where soeuer he taketh him, he [h] teareth him, and he fometh, and gnasheth his teeth, and pineth away:
and I spake to thy disciples that they shulde cast him out, and they colde not.
19 Then he answered him, and said, [i] O faithles generacion, how long now shal I be with you? how long now shal I suffer you? Bring him vnto me.
20 So they broght him vnto him: & asso-ne as the spirit sawe him, he tare him, and he fel downe on the grounde walo-wing and foming.
21 Then he asked his father, How long time is it since he hathe bene thus? And he said, Of a childe.
22 And oft times he casteth him into the fyre, and into the water to destroye him:
but if thou cāst do anie thing, helpe vs,
and haue compasion vpon vs.
23 And Iesus said vnto him, If [k] thou canst beleue it, all thing are [l] possible to him that beleueth.
24 And straight way the father of the childe crying with teares, said, Lord, I beleue: helpe my [m] vnbelief.
25 When Iesus sawe that the people came running together, he rebuked the vncleane spirit, saying vnto him, Thou domme & deafe spirit, I charge thee, come out of him, and entre no more into him.
26 Then the spirit cryed, and rent him sore, and came out, and [n] he was as one dead, in so muche that manie said, He is dead.
27 But Iesus toke his hand and lift him
vp, and he rose.
28 And when he was come into the house, his disciples asked him secretly, Why colde not we cast him out?
29 And he said vnto them, This kinde can by no other meanes come forthe, but by [o] prayer, and fasting.
30 ¶ * And they departed thence, and wēt through Galile, & he wolde not that anie shulde haue knowen it.
31 For he taught his disciples, and said vnto them, The Sonne of man shalbe deliuered into the hāds of mē, and they shal kil him, but after that he is killed, he shal rise againe the third day.
32 But [p] they vnderstode not that saying,
and were afraide to aske him.
33 * After he came to Capernaum: and when he was in the house, he asked thē, What was it that ye disputed among you by the way?
34 And thei held their peace: for by the way they reasoned among them selues, who shulde be the chiefest.
35 And he sate downe, and called ỹ twel-ue, and said to them, If anie man desire to be first, the same shalbe last of all, and seruant vnto all.
36 And he toke a litle childe and set him in the middes of them, and toke him in his armes, and said vnto them, 37 Whosoeuer shal receiue one of suche litle children in my Name, receiueth me: and whosoeuer receiueth me, recei-ueth not [q] me, but him that sent me.
38 ¶ * Then Iohn answered him, saying,
Master, we sawe one casting out deuils by thy Name, which followeth not vs, & we forbade him, because he followeth vs not.
39 * But Iesus said, Forbid him not: for there is no mā that can do a [n] miracle by my Name, that can lightly speake euil of me.
40 For whosoeuer is not [r] against vs, is on our parte.
41 * And whosoeuer shal giue you a cup of water to drinke for my Names sake, because ye belong to Christ, verely

2 Or diuorcement. 17 The riche man questioneth with Christe. 30 Their rewarde that are persecuted. 35 Of the sonnes of Zebedeus. 46 Bartimeus hathe his eyes opened.

1 AND * he arose frō thence and went into the coastes of Iudea by the farre side of Iordan, and the peole resorted vnto him againe, and as he was wont, he taught them againe.
2 Then the Pharises came and asked him if it were lawful for a man to put away his wife, and tempted him.
3 And he answered, and said vnto them, What did * Moses commande you?
4 And they said, Moses suffred to write a bil of diuorcement and to put her away.
5 Then Iesus answered, and said vnto them, For the hardnes of your heart he wrote this precept vnto you.
6 But at the [a] beginning of the creacion *God made them male and female.
7 *For this cause shal man leaue his father and mother, and cleaue vnto his wife.
8 And they twaine shalbe one [n] flesh: so that thei are no more twaine, but one flesh.
9 * That therefore, what God hathe coupled together, let not man separate.
10 And in the house his disciples asked him againe of that matter, 11 And he said vnto them, * Whosoeuer shal put away his wife & marie another, [b] committeth adulterie against her.
12 And if a woman put away her housbād, & be maried to another, she committeth adulterie.
13 ¶ * Then they broght litle children to him that he shulde touche them: and his disciples rebuked those that broght them.
14 But when Iesus sawe it, he was displeased, and said to them, Suffre the litle chil dren to come vnto me, & forbid them not: for of suche is the kingdome of God.
15 Verely I say vnto you, Whosoeuer shal not receiue the kingdome of God as [c] a litle childe, he shal not entre therein.
16 And he toke them vp in his armes, & put his hands vpon them, and [d] blessed them.
17 ¶ And when he was gone out on the way, there came one * running, and kneled to him, and asked him, Good Master, what shal I do, that I may possesse eternal life?
18 Iesus said to him, Why callest thou me good? there is none [e] good but one, euen God.
19 Thou knowest the commandements, *Thou shalt not cōmit adulterie. Thou shalt not kil. Thou shal not steale. Thou shalt not beare false witnes. Thou shalt hurt no man. Honour thy father and mother.
20 Then he answered, and said to him, Master, all these things I haue obserued from my youth.
21 And Iesus behelde him, and [f] loued him, and said vnto him, One thing is lacking vnto thee, Go & [g] sell all that thou hast, and giue to the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen, and come followe me, and take vp the crosse.
22 But he was sad at that saying, and went away sorowful: for he had great possessions.
23 And Iesus loked rounde about, and said vnto his disciples, How hardely do they that haue riches, entre into the kingdome of God?
24 And his disciples were astonied at his wordes. But Iesus answered againe, and said vnto them, Children, how hard is it for thē that trust in riches, to entre into the kingdome of God?
25 It is easier for a [o] camel to go through the eye of a nedle, thē for a [h] riche man to entre into the kingdome of God.

27 But Iesus loked vpon them, & said, With men it is impossible, but not with God: for with God [i] all things are possible.
28 ¶ Then Peter began to say vnto him, Lo, whe haue forsaken all, & haue followed thee.
29 Iesus answered, and said, Verely I say vnto you, there is no man that hathe forsaken house or brethren or sisters, or father or mother, or wife, or children, or lands for my sake and the Gospels, 40 But to sit at my right hand & at my left, is not n mine to giue, but it shalbe giuen to them for whome it is prepared.

41 And when the ten heard that, they began to disdaine at Iames and Iohn.

42 But Iesus called them vnto him, and said to them, * Ye knowe ȳ they which delite to beare rule amōg the Gentiles, haue domination ouer them, and they that be great among them, exercise autoritie ouer them.

52 Then Iesus said vnto him, Go thy way: thy faith hathe saued thee. And by and by, he receiued his sight, and followed Iesus in the way.

CHAP. XI.

11 Christ rideth to Ierusalem. 13 The figge tree dryeth vp. 15 The biers and sellers are cast oute of the Temple. 24 He declareth the vertue of faith and how we shulde pray. 27 The Pharises question with Christ.

1 AND * when they came nere to Ierusalem, to Bethphage and Bethania vnto the mount of oliues, he sent forthe two of his disciples,

Mat.21.1. luk 19.29.

2 And said vnto them, a Go your wayes into that towne that is ouer against you, and assone as ye shal entre into it, ye shal finde a colte bounde, whereon neuer man sate: loose him and bring him.

a Christ sheweth by this poore entrie the state of his kingdome, and it is not like to ȳ great magnificence of this worlde.

3 And if anie man say vnto you, Why do ye this? Say that the Lord hathe nede of him, & straight way, he wil send him hither.

4 And they went their way and founde a colte tied by the dore without in a place where two wayes met, and thei losed him.

5 Then certeine of them, that stode there, said vnto them, What do ye losing the colte?

6 And they said vnto them, as Iesus had commanded them. So they let them go.

7 ¶*And they broght the colte to Iesus, and cast their garments on him, and he sate vpon him.

Ioh.12.14.

8 And b manie spred their garments in the way: other cut downe branches of the trees and strawed them in the way.

b Euerie one shewed some signe of honour and reuerence.

9 And they that went before, and they that followed, cryed, saying, " Hosanna: blessed be he that cometh in the Name of the Lord.

" Or, saue, I pray thee.

10 Blessed be the kingdome that cometh in the c Name of the Lord of our father d Dauid: Hosanna, o thou which art in the hiest heauens.

c Many came in their owne name, but Christ came in the Name of the Lord.

d Because the promes was made to him.

11 *So

Mat. 21, 16. luk 19, 45.

11 *So Ieſus entred into Ieruſalem, and into the Temple: and when he had loked about on all things, & now it was euening, he went forthe vnto Bethania with the twelue.

Mat. 21, 19.

12 *And on the morow when they were come out from Bethania, he [e] was hungrie.

e Christ was subiect to our infirmities.

13 And ſeing a figge tre a farre of, that had leaues, he went to ſe if he might finde any thing thereon: but when he came vnto it, he founde nothing but leaues: for ỹ time of figges was not yet.

f This was to declare how muche they diſpleaſe God w̃ haue but an outwarde ſhewe & appearice without frute.

14 The Ieſus anſwered, & ſaid to it, [f] Neuer man eat frute of thee hereafter while the worlde ſtandeth: and his diſciples heard it.

15 ¶ And they came to Ieruſalem, and Ieſus went into the Temple, and began to caſt out them that ſolde & boght in the Temple, and ouerthrew the tables of the money changers, & the ſeates of them that ſolde doues.

16 Nether wolde he ſuffer that any man ſhulde cary a veſſel through the Temple.

Iſa. 56. 7

17 And he taught, ſaying vnto them, Is it not written, * Mine Houſe ſhalbe called the Houſe of prayer vnto all nacions? Ier. 7, 11. * but you haue made it a denne of theues.

g For nether colde thei ſuffer reprehenſiõ, nor that their profite ſhulde be hindered.

18 And the Scribes and hie Prieſts heard it, and ſoght how to [g] deſtroye him: for they feared him, becauſe the whole multitude was aſtonied at his doctrine.

19 But when euen was come, Ieſus went out of the citie.

Mat. 21, 19.

20 ¶ *And in the morning as they paſſed by, they ſawe the figge tre dryed vp from the rootes.

21 Then Peter remembred, and ſaid vnto him, Maſter, beholde, ỹ figge tre which thou curſedſt, is withered.

22 And Ieſus anſwered, and ſaid vnto them, Haue [h] faith in God.

h Christ taketh occaſion to inſtruct them of the vertue of faith.

23 For verely I ſay vnto you, that whoſoeuer ſhal ſay vnto this mountaine, Take thy ſelf away, & caſt thy ſelf into the ſea, and ſhal not wauer in his heart, but ſhal beleue that thoſe things which he ſaith, ſhal come to paſſe, what ſoeuer he ſaith, ſhalbe done to him.

Mat. 7, 7. luk. 11, 9.

24 *Therefore I ſay vnto you, [i] whatſoeuer ye deſire when ye pray, beleue that ye ſhal haue it, and it ſhalbe done vnto you.

i He teacheth vs not hereby to aſke whatſoeuer ſemeth good in our tantaſies: for our prayer muſt be grounded on faith, and our faith vpon the worde of God. Mat. 6, 14.

25 *But when ye ſhal ſtand, and pray, forgiue, if ye haue any thing againſt any man, that your Father alſo which is in heauen, may forgiue you your treſpaces.

26 For if you wil not forgiue, your Father which is in heauen, wil not pardon you your treſpaces.

Mat. 21, 19. luk. 20, 1.

27 ¶ * Then thei came againe to Ieruſalem: and as he walked in the Temple, there came to him the high Prieſts, and the Scribes, and the Elders, 28 And ſaid vnto him, By what autoritie doeſt thou theſe things? and who gaue thee this autoritie, that thou ſhuldeſt do theſe things?

29 Then Ieſus anſwered, and ſaid vnto them, I wil alſo aſke of you a certeine thing, and anſwer ye me, and I wil tel you by what autoritie I do theſe things.

k He cõprehendeth his whole office, and miniſterie.

30 The [k] baptiſme of Iohn, was it from heauen, or of men? anſwer me.

31 And they thoght with them ſelues, ſaying, If we ſhal ſay from heauen, he wil ſay, Why then did ye not beleue him?

32 But if we ſay of men, we feare ỹ people: for all men counted Iohn, that he had bene a verie Prophet.

l They came of malice, and not to learne: therefore Christ thoght them vnworthie to be taught.

33 Then they anſwered, and ſaid vnto Ieſus, We can not tel. And Ieſus anſwered, and ſaid vnto them, [l] Nether wil I tel you by what autoritie I do theſe things.

CHAP. XII.

1 The vineyarde is let out, 14 Obedience and tribute due to princes. 25 The reſurrection of the dead. 28 The ſumme of the Law. 35 Chriſt the ſonne of David. 38 Hypocrites muſt be eſchewed. 41 The offring of the poore widowe.

Iſa. 5, 1. iere. 2, 21. mat. 21, 33. luk. 20, 9.

1 AND he begã to ſpeake vnto them in parables, *A certeine man planted a vineyarde, and compaſſed it with an hedge, and digged a pyt for the [a] winepreſſe, and buylt a towre in it, and let it out to houſbandmen, and went into a ſtrange countrey.

a The Greke worde ſignifieth the veſſel or fat, w̃ ſtandeth vnder ỹ winepreſſe to reciue the ioyce or licour.

2 And at a time, he ſent to the houſbandmen a ſeruant, that he might receiue of the houſbandmen of the frute of the vineyard.

3 But they toke him, and bet him, and ſent him away emptie.

4 And againe, he ſent vnto them another ſeruant, and at him they caſt ſtones, and brake his head, and ſent him away ſhamefully handled.

5 And againe he ſent another, & him they ſlewe, and manie other, beating ſome, and killing ſome.

6 Yet had he one ſonne, his derebeloued: him alſo he ſent the laſt vnto them, ſaying, They wil reuerence my ſonne.

b He ſheweth the plague that ſhal befalle theſe ambitious & couetous rulers, whoſe hearts are hardened againſt Chriſte.

7 But the houſbandmen ſaid among them ſelues, This is the heire: come, let vs kil him, and the inheritance ſhalbe ours.

8 So they toke him, and killed him, and caſt him out of the vineyarde.

9 What ſhal then the Lord of the vineyarde do? He [b] wil come and deſtroye these housband men, and giue the vineyarde to others.

10 Haue ye not red so muche as this Scripture? * The stone which the buylders did refuse, is made the head of the corner.

11 This [c] was done of the Lord, & it is marueilous in our eyes.

12 Then they went about to take him, but they feared the people: for they perceiued that he spake that parable against them. therefore they left him, & went their way.

13 ¶ *And they sent vnto him certeine of the Pharises, and of the Herodians that they might take him in his talke.

14 And when they came, they said vnto him, Master, we knowe ỹ thou art true, & carest for no man: for thou considerest not the [d] persone of men, but teachest the [e] way of God truely, Is it lawful to giue tribute to Cesar, or not?

15 Shulde we giue it, or shulde we not giue it? But he knewe their hypocrisie, and said vnto them, [f] Why tempt ye me? Bring me a penie, that I may se it.

16 So they broght it, and he said vnto them, Whose is this image and superscription? and they said vnto him, Cesars.

17 Then Iesus answered, & said vnto them, *Giue to Cesar the things that are Cesars, and to God, those that are Gods: and they marueiled at him.

18 ¶ *Then came the Sadduces vnto him, (which say, there is no resurrection) and they asked him, saying,

19 Master, * Moses wrote vnto vs, If any mans brother dye, and leaue his wife, and leaue no children, that [g] his brother shulde take his wife, and raise vp sede vnto his brother.

20 There were seuen brethren, and the first toke a wife, and when he dyed, left no yssue.

21 Then ỹ seconde toke her, & he dyed, nether did he yet leaue yssue, & the thirde likewise.

22 So seuen had her, and left no yssue: last of all the wife died also.

23 In the resurrection then, whē they shal rise againe, whose wife shal she be of them? for seuen had her to wife?

24 Then Iesus answered, & said vnto thē, Are ye not therefore deceiued, because ye knowe not the Scriptures, nether the power of God?

25 For when they shal rise againe from the dead, nether men mary, nor wiues are maried, but are [h] as the Angels which are in heauen.

26 And as touching the dead, that they shal rise againe, haue ye not red in the boke of Moses, how in the bush God spake vnto him, saying, I * am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Iacob?

27 He is not the God of the dead, but the God of the [i] liuing. Ye are therefore greatly deceiued.

28 ¶ *Then came one of the Scribes that had heard them disputing together, & perceiuing that he had answered them wel, he asked him, Which is the first commandement of all?

29 Iesus answered him, The first of all the commandements is, * Heare, Israel, The Lord our God is the onelie Lord.

30 Thou shalt therefore loue the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soule, & with all thy [n] minde, & with all thy strength: this is the first commandement.

31 And ỹ seconde is [k] like, that is, *Thou shalt loue thy neighbour as thy self. There is none other commandement greater then these.

32 Then the Scribe said vnto him, Wel Master, thou hast said the trueth, that there is one God, and that there is none but he,

33 And to loue him whith all the heart, and with all the vnderstanding, & with all the soule, and with all the strength, and to loue his neighbour as him self, is more then all burnt [l] offrings and sacrifices.

34 Then when Iesus sawe that he answered discretely, he said vnto him, Thou [m] art not farre from the kingdome of God. And no man after that durst aske him any question.

35 ¶ * And Iesus answered & [i] said teaching in the Temple, How say the Scribes that Christ is the sonne of Dauid?

36 For Dauid him self said by the [n] holie Gost, * The Lord said to my Lord, Sit at my right hand, til I make thine enemies thy fotestole.

37 Thē Dauid him self calleth him Lord: by what meanes is he thē his sonne? and muche people heard him gladly.

38 *Moreouer he said vnto them in [n] his doctrine, Beware of the Scribes which loue to go in long [o] robes, and loue salutacions in the markets,

39 And the chief seates in ỹ Synagogues, and the first roumes at feastes, 40 Which * deuour widowes houses, [n] euen vnder a coulour of long prayers. These shal receiue the greater damnation.

41 *And as Iesus sate ouer against the treasurie, he behelde how the people cast money into the treasurie, and many richemen cast in muche.

42 And there came a certeine poore widowe, and she threw in two mites, which make a [p] quadrin.

43 Then he called vnto him his disciples and said vnto them, Verely I say vnto you, that this poore widowe hathe cast

Chap.16,7.

28 But after that I am riſen, I wil go into *Galile before you.

29 And Peter ſaid vnto him, Althogh all men ſhulde be offended, yet wolde not I.

30 Then

30 Then Iesus said vnto him, Verely I say vnto thee, this day, euē in this night, before the cocke crowe twise, thou shalt denie me thrise.

31 But he said more earnestly, If I shulde dye with thee, I wil not denie thee: likewise also said they all.

Mat. 26, 36. luk. 12, 39.

32 ¶ *After they came into a place named Gethsemane: then he said to his disciples, Sit ye here, til I haue prayed.

33 And he toke with him Peter, and Iames, and Iohn, and he began [k] to be afrayed, & in great heauines, k His diuinitie was as it were hid, & his humanitie shewed it self fully.

34 And said vnto them, My soule is verie heauie, euen vnto the death: tary here and watch.

35 So he went forwarde a litle, & fel downe on the grounde, and praied, that if it were possible, that houre might passe from him.

36 And he said, [l] Abba, Father, all things are possible vnto thee: take away this cup from me: neuertheles not that I wil, but that thou [m] wilt, be done.

l Ab in Ebrewe, & Abba in the Syrian tongue signifieth Father.

m He standeth not so to his owne wil, but that willingly he offreth him self to obey God.

37 Then he came and founde them sleping, and said to Peter, Simon slepest thou? coldest not thou watch one houre?

38 ¶ Watch ye, and pray, that ye entre not into tentacion, the spirit in dede is readie, but the flesh is weake.

39 And againe he went awaye, and prayed, and spake the same wordes.

40 And he returned, and founde them a slepe againe: for their eyes were heauie: nether knewe they what they shulde answer him.

41 And he came the thirde time, and said vnto them, [n] Slepe hence forthe, and take your rest: it is ynough: the houre is come: beholde, the Sonne of man is deliuered into the hands of sinners.

n He meaneth that the houre wil come when they shalbe kept from sleping.

42 Rise vp, let vs go: lo, he that betrayeth me, is at hand.

43 And immediatly while he yet spake, came Iudas that was one of the twelue, & with him a great multitude [o] with swordes and staues from the hie Priests, and Scribes and Elders.

Mat. 26, 47. luk. 22, 47. ioh. 18, 3.

44 And he that betrayed him, had giuen them a token saying, Whomesoeuer [o] I shal kisse, he it is: take him & leade him awaye safely.

o It was the facion then to grete with kissing at their meetings, & also at their departure.

45 And assone as he was come, he went straight waye to him, and said, [p] Master, Master, and kissed him.

p He repeteth it twise, as if he had bene moued with a certeine pitie in taking his last leaue.

46 Then they layed their hads on him, & toke him.

47 And [q] one of them that stode by, drewe out a sworde, and smote a [r] seruant of the hie Priest, and cut of his eare.

q To wit, Peter.

r Called Malchus.

48 And Iesus answered and said vnto them, Ye become out as vnto a thefe with swordes and with staues to take me.

49 I was daiely with you teaching in the Temple, & ye [s] toke me not: but this is done that the Scriptures shulde be fulfilled.

s Which declareth ỹ no man can do anie thig contrarie to Gods ordinace.

50 Then they [t] all forsoke him, and fled.

t Meaning all the disciples.

51 And there followed him a certeine yong man, clothed in linnen vpon his bare bodie, and the yong men caught him.

52 But he left his linnen cloth, and fled from them naked.

Mat. 26, 57. luk. 22, 54. ioh. 18, 24.

53 *So they led Iesus away to ỹ hie Priest, and to him came all the [v] hie Priests, and the Elders, & the Scribes.

v That is, they w had chiefest authoritie amog the priests.

54 And Peter followed him a [x] farre of, euen into the hall of the hie Priest, and sate with the seruants, and warmed him self at the [u] fyre.

x Which signified ỹ his hot zeale bega now to be abated.

u Or, light.

55 And the *hie Priests, and all ỹ Councel soght for witnes against Iesus, to put him to death, but founde none.

Mat. 26, 59.

u Or, were not like.

56 For manie bare false witnes against him, but their witnes agreed not together.

Iohn 2, 19.

y These two witnesses disented, in ỹ the one reported that Christ said, he colde destroye the Temple, (as Mat. writeth) & the other said, ỹ he heard him saye, ỹ he wolde do it as is here noted.

57 Then there arose certeine, & bare false witnes against him, saying,

58 We heard him say, *I [y] wil destroy this Tẽple made with hands, & within thre dayes I wil buylde another, made without hands.

59 But their witnes yet agreed not together.

60 Thẽ the hie Priest stode vp amongs them, and asked Iesus, saying, Answerest thou nothing? what is the matter that these beare witnes against thee?

61 But he held his peace, and answered nothing. Againe the hie Priest asked him, & said vnto him, Art thou Christ the Sonne of the [z] Blessed?

Mat. 24, 30.

z That is of God who is worthie all prai se: the w worde in their language the Iewes whe they speake of God, vse communely in their writings euē to this day.

62 And Iesus said, I am he, * and ye shal se the [a] Sonne of man sit at the right hand of the power of God, & come in the cloudes of heauen.

a Whome thei now cotemned in this base estate, thei shulde se appeare at the last day with maiestie and glorie.

63 Then the hie Priest rent his clothes and said, What haue we anie more nede of witnesses?

Mat. 26, 65. luk. 22, 55. ioh. 18, 25.

64 Ye haue heard the blasphemie: what thinke ye? And they all condemned him to be worthie of death.

b This declareth the wickednes & insolencie of the gouernours, & rulers, seing their officers contrarie to all iustice, thus raged & tormented him, that was innocent.

65 And some began to spit at him, and to couer his face, and to beate him with fystes, and to say vnto him, Prophecie. And the [b] sergeants smote him with their rods.

Mat. 26, 71. luk. 22, 58. ioh. 18, 25.

66 *And as Peter was beneath in the hall there came one of the maides of the hie Priest.

67 And when she sawe Peter warming him self, she loked on him, and said, Thou wast also with Iesus of Nazaret.

68 But [c] he denied it, saying, I knowe him not, nether wot I what thou saiest.

c We ought to consider our owne infirmitie, that we may learne onely to trust in God, and not in our owne strength.

Then he went out into the [h] [d] porche, & the cocke crewe.

69 *Then a maide sawe him againe, & began to say to them that stode by, This is one of them.

70 But he denied it againe, & anone after, they that stode by, said againe to Perer, Surely thou art one of them: for thou art of Galile, and thy speache is like.

71 And he began to curse, & sweare, saying, I knowe not this man of whome ye speake.

72 *Then the seconde time the cocke crewe, and Peter remembred the worde that Iesus had said vnto him, Before the cocke crowe twise, thou shalt denie me thrise, & [i] waying that with him self, he wept.

Mat.26,75. Ioh.13,38.

CHAP. XV.

1 Iesus is led to Pilate. 15 He is condemned, reuiled and put to death, 46 And is buryed by Ioseph.

1 AND *anone in the dawning, the hie Priests, helde [a] counsel with ý Elders, and the Scribes, & the whole Council, and bounde Iesus, and led him away, and deliuered him to Pilate.

Mat.27,1. luk.22,66. ioh.18,20.

2 Then Pilate asked him, Art thou the King of the Iewes? And he answered, and said vnto him, Thou saiest it.

3 And the hie Priests accused him of manie things.

4 *Wherefore Pilate asked him againe, saying, Answerest thou nothing? beholde how manie things they witnes against thee.

Mat.27,12. luk.23,3. ioh.18,35.

5 But Iesus answered [b] no more at all, so that Pilate marueiled.

6 Now at the feast Pilate did deliuer a prisoner vnto them, whome soeuer they wolde desire.

7 Then there was one named Barabbas, ẅ was bounde with his fellowes, that had made insurrection, who in the insurrection had committed murther.

8 And the people cryed a loude, & began to desire that he wolde do as he had [c] euer done vnto them.

9 Then Pilate answered them, and said, Wil ye that I let lose vnto you ý King of the Iewes?

10 For he knewe that the hie Priests had deliuered him of enuie.

11 But he hie Priests had moued ý people to desire that he wolde rather deliuer Barabbas vnto them.

12 And Pilate answered, and said againe vnto them, What wil ye then that I do with him, whome ye call the King of the Iewes?

13 And they cryed againe, Crucifie him.

14 Then Pilate said vnto them, But what euil hathe he done? And they cryed the more feruently, Crucifie him.

15 So Pilate [d] willing to content ý people, losed thē Barabbas, and deliuered Iesus when he had scourged him, that he might be crucified.

16 Then the souldiers led him awaye into the hall, which is the commune hal, and called together the whole band,

17 And clad him with purple, and platted a crowne of thornes, & put it about his head, 18 And began to salute him, saying, Haile, King of the Iewes.

19 And they smote him on the head with a [e] reede, and spat vpō him, and bowed the knees, & did him reuerence.

20 And when they had mocked him, they toke the purple of him, and put his owne clothes on him, and led him out to crucifie him.

21 *And they [f] compelled one that passed by, called Simon of Cyrene (which came out of the countrey, and was father of Alexander and Rufus) to beare his crosse.

22 *And they broght him to a place named Golgotha, which is by interpretacion, the place of dead mens skulles.

23 And they gaue him to drinke wine mingled [g] with myrrhe: but he receiued it not.

24 And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, casting lottes for them, what euerie man shulde haue.

25 And it was ý the thirde houre, when they crucified him.

26 And the title of his cause was writtē aboue, THE KING OF THE IEWES.

27 They crucified also with him two theues, the one on the right hand, and the other on his left.

28 Thus ý Scripture was fulfilled, which saith, * And he was counted among the wicked.

29 And they that went by, railed on him, wagging their heads, & saying, *Hey, thou that destroyest the Temple, & buyldest it in thre dayes, 30 Saue thy self, and come downe from the crosse.

31 Likewise also euen ý hie Priests mocking, said among them selues with the Scribes, He saued other men, him self he can not saue.

32 Let Christ the King of Israel now come downe from the crosse, that we may se, and beleue. [h] They also that were crucified with him, reuiled him.

33 ¶ Now when the sixt houre was come, darkenes arose ouer [i] all the land vntil the ninth houre.

34 And at the [k] ninth houre Iesus cryed with a loude voyce, saying, *Eloi, Eloi, lamma-sabachthani? which is by interpretacion, 37 And Iesus cryed with a loude voyce, and gaue vp the gost.

38 And the vaile of the Temple was rēt in twaine, from the top to the bottome.

39 Now when the [m]Cēturion, which stode ouer against him, sawe that he thus crying gaue vp the gost, he said, Truely this man was the Sonne of God.

40 ¶ There were also womē, which behelde a farreof, among whome was Marie Magdalene, and Marie (the mother of Iames the lesse, and of Ioses) and Salome;

43 Ioseph of Arimathea, an [n] honorable Counsellour, which also loked for the kingdome of God, came & went in[o] boldely vnto Pilate, and asked the bodie of Iesus.

44 And Pilate marueiled, if he were alreadie dead, and called vnto him the Centurion, and asked of him whether he had bene any while dead.

45 And when he knewe the trueth of the Centurion, he gaue the bodie to Ioseph, Luk.24,1. Iohn.20,1.

1 AND * when the Sabbath daye was past, Marie Magdalene, & Marie ȳ mother of Iames, & Salome, boght swete ointments that they might come, and embaulme him,

2 Therefore early in the morning, the first day of the weeke, they came vnto the sepulchre, when the sunne was [o] yet rising,

3 And they said one to another, Who shall roll vs away the stone from the doore of the sepulchre?

4 And when they loked, they sawe that the stone was rolled away (for it was a very great one.)

5 * So they went into the sepulchre, and sawe [a] yong man sitting at the right side, clothed in a long white robe: and they were afrayed,

6 But he said vnto them, Be not afrayed: ye seke Iesus of Nazaret, which hathe bene crucified: he is risen, he is not here: beholde the place, where they put him.

7 But go your way, and tel his disciples, & [b] Peter that he wil go before you into Galile: there shal ye se him, as he said vnto you.

8 And they went out quickely and fled from the sepulchre: for they trembled and were amased: nether said they any thing to any mā: for they were afrayed.

9 ¶ And when Iesus was risen againe, in the morow (which was the first day of ȳ weke) he appeared first to Marie Magdalene, * out of whome he had cast seuen deuils.

10 And she went and tolde them that had bene w̄ him, which mourned and wept.

11 And when they heard that he was aliue, & had appeared to her, they [c] beleued it not.

12 ¶ * After that, he appeared vnto two of them in another forme, as they walked and went in to the countrey.

13 And they went and tolde it to the remnant, but they beleued them not.

14 ¶ * Finally, he appeared vnto the eleuen as they [d] sate together, and reproued them of their vnbelief & hardnes of heart, because they beleued not them ȳ had sene him, being risen vp againe.

15 And he said vnto them, * Go ye into all the worlde, & preache the Gospel to [e] euerie creature.

16 He that shal beleue & be baptized, shalbe saued: but he that wil not beleue, shalbe damned.

17 And these [f] tokens shal followe them that beleue, * In my Name they shal cast out deuils, and shal speake with [g] newe tongues, 18 And shal take away serpents, and if they shal drinke any deadlie thing, it shal not hurt thē: they shal lay their hāds on the sicke, and they shal recouer.

19 * So after the Lord had spoken vnto them, he was receiued into heauen, & sate at the right hand of God.

20 And they went forthe, and preached euerie where. And the * Lord wroght with them, & confirmed the worde with [h] signes that followed. Amen.

CHAP. I.

Of Zacharias, and Elizabet. 11 The Angel sheweth him of the nativitie of Iohn Baptist. 20 His incredulitie is punished. 28 The talke of the Angel, and Marie. 46 Her song. 57 The birth, Circumcision, and graces of Iohn. 68 Zacharias giueth thankes to God, & prophecieth.

1 FOr as muche as many haue taken in hãd to set forthe the storie of those things, whereof we are fully persuaded,

2 [a] As they haue deliuered them vnto vs, which from the beginning sawe thē their selues, and were ministers of the [b] worde,

3 It semed good also to me (moste noble Theophilus) assone as I had searched out perfitely all things from the beginning, to write vnto thee thereof from point to point.

4 That thou mightest acknowledge the certeintie of those things, whereof thou hast bene instructed.

5 IN ỹ time of [c] Herode King of Iudea, there was a certeine Priest named Zacharias, of the [d] course of Abia: & his wife was of the [e] daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elizabet.

6 Bothe were [f] iust before God, and walked in all the commandements and [g] ordinances of the Lord, without reprofe.

7 And they had no childe, becausse that Elizabet was barren: & bothe were wel stricken in age.

8 And it came to passe, as he executed ỹ Priests office before God, as his course came in order, 9 According to the custome of ỹ Priests office, his lot was to [h] burne incense, when he went into the [i] Temple of the Lord.

10 And the whole multitude of the people were without in prayer, * while the incense was burning.

11 Then appeared vnto him an Angel of the Lord standing at the right side of ỹ altar of incense.

12 And when Zacharias sawe him, he was troubled, and feare fel vpon him.

13 But the Angel said vnto him, Feare not, Zacharias: for thy prayer is heard, and thy wife Elisabet shal beare thee a sonne, and thou shalt call his name [k] Iohn.

14 And thou shalt haue ioye and gladnes, & many shal reioyce at his birth.

15 For he shalbe great in the sight of the Lord, & shal nether drinke wine, nor [l] strong drinke: and he shalbe filled with the holie Gost, euen from his mothers wombe.

16 *And many of the children of Israel shal he turne to their Lord God.
